REDS DRIVING AXIS FORCES FROM CRIMEA

Soviets Hammering Their Way Toward Important Black Sea Port Of Sevastopol As Nazis And Ro- manians Flee In Dis- order; Airmen Hit Romanian Port

London, April 13.—(AP)—Red army troops, moving swiftly in the clearing of the Crimea of Germans and Romanians, have captured 42 miles north of Yevpatorya, and 40 miles south of Sevastopol, 100 miles east of the naval base, Marshal Joseph Stalin announced today in two orders of the day.

Feodosiya fell to the maritime army of Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko which "broke through the enemy defenses" at Akmanar across the neck of the Kerch peninsula in an 18-mile sprint.

Yevpatorya tumbled before Gen. Fedor I. Tolbukhin's fourth Ukrainian army which delivered a bold blow struck by tank formations and infantry, Stalin said.

Tolbukhin's forces, Moscow dispatches added, were rolling swiftly across the Crimean table land with in sight of Simferopol, administrative center of the Crimean peninsula, toward Sevastopol where Red army soldiers, marines and workers battled in the ravines and rocky terrain in an eight-month siege before the Germans finally captured the naval base in June, 1942.

The two orders of the day, issued from Moscow within an hour, added up to a story of remarkable progress in a six-day campaign which had swept the enemy from two-thirds of the 9,900-square mile peninsula.

The Germans were rapidly being driven into the mountain rim along the south coast.

German broadcasts admitted that Nazi and Romanian troops were busily "disengaging themselves" from the Crimea.

On the mainland to the north, other Russian armies yesterday captured both Trapezopol, 53 miles northeast of Odessa, and Falinteni, 60 miles south of Cernavita and 170 miles north of the valuable Ploesti oil fields, a Russian communique announced.

At the same time Red army troops drew nearer the nose around the Skala pocket north of the middle Dniester river, where the remnants of 15 German divisions—possibly (Continued on page four)

Officer Indicted For Killing Negro

Kinston, April 13.—(AP)—A LeNoir county Grand Jury indicted Policeman Leroy Williams yesterday on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of a Negro, Alonzo Fulford, last February.

Fulford was shot after Williams and another officer attempted to serve a warrant charging the victim with breaking and entering and larceny. Later, a coroner's jury absolved the officers of blame in the killing.

The case is expected to be tried at the June term of Superior court.

Eight Burned to Death

Lawrence, Kas., April 13.—(AP)—Eight inmates perished in a fire which destroyed the Douglas County Home for Indigent today. Twenty-nine others escaped without injury.

Caretaker George Hoskinson said the fire started in the boiler room of the two-story, 50-room structure.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Old King Vittorio Emanuele's promise of retirement may presage the end of Monarchy for Italy.

That's not what the aged sovereign has in mind when he says he will turn the rule over to Crown Prince Umberto as soon as Allied troops enter Rome. Emanuele hopes to continue the dynasty through his son, but whatever may be the outcome there's no doubt that the Italian throne is rocking dangerously.

Officially the question of whether the monarchy should continue hasn't arisen, excepting in that it's been agreed the Italian people shall choose their own form of government after the war—providing it's democratic. That doesn't bar a monarchy. However, there's a trend towards the left in Italy and one of the strong elements is Communism—an interesting circumstance inasmuch as Mussolini established his dictatorship on the strength of his claim that the country was in dire danger from Communism.

The Communists have been aggressive in the campaign, but have adopted conciliatory tactics. Palmiro Togliatti, Communist leader, has campaigned for a United War

PUT SQUEEZE ON NEUTRALS

Congressman Urges Immediate Break With Spain

Los Angeles, April 13.—(AP)—Rep. John M. Coffey (D-Wash.) says he favors immediate severance of diplomatic relations with Spain. "Spain is furnishing landing fields and American oil to Hitler," he charged in addressing the joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee last night. "With Portugal, she is also supplying 90 per cent of Germany's war-vital tungsten ore."

London, April 13.—(AP)—Britain and the United States toughened their policy toward neutrals today by tightening the Irish blockade with reduced steamship service, protesting against increased Turkish shipments of chrome to Germany and condemning the Spanish seizure of Allied oil stocks in Spanish Morocco.

The Ministry of War Transport announced steamer service from Britain to Eire would be cut after April 24. This followed suspension of telephone service and virtual prohibition on travel permits.

Britain and the U. S. were both said by an authoritative informant to have made strong representations to Spain about oil and to Turkey about chrome. The emphatic diplomatic language used followed closely the address by Secretary of State Hull in which he warned (Continued on page four)

New Air Ace

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, April 13.—(AP)—Capt. Richard T. Bong, Poplar, Wis., has shot down 27 enemy planes in aerial combat to become the highest ranking American ace in this or any other war.

Headquarters announced today Bong's 26th and 27th victories were achieved in raids over the Japanese base at Hollandia, New Guinea.

Bong's total exceeds the 25 planes credited to Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War I ace. All of Bong's victims have been shot down during aerial combat.

(Capt. Don Gentile, Piqua, O., flying in the European theater, is credited with 30 enemy planes but the total includes seven destroyed on the ground.)

Air commanders in the Southwest Pacific do not credit pilots with planes destroyed on the ground.

CONGRESS HAS BIG JOB AHEAD

Passage Of Navy Bill To Be Followed By Measures

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, April 13.—(AP)—Congress opened a drive today to dispose of a group of major bills laid aside during the Easter recess.

While a record $32,000,000,000 navy appropriations bill had the right of way on the house floor, three committees pressed closely behind it, extension of the lend-lease program, and settlement of terminated war contracts. A fourth started a review of postwar employment prospects.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the Appropriations committee predicted passage of the huge 1944-1945 naval supply bill by nightfall, but the desire of numerous members to pay their respects to the world's largest navy and its accomplishments in an election year might forestall final action until tomorrow.

Stated to follow the navy bill to the floor is legislation to extend the lend-lease program another year beyond June 30, and Chairman Sweeney (D-Ill) called a meeting of the Rules Committee to determine procedure.

While no opposition to the lend-lease program itself has developed, a potent house group is demanding (Continued on page four)

Ground Action In Italy Slow

Allied Headquarters, Naples, April 13.—(AP)—German forces in the Garigliano sector southwest of Cassino have begun to assume a more aggressive spirit, reacting sharply to Allied reconnaissance.

There are indications that the Nazis are continuing to regroup the forces which were observed there last week and German engineers seem to be mining the Garigliano river.

Yesterday there were a number of minor petrol clashes on the Adriatic sector and the Germans made attacks on several houses southwest of Crechchio, but the front generally remained quiet.

Enemy trucks moving up to Cassino along the highway six miles south of the town were shelled by Allied artillery. There was little activity in Cassino itself, however.

Quiet, too, reigned on the Anzio beachhead front below Rome, although there was some artillery duelling. Southwest of Cassino two enemy guns were reported silenced by Allied shells.

The Pitt County Board of Elections, enclosing every eligible man and woman to vote in the coming program and election, today is carrying an announcement in other columns of this paper explaining the rules by which men and women in the armed forces away from their home counties may vote in the primary and the general election next November 7.

The advertisement explains the qualifications for voting and carries a coupon which may be clipped and filled in for men or women in the armed forces by parents, husband or wife, brother, sister or child of the person desiring to register. Only the voters may declare their party affiliation. Relatives applying for ballots to be sent to absentee voters should not mention political party affiliation. Further information may be had from J. Henry Harrell, chairman Pitt County Board of Elections.

About 75 persons in the armed services have already made application for ballots, Chairman Harrell said today.

Jap Forces Attacking Allied Bases In India

Stimson Says Have Cut Imphal-Kohima Road And Are Attacking Both Towns

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today that Japanese troops had cut the road between Imphal and Kohima and "are attacking both towns."

He observed at the press conference where he made the disclosure that "it is not too difficult" for troops to penetrate in areas of the hills and jungles. A linear defense at Imphal, he said, could not be employed but it is possible in such fighting to retain certain strong points of defense. Thus far, he added, British and Indian troops are holding the strong points.

He said that "substantial reserves of men and weapons are available" in the area.

The war secretary, however, avoided predictions on the outcome by saying that "in the middle of a battle there is never anything to be gained by predictions—developing facts best speak for themselves."

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH
New Delhi, April 13.—(AP)—The Japanese have edged around to the northwest of Imphal, supplementing their positions to the southwest of that partly-surrounded base in the Manipur plain of eastern India. Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia headquarters communique disclosed today.

The announcement said British and Indian forces had captured a hill position in that area in hand-to-hand fighting.

(A Domei broadcast from Tokyo declared Japanese formations were launching thrusts near an airfield only 2 1/2 miles north of Imphal and three miles northwest of Imphal. Other forces on April 6 had reached a place nine miles northwest of Imphal and Bengmal, 12 miles northwest of Imphal, the broadcast said.

Declaring that both Pailai, 24 miles southeast of Imphal, and Moirang, another strategic point, were about to fall, a Domei correspondent said another special Japanese attack force was maneuvering to "cut off the enemy's only line of retreat along the Bisenpur-Silchar road and also the packhorse road west of Imphal. Silchar is 70 miles west of Imphal and on a spur track from the vital Bengal-Assam railway. Bisenpur is 17 miles southwest of Imphal."

The Japanese previously had been reported operating west of the Imphal-Kohima and Imphal-Tiddim roads in penetrations which threatened to surround the Manipur capital.

To the north, along the strategic highway reaching back to the American-operated Bengal-Assam railway, however, the communique said there was a continued improvement of the situation around Kohima and that progress was being made in clearing the road in the vicinity.

Dewey Bandwagon Rumble Echoes In Political Halls

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—With the rumble of a Dewey bandwagon movement sounding in the ears, supporters of three other potential Republican presidential candidates tightened their lines today against a possible draft away from their favorites.

The demonstrated ability of New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to attract convention delegates while maintaining his public position that he is not a candidate caused some worry among the leaders of campaigns being conducted for Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Lieut. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen and General Douglas MacArthur.

Despite the strong showings made by MacArthur in the Illinois preferential primary and Stassen in Nebraska, there are signs of a division of opinion among their backers as to the advisability of continuing the race.

Some of those who were instrumental in putting MacArthur's name before the voters, despite the southwest Pacific commander's silence on political matters, are known to have reached the conclusion that Wendell L. Willkie's withdrawal from the contest entitles Dewey for a deadlocked convention which would afford the best chance for the general's nomination.

While those now believe it might be better to swing to Dewey as the leading candidate, there appeared no likelihood that the MacArthur-for-President organization headed by Joe Saviger of Chicago holds any idea of quitting, particularly in view of the general's popular vote showing in the Illinois primary Tuesday.

Airmen Deal Double Blow To Nazi Aircraft Works

MORE RAIDS ON JAP ISLANDS

Airmen Smash at Jap Positions Over Wide Area

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, April 13.—(AP)—American Army and Navy bombers resumed Monday and Tuesday where they had left off in March their attacks on the Kurile approaches to Japan.

Army Liberators ranged within 1,000 miles of Tokyo to hit Matsuyama and Onnekotan Monday and a single Liberator bombed Matsuyama again the next day.

Tuesday navy search Ventura raided Paramushiro and Shimushu. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz supplied scant information in his two press releases yesterday but did specify concerning the Tuesday raids that all planes returned.

The Carolines and Marshalls were other targets.

Liberators lashed Monday at Truk, Truk's eastern guardian, Ponape, was pounded Monday and Tuesday.

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, April 13.—(AP)—General MacArthur appears to be putting the finger on Hansa Bay.

Today he announced that his bombers, which have been pounding away almost daily this month at that supply base of the Japanese on the northeast New Guinea coast, dumped 210 tons of explosives there Tuesday.

The day before, destroyers had moved boldly into the harbor and shelled it while fighter planes screened them and Liberators dropped 227 tons of bombs.

Within the past few days, 830 tons have been expended on the enemy base, which is slightly more than 100 miles up the coast from the nearest Allied ground position or the approaches to Madang-Hansa Bay, in addition to being blasted by all types of bombs this month and bombarded by the destroyers, also has been shelled by speedy patrol

Germans Claim Secret Weapon

London, April 12.—(AP)—The Germans came up today with a new story about the "secret weapon" they are saving for use against the Allies. This time it is a projectile containing a chemical which freezes everything within a radius of 500 yards by a temperature of 332 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

"Radio National," the German station purporting to operate from Britain, said the effect of the projectile is to "kill every living creature within range and make steel and concrete structures so brittle they collapse at a touch."

The broadcast declares that the British had been mystified recently by the sudden appearance of large icebergs in the channel and North Sea between the Thames estuary and the Dutch coast, and said they had been created by the new "weapon."

"This assertion brought a derisive chuckle from British naval officials, one of who asserted:

"There hasn't been an iceberg seen in the channel or that part of the North Sea since the Ice Age."

Pharmacist's Error Kills Four Babies

New London, Conn., April 13.—(AP)—Attending physician Richard F. Hancock of the Lawrence Memorial hospital reported today that an error by an employee of the hospital's pharmacy department had resulted in the deaths of four infants. Seven were seriously ill, he said, and two more under close observation.

Because of the error, the boric acid poisoning, and added that adults probably would have been made only mildly ill by the preparation which affected the infants.

The formula was administered last Friday and the deaths occurred Monday and yesterday and today.

FINNS REJECT PEACE TERMS

Civil War In Finland Considered Grave Possibility

Stockholm, April 13.—(AP)—Russia's modified terms for peace with Finland apparently have been rejected, Finnish sources here said today after reports from Helsinki that parliament had given the government of Premier Edvin Linkomies a vote of confidence.

Linkomies had outlined the cabinet's stand on the latest Soviet armistice proposals at a secret session of parliament, and informed Finns in Stockholm said these discussions were a "report performance" of those in mid-March when the original terms were refused.

There was no official word from Helsinki on what action was taken, but reports said the peace question "again was put back to the Russians and the situation is absolutely the same as last time." In March, however, Finland still left the door open and her peace emissary, Dr. Juho K. Paasikivi, went to Moscow. (Continued on Page Four)

War Bond Sales In County Falling Off

Pitt County's War Bond quota for April is $175,253 in E, F and G bonds. Sales and interest is lagging. J. Herbert Waldrop, Pitt county war bond chairman, said today.

In addition to the war bonds being a good investment, the government needs the money to carry on the war against the enemy.

Today On The Home Front

JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—War Mobilizer Byrnes has given Congress six main points to consider in his frank warning that the government must help ease unemployment when peace comes.

He reasons: To tide them over when they are thrown out of jobs by the shift from war to peace, workers will need better unemployment benefits than they can get under the present system which varies by states.

Industry, when it begins producing for civilians, will suffer if the last Friday and the deaths occurred Monday and yesterday and today.

Here are the points: 1. He suggested a "demobilization" law to "supplement" present unemployment benefits because "demobilization must be regarded as a national problem and its costs as part of the costs of war."

This does not explain how much he thinks present benefits should be boosted. But he clearly indicates Congress should make money available for unemployment as it did to build battleships and tanks.

Byrnes apparently is talking only of stop-gap measures. President Roosevelt, the Social Security Board

Britain And Italian- Based American Bombers Smash At Nazi Industries And Communications Over Wide Area Today Following RAF Night Attacks

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
London, April 13.—(AP)—U. S. heavy bombers landed a double blow at German aircraft production today, striking from Italy at works in Hungary and from Britain at important plants in Germany.

The 15th air force, based at Foglia, Italy, hit a Messerschmitt factory near Győr, 70 miles northwest of Budapest, as well as railroad car and machine works. The Tokol air-drome assembly plant 11 miles southwest of Budapest came under Liberator attack.

The Eighth air force, Britain-based, made a "four-bladed attack" on aircraft plants at Augsburg and Oberpfaffenhofen, airforce installations at Lechfeld, and a ball-bearing works at Schweinfurt, an official announcement. More than 500 bombers, accompanied by 750 to 1,000 fighter planes, went on this operation, and the announcement observed:

"The targets, all highly important to the German airforce, had been hit previously and today's blows were designed both to disrupt repairs and inflict new damage."

Today's blows in Hungary followed a raid last night upon that nation's capital, RAF Wellingtons flying from Italy hit Budapest with 4,000-pound blockbusters for the first time, in the third raid within a month against rail yards important to Adolf Hitler's supplies on the Russian front.

Probably about 500 Fortresses and Liberators participated in today's Italy-based onslaught, which carried into the sixth straight day the current offensive to wipe out the bulk of the German airforce, both in the air and on the ground.

Day. The Vences airforce 10 miles south of Budapest was another of the 15th air force targets, while railroad yards at Brod, Yugoslavia, and a factory at Belgrade and Zagreb, were another section of the attack.

German radio programs were broken for warnings of American aircraft penetrations both from the south and west. Stations began fading from the air shortly after Britain-based fleets streaked out. (Continued on Page Four)

Reported missing were 33 officers and men of the tanker's personnel and 11 members of the armed guard.

The missing included the ship's master, Capt. Joseph Fox, of Oakland, Calif. A large complement of the missing persons were residents of the San Francisco Bay area.

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—and Senator Wagner (D-NY) already have suggested permanent social security improvements.

3. Make allowances for a worker's dependents. This is not done now. Compensation is given only according to the money a worker made before losing his job.

4. Lift the present restrictions on the number of weeks in any one year that the benefits are payable. It varies now by states from 14 to 20 weeks.

Mrs. Carl Womack was a most gracious hostess to the members of the Inter So Club at her home on Student street Tuesday afternoon. Lovely arrangements of spring flowers decorated her home.

Mrs. Denver Baughn, president, presided over a brief business meeting.

Mrs. F. D. Duncan was in charge of the program for the afternoon and she presented as guest speaker Rev. Colgate Daugherty, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Mr. Daugherty was delightfully informal in his remarks which centered around "his last impressions of Europe in 1928-29." He told of his crossing on an American freighter (which, incidentally, he recommended as a very inexpensive and pleasant means of crossing), his visit to London and the Westminster Abbey, his brief stay in Paris, and his almost desperate efforts to get passage back to America when war was declared. He was most charming in his remarks about his love for France and Italy and the cultural background that is their heritage. He brought out the fact that, contrary to popular belief, the French people in general are more serious minded and more temperate than Americans and are exceedingly appreciative of the fine things of life. He reminded us that the Frenchman's appreciation and love for opera is perfectly natural since they are taught the art of these lovely operas throughout their schooling. Mr. Daugherty spoke of his visit to Monte Cassino and lamented the fact that the Germans had used the old famous hilltop monastery for one of its military installations and that, therefore, the Allied forces had been obliged to destroy it. The speaker also recalled his visit to Sicily and to Rome, referring with particular interest to his visit to the Catacombs.

At the conclusion of his talk an enjoyable informal group discussion took place. During the refreshment hour the hostess served a delicious salad plate and Coca-Cola. Reported.

Eleanor Etheridge at Piano playing famed Tchaikowsky Concerto
Tickets on Sale at Warren's Drug Store Continuously

Miss Eleanor Etheridge, who is pictured above, will play Tchaikowsky's piano "Concerto in B Flat Minor" with the North Carolina Symphony orchestra when it appears here on April 17.

Ever since Miss Etheridge was six years old she has been taking piano lessons.

When she was about 14 years old she began to realize that her chief ambition was to be a concert pianist, having abandoned all hope of ever becoming a doctor of medicine. At 15 she gave her first concert by herself. Since that time she has presented dozens of programs alone. Playing with the North Carolina Symphony orchestra will be her first experience along that line. Her concert appearances have always been solo piano work.

At ECTC her main job is the supervision of public school music at the Training school, but this year she is teaching 11 hours of piano a week. This is her second year as an ECTC faculty member.

Her favorite composers are Chopin and Brahms. "Of course, I like most all of them, but I love anything written by these two," she declared. She says also "I play anything, though, from classics down to popular music." Her main trouble has been to slow herself down. She finds it quite easy to tear over the keys at a very rapid rate of speed. For what little leisure time she has, Miss Etheridge enjoys sports, bridge and reading. "But with my present schedule, I have very little time off."

Beyond the present, Miss Etheridge has no other plans except to continue along the line of music. "The future remains unsettled for me."

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
April 13, 1904

We are told from headquarters that the campaign of education in this state during the coming summer is to be carried on with greater vigor than ever before. We believe every white child in the state, whose parents are reasonable, will provide a good common school education at the hands of the state, but we do not want to see this matter of public education overdone. It can be carried too far. Then there would be a reaction which would leave conditions worse than before—Wilmington Messenger.

College Assembly

The assembly period at the college Tuesday was devoted to the presentation of selections which will be part of the program of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra on its appearance here Monday afternoon and night, April 17.

In charge of the period, Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, head of the music education department, read as a scripture lesson the 13th chapter of First Corinthians, and then had played over the sound system a recording of "The Prelude," by Liszt.

Miss Josephine Gibson, to be the soloist for the afternoon performance on Monday, sang three numbers—"Now Upon the First Day of the Week," by Frank La Forge; an aria from Saint-Saens "Sampson and Delilah," and the popular "Because," by d'Hardelt.

Miss Eleanor Etheridge of the music faculty, who will be the soloist at the night performance and will play then the Tchaikowsky concert, played "Waiz in A-Flat," by Brahms; "La Compara," by Ernesto Decuana, a Cuban composer; and Grieg's "To Spring."

CUP PRESENTED TO N. C. MEDICAL AUXILIARY

To stimulate the interest and aims of the Auxiliary to the Medical Society of the State of North Carolina an interested friend, who is a doctor, has recently presented the Auxiliary with a check for $125 and a loving cup. The cup—to be called an award of excellency—is to be presented to the district in the maximum aim of the State Auxiliary. Accompanying the cup each year will be a check for $25 to be donated to the Auxiliary's major projects, which at this time are the hospital beds. The $125 will take care of the award for five years. The cup will rotate, but if any district receives it three or four years in succession they will keep it and another cup will be placed in circulation.

The Auxiliary's philanthropies at this time are the McCain and Stevens beds in the Central and Western North Carolina Tubercular Sanatoriums. So far no bed has been endowed by the Auxiliary in the Eastern North Carolina Sanatorium. The McCain Endowment Fund and a Student Loan Fund. Each year either doctors or nurses have occupied the beds. The Student Loan Fund has helped several young people to complete their education.

From the reports received in the office of the president, Mrs. K. E. Pace of Greenville, many districts are doing outstanding work and all are looking forward to the presentation of the award, which will be made at the twenty-second annual meeting of the State Medical Auxiliary in Pinelhurst on May 2. The Auxiliary is indeed grateful to this doctor—a member of the State Medical Society—who made this award possible.

PARK NEWS

The Cotanche city park was formally opened Good Friday with two Easter Egg hunts. Approximately 500 children attended. One hundred dozen colorful eggs were hidden throughout the park. This was a happy occasion for many children.

The Girl Scouts had a cookout there recently. Families or any groups are invited to make similar use of the two fireplaces. The play center is open for any white child in the city who wishes to go to the park for some outdoor play. It is open, with play directed, each school day from 3:30 to 5:30; on Saturday from 10 to 12; from 3 to 6; and on Sunday from 3 to 6. A maintenance man is on duty during the day. The Legion Auxiliary is sponsoring the park during April and May, and wishes to make this a nice place for everyone. Private donations to the Auxiliary have made this project possible.

Women in the Church

by Mary Fowler

Protestant and Catholic churches of Chicago have organized themselves into "Women of Goodwill" under the auspices of the National Council of Christians and Churchmen for the purpose of promoting peace, good will, understanding and friendship among peoples of all races and creeds. This is a creed and pledge of the women of the church, and I hereby dedicate myself to good in every human relationship. In my home, I will seek to create an atmosphere of good will and understanding toward other members of my own family and toward all members of the family of man. In my community, I will use my influence for justice and fair play, and I will not discriminate against any person because of race, class or nationality. In my country, I will stand for just legislation and equal opportunity for every human being, which is the basis of true democracy. In all my relationships, I will grant to others the rights and privileges that I desire for myself. This determined good will, consider my most important contribution to winning the peace.

which they had rubber walls so could crowd more girls into it," says Miss Miriam V. Ris of the Bureau of Social Work of the Methodist Women's Society. In speaking of the national "residences" maintained by the Society for young women in the lower income brackets. One is for Chinese young women in San Francisco, one for girls in Cincinnati, and one for girls of all nations in New York, Houston, San Diego, Cincinnati, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Denver, Richmond and Shreveport.

We think of unions as necessary in the life of our country, and declared Miss Ruth Young, of United Electrical Radio and Home Workers of America, and other workers of the C. I. C. C. at the recent conference. It was the first union in America to begin to approach community problems, working through community organizations and church groups. She reports the organization of labor pools of domestic workers to do the household tasks of working women; of surveys to determine the need for nurseries to be opened. "Full employment of women has to be solved now," she said, "and it can be helped by the coming together of church groups and labor groups to talk together and work together."

WAVES Seek Women Help To Win War

Since given the recent drive enlistments in the WAVES is continuing to show favorable progress, but there still is an acute need for more young women in the service. Commander C. B. Neff, in charge of recruiting in North Carolina, is directing attention to the advantages offered in the men's Naval Reserve.

As time goes by, the increasing important role the women are playing in the winning of the war is more apparent," Commander Neff said.

As women of the Navy, WAVES are every opportunity available to men of the fleet. That, in itself, is inducement enough for women to enlist. It includes opportunities for obtaining skilled training in almost any type of work. The Navy sincerely hopes the young women of North Carolina will respond to the nation's call for their services in the armed forces.

Young women interested in applying for enlistment in the WAVES may contact Recruiter D. R. Taylor, 1015 E. Taylor, Greenville, April 18-19.

Recruiter Taylor will also be in Greenville April 24 and Farmville April 25.

Kiwanis Minstrel Was Great Success

By CHESTER WALSH

The audience of nearly 1,000 persons at the Kiwanis minstrel, produced under the direction of Ed Bloom, at the college last night, would not have seen a better show if they had been in New York and bought $3.30 tickets for a Broadway show.

The minstrel was the best the Kiwanians have produced for the benefit of underprivileged children. The music and songs were sparkling, the specialty numbers were of the top billing variety, the choruses were good enough to sing on a Friday night at Carnegie Hall. The jokes, streamlined and precisioned to suit the taste of the most esthetic, went over like four-engined bombers and never missed the targets!

The audience liked the show. They demonstrated it by their applause, more spontaneous and more prolonged than this writer has heard here in a long time. The concert by the high school band was a distinct hit of the show and Harold McDougle's young and talented musicians were given an ovation.

The show was a success in every way. Members of the cast expressed appreciation for Director Ed Bloom's excellent showmanship. All of the tickets were sold. Businessmen and others sponsored the souvenir program and this will net a substantial sum. When tonight's performance is over and present indications are that the show will be a sell-out) the Kiwanis club, through the patronage of the people of Greenville, will have cleared much over $1,000 for underprivileged children. President Dick Bundy last night in a short talk to the audience was eloquent in his expression of appreciation for the loyal work of the Kiwanians and those who sponsored the program and attended the show.

Two outstanding features of the minstrel were Charles Fisher's singing of "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair" and Assistant Marine Chaplain Hugh Woistenhof's singing "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen." Ed Bloom and diminutive Mildred Adams, in black face, singing "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," with a jitterbug obbligato, "Eddie Cantore" the audience James Ray Pittman singing "Old Black Joe" and the Kiwanis quartet, Bill Lee, Tige Gardner, Aubrey Tilley and Pittman; Gardner's song, "I Am Blue" and Joanne Bloom's song, "You Must Have a Beautiful Baby," (meaning Ed (Little Lamb) Rawl with accompanying dances by six girls, merited the applause.

Marie Smith Crute's dancing ensemble was a hit of the show, with Kathryn Youngblood, Ann Glass, Nancy Moye, Joanne Bloom, Mary Andrews, Whitchard and Eleanor Clark participating. The singing of Elizabeth Bridges, Mary Andrews, Whitchard and Hennie Ruth Whitchard, was a high spot in the show. Marie's tap dance number won much applause. John Karsnak in a song and Judge Roberts in a buck and wing dance went over nicely.

A comedy skit, "Who's Dat Knockin' in 'At My Door?" by Tige Gardner and Aubrey Tilley was original. Seven Marines from Ordnance Squadron 344, made a good impression during the singing of "You're a Grand Old Flag."

The end men were Judge J. W. H. Roberts, John Karsnak, Aubrey Tilley, Dr. J. M. Barrett, Dail Laughlin, Hugh Woistenhof, Albert Lum and Fred Blank. Jimmie Warren was stage manager, Marie Smith Crute arranged the dances, Dave Owens and Ophelia Hooks arranged the lighting equipment.

The minstrel will be given again tonight at the college at 8 o'clock.

Concerning Books

in the SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY

Book About England. With so many of our soldiers now stationed in England we are so much more aware of the Emerald Isle than ever before. As a result of this more and more the newer books as well as the older ones on this country are being read. Somehow just the reading of these books or looking at their pictures and maps makes us feel closer to the soldiers as does the radio broadcasts from London.

And if one desires to know more of the English people, their customs and manners and their way of thinking, there is no better way of getting this information, barring traveling there, than through fiction, of which there is an abundance. "Anger in the Sky," by Susan Ertz, is a splendid example of this as is the new "Rebecca" by Daphne de Maurier. Miss Ertz's book is the story of England under the threat of invasion. It is a brilliant chronicle of England's changing mind under the impact of war and the determination of men and women of many types and nationalities to seek causes and learn the lessons of this modern catastrophe.

"England the Beautiful" is a rare book of pictures of the island gathered by the famous art critic, Wallace Nutting.

A book telling of the climate and physical features, London and the famous English villages is "England the Unknown Isle," by Paul Cohen.

No one who has read "The White

Cliffs of Dover" could doubt that "I Have Loved England," by the same author, Alice Duer Miller, that this is one of the most popular books on this subject. It includes enchanting glimpses of country and riverside, cities, towns and villages, cathedrals, factories, seaports, castles—all that has made England the nation it is.

A witty, urbane study of the development of the Anglo-Saxon character is found in "God's Englishman," by Leland Dewitt Baldwin. It is not a history in the usual sense, nor is it a cultural history. It simply tries to trace the various strains that went into the making of the modern Anglo-Saxons. A brilliant discourse on their characteristics and how they got that way.

"Nothing brings about so many changes as a war." "The Face of London," by Cecil Beaton, in the current Vogue shows the altered London of five years of conflict. Two other articles in this same magazine on this subject are "Nowadays the Young" by G. B. Stern, and "I Like to See in England," by Leslie Branch.

Clyde Eddy's book "Voyaging Down the Thames," is an intimate account of a voyage 200 miles across England down "The River of Liquid History"—the Thames.

"England the Beautiful" is a rare book of pictures of the island gathered by the famous art critic, Wallace Nutting.

Greensboro Chapter Endorses Meadows

The Greensboro chapter of East Carolina Teachers College Alumni Association at a meeting April 3, went on record as approving Governor Broughton's public statement in the News and Observer of March 29, that he had at no time expressed any opinion that our President, Dr. Leon R. Meadows, had misappropriated any funds and that after careful study of available records, it is his personal opinion that Dr. Meadows has not consciously or intentionally converted any of these funds to his personal use.

We believe that any individual who would study the facts in this case would arrive at the same decision which is that of our Board of Trustees, also.

We wish to endorse most heartily the eight Trustees of the Board who have kept their eyes on the goals which were in the hearts and minds of our two great pioneer leaders—Mr. Robert H. Wright and Mr. Leon R. Meadows.

We resent the unfair publicity that has been given our President, Dr. Leon R. Meadows, and our college by the News and Observer.

We as a chapter have definitely defended his honesty and integrity, and know that he acted at all times for the best interests of the college.

We also feel that for the future good of the college, all discussion must now be removed.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

JUDGE NOT

David Bispham, a noted singer of 50 years ago, made famous Rudyard Kipling's poem, "Danny Deever," which Walter Damrosch had set to music.

Kipling, when he visited New York in 1889, was entertained by a certain prominent person, and in the course of the evening Bispham was asked to sing "Danny Deever." At the close of the song, Kipling hastily arose, bid his hostess good night, and left the room. It seemed like a rude comment on Bispham's performance, but Kipling, in a letter sent to Bispham later, expressed his apologies and regrets for what had appeared to be rudeness, saying that he had been so powerfully affected by the rendering of the ballad that he could not trust himself to remain in the room as long as good night as quickly as possible.

The reason why the Bible warns us against hasty judgment is because we can never be confident that we know all the facts involved in any case. Bispham, to all appearances had the right to be thoroughly offended at Kipling's conduct. Not until later did he know that, instead of being rude, Kipling had really—although silently—paid him a very high compliment.

Much of the world's unhappiness is the result of misunderstanding. We jump to a hasty conclusion as the result of a superficial examination of a few facts. Perhaps other facts of which we are ignorant would have brought us to quite the opposite conclusion, had we known them.

Judge not until you know all the facts—and that, of course is never. All Rights Reserved—Bisbon Newspaper Syndicate

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—On the eve of almost a certain bid for a fourth term, I doubt if there is any one who has written, without rancor, but with more complete frankness about President Roosevelt than Charles Michelson.

Since Michelson was for 12 years publicity director for the Democratic national committee and most of that time was on the fringe of the "inner circle," this might seem surprising, but not if you know Charles.

He retired last year of his own volition to make way for younger men, more able physically to stand up to the rough and tumble of national politics. He spends his leisure now playing dominoes with "the boys in the back room" at the National Press Club. Except for an understanding navy loyalty, his days of gridding the Democratic are over and no man to whom writing has been second nature for more than 40 years can quit the habit.

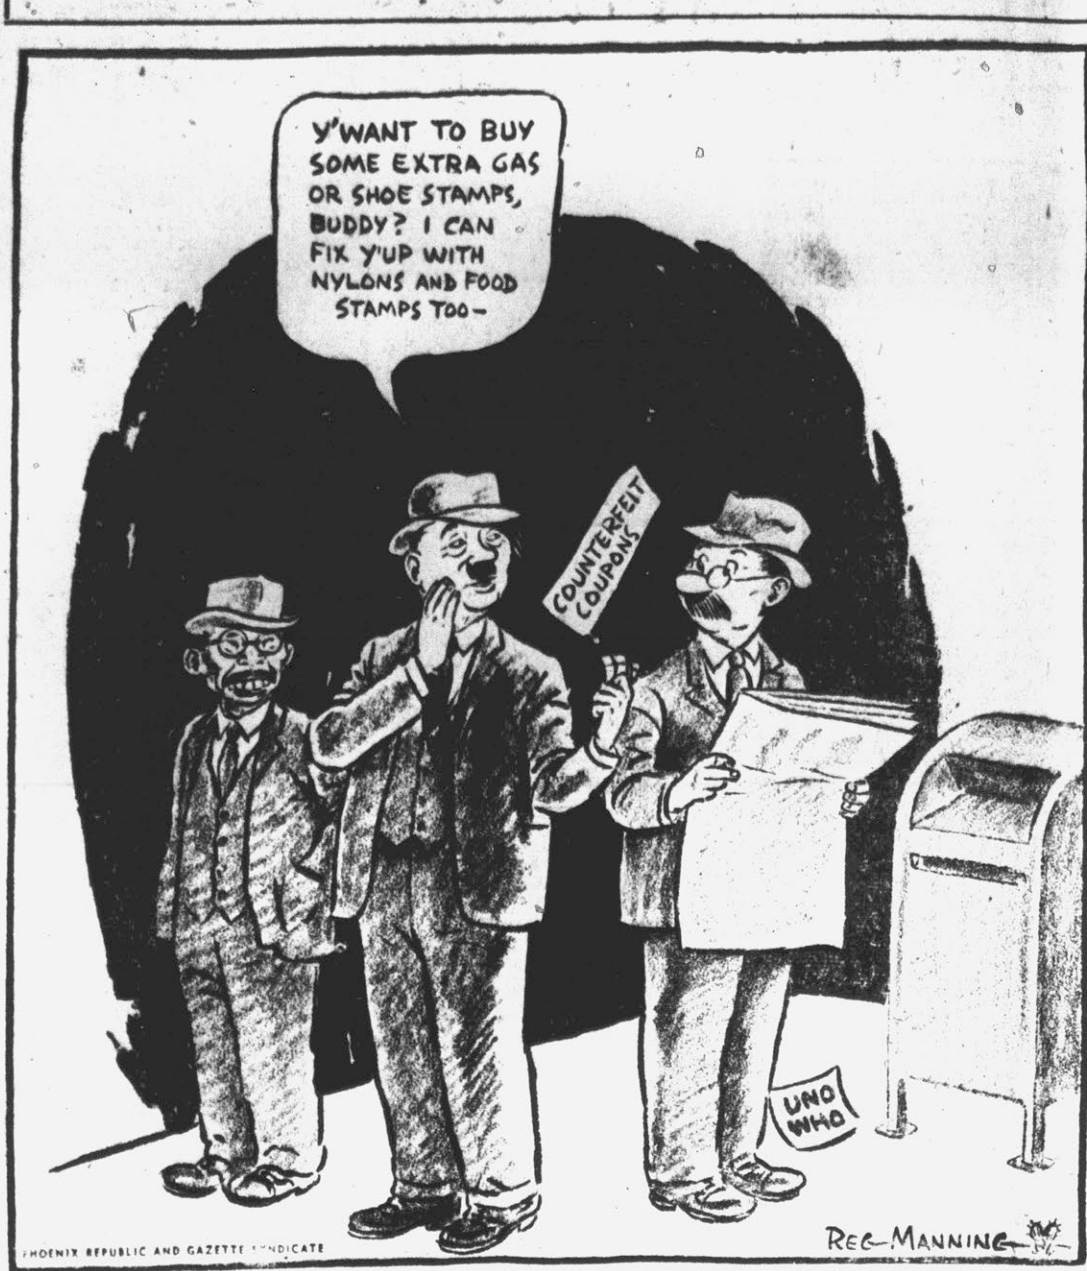

His article last month in the American Magazine on the President was a frank appraisal of a man whom he knows well and with whom he has been associated for years. His follow-up article on "The Presidents Palace Favorites" is even more revealing.

Michelson talks for the first time so far as I know, the influence that Col. Edward M. House, that shadowy in-and-outer of President Wilson's administration had in shaping the New Deal. Here is something for the historians to play with and it's certain to lead to an unearthing of Col. House's anonymous novel, "Philip Dru Administrator," which written in 1917, satirically parodied the New Deal political and social philosophies.

He also sketches briefly but revealingly the feud between former Secretary of State Sumner Welles and Cordell Hull that finally forced the former's resignation, and verifies something that I wrote in this column at the time. That it was the fundamental differences in the two men that led to the break and not any minor squabble over our policies toward Russia, or England, or any one else.

He emphasizes another point that is interesting: that Bernard Baruch, the special adviser to the Director of War Mobilization, could have had, on a number of occasions, and probably could even have now any cabinet post he asked for, but that being "as canny as he is wise" he knows that he can do more good on the outside than mixed too closely with the "Palace Guard."

Michelson scores a half dozen other points: why Dr. Stanley High was ousted from the inner circle; the part Raymond Moley played in shaping the New Deal; what happened to "Tommy the Corp" Corporan; how Harry Hopkins pulled a political boner that has kept him in hot water with administration opponents ever since.

There's much more and if there isn't much that most good Washington reporters haven't suspected all along, there is quite a bit that demanded more than suspicion to get down in black and white. Charles Michelson is doing one of his best services to the public right now in blowing away some of the clouds that hide the facts about the administrative branch of government and its politics. None but the few who extend these necessarily limited efforts into full-length memoirs.

Now perhaps only 45 million workers receive unemployment benefits. Excluded are about 15 million agricultural workers, domestic servants, employees of federal, state or local government, and employees of non-profit organizations.

Provide a check on the job-seeking efforts of the unemployed—those receiving benefits—by compelling them to report to the unemployment services and shutting off their benefits if they refuse employment.

Burns speaks at a time when persons receiving unemployment benefits are increasing by the scores

10,000 men—faced annihilation. In the Russian drive through the Crimea, which dispatches said was crumpling Axis defense lines in all directions, was materially aided by the Soviet Black Sea fleet air force, which was blasting enemy evacuation ports and communication lines with devastating results, the war bulletin reported. Harbor installations at Feodosiya were hit, and four landing barges and a torpedo boat were sunk, while others were damaged.

Constanta, big Romanian Black sea port and oil shipping center, also was heavily bombed, Moscow said. Constanta is 230 miles across the Black sea from Sevastopol, and presumably would be one of the logical ports of debarkation for Axis troops evacuated from the Crimea. In crashing the "second power zone" of the Axis defenses in the northern Crimea, Tolbukhin's forces led off with a combination frontal and flank attack on the Ishun sector, Moscow dispatches said. Other columns speeding down from the Sivash sea struck in a southwesterly direction, stormed the fortified town of Voinka and then drove down the central Crimean railroad for 43 miles to Karachukangal. The Germans were reported retreating rapidly before them, apparently heading for Sevastopol where perhaps 100,000 German and Romanian troops making up the Crimean garrison may elect to make a final stand. At the end of the day, Tolbukhin's vanguards were within sight of Simferopol, with Sevastopol only 15 miles further south, Moscow said.

A correspondent of the Moscow newspaper Pravda attached to Tolbukhin's army reported that panic was spreading among the retreating Axis troops, especially the Romanians who were said to have been denied motorized transport by the Germans. Other dispatches asserted that German officers were abandoning their own men as the Russian forces pressed forward. The Soviet war bulletin said that Tolbukhin's troops liberated 150 towns and villages during the day. Approximately 3,000 enemy troops were killed and more than 2,000 captured, the communique added.

northward toward Imphal, but action has been confined to patrolling and artillery fire, the communique said.

North of Imphal in the Kohima region, the situation was said to be showing improvement, although there were no major developments. A Chinese column driving south in the Burmese hills west of the Monywa valley was said to have dislodged the Japanese from strong positions south of Punsin. The Chinese captured much equipment, the announcement added.

Airmen Deal . . .

Down assaults by both American Marauders hitting at France and Belgium and by British medium bombers at northern France earlier in the current air series into its sixth straight day.

Russian air forces also were throwing new weight into the Allied blows at the Balkans, the Moscow radio said, with Red army airforce attacks on Constanta, the Romanian port through which Germany may attempt to evacuate forces cut off in the Crimea. RAF Mosquitoes carried the new offensive on through last night by attacking Osnabruck, about 75 miles west of Hanover.

A U. S. communique, meanwhile, announced that 26 Nazi planes were shot down over western Europe by American heavy bombers and fighters yesterday. The bulletin said that gunners aboard Liberators and Flying Fortresses had accounted for 10 of the enemy aircraft and the remainder were knocked down by escorting fighters. It was announced earlier that weather had forced the heavy bombers to turn back before they reached their objective.

The Mosquitoes hit Osnabruck with a great number of high explosives, including sixteen 4,000-pounders, a British announcement said. The crews said their bombs hit the targets in good concentrations. Often attacked previously, Osnabruck is a Ruhr valley industrial and rail center and is one of the most concentrated targets in Germany, covering only about four square miles.

British coastal towns opposite the French channel ports of Boulogne and Calais shook to heavy explosions. There has been no official explanation but some coastal residents expressed belief they may be coming from a heavy concentration of enemy guns perhaps recently installed and being tested for range. Others believe they come from strengthened anti-aircraft defenses in that sector. Doors and windows rattled violently in homes and buildings near the waterfront as the rumbles continued across the channel.

A later announcement on the Marauder raid said the medium bombers had blasted Namur, Belgium, a German air base at Chateaux in Belgium and military targets on the northern French coast. One failed to return.

Today's communique added a new bomber target, the atoll of Nomoi in the Carolines, southwest of Truk. South Pacific bombers, which are teaming up with central Pacific bombers in two-way strikes at the Carolines, hit the Satawan airdrome in the Nomoi group. A 30-ton bombing of daily pounded Rabaul, New Britain, and a 59-ton attack in the Wewak sector of New Guinea, also were announced.

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

By George Reeder
Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & C.

Homemakers who are employed find shopping for food a major problem. Some attempt to do the entire week's marketing on Saturday, but it's impractical for many to buy a supply of fresh meat for a week in advance. It's important, therefore, to keep an assortment of canned "main dishes" on hand—MOR—Canned Beef Hash—Chili—Tamales. Then you are always ready for an emergency. And what a relief it is to know you are prepared.

Broiled MOR—Point-Thrifty and Delicious

Cut one can of MOR into 8 or 12 slices. Brush lightly with Wilson's Certified Margarine or bacon drippings, and broil about seven minutes on each side. Arrange MOR on chop plate around green beans. Garnish with pickles, radish roses and parsley.

NO CEILING ON ENJOYMENT

Luckily for us, ration point values of meats are determined by the nation's supply and not by the meat's respective tastes and flavors. Take MOR for example. There's not a bit of waste in MOR since it contains neither bone nor gristle. And MOR is made of excellent quality pork to which has been added a superb blend of seasonings. That's why MOR is different.

In spite of this high quality and no waste, Wilson's MOR is definitely in the low-price class; one can serves four generously at around a point a serving. And how deliciously it serves them!

Versatile as Anything

Ways to use your handy can of MOR are practically endless. It takes to frying pan, broiler or oven with the greatest of ease and it provides good meat flavor when cubed and combined with vegetables, rice, noodles, etc. for a casserole dish. Casserole dishes are such a help because they need little attention. One especially good favorite of mine is MOR Pie. It's not only delicious but it helps use up a lot of left-overs. I can of MOR (cut in cubes), 1 cup of cooked carrots, potatoes, peas & celery, 2 tsp. grated onion, and 3 c. B-V-gravy. Transfer to a casserole. With pastry or baking powder biscuit bake in a hot oven, 425° F., about 15 min. and you have a meat pie that pleases the entire family.

To go with today's tempting plan I suggest scalloped potatoes and a slaw, with fruit cup for dessert.

Waste Not, Want Not, for Health's Sake

There's a saving that the fewer y'garbage pail, the poorer your health the past. We Americans throw away 20% of our food, enough to feed a larger part of our armed forces at home and abroad.

What do you do with the top green onions? I never throw 'em! I especially don't discard green tops because they're good to eat. I might try this: using scissors, cut the very fine and mix a liberal quantity with scalloped potatoes before cooking. De-e-e-licious!

Yours for saving points and food.

CAMERAS HELP TO KEEP SCORE

Air War Being Shot With Cameras As Well As Guns

By JAMES J. STREIB
Associated Press Aviation Editor

Washington, April 13—The air war is being "shot" in 32 cameras with enough motion picture film each year to tape the equator.

Almost every bullet from an American airplane cuts through the lens path of a 16mm. camera hidden in the leading edge of the wing, housed along the fuselage, or attached to the sight in turrets.

Unless it is a tracer bullet, which shows up as a red streak, the sizzling snub doesn't appear in the picture, but the target at which it was aimed does.

Gun cameras have several important uses. The film is studied first to determine the effectiveness of the firing as indicated by hits or damage shown in the picture. This also helps determine whether a fighter pilot is an aerial gunner credit for shooting down an opponent or bawled out for missing one.

The film is scrutinized closely for military information—whether any new equipment can be seen on enemy planes, ships or ground installations, whether plane designs have been altered, new planes put into use, and whether enemy aircraft performance and tactics can be figured out from the sequences.

Finally the film comes home to be studied for value in training pilots, gunners and bombardiers. It may show up in a training motion picture a series of slides for classroom work. Sometimes individual frames appear in the newspapers and magazines, or portions of film may be inserted in newscasts.

The exact amount of film used in any one theater for any one picture is restricted information because of the relationship between film and the number of rounds fired and the number of planes flown. The army alone uses in all operations nearly 13,000,000 feet (29,000 miles) in a normal month.

Several kinds of cameras were used at first—made a plain appearance camera driven by an electric motor is standard. Both the army and navy still are trying to improve the vibration resisting qualities of camera mounts. The work has progressed to a point where successful pictures in color can be taken.

Pilots and gunners are not always keen to have pictures of their shooting and at times educational companies to remind them of the importance of photography have been used. One commanding officer got results by refusing to give credit for kills unless the claim was backed with pictures.

Humbles gave up only two hits in the three innings in which he commanded the mound for the locals. ESCAPE FROM PARIS

by Marion McClure Stewart

Chapter 15

Fraulein Augusta Lange sat at the desk in the headquarters of the Women's Communication Corps, a perplexed frown gathering on her usually tranquil forehead as she considered a telegram that she held in her hand.

It was only one of a large number of wires which had been sent into her office that morning but it had caught and held her interest owing to the fact that it was addressed to Mile. Adrienne Girard, number 17, Rue de Valenciennes, Rue de Valenciennes, the girl whom she had met one evening nearly a week ago when having cocktails at the Continental with Captain Karl Von Ezer.

Fraulein Lange had realized instantly that Von Ezer was greatly attracted to this lovely French girl. It was in order to gratify her own curiosity in regard to this unknown rival that she had requested an introduction to her. She could find no fault with Adrienne's looks but it was her chic appearance and the ease with which she carried herself that aroused the most envy in the German girl.

She prided herself on her own statuesque thought somewhat heavy and austere bearing, and on her neatness, but she knew that her features were irregular, and that not even a Paris couturier could give her the distinctive air that belonged to Adrienne Girard. For this she disliked and resented her, and because of the admiration in Karl Von Ezer's eyes as he watched her.

Who was this girl?

The message appeared harmless enough. It read: "All is well. Think of you every day. Love Jean."

She pressed a button on her desk and the girl in a grey blue uniform appeared almost instantly.

"Have this wire traced and investigated to its source—and report to me. Have this copied and filed and return the original."

In half an hour the girl returned with the information.

The memo read: "Wire sent from the town of Caen, the previous day by one signing himself, Andre Beauchamp."

Fraulein Lange's expression gave no evidence of any special interest in its contents, as looking up she dismissed the girl.

When alone she folded the wire and put it in her purse.

A little enigmatical smile crossed her face as she replaced her head and contacted a listening post in the building where messages were being received from the neutral embassies and other sources. Possibly this wire would serve her purpose in the end.

"That evening she sat facing Karl Von Ezer in a deluxe restaurant on the Rue Royal. He had suggested their dining before attending a symphonic concert.

After dinner, lingering over their wine and cigarettes, Fraulein Lange thought of the subject that had been in her thoughts all day. She had dressed with more care than usual and wore a low cut black crepe dinner gown with a string of pearls about her neck. Her flaxen hair heavily braided, was coiled about her neck. Her flaxen hair heavily braided, was coiled about her shapely head in a fashion that became her.

"Karl," she began, speaking in her native tongue. "That was a very pretty girl who introduced me to the other evening, Adrienne Girard, I think you said her name was; but perhaps you don't know that she is connected with the underground movement." She paused, bending to flick the ash from her cigarette.

"At the mention of Adrienne's name she noticed the quick gleam that sprang into Von Ezer's eyes.

"How do you know this?"

She laughed. "My dear Karl, you ask how? That I can't answer, but you know. We have channels of information not open to the public, as you know, which I am sworn not to divulge to any one. But I thought it best to warn you. It wouldn't do for you to get mixed up with her in any way."

His eyes looked into hers with a flash of resentment.

"And what makes you so ready to assume that I am apt to be mixed up with her, Adrienne?"

Second Crop Report Issued

R. C. Rankin, supervisor of sales of the Greenville tobacco market today issued his second report of the season on the outlook for this year's tobacco production in this territory as follows:

"Excessive rains and cold weather have damaged east belt plant beds and slowed up the growth of plants to some extent but generally speaking taking the belt as a whole their condition runs from fair to satisfactory with prospects for a plentiful supply. The plants are small and have less color, however, consistent favorable weather will help overcome both of these troubles. Weeds have been very troublesome but damage from insects is only normal. There are a few scattered reports of blue mold; it has appeared on beds in Jones, Onslow, Lenoir and Pitt but as yet it is not in a serious form.

More rains the last week in March further retarded the production of the Eastern Carolina is far behind in this work but at present growers are making good progress with their ploughing and should have their land in shape by the end of the week. Prospective planting dates range from the last week in April in the southern portion of the belt to May 1-May 10 in the northern and northwest counties. Some growers in Duplin, Onslow, Jones, Lenoir, Craven and Pitt expect to get a little tobacco in the field as early as April 20.

"Last year's records show that approximately half the 1943 crop had been set out in Pitt and counties south on May 10 and a considerably less portion in the northern counties of the belt. With good luck east belt growers can get their 1944 crop in the field ahead of last year's dates."

Says Report Is A Huge Mistake

Los Angeles, April 13—(AP)—Twelve reported lost in overseas combat, the son of a former president of Mexico went about his business today as a test pilot here, possibly assuming his friends there is no basis for the report that he is dead.

It was all "a huge mistake," Abelardo Luis Rodriguez, Jr., 25, said with a grin last night when informed by the Associated Press of a dispatch from London which proclaimed him missing after participating in an air raid over Germany with the U. S. Eighth Airforce.

Rodriguez, whose father is now governor of Sonora, Mex., said his mother was notified about a month ago that he had been killed in action in Europe. That report, he said, probably referred to the same person mentioned in yesterday's London dispatch.

A test pilot for North American Aviation, Rodriguez has never served in the United States army.

From a small black brocade bag she took a slip of paper which she thrust into his hand.

"For a moment he was silent as if too surprised to speak.

"I congratulate you, Augusta. You are a clever woman and I'm not surprised that you have got on so well in your profession."

There was a cynical irony in his voice that she was quick to feel.

"I don't deserve credit for this, Karl. It came to me quite by accident," she countered.

He looked at her with a direct searching gaze as if to convince himself that she spoke the truth.

"So you think that I have a formidable rival," he remarked, his mood veering to a lighter one. "Well, competition usually serves to heighten the interest in any game—why not in the love game? I suggest we move Augusta, or we shall be late for our concert."

As they entered his car a few minutes later, Fraulein Lange considered after all if she had acted in the first round of the game that she intended to play.

Karl Von Ezer dated back to the time of their meeting some years previously in Berlin, where she had come on a visit to friends from Munich. She knew him well enough to realize he was offended at her presuming to give him advice in regard to the wisdom of his conduct.

"I am not assuming anything, Karl—I am merely telling you what I know. Forewarned is forearmed."

"And even if I were to see something of her, how could this affect me?" he inquired in a detached tone.

"You can't tell. There are many ways, if it reached the ears of the high command, in which it might affect your advancement or promotion."

He was silent, as if realizing the wisdom of this remark. Suddenly he said with a flash of anger: "I would be obliged if you wouldn't interfere in my private affairs, Augusta."

"I am sorry, Karl, if I have offended you," she returned, drawing herself up with dignity. "That was not intended. But perhaps this will furnish an extra reason why you shouldn't allow your affections to become engaged by the girl in question. This wire may interest you. It came into my possession today."

OUTLOOK FOR SOUTH BRIGHT

Speakers Predict Great Development After War

Atlanta, April 13—(AP)—Don't waste your time lamenting the lot of the south—not if you value the predictions of Donald M. Nelson and David E. Lilienthal. "I say flatly that the south cannot be prevented from moving swiftly into an era of industrial and social development that will surround the world and add enormously to the strength of this virile democracy of ours," said Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board. Lilienthal, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, said: "The south is the No. 1 region of the United States, and economic progress here within the next 20 years will be the greatest the nation has ever seen."

The paths of these two Yankees crossed here yesterday at meetings of southern textile men and other industrialists. Nelson spoke at a banquet, Lilienthal in an interview. In painting bright pictures of post-war Dixie, the traditional land of cotton, they talked to the region's vast human and material resources, favorable climate, abundant power and geographical proximity to expanding Latin American markets. And Nelson mentioned something else, growing out of the present world-wide conflict. "The south, said Nelson, "has always had great material resources and a favorable climate. But now it has in addition two other resources that it once lacked. Today, largely as a result of the war, it has industrial know-how on a large scale, both among managers and workers. Today it has substantial accumulations of local capital. "Throughout history, resources, know-how and capital have always been an unbeatable economic combination."

As examples of this know-how, of "the ingenuity shown by southern manufacturers," Nelson said that as part of the war-time conversion program one of the large growers of terns in Florida now makes bomb chutes, a soft drink company manages a shell loading plant, the Charlotte bedspread industry makes mosquito netting and a citrus canning machinery company manufactures merchant ship parts and heavy barges. The size of the war plants that have sprung up in the south rivals and in most instances surpasses those anywhere in the nation, said Nelson. "A birdseye view of large-
