New Allied Gains On Italian Front

Reach Positions 10 Miles North And Northwest Of Rome; Nazi Resistance Only Spotty; Mediterranean Air Force Blasts Several Vital Balkan Points

By NOLAN NORGAARD

Allied Headquarters, Naples, June 7.—(AP)—Fifth army troops pounding after the retreating Germans, advanced rapidly in the direction of Civitavecchia, 40 miles northwest of Rome, it was announced today. The town is the nearest important port to Rome on the Tyrrhenian sea.

The advance on this sector paralleled drives north and west of Rome which had already reached more than 10 miles.

It was noted that the German communiqué said the Allies achieved "a major break" in the German lines on the coastal road west of Rome, and "again launched a big attack" with superior infantry and tank forces.

One column pushing beyond Rome earlier was reported only five miles from Lake Bracciano.

Another column has driven at least 10 miles northwest of the Italian capital after crossing the Tiber and still is forging steadily ahead behind enemy rearguards.

Patrols probing west from Rome reached points three to five miles from the sea and nearly a dozen miles north of the Tiber's mouth.

Only spotty resistance was being encountered by the Fifth army forces but the Eighth army was engaged in brisk battles with strong German delaying forces in the mountainous sectors east of the capital.

New Zealand troops captured Balorano, about six miles north of Sorà, in their advance up highway 32 toward Avezzano.

The newest gains were reported after Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Allied commander-in-chief in Italy, in a broadcast to Italian patriots, declared that "in less than a month, the strength of the German armies has been broken."

Alexander urged the patriots to rise against the Nazis and do all in their power to sabotage enemy communications and hinder Kesselring's efforts to disengage his troops and retire northward.

"The liberation of Italy now is well under way," the Allied commander declared.

The total of prisoners taken in the Allied Italian offensive still was rising steadily with the Fifth army alone now claiming more than 18,000.

War Statistics

(By The Associated Press) Some figures on the invasion of France:

More than 900 C-47 troop transports and gliders were used in the opening blow. The "train," nine planes wide, was 200 miles long as it went across the English channel 300 feet above water. Today another "train," 50 miles long, poured in reinforcements.

Thirteen thousand individual flights were made by Allied planes in the first day of invasion. Premier Churchill said 11,000 planes were available. On the seas were 4,000 ships and many more lighter craft.

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—The army air forces, says General H. H. Arnold, their commander, dropped 174,719 tons of bombs against Germany and 43,065 tons against Japan during the first four months of 1944.

To do it they flew 218,877 sorties against Germany and 83,292 against Tokyo, and during that period destroyed 5,783 German and 1,379 Jap planes. The tonnage dropped during the four months was greater than for the whole of 1943.

Arnold made the report to the House Appropriations committee in its study of a $49,000,000,000 army appropriations bill.

Losses of American pilots are "much lower" than estimates on which training of replacements was based, and General Arnold believes that "about fifty percent" of air force personnel listed as lost will turn up later as prisoners of war.

General Arnold considers the Focke-Wulf 109 and the Messerschmitt 109 and 110 "worthy antagonists in the air" and said the "big German jet bombers compare very favorably with ours," while the Focke-Wulf long-range bombers compare favorably with our (Continued on page two)

Debt Limit Bill Finally Passed

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Legislation boosting the nation's debt limit from 210 billion to 300 billion dollars, and at the same time reducing the cabaret tax from 30 to 20 per cent, was approved finally by Congress today and sent to the White House.

The measure clears a legal path for the opening June 12 of the $16,000,000,000 Fifth war loan.

The night club tax was tacked on the debt ceiling bill by the Senate, but another Senate provision—exempting service men and women from payment of the levy—was erased.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press War Analyst) Hitler's undoubtedly powerful Atlantic wall, behind which he has straggled and threatened, has been broken at one of its strongest points.

The landings which were begun on the Cherbourg peninsula of Normandy in yesterday's stormy dawn have been continued. Commander in Chief Eisenhower's headquarters tell us that "satisfactory progress has been made."

That's an amazing feat and gratifying far beyond anticipations, but we must remember that this is only the beginning. We don't even know that this is intended as the major assault or that the main thrust won't come somewhere else. What we do know, and it's important, is this:

The all-out German counterattacks are still to come.

Under normal circumstances a concerted Nazi local counter-attack wouldn't be mounted before today. It might be several days before reserves were brought up for a full-scale assault.

Remember that the coastline is thinly held by the Germans, and that Hitler's reservoir of reserves is far back of the coastal defenses. He has it strategically situated for quick movement in any direction.

He isn't going to risk flinging an army at any invasion thrust until he is sure that it is the main enemy landing—or at least one of them. If he rushed a big force to Normandy the first thing, and the Allies then aimed a lightning blow at another distant point, he would be in a wretched trouble.

As a matter of fact, one would expect the Allies to pursue just such tactics. This doesn't mean that the Normandy invasion isn't the main one. Time alone will tell us that. I should say much depends on how things go there. If they progress swimmingly, the Allies presumably will develop this landing to the full.

The Cherbourg peninsula is an ideal invasion base. There we have not only one of the finest ports in the world, but a railway direct to Paris, and a terrain suitable for air troops and an easy movement of troops and equipment.

However, even if Normandy represents the main thrust, Hitler certainly is expecting other landings—probably several of them. The purpose of this diversity would be to keep the Germans off balance all the time in the matter of where to send their reserves for defense.

Also, obviously we weaken the enemy by compelling him to divide his forces. The Hitlerites may have three quarters of a million men in France, but that's too few if they have to defend both the Atlantic and the Mediterranean coastlines.

Where will other Allied attacks, if any, be made? Well, there are a lot of likely spots north of Normandy and closer to our main base—England. They're heavily fortified and mighty tough, but any one of them would produce a jack-pot if we were lucky.

We have the naval and air power to enable Eisenhower to play the game about the way he likes. He may make several attacks which are intended merely as diversions. However, unexpected success at any point might mean a quick development of the landing into an integral part of the general assault.

One likely looking spot is in the Rhone valley of southern France, on the Mediterranean. There's a big French army eagerly waiting for action, and if it were thrown in there it certainly would raise hob with the Nazis by forcing them to defend a front so far separated from northern France. It's worth watching.

For the moment, let's temper our enthusiasm with caution.

WOULD RAISE INFANTRY PAY

Stimson Says Doughboys Suffer Most Casualties

By CLAIR JOHNSON

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Emphasizing the great and dangerous task of American soldiers driving into Europe, Secretary of War Stimson told Congress today that when it comes to casualties, the infantry suffers most.

He reported, for instance, that in the North African theater, including the hard-fought Italian campaign, the infantry represented only 19 1/2 per cent of the total strength, but suffered 70 per cent of the casualties.

Stimson gave the figures in a letter to House Speaker Rayburn asking legislation for increased pay to specially skilled infantrymen.

Stimson urged action to provide $5 a month salary boost for doughboys holding the expert infantryman's badge and $10 a month for those with the combat infantryman's badge.

Cost of the increase would total $5 to 74 million dollars yearly, he said.

"The proposed legislation will be a vital contribution to the maintenance of a high state of morale, discipline and individual initiative," Stimson declared.

He commented, however, that "the proposed pay increases are not (Continued on page two)

Allied Air Forces In Command Over Europe

Airmen Furnishing Complete Umbrella For Invading Forces And Smashing Nazi Communications

By W. W. HERBERG

London, June 7.—(AP)—Allied air forces, taking supreme command of the air over invaded France, flew well over 13,000 sorties from dawn yesterday until dawn today in support of assault forces and airdrop attacks beyond the beachhead.

Last night more than 1,000 heavy British bombers poured a stream of explosives upon German reinforcements moving toward the fighting front. As they returned, U. S. raiders headed out over Dover strait toward the small portion of France which has been recaptured.

Sun broke through rain clouds as the formations swung out, led by coverts of American Thunderbolt fighters.

Night crews found the sky moonlit over the battle area, with patches of cloud. Through clear spots they saw a heavy traffic of ships crossing the channel in both directions, the smaller ones escorted by naval craft.

Over France fires flickered and the air was cut by arcs of star shells. Driven down by unfavorable weather and a determination to put their bombs where they will count most, almost all types of Allied aircraft operated at lower levels than usual. Almost total darkness was possible, although danger from anti-aircraft fire increased considerably.

Never before had the world seen such a mighty demonstration of air power.

The measure of the almost incredible weak opposition from the German air force was reflected in the loss of 13 British heavy bombers, one American heavy bomber and 17 Allied fighters. As resistance in the air began to increase slowly yesterday 53 enemy planes were destroyed.

The American Ninth air force—now probably the largest in the world and essentially a tactical unit—flew more than 4,000 sorties from dawn Tuesday to dawn today. More than 1,300 sorties were flown by heavy bombers and fighters of the Eighth U. S. air force.

The Allies maintained constant fighter patrol over a 60-mile square of France, with Le Havre approximately (Continued on page two)

Penetrate into Changsha; Americans Gain On Biak

By WILLIAM PHILIPS

Associated Press War Editor Japanese troops have hammered into the outskirts of Changsha, vital Hankow-Canton railway city in China's central Hunan province, Chungking reported today.

The Japanese closed the final 22-mile gap to the provincial capital against Chinese resistance, as there as that being put up by Japanese on Biak island where American invasion troops were edging toward air-dromes within bomber range of the Philippines.

In China's Yunnan province, however, Chinese troops, knifing along the Salween front, drove the Japanese from Chiaoou and reaching Changsha and Waipei.

American on Biak extended one column within a mile and one-half of Moker airbase, stubbornly defended prize on the largest island of the Schouten group of Dutch New Guinea. RUSSIA READY FOR NEW DRIVE

Moscow Still Jubilant Over Allied Invasion

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, June 7.—(AP)—Russia is prepared to throw the great weight of the Red army into the growing offensive against Germany, Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, said today.

"A strong, mounting attack of all the armies of the United Nations will be fully developed," Red Star said.

The great armies which Teherran gave solemn promise not to make a separate peace are beginning to move forward for a meeting in Berlin, the newspaper added.

Muscovites got up early this morning to read the freshest invasion bulletins, despite one of the wildest nights of celebration during the war. Outside my window the radio is flaring forth the latest details, and the Soviet press, in an unprecedented display, turned over whole pages to the momentous military operations Russia had long awaited.

All newspapers published a picture of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the supreme commander of the Allied expeditionary force.

Pravda, in addition to a three-column picture of Eisenhower before an American flag, gave similar space to a picture of an Allied landing bargo.

Major Gen. Mikhail Galaktionov, writing in Pravda, said "bloodshed in the name of the common countries in the east, west and south will solidify even more the understanding of the great alliance."

Unconfirmed Reports Say Invaders Have Penetrated 12 Miles; Air-Borne Troops Have Seized Bridges And Towns; Nazis Report Attempted Landings At Calais

By WES GALLAGHER

Supreme Advance Command Post Allied Expeditionary Force, June 7. (AP)—Allied troops have struck inland in France in heavy fighting, repulsing Nazi counter-blows near Caen nine miles from the coast. After clearing the enemy from all their landing beaches and linking up some of the beachheads.

Reports from the Cherbourg peninsula invasion front showed "decided improvement" at midday, and the Allies are making "considerable progress on the whole front" despite bad weather and stiffening resistance, a headquarters officer said.

(DNB said in a Berlin broadcast today that an entire Allied airborne division has been landed on the western coast of the Normandy peninsula.

(A broadcast by the anti-Nazi Atlantic underground station in Germany, heard by NSG, said today Nazi forces had given up the town of Bayeux, six miles inland on the battle with the Allies).

Both sides dropped airborne troops into the flaming battlefront with Allied paratroopers and glider troops pouring down early today from a 50-mile-long reinforcing sky train.

Caen is at the base of the Cherbourg peninsula, and southwest of Le Havre.

The initial beachheads—which the Germans said extended over more than a 50-mile stretch—have been cleared and some linked with those nearby, a few may still be under German artillery fire.

Air headquarters declared the Allied air forces in unbroken support of the invasion, which had flown more than 31,000 sorties between June 3 and last night.

Says Churchill Wanted To Go

London, June 7.—(AP)—It took a lot of persuading to keep Prime Minister Churchill from accompanying the invasion forces when they stormed the beaches of France, it was disclosed today.

Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsey, Allied naval commander, told a correspondent that he convinced the prime minister "only with much difficulty" not to go along.

Ramsay said he pointed out to Churchill that the extra work involved in safeguarding him would be very great and the Prime Minister finally relented.

Today On The Home Front

JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Police and district attorneys may see in a supreme court decision this week a loophole for getting away with the third degree by giving it a new twist.

Take it step by step. A man's confession to a crime, if the confession is obtained from him involuntarily, can't be used against him at his trial.

The constitution forbids such use. It says no one shall be compelled in a criminal case to be a witness against himself.

But here's the case of W. D. Lyons, 26, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in the killing of three people in Choctaw county, Okla. After the slaying the house was set afire and the bodies burned to cover the crime.

When the highest Oklahoma courts upheld his conviction, Lyons appealed to the supreme court to set it aside. This week the court refused. It upheld the Oklahoma courts.

This was Lyons' story: For 10 hours state officers questioned him; force was used to make him confess; a pan 'of the victim's bones' was laid in his lap. He confessed.

Within 12 hours he was removed to the penitentiary where again he confessed, this time to the warden. No force was used this time.

But he says the only reason he confessed the second time was because he was still affected by the "human treatment" used on him to get the first confession.

At the trial the prosecution didn't use the first confession. It used the second, offering it as a voluntary confession, over Lyons' attorney's protest.

The trial judge told the jury to decide whether it was voluntary. The supreme court thought this instruction in keeping with the con-sultion. It thought Lyons' trial was fair.

The supreme court also considered the second confession voluntary and for this reason: that, by the time he made it, any effect of the force used on him to get the first confession had worn off.

But Justice Murphy dissented from this majority opinion and said:

"To conclude that the brutality inflicted at the time of the first confession suddenly lost all of its effect in the short space of 12 hours is to close one's eyes to the realities of human nature."

"Presumably, therefore, this decision means that state officers are free to force a confession from an individual by ruthless methods, knowing full well that they are not using such a confession at the trial, and then, as part of the same continuing transaction and before the effects of the coercion can fairly be said to have completely worn off, procure another confession without any immediate violence being inflicted."

Following Murphy's reasoning, this could happen:

John Jones is beaten by Police to make him confess. He does. Two hours later a fresh batch of cops asks him if he will confess. They don't touch him, but, hearing another testifying, he confesses again.

That first confession is not used against him at his trial. But the second is. The police claim he made it voluntarily.

U.S. Warships Play Big Role In The Invasion

(By The Associated Press)

London, June 7.—Successful beyond all expectation in the first round of its huge task, a great combined fleet of American and British naval vessels dominated the invasion routes across the English channel today, protecting the masses of men and machines rushed to support yesterday's successful landings.

British Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, Allied naval commander-in-chief, declared his forces were 100 per cent successful in the convoy job against an anticipated loss of 10 per cent of the assault forces.

"We have won the first round," Ramsay said confidently. "I can see no sign that the enemy will be in a position to beat us in the second round."

He added that it was "remarkable" that the Allies had lost only a few combat ships and this did not affect the result of the initial invasion assault.

President Roosevelt announced yesterday in Washington that the American losses were two destroyers and one LST (landing ship, tanks).

The flags of two United States admirals flew on two United States cruisers in the assault in which Allied warships poured thousands of rounds of shells into the German coastal fortifications and beat off weak enemy attempts on the sea to forestall the invasion.

Rear Admiral Alton Goodrich Kirk, commander of one of the task forces, directed part of the operation from the U. S. cruiser Augusta. Rear Admiral Morton L. Deyo was on the Tuscaloosa. The staunch old American battleship Nevada, rear-manned and renovated after heavy damage at Pearl Harbor, was in the van of the big naval ships. Among the ships engaged was the famous British light cruiser Scylla, heroine of many a sea fight, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Sir Philip Vian, who was overall command of the task forces engaged.

Also reported in action were the American battleships Texas and Arkansas, as well as the British battleships Nelson, Ramillies and Warspite, cruisers Glasgow, Enterprise and Orion and the Canadian destroyers Sioux and Algonquin.

Demonstrating anew the naval might of Britain and the United States, 600 ships blasted the Nazi-held shore defenses with a hurricane of fire, pounding away with everything from 16-inch rifles to 4-inchers, pouring in 2,000 tons of shells every 10 minutes to prepare the way for the landings.

As the landing forces dashed through gaps blasted in the German's boasted Atlantic wall, the Allied ships ploughed on to shatter other defense areas along the coast.

Polish, Dutch, Norwegian, French and Greek ships joined in to make it a really Allied naval show.

After the combat ships did their work the channel swarmed with landing craft of every description bearing men and yet more men and all the varied equipment and munitions needed for modern warfare.

It was said officially that naval casualties were "very light."

"Our plan was a set piece of great momentum that there was no doubt forces, directed part of the operation from the U. S. cruiser Augusta, Rear Admiral Morton L. Deyo was on the Tuscaloosa. The staunch old American battleship Nevada, rear-manned and renovated after heavy damage at Pearl Harbor, was in the

Talked Too Much

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force June 7.—(AP)—One of America's best known major generals was demoted to lieutenant colonel and sent home for indicating in advance the time of D-day.

The supreme command allowed this information to be cabled abroad today after holding it up several weeks for security reasons.

Supreme headquarters would not permit the officer's name to be cabled. He was one of the commanders of the U. S. air force. An army man of long standing, he swiftly felt the supreme command axe after talking indiscreetly at a London cocktail party.

The conversation was said to have taken place almost two months ago when the invasion was expected almost daily. The general was reported to have said in the presence of several persons: "On my honor the invasion will take place before June 15."

His action was reported to security police by a woman guest and Gen. Eisenhower immediately ordered him reduced to the permanent rank of lieutenant colonel and sent him after an investigation.

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—The major general who was reduced to his permanent grade of lieutenant colonel and sent home for indicating in advance the time of D-day was identified today by the War Department as Lt. Col. Henry J. F. Miller, of Salem, N. J.

Two little girls were looking at Bible pictures one of which was "The Good Shepherd." One of the youngsters pointed to it and said, "Look, that's a picture of God." "No," replied the other, "That's not God, that's Jesus. God never had His photograph taken."

Children have a way of seeing great biblical truths and expressing them quite plainly in simple language. The youngster here pointed out two things which the Bible certainly teaches. The first is that no man at any time has seen God. To use the little girl's words, He has not had His photograph taken. The other truth she saw very plainly was that when we look at the picture of Jesus, we see the picture of God. "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father," said Jesus. St. Paul declared that the light of the knowledge of the glory of God is to be seen in the face of Jesus Christ.

This means for us that we are never to become discouraged and feel that God is far away and has no interest in our problems. He came into the life of the world to deal with the sinners. He allowed His Son to take upon Himself the form of a man and live the human life with all its trials and disciplines. When we think of God as He manifested Himself to us in Jesus Christ, He seems very near. And because He is near, the Bible urges us never to lose hope.

 mainly at its northeast corner. At least 200 fighters were protecting it every minute and enemy planes which attempted to penetrate it were virtually condemned to death.

First enemy air attack on the beachhead was made by 12 JU-88's which attempted a surprise raid under low clouds. Spitfires knocked down four and the Nazis retreated without causing any damage.

In the past, bombers attacked two types of targets—gun posts and communication lines close to the fighting lines, and railway yards behind German lines at Amiens and between Amiens and Paris.

Each strong air attack was designed to block or delay the movement of men and material which the enemy is attempting to bring up by every available means of transport. Flying only short distances from their bases, the big British Lancasters and Halifaxes carried tremendous loads of explosives.

In addition to blasting targets in France the night raiders penetrated into Germany to bomb Ludwigshafen, a British announcement said.

The announcement declared that all planes returned safely from the overnight operations, which also included laying of mines in enemy waters.

 and helped throw back Nazi tank-led counterblows. The Germans likewise rushed in paratroopers.

Headquarters said reports early this morning indicated Allied forces had accomplished less than scheduled, but that later word made the situation a cause for neither pessimism nor optimism, but "sober satisfaction."

Heavy German counter attacks may be expected, and Berlin said Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was rushing up reserves of the German seventh and 15th armies.

For four months the Germans have been building an airborne army for just this purpose, led by Lt. Gen. Kurt Student, who engineered landings in Crete. RAF Spitfires last night destroyed five Junkers-52 troop carriers.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley is commanding the U. S. ground forces in the assault on Europe, headquarters disclosed.

The Germans said they beat off new landing attempts near Calais, 150 miles northeast of Cherbourg, but later their reports indicated German coastal guns merely fired at Allied ships in the area and there were no indications supreme headquarters was trying to invade there.

Allied invasion task forces have been sailing in feints past many points, keeping the Germans in doubt where the next landings would come.

In their 50-mile-long aerial train, three waves of U. S. ninth air force gliders carried "a steady stream of men, equipment and supplies" to forces already fighting inland on Cherbourg peninsula, supreme headquarters said.

Airborne troops have seized bridges and roads, and joined seacoast troops at some points, front dispatches said, and some towns have been captured.

The peninsula, aflame with fighting again supported by Allied sea and air power, was strewn with colored parachutes of troops and engineers, rations and equipment dropped from the sky. Two of the reinforcing air waves were two-plane glider combinations.

The German high command admitted "superior forces" had established beachheads more than 40 miles apart, at the mouth of the Orne river and north of Carentan. Orne river broadcast said American troops, steadily being reinforced, were engaged near St. Mere Eglise, between Carentan and Cherbourg near the peninsula's tip.

DNB said the Allied bridgehead at the Orne river was about 21 miles wide and six miles deep at points, but declared a thrust to seize the town of Caen, nine miles inland, had been repulsed. There were consistent reports of heavy fighting at Caen.

Berlin radio clearly indicated the airborne assaults were spreading great confusion behind German lines, and said the Nazis had been duped by "parachuting sacks of straw loaded with explosives that blew up when they were touched."

"Satisfactory progress" is being made in the historic invasion continuing under thundering blows by great sea and sky fleets, headquarters announced, and cautious officers described the tricky airborne operations as "a complete success."

Field reports said American doughboys were making "excellent progress," biting deep into France. Berlin dispatches to Stockholm said six Allied airborne divisions totalling 25,000 men had been divided since Tuesday morning.

Headquarters still did not identify initial objectives of the American and British and Canadian infantrymen and airborne troops.

"No further attempt at interference with our sea-borne landing was made by enemy naval forces," the bulletin said.

"Those coastal batteries still in action are being bombarded by Allied warships."

Most of the communique was devoted to the tremendous aerial assistance being given the Allied ground troops.

While noting increased enemy air operations, there still was no sign that Reichsmarshal Herman Goerring had begun to risk his weaker sky arm with big-scale attacks.

The Germans reported vigorous fighting over a broad front and one Nazi broadcast suggested new Allied landings north of Le Havre.

But supreme headquarters flatly declined to give any details of the land fighting on the grounds the Germans were fishing for information and did not know the exact extent of the Allied attack.

Staff officers at this morning's conferences here spent most of their time warning correspondents what they could not say, but did state that there had been "heavy landing fighting on many beaches," but that most of these beaches now were out of "direct" fire.

U. S. infantrymen have been making "excellent progress," and penetrating deeply into France, field reports said. The extent of the advance was not disclosed.

Many veterans are in the American assault group led by battle-tried officers whose names have not been announced.

"Air-borne operations were resumed successfully last night," the communique said tersely.

The American navy announced that there had been no more American naval losses since President Roosevelt's statement yesterday that two destroyers and one landing craft had been sunk.

The German navy was conspicuous by its absence, although the Nati air force started to react violently toward nightfall Tuesday, sharply engaging the last strategic missions

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion?  YES  NO
Do you feel headachy after eating?  YES  NO
Do you get sour or upset easily?  YES  NO
Do you feel tired—listless?  YES  NO

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested, be sour and heavy within you. Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after. Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's, taken as directed, aid digestion after Nature's own order. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢. You'll be glad you did.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
June 7, 1904

Rain was expected last night but did not come.

Potatoes were quoted in New York today at $4.50 to $5.50.

Good for Greensboro women. The Record says they have set a new pace by doing away with all manner of headgear and going to church bareheaded at night during the hot weather. The innovation will bring joy to the male portion of the congregation as well as comfort to the female.

YOUTH MOVEMENT TO CLOSE RALLY TONIGHT

The Christian Youth Movement will close its three-day rally tonight at 8 o'clock with a communion service at the Eighth Street Christian Church. This worship service will be opened by the young people and the ministers of Greenville will conduct the communion service. All young people and interested persons are invited to attend this service.

A banquet for the young people will be held at 8:15 tonight at the Eighth Street Church. Father Maurice Tew will be the speaker.

Today's morning worship program centered around the words of the hymn, "I Would Be True."

The discussion period in the afternoon was used for reports from the study groups. Miss Mamie Chandler conducted recreation in the church basement.

All delegates to the rally were entertained by Mr. W. F. Young at his home Tuesday evening. Rev. Robert Bradshaw led the group in several interesting games and songs. To the singing of "Jacob's Ladder" a friendship circle by candlelight was formed out on the lawn. Ed Batchelor read the poem, "Youth Can I Reach You." Ralph Fleming led in prayer and Harper Darden pronounced the benediction. The service was closed by everyone singing "Taps." Rev. F. W. Weisman, who was the speaker last evening, and the out-of-town delegates were special guests.

Crown 4-H Kings And Queens Here

Impressive exercises were held at Cotanche Street Park yesterday afternoon when the senior and junior health kings and queens of Pitt county were crowned.

J. C. Whitehurst, Jr., of the Pierce 4-H club was crowned senior king. Gladys Crawford of the Bell Arthur 4-H club was crowned senior queen.

Jay Flanagan of Lang's 4-H club and Coleen Winberry of the Falkland 4-H club were crowned junior king and queen, respectively.

Miss Edna Kirby, assistant home demonstration agent, and S. C. Winchester, assistant county agent, directed the program.

The program included songs, "Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag," welcome by Guy McLawhorn, narration by S. J. Weeks, procession of kings and queens, poem by Patricia Jackson, crowning of county rulers (senior and junior kings and queens) by Floyd F. Hendrix, county farm agent; Virginia Worthington was song leader; songs: "Health Song," by 4-H member; "Song of the Open Country," by 4-H member; court dance, king and queen; songs, "Dreaming," by 4-H member and "The Flower Song"; dance by Winterville 4-H club and the 4-H club pledge.

The program was presented in an entertaining and impressive manner, the young people manifesting special interest and exceptional talents and ability. It was one of the best presented here in several years. It demonstrated what the boys and girls are accomplishing under proper direction at home and from the 4-H club and state and county leaders.

County Farm Agent Hendrix congratulated the 4-H club members and their leaders and Miss Kirby and Mr. Winchester for the good work done during the past year. He likened the development of good, strong and healthy bodies to the building of a house, with a good foundation, good environment and a cheerful spirit. He urged the boys and girls to face the future with a determination to keep their bodies healthy, to urge others to do likewise and to develop sturdy and lofty characters for their various tasks in the great game of life.

Grimesland Man Wins Citation

Somewhere in the Pacific.—A pair of Marine officers from North and South Carolina shared the limelight recently when medals and decorations were presented at this base to those whose conspicuous gallantry helped wrest Eilwetok from the Japs last February.

The Bronze Star medal was presented to First Lieutenant Fodee H. Hodges, son of E. D. Hodges of Grimesland, N. C., for meritorious achievement as platoon leader of an assault rifle company.

Hodges' citation credited him with unusual leadership, ability, courage and coolness in the face of heavy enemy machine gun and mortar fire on Engebi Island. One of his non-commissioned officers gave a more detailed account of First Lieutenant Hodges' heroism. When only one man was left to operate a machine gun, the Grimesland Marine helped repel Japanese counter-attack in the early stages of the invasion.

IN MEMORIAM

God walked in the midst of His garden
And gently viewed the place.
He saw it would make Heaven
Brighter
If He added one dear sweet fact.

He reached down and plucked from earth's treasures
Our loved one to fill the space,
A jewel beyond earth's value,
One who cannot be replaced.

We thank God for lending him to us
And for His goodness and love,
Before He decided to take him

We loved him and will forever
As he lives in God's beautiful home,
And pray to go there and meet him
When our work here is done.

Protected and loved and cherished,
While time here on earth unfolds,
Our precious son in the Heavenly home
Is walking the streets of gold.

(Dedicated to
Bruce Erwin Skinner
By His Mother)

New Allied . . .

The Germans "appear to be forming small battle groups composed of elements from varied units" pulled hastily together to fight desperate delaying actions.

The Mediterranean Allied airforce joined yesterday in the many-fold assault on Hitler's Europe by sending between 500 and 750 Flying Fortress and Liberator into the Balkans. Targets included the oil refineries at Ploesti, rail yards at Brasov and Pitesti and the "Iron Gate" canal at Turnu-Severin in Romania, and rail targets at Belgrade, Yugoslavia. Thirty-four enemy planes were destroyed against a loss of 16 heavy bombers and 17 other aircraft.

These air attacks from the Mediterranean came as other American bombers from the new shuttle bases in Russia were striking out against a German air field in Romania.

Targets north of Rome were attacked from the air last night, the Daily communique said.

Jarvis St. Grocery

Reopens Tomorrow

Announcement is being made today through the columns of The Reflector of the reopening tomorrow morning of the Jarvis Jarvis Street Food Market, located on the corner of Third and Jarvis streets, in College View.

The store, which was damaged by fire several weeks ago, has been completely remodeled and stocked with fresh, new merchandise, and presents a very attractive appearance. It will afford patrons living in College View the convenience of doing their complete grocery and meat shopping within easy reach of their homes, thus saving time and gasoline ordinarily spent on downtown trips.

As a special feature of the reopening, besides the attractive grocery specials which the store is offering, Tommy Calhoun, the manager, has arranged to present each customer tomorrow, including the children, with an attractive favor or gift, as long as the supply lasts.

L. S. Garris, owner of the store, is well known throughout this section, having been connected with the grocery business in Greenville for more than twenty years. Mr. Garris has built for himself an enviable reputation for high quality merchandise, honesty and fair dealing.

Mr. Garris and Mr. Calhoun today joined in assuring the public that the same high quality merchandise and courteous service would be maintained at the Jarvis Street grocery as that offered at the main store located downtown at Fifth and Cotanche streets.

Tobacco Crop Needs

Rain In This Belt

R. C. (Bob) Rankin, supervisor of the Greenville tobacco market, today issued the following report on the condition of the crop:

It has been extremely dry for several weeks and as a result the eastern Carolina tobacco crop has paid a big toll in plants. Dry weather and a hot sun have combined to burn a lot of the transplanted tobacco plants. At present stands are both irregular and broken. One Martin county grower described his crop as follows: It looks like one big plant, five small ones and four dead ones.

The tobacco in the field is off to a poor start, growing slowly and farmers are still re-setting in an effort to secure stands. There are also numerous complaints of damage from cut, bud and wire worms.

Of course, there are exceptions in all cases. There are some fields with uniform stand that have grown normally but at present the general condition of the Eastern Belt crop ranges from poor to fair. However, as discouraging as the outlook is at this time the right kind of season can bring the crop out of its slump.

A Switch in Time saved Nine . . .

I remember from school.

I once had to do a composition about the world's greatest invention being wheels. Just think of gear-wheels, water-wheels, and especially all the wheels for transportation! But right now the greatest thing of all, I'd say, is to keep wheels going; keeping your car in service, for instance. There's this and that to help you. There's one motor oil and another. Now from what I know, the explosions in any engine must produce acids, which brings up the bright idea of safely OIL-PLATING your engine's insides with Conoco Nth motor oil. You want to prevent damage from acids . . . internal corrosion! Some things are especially good at fighting corrosion, and OIL-PLATING comes in that class. Even chromium plating, just for comparison, couldn't stay closer to working parts than this protective OIL-PLATING. It battles corrosion, so as to help you preserve your transportation as soon as you switch to Conoco Nth oil.
