U.S. Airmen Hit Heaviest Blow In Invasion Coast

More Than 1,500 Aircraft Smash At Hitler's West Wall Today; Italy-Based Heavy Bombers Hit Five Railway Yards In Hungary And Transylvania

By GLADWIN HILL London, June 2.—(AP)—Up to 1,500 American heavy bombers and fighters struck the heaviest single blow yet at the French invasion coast today and another great armada of 500-750 four-engined planes from Italy bombed five railway yards in Hungary and Transylvania.

Mediterranean air force headquarters reported "good" results in the assaults on Miskolc, Szolnok and Szeged in eastern Hungary and upon Cluj and Simeria in Transylvania, the mountainous Romanian province which Germany ceded partially to Hungary in 1940.

The Mediterranean strikes were in direct tactical support of the Russian armies massing in the Carpathian slopes. German troops and material have been funneled to the front over lines passing through the five targeted yards.

The Britain-based planes struck the Pas-De-Calais department of France and reported no sign of German fighter opposition. Before dawn, Allied fighters struck over 2,000 miles of airways from Scandinavia to France and from Hungary to Crete.

The Pas-De-Calais section, probably the most intensively bombed area in the world for its size, is a scant 25 miles across the channel from England where Gen. Eisenhower's invasion armies are massed and eager to depart.

PLANE QUOTAS ARE EXCEEDED

More Than 175,000 Planes Produced In Three Years

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today the United States has produced more than 175,000 airplanes in about three years.

In the first 91 days of this year, the President said, 4,000 planes were sent to our Allies from the United States—at an average of 338 planes a week.

In making public the report from the Foreign Economic Administration, Mr. Roosevelt recalled that some doubting Thomases scoffed when he told Congress before the war that the administration's goal was to produce 50,000 planes a year.

POPE ISSUES PEACE PLEA

Says Demand for Total Victory Might Prolong War

By PUGH MOORE London, June 2.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII, in a speech to the College of Cardinals, expressed the hope today that peace soon would appear on Rome's hills and over the whole world but added that a demand for total victory might prolong the war.

In an Italian language broadcast the pontiff called on the victors to give hope and faith to the vanquished, and declared that "whoever would dare lift a hand against Rome would be guilty of matricide."

Speaking as contending armies surged within sight of Rome, Pope Pius said that anyone lifting a hand against the Eternal City would "have to bear a grave responsibility toward future generations."

The pontiff said that many persons fear the theory of "full victory or complete destruction" and that this "operates with a bad influence as a stimulus prolonging the war and also on those, who following their internal impulse or for realistic considerations, would be inclined to a reasonable peace."

A fear of the enemy's determination to destroy national life down to the roots suffocates all other arguments and brings about a courage of desperation," he said.

"Those who feel this," the Pope continued, "advance as in a hypnotic sleep amid unpeakable sacrifices and compel all others to an extenuating and bloody struggle, the social, economic and spiritual consequences of which threaten to become the scourge of future times."

He said that Rome was receiving "more considerate treatment" from air raiders than the hope. The Pope continued, "that this more just and moderate tendency will prevail x x x and that the city will in all cases and at whatever cost be preserved from becoming a theater of war."

He warned, however, that "we do not hesitate to repeat once more with equal impartiality and dutiful firmness that whoever would dare lift a hand against Rome would be guilty of matricide before the present world and in front of the eternal judgment of God."

Lend-Lease And Relief Funds Given Approval

House Appropriations Committee Meets Full Budget Requests

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—The House Appropriations Committee gave the Lend-Lease Administration and the new world relief set, known as UNRRA, a blanket approval today, recommending to the full membership the identical 1945 budget agencies requested.

The committee reported to the House legislation providing: For Lend-Lease—$3,450,570,000. For UNRRA—$450,000,000 for this nation's participation in the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration with additional authority for the President to transfer to it $350,000,000 in Lend-Lease funds which might not be needed immediately.

For the Foreign Economic Administration, the agency charged with waging economic warfare against the enemy—$19,500,000, a reduction of $1,381,000 or the FEA's budget request.

The appropriations are for the fiscal year which starts July 1. Lend-Lease aid by the United States to the Allies now totals $24,225,000,000. The committee declared that the guns, tanks and food distributed this way meant the difference between "a relatively ineffectual and an all-out utilization of the resources of our Allies in destroying the enemy."

The committee stated that it was faced with a situation now similar to the first World War. In the early fall of 1918 the report said, many persons thought Germany must surrender soon but the House appropriated $6,500,000,000—a bill that was signed only seven days before the armistice.

"There was no choice then except to maintain full preparation, and there is none now," the committee said. (Continued on page four)

American Forces Cut Nazi Escape Route Below Rome

JAPS INCREASE DRIVE IN CHINA

Forces Being Massed For New Major Offensives

By J. B. KRUEGER Associated Press War Editor The Japanese have concentrated 280,000 troops to pry the Chinese loose from the Hankow-Canton railroad, and to clear the way for new blows elsewhere in China, a Chungking military spokesman said today.

In manifest alarm over Japan's widespread offensives in north-central and south China, Maj. Gen. C. C. Tseng said the enemy had embarked on a new strategy: "As the Allies apply greater pressure against Japan, Japan will exert greater pressure against China."

A big battle was brewing along the Hankow-Canton line for possession of strategic Changsha in southeast China. The British radio broadcast a report Japanese forces were 12 miles from the city, which has been cleared of non-combatant civilians in preparation for battle.

Tricities before the Chinese have successfully defended the town. Tseng said 210,000 Japanese were concentrated near Hankow, 200 miles north of Changsha, while 70,000 were poised at Canton at the southern end of the railroad. Speaking of possible new enemy drives, he said the Japanese were massed on the Indo-China-Yunnan border and were constructing a big airbase near the frontier. Such concentrations would pose a threat to Kuming, major U. S. airbase on the Burma road.

In the Hunan Province fighting to the northwest Chinese recaptured Sunghsin, 45 miles south of Lo-yang. The Japanese meantime struck westward. Columbia ruled today city to China's northwest. A fierce struggle was underway 35 miles east of there.

Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chenuault's headquarters confirmed a Japanese statement U. S. planes had attacked Peiping, China's ancient capital which is far northeast of the present fighting.

NEW LANDING ON BIAK ISLE

Pincer Movements Applied On Japs In Southwest Pacific

By ROBERT EUNSON Advanced Allied Headquarters New Guinea, June 2.—(AP)—Missing of American reinforcements for an all-out assault on tough Biak Island in the Schoutens and pincer moves aimed at trapped Japanese on two other fronts were announced today.

Under Seventh fleet guns and without enemy aerial or naval interference, more Yanks landed Tuesday at Biak, enemy air base in Dutch New Guinea's Geelvink Bay which was invaded Saturday. As they moved up from the Bosket beachhead, aircraft and ground troops hammered at Japanese sniper and mortar positions on ridges commanding the beach for several miles and the coastal road leading to the island's three airfields.

The field commander would not order a further advance on Mokmer, the nearest airfield, until the enemy planes were eliminated. Australian patrols have been blocked two miles from the airfield.

Tank And Infantry Units Astride Famed Via Cassina 20 Miles South Of Capital; Gains Made Along Entire Front In Face Of Fierce Resistance

By SID FEDER Allied Headquarters, Naples, June 2.—(AP)—The Germans' wall before Rome began to crumble today as the Fifth army captured both Velletri and Valmontone, the two biggest fortress cities guarding the Eternal City.

The Fifth army was firmly astride the Via Cassina after cutting it near Valmontone, threatening to cut off whatever troops the Germans had been unable to withdraw of the nine divisions battling on the lower front.

Velletri is an Appian Way junction 18 miles from Rome. Already American troops were fanning out beyond it into the Alban hills, fighting within sight of Rome's prized buildings.

Valmontone, bitterly defended by the crack German Goering armored division, is on the Via Cassina 20 miles southeast of Rome. The Germans were fighting a rear guard action north and west of the breakthrough into the Via Cassina by U. S. tank and infantry forces.

The Eighth army, smashing up the Via Cassina, pounded into Ferentino, only 13 miles from Valmontone, and also struck on the east side of the highway, winning Veroli, five miles northeast of Ferentino. All these advances foreshadowed the beginning of the end of the battle for Rome—the city toward which the Allies have been pushing with blood-soaked, slow landings at Salerno last September.

Fall of Valmontone and Ferentino left a gap of no more than 18 miles between the eastern and western sectors of the Allied fronts. With the French driving up to the Via Cassina from the southwest of the city, the gap appeared to be closing rapidly around the German remnants making rear-guard stands.

Velletri and Valmontone were seized in the face of flaming resistance, and late today, headquarters said, "fierce fighting continues in this area," which limited progress has been made during the day.

Occupation of Veroli cut another potential back door to the Nazi retreat. It is on a junction of roads from the south and east.

U. S. infantrymen drove into Velletri yesterday. All the Germans' escape routes from the town and vicinity were limited, and the city was taken in a matter of hours. Two miles to the northwest, Yankee troops fighting on Monte Artemiso in view of Rome's historic buildings, were meeting "very obstinate opposition," a communiqué said. (Continued on page three)

New Control Over Manpower

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—Sweeping new controls over the nation's civilian supply of male workers were ordered today by the War Manpower Commission to be placed in effect by July 1.

They provide that virtually every job-seeking man in America will be required to apply to the United States Employment Service for assignment to the war plant where he is most needed, regardless of where that plant may be located.

Air Force Had Record Month

Allied Headquarters, Naples, June 2.—(AP)—The Mediterranean Allied air force broke all records for number of sorties (individual plane flights), bomb tonnage dropped and target destruction during May, it was announced today.

In the course of 39,000 sorties, 50,000 tons of bombs were dropped on objectives in Italy, Austria and the Balkans while tactical air force bombing and strafing accounted for 4,800 enemy vehicles damaged or destroyed along the congested highways behind the battlefield, headquarters said.

Four hundred and thirty-three enemy aircraft were destroyed in combat during the month at a cost of 385 Allied planes, of which 171 were heavy bombers.

American Fliers Caught In Ambush

Barcelona, Spain, June 2.—(AP) Reports from Andorra said today that a group of 34 American and Allied fliers being guided to the Spanish frontier by patriots had been ambushed by German border guards and that only two Americans and one French aviator escaped alive into Spain.

The advices from the tiny state perched high in the Pyrenees between France and Spain said the fliers had been sheltered by French families after being shot down. They were dressed in peasant clothes, given money and false French identity cards.

Nearly 100 Young People Join Club

By CHESTER WALSH Nearly 100 boys and girls registered at the Teen Age Club's first meeting at the high school yesterday afternoon and last night. Many of them were today praising the recreation venture for boys and girls from 13 to 19 years old and predicting that the club will become a community institution. The club will meet at the high school during the summer. It is hoped that suitable quarters may be found before school starts in September.

The opening yesterday was an entertaining social affair and the "good neighbor" spirit prevailed. The young people entered into the spirit of the affair, mingled freely and enjoyed dancing with victrola music and various games. Refreshments were sold. The idea of organizing teen age clubs originated with young people and they are outstanding successes wherever they have been established. It was evident last night that the boys and girls are solidly behind the club here and are going to make it a success.

St. Louis Draft Boards Reclassifying Strikers

By The Associated Press St. Louis was without transportation facilities today as striking street car operators and bus drivers remained away from their jobs, but some of the 3,500 employees were threatened with reclassification in the draft because of their refusal to work.

Eight St. Louis draft boards ordered immediate reclassification of some of the 3,500 strikers, whose fall of 1943 the report said, many held occupational deferments.

In a letter to Maj. F. C. Richmond, acting director of the Missouri Selective Service system, John J. Griffith, chairman of the Associated Draft Board of St. Louis, said men on unauthorized strikes who hold occupational deferments "should be immediately considered as having quit the jobs essential to the war effort x x x and should be reclassified into I-A and inducted into the armed forces regardless of age."

Court Upholds Rulings Of WLB

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia ruled today that orders of the War Labor Board are not reviewable by the courts.

The ruling was on an appeal brought by the employers group of Motor Freight Carriers, Inc., an association of carriers and individuals who represent about 300 trucking companies engaged in transporting freight in Boston and throughout New England.

Three Appeals Court judges who heard the case, Miller, Edgerton and Arnold, held unanimously that "it is clear and undisputed that no statute authorizes review of the War Labor Board's order."

Scene Of Murder Still Uncertain

Boonville, Mo., June 2.—(AP)—The question of where Edward Jewett Martin will be tried on a murder charge remained unanswered today as funeral services and burial rites were held here for his slain grandmother, Mrs. Edward M. Jewett, and preparations were made to probate her will disposing of an estimated half million dollars worth of property.

The state of North Carolina charged Martin with murder, accused him of taking his gray-haired benefactress on a 1,000-mile death ride that ended with her bludgeoned body weighted at the bottom of a Durham, N. C., lake, but there has been no mention of where Mrs. Jewett died, the factor that will determine where the trial will be held. Missouri officials said last night they would take no steps until they had some word from Durham authorities.

No Suggestion Of Willkie Nomination

Sacramento, Calif., June 2.—(AP)—Nomination of Wendell Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential nominee, as a running mate for President Roosevelt in the 1944 campaign has not been suggested to him by any Democratic convention delegate, said Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan.

Hannegan made the statement at a press conference last night in reply to a question asking if he had heard reports of a movement to nominate Willkie as Vice-President on the Democratic ticket.

Hannegan said he didn't know "what the delegates or Willkie will do," adding "No delegate to the convention has ever suggested it (Willkie's nomination) to me."

Today On The Home Front

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—There is nothing more important on the American home front than the fight which starts next week in Congress on the OPA.

The life of that agency, which controls wartime prices and rationing, and therefore is the main link in the whole government program of holding down living costs, ends June 30.

The WAR TODAY AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst British Prime Minister Churchill's unexpected pronouncement of "handy words about Spain" is causing puzzlement, not unmixt with concern, in this country.

Pro-Nazi Spain continues to give Hitler material aid with which to wage war against us. Her position is not identical with that of some pro-Allied neutrals which have been formed to serve the German tyrant.

Reform Among All Lines.
Editor Reflector:
The determination manifested on Thursday night by our citizens in their ward primaries, voices the sentiment that is now uppermost in the minds and feelings of the people of this town, that is that our beloved Greenville must move forward and that the affairs of government of the town shall and must be administered in an economical and less expensive manner than has been done in the past. The salaries of all officers from mayor down to lamp lighter should be made commensurate with the services performed.

Mr. Capitalist, we need more factories and industries of various kinds. Mr. Laborer, we need more services rendered and more days spent in labor. Mr. Loafer, we don't need you. Lend to the forces that are now at work. Your aid, your sympathy, your help and let us go forward.

NEW BLOWS ON HULL TALKS JAP POSITIONS PEACE PLANS

Air Attacks Hammer Kuriles, Wake, Guam And Carolines

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, June 2—(AP)—A giant Pacific triangular area was dotted by bombs today—across 1,000 miles of the Carolines, north to Guam, then beyond Japan to the frigid Kuriles and back to Wake—as the consequence of coordinated blows by American bombers from three war theaters.

In operations unprecedented for their swift extent, bombers from the southwest and central Pacific combed the Carolines; central Pacific planes flew the 1,200 miles to Guam; other central Pacific bombers pounded Wake; and Aleutian-based planes struck the Kuriles. All planes returned safely from these hazardous operations.

These blows were massed from Sunday through Tuesday and were announced today and yesterday by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

Army Mitchells from the Nimitz theater ripped into the defenses of Ponape in the eastern Carolines. At Truk, 440 miles beyond, central Pacific bombers started fires which could be seen for 150 miles and bombers from the MacArthur theater made a light stab from the Admiralty Islands.

Other Admiralty-based planes struck 190 miles west at Alet island airdrome and far into the western Carolines at Woleai.

Central Pacific Army Liberators from Eniwetok gave Guam its third land-based pounding since Japan wrested that Marianas island from the Americans. They fought off 10 enemy fighters, probably downing one, without loss.

Wake, the former American base which a carrier task force virtually immobilized May 25, was hit by central Pacific army Liberators which had to contend only with moderate anti-aircraft fire.

In a continuation of attacks on the Kuriles, guarding the north approach to Japan, Navy Ventura search planes from the Aleutians hit Shumushu at the northern tip of that chain. Within the past three-day period, but announced previously, bombers hit four islands in that chain, including one less than 500 miles from the Japanese mainland.

Fourteen hundred heavy bombers, plus many smaller ones, were produced in U. S. aircraft plants last month. War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson said last night.

Nelson, on a tour of the Tennessee Valley Authority with James P. Pope, one of the directors of the Authority, told workers:

"At the beginning of the war, a call was made for 500 bombers a month. Everyone thought this would tax production to capacity, but last month, 1,400 big bombers, in addition to many smaller ones, were turned out in aircraft plants in the United States."

CONFERENCE HELD WITH LEADING CONGRESS- MEN TODAY

Washington, June 2—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull today extended to the House his campaign for congressional support of a post-war peace agency, conferring with four Democratic and three Republican leaders on his plans for American participation.

The hour-long meeting at the State Department was the latest in a series of post-war international planning developments which yesterday disclosed Hull as apparently determined to reinforce his aims for a security organization with the ideal of liberty "for aspiring peoples everywhere" and equality for all small nations.

The House group was headed by Speaker Rayburn of Texas and included these other Democratic representatives: Chairman Bloom of the Foreign Affairs Committee; Majority Leader McCormack and Majority Whip Ramspeck. Republicans were Minority Leader Martin and Representatives Eaton and Arends.

Asked whether the seven would return for later conferences Bloom said: "We will if we're asked." The next meeting would be delayed a week or 10 days at least for Hull has scheduled a vacation trip to Hershey, Pa.

Rayburn described the session as "a very frank and open conversation."

Martin told reporters, Hull "discussed with us his ideas of how to implement the peace, along the same lines he had talked with a bi-partisan Senate group."

The conference with the House group follows a series of five meetings between Hull and an eight-man Senate committee. The Senate has responsibility for passing on treaties and the House is not constitutionally charged with power over foreign affairs although bloom has proposed action to make treaty ratification subject to a majority vote of each House.

Hull's decision to meet with the House as well as Senate members of both parties has been interpreted at the State Department as representing a desire on his part to obtain the widest possible support for his plans.

After the Senate talks, Hull invited Britain, Russia, and China to send representatives here for exploratory conversations on post-war world organization. Yesterday at a press conference he was asked whether he could reassure small nations that they would be protected from domination by the great powers. He said that there should be no doubt of America's attitude on that score and also gave assurances of American support and encouragement for the liberty of all peoples everywhere.

Invasion Weather

London, June 2—(AP)—A fresh southwest wind that increased in strength in the morning hours made for choppy seas in Dover strait today, while overhead skies were cloudy. The weather was cool, with the 9 a. m. temperature 56.

Conditions were a little brighter and visibility was better than yesterday. The cloud ceiling was higher and the barometer had risen slightly.

High tides at Calais will be at 10:26 p. m. tonight (4:36 p. m. eastern war time) and 11:09 a. m. tomorrow (5:09 a. m. EWT).

Balkan Situation Alarming To Nazis

London, June 2—(AP)—The Germans, apparently alarmed at the seriousness of the situation in Yugoslavia and the growing strength of the partisan army, have launched a large-scale offensive against liberated territory, Marshal Tito declared today.

A communique broadcast from his headquarters said the offensive was begun several days ago in western Bosnia with more than three Nazi divisions participating.

Airborne troops as well as infantry and armored units are being employed by the Germans, the bulletin said. It declared that in one sector partisans had captured a glider and wiped out a number of airborne troops.

Tito reported successes against the attacking Nazis at several points but said fighting still was raging on

British Planes Damage Convoy

London, June 2—(AP)—Carrier-borne aircraft of the British fleet last night attacked and damaged a strongly-escorted German convoy of three supply ships off Stettin, on the west coast of Norway, the Admiralty announced today.

A communique said all three supply ships were hit and that four escorting anti-aircraft vessels were damaged. Two naval fighters were reported lost in the engagement, but a sixth successful strike in the last two months against Nazi shipping along the roughly-indented Norwegian coast.

This force had snaked beyond Velletri and seized the dominating heights of Mts. Peschio and Artemisio, catching the Germans by surprise.

(The German high command declared the dent the Allies achieved northeast of Velletri had been "sealed off" with heavy casualties inflicted. Berlin's broadcast said there was fighting of "very great ferocity" Thursday, especially in the Velletri and Vainmontone areas but that the Allies had been held.

The smashing blows against the Nazi line guarding Rome sites arose in another wedge by capture of Lariano, a village on the highway to Vainmontone, four miles northwest of Velletri.

ing armored divisions into the area near Vainmontone in a bitter struggle to hold open the Via Cassiana. Just last Friday American troops had won Ariens, 2 1/2 miles below Vainmontone, but it took a week of fighting to reach the highway.

The British and French to the southeast squeezed tighter up the highway, and the French seized Ponte di Morolo, three miles below the famous road, west of Frosinone.

Along the coastal flank of the battle for Rome, naval guns again supported the British push, bombarding enemy batteries near Ardea with successful results.

The Germans apparently still judge likely to be the street for strongholds on their Rome-Vainmontone, astride Highway the northeast, and Lanus Campione, toward the coast.

The daily communique said army troops, advancing east via Cassiana toward Vainmontone, have pressed enemy rearguard "severely" in one sector "but demolitions could not be effected."

NEW TRIAL IN DAMAGE SUIT

Lower Court Upheld In Retirement Fund Dispute

Raleigh, June 2—(AP)—The State Supreme Court today ordered a new trial in a Cumberland county case which William F. Daugherty Jr., sued P. D. Cline for injuries he allegedly received while engaged in the construction of a taxiway at Fort Bragg.

Daugherty contended he was seriously injured when a truck backed over him. The defendant argued contributory negligence entered the case. Associate Justice Michael Schenck wrote that the charge of Superior Judge Richard Dixon was in error for failing to set forth a clause limiting recovery for any losses which might accrue in the future "to present cash value, or present worth of such losses."

"We do not concur," he wrote, "with the contention of the defendant that the evidence of the plaintiff is so clear that reasonable minds could draw but the single inference of the plaintiff's contributory negligence or that such evidence tends only to establish such contributory negligence."

In dissenting, Chief Justice W. P. Stacy wrote: "Why should the defendant, whose negligence has been established and who was silent when invited to speak about the very matter of which he now complains, be allowed two bites at the whole cherry?"

The court affirmed an action brought by H. W. Hunter and others against the board of trustees of the retirement system of the City of Wilmington to obtain a mandamus to compel the secretary of the board to accept funds deducted from the salaries of the employees of the Consolidated Board of Health of New Hanover county, and to compel the trustees to treat the employees as members of the retirement system and eligible for benefits.

Mrs. L. O. Ellis, Miss Emma Woodward and Earl S. Bland respectively representing employees of the Associated Charities of Wilmington, the Wilmington Public Library and the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board of New Hanover county were, upon petition, made parties plaintiff.

The Superior Court had granted the mandamus to Hunter and other health employees and to Miss Woodward and other library employees, and dismissed the action of Mrs. Ellis and Bland on behalf of their organizations. Associate Justice M. V. Barnhill dissented, pointing out that the City of Wilmington is required to pay four-fifths of the necessary expense of the retirement act, and that the County Board of Health is an independent governmental agency.

Associate Justice M. V. Barnhill dissented, pointing out that the City of Wilmington is required to pay four-fifths of the necessary expense of the retirement act, and that the County Board of Health is an independent governmental agency. He asked the question: "The federal government makes contributions to at least 11 state agencies. The state government makes contributions to help defray expenses of some local agencies. Do these contributions by the federal government convert state employees into federal employees and local agency employees into state employees?"

Barnhill reminded: "We held that the local administrative unit is a part of the statewide system; that it is under the duty to provide its part of the assessment to maintain the retirement fund; that a tax therefor is authorized; and that the governing board of Charlotte, the agency designated to raise funds by taxation, must levy a tax sufficient to provide the same."

School Girls Drown

Soviets Repulse German Attacks

London, June 2.—(AP)—Red army troops have smashed all German attempts to crack the Russian lines north of East in Romania and have even counterattacked in some sectors, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy.

A broadcast Soviet communique, telling of the fourth successive day of battle north of the Moldavian province city, said 600 Nazi soldiers were killed and 17 tanks were knocked out.

Throwing in large forces of tanks and infantry, the Nazis made three separate thrusts, but were stopped by Soviet artillery, mortar and machine gun fire, the communique declared.

A Finnish communique reported strong Russian attacks on two fronts facing Finland—on the Karelian isthmus northwest of Leningrad and between Lakes Ladoga and Onega.

Spud Growers May Sue Government

Norfolk, June 2.—(AP)—Potato growers can—and probably will—sue the government for millions of dollars on their crops if the present low ceiling prices in 10 states are not lifted.

W. B. Shafer, Jr., chairman of a steering committee protesting these prices, declared today, "Growers in the 10 states involved, where production costs exceed the ceiling prices, have been warned to keep accurate costs of producing their crops, including receipts and sales slips, so that they may later sue the government for their actual losses."

"I have discussed this phase with lawyers and legislators and believe that where the loss is practically universal in a community, as the potato situation will be, no farmer will have any trouble collecting for his loss."

In my opinion, South Carolina farmers alone will be able to recover approximately a million dollars from the federal government, because of the abnormally low ceiling on crops.

The 10-cent-per-hundredweight increase on ceiling prices announced today by OPA will be of little benefit to Virginia farmers, he said, since this still leaves the ceiling approximately 80 cents per hundred pounds below the cost of production.

The new ceiling allows the grower $3.25 until June 15, and $3.10 from June 16 through July 1. Digging in this area will begin around June 19.

Compromise Verdict Wingate Suits Here

By CHESTER WALSH

A compromise was reached in Superior Court today in the Wingate case in which Mrs. Louise Wingate was suing the Carolina Coach Company and the City of Greenville for $10,000 for the death of her husband, Alvin M. Wingate, who was fatally injured when his car collided with a passenger bus on Dickinson Avenue after a storm last August.

Nancy Carroll Wingate, aged four, suffered in the collision. Mrs. Wingate was awarded $1,500 for the death of her husband, with the ruling that he came to his death by his own carelessness.

Nancy Carroll Wingate was awarded $2,000 for her injuries. Jesse A. Jones of Kinston was counsel for the Wingates. The case had been on trial several days when the compromise was reached.

Mrs. Wingate was slightly injured. Her baby was not injured.

Six Americans Lynched

Bern, Switzerland, June 2.—(AP)—The Berlin correspondent of Bern's Der Bund today placed a list of six names of American airmen lynched in Germany and expressed belief that German propaganda had been interpreted by the people as "permission—even incitement" to take Allied pilots into their own hands in disregard of the rules of international warfare.

A Cairo communique said an important German convoy was attacked in the central Aegean sea north of Crete yesterday and that four ships were left burning and others were damaged. Two destroyers among the eight escort vessels were declared damaged. Ten aircraft were lost in the attacks yesterday and during the last two weeks.

The daylight raiders carried the Allies' second big pre-invasion offensive since the first of April into its 15th day.

All morning the German radio reported that the Reich was free of planes but at noon the Luxembourg transmitter gave the warning that often precedes attacks on occupied territory.

In offensive sweeps into France and Germany yesterday evening RAF and RCAF fighters shot down three German planes while three planes in the attacking force were lost.

The latest blows against the continent were a continuation of an Allied aerial offensive which already was declared to have severely restricted certain German military movements behind the invasion front.

The Vichy radio said 30 persons were killed in Wednesday night's attack on Soumar, an important junction on the rail lines from central France to Nantes. The Vichy radio also said that 42 persons were killed in an attack last night on the northwest coast of France—possibly the unspecified military objective referred to in the British Air Ministry communique.

There were no reports of German "invasion snoop" planes over England last night.

Expect attack on Balkans. London, June 2.—(AP)—A Transocean broadcast from Berlin speculated today that "the invasion of western Europe may be preceded by the opening of a Balkan front."

In a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, the German agency quoted dispatches from Syria and Lebanon via Ankara as saying that "the Anglo-Americans have concentrated troops in the Near East on a mounting basis during the last few weeks."

Announcement

Due to limited newspaper space, the publication in full of my letter of resignation as Chairman of Pitt County Chapter, American Red Cross, could not be made in the news columns of this paper.

Having been associated so long with people all over this County in Red Cross work, I am assuredly most reluctant to withdraw as Chairman of the Chapter without publicly conveying some expression of thanks to all those who have made possible the Chapter's success during my tenure of office.

I am, therefore, using this means of printing the parts of the letter referred to which were omitted, as follows:

To the Executive Committee, Pitt County Chapter, American Red Cross, Greenville, N. C.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having served as Chairman of the Pitt County Chapter, for the past seven years, it has been my thought for some time that it would be a good idea for someone else to carry the Banner of Red Cross which I have done during these years past. I have naturally hesitated to resign until after the National Emergency ceased, but, in view of the fact that the Chapter is in sound financial condition, and that all departments are under competent and efficient leadership, I am absolutely sure my resignation, hereby submitted for immediate acceptance, will in no way retard the magnificent contribution the Pitt County Chapter is now making toward winning the war.

During the years to come I shall always remember with pleasure my associations with the members of the Executive Committee: I shall never forget how the men, women, boys and girls of Greenville and Pitt County have always responded whenever Red Cross called; and I shall never cease to appreciate the very finest cooperation which has always been extended me whenever I have tried to do something for Red Cross."

LADY IN A WHIRL

By Esther Valck Georgins

Chapter 10

Oh Be Thankful Duncan held Cora lightly, and before she could prevent it, kissed her firmly on the lips. She almost burst with fury, but there wasn't much she could do. Her hands were pinned to her sides, but she managed to bring the heel of her shoe down into his canvas-clad toes. He let out a surprised howl and half released her; Cora managed to scramble out of his arms.

She dashed wildly out of the room. Oh Be Thankful held on to her heels. As she turned the corner of the house she suddenly remembered the poison ivy. She put on an extra spurt of speed and landed in the middle of it.

"This is poison ivy!" she warned him. "Oh Be Thankful slammed on the brakes, but too late. He landed with both feet—and bare legs—right in the middle of it. But his passion for Cora overrode his prudence; he decided to stay and fight it out. Struggling, they fell, trumbling over and over on the ground. Cora screamed and scratched. But the fight was all in favor of Oh Be Thankful's brawn.

He picked her up, kicking and squealing, and carried her to the road. From the car he produced a rope, and tied her hands and feet. Then regretfully he gagged her with a none-too-lean handkerchief, jabbered at the oxen, and the cart lurched forward with its bizarre cargo.

Cora, bouncing helplessly in the bottom of the cart, finally managed to achieve a sitting position. She was, she decided, in the hands of a lunatic. Some place she had read that it was possible to control animals and maniacs by the power of the eye, so she directed her nearsighted gaze with baleful intensity on the back of Oh Be Thankful's head. He looked around, after a while, but only smiled and seemed to lick his chops beneath his red beard.

Soon they turned to the right and then to the left, emerged from the trees into a clearing. There the oxen stopped in front of the open door of a rough, unpainted, two-story house. Oh Be Thankful untied Cora's feet, and then gallantly helped her down from the cart.

"Sorry, my dear, I had to use force," he apologized politely. "Ugh!" said Cora, making motions signifying her desire that he remove the gag. "Certainly. Certainly. Your slightest wish is law."

"Well, of all things! I must say," Cora sputtered as soon as she could speak. "Now your hands—and you will be as free as air."

"Well, for—" Cora cried, bewildered by his courteous manner. "Just step aside, my dear. My humble abode is honored."

"With just enough force to make resistance impossible, he ushered her inside. I may never see the light of day again, thought Cora wildly as she stumbled over a loose board. I must use guile."

"How charming," she said, turning on the guile. "Very humble," he answered. "But love can make the lowliest abode a palace, eh, my dear?" He squeezed her arm playfully.

"Now right in here," he added, and he steered her into the hall. "Oh, this is terrible! Terrible!" Cora gasped.

Her host ushered her forcibly up the stairs and into a room which seemed to be at the back of the house. He stopped just inside the door and scratched his bare, with great enthusiasm, then transferred the same attention to his right ankle.

The room was small, dirty and furnished only with a chair and a rickety bed. "I'm afraid I'll have to leave you for a while," he told her. "Just to make sure you won't miss me. I think you'd better give me your shoes and stockings. Yes, and your dress, too. You wear too many clothes, anyway."

"Never!" said Cora with determination. "You are—well, you are with this joke, Mr. Duncan!" "Now, now," he admonished, "don't be coy. If you won't remove them yourself I'll have to do it for you." He made a move as though to carry out the threat, and the look in his eye boded no good for false modesty.

Cora backed away. "Come, come, now," he said irritably, scratching himself. "I'm getting a terrible dose of poison ivy. I must go and do something for it. Take off your dress and shoes, as I tell you."

Cora thought it might be a way to get rid of him for a few minutes and give her time to think up a plan to escape. "Very well," she bargained. "But I simply will not undress in front of you. If you go outside I'll hand my dress and shoes out to you."

thing but encouraging. The ground was far below and "Oh Be Thankful" thought of jumping. She went to the bed with a large bundle of clothing, tied them together and lowering herself down that way, but the only covering was a worn quilt.

Dismally she sat down on the bed. The man wore on and no way of escape presented itself. She became more and more uneasy but there was nothing she could do.

"I'll just have to wait and take advantage of whatever turns up," she decided. "As if in answer to her thoughts, the key turned and the door opened slowly. Cora looked then blinked and looked again. In the doorway stood a slender, golden-haired child, perfectly nude, except for a stringy red ribbon tied around her waist. She had a bunch of carrots in her hand.

"My Heaven!" exclaimed Cora. "The child closed the door. "Pop said I could come and see you," she said. She proffered the carrots. "He sent you these?" "Speechless, Cora accepted the carrots. "They're for your supper," the child explained.

"Where," babbled Cora, "where's the rest of the stew?" "The little girl just stared. "What's your name, child?" Cora asked after a minute. "Rutabaga," was the answer.

Rutabaga came closer and regarded Cora with round, blue eyes, then crossed the room and sat down on the chair. Cora rested her elbow on her plump knee and dropped her head dejectedly onto her hand. "I certainly am in a fix," she said. Then a crafty light flickered in her eyes. After all the door was unlocked, and only this small child between her and liberty. She peered at Rutabaga nearsightedly, then arose and made a pretense of stretching.

"I think I'll take a little walk around," she said, edging towards the door. "You won't get far," Rutabaga assured her. "Pop's sitting at the foot of the stairs in a tub of soda and water."

Cora sat down again. "It's the poison ivy," Rutabaga explained. "He's covered with it. Golly, but he itches!" "Serves him right!" said Cora. After a long silence Rutabaga spoke. "Aren't you going to eat your carrots?" she asked.

"Oh!" exclaimed Cora. "Carrots! What I wouldn't give for a steak!" "Steak?" repeated Rutabaga. "That's meat, isn't it?" "Certainly it's meat," Cora snapped. "I tasted meat once," Rutabaga told her wistfully.

"Yes, ma'am. Pop doesn't know though. He'd raise an awful row if he did. A lady gave it to me." "Did you like it?" "Yes, ma'am. I certainly did. I wish I had some more. I'd give anything for some more."

Cora had a sudden inspiration. "Would you do anything for some steak?" she asked intently. "Yes, ma'am. I guess I would." "Well, if you'll help me get away from here I'll give you all the meat you can eat. Will you do it?" "Pop might thrash me. He's always threatening."

"You help me out of here and I'll see that he doesn't thrash you," Cora promised. "But he wouldn't let me eat meat even if you gave it to me."

"Well, you'll have to come along home with me. He won't know what you're eating. Do you know where I live?" "Yes, ma'am." "Good. Then we won't get lost. Now can you think of any way I can get out?"

"I'll put a ladder to the window," said Rutabaga, "after dark." "And my shoes?" Cora reminded her. "I can't walk in my stocking feet." "Yes, ma'am. I'll try. Rutabaga departed.

As soon as it was dark Cora wrapped herself in the blanket and pulled the cover over her head. She waited until she heard the ladder creak. After a long wait it did. Cora opened the window quickly. "Be quiet," the child whispered. "Pop's awake. He can't sleep; he's itching."

Rutabaga descended the ladder and held it steady while Cora climbed down. "Where are my shoes?" she hissed when she reached the bottom rung. "I couldn't get them. Pop's got them locked up."

Concerning Books

Shark's Fins and Millet
"Shark's Fins and Millet" by Ilona Rolf Sues, a timely and interesting book on China, is explosive in information and easy-going in style. The title indicates the coverage of contents. Shark's fins, symbolic of the highest class in China, is considered the greatest of luxuries in food, and millet is the coarse fare of the most poverty-stricken.

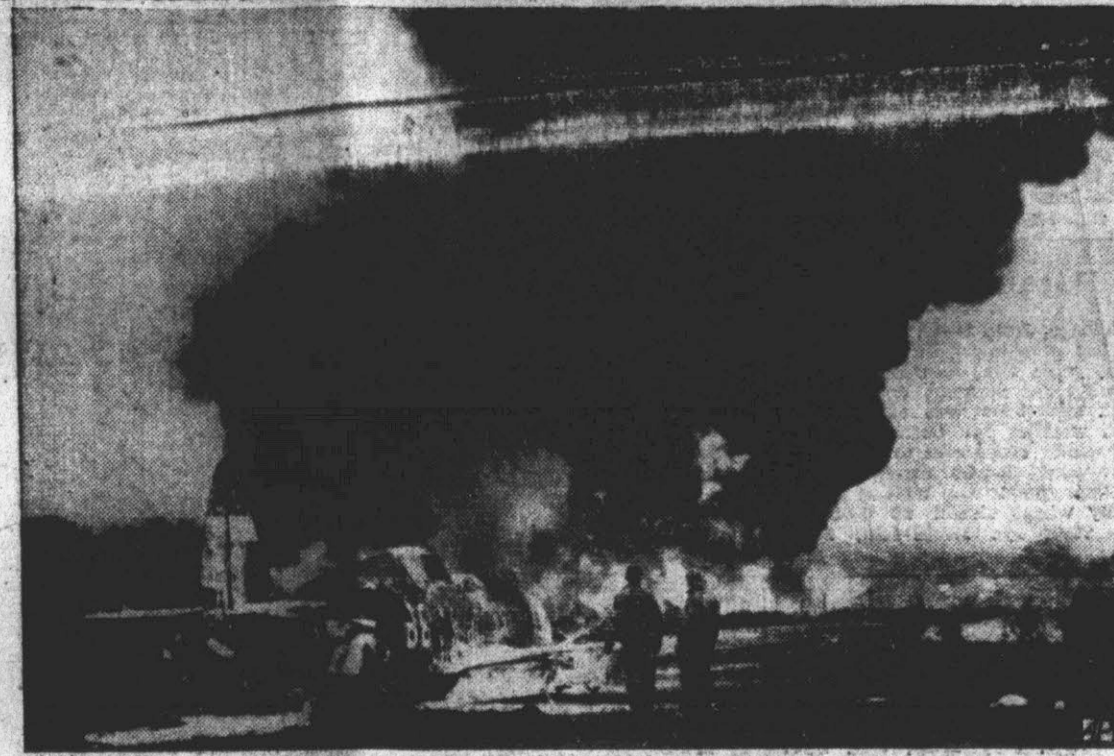

Miss Sues, who lived for years in Geneva, Switzerland, and sat in on world conferences at the League of Nations, went to China unattached, unrepresented, and unprepared for what she found. She packed her three C's—her car, camera and continental typewriter—and arrived in China a free-lance journalist.

Her experiences ranged from the opium dens of Shanghai, the government buildings of Nanking, the quickly established capital of Hankow, and even as far as the province of Shansi, from which the Eleventh Route Army, China's famous guerrilla bands, operated. One of the most interesting phases of her exploitations was in her visits to the province of Yenan, where hundreds of boys and girls attended school in caves in the side of high mountains and where hospitals were dug in the cliffs. There was democracy working hard to get a true foothold in China.

The people with whom Miss Sues had contact were of all classes, types and professions. Unlike most commentators, she did not find Madame Chiang Kai-Shek the almost perfect wonder so many consider her to be. Beautiful, charming, intelligent, appealing, yes, but also a little absent-minded as well as cold-hearted. W. H. Donald, the unofficial number one adviser to the Chiangs, was a remarkable Australian. One of the most malevolent of the Eighth Route Army, is Yulhsen, a combination Al Capone and Rockefeller. Chu Teh, the leader of the Eighth Route Army, is another altogether different personality. Miss Sues herself shines from every page, half comic, half tragic, and wholly warm-hearted and generous in nature.

In her last chapter, entitled "Birds-eye view of China Today," the author asks some very pertinent questions. In her opinion the Generalissimo is the only person who can reply to them, and she prays for his guidance to set up the first republic of China.

Young Men of 17

May again join the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve

ENLISTMENT in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve is once more open to qualified young Americans . . . who want to win their wings on the "greatest team in the world"—an AAF air combat crew.

In April, thanks to the air-mindedness of America's youth, the AAF's personnel program was well ahead of schedule. More than enough men were in training, and in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, to meet scheduled quotas for combat crews. At the same time, the need for men in other branches of the army was urgent. Therefore, opportunities to join the AAF—including the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve—were suspended.

As the Commanding General pointed out, the suspension of enlistments in the Reserve was intended only as a temporary measure. Accordingly, effective June 1, enlistments have again been opened in the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve in order to insure a sufficient number of qualified individuals for training this fall.

The AAF is a Team

Today, the AAF is the largest, most powerful air force in the world. Fighting side by side with the planes of our Navy and our Allies, it has won control of the air in every theatre—and has carried the war to the military and industrial hearts of Germany and Japan. It is daring the enemy to "come up and fight." Yet its losses have been less than anyone had anticipated or even dared to hope.

That all this has been accomplished is due, in large measure, to the fact that the AAF air combat crew is more than just planes and men. The combat crew is a team . . . the greatest fighting team the world has ever seen . . . with Gunners, Bombardiers, Navigators and Pilots flying and fighting together, to win.

And any young man who wants AAF wings should keep this ideal of teamwork uppermost in his mind. It is the key to AAF success; to honor. It will be the key to his own success in the AAF.

If you want to be with the AAF, you can apply at any AAF Examining Board for enrollment in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. Upon passing the preliminary qualifying physical and mental tests, you will become a member of the U. S. Army Air Forces—on inactive duty. This means that you will not be called for training until you have reached your 18th birthday. If you are at work you may remain on the job until you are 18. If you are in high school, you may elect to finish the semester you are in when you become 18. If you are a high school graduate, not over 17 years and 9 months, you may elect to take advantage of the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program, which provides free college training for men approaching military age.

When called, you will first be given "basic" training. During this period, you will take "aptitude" tests to determine whether you will be classified for training as Gunner, Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot.

Your Place on the AAF Team

If you have an outstandingly high aptitude rating for a particular position, you may be given an opportunity to compete for the classification that you prefer. But it is important to remember that all jobs on the AAF team are vitally important . . . that air combat crews not only are chosen from the very cream of the nation's young men, but that each seat in every plane must be filled by the man best qualified to fill it.

Gunners go into actual combat as combat commissioned officers. In addition to being the world's best trained marksmen, gunners may qualify as trained technicians—in radio, armament or airplane mechanics. Pilots, Navigators, and Bombardiers are graduated from training as 2nd Lieutenants or Flight Officers.

Your job, and your rank, in the AAF will depend upon your own demonstrated abilities. For full information as to qualifying for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, see your nearest AAF Examining Board or local Army Recruiting Station.

For Pre-Aviation Training

Whether or not you have yet reached 17, you can begin now to prepare yourself to qualify for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. See your local Civil Air Patrol officers about C.A.P. Cadet Training . . . also see your High School principal or adviser about recommended courses in the Air Service Division of the High School Victory Corps. Both offer excellent pre-aviation training . . . and help point the way to AAF wings.

Grain Market

Chicago, June 2 - (AP) - All wheat futures were lower in quiet trading today with the deferred contracts showing the greatest declines. The weak undertone was attributed to local weather for both the spring and winter crops and to indications there would not be a great demand for flour during the next 30 days. July wheat closed at 1.61 1/2-; oats 76%; rye 1.00 1/2-1.10; barley 1.22.

New York Cotton

New York, June 2 - (AP) - Cotton futures opened 15 cents a bale higher for 5 cents lower. Noon values were 15 to 40 cents a bale lower, July 20.93, Oct. 20.27, Dec. 20.03. Futures closed 10 to 30 cents a bale lower.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 2 - (AP) - Popularity of specialties, amusements and a few motors gave today's stock market a further selective recovery advance although many leaders failed to get in the running. Transfers were under 800,000 shares against 1,193,000 in the Thursday proceedings.

Escaped Convicts Held For Attack

Charlotte, June 2 - (AP) - James W. Buchanan, escaped negro convict charged with criminally assaulting a white woman near here, was arrested early today by York County, South Carolina officers, and brought to Charlotte for incarceration in the Mecklenburg Jail.

George Walter Brooks, negro, who escaped from the Huntersville prison camp along with Buchanan had previously been arrested and placed in jail here.

Officers said both negroes readily admitted attacking the woman, wife of a farmer at Derita, about five miles from Charlotte.

Colored News

Pitt County Farm Labor News. One of the best things to remember in these trying days that God wills the five stages of development for the human family. First, the individual; second, the home; third, the community; fourth, the state and nation; and fifth, the world.

Once it was enough to think of only our city or community, however humble or great it might be. Many of us were prone to have small spheres of thinking or experiences. Today our boys in all sections of the state, country and world, are fighting and suffering that their families and loved ones will never know the horror of falling bombs and starving millions.

These boys out there are depending on us, yes, every one of us to do his best for him. Those of you who live in the urban districts of Pitt county are urged to join the Victory Farm Volunteer Group. This group will help do farm work as often as they can. Our farms feed our boys.

The school students, college students, civic organizations, churches, businessmen and all others who helped the farmers last crop season did a wonderful job. This year we are asking all the above mentioned groups to lend a helping hand.

We know that many crops are larger this year and that many a farm boy has gone into service since last year. Therefore, the experience gained from last year's farm work will help these urban people to do a better job this year.

The response has been most encouraging in all sections of Pitt county to farm labor needs. Al-
