SOVIET FORCES TAKE OCHAKOV ON BLACK SEA

Other Russian Divisions Sweep Over Central Bessarabia And Ukraine Advancing Within 15 Miles Of Czechoslovakia; Kovev's Armies Ready For Thrust Into Rumania

London, March 31.—(AP)—Red army forces rolling westward along the shores of the Black sea have captured Ochakov, 40 miles east of the former great Russian naval base of Odessa. Premier Stalin announced today in a special order of the day.

Ochakov's capture represents a gain of 32 miles from fallen Nikolaev by Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's third Ukrainian army which forced the Bug river estuary south of Nikolaev only yesterday.

"Troops of the Third Ukrainian front developing their offensive captured the fortress and town of Ochakov, an important strategic point on the German defenses covering the entrance to the Dnieper-Bug estuary," said Stalin's announcement broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Moscow, March 31.—(AP)—Surging across the northern Prut river through captured Czernowitz, Marshal K. Zhukov's first Ukrainian army is moving up into the Carpathian mountains toward Hungary and Rumania, dispatches from the front declared today.

Zhukov's vanguards rolled thru Delatyn, 15 miles north of the Hungarian border where the pass of the Tatars leads through the Carpathians into former Czechoslovakian territory given to Hungary when Hitler dismembered the Czechoslovak state after routing the German defenders of Czernowitz. Zhukov's troops pushed on south through Stropkovits, 15 miles north of the present Rumanian border, a Russian communique said.

Meanwhile, the second Ukrainian army, commanded by Marshal Ivan S. Konev, remained poised on the east bank of the Prut where it forms the frontier of Rumania.

For five days Konev has held his forces on the Bessarabian side of the Prut, mopping up isolated groups of German and Rumanian troops and has extended the Russian domination of the east bank to a distance of 80 miles. The border town of Lipcani, 40 miles east of Czernowitz, was captured during the day, dispatches said.

Most sanguinary fighting of the war as reported by the Russian war bulletin, was the annihilation of German troops in the area of the Prut.

Sugar For Canning Allotted By Boards

Raleigh, March 31.—(AP)—Canning sugar will be made available by the ration boards in 54 Eastern North Carolina counties as needed and a schoolhouse district-wide registration will not be held May 15-16, the Raleigh district OPA office said today.

The statement following an announcement by the Charlotte district office saying that a schoolhouse registration would be held in Western North Carolina.

Ten Die When Army Plane Crashes on Florida Railroad

Ten Army fliers were killed and one other crew member miraculously escaped death when a four-engine bomber from Chatham Field at Savannah, Ga., crashed on a railroad track at Eau Gallie, Fla., while attempting a forced landing. The big plane over-shot the field on the first attempt, and while circling for another try, hit some telephone and telegraph wires, then an embankment. (AP Wirephoto).

Japan Turns Over Coal And Oil Concessions To Russia

Moscow, March 31.—(AP)—The Japanese government received today a staggering blow from the west when the Soviet government announced it had signed a protocol under which Tokyo agreed to surrender her oil and coal leases on northern Sakhalin Island in the Pacific.

The Russians contracted to furnish Japan with 50,000 tons of oil a year for five years beginning after the war.

The Soviet Union also will pay Japan 5,000,000 rubles (about $500,000) under terms of the protocol signed yesterday. Japan promised to hand over to Russia all property, including equipment, material and food, which belongs to Japanese concessionaries in northern Sakhalin.

Japan owns the southern half of Sakhalin Island and Russia owns the northern half. The oil and coal leases originally ran until 1970.

Only last night, the Russians announced renewal of an agreement granting Japan fishing privileges in Far Eastern waters for five more years. The fisheries pact renewal is based on the 1941 neutrality treaty under which Russia and Japan have remained at peace.

The Russians will supply Japan with oil from the Ohshima fields after the war. The Soviets promised the Japanese free export of oil and coal from storerooms in northern Sakhalin. The actual transfer of the stored oil and coal is to start within five days.

The agreement was signed by Solomon Lozovsky, Russian vice-commissioner for foreign affairs, and Nautake Sato, Japanese ambassador. It became effective immediately. Pravda said the agreement was reached after "last month's discussions."

High Debaters Win Contest

Both Greenville Teams To Compete In Chapel Hill

Two Greenville teams, with Ralph Fleming and Richard Worsley making up the affirmative one and Gladys Tyndall and David Whichard the negative one, won first place in the district contest of the North Carolina High School Debate Union held at East Carolina Teachers College yesterday. These teams will compete in the state meet in Chapel Hill April 6-7.

In the district contest yesterday, 16 teams from eleven high schools took part—Greenville, Wilson, Columbia, Aulander and Harrisville having sent both affirmative and negative speakers; and Kinston, Scotland Neck, Edenton, and Elizabeth City having sent affirmative teams. The query used was decided. That the United States should join the other nations in a program of world security and that the association so formed should have an adequate police force.

In the first round, for affirmative only, the winners were Greenville, Edenton, Wilson, Washington, and Scotland Neck.

In the second round, the winners were Greenville and Washington, affirmative; and Greenville and Columbia, negative; and in the final round, both Greenville teams won out.

The contest was under the direction of Dr. Meredith N. Posey of the College English staff.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
Fighting in Burma is taking on a pattern in which we can recognize spade-work for the ultimate amphibious invasion of that country.

It is southeastern Asia's counterpart of the Allied preparatory work in the Pacific.

What is the lure which draws Lt. General Joseph Stilwell personally into the Burmese hell, when he has important work elsewhere as our commander in chief for China, Burma and India? Or our Brigadier General Frank Merrill with his specially trained jungle fighters from the Pacific? Or Britain's mysterious soldier, Major General Orde Wingate—jungle specialist extraordinary who led his famous Wingate raiders in their invasion of Burma a year ago?

This assemblage of the chiefs of the jungle fighting clan means that Burma is being prepared for the day when a water-borne invasion will sweep into it from the Bay of Bengal.

These new Allied operations (or at least part of them) had their birth as I understand it, at the Allied conference of Quebec last August. Wingate's amazing and useful adventure with his column of raiders among the Japanese of Burma had attracted Prime Minister Churchill's attention and the jungle fighter was invited to Quebec.

There it was decided that Wingate should head another expedition—the one now in operation in so

NAZIS REGAIN POSITIONS IN CASSINO AREA

Anzio Beachhead Shelled And Bombed; Allied Hospital Hit; Allied Planes Blast Bulgarian Capital

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Allied Headquarters, Naples, Mar. 31.—(AP)—German troops have moved into two positions on Monastery hill evacuated several days ago by Indian and New Zealand troops and small enemy groups have attacked inside Cassino. It was announced today, but air operations again overshadowed ground activities.

On the Anzio beachhead, 65 casualties resulted when German planes bombed an Allied hospital area, headquarters said.

Fifth army forces clinging to positions inside battered Cassino repulsed the new German thrusts and inflicted severe losses on the attackers. It was announced. Nazi tanks again appeared near the fortified Continental hotel but Allied artillery immediately brought them under heavy fire.

Artillery alone was active in the snowbound mountains north of Cassino.

In the air yesterday an American attack on Sofia took the spotlight. While Fortresses and Liberators, in the greatest force ever sent out by the 15th air force against a single target, attacked railway objectives in the Bulgarian capital, other bombers spread all over Italy and into Yugoslavia.

The American bombers and their escort encountered 40 German planes in the Sofia area; and shot down 13, eight falling to the fighters.

Above Cassino the two positions recaptured by the Germans were hills 202 and 146. It was not known whether they also sent troops to Fanaman's hill higher up the slope where Gurkhas were isolated for nearly two weeks.

It was announced that shell fragments found on the bridgehead have been identified tentatively as from guns of 280 or 305 millimeter caliber, possibly huge Italian guns.

Longgran Case Goes To Jury

New York, March 31.—(AP)—The first-degree murder case against Wayne Longgran, charged with the bluegone slaying of his helress wife Patricia, was given to a General Sessions court jury at 12:45 today.

Judge James Garrett Wallace told the twelve middle-aged business men they could return any of five verdicts, including murder in the first degree as charged. He also told the jurors that the state had produced no evidence that "the defendant made up his mind to kill" his wife before going to her apartment on October 24.

Other possible verdicts, he said, were murder in the second degree, manslaughter in the first degree, manslaughter in the second degree or acquittal.

Army And Navy Planes Smash At Jap Outposts

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, March 31.—(AP)—Japanese strongholds in the Caroline Islands have felt the first destructive blows of Allied bombers operating from bases recently won from the enemy in the Bismarck Sea.

Liberator heavy bombers from South Pacific airdromes blasted Truk enemy air and naval base Wednesday evening. 49 Japanese planes wrecked on the ground and smoke rising from shop and hangar areas on Eten Island in the atoll Gen Douglas MacArthur said on a special communique today. Several intercepting planes were shot down.

United States Navy Catalina planes the same day hit the Japanese seaplane base and airdrome at Weolai Island, 460 nautical miles west of Truk and 80 miles south of Guam the United States possession which fell to Japanese forces shortly after the war started.

Both these strikes, along with a mighty Allied air smash at the Japanese base at Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, Tuesday night and Wednesday coincided with the opening attack on the Palau islands at dawn Thursday by a powerful United States task force. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the Palau assault last night.

South Pacific bombers which attacked Truk scored 200 direct hits on installations in the first demonstration that the base now may expect aerial blows from two directions, from the south and from American airdromes in the Marshall Islands.

In the Truk attack 90 Japanese fighters attempted interception, harassing the Liberators for 45 minutes on their homeward flight. The communique said five to 30 of the interceptors were shot down, while the attackers lost but one plane with others damaged.

In the blow at Hollandia, where the Japanese have built up strength to compensate for Allied destruction at Wewak, farther east along the New Guinea coast, Liberators bombers smashed 108 enemy planes on the ground, the communique said.

The attackers dropped 15,600 fragmentation bombs on the heavy concentration of Japanese planes, and the last wave over the base Wednesday fought off 40 enemy interceptors, shooting down 10 for sure and seven probables. Allied losses were negligible, the communique said.

An earlier communique today told of the loss of three Allied PT patrol boats, possibly to the gunfire of Allied planes and an American destroyer. Statements in the communique and by a headquarters spokesman indicated that 11 crewmen of the PT boats were lost. Two PT boats were sunk in Open Bay, New Britain, under circumstances indicating that "friendly" planes failing to recognize identification signals, may mistakenly have attacked," the communique said. The spokesman said seven men were reported lost.

The other PT boat, operating close inshore along Bougainville Island in the Solomons, was reported hit by a destroyer shell during a bombardment. The communique said four men were reported lost.

In other air forays Allied bombers dropped 95 tons of explosives on shipping and supply areas in the Newak sector, New Guinea, 20 tons at Bogia in the Hansa Bay, New Guinea, supply area, and 90 tons on Babaul, New Britain, airdromes and supply dumps.

British Lose 96 Heavy Bombers Over Germany

New American Attacks Today Follow Last Night's RAF Assault On Nuernberg

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
London, March 31.—(AP)—A great armada of RAF bombers probably numbering more than 1,000 smashed at the southern German transport center and Nazi congress city of Nuernberg and other points in the Reich last night at a cost of 96 planes—the heaviest toll ever taken of an Allied air fleet in a single operation.

The record loss was announced just as the entire German network with the exception of Vienna in old Austria shut down this morning shortly after the warning that "enemy planes are approaching."

The first German warnings said the daylight raiders were over Hessen-Nassau province in Prussia in which Frankfurt is situated.

The RAF's announced loss, which contrasted to German claims of having inflicted the greatest defeat of the war on the British air force with the shooting down of 132 four-engine bombers, was incurred in the 17th heavy bomber operation in March by the British 5th fleet.

The big attack force, which probably was one of the largest ever sent out, the daylight raiders streaking over the Reich, and a huge fleet—largest group of heavy bombers ever to strike a target from (Continued on Page Two)

Farmville Man Is Commended

With the U. S. Army on Bougainville—Delayed—(AP)—A signal construction company in which there are several North Carolina men has been commended by Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, commanding general of Allied forces on Bougainville.

North Carolinians in the company are Cpl. Leonard W. Montgomery, Kanapolis; Cpl. William H. Hudson, Dobson; Cpl. John T. Waddell, Rt. 2, China Grove; Pfc. John E. Crisp, Lenoir; Pfc. Paul L. Davis, Farmville; and Pvt. Cecil A. Morgan, Murphy.

The commendation reads: "The daily observation of progress made by the company has been a source of pride to the commanding general.

"Operating at half strength during a most pressing period and being given very limited time in which to accomplish its mission, the company has performed in a most creditable manner. The resultant neat and well constructed pole-lines are making possible an efficient signal system of which every member may well be proud.

"It is with great pleasure that the commanding general extends his appreciation and tenders this commendation."

British Surrender Forward Base In Burma; Japs Spread Out Over 200-Mile Front In Jungle; Allies Admit Further Temporary Setbacks May Be Expected

By PRESTON GROVER
New Delhi, March 31.—(AP)—British forces have surrendered Tiddim, their forward base in the Chin hills of Burma, 100 miles below Imphal. Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, British commander in India, told the Indian legislature today.

The disclosure was made almost simultaneously with the announcement in a communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten that Japanese jungle parties spread over a front of nearly 200 miles were persistently probing deeper into eastern India's defenses and had penetrated into the main communications of the vital Manipur plain.

Auchinleck declared, however, that Imphal itself was strongly defended and declared such penetration was not likely to be of major importance.

At the same time he announced that British forces fighting their way north from Tiddim through Japanese road blocks had joined other British forces which fought their way southward along the road from Imphal.

Bombers Over Germany

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt notified Congress today he was setting the service vote bill become law without his signature even though he considered it "wholly inadequate" in providing service men and women an opportunity to ballot.

The chief executive sent a message to capitol hill announcing his intention to let the controverted measure become law at midnight tonight.

In it, he appealed to the states to cooperate in making the bill as "fully effective as its defective provisions will allow."

The measure would let service men and women overseas vote with federal ballots but only if they had applied for state ballots by September 1 and did not receive them by October 1. In addition, the govern- (Continued on page six)

Transport Plane Sunk By Mistake

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—British fighter planes from an aircraft carrier shot down a U. S. army transport airplane and its crew of six by error in the Atlantic this week, the War Department and the British Admiralty announced jointly today.

The fighters were protecting an Allied convoy, said the announcement, and apparently mistook a four-engine C-54 transport plane for a German Focke-Wulf 299 bomber when identification was approached the convoy.

There were no passengers on the plane, which was loaded with cargo. It was flown by a civilian contract crew, all of whom were lost.

Today On The Home Front

JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—For the 4-Fs—worried or confused by the talk about drafting them—here are some main points, plus some problems the government must solve:

First: The only purpose of such a draft would be to force 4-Fs into war essential jobs.

Second: It seems certain such a draft must come through special congressional legislation—not through a selective service order—because so many special problems are involved.

There are 3,600,000 men in 4-F—those between 18 and 35 found physically unfit for soldiering—and that number the War Manpower Commission says only one million are not in essential jobs.

Therefore, it is that one million who would be affected.

Before Congress okays a draft—if it ever does—a strong fight on the floor seems sure. Not all congressmen will agree such a draft would be effective.

The House Military subcommittee, which this week investigated the problem, has recommended quick action by congress. It did not recommend immediate induction of 4-Fs.

It suggested, however, that the armed forces get to work immediately to have plans ready for handling 4-Fs, if congress approves their induction.

This is what the committee proposes congress enact into law: The 4-Fs in essential jobs to re-

CANTATA AT METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY NIGHT

The music of "Olivet to Calvary" which will be given on Palm Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church by the choir, was written by J. H. Maunder and the words, most of which are taken from the Scriptures, were set to the music by Shapcott Wensley. This sacred cantata opens with the chorus describing Jesus' journey toward Jerusalem preceded by the crowds with palms and singing hosannas. The view of Jerusalem from the steep of Olivet is told in a soprano solo which is followed by the baritone solo telling of Jesus' lament over the beautiful city. The scene in the Temple is described by tenor, baritone, and soprano solos and concluded with the chorus, "Bow down Thine ear, O Lord." The description of the Mount of Olives opens with a tenor aria and chorus, followed by the soprano solo "He was despised," and the baritone solo and chorus "Come unto Him." The first part of the cantata is brought to a close with a quartet singing a special arrangement of Charlotte Elliott's beautiful hymn "Just As I Am."

The second part opens with the Supper of the Passover and Jesus giving to His disciples the new commandment "That ye love one another even as I have loved you." This baritone solo is followed by the quartet "O Thou whose sweet compassion" and the soprano solo "The Garden of Gethsemane." His movements being told by baritone solo and soprano-alto duet. The sudden appearance of the hostile crowd which took Him away, and the forsaking by His disciples are very vividly told by the chorus. His loneliness among His foes is set forth in the soprano recitative and air "Ye who sin, and ye who sorrow." Our Saviour's trial before Pilate, and the multitude crying for Pilate, and the multitude crying for Pilate, are all told by very stirring chorus work. Pilate's decision being expressed in a bass solo. The long march to Calvary is described by the choral march "The Saviour King goes forth to die" followed by the baritone recitative telling of the Saviour's terrible hours spent on Calvary. Then comes the beautiful soprano solo and chorus "Droop Sacred Head" after which this cantata appropriate to Holy Week is brought to a close with the recessional "Rock of Ages" using R. Red-head's setting.

Raleigh Alumnae Endorses Meadows

Raleigh, March 31.—The Raleigh chapter of the East Carolina Teachers College Alumni Association, at a call meeting here yesterday afternoon, went on record as commending Governor J. Melville Broughton for his public statement that he had at no time expressed any opinion that Dr. Leola R. Meadows had misappropriated any funds and that after careful study of available records it is his personal opinion that Dr. Meadows has not consciously or intentionally converted any of these funds to his personal use.

The chapter "further noted that the Governor had, by this statement, publicly upheld the decision of the eight members of the Board of Trustees who exonerated Dr. Meadows from any charge of dishonesty and misappropriation of student funds." The chapter also endorsed the vote of the eight members of the board of trustees for this action.

The Raleigh chapter, one of the oldest in the state, "has kept close contact with the college prior to and during Dr. Meadows' administration" and officials of the chapter pointed out "at today's meeting the members reiterated the stand previously taken expressing confidence in his honesty and integrity."

Japan Turns Over . . .

concessions so far ahead of schedule constituted strong evidence of Tokyo's intent to remain at peace with Russia. The island's coal and oil presumably have contributed heavily to Japanese war economy and London interpreted the premature surrender as a sacrifice to avert any dispute with Russia).
Russian newspapers interpreted the deal as a Soviet diplomatic victory.

Sekhalin, which is separated from the Asiatic mainland by the Strait of Tartary, is 1,000 miles north of Tokyo. It is 600 miles long, 16 to 105 miles wide and has an area of 24,560 square miles.

During the Russian civil war and the Allied intervention which followed the 1917 revolution, Japanese troops occupied the entire island and did not evacuate the northern part until the 1925 agreement. The northern territory forms three-fifths of the island and is rich in coal and petroleum deposits which have been developed by Japanese concessionaries. Iron and gold also exist and amber is cast up on the eastern shores. There is also plenty of timber in the northern or Russian half of the island.

In the past few years the Soviet government has established several colonies in its half of the island, which had been largely occupied, in addition to the native population, by Koreans and Japanese.

the Mediterranean—which raided Sofia in Bulgaria yesterday would up the biggest month yet in the European air war.

The attack on Nurnberg—the scene of Adolf Hitler's pre-war Nazi party rallies and the peacetime center of the toy industry—was the ninth of the war on that city.
It was carried out while British intruders ranged over the continent shooting up airfields in France, the Low countries and Germany itself, and while a small force of German raiders was giving London its first alert in three nights.

The official description of the Nurnberg raid as in "very great strength" suggested that in the neighborhood of 2,240 short tons of bombs had fallen on the city where 108 acres of the built-up area had been devastated by previous blows.
The heaviest previous load for that target was 1,680 tons on Aug. 27, 1943, when the city was last hit in force.

The city is one of the most important railway and industrial centers of southern Germany.
The record loss suffered by the RAF—which the Germans attributed to their fighters rather than to their ground defenses—demonstrated that Reichsmarshal Goering's air force still has a potent wallop on the occasions when it cares to take the risk.

While the loss was far above anything the RAF previously had suffered—the previous top loss was 79 on the raid on Leipzig on Feb. 19—and was still farther beyond the record American loss of 68 in the daylight raid on Berlin March 6, it failed to compare numerically with their biggest day over Britain Sept. 15, 1940.

To be foreign secretary at this moment in the world's history and in the existing political circumstances is not the surest road to success," the News-Chronicle said in commenting on the Eden report.
In such a role at such a time the strongest minister would find his capacities and courage taxed to the uttermost. Or, in addition, he had to accept the responsibility for defending and implementing policies that were not his own, but were taken—so to speak—over his head, he might well judge his prospects to be unmythical.

The handsome, impeccably-dressed Eden, now only 46, long has been more or less of a protégé of Prime Minister Churchill. Ten years or more ago Churchill described Eden as "the only fresh figure of first magnitude arising out of the generation which was ravaged by the 'first' great war."

York Rite Bodies To Celebrate Here

Greenville Chapter No. 50, Royal Arch Masons, which was chartered May 26, 1936, will celebrate its 58th anniversary on Monday night, May 29 with class initiation and banquet. This most ancient order of freemasonry has always had the active support of the best citizenship in Greenville and community and has always actively supported every Masonic movement. The local chapter now has 90 members. York Rite Masonry is being appreciated more each day by those who are interested in true Masonic light and knowledge.

Bethlehem Commandery No. 29, Knights Templar which was chartered on May 11, 1922, will join in with the Royal Arch chapter in celebrating their 22nd anniversary. This body of freemasonry is known as the Christian branch of Masonry, however it is only the fulfillment of the promise made to the ancient craftsmen who labored so faithfully at the building of Solomon's temple.

Plans have been made for the conferring of the degree at the regular convocations of the chapter and the regular Conclaves of the Commandery, with a final class initiation of the chapter on May 11 from 2:30 to 10 p. m. and the final class initiation of the Commandery on May 18 from 2:30 to 10 p. m.

Initiation of all candidates is being completed on the above dates as many of them will want to take the Shrine at Wilson the following week, May 24 and 25.

All Master Masons who reside nearer to Greenville than to Kin-shaw, New Bern, Washington, Rocky Mount, Wilson or Goldsboro are within the jurisdiction of the Greenville York Rite Masonic Bodies and should make their applications to the Greenville Chapter No. 50, Royal Arch Masons and Bethlehem Commandery No. 29, Knights Templar of Greenville.

Those living nearer the towns above should petition their nearest chapter or commandery.
The completion of the spring activities will close with a banquet on Monday night, May 29, at 8 o'clock. The grand officers of Royal Arch chapter and the Grand Commandery will be present as well as many distinguished Masons from the several chapters and commandery of this and other parts of our grand jurisdiction.

Several honorary membership certificates will be presented to honored guests and suitable awards will be presented by grand officers to local members in recognition of their loyal support of the craft.

Naval Officer Sent Check To Red Cross

Lieut. (jg) Earle W. Hellen, Jr., of the navy, stationed at Miami, Fla., sent a check for $5 for the Red Cross drive here. He said he preferred to contribute through the home chapter and he hopes the Red Cross quota will be over-subscribed in Greenville and Pitt county. Chairman J. Nat Harrison stated today.

Incidentally, the Red Cross drive in Greenville still needs about $1,000 to go over the top. Persons who were missed during the canvass for

WALTER CLARK: FIGHTING JUDGE

By AUBREY LEE BROOKS

Walter Clark, for thirty-five years Supreme Court Justice of his native state, North Carolina, was a member of a nearly vanished tribe—old-fashioned liberal Southern variety. But he was about fifty years ahead of his time! His output of legal opinions numbered well over a hundred a year, and many of them were dissenting opinions antedating Holmes and Brandeis—crying out against rule by judicial interpretation instead of by statute; against the barefaced robberies and attempted robberies of the railroad combine, against the Tobacco Trust; for the 8-hour day; for the rights of woman to hold office and own property; for the children who were being exploited in mills and factories; for human rights against the involvements and delays of legalistic procedures.

This stirring yet scholarly biography is a full-length portrait of a born fighter—from his Civil War days when he was the youngest Lieutenant Colonel on either side, down to his last battles on the bench. At his death a leading railroad official, who had often felt Judge Clark draw the halber of the law, said: "I have come to be sure that Walter Clark is dead; I have never attended a funeral with more pleasure." But another fellow lawyer said: "When Walter Clark is on the watch tower, the people sleep in peace."

DEFENDS USE OF PARACHUTE

Adjutant-General Declares Triple-Release 'Chute Has Advantages

By HAROLD WARD

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—Major General J. A. Uilo, adjutant general of the army, in a letter to Gen. Bates (R-Mass.) today defended the army's use of the triple-release type parachute harness which he said offered more protection to the paratrooper hurtling on his plane than a single-release type.

Asked General Uilo for the facts surrounding the drowning of eight paratroopers on a training jump near Camp Mackall, N. C., Feb. 19, an aroused Swampscott, Mass., constituent had decried the circumstances of the drownings as "blatant" by a Washington columnist. He said the army had stubbornly refused to adopt the single-type harness which might have enabled the soldiers to free themselves more easily.

The two of the air-borne troops landed in water at night through a mistake in locating the jump area, General Uilo said. Eight of them drowned.

"It is doubtful if any of them could have been saved regardless of the type of parachute harness used," said General Uilo. "It was the unexpected nature of the water landing and the heavy load of combat equipment which paratroopers carry that were responsible."

Regardless of the circumstances surrounding the accident referred to, General Uilo told the congressman, "the question remains as to the relative merits of the single-release and the triple-release type parachute harness. The implications of the lives of air crew members and paratroopers are being needlessly endangered, is not true."

The single-release type of parachute is used by the British and by many of our crews and has certain advantages. Obviously, once landed following a parachute jump it would be easier to get free of the harness equipped with a single-release than from one with three release points. That, however, is not the only consideration involved in making a decision as to which type should be used.

Extensive tests have been made of the single-release type harness since it was first brought to our attention in 1936. They have shown conclusively that it is possible for man to be thrown out of the harness inadvertently. Modifications to lessen these difficulties have been developed in recent months and are being incorporated in thousands of new harnesses now in production for American airmen and paratroopers.

The triple-release type, on the other hand, is practically fool-proof as far as initial security in making a jump is concerned. It is not difficult to release the harness. This is proved by the fact that paratroopers and members of air crews have performed hundreds of thousands of jumps under all kinds of conditions without injuries.

It is true that the air crews of the Eighth Air Force in England have expressed a preference for the single-release harness. On the other hand, the U. S. navy has definitely rejected this same type of harness. Each has its advantages and disadvantages. Should experience with the improved type of single-release harness now being acquired demonstrate that it is definitely superior to time will be lost in making it available throughout our operations.

Only 9 Clear Days Here During March

There were only nine clear days during March, the rainfall totaled 46 inches and the flood in Tar river rose to 16 feet last Saturday before the stream began to recede that night. The river is steadily coming down and today was at the 10-foot, nine-inch level. Mrs. B. T. Clark, official river observer, reported.

Bright sunshine prevailed today with some wind and a cool temperature and the mercury climbing in the bulb.

Farm and garden work is considerably behind time as a result of wet ground. Construction of sewage and drainage lines at the airport has also been delayed by water seeping underground from the high level of the river.

A new machine for testing anti-aircraft shell fuses has cut the number of factory rejections as due to from 20 per cent to one-tenth of one per cent.

Concerning Books in the SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY

New Biography

The classic book, "Art and Freedom" (in two volumes) by Horace M. Kallen, offers the idea that the true nature of beauty is found in the category of relations and not in the category of things. In other words, the highest expression of beauty is visible in human relationships rather than in things. That being true, it is no wonder that well-written biography becomes fascinating reading, because it tells of a real person's relationship to his friends, to his family and to his God. And it is one of these relationships, between man and woman, whether beautiful or not beautiful, that is the basis of all fiction.

The surprising thing about these relations is that man with his fundamental and inalienable right to be different from another man while living with mankind, can maintain as beautiful relationships as he does. All of which reminds us of the wonderful theory of democracy and demonstrates its practice. No finer example of this can be found than in Grace Moore's "You're Human Only Once." Her readers will follow with delight the saucy tales she tells on herself and on the fabulous folk she knew. She, who took the high hat out of opera, lets her hair down in a sparkling and unconventional new autobiography.

Reading the biography of "Hul-lon Koo" by Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer, one wonders how life could have offered so nearly everything to one person. Hul-Lon had no wish that was not gratified. She was brought up in a home of fabulous wealth in Java, to move on to the Chinese Embassy in London where success in everything she attempted attests of her brilliance.

"The Story of George Gershwin" by David Ewen tells the life of one of the greatest musicians America ever produced. Gershwin was the first popular song composer who graduated from Tin Pan Alley to Carnegie Hall, who lifted jazz to the concert stages of the whole world.

The autobiography of Madame Ming, the wife of China's ambassador to the United States, called "My Revolutionary Years," is more than the life story of an outstanding woman. It is also the story of China's development from a nation throttled by tradition to the progressive China of today.

The statement, "It must be fascinating to be a journalist. You meet such interesting people," is so often made to newspapermen that one of them capitalized on it and wrote a book "Such Interesting People." In it Robert Joseph Casey tells of several magnetic persons he has known over a period of twenty-five years.

With loving indulgence and a lively sense of humor, Gene Fowler tells of the Barrymores—and the darling of the stage, John Barrymore—the man who earned millions, delighted and shocked the world, hid his final despair like the clowning Pagliacci, and died lonely and penniless. The title of the book is "Good Night, Sweet Prince."

George Santagana the author of "The Last Puritan" has written the first volume of his memoirs calling it "Persons and Places." He presents his readers with a delightful intellectual adventure in these recollections of his childhood in a little Spanish town, boyhood and youth in New England, and undergraduate days at Harvard.—H.L.R.

MORE LANDING CRAFT NEEDED

'Things To Come' Necessitate Greater Production

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—In preparation for things to come, the United States must step up by ten per cent the construction of invasion craft.

WPB Chairman Donald Nelson set the goal today as he completed a 90-mile training trip aboard a pitching LCI (landing craft, infantry) boat and a muddy inspection tour of three big new amphibious training bases in the Chesapeake bay area.

He said an "outstanding" job has been done since November in the fast-paced navy program to build 80,000 of the craft in a few months. But he added that invasion plans for both Europe and Asia call for even greater efforts and noted that the navy is turning out trained crews faster than the craft are being built.

Capt. Gordon Watt, U. S. N., was host to Nelson's party which included executives and union officials from a few of the 30,000 companies working on the No. 1 priority program, as well as newspapermen.

"We have been improving our amphibious craft continuously," Watt said. "The enemy has learned many things about them, but he will learn some more the hard way."

Capt. Watt joined Nelson in the plea for faster production, pointing out that landing craft had proved themselves the "work-horses" of recent invasion beach-heads by supplying food, arms and supplies long after their original attack mission was finished.

"If we had had twice as many, they would have been busy continuously," the officer said. "We need quality, too. The country is sending its best and its toughest young men to these beachheads. They are the men we can least afford to lose."

Women IN THE CHURCH

by Mary Fowler

May Fellowship Day will be observed in thousands of communities of the United States by interdenominational gatherings of church women on May 4. The theme of all-day programs will be "Children and Youth—Leaders of Tomorrow." Preliminary study by an "exploration committee," appointed in each community to study its needs and recommend action, is expected to constitute an important phase of the program. Mrs. John H. Trent of the May Fellowship committee of the United Council of Church Women, under whose auspices the observance is held, stresses the timeliness of the undertaking this year, in view of the alarming increase in juvenile delinquency. She urges that youth, teachers, social workers, judges, nurses and church leaders cooperate in each local presentation of community problems and work together for their solution.

The Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Church, through its department of Christian social relations, headed by Miss Thelma Stevens, is urging Methodists' women throughout the country to "create public opinion against such phases of a national service act as to relate to the conscription of women in any form, the conscription of labor, and the peace time conscription of young people for military service." They are also urging Methodist women to work for the enactment of adequate fair employment practice legislation, to study child labor conditions in their several states, and work for legislation which will enable the U. S. Children's Bureau to administer the child labor section of the Wage-Hour Act.

Declaring that "the Christian home is the heart of the whole Christian enterprise," the Foreign Missions Conference, the Foreign Missions Conference of North America is planning to appoint a "Committee on the Christian Home" to deal with missionary problems related to women, children, and home life in all lands.

The missionary society of the Methodist Church in Argentina, as a token of inter-American Christian fellowship, has appointed its first national missionary to serve in the Republic of Bolivia. She is Miss Adelia Gattinoni, youngest daughter of Bishop and Mrs. Juan E. Gattinoni of Buenos Aires. She will be located in Cochabamba where much of the missionary work is among the Indians of the Bolivian highlands.

ESCAPEE IN PARIS

Chapter 5

A week had passed since Parrel's arrival at the cafe. The condition of his ankle had improved to such an extent that he was able to move about the cellar with the aid of a cane. After the first night Adrienne's nursing had consisted of changing the bandages on his foot. He refused to watch for her coming and his eyes would light up at the sight of her.

When alone, he smoked cigarettes and tried to read French novels supplied to him by Adrienne. At night he had been interested in the progress of the leaflet printing taking place on the other side of the screen which had been installed in front of his couch and chair to ensure him privacy. No daylight came into the cellar, but Dusault had had a ventilator shaft built which supplied a current of fresh air.

At first he had endeavored to establish friendly relations between Raoul and himself, but finally realizing the barriers the former had erected between them with his cold cynical aloofness, gave up the attempt.

It was now supper time. He looked up eagerly at the sound of Adrienne's approaching footsteps. The tray containing some broiled sole, Escamote potatoes, a salad and a small cake was temptingly arranged. On the white linen tray cloth lay a full blown red rose. As Adrienne placed the tray beside him, Johnny bent over to inhale the fragrance.

"For me?" he asked smiling.

Adrienne's smile was elusive, yet it lingered in the grey depths of her eyes.

Johnny Farrell made up his mind about something then. He rose to his feet, leaning on his cane, and caught Adrienne in his arms. Holding her in a strong grip he bent his lips to hers and kissed her hard. Then holding her still, he looked into her eyes, a light dancing in his own.

"I'm sorry there haven't been any preliminaries, but I love you, Adrienne, and you care for me. You kissed me back."

"Mon Dieu! I could not help it," she murmured, her glance falling before his. "You are so strong. But you must not kiss me again or I shall be angry," she finished looking up with a tremulous smile.

"Angry," he repeated laughing. "Okay, I'll be good—at least for the present." He sank back into the chair and fastened the rose in the lapel of his coat.

"Shall I pour your coffee now Johnny?" she spoke demurely.

"The coffee is made," he murmured, his eyes following the movements of her hands as she placed the coffee pot and cup of the table near him. They were shapely white hands with tapering fingers.

"Adrienne, day by day since I've been here, I've thought of you and your little business. I can't find any words to thank you. But the day may come when I can do something to repay it. I have always known that some day I'd meet a woman like you—somewhere. But I didn't dream it would be in France."

"It is fate Johnny. From the moment you came into the cafe that day I felt you were not a stranger. Yet I know nothing of you or your life." A certain wistfulness had crept into her tone and look.

"Won't you tell me something of your life, of your home, your people?"

His eyes suddenly glowed. "Adrienne, I wish I could take you to our country home in Virginia. It was formerly a plantation owned by my great grandfather who fought in the American Civil War, and we still employ negroes there who are descended from the slaves of a former master and are devoted to our family. My happiest memories are bound up with days spent there fishing, hunting and riding and going off with chums on camping expeditions.

"My mother died in the old home when I was seventeen. Adrienne and neither my father nor I have lived there since, only gone for short visits. I went to Columbia University in New York City after which I had a job with an electrical plant in New Jersey. My father was still continuing his legal practice in Richmond. Then the war came—and I joined up in the 8888 Squadron. I had always wanted to fly."

"Tell me of your adventures in the air, Johnny. Must wait for another time," he returned smiling. "To rather look at you Adrienne. It's well you keep at arm's length or I'd forget my promise and kiss you again."

Just then a step sounded on the stairs and Adrienne rose hurriedly to her feet. Glancing beyond the screen, she called in French, "Good evening, Raoul. You are early tonight."

"I must go, Johnny," she added reverting to English, lowering her voice and averting her eyes. "Gabbard will come for the tray."

As Raoul returned some inaudible reply she made a little mocking gesture. She had turned to go when Johnny thrust a slip of paper in her hand.

"Read it, Adrienne, and tell me if you think your uncle would be likely to approve of it for his leaflets."

It was written clearly in a bold daring hand which seemed to Adrienne characteristic of him. She read it.

"I think it is inspiring, I will show it to my uncle."

Though Adrienne was aware that Raoul had not evinced a friendly or helpful attitude towards the American airman to whom her uncle had given shelter, and that his visits to him had been brief and perfunctory, she was not prepared for the hostile attitude he showed on receiving Parrel's contribution.

He had settled to his work later in the evening, beginning with the decoding of news written in the secret code of the movement, when she handed him the message. In doing so she explained that Parrel had composed it and that her uncle had given it his sanction.

Having read the message, Raoul laid it aside with a frown gathering between his brows.

"Thank Monsieur Parrel for me but let him understand that I handle this end of the work, and am quite capable of dealing with it." There was a touch of resentment in his voice.

Adrienne turned away experiencing the deep sense of hurt and disappointment aroused in her at times by Raoul's words and actions. She knew that he disliked being thwarted in any project of desire. If Johnny had overheard his remark, she hoped he had not understood it.

"Ahead of Schedule"

An AAF Report on the Aviation Cadet Program

Thanks to the young men of America, the AAF is seizing air supremacy in every theatre, faster than we ever planned or even dared to hope.

Thanks to youth's eagerness to serve, the AAF has grown in a remarkably short time from a mere handful of men into the largest, most powerful air force in the world.

Thanks to the fitness and alertness of these young men, they have learned their job so quickly that we have been able to throw our great airplane production into effective combat quicker than we believed possible. Due to their daring and skill we are destroying the enemy with less loss to our own forces than we anticipated.

All air crew men must have the irresistible urge to fly. Every such flying man in the AAF is there on his own initiative... in response to our invitation to fly and fight with "The Greatest Team in the World." Hundreds of thousands have thronged to our Aviation Cadet Examining Boards in response to this appeal. Thousands are continuing to volunteer... for active duty... and for the 17-year-old Air Corps Enlisted Reserve.

Our gratitude to the young men of America, and to their parents, friends and associates... is without bounds. We should like to welcome on our team any qualified young man who wishes to join. But there are other considerations... a balanced attack must be maintained.

Since last July the Selective Service process had not yielded enough men for all phases of the military program. Other branches of the army urgently need men for currently pending operations.

The AAF is ahead of schedule. It has sufficient men in training and in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve to meet its present schedule for combat crews. It must therefore balance this activity with immediate over-all needs.

As General Marshall has announced, the AAF has returned to their former commands some 36,000 men who had recently volunteered for air crew training from the ground and service forces. Moreover, until further notice, the AAF will not take any men into active duty from civilian life for air crew training. Also, further enrollment in the 17-year-old Air Corps Enlisted Reserve has been temporarily suspended.

The future of America depends upon the fitness of our young men. All of the armed services need young men who are physically fit, mentally alert and well educated for the exacting demands of modern war.

The AAF urges every man approaching military age to prepare himself physically and mentally for his possible contribution to the defeat of our enemies and for his responsibilities in the post-war world.

We suggest, among other things, the physical training and other preparatory courses of the High School Victory Corps which are recommended for the various armed services, and the physical and pre-aviation training given to CAP Cadets by the nation-wide organization of the Civil Air Patrol, an auxiliary of the Army Air Forces.

The AAF current training program will, of course, continue. All men now enrolled in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve will start their training after they become 18 as originally planned. And we will soon again take young men of 17 into the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve.

Meanwhile, in recognition of the overwhelming public support given the AAF, we shall continue to report developments—so that when we invite further active enrollment on our flying teams, the nation will be familiar with our activities and the vital nature of our needs.

H. H. Arnold
Commanding General, U. S. Army Air Forces

EVERY time you make a piece of old equipment last a little longer, you strike a blow for Victory. Almost anybody can work well with nice new machinery. But it takes a real farmer to patch, and mend, and coax efficiency from worn-out implements. You can do it. If you have a major repair or replacement job, and need money for it, see us about a loan.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I was just tellin' my brother Fred this morning, Judge...there's never been a time in our lives when we got to live up to that old sayin' 'United we stand, divided we fall' more than we have to today."
"How true that is, Herb. And for the life of me, I can't figure out why, at a time like this, some folks insist on raising a question like prohibition. I can't imagine anything that would tickle our enemies more than to get us folks over here taking sides against each other, arguing about an issue like that. We've got a he-man's job on our hands to win this war and we can't be wasting our minds, our money and our strength fighting about something we tried for nearly 14 years and found couldn't work."
"I say there's a time and a place for everything, and this is no time or place to be doing any fightin' except the kind that's going to win the war."
