Russians Open New Offensive

Berlin Says Long-Awaited Summer Drive Coordinated With Allied Invasion On Western Front Under way; Three-Pronged Push In Finland Progresses

By LEWIS HAWKINS London, June 23. — (AP) — The Germans announced today that the Red army, striking on the third anniversary of Hitler's surprise invasion of Russia, had launched its long-awaited summer offensive on the eastern front.

(The German radio commentator, Ernst von Hammer, said tonight that the Russians were attacking along a front of more than 100 miles in White Russia, and had made a breach in German lines southeast of Vitebsk.

While Moscow had not as yet confirmed the opening of the drive, the German high command and official Berlin broadcasts declared the Soviets moved forward yesterday on a broad front north of the Pripiet marshes—the most direct road from Moscow to Berlin and Warsaw—in an assault which may be coordinated with Allied advances in France and Italy.

The Germans said a large-scale Soviet offensive was set in motion from south of Mogilev to north of Vitebsk with heavy tank plane support, while Moscow announced that triple Russian spearheads drove deeper against the Finns, north of Lake Onegashko (Onega), and up the Annonus isthmus, as well as along the northern reaches of the Karelian isthmus.

The Berlin communique said the initial thrusts were parried, but "bitter fighting is still going on on either side of Vitebsk."

The drive was accompanied by local attacks northwest of Tarnopol toward Lwow in southern Poland below the Pripiet marshes, the report added.

A broadcast Russian communique and other Moscow dispatches gave this picture of the success of the triple offensive in Finland:

From the northern tip of Lake Onega, Red army units rolled 10 to 15 miles westward in the direction of Lake Ostero and cleared a section of the Leningrad-Murmansk railway by capturing three important stations.

To the south along the Svir river the Red army expanded its bridgehead to a depth of at least six miles on the river's north bank, and captured Podporozhye, a district center of the Leningrad region.

North of Vipuri on the Karelian isthmus, Marshal Leonid Govorov's conquering army captured Talli, five miles north of the fallen seaport, as well as several other places in the flourishing farming and manufacturing belt that extends toward Helsinki to the Finnish capital.

While making the usual claim that the Russian gains were sealed off promptly, von Hammer said that the Red army was using artillery and tanks on a grand scale.

There was no confirmation from Russian sources concerning the reported offensive and London military (Continued on Page Six)

NEW BLOW ON JAP-HELD ISLE

Allied Carrier Task Force Blast Andaman Capital

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, June 23.—An Allied carrier task force raided Port Blair, capital of the Andaman islands, and scored hits on a power-house, workshops, yards and a seaplane base, where an oil fire was started, headquarters disclosed today.

One radio location station was destroyed and another heavily damaged, a special communique said. The Japanese made no attempt to attack the warships and the planes encountered no enemy fighters. Two enemy planes were set afire on the field.

Vice Admiral Sir Arthur John Power directed the operation which was carried out Wednesday. Heavy bombers followed up the attack, striking in a night raid at the number one airfield of Port Blair. Visibility was poor, however, and results were not announced.

The radio location station was demolished first, thus opening the way for an undetected approach for long-range land-based planes.

Other pin-pointed targets were attacked through rainstorms, including a barracks and the seaplane station, where a slipway was fired. Although no fighter opposition was met, anti-aircraft fire was heavy until just before the bombers arrived. Evidently the carrier-based fighters had sent the ground crews scurrying with a vicious strafing attack.

(The Tokyo radio earlier reported a combined formation of 35 bombers striking in a night raid on the Japanese-held island of Port Blair, and claimed little damage was done. The broadcast said "losses were confined to damage to one small boat which was hit by an enemy bomb and set ablaze, an asserted that six planes were shot down and four damaged.")

President Silent On Fourth Term

Washington, June 23. — (AP) — President Roosevelt declined with a grin today to confirm or refuse a prediction by Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia that the chief executive soon would express his willingness to accept a fourth term nomination.

A reporter asked Mr. Roosevelt at today's news conference if he planned such a statement shortly after next week's Republican convention, as forecast by Arnall.

The President commented that it was the same old question taking a new form today.

"A new form in the light of recent events," the reporter said.

"Well it won't work," Mr. Roosevelt replied.

"Don't I get anything for the effort?" the reporter asked.

"No," said the President, and told him he would have to write it off as a total failure.

BOND RALLY BIG SUCCESS

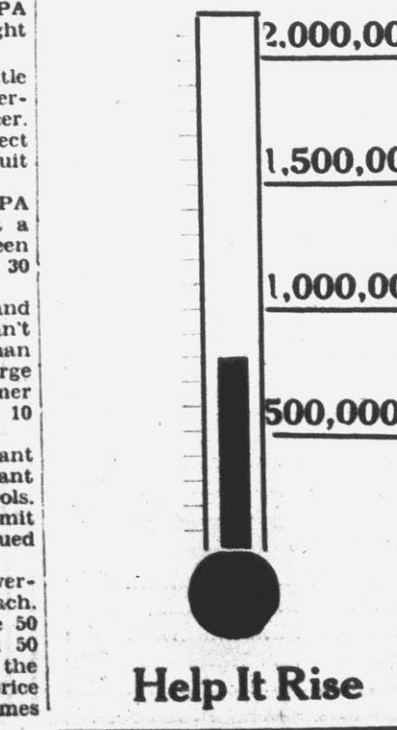

Yesterday's Bond Sales Reached Total Of $275,000

By CHESTER WALSH The War Bond Rally at the courthouse here yesterday was a success and the day's sales totaled $275,000. County War Finance Committee Chairman J. Herbert Waldrop stated. Movement of Seymour Johnson Field army equipment and personnel through the city drew a large crowd to the rally. A band concert by an army band under direction of Warrant Officer Russell was a feature. The Women's division of the County War Finance Committee sponsored the rally. The prizes ranged from bobbin pins to a ham and nylon stockings. A Douglas dive bomber plane was parked near the courthouse and attracted considerable attention. The presence of numerous Army WACs gave color to the gala event.

The army show, "Four Corners, U. S. A.," presented at the college by an all-army cast of 55, made a hit. It was a great show, depicting life in the average American small town, with numerous specialties by Broadway and motion picture celebrities and music by one of the best orchestras ever heard in Greenville. The show played to a packed house, pleased the audience and helped to sell War bonds. It went from here to Goldsboro.

Giant Navy Task Force Is Operating In Pacific

Twenty-Two Aircraft Carriers And Navy's Fastest Warships Make Up Unit

By HAMILTON W. FARON Washington, June 23.—(AP)—The entire Pacific ocean to the gates of Japan is its stamping ground.

With these words the navy revealed existence of task force 58, "most powerful and destructive naval unit in the history of sea warfare."

It was task force 58, which met, defeated and sent scurrying into hiding a Japanese fleet that dared to move east of the Philippines Monday.

Make-up of the hard-hitting and gigantic task force is secret. But, Rear Admiral Arthur W. Radford, deputy chief of naval operations for air, gave this hint of its size:

"We can safely assume that most of the 22 big new carriers, commissioned since Pearl Harbor have been operating as part of the vast task force 58."

Newest and swiftest of the fleet's battleships, cruisers and destroyers also are assigned to the mighty force, which carries its own supply train of ships to provide a constant source of fuel and materials.

For six months it has been battering the Japanese and, the navy says flatly, has "reversed the direction of traffic in the Pacific ocean"—turned it to a one-way run toward Japan.

Lt. Matt Phillips Tells Of Pacific Experience

By S-SGT. GERALD D. GORDON Charleston, W. Va., a Marine Corps Combat Correspondent Somewhere in the Marshall Islands, (Delayed)—This is the story of the four-man crew of an army Billy Mitchell medium bomber which crashed into the Pacific just 20 miles from the Jap-held Isle of Ponape and lived to tell the tale. It's also a story of the lengths to which the armed forces of our country will go to rescue men when there still is a chance to save them.

The men rescued were First Lieutenant Henry M. Phillips, of Greenville, N. C., the pilot; Co-Pilot Second Lieutenant Warren W. Huffstutter, of Kearney, Neb.; Second Lieutenant Charles J. Giovanni, bombardier-navigator, of New Britain, Conn., and Staff Sergeant Eugene T. Doyle, of Newark, N. J., radio gunner.

The pilot, a big six-footer with a deer coat of tan, told the story.

"We were doing a low-level strafing job and dropping incendiaries on houses and warehouses near the air strip," he said, "when Jap ack-ack hit one of our engines. Oil started pouring out of it, so I immediately beelied out and headed home, giving the word to Lieutenant Colonel Ted Willis, our squadron CO."

GERMAN OIL SUPPLY CUT

Italy-Based Bombers Blast Romanian Fields Today

By GLADWIN HILL Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force June 23.—(AP)—Italy-based bombers smashed the Romanian oil installations at Ploesti again today while Liberators and Fortresses from Britain stabbed through clouds for the eighth straight day of smashes at the Pas-de-Calais "rocket coast."

The Italian force—probably more than 500 heavy bombers—also attacked Giurgiu, Danube port where Romanian oil is transhipped to river boats. The assault coincided with a British Ministry of Economic Warfare estimate that Germany's yearly output of oil has been reduced about 65 per cent by aerial bombardments of the last three months. A ministry spokesman said the German army is getting less than half the gasoline it needs. The spokesman said German liquid fuel output has been cut from 15 to 16 million tons yearly to about five million.

The Italy-based bombers, escorted by Lightnings and Mustangs, met a "considerable number" of fighters over Romania, an announcement said, and several were shot down. The rail yards at Nis, Yugoslavia, also were bombed.

Occasional rocket-bombs continued to zoom toward England, but British Home Secretary Herbert S. Morrison assured parliament that they had done "little damage of national importance."

Today's attack came after a night in which RAF bombers struck at the Nazi reinforcement-organized rail yards at Kani and Laco, bringing to a climax one of the greatest days of aerial operations since the launching of the Normandy invasion.

Seven bombers were missing from the assault on these key rail points, both about 80 miles northeast of Paris. The yards are the network of lines leading toward the battle-front from Germany and the lowlands, and both now are jammed with Nazi reinforcements struggling to get through.

British light bombers hit rail targets at Lisieux, France, and intruders destroyed seven German planes over northern France.

The night blows came after at least 6,000 Allied planes dumped probably more than 8,000 tons of bombs on targets from embattled Cherbourg to France. (French merchant ships yesterday were given the D-day record of approximately 10,000 sorties.)

Submarines Sink 16 Jap Vessels

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—American submarines, dealing another heavy blow to the Japanese merchant fleet, have today sunk 16 more enemy vessels to the bottom of the Pacific.

The navy, announcing this today, held to its policy of secrecy in submarine operations, giving no hint of when or where the latest bag was made.

However, it is known that the underwater craft, having operated close to Japanese shores and along supply lines deep within other enemy controlled waters. Navy Secretary Forrestal also has reported that submarines played a large part in reconnaissance activities prior to the location of a portion of the Jap fleet east of the Philippines.

The new report of sinkings shows that the rate of destruction by the American subs now is better than one vessel a day, because it raises to 50 the number of Japanese craft announced as sunk by submarines since this month.

Since the start of the war, submarines are credited with having sunk, probably sunk or destroyed 774 enemy vessels of all types including some warships. That total breaks down to 623 ships sunk, 36 probables, and 115 damaged.

The newest bag includes 11 medium-sized cargo vessels, four small cargo vessels and one medium-sized naval auxiliary.

Investigation Ordered Washington, June 23.—(AP)—The house today, by voice vote, ordered an investigation of government farm credit agencies with the view to coordinating their activities.

The work will be done by a house subcommittee on agriculture headed by Rep. Cooley (D-N.C.).

Smaller Pig Crop Washington, June 23.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department today estimated the combined 1944 spring and fall pig crop will total 87,925,000 head, about 28 per cent below 1943, and 16 per cent below 1942, but larger than in any other year on record.

PROGRESS ON ITALIAN FRONT

Nazi Resistance Stiffening North Of Perugia

By LYNN HEINZELING Rome, June 23.—(AP)—Allied forces in Italy have made progress along both coastal sectors, but the Germans apparently are planning a determined stand along strong positions between Lake Trasimeno and Lake Chiusi and north of Perugia in the central sector. Allied headquarters indicated today.

The Eighth army is encountering "strong resistance" north of Perugia, and southwest of Lake Trasimeno, where a number of German counter-attacks have been repulsed, the communique said.

Winston Burdett of CBS broadcast from Rome today that the Germans have recaptured Chiusi in Italy, a town 25 miles southwest of Perugia and about nine miles south of Lake Trasimeno. The British occupied the town Tuesday.

An Algiers radio news roundup said Allied forces on the Adriatic were 25 miles from the important seaport of Ancon. The communique said troops in that sector have continued their "rapid advance" and are now approaching the Chiassi river. The Chiassi is about 25 miles below Ancona.

On the west coast the Fifth army despite strong resistance, has pressed forward astride highway one. (Continued on Page Four)

The WAR TODAY AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. Substituting for DeWitt MacKenzie Germany's announcement of the beginning of a big Russian summer offensive—which has been expected to tie in with the western front to win the war in Europe—may be premature, but both the time and place fit closely into previous expectations.

It is quite usual for Berlin to announce important Russian military moves ahead of Moscow. The Germans were wrong recently about the importance of local Russian attacks on the Rumanian front, but in general they have been fairly accurate, at least up to the point where accuracy might interfere with propaganda.

Ever since the Russians recaptured Smolensk observers have been watching for a blow-off on the north-central front. It is there that the Germans occupy most Soviet territory, and it is there, from Vitebsk to Gomel, that it is easiest for Russia to concentrate great forces and supplies. It is the area through which the Germans made their principal stab at Moscow in 1941. The Vitebsk-Moscow sector selected by the main highway from Moscow which leads, ultimately, to Warsaw and Berlin.

A drive here, in addition to having the best supply routes from the rear, also would serve as a line-straightening effort.

Mogilev is about 400 miles from Warsaw, while the farthest-advanced sector around Kovel is miles nearer.

The Russians are addicted to "old one-two" systems, getting better off now, ready to start one and hit harder with superior forces of men and equipment.

If the German report is correct and it will apply soon if not now—Berlin itself has announced the raising of the curtain for the last act, the twilight of Hitler's god.

Allied Headquarters Predicts Speedy Fall Of City; Nazis Ordered To 'Hold Positions Or Be Shot'; French Patriots Battle Germans; New Landings Reported

By WES GALLAGHER Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force June 23.—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's finely tuned American assault troops have stormed over one of the three fortified peaks dominating Cherbourg's military harbor, Supreme Headquarters announced today, and a speedy fall of the city is expected.

Describing Cherbourg's defenses as "fairly formidable," a headquarters announcement said a "prolonged siege is unlikely" now.

Attacking with a storm of artillery fire, and a huge array of instruments of destruction, the Americans captured a height at Hourlaireville, four miles from the sea southwest of Cherbourg. The Germans had been reduced to machine-guns, small arms and light artillery in defending their pillboxes and prepared defenses.

British and American planes concentrated on "quarantine" circles 100 miles deep in France as the Americans clamped a vice on Cherbourg and smashed at the other two remaining hilltop bastions.

These were at Nounainville, 21-1/2 miles southwest of the port and three miles from the coast, and La Maree-a-Comards, 11-1/2 miles directly to the south of the city.

Three German divisions, mixed with German naval units and a defense garrison, were believed caught in the American clamp.

The Germans apparently had withdrawn completely from the eastern tip of the peninsula in order to concentrate on defense of Cherbourg.

A Canadian Press correspondent reported that the Germans have evacuated Caen, at the eastern end of the Allied line in Normandy, and dispersed their forces outside the city because of the terrific bombing to which the long-contested town had been subjected.

There was no confirmation of a Supreme Headquarters of a German air-borne landing had been made at Gavary east of Granville on the peninsula's west coast 60 miles below Cherbourg.

The Germans were making a desperate bid to hold the strategic point. (Continued on page six)

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—boom for Senator Byrd, Virginia Democrat, for the Republican vice-presidential nomination development today among some GOP members of Congress, but Byrd promptly said "I am not a candidate on any ticket whatsoever."

Byrd would not comment when newsmen told him that some of his men are drafted at political conventions.

He said he had not heard of an announced plan of Rep. Knuts (Minn.) to work for him at Chicago and emphasized "I am not a candidate and haven't been a candidate."

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
June 23, 1904

The Republicans in national convention at Chicago adopted a loud sounding platform which patted themselves on the back vigorously. One sentence says, "In the Philippines we have suppressed insurrection, established order and given to life and property a security never known there before." This is certainly news to the balance of mankind. If such a transformation has taken place it must have been during the past few hours.

This talk about farmers not going to town because they can't buy liquor there is all rot. It is slander on the farmer and a measly bid to merchants to advocate the open saloon.

Rider, and the receiving line was composed of Mrs. Trotman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Woodson, Gaylord of Greenville, Mrs. R. W. King of Greenville, parents and grandmother of the bridegroom, and the bridal party.

During the course of the reception soft organ music was played by Miss Isabel Schaffer and good-bye words said to Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Horton.

For her going-away ensemble Mrs. Gaylord wore a Hansen-Bang costume suit of soft fern green, with matching hat and contrasting accessories. The couple left for Detroit and Battle Creek, Mich. She is the daughter of Mrs. J. C. Trotman, and the late Mr. Trotman. After being graduated at Salem Academy, where she was winner of the Athletic Cup for four years, she finished at Randolph-Macon Woman's College. In this year's class, with an A. B. degree, and was a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and P. M. Secret Society.

Lieut. Gaylord is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Woodson Gaylord of Greenville. He holds an A. B. degree from the University of North Carolina and was a member of both year or council at the University for two years; secretary to the first year class of law student council and representative for the senior class. He is now stationed at Fort Custer, Michigan.

The bridal party was entertained Tuesday at a wedding breakfast at the Forsyth Country Club, when Miss Trotman's sister, Miss Elizabeth Trotman, entertained.

The large bridal table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a low silver bowl filled with white roses, snapdragons, jasmine and marguerites. On either end of the table were smaller bowls of the same arrangements as the centerpiece. The smaller tables were centered with low bowls filled with white roses and jasmine and the place cards were brides.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Woodson Gaylord, Sr., Miss Harriet Gaylord, Miss Virginia Gaylord, Mrs. E. W. King, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hannah, Miss Nancy Hannah, Mrs. Reid Perkins, all of Greenville, and Lieut. Cmdr. Charles King of Greenville and Pensacola, Fla.

Women in the Church
by Mary Fowler

"We are all looking forward to a just peace, but the mere attainment of peace does not suffice," says Madame Chiang Kai-Shek of China. "To ensure that it will be lasting, to achieve in perpetuity the Christian ideal of peace on earth, we must have valiant leadership and the concerted consecration to that ideal of all peace-loving men and women. To take that leadership, regardless of cost, is the privilege and duty of the Christian Church for that is the road pointing to the Cross."

Entertains For Brides.
Mrs. James H. Magill, the former Miss Louise Park, was entertained at a miscellaneous bridge shower on Wednesday night at the home of Miss Daisy Mayo.

The home was beautifully decorated throughout with summer flowers, the bride's place being marked with a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Magill was presented with a gift of silver. Miss Margie Dudley, bride-elect of this month, was remembered with crystal.

The following guests, Mrs. Magill, Misses Jane Hardee, Ann Skinner, Joy Flanagan, Hazel Willford, Margie Dudley, Jean Harrington, Frances Willard, Mesdames Ward Butler, Art Simpson, Carl Jungblouth, Carl Shelton, Fred Broadwell, William Station and Frank Park enjoyed several progressions of bridge, after which an ice course was served carrying out a green and white color scheme.

Prizes were awarded Mrs. Magill, Miss Jean Harrington and Mrs. Carl Jungblouth. Mrs. William Station, visiting guest, was remembered with a gift.

The bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts from her friends.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
June 23, 1904

The Republicans in national convention at Chicago adopted a loud sounding platform which patted themselves on the back vigorously. One sentence says, "In the Philippines we have suppressed insurrection, established order and given to life and property a security never known there before." This is certainly news to the balance of mankind. If such a transformation has taken place it must have been during the past few hours.

This talk about farmers not going to town because they can't buy liquor there is all rot. It is slander on the farmer and a measly bid to merchants to advocate the open saloon.

Rider, and the receiving line was composed of Mrs. Trotman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Woodson, Gaylord of Greenville, Mrs. R. W. King of Greenville, parents and grandmother of the bridegroom, and the bridal party.

During the course of the reception soft organ music was played by Miss Isabel Schaffer and good-bye words said to Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Horton.

For her going-away ensemble Mrs. Gaylord wore a Hansen-Bang costume suit of soft fern green, with matching hat and contrasting accessories. The couple left for Detroit and Battle Creek, Mich. She is the daughter of Mrs. J. C. Trotman, and the late Mr. Trotman. After being graduated at Salem Academy, where she was winner of the Athletic Cup for four years, she finished at Randolph-Macon Woman's College. In this year's class, with an A. B. degree, and was a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and P. M. Secret Society.

Lieut. Gaylord is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Woodson Gaylord of Greenville. He holds an A. B. degree from the University of North Carolina and was a member of both year or council at the University for two years; secretary to the first year class of law student council and representative for the senior class. He is now stationed at Fort Custer, Michigan.

The bridal party was entertained Tuesday at a wedding breakfast at the Forsyth Country Club, when Miss Trotman's sister, Miss Elizabeth Trotman, entertained.

The large bridal table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a low silver bowl filled with white roses, snapdragons, jasmine and marguerites. On either end of the table were smaller bowls of the same arrangements as the centerpiece. The smaller tables were centered with low bowls filled with white roses and jasmine and the place cards were brides.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Woodson Gaylord, Sr., Miss Harriet Gaylord, Miss Virginia Gaylord, Mrs. E. W. King, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hannah, Miss Nancy Hannah, Mrs. Reid Perkins, all of Greenville, and Lieut. Cmdr. Charles King of Greenville and Pensacola, Fla.

Women in the Church
by Mary Fowler

"We are all looking forward to a just peace, but the mere attainment of peace does not suffice," says Madame Chiang Kai-Shek of China. "To ensure that it will be lasting, to achieve in perpetuity the Christian ideal of peace on earth, we must have valiant leadership and the concerted consecration to that ideal of all peace-loving men and women. To take that leadership, regardless of cost, is the privilege and duty of the Christian Church for that is the road pointing to the Cross."

The Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies of New York City, representing twelve different agencies in placing Protestant children in foster homes, in urging pastors of the city to assist in having members of their congregations provide Christian homes for additional hundreds of children. Many of these little ones are the victims of war situations. According to President Henry Fletcher: "Churches offer the best potential source of the type of foster home for which the agencies are looking. These are stable, Christian homes which will give love, security and guidance necessary if these children are to grow up into happy, normal human beings."

Among present-day visitors from China to the United States is Miss Mary Stone, M.D., famed Chinese physician and president of Bethel Mission in Kweichow, China—one of the most notable Chinese-operated Christian centers in Asia. Dr. Stone is the daughter of the first Chinese Christian to be ordained a minister in central China. Realizing the need of medical work among women of China, Dr. Stone and an American missionary arranged for the girl to secure a medical education in America. That training was taken at the University of Michigan and at Johns Hopkins Medical School. For years Dr. Stone was the only physician serving a district of five million people in central China. She founded a hospital, a nurse training school. Later there was founded Bethel Mission in Shanghai, including Bethel Hospital, Bethel Training School, a School of Obstetrics, and a program of evangelization and education.

LADY IN A WHIRL

By Esther Valck Georgins

Chapter 24
Back at the cottage, Zeldia looked for Cora. Neither Sam nor Eglantine knew of her whereabouts, and Zeldia went out onto the porch. "Where's Cora?" she asked Pete. "She was sprawled in the hammock. 'She went for a walk,' he told her. 'Why?'"

"The count came out and put his arm around Zeldia. "And where have you been?" she asked. "I had commenced to think I'd gone out of my life forever."

"I've been sleeping since lunch," he said. "I guess I'm just a lazy, no-account cuss."

"Just a good-for-nothing-no-account count," Pete got up and stepped to the edge of the porch and banged his pipe on the railing. "Well, take a look at this!" he exclaimed.

"What on earth—?" murmured Zeldia. "Why, it's Cora!" "Cora it is," agreed Pete. "What sort of a mess do you suppose she's got herself into now?"

"Always you seem to expect the worst of Miss Pettit," Count Varanis remarked, lighting a cigarette. "You might as well," Pete told her. "It saves you shocks."

A strange sight neared the cottage and the three on the porch stood speechless, gazing at Cora, half-dressed, on the back of a huge snorting horse.

Zeldia recovered first. "Now what's happened?" she demanded. "Are you hurt?" "No, I'm not hurt," Cora snapped. "But no reason why I should be. I was pushed—I fell off a cliff."

"A cliff? What cliff?" "Don't stand there asking silly questions," Cora told her, dismounting awkwardly. "What cliff?" Zeldia insisted sternly. "And how did you come to fall over?"

"The cliff the man pushed his me off, of course," Cora grumbled. "Do you have to ask?" Pete put in. "You might know that sooner or later, she'd go looking for it."

"I went to look at it and I—fell off. That's all. And this man brought me home," she indicated her farmer-rescuer. "The count spoke up suddenly. "Did you see her fall?" he asked.

"Well, not exactly. I didn't see her at the start—only after she was headin' down. Quite a tumble, it was. Are you Mr. Nickols?" "Pete spoke up. 'I'm Mr. Nickols.' The farmer beamed. "I knew your pa and ma," he said.

"Cora swept up the steps and stalked into the house. "Beats all," she scolded. "A person can't seem to have the least privacy. You'd think I could come home in my underwear just once without everyone being out front to gape at me."

Pete and the farmer discussed the incident; the great snorting horse sampled the shrubbery; and the count, who had sat down on the top step, pulled Zeldia beside him and breathed; "Sweet, haven't we waited long enough? Let's steal away tonight."

But he was doomed never to finish. Rutabaga sidled around the corner and headed straight for Pete. Her appearance was startling. She was clad in a short, rather grimy, red apron, tied around her middle with a bow in the back.

"Did she get herself a hurt?" she asked. "Who?" said Pete. "Do you mean Miss Pettit?" "Yes, sir. I saw that man push her and I was afraid maybe she got herself hurt."

Pete removed his pipe and put it in his pocket slowly. "Now, Rutabaga," he said, "start over. Who pushed whom? And when? And where?"

She arched a soiled thumb over her shoulder in the direction of the porch. "He did. She was looking over and he jumped out of the bushes and pushed her, and she went over, and he ran like everything down the path."

count. "Don't let yourself be upset by this silly child," snapped Zeldia. "But Rutabaga seems to have some sort of a notion that you were pushed off the cliff, Cora," Pete said. "And so I was," averred Cora.

"That's right," chimed in the farmer who had edged nearer. "That's right. She said so right at first, but I thought she was knocked silly and didn't know what she was saying."

"I'm afraid that's the trouble," said Count Varanis, with his charming smile. "I'm afraid some of us are being a little silly. After all, this man saw Miss Pettit fall and no one, I am sure, would accept a child's word against his."

Chapter 25
"Well, I didn't see exactly what happened," the farmer protested, "right at the start. All of a sudden I looked up and there she was, rollin' and bouncin' down the mountain."

"Do you think she could have been pushed and you not have seen the person who did it?" Pete asked. "Yes, sir, I do. 'I would have been easy enough to give her a shove and then jump back in them bushes.'"

"Well," puzzled Pete, "I'm sure I don't know what to do about all this." "You needn't do anything," Zeldia said. "The whole thing's preposterous."

"Huh! I know what to do," proclaimed Cora with determination. "I'm going to call the police." "You'll do no such thing," Zeldia commanded.

"I certainly will," contradicted Cora, and she turned and went in the house. "Cora!" Zeldia spoke sharply but Cora ignored her.

Zeldia turned to follow her, but stopped as a long black car came roaring up the hill and swung into the driveway. O'Brien, followed by two strange men, got out. They came across the lawn silently, but O'Brien was smiling.

"Hello, Mr. Nickols," he greeted Pete, and "Hello, John," to the farmer. He did not pause, however, to introduce the strangers, but started up the porch steps. It was only when they stopped suddenly and one of the strange men ripped out an oath, that Pete and the others realized that something extraordinary was in progress. Pete leaped towards the porch, only to be arrested midway by the count's voice. There was no ignoring his tone.

"Stay where you are—all of you!" he snarled. Count Varanis stood with his back to the house wall, with Zeldia, whose eyes were enormous with anger, half in front of him. His left arm encircled her waist, and with his right hand he trained a pistol at the motionless group. The others stood for a second as though frozen to the spot.

"Caught flat footed, by gee!" cried O'Brien. "They were all perfectly helpless. Cora was inside telephoning. Sam and Eglantine were in the other end of the house. The men and Rutabaga watched the count slide along the back of the porch with Zeldia shrinking at his side.

"Just stand still," he warned them, "and nothing will happen." He reached the porch and said that time his objective was plain to all of them. He intended to climb the porch railing an drop to the ground where he would be only a foot or two from the car O'Brien had come in. He intended to take Zeldia along to drive—in all probability—and as a safeguard against them shooting at the car.

They watched him across the porch between the house and the railing. "Stand still," he commanded Zeldia. "No monkey business." He loosened his hold on her and succeeded in getting one leg over the rail.

If anyone is going to do anything, Pete thought, now is the time. Even as the thought flashed through his mind the count went over backwards, accompanied by the deafening noise of his gun. O'Brien, followed by the two strangers, leaped around the porch with guns drawn. Rutabaga scuttled up the steps like a startled rabbit and into the house, colliding with Cora in the doorway.

Zeldia staggered slightly and pressed both hands to her shoulder, where a small dark spot had already stained her blouse. Pete was at her side before the echoes of the shot had died away. He was muttering incoherently and Zeldia looked at him with wide eyes.

"What's all the rumpus?" Cora demanded. The scuffle on the ground ceased and, before Cora's startled eyes, O'Brien came into view, followed by the two strange men. The count was handcuffed to the bannister of the two. Sauntering behind the group came Oh Be Thankful. "Well, we got him, Miss Pettit," said O'Brien. "Thanks to you—and Oh Be Thankful!" "Oh!" gasped Cora weakly. "Nothing at all. Think nothing of it. Just a mere bagatelle." Oh Be Thankful assured them with an expansive gesture. "Somebody call a doctor. Zeldia's hurt," said Pete in a tight voice. "Zeldia!" exclaimed Cora, jumping up. "Oh good heavens!"

"Now don't get excited. It isn't serious," Pete assured her. "Just a scratch—but I think it had better be attended to." "Now, Cora, don't fuss," Zeldia remonstrated. "Well, we'll be getting along with our man," one of the strangers said. "Okay, I'll take care of things at here," O'Brien told him. "I guess you want all his belongings, don't you?"

"You bet." The motor roared and the count disappeared, a prisoner. "Pretty good day's work, my lad," exclaimed O'Brien, slapping Oh Be Thankful on the back. "Why that was nothing," explained the eccentric airily. "I just happened around the corner at the psychological moment, saw with one quick glance what was going on, grabbed him by his crutches and yanked him over. Too bad the little lady got hurt, though." "Huh?" said O'Brien, who had been too busy to see what had been taking place on the porch. "Well, I'll be—!" He leaped up the steps. "Did he get you?" "Only a scratch, O'Brien," Zeldia assured him. "Hurts though, and it scared the dickens out of me." "The louse!" "Now tell me," Zeldia requested, "and take my mind off my wounds: What's all the shouting about?"

SAYS...
"Synthetic Tires? Believe GENERAL scooped the industry!
LONG MILEAGE!
First thing people say when they come in is, "Sure I know it's a General... but how's it for mileage? Just how good are these synthetics?"
Well, sir, mileage records that seemed too good to be true were rolled up by today's new General on desert test car fleets.
Too, this General is on hundreds of taxi-cabs, coast-to-coast... and delivering complete mileage satisfaction.
Then, thousands of these Generals are on passenger cars everywhere. Users tell of mileage beyond expectations; often more than ever before.
These statements are certified... and backed by local people who know from experience about the new General. Ask us for their names and let us show you what they say.
Truly America's new long mileage tire, it's built the way Generals have always been built... Top-Quality throughout. With General's famous slow-wearing, quick-stopping, Silent-Grip tread. Same extra strong, cooler running cords... from our own mills, as always by those same quality men of General's.
The only difference from the rubber... and from General has a special pounding synthetic foam.
Every tire is still pressed, have yours recapped, when you do get a new use it for the best: General's Top-Quality.

HOSIERY SALE DRAWS CROWD

Thousands of Women Seek Nylons At Greensboro

Greensboro, June 23—(AP)—Five thousand women or maybe 10, invaded the federal building here today in a half-day assault on the office of United States Marshal Edney Ridge where 4,000 pairs of nylon hosiery went on sale as ordered last week at the close of the nylon theft in district court.

A "beehive" started forming at 5 a. m. and when the sales started five hours later the line of attack had reached four blocks, around the building and back to the starting point.

Hundreds of women whose courage faded turned away, leaving the treasure to the more determined members to their species.

A few dozen men who succumbed to pressure from the "home front" grumbled as the line moved slowly into the Gaston street entrance to the market street, back to Eugene street, and on Eugene back to Gaston.

Miss Mary Cecile Higgins, the district attorney, C. W. Higgins daughter, ironically declared that she guessed the stockings were worth the tired calves and swollen ankles because "they don't droop at the knees."

"We women are foolish," the D. A.'s daughter sighed, "but maybe next winter—I don't wear them in the summer time—we'll have forgotten the blistering sun and our swollen ankles and knees."

The first three pairs were passed over the counter by Mrs. Jennie Simpson, deputy marshal, to Billy Turrentine, 11, of 205 North Park drive, who said he had been standing in line since 6 a. m. to get the hose for his mother, Mrs. W. W. Turrentine.

The line was filled with women of all descriptions—long and short, thin and fat, old and young, and black and white—and all economic levels.

The hose were sold over the counter in orderly fashion by Mrs. Simpson and Mrs. A. R. Williams, deputy marshal, while a staff of deputies directed by Chief Deputy Fred M. Lamox directed the line through the office and out of the building. Members of the city police force were stationed along the line—just in case of hair-pulling or other forms of violence.

The women brought along their knitting, books and magazines to pass the time away, and many brought lawn chairs for a rest along the way.

Mrs. Henry C. Stallings, wife of a deputy marshal who came to see the show, said it was "the biggest news" she's seen since the famous Petty murder trial in Rockingham county in 1928.

There are more than 100 cannon and more than 14,000 small arms and machine guns in an army infantry division.

Employment Forms Being Sent Out

Employers have been receiving applications for the establishment of employment ceilings for the past few days, and these are expected to be completed and returned prior to July 1, stated P. B. Pollock, area director of the War Manpower Commission today. Mr. Pollock said that local offices of the U. S. Employment Service have been busy mailing these applications and information concerning employment ceilings and in-forming employers and employees since the first of the week.

Employers are requested to indicate the name and address of their establishment, the type of business, the number of employees on the payroll as of March 1, April 1 and May 1, 1944, and the number during the months of April 1944. They are asked to prepare in triplicate form WMC-NC-106 containing this information and mail the original and one copy to the United States Employment Service office, whose address is stamped on the reverse side of an enclosed letter from the state director of the WMC.

Employment ceilings for all employers in North Carolina covered by the stabilization program will be established on July 1, stated the area director.

The purpose of the plan is to promote effective utilization of labor and to prevent any unnecessary hiring by any employer. The plan is a further implementation of the stabilization program, and does not remove any of its provisions.

Employment ceilings will include all males and females, and all male workers must be hired through the U. S. Employment Service.

Employers are not required to hire female workers through the United States Employment Service, the female workers are counted in the employment ceiling and they are still covered by the stabilization program.

Any employer failing to receive the employment ceiling application and the letter giving instructions as to its preparation is asked to contact the local employment office.

Preserved Food On Display In Windows

Food exhibits emphasizing the importance of the emergency urban war food preservation program, directed by Miss Ethel Reid Waters, assistant to Miss Verona Lee Joyner, home demonstration agent, are being placed in windows in various business places in Greenville. The business places in the various windows is sponsored by the Lions Club. Other food displays are at Sheppard Memorial Library, Home Furniture Store, Ormond Wholesale Company, Efrid's department store, O. E. Dowd, president-elect of the Lions Club will conduct "Uncle Sam's Hour" on the radio.

These food displays show the public what can be accomplished in preserving food. Mrs. Waters, home economics specialist, is directing the home gardening and home canning program during the summer months and making demonstrations. The county and city and the farm agent's office are cooperating and numerous civic and other local groups are sponsoring and encouraging the canning program.

Coal Mines Turned Back To Operators

Washington, June 22—(AP)—The government gave the last thousand coal mines back to their owners today, with the exception of two in Virginia, and thus virtually quit being a coal mine operator after 13 months.

Because anthracite and bituminous wage contracts have been finally signed and approved by the War Labor Board, and a period of labor peace is apparently ahead, Interior Secretary Ickes liquidated his job of bossing the mines and said he was "tickled to death" to be rid of it.

The soft coal mines, both belonging to the Jewell Ridge Corp. Corp., Tazewell, Va., were held in government possession because the company refused to sign the bituminous wage agreement.

De Gaulle Sets Up Rule In Normandy

With American Forces in Normandy, June 22—(AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's installation of Francois Coulet as commissioner of the republic for the region of Rouen was a coup d'etat for de Gaulle, who simply brought his men into the beachhead when he came ashore last week and set them to work as rightful directors of French political affairs.

(The French committee in Algiers, announced appointment of Coulet June 13 along with Col. Pierre de Chevigne to be "commander of the third military region" (Normandy).

Coulet said he saw no reason why there should be any friction between his organization and Allied authorities.

"Allied civil affairs represents the army while I represent the French people," Coulet said.

Chicago, June 23—(AP)—Mill buying of wheat futures persisted through most of today's trading session and the July and September contracts showed particular strength. Prices were well above yesterday's close despite profit-taking by local traders.

Commission houses with eastern connections and distilling interests bought rye in substantial volume to create a rally that at one time lifted prices as much as three cents from the early low points.

July wheat closed 1.57 1/4; oats 75 1/2; rye 1.00 1/4; barley 1.21 1/4.

NAZIS ADMIT MASS MURDER

Claim 50 Officers Killed in Escape Attempt

London, June 23—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons today that the Germans had admitted killing 50 Allied officers at a German prison camp instead of the previously reported 47 and said that "it is quite clear that these officers were murdered."

The Germans in a communication sent to the British government claimed that the RAF officers were shot while resisting capture after their escape from a war prison camp near Dresden on March 25 or while attempting to make another getaway following their capture, Eden said.

Flatly rejecting this answer to the mass killing, the foreign secretary said: "The explanation now put forward by the German government is in fact the confession of an odious crime against the laws and conventions of war."

Declaring that the British government would never cease its efforts to collect evidence "to identify all those responsible," Eden said the government was resolved "that those foul criminals shall be tracked down to the last man wherever they may be and when the war is over they will be brought to exemplary justice."

Eden reassured commons that the government has no reports of mass killings except the one involving British and Allied flying officers who escaped from the camp near Dresden.

He indicated that the Gestapo did the killing and said the victims included officers of other European nationalities among the escapees as well as some British and Dominion fliers.

The Germans in their note claimed that serious mass escapes in March endangered public security and forced the adoption of stern counter measures.

Lower Penicillin Prices
Washington, June 23—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration expects further reductions in penicillin prices to civilian hospitals. OPA said today.

Actual selling prices have declined as production increased, and the government already pays less than the $3.15 per 100,000 oxford units which is one seller's price to civilian hospitals.

Headquarters for Broughton

Raleigh, June 23—(AP)—Broughton-for-Vice-President headquarters will be opened in Chicago early in July in advance of the Democratic national convention.

State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson said a member of the North Carolina delegation, which is pledged to Governor Broughton for the nomination, would go to Chicago ahead of the regular contingent to open the Broughton campaign.

as long as possible. Everywhere fierce resistance was encountered, and a particularly vicious battle was being fought for control of the big airfield at Maupterus, five miles east of the city.

(The British radio, quoting a British correspondent, said a captured German battle order declared the Germans in Cherbourg "must hold their positions or be shot.")

Bloody hand-to-hand fighting for Cherbourg was matched over two-thirds of France where the French underground is striking at the Germans on a dozen "inner fronts," trying to "sever German divisions" a special communique from Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters reported.

The French patriots, the Supreme command announced, have blocked the movement of German troops against the bridgehead, have fought several pitched battles and have even occupied several towns in various parts of France.

A special communique from Eisenhower's headquarters this morning said the Germans had been forced to use "considerable forces" against the French resistance movement, which is now operating in accordance with Allied high command plans.

The Germans attacked French "maquis" at Vercors and Ain with armored forces, artillery and aircraft, the announcement said, and the French "seriously delayed" two enemy armored divisions in southern France from reaching the beachhead. Numerous cut also were made in France's interior railroads.

An American airman said he saw a naval engagement in the channel last night with two fleets "going at it hammer and tongs," but there was no immediate official announcement of such a fight. If true, it might indicate the Germans were trying to evacuate some of their trapped forces from Cherbourg.

Twenty-Two . . .

to return to their home with startling word of its magnitude. One who was shot down and captured saw the force, the navy related, "scattered over the sea as far as his eyes could peer. He told his captors that 'one look at task force 58 convinced him that Japan had lost the war.'

"And, he was quite right," says Admiral Radford.

Task force 58 ran into blast Truk—once strongest Japanese base in the South Pacific—for the first time, battered Palau, Yap, Saipan, Marcus, Wake, Tinian and scores of other islands. Too, it staged the daring attack only a week ago on the Volcano and Bonin island bases less than 500 miles from Japan's homeland.

"Commanding the armada is 57-year-old Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, short, thin, retiring admiral who fights much more than he talks, and refers always to "we," never to "I," in discussing operations.

Mitscher and 58 are on the prowl again. "Just where this floating strategic air force will strike next," the navy says, "is a constant source of conjecture and worry for the enemy. Its one and one-quarter million square feet of runway from which it can launch well over a thousand planes can be moved at will throughout the Pacific, even to Japan itself."

Infantrymen And . . .

It reported that the invasion of that island, 1,500 miles from Tokyo but 3,800 miles from Pearl Harbor, was going well.

Supported by planes operating off captured Aitoto airdrome and outgunning the Nipponese on the ground, the Yanks drove ahead more than a mile on the east side of the island at Magellan Bay. In the center, they were scaling 1,540 foot Mount Tapotchau. In the southeast tip, they had wiped out half of an unspecified total of trapped Japanese and seized 500-foot Mount Nafutan.

Russians Open . . .

men adopted a wait and see attitude. Three days after the Allied landings in Normandy the Germans announced the opening of a new Soviet drive which did not materialize.

However, in the past German reports of Russian drives almost always have preceded those from Moscow, which is inclined to wait for substantial results before putting our communique.
