American Bombers Blast France Today Following RAF Night Attacks On Burning Cologne; Italy-Based Bombers Smashed At Balkan Targets Yesterday

By W. W. HERCHER
London, April 22—(AP)—American Marauders and Havocs in strength attacks military targets in northern France today, carrying forward the Allies' biggest aerial offensive from Britain into its fifth day following a night strike against burning Cologne by RAF Mosquitos.

The medium Marauders and light, fast Havocs were covered by swarms of RAF Spitfires and Allied fighters in the cross-channel attack, many squadrons of U. S. Thunderbolt fighters also were observed in the air.

The attack by the medium and light bombers on the cross-channel objectives, which have been hit every day this week by Britain-based planes of all types, apparently formed only part of today's striking force.

Other bomber formations were seen winging their way to the continent, continuing the thunderous bombardment which saw no diminution as the hours passed.

The morning flights soared out even as Allied headquarters in Naples was announcing a blow by Liberators Friday against strategic Balkan railway yards at Bucharest and Turnu Severin 170 miles west of the Romanian capital. Thirty-five Nazi planes were wrecked, while the Mediterranean air force lost eight heavy bombers and more other planes in all its flights Friday.

All the Mosquitos returned safely from the Cologne raid, as did other planes that laid "many mines," the air ministry said.

There was no indication of the force of the Mosquito attack, but the RAF sometimes has sent more than 50 of the wooden bombers loaded with two-ton blockbusters against similar targets.

Cologne, one of the most important railroad centers of western Germany, still was afire yesterday from 1,800 tons of bombs poured on it by British Lancasters and Halifaxes Thursday night in a 5,000-ton assault against four key rail centers.

Mosquitos now have ranged over Germany 11 nights this month, bombing Cologne and Berlin three and Hannover twice.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
With the European campaign verging on the climactic amphibious invasion—an operation which will call for a greater mass of sea and air equipment than ever before employed—it's a heartening circumstance that the Allies have the strength in southeastern Asia to stage Wednesday's naval-aerial assault on the northwest point of Sumatra and on neighboring Sabang.

Now lest this give too rosy a hue to the situation in the Asiatic theater, it should be said at once that the attack on Sumatra wasn't a major operation. It required major strength, because it was an advance into supposedly strongly held enemy waters, but the action itself wasn't in the big league class. It caused great damage to Japanese port facilities, shipping and aircraft, but its chief importance lies in the fact that Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten was able to stage it at all.

This raid doesn't necessarily pre-empt any major amphibious operations by Mountbatten in the immediate future. Another three weeks or so will see the start of the Monsoon season, making landing operations extremely precarious if not impossible. Furthermore, while we know the admiral has both sea and air strength, we don't know that he has the landing equipment nec-

INDIAN FRONT IS FAVORABLE

Allies Reported Prepared To Meet Any Jap Threat

By THOBURN WIAAT
Southwest Asia Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, April 22—(AP)—Allied headquarters today declared its forces were prepared to meet any Japanese threat in the Imphal and Kohima areas of eastern India where infantry and tanks continued to push outward from the Manipur plain and that the "situation continues to develop favorably."

There was no further report of Japanese activities in the Kohima area, 60 miles north of Imphal and 35 miles southeast of the Bengal-Assam railway, where enemy reinforcements were reported yesterday.

(A Dome broadcast from Tokyo declared Japanese forces had stormed and taken Moirang, 24 miles south of Imphal on the west shore of Loktak lake, on April 18, describing the village as a "strategic enemy bastion which guarded the southern gateway into the Imphal basin.")

"Waves of Indo-Japanese soldiers surged over strongly fortified pillboxes," the broadcast said. It declared the British had concentrated 10,000 men from the 23rd division on the defense of that sector, as well as many guns and tanks.

Divebombers aiding the Allied cleanup campaign northeast of Imphal where the British, at last report, had pushed the enemy back to a point 30 or 35 miles from the town, were reported inflicting heavy losses on the Japanese.

At Bishampur, on the road leading westward from the plain to Sincar, Imphal's nearest rail head, further Japanese attacks were repulsed, the communique said. This railroad runs from Calcutta north-east to Assam and pumps the lifeblood into L. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's north Burma offensive and the 14th air force activities of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault in China.

The main effort of the Japanese previously has been to the north in the direction of Dimapur on the same line.

Stilwell's Chinese were still advancing slowly southward toward the rail town of Mogoke in an effort to cut off Myitkya, chief Japanese base in northern Burma and (Continued on page two)

Supt. J. H. Rose was notified today that J. N. Williams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Noah Williams, will head the Phi Beta Kappa chapter at the University of North Carolina. This honor is accorded the top ranking scholar in the Phi Beta Kappa group; and, therefore, the top ranking scholar in the university. Williams, in high school "J. He is majoring in chemistry at the University of North Carolina. Supt. Rose said today "that 'J. N.' is one of the finest characters and scholars that Greenville High School has ever graduated."

AIR BLOWS ON JAP POSITIONS

Central And Southwest Pacific Bases Pounded

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, April 22—(AP)—Sustained air blows against Dutch New Guinea, the western and central Caroline Islands were reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

For the fourth straight day, his communique listed a long over-water hop by Liberators from the Solomons for a bombing of Satawan in the central Carolines to the southeast of Truk. For the third straight day, it told of bombing attacks on Woleai in the western Carolines and on plane bases in the Geelvink bay area of Dutch New Guinea.

The latest 48 tons of explosives which cratered Satawan airbase raised the four-day total to 144 tons for that pin point target.

In the raid reported today on Woleai two parked planes were destroyed and the communique said two others were destroyed on the island. The raiders dropped 32 tons of bombs.

Runways and areas where planes are dispersed were hit Thursday by 24 tons of bombs at two enemy airbases on Noemfoor island in Geelvink bay. To the southeast, a Liberator sank a loaded 1,000-ton supply ship near Hollandia and planes attacked short installations as far as the Madang area.

Rabaul, New Britain, took its daily pounding from Solomons-based bombers, with 45 tons of explosives scattered over airbase supply areas.

Says State Must Aid War Veterans

Winston-Salem, April 22—(AP)—"If the federal government fails to provide for financing education of veterans, then the state must take full responsibility to do so," Governor-elect Candidate Gregg Cherry told the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce today.

"No North Carolinian," he said, "must be deprived of his education or training because he fought for his country at a time when he hoped to have been pursuing his education. The state must use all of its facilities for service in easing and speeding the restoration of the returning veterans to profitable and pleasant employment."

Says New Monetary Plan Should Be Effected New

Hull Wants Proposed Stabilization Program Put Into Operation Before End Of The War

Washington, April 22—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull, launching progress made toward the creation of an international stabilization fund by treasury technicians of the United Nations, today urged that such a program be put into operation before the end of the war.

Agreement of the technicians on broad outlines for a gold-based, $8,000,000,000 stabilization fund to promote post-war world prosperity was announced last night. Soviet Russia gave its approval at the last minute so that the outline had the technical support of the leading Allied nations.

Hull noted that while the basic principles had the support of the technical experts, the agreement announced did not actually commit any nation to the program. He made it clear that as far as the United States is concerned, final diplomatic agreement and congressional decision still are lacking.

Hull suggested the need for speedy action in order to clear and organize the world's monetary channels in time for post-war economic reorganization.

"If such programs can be put into operation before the end of the war, we will save much time in the task of bringing about domestic and world-wide prosperity when hostilities cease and will immeasurably strengthen the prospects for an enduring peace," he said.

The world is facing the "most difficult reconstruction job in its history," the secretary of state declared, adding:

"Without solving these (monetary) problems we shall be immensely handicapped in seeing an expansion of our foreign trade and balanced prosperity for our nation." Secretary Morgenthau hailed the technicians' plan as "the keystone to all post-war economic planning."

Their agreement on principles, product of a year's study, calls for a fund of $8,000,000,000, of which the United States would put up from two and a quarter to two and a half billion dollars of its huge store of gold designed to buy and sell gold and currencies to keep the world's money on an even keel.

Eventually, the sponsors suggested, it might be expanded to 10 billion dollars to take in present neutrals and Axis countries.

Each country's money would be assigned a value in gold.

Morgenthau presented the experts' statement—not binding on any government—to congressional action.

unemployment is rampant because of foreign competition, and after the borrowing comes to an end, what will happen? I assume that when the New Dealers will want to start new government WPA projects to provide housing, clothing and food for these idle workers. Yet, there is no need for this.

The alternative is to keep the cost of goods down so as to be able to meet competition during the years ahead. What is the sense of now building up what we call the "war economy" when we must tumble after the war. In the meantime, the ultimate consumer will pay the bill. This will happen in spite of any labor or other organizations. Only as needed at these idle workers. Yet, there is no need for this.

U. S. CARRIERS IN TASK FORCE

Joined British In Recent Raid On Dutch East Indies

By THOBURN WIAAT
Southeast Asia Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, April 22—(AP)—A strong United States Navy carrier force has joined with British, French and Dutch naval units in the blow which caught Japanese napping at Sumatra and Sabang. Allied headquarters announced today.

Speedy Navy planes, 80 per cent of them American-made, hopped off from American and British carriers at dawn last Wednesday and smashed nearly every installation in sight at Sabang on the island of We, just off the northern tip of Sumatra, and at Lhong airfield on Sumatra itself.

The air-sea attack was the first strong assault delivered at the Japanese command of the British eastern fleet, had the strength for other smashups of at least a hit-run nature.

(There was no indication whether the American carrier force had permanently joined the British for operations in the southeast Asia theater. Presumably the force into the large carrier was a costly and elaborate operation, however, which would not be performed for the purpose of making this one attack which was first announced on Thursday.)

(Dispatches from Associated Press Correspondent Eugene Burns from "aboard" an American carrier off Sabang, indicated the carrier force had come from the Pacific. Burns has been with the Pacific force.)

The carriers were screened by British and French battleships and lighter units of the British, Dutch and U. S. Navies, it was announced. British and French planes, 65 per cent of the planes were star-spangled American Hellcats. Dauntless dive-bombers and Avenger torpedo bombers, while Corsairs flown by the British were American-made and carried United States-trained British fliers. Also in the air were British Baracudas.

Italian Front Continues Quiet

Allied Headquarters, Naples, April 22—(AP)—The Germans stepped up their shelling of the Anzio beach-head yesterday and also threw 37 planes into four raids against the harbor area as Allied planes bombed the beach-head anti-aircraft batteries downed five of the raiders and three more were sent crashing by Spitfires on patrol.

The Nazis introduced a short-lived new wrinkle on the Adriatic front, erecting a large net-like barrier on all fronts in Italy.

Prepare Germans For More Losses

Stockholm, April 22—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, bluntly warned the German home front today that it will be confronted this summer or even this spring by the hardest and bloodiest battles of history.

Picturing the probability of a western invasion launched simultaneously with a new Russian offensive, the newspaper indirectly hinted that new territorial losses might be expected with this answer as to how the German command will meet another Soviet offensive:

"There are territories which can be given up even if it should hurt, but there are others which must be held at any price."

"This summer may be the last bloody war summer," it went on. "Bjorn Bjornson, NBC reporter in Stockholm, broadcast a prediction today that the Allied invasion will come some time before the first of May. This prediction, he said, is being widely circulated in the Swedish capital on the basis of these factors:

(1) That the period of the greatest tides will occur within the next 10 days, and these tides would facilitate Allied landing operations.

(2) There has been a lull in ground fighting, while the Russians mass their forces along the eastern front, and the Allies, reportedly, move reinforcements onto the Anzio beach-head.

(3) The overpowering Allied air assaults aimed at the invasion defenses and the supply points behind the line.

AWOL, But A Hero

William B. Murphree, (above), 26, of Old Hickory, Tenn., has service officers in a quandary trying to reach a solution to his unusual case. Murphree, the Army says, went AWOL from the Army in May, 1941, after six years in the service, but after Pearl Harbor enlisted in the Marines under another name and won the Navy Cross, being cited for bravery on Guadalcanal, in the battle of Midway and for the raid on Makin Island. At the time he deserted, the War Department says, he was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga. Pending settlement of his case, he remained in Marine custody at Nashville, Tenn. (AP Wirephoto).

ASK FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

Editors Declare That World-Wide Freedom Essential

Washington, April 22—(AP)—The American Society of Newspaper Editors today called for world-wide freedom of communications and of the press, declaring a free press is vital to prevention of future global wars.

After taking this stand by resolution, the society voted to establish a committee to work with government agencies toward carrying out this statement of principles.

The decision to appoint such a committee was on motion of Dean Carl W. Ackerman of the Columbia University School of Journalism, who said government agencies are working now, and have been since the last war, to secure greater freedom of press and communications throughout the world.

In brief debate before action on the resolution, Nathaniel B. Howland of the Cleveland News secured an amendment which he declared would make clear that the society (Continued on page four)

Washington, April 22—(AP)—Anyone-looking at the War Department's record of bottling up pleasant news until forced to reveal it—can ask:

Why? And is more news of the same kind being choked for reasons other than security? We speak only of stories kept quiet long after any need of hush-hushing them has passed.

The most sensational example involved Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. He slipped a soldier in Sicily last summer. General Dwight Eisenhower reprimanded him.

Correspondents there knew of the episode, did not report it. They were told the war would suffer.

But in November Columnist Drew Pearson in Washington heard of it and broadcast it. Then the War Department verified it. There have been other cases more recently in the news.

On July 10-11 over Sicily 24 American transport planes and 410 paratroopers were shot down by our own ground and naval forces.

On July 13-14, again over Sicily, 19 American planes and 44 officers and men were shot down, some of them by "friendly" fire from the ground.

We are reliably informed that both occurrences were investigated at once by a board of inquiry and

Russians Have Captured Hills Dominating Sevastopol And Preparing To Storm City; Artillery Fire Breaks Up Nazi Thrusts In Carpathian

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, April 22—(AP)—Russia's Crimean armies and the Red fleet have massed at Sevastopol "to fling the enemy into the sea," Red fleet Correspondent Lt. Dimitri Nikolaev reported today as Soviet forces tightened their siege of the great naval base.

The Russians have captured hills dominating the city's approaches, the correspondent wrote, and are storming one pass after another despite German long-range guns and strafing and bombing attacks by the enemy's air forces which have put down a "screen of fire" in the mountains.

A highly-important intermediate line just outside the city has been captured by a swift Russian flanking thrust, he said.

In the southeastern section of old Poland, today's communique said Red army artillerymen, pouring a hurricane of fire into charging masses of German tanks and infantry, again threw back powerful German thrusts as the battle raged east of Stanislawow spread through the Carpathian foothills.

A front fighting that also repeatedly took the shape of hand-to-hand encounters, the Germans lost 1,500 in killed alone on the third day of the battle yesterday, and anti-tank gunners destroyed 68 tanks in beating back panzer assaults, the bulletin declared.

A front dispatch said the Germans, using the flooded Prit and Dniestr rivers to guard their flanks, had thrown a great weight of men and machines down the intervening valley in a drive apparently aimed at relieving Soviet pressure on Lwow, his communications center.

and 45 miles west of the nearest Russian forces.

(A Berlin broadcast, possibly providing a clue to the current German attacks, asserted that huge Red army reserves were flowing through the Ukraine into a 200-mile sector of the Polish front between the upper Dniestr and the Pripyat marshes in prelude to fresh Russian assaults along the most direct invasion route to Berlin.

A Berlin dispatch to a Swedish newspaper said Marshal Fritz Erich von Manstein had been replaced as commander in the Carpathian sector by Gen. Modl, comparatively unknown. The dispatch gave no indications as to where von Manstein had been shifted.)

The Soviet communique contained no mention of the fighting around besieged Sevastopol, but front dispatches said the Red army (Continued on page two)

But last March 15—or eight months later—an army sergeant on leave in San Francisco from the Mediterranean theater told a public dinner gathering of the first batch of planes shot down. His story was carried on the press wires.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

THE END OF THE BRIDGE

The Christian and non-Christian view of death are in the sharpest possible contrast to one another. The Pagan Roman used to inscribe upon the tomb of his loved ones "Non est," meaning "He is not." Standing amid the circumstances of death, the ancients had very little to comfort them. They felt that when the body died, the soul died with it. Death meant non-existence.

But for the Christian, death is the opening of a door to better things. John Bunyan, in "Pilgrim's Progress," writes in a chamber whose window opened toward the rising sun; the name of that chamber was peace, and there he slept till the break of day. As one walks through a Christian cemetery, he finds all sorts of inscriptions on the head-stones reflecting man's undying faith that death has not ended all.

It is dreadful to face death if we think of it as extinction. On the other hand, it is beautiful to face it if we think of it as a narrow bridge which will carry us across the mysterious river of darkness and into a realm of light on the other side. And the Bible teaches that is precisely what death is for the true Christian believer. We wish to share that for all men, but God has not ordained it so. We live in a moral universe, and both good and evil must find their appropriate rewards. But for those who believe and trust, the bridge ends in glory.

during materials. The exploitation of human beings is the certain road to revolution. Industry must win the battle against fear, hate and greed. As America has found the power to harness the forces of physical nature, so it must learn how to harness the forces of human nature. This is God's plan for a better world.

2. We all should cease talking about the standard life and again teach that life is struggle. Homes, schools and colleges should once more put the emphasis on sacrifice, training and the good of all. But all must be given more equal opportunities, irrespective of color or creed.

3. Fewer laws should be enacted but greater emphasis will be put upon law enforcement. Accompanied with this there should be a movement to let natural law work more freely. There will be fewer subsidies to unfortunate farmers, inefficient manufacturers and incompetent merchants. There, however, will be a recognition that the safety of the nations depends upon prohibiting certain commercialized evils.

4. Big cities should be decentralized. This is the only known protection against bombing planes as well as against social hazards. This may be accomplished by some method of taxation that will encourage more people to live in the rural sections.

5. Voting some day should be restricted. Because one is of age, he is not necessarily entitled to vote irrespective of character. Intelligence or record. This does not mean that one must own property in order to vote; but it does mean that prospective voters should successfully pass certain fair tests to eliminate the unworthy.

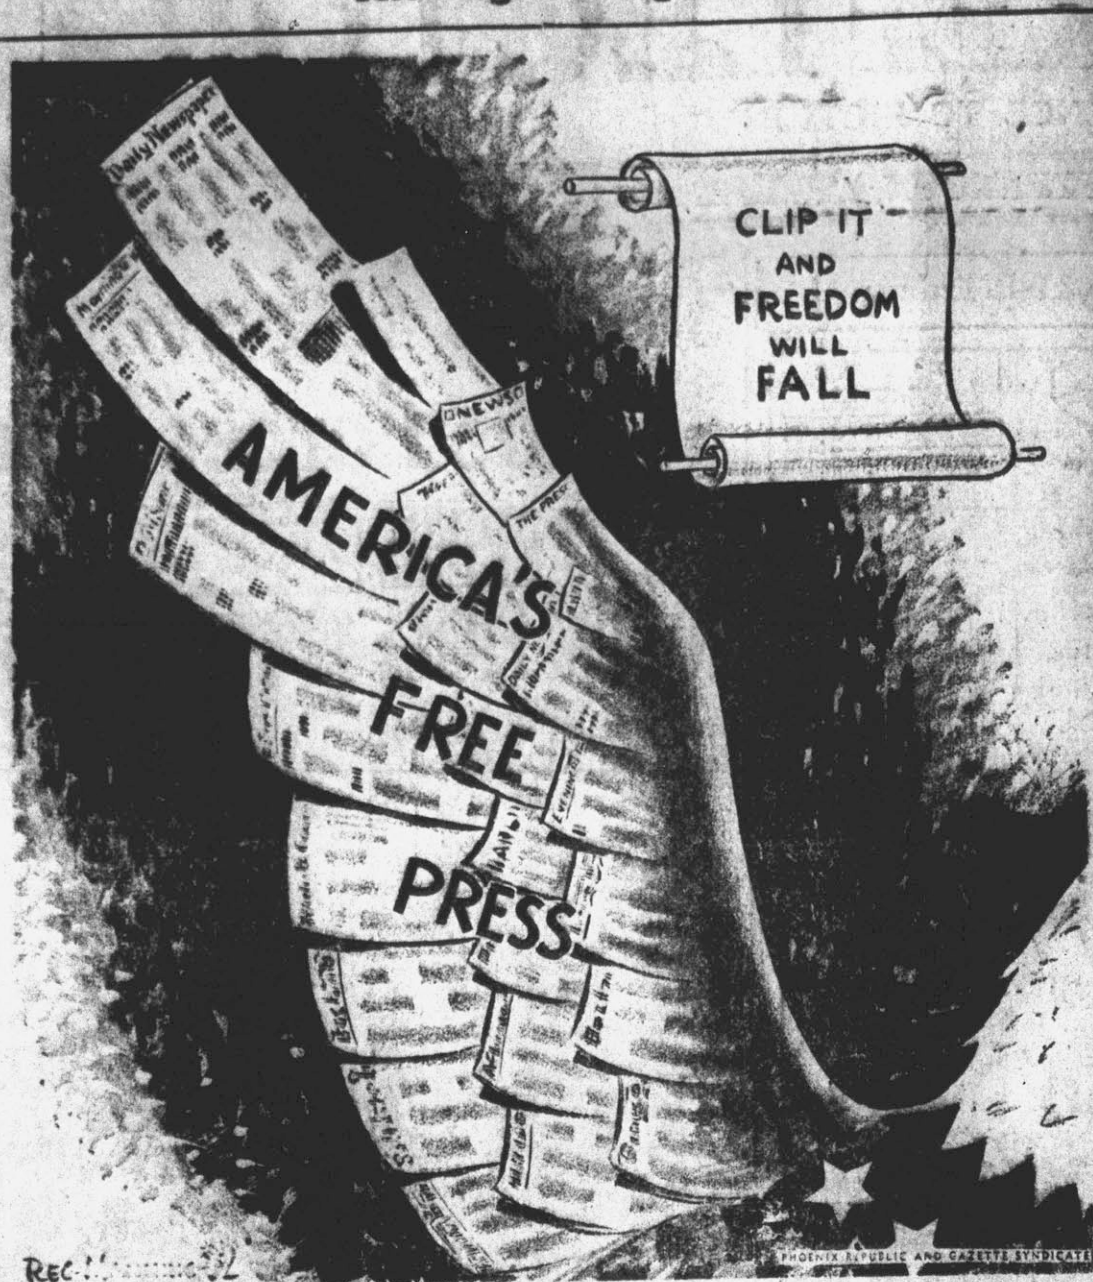

6. Religion must again become a part of the nation's educational system. The Church, however, will be stripped of its superstitions, dogmatism and business enterprises. Churches are due for a rude awakening, severe taxation and a general purging; but the Church will come out of this more useful than ever.

7. Finally, biology and the importance of blood and soil should be given greater consideration. Those who breed and best train the most children will ultimately control. In the meantime, the autocratic countries will have become more democratic; while the democratic countries will have become more totalitarian.

on the whole, good—the reception on the Senate side was a little better than in the House. Some House Republicans said the idea needed careful study; others expressed violent disapproval.

The next step would be an invitation from President Roosevelt to other nations for a formal conference. In an apparent bid for congressional support, Morgenthau said he had been authorized to say President Roosevelt would appoint several senators and representatives as members of the American delegation.

Russia added her approval yesterday to present a united front on the experts' plan.

London, April 22.—(AP)—Satisfaction with the proposed international monetary fund was expressed today by the Times of London but it observed that "much will depend upon the ultimate direction of the policy of the United States as a great creditor and exporting nation."

It is not a question merely, or even primarily, of American tariffs, the newspaper said. "What matters most to the rest of the world is that the United States should enjoy a stable prosperity without any disturbing fall in price level and without sternate booms and slumps which spread havoc far outside American boundaries and by themselves would suffice to wreck any international currency scheme."

an air ministry report declared British and American air raids have destroyed more than 100 war plants in Frankfurt and devastated more than half of the 2,200 acres making up its administrative and commercial heart.

Only two or three of Frankfurt's war factories remain undamaged. Pictures taken after heavy attacks of March 18, 20, and 24 showed.

The air ministry said that many 4,000-pound bombs were dropped by the Mosquitoes in the Cologne raid, carried out in 10 minutes between 4 and 5 a. m.

Pilots said a dense cloud over the target hampered searchlights, allowing the fleet of wooden bombers to strike before the defenses started fully. They reported observing one huge explosion.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

It is said that Russia's war expenses average $750,000 a day. If that rate keeps up a long war will bankrupt the government.

There is hardly a doubt that the government will have enough to keep it busy for some time if all the scandals and frauds that have been unearthed are investigated. It is likely that most of them will escape with white-washing.

Daughters Of Confederacy Hold District Meet Here

One of the most delightful meetings to be held in Greenville was the meeting of the tenth district of the Daughters of the Confederacy which was held in the auditorium of the new Science building of East Carolina Teachers College on last Tuesday morning.

After a procession of state and district officers, which was led by attractive pages in white with red U. D. C. badges, carrying the flag of the United States and the flag of the Confederacy, the meeting was opened by Mrs. George Perry of Oriental, district chairman. Music was furnished by Mrs. Ray Tyson.

As is the custom of the organization, all U. D. C. meetings open with the reading of the ritual, the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States and the salute to the flag of the Confederacy.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming, president of the chapter, extended a most cordial welcome to the guests. This was responded to by Mrs. Perry.

After the reading of the minutes and the appointment of committees Mrs. Perry presented Mrs. James Edward Woodard of Wilson, president general of the organization. He was indeed an honor to have Mrs. Woodard at a district meeting.

Mrs. Woodard in a very brief talk stated the aims of the organization during the year 1944. She stressed membership, procuring names of our sons and grandsons of Confederate lineage for an honor roll for World War II. This is done also for American Legionnaires. They are presented with crosses. She stressed the need for the mobile unit for blood plasma.

Mrs. Eugene Roberson, a division officer and in the tenth district presented the state president, Mrs. John S. Rowe of Hickory. Mrs. Rowe then made the address of the meeting. In her wonderful message Mrs. Rowe spoke first of the deep interest which the daughters throughout the United States are taking in the patriotic work for World War II. She called on all daughters to give their utmost in service, in purchasing stamps and bonds in this, our greatest emergency, to help in ending successfully this conflict.

Mrs. Rowe paid tribute to Mrs. Walter Woodard and their untiring work through years of service. After the most inspiring talk Mrs. Herbert Waldrop, Mrs. E. O. Parkinson, Jr. and Mrs. Dink James sang a beautiful trio, accompanied by Mrs. Guy Smith. Then Mrs. W. Ed Johnson of LaGrange, introduced the division officers, each one giving a brief outline of her special service.

Mrs. Rowe showed her touch with every detail of the U. D. C. work. She told of the many services that are being rendered by those patriotic daughters who believe in America first, and their glorious heritage in our Southland. She urged adequate reports from all chapters on their war work; on contributions to the mobile unit of blood plasma; a ten per cent increase in membership in the state; the training of nurses for service to their country; the 22 remaining old veterans in our state and the widows in the Confederate Home must be cared for and are our first duty. She asked that chapters be formed of Children of the Confederacy and auxiliaries of our young girls in our colleges and cities.

Mrs. Rowe paid tribute to Mrs. Walter Woodard and their untiring work through years of service. After the most inspiring talk Mrs. Herbert Waldrop, Mrs. E. O. Before the attack on the Sumatra targets India-based American Liberators struck Port Blair in the Andaman Islands some 300 miles to the northwest in a diversionary attack to draw off the Japanese planes from Sabang.

The use was perfect. At Sabang all the planes on the ground were destroyed. The Japanese were so unprepared that their anti-aircraft batteries were unmanned. Only light guns were used at first.

In a devastating 15-minute attack, the Allied aircraft wrecked Japanese planes, ships, docks, oil tanks and other installations. A British submarine in the vicinity reported that huge fires still were burning 12 hours later.

Only one plane was lost in the foray. Under a heavy air umbrella a British submarine surfaced within range of Japanese coastal guns and rescued the pilot, Lt. (jg) Christian (Klondike) Klahm, of Laramie, Wyo.

The raid Wednesday night, announced yesterday by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, was the northernmost blow of the aerial thrusts that put bombers over Ponape Island in the eastern Carolines 1,350 statute miles south of Wake, and deluged Japanese positions in the Marshall Islands with 50 tons of explosives.

Liberators visiting Wake, American possession yielded to the Japanese in December, 1941, met only moderate anti-aircraft fire, Nimitz press release said.

Seventh army airforce Mitchell medium bombers hit the airfield and nearby buildings at Ponape, outpost of the big Japanese base at Truk, drawing weak anti-aircraft fire.

Army, navy and marine corps fliers manned the medium bombers, dive-bombers and fighters which blasted Japanese barracks, gun positions and air strips in the 50-ton Marshall bombing.
