Pursuing Allies Occupy Important Road Junction; Another Fifth Army Spearhead Driving Ahead 71 Miles Northwest Of Rome; Eighth Army Also Advances

By EDWARD KENNEDY Rome, June 12.—(AP)—Fifth army troops have occupied Montefiascone, an important road junction near the shores of Lake Bolsena, and other columns pushing along the Italian west coast are approaching Ormetello, 71 miles northwest of Rome, Allied headquarters announced today.

Eighth army columns advancing up both sides of the Tiber neared Bagno Reggione west of the river and Rieti east of it.

In the mountainous central sector, Avezzano and its neighboring villages have been occupied while in the Adriatic sector all Germans have been cleared from the area south of the Pescara river and Allied troops have pushed ahead to maintain contact with the withdrawing Germans.

A gain of 15 miles was announced for Fifth army units along the west coast. Near Mublatello the Germans counter-attacked with two companies, but the Americans beat them back and continued the drive. Among the areas to fall into Allied hands was Laze Zucino near Avezzano, which some years ago was drained and now is a 45,000-acre tract of rich farm land.

Headquarters disclosed that the Sixth South African Armored division was among the Eighth army units which advanced through the Liri and Sacco valleys.

After distinguishing itself in engagements there, this division made a "ghost move" by entering Fifth army territory, passing swiftly through Rome despite the congestion of the city and then shooting northward more than 50 miles up the west bank of the Tiber.

"It is now quite clear," a headquarters announcement said, "that the original 14th army of (Col. Gen. Eberhard) von Mackensen has been dispersed to the four winds.

"All that remains is a few scattered remnants who mainly are engaged in stealing one another's transport to get away as fast as possible. Prisoners describe the situation as wholly chaotic.

"The most striking evidence of the degree of disintegration was provided by the fact that captured stragglers were provided with identification papers as authorized (Continued on page two)

Authorize Sale Of Odd Lot Shoes

Washington, June 12.—(AP)—Shoe purchasers will have a chance at about seven million pairs ration-free from July 10 to July 29 during a national "odd lot" sale. The Office of Price Administration announced today.

And the shoes must cost at least 25 per cent less than their price on June 1, OPA declared. This "odd-lot" sale will include footwear for men and women, boys sizes 1 to 6 but not children's, misses' and little boys' shoes which were included in the temporarily ration-free shoes for three weeks in May.

Today On The Home Front JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, June 12.—(AP)—If you're paying on a declaration by estimated federal income tax—because of income not covered by the withholding system—you may want to file an amended declaration and change your June 15 payment.

There won't be any penalty if the recent change in the law results in an underestimate of your tax as finally figured next March. However, you might find a new declaration worthwhile in either of two cases:

1. If the new tax simplification or a change in dependency in your family reduces your tax.

2. If the new law raises your tax and you want to spread out the increase over three payments. This applies particularly to childless married couples.

The tax simplification law reduces the 1944 tax for those with two or more dependents. What's more, it broadened the definition of dependent to include any close relative dependent for more than half of his or her support during the year. The only other requirement is that the dependent must have less than $500 of income during the year. (Income of more than $500 makes a person a taxpayer, regardless of age.)

This change removed the age limit. Now a taxpayer sending a son or daughter to college may take an exemption for the child even if more than 18 years old.

The new definition also works out in these ways: 1. A full-year exemption is granted for a child born any time during

Students To Act

Summer school students of East Carolina Teachers College will hold a mass meeting at 6:30 tomorrow (Tuesday) evening for the purpose of discussing the recent action of the board of trustees in dismissing certain members of the faculty and for the purpose of "introducing a resolution concerning the matter" according to announcement made by student body representatives today.

There are approximately 400 students enrolled for the summer term. The announcement was to the effect that the petition calling the meeting had already received more than the required number of signatures. The meeting will be held in Austin auditorium and interested citizens are invited to attend, the announcement said.

The following editorials on the East Carolina Teachers College controversy appeared in today's issues of The Greensboro Daily News and The Raleigh News and Observer:

DEMORALIZING STATURE Further evidence that not all is sweetness and light at East Carolina Teachers college, despite retirement of Dr. Leon R. Meadows, is given by information which leaked out at Greenville after the institution's board of trustees, although engaged in public business, failed to make any announcement thereof.

Dispatches from the Pitt county capital, locale of the Pitt county state superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the board for some inconceivable reason, and written on June 6. It was not until June 9, however, that the information became available through unofficial sources. Which, in and of itself, is an amazing feat.

The Daily News recalls quite definitely that Governor Broughton, when told of reports that students who demanded the resignation of President Meadows and further investigation into the college's affairs, declared that these students had every right to assemble and express their views and that the full power of his office would be used to guarantee and protect that right for them. Where does the right of faculty members come in? How are they to be protected from duress or suppression?

The stature of the board of trustees, who it seems to us has never been called into account as it should have been for what happened at the institution under its charge, continues to diminish in the mind of a public who remembers that its official action was to exonerate an official against whom a Pitt county grand jury subsequently found sufficient evidence to return an indictment.—Greensboro Daily News

21st ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS—Two major American forces have completed a strong fusión in France and have sent in a demand for surrender of Carentan, one of the major early objectives of the invasion.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, A. E. F.—U. S. pilots over France and Paris is either down or damaged as a result of air attack, and the Germans are resorting to the use of ferries.

Today RAF rocket planes attacked these, and sank two ferry boats and set the ferry docks on fire at Bierville.

A U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND—The superiority of American fighter pilots over Germans in the French invasion skies was illustrated sharply today when a squadron of 12 Thunderbolts broke up an attack of 20 ME109's and shot down 10 of them in 20 minutes at a cost of one Thunderbolt.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, A. E. F.—U. S. pilots over France continue today the strongest Luftwaffe resistance since the invasion began. Eighth airforce headquarters announced, but "pilots succeeded for the most part in carrying out their dive bombing and strafing missions behind German lines."

WASHINGTON—Loss of the submarine chaser PC-558 during action in the Mediterranean on May 9, was announced by the navy today.

The department did not disclose details on personnel losses, saying only that "next of kin of casualties have been notified." Vessels of that class usually have a complement of about 60 men.

BALTIMORE—Army medical care in the south Pacific is "way above the average at home at any time" in the opinion of Col. George G. Finney, commanding officer of the Johns Hopkins Hospital unit in that area.

Col. Finney, who returned to Baltimore on a 30-day leave, said he based his appraisal on his observations during visits to that hospital in southern France is disintegrating, except where it is close to German protection, and that French underground forces are cutting communications between enemy garrisons.

Meanwhile, in the harshest of a series of German steps aimed at subduing the increasing resistance behind Nazi lines, Field Marshal Gen. Karl Gerd von Rundstedt proclaimed last night that Frenchmen resisting the Germans would be executed if captured.

Women Plan To Buy War Hospital Train

The women's division of the Pitt County War Finance Committee has plans to sell enough E. F. and G. bonds during the Fifth War Loan drive to buy a hospital train of 10 coaches for handling wounded servicemen. The women have arranged a display of a miniature 10-coach hospital train in J. C. Penney Company's window on Evans street which is attracting considerable attention. The train is parked in a captured enemy city. The scene shows hospital tents and other equipment for caring for the wounded, etc. It is a creditable display.

Every time the women's division sells $65,000 of war bonds they will remove one of the coaches, and so on until they have sold $650,000 worth of E. F. and G. bonds, enough to buy the hospital train.

Stronghold Of Carentan Falls To American Forces

Airmen Pour Steady Stream Of Bombs And Lead Into German Lines In Support Of Allied Ground Forces Fighting Their Way Into France

By GLADWIN HILL Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, June 12.—(AP)—American heavy bombers and streams of lighter craft pumped a steady hail of bombs and lead into German defenses today in the greatest aerial blows to date supporting the French invasion.

Flying in fine weather, the Allied air forces by noon had run up more sorties than all day yesterday—when 7,000 planes slammed the Germans. From dawn on—after a night in which RAF bombers pounded four key rail centers in France and went to Berlin—heavies, mediums, lights, fighter-bombers and fighters raced over the battle lines and far into France bombing and strafing.

A significant new point in the support campaign became apparent. Squadrons of RAF fighters were attacking specific targets in rapid-fire order on calls from ground units—which meant that newly established air bases on French soil were clicking.

Besides the speedy knockout of particular objectives immediately in front of the troops, the campaign was proceeding along two main lines—disruption of transport lines within 100 miles of the battlefield over which Marshal Erwin Rommel is trying to bring up his tactical reserves and the bombardment of rail centers beyond the 100-mile radius through which the Germans might draw on strategic reserves in southern France.

The German air force was responding with heightening strength. About 100 enemy planes were over the battle area last night and American Thunderbolt fighters sent them returning from an early morning foray reported opposition "the roughest yet."

The Thunderbolts were jumped by about 50 German fighters, but the Allied pilots said enemy flak was the biggest hazard.

The Germans also claimed to have sunk one small transport—in the Seine Bay last night.

American Marauders and Havocs bombed railroad and highway bridge targets at Aunay Sur Odon, southwest of Caen, without loss, and parked concentration of troops at Falaise, southeast of Caen. Flying so low that a sergeant gunner reported "you could pick out German lieutenants from sergeants and sergeants from lieutenants."

Before breakfast time railroad bridges, German road convoys and a seaplane base near Couvebec had been attacked by RAF mediums.

Then a force of about 1,000 Mustangs and Liberators with swarming hundreds of escorting fighters swept in upon some of the air bases into which the Germans belatedly were shutting part of their lean air force.

The American heavies bombed the fields at Lille-Nord, Montdidier, Evreux-Vaupelle, Dreux, Vitry-en-Artois and Beauvais-Tile, while part of the armada concentrated on bases and the escorting fighters strafed small targets.

For some hours after dawn the noise of aircraft was heard over the English south coast as planes headed for France.

Americans Drive 18 Miles Inland To Capture Whole Forest Of Cerisy; Berlin Reports New Allied Landings At St. Vaast La Hogue, 15 Miles East Of Cherbourg

By JAMES M. LONG Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, June 12.—(AP)—American troops have driven 18 miles inland in the middle of the Normandy peninsula, capturing the whole forest of Cerisy, and the German high command said today the strategic stronghold of Carentan had fallen to U. S. forces.

The smashing advance through Cerisy forest punched the deepest dent yet in the Nazi line.

Doughboys were converging on St. Lo, communications hub in the center of Normandy, less than nine miles away, from the north and east.

Headquarters did not confirm the fall of Carentan, guarding the narrow neck of Cherbourg peninsula, but said Americans were within 14 miles of Cherbourg itself from the southeast, and had punched halfway across the cape, threatening to seal off the tip.

German broadcasts said Caen, eastern bastion of the 60-mile long front, was menaced by encirclement—with British troops slashing nine miles east of the city.

A front dispatch today said Caen had not yet been captured, although "a considerable German force has been brought to battle around it." Another story dated Sunday declared Allied troops pressed within a few miles of Caen "after blasting the Germans out of the town" late Friday. This suggested the Nazis had pulled back at least the main part of their armored force from the city.

Supreme Headquarters said further gains were made around Cherbourg, and reported "considerable progress" around Carentan, a vital junction.

The doughboys were cracking the Cherbourg peninsula line in the center, and a Berlin broadcast reported seaborne forces had landed at St. Vaast La Hogue, 15 miles east of Cherbourg port.

In the fighting hole in the center of the beachhead to the southeast, Berlin said British formations were concentrating in the Balleury area, 12 miles inland, flanking Cerisy forest to the east, thus in position to aid the American drive on St. Lo.

Headquarters said the beachhead front now had been lengthened to 60 miles, and said the German command had been forced to throw in reserves piecemeal, sapping potential strength from his anticipated major counterattack.

The Germans, however, halted the British drive in the Tilly Sur Seules area southeast of Bayeux, and there were strong indications the Allies had lost the town of Tilly itself, 12 miles inland, although still occupying high ground around it. Heavy fighting raged in this sector several miles below Bayeux.

Despite the battling there and the hard fight around Caen, headquarters described the general situation as "better than satisfactory."

Cerisy forest was used as one of our ultimate success greatly. So we must expect the Nazis to attack in force in the immediate future and try to drive the Allies back into the sea. One of our most powerful weapons against this assault will be our vast superiority in the air. We shall depend heavily on that to deal with enemy troops and tanks, and with movements on railways and highways leading to the peninsula.

Another tower of strength rests in the Allied warships lying off Cherbourg. You will note that today's communique says "enemy mobile batteries have been under heavy fire from Allied warships." The firing of naval guns not only have been ironing out batteries, but are working on enemy concentrations. Their fire is directed by warplanes—the eyes of the land and sea gunners.

Despite the bad weather, the Allies have continued to land troops and supplies. The Germans today estimate the Allied forces at between 20 and 25 divisions—four of five being paratroop divisions. With might mean some 300,000 men. We are lucky if we have that many.

Situation In China Is Admitted To Be Grave

New Drive Is Aimed At Quick Knock-Out Of Finland

By J. B. KRUEGER Associated Press War Editor

Hard-pressed Changsha, key link in the Hankow-Canton railway, was being assailed by the Japanese from all directions, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

On the east, the invaders were within six miles of the city. Attempts to cross the Liuyang river, however, so far had been checked, the Chinese communique said.

Indications were that the city had been surrounded in the furious battle rapidly reaching a climax. Chinese troops had been ordered to fight to the last man in resisting formidable enemy forces that had pushed 200 miles southward from the Hankow area.

Another Japanese force, Chungking reported, was driving northward out of Canton along the railroad, aiming at closing a vise on the oft-embattled city.

The gravity of the battle prompted Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chenault to declare the Pacific war could be prolonged for years if Japan were allowed to build a defensive wall along the railroad. The two-sided threat to Changsha, he added, had brought the China war to its most furious peak in six years.

The other four Pacific battle fronts were going well for the Allies. From new Dutch New Guinea bases Allied airmen flew heavy bombers against Palau for their first daylight raid on this island group guarding the eastern Philippines. It was a portent of the new turn Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Philippines-bound campaign has (Continued on page two)

BOND DRIVE UNDER WAY

County Organized for Victory On Home Front

"Today is kick-off day—the bond drive is on! The flags are up! Our morale is high. Ten million of our boys are scattered all over the world. We on the home front must buy the bonds to furnish the money for planes, ships, tanks, and ammunition," said J. Herbert Waldrop, Pitt County War Finance Committee chairman, today.

"Pitt county is organized with a chairman of the War Finance committee in each township, with a women's division, merchants' division and farm division. All civic organizations, ABC stores and drug stores are organized and participating.

"We must buy to the limit of our capacity and then sell, practice and then preach. The government is not asking us to do anything but to buy the best investment on earth—a United States bond, backed up by the full faith and credit of our government. We have all bought before in previous drives, but must keep buying to keep our flying arm."

"The drive ends on July 8, except for E. F. and G. bonds, which will count in the drive through July 31. (Continued on page two)

Nazis Take Stern Steps To Halt French Uprising

London, June 12.—(AP)—Advises from Spain said that Vichy authorities in southern France is disintegrating, except where it is close to German protection, and that French underground forces are cutting communications between enemy garrisons.

Meanwhile, in the harshest of a series of German steps aimed at subduing the increasing resistance behind Nazi lines, Field Marshal Gen. Karl Gerd von Rundstedt proclaimed last night that Frenchmen resisting the Germans would be executed if captured.

The German commander in France, in a decree broadcast by the Paris radio, based his action on "Article 10 of the French-German armistice convention of 1940" providing that French citizens who, after conclusion of this convention, are fighting against the German Reich will be treated by German troops as Franc Tirailleurs (Partisans).

French resistance leaders, in a broadcast last night from the United Nations radio at Algiers, directed "all French men and women" to consider themselves mobilized to hamper the Germans by every means possible and to give all possible aid to the Allies.

The cities of Vichy, Lyon and Grenoble were pictured as islands of collaborationist strength. Elsewhere in southern France there were whole departments left without prefects, mayors and militia leaders, travelers arriving at the Spanish border said.

Little To Head War Fund Drive

James T. Little of Greenville has been appointed chairman for District 14 of the United War Fund of North Carolina. Major L. P. McCadden of Greensboro, state chairman, announced today.

District 14 is composed of Beaufort, Dare, Hyde, Martin, Pitt, Tyrrell and Washington counties. Mr. Little is now working with the chairman of War Fund organizations in these counties, in preparation for the district meeting which is to be held on June 30.

United War Fund officials have announced that Mrs. Mark W. Clark wife of the commanding general of the Fifth Army in Italy, will formally open the War Fund drive in North Carolina. Mrs. Clark will speak at a pre-campaign rally for Zone Five, of which District 14 is a part, on September 13.

The state drive is scheduled to get under way around October 9 with a goal of approximately $3,250,000. Of this amount about $1,325,000 will be used to carry on the work of the many different social agencies within the state. More than $960,000 will go to aid men in the fighting forces through the USO, War Prisoners Aid and United Seamen's Service. The remainder of the sum is used for relief for peoples of war-stricken countries fighting side by side with the United States.

Gov. J. Melville Broughton is honorary chairman of the state fund and Charles A. Kerr of Winston-Salem is executive director.

Strength FOR THE DAY By EARL L. DOUGLAS

GOD IS EVERYWHERE Several centuries ago a great plague swept over London, carrying off thousands and driving out of the city multitudes of people who were terrified lest the fearful calamity might fall on them. Among those who made ready to flee to his country house until better days was a certain Lord Craven. A negro servant, who had but recently come from the jungles of Africa, remarked to the footman as he helped to pack the carriage for the journey: "Since my Lord leaves London for fear of the plague, his God must live in the country, I suppose."

AMERICA IN WARTIME By JACK STINNETT

Denver—The way my history book reads, state's rights haven't been worth a hot political since just after the Civil war. As a political issue they haven't even been a good red herring. I'm not sure that they are now, but I'm sure that they are around the country from Washington to the coast and back. I can't believe that there has been any time since the Reconstruction era when both politicians and forward-thinking citizens have been more wrought up over the rights of the states as opposed to the power taken over by the federal government than they are today. In the industrial areas around the Great Lakes and east and west, industry is backing the War Labor board, priorities, the War Manpower commission, federal taxes, endless reports and investigations to which they are subjected. In the industrial areas around the Great Lakes and east and west, industry is backing the War Labor board, priorities, the War Manpower commission, federal taxes, endless reports and investigations to which they are subjected. In California there's a storm over the acreage limitation on farms in the central valley which are to participate in the federal irrigation projects and more particularly recently over a Bureau of Reclamation questionnaire that went to all farmers in the area, asking five solid pages of questions, dealing with everything from previous servitude to present "ethnics." Here in Colorado and in many other states where little rivers feed the navigable waterways of the nation there's great anger over control of water rights. Republican Gov. John C. Vivian took the matter to the annual conference of governors in Hershey, Pa.; it was his big speech and according to reports here well applauded. His theme was simply "if the federal government can control the waters of the nation, affecting property rights long recognized as state functions, it can take over every activity within our states and thus render impotent and useless our state constitutions, bills of rights, and our court decrees."

white supremacy are also being made issues of state rights. Historically and politically, the important thing is probably that the "solid south" and the ordinarily cold Republican states have found an issue on which they can agree. How much effect this will have on the 1944 election is problematical. There are too many other issues involved: the progress of the war, the personalities of the candidates and other home front problems. But I haven't talked to a serious thinker on political matters yet who doesn't feel that when the historical chips are down these recent years will be recorded as the beginning at least of a contest whose issues will have great bearing on the destiny of America.

Students To Act... (Continued From Page One) and that the good of the college would be the sole consideration governing future actions. Many believed that Dr. Meadows should have been dismissed summarily. His friends felt that he should have been retained. He was permitted to retire voluntarily and both sides should have accepted that action as ending the dispute so far as the board of trustees was concerned. Apparently that was not done. It now appears that a meeting of the board was held last week and 18 members of the faculty, four men and two women, were discharged without notice and without hearing. If, as charged, the reason for this action was that the faculty members upheld students of the college in expressing disapproval of the first action of the board in exonerating Dr. Meadows, this latest action of the board is indefensible. Practically the entire State believes the students were within their rights, and Governor Brroughton so expressed himself. The board should have acted, if at all, only after notice and full hearings for the faculty members. Those discharged should demand the hearings which have been belatedly offered them, and those hearings should be conducted in public so that the whole State may know just what the charges are. The board of trustees exercised poor judgment in attempting to exonerate Dr. Meadows. It exercised even poorer judgment if it has attempted to discipline any person for disapproving the conduct of Dr. Meadows. This whole matter should be handled in the open. The State wants no more closed door proceedings in this matter.—News and Observer.

Its airport is in Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's hands. The Chinese rushing toward Myittha from southwest China captured Lungling, enemy base on the upper Burma road, halting the feat as their most important of the Salween offensive. The Chinese announced that now the China end of the famed road could carry supplies to the Salween army, heretofore dependent on mountain trails.

Bond Drive Off To A Good Start Texarkana, Ark., June 12—(AP)—Momentum already built up in the Fifth War Loan was termed "terrific" by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., today as he arrived to open the $16,000,000,000 bond drive. The secretary declared the results thus far were "better than O. K." He said he would announce the cost of the advance from Sicily to Rome and estimate the cost of the war this year in a four-network broadcast officially opening the bond campaign at 9 p. m. (central war time) tonight. President Roosevelt will speak from Washington on the program.

Senate Passes Veterans Bill Washington, June 12—(AP)—The senate passed today and sent to the house a compromise version of the "G. I. Bill of Rights" embodying a comprehensive program of benefits for veterans of the present war. The cost of the program, including hospitalization, education, unemployment compensation and loans for purchase of homes, farms and businesses, has been estimated at from $3,000,000,000 to $6,500,000,000. Finance Committee Chairman George (D-Ga.) told his colleagues senate conferees had agreed reluctantly to house insistence that any benefits a veteran gets under the bill be deducted from any bonus he may be voted after the war. Under the measure, a veteran would be entitled to $20 a week unemployment compensation for 52 weeks should he be out of a job during the first two years after discharge. If his or her deduction was interrupted upon entering the service the veteran could get a year's schooling, and in some cases a complete college education, with the government paying $500 for a year's tuition, plus $100 a month for subsistence and another $20 for dependents. The government would guarantee 50 per cent of private loans, at a maximum of $2,000 to enable veterans to enter business or farming or to buy a home.

Stronghold Of... (Continued From Page One) the greatest ammunition and fuel dumps in western France by the Germans, and had been repeatedly bombed. Headquarters declared flatly that a Nazi report of fighting for St. Lo itself was not true. Allied planes battered fiercely at the Germans, flying perhaps more than 10,000 sorties today. The German air force came up in opposition in the greatest strength since D-Day. On Cherbourg peninsula, American troops advancing westward from Ste. Mere Egils had crossed the railroad leading to the port on a seven-mile front. The Germans said Carentan, whose floodgates control the main peninsula water defense system, was evacuated in order to continue a stand on ground less exposed to the Allied naval guns. As for Caen, German broadcasts said that a British drive had reached nearly to Troarn, nine miles due west of that bastion, and that Allied parachutists had landed south of Caen. British troops were driving down west of Caen threatening the other flank. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has mounted his fiercest armed counterattacks in this Caen sector, and Berlin said major British forces were concentrating for a full-fledged assault on the town. In the center of the 50-mile-long front, American troops were advancing toward St. Lo, a prize communications hub 20 miles inland. As the American front attack across the Merderet river on Cherbourg peninsula reached within 12 miles of the west coast roads—where capture would seal off Cherbourg—Vichy radio said doughboys had pushed into Quineville on the east coast. This would put Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's flank within 14 miles of Cherbourg on a four-mile front between Quineville and Montebourg, where street fighting was reported. The Germans, apparently reeling under the force of the first invasion week, said 300,000 to 400,000 Allied troops already had been poured into a mighty beachhead flood and that these represented only a third of the amphibious assault forces poised in Britain to hammer home attacks against the continent. "The bulk of the huge forces of the 21st amphibious army group is still standing by to pounce on some important harbor," the German radio declared. Continuing a stream of reports of new Allied landings, Berlin's Transocean news agency said seaborne forces had been put ashore at St. Vaast La Hougue near the top of the peninsula and due east of Cherbourg yesterday. The Germans said the Allies had crossed the Orne estuary, ferrying over tanks and threatening Caen, which Marshal Erwin Rommel by his counterattacks had made a testing point. The crossing of the estuary forced the Germans to evacuate two towns before the Allied onslaught was checked near Troarn, nine miles east of Caen, by German account. A breakthrough here would link up infantry with parachute troops which the Nazis said had landed in the Troarn area earlier. Official reports said only that British and Canadians were holding their own satisfactorily along the explosive Caen line, but field dispatches said Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery had mounted a powerful encircling sweep, with the Allies driving ahead on both flanks around the town.

Many believed that Dr. Meadows should have been dismissed summarily. His friends felt that he should have been retained. He was permitted to retire voluntarily and both sides should have accepted that action as ending the dispute so far as the board of trustees was concerned. Apparently that was not done. It now appears that a meeting of the board was held last week and 18 members of the faculty, four men and two women, were discharged without notice and without hearing. If, as charged, the reason for this action was that the faculty members upheld students of the college in expressing disapproval of the first action of the board in exonerating Dr. Meadows, this latest action of the board is indefensible. Practically the entire State believes the students were within their rights, and Governor Brroughton so expressed himself. The board should have acted, if at all, only after notice and full hearings for the faculty members. Those discharged should demand the hearings which have been belatedly offered them, and those hearings should be conducted in public so that the whole State may know just what the charges are. The board of trustees exercised poor judgment in attempting to exonerate Dr. Meadows. It exercised even poorer judgment if it has attempted to discipline any person for disapproving the conduct of Dr. Meadows. This whole matter should be handled in the open. Bond Drive Off To A Good Start Texarkana, Ark., June 12—(AP)—Momentum already built up in the Fifth War Loan was termed "terrific" by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., today as he arrived to open the $16,000,000,000 bond drive. The secretary declared the results thus far were "better than O. K." He said he would announce the cost of the advance from Sicily to Rome and estimate the cost of the war this year in a four-network broadcast officially opening the bond campaign at 9 p. m. (central war time) tonight. President Roosevelt will speak from Washington on the program.

Senate Passes Veterans Bill Washington, June 12—(AP)—The senate passed today and sent to the house a compromise version of the "G. I. Bill of Rights" embodying a comprehensive program of benefits for veterans of the present war. The cost of the program, including hospitalization, education, unemployment compensation and loans for purchase of homes, farms and businesses, has been estimated at from $3,000,000,000 to $6,500,000,000. Finance Committee Chairman George (D-Ga.) told his colleagues senate conferees had agreed reluctantly to house insistence that any benefits a veteran gets under the bill be deducted from any bonus he may be voted after the war. Under the measure, a veteran would be entitled to $20 a week unemployment compensation for 52 weeks should he be out of a job during the first two years after discharge. If his or her deduction was interrupted upon entering the service the veteran could get a year's schooling, and in some cases a complete college education, with the government paying $500 for a year's tuition, plus $100 a month for subsistence and another $20 for dependents. The government would guarantee 50 per cent of private loans, at a maximum of $2,000 to enable veterans to enter business or farming or to buy a home.

The German air force came up in opposition in the greatest strength since D-Day. On Cherbourg peninsula, American troops advancing westward from Ste. Mere Egils had crossed the railroad leading to the port on a seven-mile front. The Germans said Carentan, whose floodgates control the main peninsula water defense system, was evacuated in order to continue a stand on ground less exposed to the Allied naval guns. As for Caen, German broadcasts said that a British drive had reached nearly to Troarn, nine miles due west of that bastion, and that Allied parachutists had landed south of Caen. British troops were driving down west of Caen threatening the other flank. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has mounted his fiercest armed counterattacks in this Caen sector, and Berlin said major British forces were concentrating for a full-fledged assault on the town. In the center of the 50-mile-long front, American troops were advancing toward St. Lo, a prize communications hub 20 miles inland. As the American front attack across the Merderet river on Cherbourg peninsula reached within 12 miles of the west coast roads—where capture would seal off Cherbourg—Vichy radio said doughboys had pushed into Quineville on the east coast. This would put Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's flank within 14 miles of Cherbourg on a four-mile front between Quineville and Montebourg, where street fighting was reported. The Germans, apparently reeling under the force of the first invasion week, said 300,000 to 400,000 Allied troops already had been poured into a mighty beachhead flood and that these represented only a third of the amphibious assault forces poised in Britain to hammer home attacks against the continent. "The bulk of the huge forces of the 21st amphibious army group is still standing by to pounce on some important harbor," the German radio declared. Continuing a stream of reports of new Allied landings, Berlin's Transocean news agency said seaborne forces had been put ashore at St. Vaast La Hougue near the top of the peninsula and due east of Cherbourg yesterday. The Germans said the Allies had crossed the Orne estuary, ferrying over tanks and threatening Caen, which Marshal Erwin Rommel by his counterattacks had made a testing point. AMERICAN RED CROSS

Pitt County Chapter News

All production records were broken when on Friday the Bethel unit of Pitt county surgical dressings program brought in the last of their May, June and July quotas of finished dressings. Not only was the quota completed in record time but several hundred extra dressings were made, each one perfect.

This is a splendid achievement and an inspiration to all of us. With the War Department asking every chapter to ship dressings as quickly as possible it is a great help to have this large number ready for immediate shipment. We wish space would permit us to name all the Bethel women who have worked so willingly and who are ready to give their time again until there is no longer need for their services.

There is a fine spirit of cooperation among all the units, Farmville, Ayden and the Greenville workroom where the local quota is made and all work is packed and shipped.

We have one large shipment ready now and hope to have another by July 1. Our gratitude goes to Bethel for their fine work, to the other units and to each individual for her help.

Freak Cucumbers In Money-Making Crop

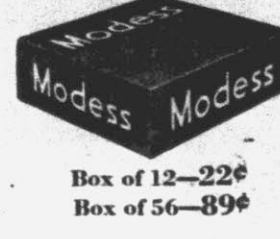

Dave Hardee, Negro tenant on G. S. Porter's farm at Simpson, found two freaks on his cucumber vines. One of them was a triplet, three small cucumbers on the tip of one stem, the other a twin, two cucumbers from one blossom. The cukes were of the Siamese variety.

Hardee made his second picking from his one-acre plot of cucumbers and expected to get from $20 to $22 for them.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
June 12, 1904

This is cool weather for June. Mrs. E. J. Cobb returned from Baltimore Sunday evening. J. E. Green, A. C. L. agent at Winterville, spent Sunday here. A record-breaking hail storm fell in Laurinburg yesterday afternoon. The hailstones were drifted from one to two feet deep and were five to six inches deep on the level.

Birth Announcement.
Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Strickland of Bellarthur announce the birth of a daughter, Vivian Ann, on June 7, 1944, Pitt General Hospital. Mrs. Strickland is the former Miss Virginia Reel of New Bern.

Medical Society In Interesting Session

The concluding paper on the symposium on skin diseases which the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society has been conducting for the past several months was presented last Thursday evening by Dr. H. B. Ivey of Goldsboro.

Dr. Ivey talked on the subject of "Skin Diseases in General Practice" and discussed a number of the ailments which the general practitioner has to contend with. These subjects were presented so that they could be more easily differentiated and the newest ideas in treatment were given.

Dr. Ivey's paper was preceded by a dinner at the Proctor hotel provided by the hosts, Drs. Massey and Watson. After dinner the regular business meeting was held. A highlight of the reports was the health officer's report for May, which showed a marked improvement in the contagious disease situation in the county. Also of considerable interest was the announcement that the Pitt General Hospital was now a penicillin depot and had acquired a much needed supply of radium.

Need Pitt County Women In WAVES

Who'll be the next girl from Pitt county to join the WAVES and increase the honor roll from this county? Already scores of girls your friends and neighbors are having the time of their lives in the WAVES, for they're working hard, learning, and enjoying the Navy's recreational program. You'll feel a hundred per cent better as a patriotic American girl, once you've changed to Navy blue, said recruiter H. S. Lee in the postoffice building today.

"The eyes of America are on the WAVES—because they're the girls with America's future before them. They're the girls who realize their part is just as important as any man's, for their rights are essentially the same. Girls of Pitt county are joining the WAVES every day. Why don't you give yourself the same opportunity?"

T. Welch, has just made to the County Health department the following report on hotels, restaurants, cafes and other eating places in the city of Greenville:

Grade B—Bissette's, Kares Bros., E. C. T. C., Bus Station, Carr's Cafe, Dixie Gray Cafe, West End Tea Room.

Welch stated that the two commonest causes for low grades are poor dishwashing and improper food handling, and that some managers employ inexperienced help and without instructing them properly as to their duties. He stated that in some instances the managers do not even require health certificates, and he added that until the Health Department gets better cooperation from these managers they must continue to get low grades.

Your HOSPITAL Needs You to Help Fill A Nurse's Job!

NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY FOR THIS VITAL PART-TIME NEIGHBORHOOD WAR SERVICE.

Your man in the service has a ministering angel always ready to tend his needs. She's a registered nurse. Before the war, she worked right here in Cincinnati. Now, her place at the hospital—your hospital—is vacant. Will you help fill her job here, while she's filling your job over there?

Be a Red Cross Nurse's Aide! You don't have to be a registered nurse. You don't have to know anything about nursing. All you need is to be between the ages of 18 and 50, and to have a willingness to spend a few hours a week—particularly in the daytime—right in your neighborhood, at some of the less skilled hospital chores. Then the registered nurses still on the home front can give more of their time to surgery and other essential, highly technical services your Doctor needs.

Already over two-thirds of the private-duty nurses in Hamilton County have gone to war. Those who remain are tremendously overburdened. You can help ease this strain.

Inquire today! Call UNIVERSITY 2150, and ask for complete information about the Nurse's Aide Service. Take an active part in this vital war service as a RED CROSS NURSE'S AIDE!

Grain Market
Chicago, June 12—(AP)—Weakness at other markets, lack of demand and scattered hedging sales gave wheat futures a weak undertone today and prices were down sharply. Principal factor in the decline was the lag in buying interest.

New York, June 12—(AP)—Selected stocks climbed into new high ground today in the busiest market of the year, following the leadership of motor and other manufacturing issues expected to enjoy heavy demand when civilian production is resumed.

Weygand was made commander of Allied armies just before the fall of France, succeeding Gen. Maurice Gustav Gamelin after the disastrous German breakthrough in May, 1940.

Weygand, 77, disappeared soon after the Germans overran all of France after the Allied landings in North Africa in November, 1942.

SEWANEE, TENN.—Vice Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, told Navy V-12 graduates today they need have no fear that the major part of sea fighting would be ended "before you are ready for duty as officers."

In an address prepared for delivery at the University of the South's commencement, he said "No officer with whom I have talked, who has come to grips with the enemy, expects anything but a bitter struggle of mounting ferocity."

"We have begun to assume the offensive on a scale that has hitherto been impossible. But we are still a long, long way from Tokyo. Before victory is won, I expect you to be experienced, competent naval officers."

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take chances with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to give you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly always the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

"4500 BOSSIES KEEP ME ON THE GO..."

"Sure glad I've got a FORD!"

Everywhere you hear the same good things about Ford cars. They stay young a long time in look and performance. They're lively and ready to go. They're easy on gas, and repair costs are low. Use Ford Protective Service and, as the miles roll up, you'll say, "Sure glad I've got a Ford!"

NEWS NOTES—Ford produces as much steel every month as would be required for two battleships—uses 120 carloads of coal a day in the Rouge plant alone—makes enough ammonium sulphate every day, as a by-product, to fertilize 225 acres of farmland.

"TRAVEL A TOUGH SCHEDULE"—inspecting 150 dairy herds a month in all weather. My 1940 Ford also hauls dairy equipment repair parts from Chicago and Milwaukee. When I figure up how easy this car is on oil, gas and tires, I'm sure glad I own a Ford!

"MY WIFE HAS TO BE AT HER WORK every day at the medical school of the university. But on week-ends you'll find us in our Victory Garden. The Ford surely comes in handy for that work too! It costs little to keep a Ford running well and up to par."

"REPAIRS ARE SELDOM NECESSARY." My car has certainly proved its durability. With proper servicing at my Ford dealer's, including routine adjustment, thorough lubrication and washing, it stands up splendidly and keeps its good appearance.
