ALLIED PLANES HAMMER MORE NAZI TARGETS

German Radio Reports Major Assault On Bucharest Today; Other American Formations Pound French Areas; RAF Dealt Heavy Blow To Cologne Last Night

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
London, April 21.—(AP)—The German radio reported a major attack today on southeastern Europe by American heavy bombers, and the air ministry announced the RAF last night dropped the heaviest bomb load of the war—more than 5,000 tons—on four railroad centers in Germany and occupied countries.

A German broadcast said Bucharest was attacked by the American bombers, apparently from bases in Italy.

More than 300 American Marauder and Havoc bombers dropped upwards of 500 tons of explosives this afternoon on northern France, lighting through violent ground fire and a small number of enemy fighters.

Five bombers were lost; all the RAF, Dominion and Allied Spitfires which accompanied them returned. The enemy fighters were the first put up in northern France in more than a month.

A score of Focke-Wulf-190's attacked just as the bombers approached their targets. Marauder guns claimed some kills which still are being assessed.

More than 1,100 bombers—the greatest force of these planes ever dispatched by the RAF—took part in last night's smash against Cologne and other centers.

This was the second time within four days that the RAF had broken the record for bomb tonnage. More than 4,400 tons were cascaded Tuesday night upon four other railroad centers.

Only 16 bombers were lost in the tremendous night operations, including a Meisito raid on Berlin, which quickly followed yesterday's dusk attack on Adolf Hitler's Atlantic wall by a fleet of 750 to 1,000 Flying Fortresses.

An air ministry communiqué said a great weight of bombs was dropped in the four-day assault, suggesting that it might have exceeded the 4,400 tons deposited on French rail targets by a 1,000-bomber fleet on Tuesday night when the RAF marked up a record up to that time in bomb tonnage.

In less than 72 hours Allied air invasion forces in Britain had sent

May Cut Point

Value On Butter

Washington, April 21.—(AP)—The ration value of butter may be reduced four points next week.

Informed sources assert that the Office of Price Administration will announce a reduction from 16 points to 12, and that sufficient supplies are now available to permit the cut without causing a scarcity in areas remote from producing centers.

The prediction was made as the OPA announced an average of 50 per cent slash in the ration point value of lamb to be effective Sunday, April 30. The lamb ration value reduction is prompted, said an OPA spokesman, by drought conditions in many parts of the country which threaten a large part of the spring lamb flock.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

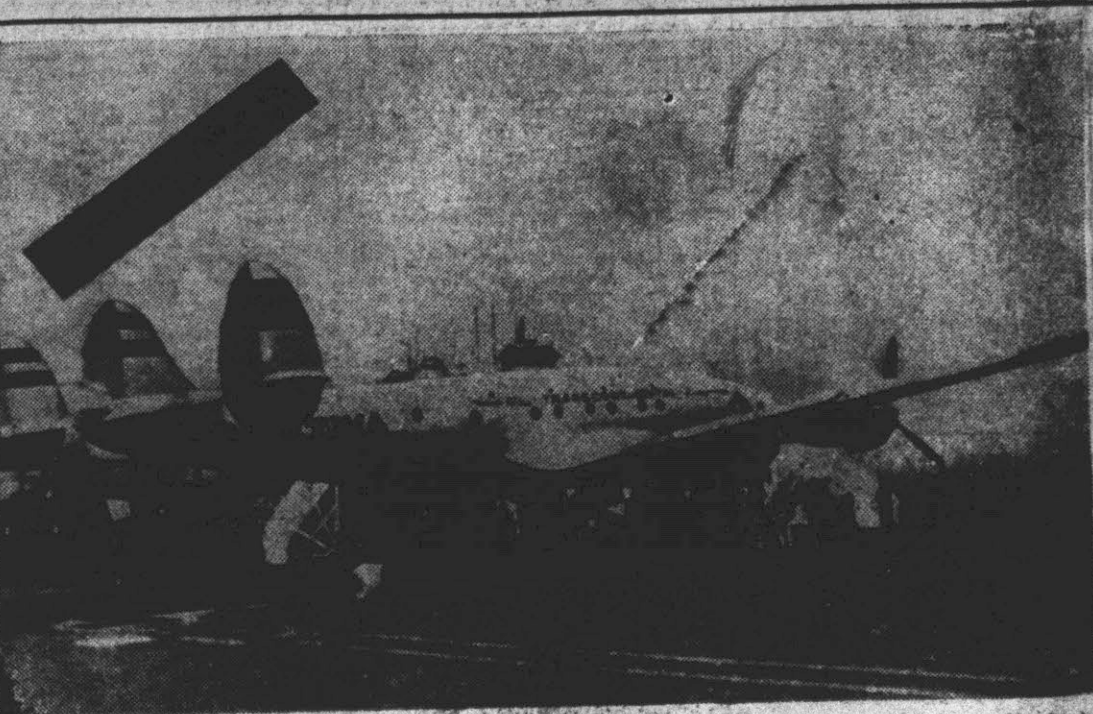

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press Staff Analyst)
There has been widespread acceptance of the startling thesis that Russia will emerge from the war as dominant power of the eastern hemisphere, and concrete evidence in support of this idea is accumulating as we enter the final stages of the conflict.

One indication of the trend is the manner in which numerous European countries are orienting their policies toward Moscow. This is particularly noticeable in eastern and southeastern Europe, but it's by no means confined to that zone, for we even find France—as represented by the Committee of National Liberation and General De Gaulle in Algiers—going out of its way to make overtures to Russia.

Doughty little Czechoslovakia—early sacrifice on the altar of Hitlerian appeasement—signed a pact of mutual assistance and post-war cooperation with the Soviet last December. Then in February President Eduard Benes announced that Moscow and his country were working for a Slav alliance, including Poland, to secure peace in eastern Europe.

Pursuant to that we have an article by Dr. Benes in the May issue of Free World magazine in which

Lockheed Plane Ends Cross-Country Record Flight

This is the new Lockheed Constellation, described by its builders as the largest land transport plane just after it arrived at National Airport in Washington, D. C., following a record transport plane trip of six hours and 55 minutes from Burbank, Calif. The old record, set by Howard Hughes in 1937, was seven hours and 28 minutes. Hughes was a member of the crew setting the new record. (AP Wirephoto).

Officers Arrest Eighteen For ABC Store Robberies

MAJOR ACTION CHINESE FRONT

Japs Begin Drive To Seize Peiping-Hankow Railroad

By SPENCER MOOSA
Chungking, April 21.—(AP)—A new threat to China, including the possibility of a man-made famine affecting 20,000,000 civilians and hundreds of thousands of soldiers, developed today as strong Japanese forces striking from the west drove across the Peiping-Hankow railway in northern Honan province.

A Chinese army spokesman said the Japanese offensive, embracing between 50,000 and 60,000 troops, was spearheaded by contingents from Manchuria where until now Japan has kept the flower of her army even through the seven years war with China.

The Chinese surmised, the spokesman said, that the Japanese were making a bid to smash the Chinese grip on 150 miles of the Peiping-Hankow railway which would permit the enemy to link his north and central forces in China.

Marine Wrecker Was Destroyed By Fire

A large wrecker truck from the Marine Air Base at Cherry Point was destroyed by fire last night after an unknown gasoline tank truck sideswiped it on the Falkland highway about five miles west of Greenville.

The wrecker's gas tank was broken and released its gasoline to feed the fire. The truck that collided with the wrecker did not stop, the driver told Greenville firemen who were called to the fire.

The wrecker truck went out of control and into low ground after it was sideswiped. It was en route to Wilson when the accident occurred.

Two White Men And 16 Negroes Held Under A Total of 51 Indictments

Two white men and 16 Negroes are under arrest under a total of 51 indictments today as the result of the smashing of a liquor theft ring in this immediate section of the state which has in the past three and a half months robbed 10 ABC stores of 277 cases of liquor and stolen at least two trucks and one automobile.

The warrants charge breaking and entering, larceny, illegal transportation of liquor and receiving and disposing of stolen property. An arson charge resulting from the burning of one of the stolen trucks had not yet been lodged pending further evidence as to which of the parties actually buried the truck.

The roundup of the ring members has been underway for the past week in various counties of this section and details were announced by Lieut. Lester Jones of Troop A, North Carolina Highway Patrol, late last night, following arrest of the 18th member. Those participating in the roundup and breaking the case were members of Division Six, Troop A, Highway Patrol, members of the State Bureau of Investigation, the sheriff's departments of Pitt and Craven counties, and the Greenville police force.

Work on the case was begun on April 13 with the arrest of one of the Negroes, and from then until last night when the final arrest was made, the information obtained

Human Torpedo Runs Aground

By DANIEL DE LUCE
With the Fifth Army at Anzio, April 21.—(AP)—A German "human torpedo" ran ashore north of Anzio today. From his explosive craft a 17-year-old Kriegsmarine sailor was lifted to safety by two Jewish-American soldiers.

The blonde blue-eyed German youth told Lt. M. B. Bernstein of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Pvt. Joseph Hectomon of Detroit, Mich., that he "ran out of gas."

The apparatus consists of one regulation torpedo about 12 feet long, on which another steel case of the same size rides piggyback.

The top "torpedo" is virtually a midge submarine with a small hatch near the head. The hatch is covered with glass dome making it airtight. The skinny young sailor lay lengthwise, looking out through the glass for shipping in Anzio harbor and hoping to make an attack by releasing the lower torpedo. Then he hoped to "submarine" to the beach behind German lines.

It was understood the sailor started on what seemed a suicide mission from an enemy motor torpedo boat.

Crown Princess Becomes Of Age

London, April 21.—(AP)—Blonde, blue-eyed Princess Elizabeth, next in line to rule the British Empire, came of age today as she celebrated her 18th birthday.

Greetings from the far-flung outposts of the empire poured in on the young princess who, though still legally a minor for the next three years, became a counsellor of state empowered with others to act for her father, King George VI, in his absence.

A birthday cake baked in the royal kitchen graced the table at a family luncheon attended by the king and queen and other members of the royal family.

AIRMAN POUND NORTH ITALY

Ground Activity On Italian Front Limited

By LYNN HEINZELING
Allied Headquarters, Naples, April 21.—(AP)—Allied warplanes, converted temporarily from assault to ground attack, smashed German communications in Italy yesterday, with U. S. heavy bombers blasting Venice harbor and pounding other targets from Ancona to Trieste.

The big bombers were hampered by clouds, but explosives fell close to a merchant vessel in Venice harbor and other undisclosed targets were hit, headquarters said. The Montebelluna shipyards near Trieste and the port of Livorno (Leghorn) also were attacked.

In all, Allied planes flew more than 2,000 sorties yesterday, destroying 10 German craft for a loss of eight of their own.

On the ground, meanwhile, German troops on the right flank of the Anzio beachhead were observed tawing up both their own and Allied mines. Although the front there

Drownings In River Were Unavoidable

At an inquest held at the City Hall last night a coroner's jury found that George Woodard, Bob White and Claude Jones, Negroes, who were drowned in Tar river on April 17, came to their death through unavoidable accident. Coroner Griffin H. Rouse presided.

The three men and Tony Spain, Negro, and Rudolph Ross, foreman for Blythe Brothers, Charlotte, were in the river to cut down the trees to make clearance for planes taking off and landing at the airfield, when the raft capsized. The contractors paid $100 each for recovery of the bodies.

White Supremacy Issue In Alabama Campaigning

By LEROY SIMMS
Birmingham, Ala., April 21.—(AP)—The racial problem, with its attendant questions of white supremacy and segregation in the south has become one of the prime debate grounds in the current hotly contested race for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Alabama May 2.

Party voters will decide between incumbent Lister Hill, congressional veteran and present Democratic Simpson, campaigning on the slogan "bring local government back home," said the racial issue was raised, not by him, but by the "bureaucrats when they said our right to insist upon segregation of the races here in the south and our refusal to accept social equality is not a local issue but a national issue."

He identified Hill as the "rubber stamp tool and supporter" of the "Washington Bureaucrats."

Hill asserted Simpson was the candidate of selfish "big mule" interests, and that Republicans and "Roosevelt-haters" were the principal Simpson supporters. He said the racial issue was raised as a "smoke screen" to disguise the real issues of the race, and emphasized his support of such "progressive legislation" as the Tennessee Valley Authority Act, and his "constant support of pre-Pearl Harbor preparedness measures."

Hill said Simpson voted against "white supremacy" in the state legislature in 1927. The act in question changed the reading of the Alabama code to classify as Negroes persons of any Negro blood whatever. Prior to 1927, the law provided that persons would be so classified if they had any Negro ancestor within five generations.

"If I had been in the legislature," Hill said, "I would have voted with the late Alf Tunstall (author of the bill) and all other members of the legislature, except one, for white supremacy. That one member who voted against it is my opponent."

Simpson countered that the law had gone unchanged for 100 years to 1927 "and we had gotten along very well under it, as we would be getting along today in the matter of race relationships had not the Washington Bureaucrats and theorists, supported by my opponent, attempted to come to Alabama and handle the race question."

SPAIN YOUTH PLEADS GUILTY MARINE DEATH

Awaits Sentence On Charge Of Manslaughter; Negro Sentenced For Slaying He Committed 10 Years Ago

By CHESTER WALSH
In Superior Court today William Earl Spain, 19, confessed driver of the hit-and-run car that struck and killed Marine Pfc. Raymond A. Hahn, 21, of Allentown, Pa., on the outskirts of this city on the night of April 6, tendered a plea of guilty to hit-and-run and manslaughter. Judge Clawson L. Williams will pronounce sentence later.

The court ordered a verdict of not guilty as to Joe Riggs, 28, a passenger in Spain's car the night of the accident.

Hahn and a companion, Cpl. J. J. Jacobs, Jr., were walking toward the Marine barracks at the old NYA center when Hahn was killed and Jacobs painfully injured. Both Marines were hurled into a ditch. Hahn was dead when picked up. His body was sent to the Marine Air Base. Jacobs was taken to the hospital there.

Law enforcement officers and Marine military police began a search for the driver of the death car shortly after the accident. They traced a clue to William Earl Spain and found him at his home at a rural point two days later, repairing his damaged car. When he and his passenger, Joe Riggs, were taken to police headquarters they confessed and signed a statement.

The men's attorneys entered pleas of not guilty when the case was called in court. The state's testimony, when completed today, was so convicting that Spain's attorney tendered a plea of guilty.

A jury late yesterday returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter against Willie Lennon Edwards, Negro, who was charged with murder in connection with the axe-slaying of Will Cox, Negro farm worker, near a still in the woods in the Chillicothe section in March, 1934. Judge Williams will pronounce sentence.

Japs Reinforce Troops In India

Southeast Asia Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, April 21.—(AP)—With the monsoon less than a month away, the Japanese were reported officially today to be sending reinforcements to the Kohima area in northern India, where a besieged Allied garrison was relieved earlier this week by a column dispatched from Dimapur, 35 miles to the north.

Allied forces, however, were said to be making steady progress in cleaning up roadblocks. The Japanese, who have made several unsuccessful attempts to take Kohima in recent weeks, have lost 400 men in recent fighting around the village, field dispatches said.

At the same time it was disclosed that British and Indian troops had advanced 30 miles northeast of Imphal to a point about 35 miles from Kohima.

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Chinese forces in northern Burma, meanwhile, were advancing steadily southward along the east bank of the mogaung river toward Kamaing, which is about 50 miles west of the important enemy supply base and communications center of Myitkyina.

Across the hills to the east Kachin levies ambushed a force of Japanese on the Myitkyina road.

Jap Bases In Carolines Undergo Aerial Attacks

Central And South-West Pacific Forces Join Hands In Assaults

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, April 21.—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's heavy bombers are spanning the South Pacific with "milk run" regularity to blast Japanese bases in the Caroline Islands.

For three consecutive days, enemy plane installations at Woleai Island, in the western Carolines, and Satawan Island, 150 miles southeast of the key Japanese base at Truk, have trembled under bombs laid by MacArthur's Liberator squadrons.

The South Pacific fliers are leading a potent helping hand to American bombers which strike the Carolines from their central Pacific bases in the Marshall and Gilbert Islands. Army, navy and marine corps aircraft are doing the slugging from both directions.

Since Sunday, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' central Pacific fleet and MacArthur's bomb-layers have hit the Caroline bases in 22 raids. Their explosives have raised smoke pillars on islands from Woleai eastward 150 statute miles to Pingelap.

Some of these blows were hit-and-run snacks by navy search planes; others were heavy attacks considering the vast over-water stretches like the 46-ton blasting given Truk Wednesday night and Thursday morning, Carolines time, by army bombers in Nimitz' command.

(Nimitz' report yesterday of the 46-ton attack on Truk, the 35th assault on the Atoll since the initial navy carrier-planes' raid in mid-February, said that the attackers left fires and explosions on Dubon and Moen islands. Seventh Army (Continued on page four)

TURKEY GIVES IN TO ALLIES

Chrome Shipments to Germany To End Tomorrow

Ankara, April 20.—(AP)—Delayed-Turkish chrome shipments to Germany and her allies will be halted at 7 p. m. tomorrow in response to Allied requests.

Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu announced the government's decision to the national assembly today, explaining that the action was being taken in the light of Turkey's position as an ally of Britain.

He said that formal requests that the chrome shipments be halted had been received April 14 from the British and American governments. The notes, he added, said that Turkey henceforth would be treated as a neutral rather than an ally if she failed to comply.

(Dispatches from London said it was estimated there that Turkey's (Continued on Page Four)

Today On The Home Front

JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, April 21.—(AP)—The latest Army-Navy-Maritime Commission plea for a labor draft is their all-out bid for action by Congress which has cold-shouldered the idea for months.

Until now the agencies have emphasized what they considered the "moral" effect of a labor draft, saying it would boost the spirit of workers at home and troops abroad.

Now they soft-pedaled the morale angle and stress the manpower shortage created by the army draft, giving figures to show why a labor draft is needed to fill the gap.

Labor has consistently condemned the proposal. So has business. After the three agencies made their still blood fiercer against a draft.

Heads of the three agencies called a conference yesterday with some of the most powerful manufacturers and businessmen to hear why they wanted a draft. Then the agencies' public statement was issued.

They did not explain in that statement what kind of draft they favored or how it would be carried out. Later Senator Austin (R-Vt.) also at the meeting, added a verbal footnote. He said the agency heads endorsed at the meeting the labor draft bill he authored months ago. It has been getting nowhere in Congress.

Assaults Near Estonian Border And At Foot of Carpathians Repulsed; Thousands Of Romanians And Germans Drown In Futile Attempt To Escape From Sevastopol

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, April 21.—(AP)—Powerful German tank and infantry attacks have been beaten back by the Red army near the Estonian border town of Narva and at the foot of the Carpathians more than 800 miles to the south, a Soviet communiqué announced today.

The German blows on the Baltic front, which had been quiet for six weeks, were directed against the Russian bridgehead on the west bank of the Narva river southwest of Narva and were preceded by a heavy artillery barrage, the announcement declared.

"The Hitlerites appeared to hope to smash our defenses in one blow, but they miscalculated," the bulletin said. More than 2,000 Germans were officially reported dead on the battlefield and many more slain in repeated attacks.

The German-Hungarian counter-offensive at the foot of the Carpathians, first announced by the Russians two days ago, spread yesterday from the east of Stanislaw to the south, where the Red army was credited with hurling back-furious attacks.

At least 2,300 Axis troops were killed, the communiqué said, but the Germans continued nevertheless to exert "relentless pressure on our positions from two sides" and "violent engagements went on throughout the day."

Grim battles were reported continuing in full swing at the outskirts of besieged Sevastopol, meanwhile, and front dispatches said that thousands of Germans and Romanians drowned in the Black Sea as Soviet bombers and torpedo planes kept up hourly attacks against convoys seeking to reach Romanian ports.

The Russians said bombers sunk two convoys Monday night, sinking a 1,600-ton transport and another of 3,000 tons, and on the following day swooped on two more convoys, sinking a 5,000-ton transport and numerous smaller ships and barges. Axis troops jamming the Sevastopol docks were being pounded by Russian artillery, commanding nearby heights, the dispatches added.

That bill takes in all men between 18 and 65, all women between 18 and 50.

The law—if the bill became law—would not be administered by selective service but by specially created boards. Appeals could be taken clear up to the president.

The penalties would be civilian, not military, and would carry a maximum prison term of 6 months and a $1,000 fine. Trial, of course, would be in court.

Austin said his plan would work like this:

Say there's a manpower shortage in Toledo but suddenly 2,000 men are needed there for a new war job. Calls for volunteers would be sent throughout the area to people in non-essential jobs.

If the call got no results, then the draft would be invoked, locally in that area.

Dennis, supervisor of home economics for the State Department of Public Instruction, were one-day visitors at East Carolina Teachers College yesterday to hold group and individual meetings with members of the home economics staff and upperclassmen specializing in the field.

Activities of the day, planned by Miss Mabel Lacy and Mrs. Ethel R. Waters, federal teachers in vocational home economics at the college, and Miss Katherine Holtzclaw, department head, included not only the conferences and discussion groups, but a luncheon given by the Junior Foods class of Miss Stella Cox, with Miss White and Miss Dennis, staff members, and Mrs. James W. Blank as guests.

In her talk with the students in the morning, Miss White emphasized the fact that an increasing number of fields are being opened to girls trained in home economics, but that teaching continues to be the leading field, and that all other types of home economics work call for some measure of teaching.

In the afternoon the home economics faculty and the two visitors discussed ways of making the curriculum in their field at East Carolina Teachers College more effective, especially in guidance.

Miss White, who is working while in North Carolina, with the State Department of Public Instruction and the two institutions with vocational home economics in the state, went from the college to Woman's College for a similar program.

Falkland H. D. Club Meets

The Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Sistle Peaden of Falkland last Monday evening, with the president, Mrs. Ellen Baker, presiding. Mrs. W. J. Little gave a report on "The Rotation of Crops" in gardening.

The home agent, Miss Joyner, gave a very useful demonstration on "Sewing." Some of the members modeled frocks which they had made, which made us conscious of the fact "It's a wise lady who is capable of and does sew her own wardrobe."

All members have planned to make at least one dress to bring to the next meeting.

Six delegates, Mrs. Ellen Baker, Mrs. O. R. Norville, Mrs. Lewis Moore, Mrs. G. H. Pittman, Mrs. W. J. Little and Mrs. W. M. Wooten will attend the demonstration of the methods of making cheese at home, which will be given in Greenville on Wednesday. The meeting will last all day, and a picnic lunch will be enjoyed.

The president announced the presentation of a program of songs, jokes and music by the famous radio merrymakers, "Mustard and Gravy" in the near future, to be sponsored by the club.

Mrs. W. M. Wooten, vice-president, presented a plan to get underway with the production of a "Womanless Wedding" (or which might prove to be a "Manless Wedding") because of the scarcity of men) to raise funds for the establishment of a community club building which we already have had several donations for and land given. Mrs. W. Wooten and Miss Joyner offered wise suggestions for the production.

A council meeting will be held on Monday night to begin work on the production. The meeting then adjourned and the hostess served cold drinks and ritz. Arrangements of lilac and spirea were used in the home.

Improving.

Friends of Mrs. Forrest Riddick will be glad to learn that she is improving in Pitt General Hospital.

The meeting was then turned over to Miss Joyner, who gave a demonstration on "Finishes for an Attractive and Durable Garment." Mrs. Bernard Nichols assisted in the demonstration. During the social hour sandwiches and drinks were served by the hostesses.

Concerning Books

SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY

An Art Book

In keeping with the Art Festival at the Woman's Club this week the library is featuring a new art book "The Enjoyment of Art in America" by Regina Shackman and Charles E. Slatkin. The book is the annual gift which the End of the Century Book Club makes to the library at this time of the year.

The appearance of this book is highly opportune, now when Americans cannot travel abroad and seek out the masterpieces in Europe, for art is even more vital in time of war than in peace. This having to stay at home has made Americans more acutely aware of their own resources whether natural or cultural. Thrown upon themselves, even while preparing to play a part in the destiny of a world that heretofore was outside of their realm, they begin to keenly appreciate what has been created here in America.

These resources are vast. Culturally speaking, they now suffice to bring America to the front with other and much older nations. The authors of this really excellent new book have taken stock of some of these resources, arranging together a survey of the permanent collections of painting, sculpture, ceramics, and decorative arts in American museum collections.

Although the survey is based on artistic wealth available to the public in this hemisphere alone, readers cannot but be impressed with the breadth and quality of the collections given in this book. Growth has been cumulative. The last few years having witnessed "extraordinary activity in acquisition. Owing to the war, many masterpieces, which otherwise would have remained abroad, have come to this country, some refugees, their owners hoping that they may in time return to their homes. Others have come to remain permanently."

This survey begins with the art of ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia, of Greece and Rome. It swings thence to the Near East (Persia and India and Indonesia) and on to the Far East (China and Japan). Then a return is made to the long period following the fall of the Roman Empire, in the course of which Byzantine art and Romanesque and Gothic art passed through the fluxes and vicissitudes that led to ultimate flowering. The succeeding period of the Renaissance is not treated collectively; instead, the account, at this juncture, deals with a series of schools—Italian, Flemish, Dutch, Spanish, German, French, English, American—their growth, in some instances, studied right through from the earliest activity to that of our own day. The American chapter embraces the art alike of the United States, of Mexico and of Canada—H. L. R.

Women IN THE CHURCH

The present is not the first testing time for the church," said Miss Georgia Harkness, professor in Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., recently. "It has survived many difficult days through the centuries and in spite of grave weaknesses in its human structure, it has carried forward the gospel of Christ. Today in a shattered and divided world it grows in unity and strength. Within it there is already manifest the foretells of a world community."

Sixty new career missionaries are to be selected during the year 1944-45 to serve under the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. in foreign fields. It is announced by the denomination's Board of Foreign Missions, 156 Fifth Ave., New York City. About half of them will be women. These missionaries, most of whom will be found in the schools and colleges, will be assigned to posts in Brazil, Chile, China, Colombia, Guatemala, India, Iran, Mexico, Syria, Venezuela, West Africa. They will include ministers, teachers, doctors, nurses, agricultural and industrial specialists.

When the General Conference of the Methodist Church opens in Kansas City on April 26, in its second quadrennial session, 75 of the 325 lay delegates (there are ministers and laymen in equal numbers) will be women. Since women were first elected to General Conferences of the former Methodist Episcopal Church and the former Methodist Episcopal Church, South (about 20 years ago), there has been a growing number of women chosen each four years. One of the matters before this conference will be the proposal to admit women ministers as members of the annual conferences—the "traveling" ministerial bodies of Methodism.

It was the mother of the famous General Montgomery, of the British army, who years ago founded the Home Mission Union in Tasmania. This is a Church of England society serving the native peoples of various South Sea islands. Its program includes providing clergy for needy parishes, chaplains for lonely islands, and religious ministrations for lighthouses. There are seventy-three Church of England parishes in Tasmania, and they count as members almost half of the population of the area.

Army Needs Nurses And Doctors Now

Medicine, in war time, makes amazing strides forward as new cures are discovered, new treatments worked out. U. S. Army doctors and nurses have been able to establish the record of saving 97½ per cent of all battle casualties treated.

To maintain this record the Army needs more doctors and nurses. Cpl. Elsie Sanford of the local Army recruiting substation said today. Registered nurses may apply for commissions in the Army Nurse Corps through the Red Cross procurement office, Atlanta, Ga., or they may write to the Surgeon General, U. S. Army, Washington 25, D. C. Doctors who wish to serve with the Army may likewise communicate with the Surgeon General.

Working as surgical teams, Army doctors and nurses daily save the lives of American fighting men in field hospitals located only a few miles behind the various fronts. They give the wounded swift attention at an evacuation hospital, move them back to a station hospital, then care for them further, if need be, at one of the big Army general hospitals in the United States.

Army hospitals are equipped with the most modern medical aids in the form of X-ray equipment, sulfadiazine, plasma, and other necessities for saving the lives of wounded men. But most important of all, they have on their staffs some of the nation's most skilled doctors and nurses.

Ayden Airman Awarded Medal

An Eighth AAF Bomber Station England—Staff Sergeant Homer C. Gooding, 25, ball turret gunner on an Eighth AAF Flying Fortress has been awarded the air medal. The decoration was conferred for "exceptionally meritorious achievement, while participating in five separate combat missions over enemy occupied continental Europe."

Staff Sergeant Gooding is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Gooding, of Route 2, Ayden.

Everybody raves about your salads, Peg. What's the secret?

MIRACLE WHIP! Its "different" flavor always makes a hit.

MILLIONS AGREE—Miracle Whip does work wonders with salads! A unique combination of old-fashioned boiled dressing and fine mayonnaise, Miracle Whip is by far America's favorite salad dressing.

M. F.—Military police trainees at Ft. Benning, Ga., voted they'd like to be plucked by Actress Vivian Austin (above).

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

This has been quite an interesting week in Girl-Scouting. The various troops are having no end of fun. Troop 4 enjoyed a ride in Happy Helen yesterday afternoon to see the lovely gardens that have been open to the public. Troop 9 is learning to dance. Look out folks, they'll be having loads of fun on the dance floor one of these days. Troop 8 has started meeting down in the club room at Mrs. Batchelor's and think that they can readily spread out now and have fun. Troop 12 had a cook-out, realizing that eating and putting out a fire are lots of fun. The Brownies are staying out of doors and hiking all over the place. Think they are enjoying these spring days. The college girls are helping our leaders now, and are they attractive, you bet! They are a swell bunch of girls and the scouts really do appreciate their cooperation. Miss Nell Stallings has been kind enough to help Mrs. Frank Bendall with her scouts and will have some real new experiences with a little activity directed by a college professor. Oh Boy!

The Leaders' Training Course is over, and what a swell group of sessions we did have, thanks to Mrs. Underwood. She's a swell instructor, if you didn't already know that. Our new leaders as well as old ones, got quite a bit of inside dope on how to run these ever growing scouts and how to cope with their inattention and lack of interest. Look out folks, these leaders are going to show some of us mothers up. Power to them! The following persons attended these sessions: Mrs. J. M. Basart, Mrs. J. G. Riddick, Mrs. Paul Batchelor, Mrs. Norman Scrivener, Mrs. W. F. Young, Mrs. R. B. Lee, Mrs. J. T. Cheatham, Mrs. L. B. Ward, Misses Ella Tucker Smith and Nell Stallings.

The regular monthly meeting of the Greenville Girl Scout Council met on Tuesday afternoon in the scout offices, having a very informal and enlightening session. The following members were present: Mrs. E. L. Henderson, Mrs. W. P. Moore, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Mrs. Paul Batchelor, Mrs. A. B. Cosby, Mrs. H. L. Ormond, Mrs. J. T. Uzzle. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. E. L. Henderson. The treasurer made her report, stating that Happy Helen had been repaired and was in running order. The various committees made their reports, with Camp taking the floor. Twenty-one applications to Camp Hardee have already been filed in the Scout office, and a great deal of enthusiasm is being felt among the scouts. Greenville Scouts were urged to get their applications in before their desired time has been filled by someone else. Half of the first period is already full. Our training course was highly praised and thanks was sent to Mrs. Sam Underwood for teaching the course. The many activities of the council were reviewed and the council feels that we are progressing in a most profitable manner. The meeting was adjourned by the Commissioner to meet again the third Tuesday in May, the 16th, at which time our field adviser, Miss Fannie Funderburke will be present. A full attendance was urged to come and hear what the regional office has in store for us.—Reported.

Lutheran Pastor To Be Installed

The members of Calvary Lutheran Church, meeting at 218 Pitt street, will welcome their new pastor, the Rev. Erwin H. Goltermann, on Sunday, April 23. Formal installation services will be held in Kingston at Faith Lutheran Church, 511 N. Independence street, the pastor also serving that congregation. The service is at 11 a. m.

The Rev. J. L. Summers, of Charlotte, director of home missions, will officiate. The Rev. Robert Landeck, former pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church, will deliver the address. Visiting clergymen of the adjacent territory will assist in the rite of installation.

The Rev. Mr. Goltermann comes to Greenville from Hancock, Maryland, where he was pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. He is a graduate of Concordia College and Military Academy, Fort Wayne, Indiana, and of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1940. One year was spent in the field gaining practical experience at Buhl, Idaho, before graduation from the seminary in June of 1943.

Ladies of both congregations are making special preparations for a pot-luck dinner and informal party immediately after the service.

Pastor Goltermann succeeds Pastor Landeck who recently accepted a call to Ebenezer Lutheran Church in Greensboro. During the vacancy at Calvary Chapel Mr. Frank Freese, representing the Lutheran Church to service men and women stationed at the various forts and bases of this area, conducted the services.

Strike Halts Work At Canadian Plant

Windsor, Ont., April 21.—(AP)—Picket lines ringed the huge Ford Motor Company of Canada plant here today as plant operations were at a standstill, with about 14,000 employees affected. The work stoppage started yesterday when day-shift workers left their jobs at 11 A. M. for a "half holiday" in a protest over grievance procedure.

A little later the company notified the union—Local 206 of the United Automobile Workers of America—that it was terminating the collective bargaining agreement in effect here since Jan. 15, 1942.

The company said in a statement the "general strike" was a breach of that contract. Ford's president, Wallace R. Campbell, asked police to break up the picket lines, calling the "strike" illegal, but police said no additional officers would be sent to the plant until "the strike has been proven illegal."

DSM Is Awarded To Lt. Gen. Aaker

Allied Headquarters, Naples, April 21.—(AP)—The distinguished service medal was awarded to Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker today for outstanding work as chief of the American air forces in Britain prior to his coming to the Mediterranean theater.

Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, Allied deputy commander-in-chief in this theater, described the Mediterranean air commander as "foremost among our great air force leaders."

Drydock Christened Wilmington, N. C., April 21.—(AP)—The USS ARDC-1, first floating drydock to be built on the east coast, was christened here yesterday.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

POWER REQUIRES TURBULENCE

Only streams with strong turbulent currents admit of power development. The placid stream which winds its way through green meadows is beautiful to contemplate, but it has no power possibilities. To have power, one must have fall. It takes plunging water to make the wheels turn.

It is no with our lives. We develop our greatest power at the point where circumstances are most turbulent. It is when life hangs in the balance, or honor is at stake, that every power within us is marshalled for rescue or self-defense. The physical processes which fight disease are heightened by the presence of infection. Trouble beats some people down and disqualifies them for the struggle of life, but most people, after they have passed through trouble, look back and see that it has taught them great lessons. They would never have developed their full powers had it not been for that grilling experience of misfortune which developed power at the point where the torrent was most fierce.

We can be sure that life is a school, and such being the case, hard lessons are given us not to make us suffer but to make us wise. We do our best when that best is imperatively demanded. We develop power where the waters plunge headlong.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Sometimes Congress can't see beyond the end of its nose. The example at hand is the increase in the cost of post office money orders (as high as 66 per cent in some cases) voted in the recent Revenue bill.

If the House ways and means committee glibly estimated that the increase in the cost of local postage stamps and money orders would bring an additional revenue of $38,000,000 a year. The government has a monopoly on the sale of stamps and, for the most part, for services rendered thereunder. It doesn't have any monopoly on money orders. Its principal hold on this most lucrative source of post office profits was that it could safely transmit money in certain amounts as economically as any private agency.

In those certain amounts, that may no longer be true. When the government realizes banks can supply the same service for less cost, the money order profits may nose dive.

The first reports on the new revenue bill won't come in until the middle of May and then only from the larger cities, but so positive are post office officials that their highly profitable money order business has been dealt a serious blow, they already are revamping the whole system.

What is proposed is the issuance of "postal notes"—similar to travelers' checks. By buying these blanks "in bloc," the cost would be reduced to compete with those banks which now perform the same service for about half the charge.

Advocates of the new system don't figure the profits would come so much from increased sales as in the reduction of manpower. It's estimated the post office and general accounting office, where all money orders must now be audited, could save something like 600 jobs by the proposed streamlining.

The study of the money order system to eliminate personnel has been started before Congress tossed the business into the laps of the banks.

Some post office officials here don't think that the mid-May report will give any true picture, principally because there's an old statute on the books which prevents private enterprise from competing with the post office. While there is no record of its having been involved for decades, it has prevented private enterprise from advertising specific services in competition to those performed by the post office.

America and Britain. Indeed, it may fit the truism that world peace depends on cooperation among the big three—America, Britain and Russia. However, the orientation towards Moscow is evident and it will be surprising if, among others, Poland, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Finland and Romania don't know how to sue in due course.

In the present phase of the battle for Sevastopol, the Admiral declared, the Red fleet has "ships of all classes" at its disposal while the Germans possess nothing larger than a destroyer.

Southwest of Tarnopol in the western Ukraine minor battles of local importance were reported yesterday, with the Russians capturing several villages, taking prisoners and destroying about a battalion of German infantry.

More Executions

San Salvador, April 21.—(AP)—The government, striking back at supporters of an abortive uprising April 17 against President Maximino Hernandez Martinez, announced last night that 15 more persons, 10 of them civilians, had been executed.

Ten army officers, whom the government said had participated in the two-day revolt, had been executed previously.

Opposition To Training Plan

Philadelphia, April 21.—(AP)—Opposition to various proposals for universal military training in the United States after the war on the grounds that it conflicts with the eighth point of the Atlantic Charter was expressed today in a letter from the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of Friends to President Roosevelt and members of Congress.

The letter says, "The last point of the Atlantic Charter ends 'X X X' they will likewise aid and encourage all other practicable measures which will lighten for peace-loving peoples the crushing burden of armaments."

"We believe that the passage now of provisions for post-war conscription would be a tragic blow to the hopes held out by the Moscow declaration and by the Senate resolution, both of which looked forward to establishing at the earliest practicable date a general international organization X X X for the maintenance of international peace and security."

"But most of all, we believe that universal conscription is not the way to organize society nor to promote democracy. It is inimical to the freest expression of high religion."

WAR and POLITICS

Never in the history of our State or Nation have our people faced such a critical period as that which we are now passing through, or such uncertainty as to what the future will bring. These are days that truly try the souls of men.

Since the founding of this country more than 150 years ago, there has never been a period in our history when the task at hand and the job ahead was more important. America today has as its primary duty, the successful prosecution of the war until complete victory has been attained, and to this task we have dedicated our all!

One frequently hears the expression that war and politics do not mix, that they do not go hand in hand. But they do mix. One of the foundation stones of the American way of life and of our democratic processes of government is the right to vote.

It is the sacred right of every American to cast his ballot at the polls. That is one of the rights for which our boys are fighting on the far-flung battle fronts today—the freedom of the ballot.

Like the freedom of speech, the freedom of the press and the freedom of assembly, it is a privilege which has been lost in dictator-ridden countries. Can you imagine what America would be like, what North Carolina would be like, if the men and women who are sovereign citizens could not go periodically to the polls to express their wishes as to what men shall lead them and what policies shall affect their destiny?

North Carolina voters will go to the polls on May 27 in a primary election which will determine who is to be North Carolina's next Governor. This will be perhaps the most important voting day in our State in half a century or longer. Why? Because the man who occupies the office of Governor of North Carolina in the next four-year period will probably be faced with more problems seriously affecting the future welfare of our State than have been faced by any Governor in many a decade.

The man who can best serve North Carolina in this critical period ahead is Gregg Cherry.

There are numerous reasons why he is the man and why you should cast your vote for him.

Important Reasons Why You Should Support Gregg Cherry

1. Gregg Cherry is a self-made man. He came up the hard way. Orphaned early in life, he had to work for what he achieved. He had to work for his education, and therefore knows the true value and importance of education.

2. Gregg Cherry served overseas in World War One as a machine gun company captain. He and his men were under fire many times. He knows first hand many of the problems North Carolina's returning veterans must face, because he faced them himself 25 years ago when he was a returning veteran. No man could be more truly capable of sympathetically working to help North Carolina's service men in meeting their problems in the transition period than is Gregg Cherry.

3. He is an experienced legislator, having served with distinction in every session of the North Carolina General Assembly since 1931, having held numerous important committee assignments and chairmanships and being a former Speaker of the House of the General Assembly (1937).

4. Gregg Cherry is a friend of the common man... he understands his problems. As a man and a statesman he has dealt with the problems of our people in all walks of life. His ability to understand all groups of people, and his record is evidence of his deep-seated interest in the welfare of our State as a whole. Gregg Cherry has the courage of his convictions.... demagoguery and irresponsible promises are completely foreign to his nature. He has in ample measure the qualifications North Carolina expects and deserves in her Governor.

Chapter 19

While Fritz entered the apartment house to enlist the services of the concierge in helping Schaefer to his apartment, Adrienne for the first time caught sight of a bulky looking man standing on the sidewalk, watching the car. Though she could not see his features he seemed vaguely familiar to her in outline. A sudden fear seized her like a cold hand clutching her heart. This was one of the men who had formerly watched the Cafe Dragon Rouge. Strange that he should be observing the arrival of Schaefer's car. It was unfortunate, as he had undoubtedly been a witness to Schaefer's condition, which might arouse his suspicions. She wondered if he had been spying outside the Cafe du Barry and had seen her enter the car.

Her train of thought was interrupted by the appearance of Fritz. He inquired in French with a marked accent to know where Mademoiselle would like to be driven. Adrienne gave the address of Madame Dupont's apartment on the Rue de Valenciennes, and Fritz took his seat at the wheel. Looking about her for the man who had been watching the car, she saw he had disappeared. Fraulein Augusta Lange, fatigued by a difficult day at her office, had retired early in her little apartment on the Rue St. Honore, when she was aroused by the phone ringing at her bedside. Sitting up, she reached for the receiver and was greeted by a voice speaking in German. "This is Adolf Guggenheimer speaking. Fraulein, I have some information for you regarding the young woman whose movements you desired me to watch. May I see you at once, Fraulein?"

"If you are in this vicinity, Adolf come here in five minutes."

Fraulein Lange had learned the art of performing daily tasks with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of effort. So that by the time the door bell rang, she was fully dressed and immediately ushered Guggenheimer into the small living room.

"Now, Adolf," she said crisply. "Let me have your news."

She motioned to the man to sit down. The red faced Nazi, who had a wholesome respect for the capability of Fraulein Lange, held his hat in his hands and met her searching gaze with his small shifty eyes. Hastily he narrated the happenings of the evening, of his having seen Herr Schaefer carried to his car in an intoxicated condition from the Cafe du Barry on the Boulevard des Italiens by the patron of the Cafe and his own chauffeur. Of Adrienne entering the car and of his following them to Schaefer's apartment on the Champs Elysees.

Fraulein Lange's brows were knit in perplexity as the story progressed. Now and then she inserted a question. "You say Mlle. Girard walked in the car with the concierge and Fritz took Herr Schaefer into his apartment?"

"Yes Fraulein. Then Fritz came back and drove the French girl to an apartment on the Rue du Valenciennes."

"You followed them?"

Guggenheimer nodded. "Yes Fraulein."

"You have done well, Adolf. You can go now. In the morning you will receive further instructions."

When the man had gone, Augusta Lange found his story had given her sufficient food for thought. Some aspects of it puzzled her. It seemed strange that Herr Schaefer, who though fond of his beer and wine, was not given to drinking to excess. Why should he have become so thoroughly intoxicated as to be unable to walk? She knew he regarded his work as too important to permit such lapses. To her the affair had a strange aspect, and she determined to investigate it. Her brain too active to relax, it was long before she slept.

Herr Schaefer awakening from his condition of drugged torpor, was perplexed to find himself in bed in his apartment and roused to a sitting posture to glance at the clock on his bedside table. The hands pointed at 8 o'clock. With a feeling of bewilderment he pressed the button on the wall near the bed. His valet, Otto, a solemn faced blond young German entered. Did Herr Schaefer want his bath water now? Would he order what he wanted for breakfast?

"Never mind that for the present," roared the irate agent. "Send Fritz here immediately."

The man withdrew. After a short interval Fritz appeared.

"What happened last night at the cafe, Fritz?" demanded his master. "How did I get here? The last thing I remember was sitting opposite Mlle. Girard drinking champagne."

Fritz's immobile face did not change. "That I am unable to tell you Herr Schaefer. All I can say is that I was summoned by the proprietor of the Cafe du Barry to assist him in carrying you out to the car."

"It sounds incredible," murmured Schaefer. "I must have mixed my drinks badly. It is the first time such a thing has happened. Did Mademoiselle Girard accompany me in the car?"

"Yes sir, I drove the Fraulein home afterwards."

"That is all I wanted to know. Hand me my jacket. Then you may go."

When the man had closed the door behind him Schaefer thrust his hand in the breast pocket of his jacket and relief overspread his face as he drew out the leather folder. He opened it and examined the list. It fortunately had not been tampered with. However, on a second examination, he was not so certain. It seemed there clung to it the faintest suggestion of a delicate perfume.

On closer scrutiny he noticed one of the sheets of folded paper was slightly bent at the corner as if it had been replaced in the case. Was it possible that this clever French girl had double crossed him? Even though the thought enraged him, he could not entirely suppress an unwilling admiration for her audacity and resourcefulness. How useful would such a woman be to him if her services could be relied on. But this he knew was impossible. The matter should be sifted to the bottom.

The bell of the bedside phone interrupted his thoughts. On answering he recognized Fraulein Lange's voice.

"If it is convenient, I should like to see you, Herr Schaefer. I have some news that may prove of interest to you."

"Ach," ejaculated the agent with satisfaction. "That is good. In an hour's time then Fraulein."

He replaced the receiver and pressing the bell summoned Otto again to attend to his bath and breakfast.

Chapter 20

Entering the luxuriously furnished reception room of Schaefer's apartment, Augusta Lange found him dressed with his usual care and reclining in an easy chair smoking a cigarette. Beside him on a table were the morning papers and some German periodicals. However his night's dissipation was evident in the heaviness and redness of his eyes and in a certain languor that seemed to have replaced his customary energy and vigor.

He received her civilly, but somewhat curiously and asked her to sit down. Fraulein Lange had sufficient knowledge of human nature in general and of Schaefer's character in particular to proceed with wariness and tact. She began by affirming Adrienne's connection with the underground movement, also mentioning the name of Raoul de Lamothe, who was employed in a chemist shop and reported to play an active part in the movement.

"I have been given already to understand this," retorted Schaefer, his light blue eyes fixed on her coldly. "But lack definite proofs. Have you any to supply, Fraulein Lange?"

She evaded this direct question. "Before going any further Herr Schaefer, I will admit I have had Mlle. Girard's movements followed since receiving a wire addressed to her which we were able to intercept. I have brought a copy of it to show you."

Opening her bag she produced the copy of the wire she previously had shown Von Exert, and put it in the agent's hand. He read it carefully, his brows knitted in thought. Observing him she felt exultingly that she had scored a point. He did not speak for a moment.

"So," he exclaimed frowning angrily. "The munition worker has managed to give us the slip after all."

"You know then, this man signing himself Jean, Herr Schaefer?" She spoke eagerly.

"It is my business, Fraulein. I know these things," came the cryptic reply. The agent's mind was now clear enough to function with its usual logic. He saw it was useless to attempt to deceive the astute Fraulein Lange in regard to the events of the previous night, of which she no doubt had been informed. Suddenly his attitude changed to one which instinctively he knew to be more friendly.

"Since you have proved yourself so faithful in your work for the Reich, Fraulein Lange, I will confess to you that I am trying to solve at present the riddle of my becoming so easily intoxicated last night after a few glasses of champagne. Possibly I may have been somewhat careless in mixing my drinks but it seems strange that I should become unconscious, of my surroundings that I can remember nothing but my final glass of champagne until this morning."

Yet Adolf Guggenheimer who saw Mlle. Girard enter your car after they had carried you to it claims that she appeared to have drunk nothing at all. Fraulein Lange's eyes were fixed significantly on his.

There is a possible explanation Herr Schaefer. It sounds to me as if you had been drugged. You will recall the fact that Mademoiselle's friend, Raoul de Lamothe is employed in a chemist shop."

A light suddenly broke over the agent's face and his eyes flashed angrily.

"But how could that be possible? How could anything be put in my champagne when I was sitting opposite her?"

"You did not leave her at all?" questioned Fraulein Lange.

"Wait a moment Fraulein. Yes, it seems to me I did for a very short time."

"What happened last night at the cafe, Fritz?" demanded his master. "How did I get here? The last thing I remember was sitting opposite Mlle. Girard drinking champagne."

Fritz's immobile face did not change. "That I am unable to tell you Herr Schaefer. All I can say is that I was summoned by the proprietor of the Cafe du Barry to assist him in carrying you out to the car."

"It sounds incredible," murmured Schaefer. "I must have mixed my drinks badly. It is the first time such a thing has happened. Did Mademoiselle Girard accompany me in the car?"

"Yes sir, I drove the Fraulein home afterwards."

"That is all I wanted to know. Hand me my jacket. Then you may go."

When the man had closed the door behind him Schaefer thrust his hand in the breast pocket of his jacket and relief overspread his face as he drew out the leather folder. He opened it and examined the list. It fortunately had not been tampered with. However, on a second examination, he was not so certain. ## NEGRO SCHOOL PRESIDENT SPEAKS AT COLLEGE

President Harold L. Trigg of the State Teachers College for Negroes at Elizabeth City, spoke Wednesday night at East Carolina Teachers College on means of cultivating better relations between the races and the outstanding record made by North Carolina in this field. He was the guest of the Social Science fraternity of the college.

President Trigg sketched what he described as his "frame of reference" for his discussion of North Carolina as an example of what can be done to further understanding and tolerance between the races. For this background he pointed out that the problem is in essence one of economics, and declared that any group or class of people who are insecure economically are a danger to society.

"Nothing takes the place of the necessities of life," he said. "The man who is common prey, is the one who is cold and hungry, whether he is white or black."

If two groups are to live side by side in peace, he said, the stronger must recognize the innate capacity of the weaker one to grow and then must guide the growth. This, North Carolina has done, in education, he declared, and by it has set a pattern for all regions where two or more people must live side by side.

The speaker was introduced by M. L. Wright, head of the department of Sociology.

It won't be necessary to arrest him immediately," August Lange's remark held an air of knowing as she did the methods of the Gestapo. "But it might be advisable to cross-question her and detain her in custody."

"That is a good suggestion," declared Schaefer after a moment's thought. "I will ask Dr. Fischer of the civil administration to look in on me."

Adrienne left the apartment house on the Rue de Valenciennes at a much later hour than morning, then was her custom and found herself confronted by a tall lean man with a hard expression about his thin lipped mouth. Advancing towards her he said calmly: "You are Adrienne Girard?"

She nodded, hiding her inward misgiving under a semblance of indifference. "Yes, what do you want?"

"You will come with me Mlle. Girard," he said tersely laying a heavy hand on her arm. "You are to accompany me to Gestapo headquarters. It is an order from Herr Schaefer."

"Let me go," she said in a defiant voice. "I will come if you, but do not touch me, or I will report you to Herr Schaefer."

Somewhat taken aback at her assumption of authority, the man released her arm and directed her towards a waiting car.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The war stories I like best, Judge, are the ones by the special writers overseas who live right with our troops. They give us a better idea of how our men react to things going on over there and back here at home."

"I agree with you, Sam. I never miss one of those stories in the papers or magazines. And there's one thing those writers seem to agree on no matter where they are stationed with our men—that is that the men who have left their homes and families to go away and fight this war don't want to come back and find that prohibition has been put over on them while they were away... either nationally or locally. They have heard about the attempts being made and they resent it bitterly."

"I agree with them, Judge, even though I don't happen to drink myself. Furthermore, I don't think it's fair for us at home to be making any major changes while 10,000,000 of our fighting men are away and have no chance to express their opinions."

PHANTOMS WIN FROM TARBORO

Local Highs Take Visitors By Score Of 7 to 3

Allowing the Tarboro nine only four hits yesterday the G. H. S. Phantoms won their first baseball game of the season 7 to 3 at the Guy Smith stadium.

Morgan took the mound for the locals and held Tarboro hitless for almost five innings while his team mates accounted for five runs. Greenville's first score came in the second after Williams beat out an infield hit and Perkins got to first on a fielder's choice which failed to get Williams out at second. Morgan hit to center driving in both runners. The Phantoms added three more runs to their 2-1 lead in the third with Lupton, Leggett, and Williams getting a hit and crossing the plate. Lupton came in on Williams' hit to center and Leggett caught the Tarboro hurler napping and stole home with the pitcher standing in the box. Leggett again scored for the locals in the sixth.

One of the most exciting moments of the game came in the seventh, when "Chubby" Puttrell, Greenville short-stop planted the ball beautifully over the left field fence with nobody on base for the Phantoms' final score.

Tarboro got one run in the third and two in the fifth.

Morgan pitched for Greenville until the fifth when he was replaced by Humbles allowing Tarboro only two hits in his stay on the mound. In the eighth Dick Fye replaced Humbles and finished the game for the locals.

Harold Williams led the Phantoms' hitting with three safeties for four trips to the plate. Lupton and Leggett accounted for two hits each for four trips at bat.

Propose Change In Flue Cured Quotas

Washington, April 21—(AP)—Flue-cured tobacco growers will be granted greater leeway in exceeding their acreage allotment if Congress adopts a measure approved yesterday by the Senate Agriculture committee.

Revising a house-passed bill, the committee provided for a tolerance of 1-5 of an acre of tobacco or 7 per cent above a grower's acreage allotment for the 1944-45 crop.

A statement issued by the committee said this means that a grower in the flue-cured areas of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida would not be considered to have violated his quota "if he does not plant more than 1-5 of an acre or 7 per cent above his allotted acreage, whichever is greater."

Pay Increases For Textile Workers

Memphis, April 21.—(AP)—Some 40,000 employees of 110 combed yarn spinning mills in five southern states today will begin receiving in their pay envelopes a booklet showing the direct relation of the goods they manufacture to military equipment on the battlefronts.

The National Cotton Council, announcing yesterday distribution of the 32-page booklet "to build morale and boost production," observed: "Textile production today is 20 per cent under two years ago, creating a situation that is causing serious concern to the War Production Board and the nation's armed services."

The council prepared the booklet in collaboration with the Southern Combed Yarn Spinners Association. It will go to workers in Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas.

has generally been quiet, the Germans have been reacting sharply to every Allied move, apparently apprehensive of an attack. One such Allied movement Wednesday night drew a heavy concentration of artillery fire.

On the same night an American destroyer patrolling off the beachhead, intercepted four E-boats, probably sending one of them to the bottom and probably damaging another.

The German shells Ortona heavily and threw a harassing fire over other sectors of the Adriatic front. A number of new German gunboats northeast of Tollo were discovered by patrols, who killed two sentries and returned to their lines.

Heavy artillery duels raged again in the Cassino area where patrols also were very active. About 19 German planes were observed over the battlefronts yesterday.

Major Action . . .

After being rebuilt the railway would provide an overland communication route, independent of menaced sea routes, either for offensive action or to withdraw troops south of the Yangtze in event of a successful American landing in south China.

Fanning out in three main columns in an offensive launched April 18, the Japanese evidently were aiming at throwing a strong wedge about Chenchow (Chenchow), a former strategic junction of the Peking-Hankow line running south and the Lunghai railway running east and west just south of the Yellow river.

One column striking from Chung-mow, on the Lunghai to the east, reached a village eight miles south-east of Chenchow, and two others crossed the railway about 20 miles south of Chenchow.

Aside from seizure of communications, the Japanese were believed bent upon securing the rich wheat crop now ripening in Honan.

This crop is one of the staples of Chinese who in 1943 suffered the ravages of one of the worst famines in China's long famine history, and who subsequently were afflicted by plagues of locusts and floods.

Chenchow is just east of where the Chinese in 1933 dynamited the Yellow river dykes and diverted the Yellow river on a southward course and checked the Japanese advance. Chenchow was once the center of a thriving population of 100,000 and is in the heart of the Yellow river Loess belt—the friable yellow soil in which both sides have cut deep trench systems. Since 1941 the defenders and invaders have been facing one another as close as 40 yards.

The Chinese also have dug extensive tank traps across the fields, which in places have been cut by roads 60 feet deep as the result of centuries of wheeled traffic.

The spokesman said the present fighting was the most serious since the Japanese were beaten back in the battle of Chenchow last year in the drive on Changsha south of the Yangtze.

Officers Arrest . . .

from each defendant broadened the case and led to additional arrests.

The two white men held under bonds of $1,000 each in the case are Clarence Salter and C. T. Midvett of New Bern. Salter is charged in several indictments with receiving the stolen liquor from the theft ring and Midvett is charged with storing a portion of the liquor for Salter.

The theft ring itself was headed by John W. (Doc) Baysaw, a legless Negro, native of Georgia, but who gives his present address as Kingston and New Bern. Baysaw is alleged to have mapped the robberies for members of the ring and in many cases to have supervised the robberies despite his physical handicap. The other Negroes are Herman Best of Black Jack (Pitt county); Johnnie Jones, Alvin Hedge, Earl Atkins, Samana Hill, Leroy Lewis, Robert Lee Workman, Raleigh Henderson, Thomas Henry, Johnnie Banks, John White, James Douglas, John Morris, James Lofton of New Bern, and Fred Ellison, formerly of New Bern, but now serving a term in prison following recent conviction in Craven county.

The information gained from the defendants reveals that they robbed the following ABC stores:

Winstonburg on December 31 and March 19; Jamesville on January 27; Creswell, April 7; Vanceboro, February 29 and March 11; Bethel, March 26 and Bailey March 29. The robbery of three other ABC stores in this section, Black Creek, February 9; Roxobel, March 15, and Powellsville, March 18, have not definitely been charged against those now under arrest pending further evidence. In addition to robbery of the ABC stores, trucks were stolen by the gang at Wendell March 26, and Spring Hope April 1, and an automobile at Bethel March 26. In each instance the vehicles, when located by the officers, were minus of their original tires and the automobile had been repainted. One of the trucks was burned in the woods near New Bern after its tires and the motor had been removed. One of the Negroes arrested had the truck motor in his car at the time of the arrest.

Records reveal that all told the robberies cost the ABC stores 277 cases of liquor, which, based on statements of the Negroes as to wholesale prices they received, netted the robbers $9,200. Based on the same statements, the re-handlers of the liquor disposed of it for $17,675. The value of the stolen vehicles was placed at approximately $1,500.

Baysaw, leader of the ring, is now in jail in Nashville and the other Negroes are in jail in Pitt and Craven counties. Some of the cases are expected to be called up for hearing here next week before Judge Clawson L. Williams, who is presiding over a criminal term of Superior Court.

bombed again and declared that casualties were high. The raid was said to have lasted from midnight until 2 a. m.

The northern suburbs were particularly hard hit and several quarters were razed, the broadcast said. It added that delayed action bombs were hampering rescue work.

The American Flying Fortress assault, carried out just before sunset, yesterday climaxed the greatest daylight air blows ever delivered against enemy-occupied territory and apparently caught the Germans by surprise. Returning bomber crews reported no German fighter opposition, although considerable anti-aircraft fire was encountered.

The raiders were escorted by American fighter planes, which were credited with destroying four enemy aircraft and shooting up others on the ground. American losses, a communiqué said, were nine heavy bombers.

American medium marauders also struck at targets in France twice yesterday. More than 150 of the twin-engine craft dropped approximately 500 tons of bombs on northern France early in the afternoon and then returned just before dark.
