Fresh German Reserves Attempt To Stop Allies

Nazis Admit Allies Have Hammered Considerable Salient Into Defense Lines Southwest Of Caen; Rehabilitation Of Cherbourg Port Begun

By WES GALLAGHER Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, June 30.—(AP)—Marshal Erwin Rommel has brought entirely fresh reserves into Normandy but the Allies have hammered a "considerable salient" into enemy lines southwest of Caen, supreme headquarters announced tonight.

Advance elements of Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's British Second Army, thrusting on both sides of Caen, were reported within 11 miles of drawing a circle about that port, the seventh most important in France.

The situation was described by headquarters as "altogether satisfactory."

Field dispatches said Rommel's effort to smash the salient between the Odon and Orne rivers had been a "complete failure."

Although a Nazi counterattack on Dempsey's right flank last night drove the British back more than a mile in the initial stages.

Headquarters said the Germans suffered "very heavy casualties" in these counterattacks, and field dispatches estimated that two dozen enemy tanks were knocked out or crippled.

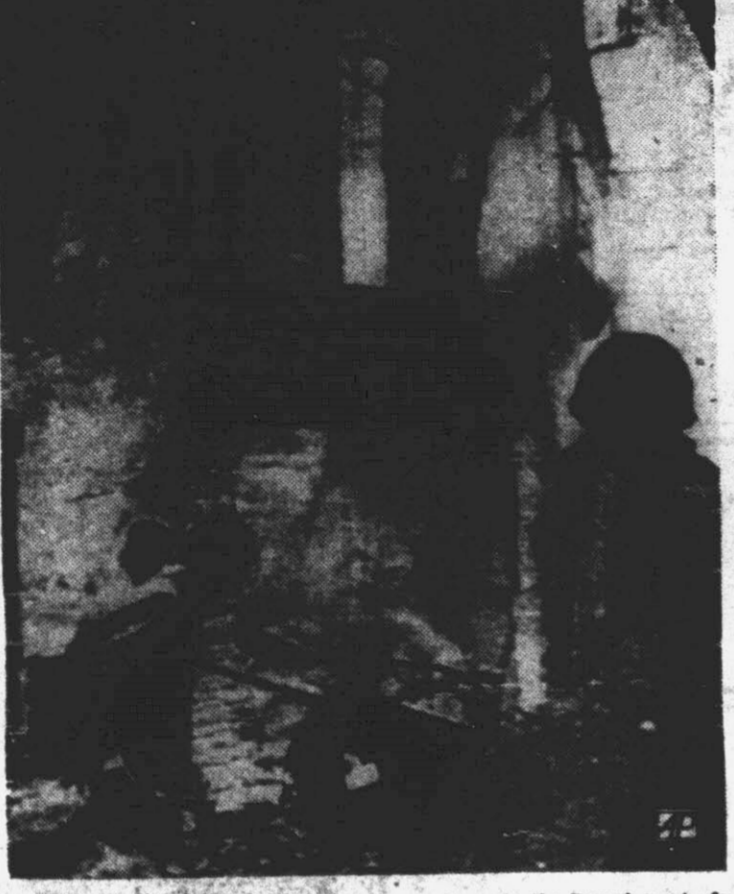

The German radio said Rommel's tanks were under command of Gen. Geyer-Von Schweppenburg, military attache in London before the war.

From newly captured Marcelet, Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's troops struck due west toward Caen in a thrust that menaced one of the city's main airfields. At last reports Allied troops were only half a mile from this field.

Thus far the Allies have taken only one important airfield in the bridgehead—that at Maupertus near Cherbourg.

In the American sector to the west, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's troops made a series of small attacks southward toward the import-

Trustees In Closed Meet Here Today

Press And Public Barred As Discharged Faculty Members Given Hearing

With press representatives and the public barred from the meeting trustees of East Carolina Teachers College were still in session behind closed doors at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon hearing charges against five faculty members who were recently discharged by the board for being "instrumental in inciting students to insurrection and for an unwholesome influence on the campus."

While the closed session proceeded and it was impossible to anticipate what the outcome of the hearings would be, there was much speculation as to possible court action against individuals.

It was stated on good authority that the discharged members would most likely carry the matter to the courts in the form of damage suits for false statement.

As the faculty members were called to the meeting room one at a time, they were generally applauded by those gathered outside.

Press representatives on hand when the trustees adjourned for the meeting this morning were asked working a BellArthur Wednesday were reported today to have been captured near Red Springs by highway and other officers.

PHILIPPINE BILL SIGNED

Pledges Restoration And Freedom To Islands

Washington, June 30.—(AP)—Legislation pledging the United States to drive the Japanese invaders from the Philippines and to grant the islands their full independence as soon as normal government functions can be restored was signed today by President Roosevelt.

"It is contemplated that as soon as conditions warrant," Mrs. Roosevelt said in an accompanying statement, "civil government will be set up under constitutional officers."

The legislation is embodied in two congressional resolutions, the first making possible earlier independence for the islands, originally set for July 4, 1946, and the second authorizing a joint economic commission to consider the rehabilitation of the Philippines.

The resolutions will permit this country to acquire air, land and naval bases in the Philippines.

Dewey Maps Campaign To Fit Course Of War

Chicago, June 30.—(AP)—A campaign tailored to the course of the war took form today as Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York completed conferences with Republican party leaders and prepared to name his choice for national committee chairman.

The G. O. P. presidential nominee, whose hotel room meetings with committee members and state chairmen kept him up until the early hours of the morning, arranged to address the national committee at 11 a. m. C. W. T. He was expected to recommend the election of Herbert Brownell, Jr., the Dewey gubernatorial campaign manager in 1932.

Whether Harrison E. Spangler, the present chairman, would be retained in any capacity, apparently had not been determined.

Dewey did a great deal of listening and not much talking during the night, and several delegations of party officials after another called upon him. But out of these conferences came some definite indications that the Republican campaign strategy will be guided in a large measure by the progress of the war.

Dewey was reported to have been advised by such stump speech veterans as former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas that there might be public reaction against the custo-

Reds Claim 111,000 Germans Killed Or Captured In One Week

Moscow, June 30.—(AP)—Red army units in force plunged today into the Berzina river northeast of Minsk, while engineers of two Soviet armies hurried pontoons into place for mass crossings.

The biggest crossings were the last natural obstacle before the White Russian capital.

Field dispatches said the first units met stiff fire from strong German forces on the west bank and from artillery positions west of the river. But there were no indications that the retreating Nazis would be able to make a stand here.

Although the fighting was sharp, the great swarms of Stormoviks, Yaks and medium bombers kept up a round-the-clock aerial offensive against the withering Wehrmacht.

The Russians said 71 Nazi planes were downed in 24 hours.

The biggest crossings were headed by staffs of Gen. Ivan Chernia kovsky's Third White Russian army and Gen. Ivan Bagramian's First Baltic army, all veterans of quick crossings under fire.

Southwest of Minsk the First White Russian army of the newly-made Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, a tall scholarly veteran of the last war, was moving rapidly up the valley of the Pech toward Minsk, cracking an important outer defense line of the city.

Rokossovsky's fighters, leaving the Mariannas invasion scene, Gen Douglas MacArthur's bombers supported the Saipan operation by dealing the Nipponese air base of Yap its fifth blow in a week during which more than 50 Jap planes have been destroyed or damaged.

In Washington, the Navy Department said that more than 12,000 Japanese planes have been destroyed—better than one every two hours—by American airmen since Pearl Harbor was attacked. American losses were 2,726 planes.

On Saipan, a pocket of Japanese which had been holding out on the southeast tip since the invasion began June 14, was overwhelmed Tuesday, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in a communique Thursday.

NEW GAINS ON PACIFIC FRONT

Allies Push Ahead On Saipan; Jap Islands Bombed

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, June 30.—(AP)—Bearded Yanks, after crushing the last organized Japanese resistance on the south half of Saipan, battled north step by step today while enemy broadcasts hinted of new American battle and aerial attacks on Guam, Tinian and Rota.

Seven hundred miles southwest of the Marianas invasion scene, Gen Douglas MacArthur's bombers supported the Saipan operation by dealing the Nipponese air base of Yap its fifth blow in a week during which more than 50 Jap planes have been destroyed or damaged.

In Washington, the Navy Department said that more than 12,000 Japanese planes have been destroyed—better than one every two hours—by American airmen since Pearl Harbor was attacked. American losses were 2,726 planes.

Today On The Home Front

Chicago, June 30.—(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey will not make any carefully prepared speeches in his campaign for president.

His lieutenants say he spends 60 hours working out an average speech. He likes short, clipped sentences. They're easy to absorb and listen to.

When he makes a point, he gives time for it to sink in before going on to the next one. His speeches are short. None of this is accidental.

He went out and got instructions in speaking when he started talking in the political bigtime back in 1938.

Lowell Thomas, radio commentator, is a close friend. He has helped Dewey in radio delivery.

Sometimes he has recordings of a speech made—before publicly delivering it—and plays it over to learn how he sounds.

Says Nation Is A Puppet Of The Nazis

Passports Handed Finnish Charge D'Affaires About 11 O'Clock Today; Break Marks End Of Long Efforts To Obtain Peace Between Russians And Finns

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER Washington, June 30.—(AP)—The United States finally broke off relations with Finland today, declaring that Scandinavian country to be "a puppet of Nazi Germany."

After weathering many diplomatic crises during the three years in which Finland and Russia have been at war, this government, through the State Department, made the break at approximately 11 a. m. Eastern War Time.

A State Department official at that hour handed to the Finnish charge d'affaires, Alexander Thesleff—last remaining Helsinki representative here—his passport and a note from Secretary Hull giving the reasons for the break.

Hull stated that the recent infiltration of German troops into Finland "with the consent of the Finnish government and German infiltration into the councils of Finland of liberty of action and reduced the government of the republic of Finland to the condition of a puppet of Nazi Germany."

The break marks the end of many efforts over a period of more than two years by the United States government to make peace between Finland and Russia.

Hull's note reflected the long and persistent attitude of friendship on the part of the United States toward Finland, saying that "withstand- ing the esteem in which the American people have held the people of Finland, further relations between the government of the United States and the government of Finland are now impossible."

The note, which was delivered to Thesleff by George T. Summerlin, special assistant to Secretary of State Hull, also emphasized that the military operations of Finland "have a direct bearing on the success of the Allied effort" to defeat Germany.

The note opened with a quotation of the announcement made by the (Continued on Page Four)

Officials Deplore Over-Confidence

Washington, June 30.—(AP)—The nation's top military commander put war job slacker in a class with deserters and over-optimism at home, they say, is threatening to prolong the war.

In a special report to President Roosevelt, the heads of the army, navy and air forces last night deplored what they termed an over-optimistic state of mind on the home front.

The report was signed by General George C. Marshall, chief of staff; Admiral Ernest J. King, top navy chief, and Gen. H. H. Arnold, head of the air forces.

Today On The Home Front

He thinks he could have improved what he said. He makes the improvement in his next speech.

Some of Dewey's closest lieutenants—former New York newspapermen whom he met and hired after becoming governor—credit Dewey with a natural talent for speech-writing. They say he speaks in short sentences and they say it is easy for him to do it in speeches. In addition, he has benefited from listening to radio techniques where good ones specialize in terseness.

His speech accepting the Republican presidential candidacy was a good example of his method. It was short, punchy.

He says he hopes to keep his campaign speeches that way, too.

Poor phrasing or ambiguity can be turned against a speaker or distorted. A career can depend upon shaping a sentence. And Dewey knows it.

APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE HEARS NELSON SABIN

Nelson Sabin, distinguished American baritone and star of radio, concert, and opera, appeared in a concert before an appreciative audience last night in the Austin Auditorium at East Carolina Teachers College. He was accompanied by Robert Whitney at the piano. The concert opened with the singing of the national anthem by the audience led by Mr. Sabin. Though on the whole relatively light, the program included such arias as Cesti's "Ah Quanto E Vero" and Verdi's "Di Provenza il mar" from "La Traviata." William A. Schroeder's "Travel Light" with its imitation of a railroad train brought a special round of applause.

Mr. Whitney played Chopin's "Prelude Eminor A major," Paganini-Liszt's "La Campanella," the much-loved "Liebestraum" and Ravel's "Toccata."

This program was the first lyceum number this summer at the college. The program rendered was as follows:

Ah Quanto E Vera, Marcantonio Cesti; J'ai pleure en reve, Georges Hue; Di Provenza il mar, Guiseppe Verdi.

Prelude Eminor A major, Frederic Chopin; La Campanella, Paganini-Liszt.

Go Down, Moses, H. T. Burleigh; Travel Light, William A. Schroeder; The Crucifixion, William Arms Fischer; Nuffin' plus Nuffin', William A. Schroeder; Liebestraum, Franz Liszt; Toccata, Maurice Ravel.

Women IN THE CHURCH

by Mary Fowler

Ensign Esther O. Johnson, U. S. N. R., recently told a national conference of churchwomen considering the ministry of the church to returning service men and women, that the women in the armed services are not going to be basically changed after the war from what they were when they entered the service of the country. She thinks blunders, hypocrisy and bigotry than they ever were before; that they will insist that a war shall not happen again; that if they return to their former jobs they will be more efficient, and that if they are married they will be better partners for their experiences.

The "Brides' School," operated by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions (Congregational) in Chillicothe, Portuguese West Africa, enrolls sixty prospective brides, most of them Christian girls from the native villages, who are taught home-making, cooking, and general rules of public and personal health. They are also taught Christian doctrines, Bible stories, and Christian songs. Many of these girls marry native Christian boys who go out into the villages as preachers, teachers, or medical assistants. So popular has the Brides' School become that the mission is calling for a woman educator, a doctor, a nurse, and a married couple for evangelistic work, to help enlarge the Christian service program.

One really has to learn the etiquette of making hogan (home) calls on the Navajo Indians or one will not know whether or not she is welcome says Mrs. H. O. Reerfstram, missionary at Fort Defiance, Arizona. She explains that when one stops in front of the hogan those inside look out and see who is calling. If they go back and slam the door they want you to come in. If they come outside and close the door behind them, it means they don't want you inside, but will talk to you outside. If you enter, you sit quietly for some minutes, no one talking; then you quietly arise and shake hands with everyone in the hogan. Then you can tell the purpose of your call—probably through an interpreter. One of the most appreciated gifts, Mrs. Reerfstram says, is a religious picture to hang on the wall.

Red Oak News

"If you have a son in service or if you appreciate what our boys are doing for us, won't you join in and help our community serve supper to visiting service men at the Woman's Club in Greenville Sunday night?" The little notice above was printed in our local paper under the Red Oak News about one week before the supper. When the time came to serve the supper it was found that practically every family in the community had responded in a big way. A dozen huge platters of southern fried chicken, several platters of boiled country ham, mounds of potato salad, many varieties of home-made pickles, deviled eggs, rolls, ice tea, plenty of soft, juicy peaches and about twenty-five home-made clubs were on hand. The folks in the community showed a fine spirit of cooperation in this undertaking and the 250 service men showed their appreciation by eating heartily of it and by their many expressions of thanks.

The thing that impressed me most about the whole affair was this: I was sitting out in front of the club resting a few moments when I looked up and saw a tall handsome MP. coming out. I saw that he held something in his hand. "Is it his stick?" I asked myself. Upon closer observation I discovered it was the drumstick of a chicken. Did he throw it away after he got out? No. He held it tightly in his hand, every once in a while putting it in his mouth. I thought surely he would throw it away when he got to the jeep. But he didn't. He put it in his mouth as he would have a most beloved pipe and the last I saw of his he was still holding to his drum-stick. That alone paid me for all the expense and trouble had had gone for this supper.

Camp Hardee Opens For Summer Season

Camp Hardee, Girl Scout camp on Pamlico river below Chocowinity, opened the summer season today with 36 campers from 16 cities in three states, including Kansas, Virginia and North Carolina. Mrs. James T. Uzzle, Girl Scout executive secretary and camp director, announced today. The campers left Greenville Girl Scout headquarters at 11 o'clock this morning. Enrollments have been made for the other periods during July and August, but there is room for a few more girls. Parents desiring to enroll their girls should communicate with Girl Scout headquarters at the City Hall in Greenville. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hardee of Norfolk, donated $10,000 for buildings at the camp. The buildings have been painted and renovated inside, the camp site has been cleared and a good road now goes all the way to the camp. Safeguards have been provided, a physician is on call and a special nurse is available. The quarters are comfortable, the food is excellent and the beach is one of the safest on the river. The personnel of the camp is exceptionally good and well experienced. Girls enrolled are from New Bern, Greenville, Bethel, Norfolk, Raleigh, Richmond, Elizabeth City, Kenly, Kinston, Fayetteville, Whitakers, Roanoke Rapids, Washington, Wilson, Newport, Ahoskie, Richlands and Salena, Kas.

Jack Netherland To Provide Rain Today

"Old signs and portents never fail, especially when they concern the weather," said Jack Netherland, Texaco oil dealer here, today after he had caught a black snake in woods in the rear of his home on Tenth Street extension, put a little oil on its tail and hung up the reptile with its belly toward the sun to bring rain to save the millions of dollars worth of crops in this section. "I hung up a black snake last August to get some rain and the showers came in such torrents that many of the streets were flooded. You watch today and see if it doesn't rain," Netherland said, while admiring the black snake hanging in the sun. In less than 20 minutes the skies were overcast with heavy clouds.

OPA EXTENSION BILL APPROVED

President Signs Price Control And Stabilization Acts

Washington, June 30. — (AP) — President Roosevelt today approved a one-year extension of the price control and stabilization acts and in an accompanying statement mildly rebuked Congress for relaxing the penalties against price law violators.

Generally Mr. Roosevelt praised Congress for its action in renewing the life of the Price Administration and other stabilization agencies. He noted that the legislators "rejected all pleas" for amendments which would have upset the administration anti-inflation program.

"Some of the amendments introduced in the stabilization extension act may make it somewhat harder to hold the line," his statement said. "But I am advised by the enforcing agencies that in their opinion the line can be held against inflationary price increases if they are supported in a firm administration of the law in accordance with its basic objectives."

The price control act passed Congress on a compromise basis last week after administration forces managed to tone down amendments they said would have broken cost-living controls.

"In enacting the stabilization extension act," the President said, "the Congress has performed a signal service."

But he added that an amendment relaxing the penalties against non-willful violations of price and stabilization controls may "obstruct the effective enforcement of the law."

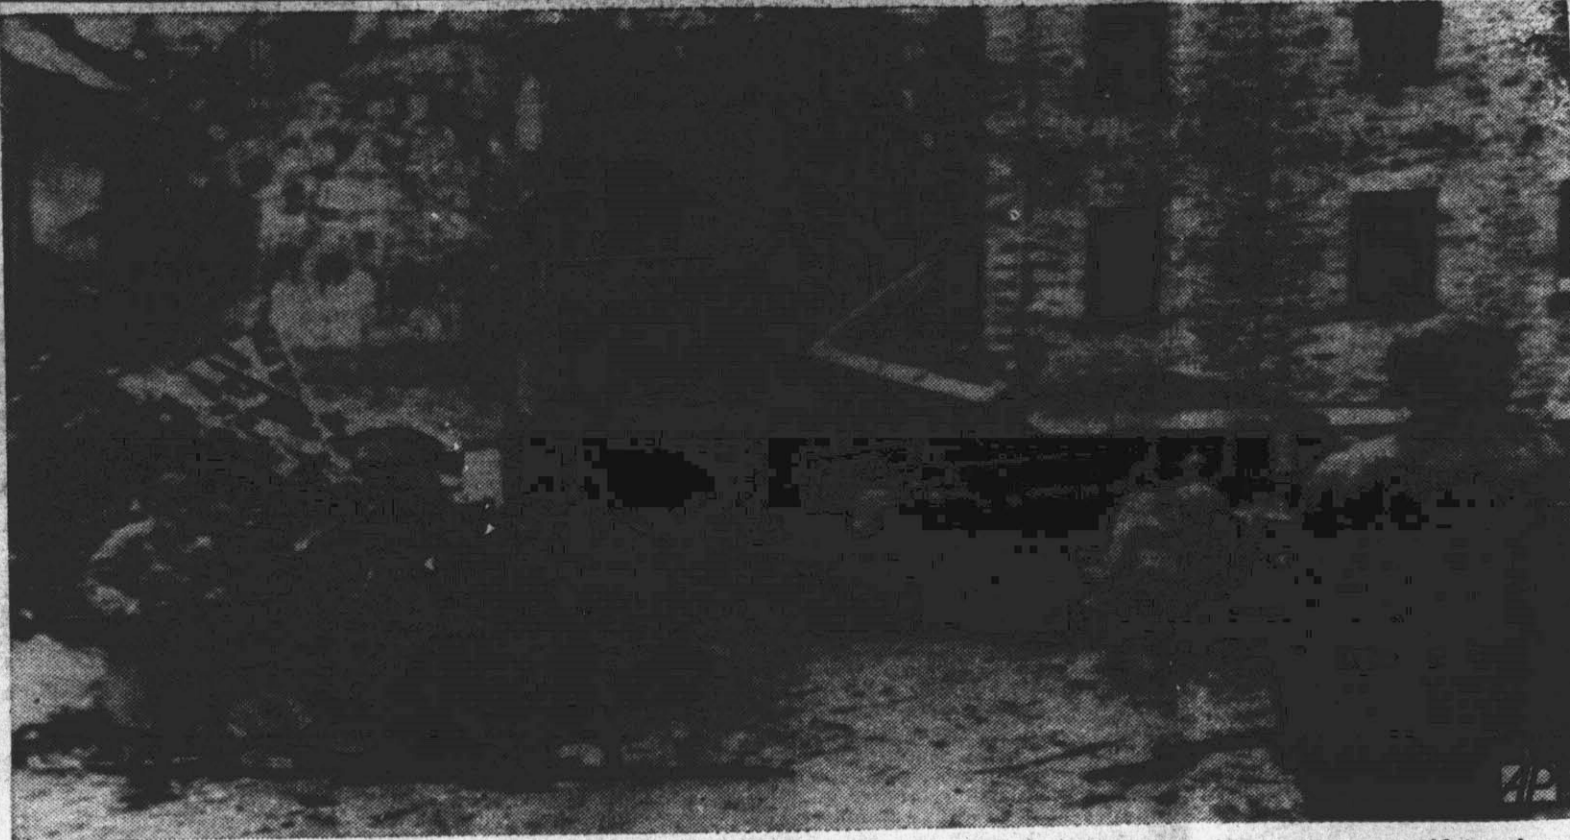

"I hope that experience may not justify my fear," he said. "But if it should turn out that the enforcing officers encounter serious difficulties in bringing chiselers and black market operators to book, I shall ask the Congress to remove the difficulties."

Given final Senate and House passage June 21 after a long legislative wrangle over various phases of price control policy, the new law makes several major changes in present pricing, regulatory and enforcement procedures. Administration spokesmen declare, however, that it retains adequate safeguards against inflationary price and wage trends.

One of the principal changes directs OPA to adjust ceilings on "major" textile items to reflect a parity price for raw cotton. Defined officially as applying to 80 per cent of all textiles, this represented an administration compromise to cotton state legislators who had campaigned for a more liberal price formula guaranteeing also manufacturing costs and a profit to mills.

The OPA said the adjustments would not result in a "serious" increase in textile or clothing costs to consumers.

Other revisions call for rent ceiling adjustments to offset substantially increased operating costs or taxes, abolition of OPA's "highest price line" limitation as it now applies to retail stores, and a reduction of present penalties for price ceiling violations where defendants can show the violations are not "willful."

Suggestions For Use Of The Mails

Continuing our practice of relaying to the general public information about post office service which will expedite the handling of mail thereby enabling postal employees to give more efficient service, the following is offered as a means of closer cooperation between the patrons and personnel of the local post office. I fully realize that the public in general lacks the knowledge of the problems which confront us daily and in an effort to make these problems known to you this article and subsequent ones will appear in this paper weekly.

1. The use of the telephone in giving information concerning mail addressed to patrons is prohibited. It can be readily seen that when information is given by us over the telephone we cannot be certain that the information is getting to the person who is entitled to it. We frequently have calls from people wanting to know whether or not they have mail in the post office, or wanting to know the amount of a COD parcel etc. This type of information cannot be given via the telephone. Please don't confuse this with information concerning postal rates and other questions about postal service as this type of information can and will be gladly given.

2. In the event you change your address pass this information along to the publisher of any papers or magazines which you may subscribe to. The publisher will in turn make the correction on his mailing list and when the publication reaches this office it will be much less likely to be delayed in reaching its destination. A postal card is sufficient to notify a publisher in a case of this nature.

3. In order to have your mail delivered to your home or office a suitable mail box is strictly required. It will be of great help to your carrier if the box is placed in as convenient a spot as possible. It will also save him considerable steps if it is placed near the edge of the porch on a post in cases of residences. In offices or stores a box beside the door is sufficient. It is contrary to regulations for the carrier to open the door and drop your mail on the floor. Your carrier will be glad to offer suggestions in helping you place your box properly.

4. In the post office we have a drop box for depositing letter mail and small parcels. In using this drop box be sure to drop your letter in the proper slot. They are labeled by slots "Local, Outgoing, Special Delivery and Airmail." We always make a last minute collection from the Special Delivery and Airmail slot just before the mail is locked out and if you have deposited a letter in any other slot other than this it will be delayed. A little care and precaution in this matter as well as local and outgoing mail will save our clerks considerable time. Local mail in the outgoing slot causes that mail to be handled twice when once should be sufficient.

In respect to the above suggestions we ask your cooperation to the end that we may be able to give better service to our patrons.

Air WACs To Give Musical July 13

Capt. Ralph Sigmon, recently returned from overseas duty, and Lt. W. P. Byrne, who had service in the Aleutians, will accompany an Air WAC troupe and an 18-piece orchestra to Greenville when a musical show will be given at the State Theatre on July 13 to encourage women of this section to enlist in the WACs.

Major Irvin Ryan, back from the Aleutians, and commandant of the Army Air Forces Redistribution Station at Miami Beach, and Lt. Margaret Nichely will accompany the show on tour.

Some of the members of the orchestra formerly played in some of the nation's top name bands. Cpl. Harry Brisk, advance officer, said while in Greenville today.

A drill by eight Air WACs is one of the features of the show. Many of the cast are noted stage and screen and radio stars.

Oil seeping from the ground was used by the Indians as salve and medicine.

There are 44,000,000 telephones in the world.

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED... NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he needs to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy... from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I can't think of anything else you'll need for your Victory garden, Judge... you've got pretty nearly everything."

"I think so, too, John. Ever get your asparagus patch going?"

"I gave that up last year, Judge. Tried it six years in a row with no luck. Just haven't got the right soil, I guess?"

"Well, I think you're wise, John... no use keeping on trying things you know won't work. Just like prohibition. State-wide prohibition has been tried in this country seventy-two times in the last ninety years. It has been adopted forty-seven times in the past thirty-three years and discarded everywhere except in three states. Same thing was tried in eight provinces in Canada and in Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia but it was an admitted failure and universally abandoned.

"The reason is prohibition does not prohibit. All you get is bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor, plus no end of crime and corruption."

This advertisement sponsored by Conference of Alcoholic Beverage Industries, Inc.

If what you did for the war effort today was an easy thing to do, it isn't enough. We can not hope to give as much as the boy who gives his life... but we can do our utmost!

For instance, if you haven't yet found yourself scheming and figuring on a way to buy extra War Bonds, it's a good sign you aren't buying enough!

When your neighbor calls on you during the 5th War Loan to ask if you'll increase your purchases, say "Yes"... even if it takes a lot of scheming and figuring afterward to pay for them.

That's the way our men are doing their part... in the Pacific, in Italy, in England. Ordered to attack, they do not first consult themselves to determine whether it's safe or convenient or comfortable. They're thinking of you at home. To protect you, they attack first... and figure out how to do it as they go.

Uncle Sam needs your dollars to finance this war and he needs them now! Not just the dollars you can spare but every dollar you can earn that you don't absolutely need for food, shelter, clothing and the operation of the farm.

War Bonds savings mean more to the average farmer or rancher than to almost anyone else. For they form a financial reserve indispensable for the profitable and efficient operation of his business. War Bonds are safe, they pay a good return, they're easy to buy. When they mature, they mean new machinery and equipment, new conveniences for the house, money for the children's schooling, funds for retirement.

The next time you pick up your paper or listen to the radio news, have a conference with yourself. "Am I doing as much as I can to help win this war? Am I marching what I can do with what the boys are doing over there? Am I investing every possible dollar in War Bonds today to make my future and my family's future more secure?"

Most of us haven't yet begun to do our best. Uncle Sam needs it now! BUY MORE THAN BEFORE in the 5th War Loan!

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

GETTING THROUGH THE FOG

A soldier recently returned from active service abroad told a large group of people how his convoy had entered New York harbor.

As they came to the entrance of the harbor, they ran into a thick fog. Suddenly the command was given to all ships "Display your navigation lights." Then for the first time in many days the ships were suddenly lit up, and with these lights aglow they entered the great fog bank. The next morning all the ships were lying safely at anchor. The Statue of Liberty was resplendent in the morning sunshine.

We are all in a fog bank these days, soldiers and civilians alike. Men have seldom passed through more trying times. And this story of the convoy's entrance into New York Harbor is a parable which we may ponder to our comfort.

The only way to get through the fog banks of these dreadful days is to display our navigation lights—the time-tried religious truths we were taught in home and church. They alone will get us through. It will come to pass, after the stormy seas are crossed, and the night is dispelled and the fog is lifted, that we shall be found lying quietly at anchor within the safe confines of God's love. As the Statue of Liberty towered over those ships, so the symbols of God's love for us will tower over our tired and hard-pressed lives.

As we enter any fog bank, let us remember the Commander's order: "Display your navigation lights—keep them burning."

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—You can check the records of the nation's vital blood banks and tell at a glance how the war is going—or how the folks at home think it's going.

Bad or exciting war news lines donors up like theater crowds before the Red Cross blood centers. But if there's talk of peace they just go ahead and go to the theater, or someplace else. The result is a problem for the blood plasma laboratories, geared to handle a steady, even flow of donations week in and week out.

"We're in a business set up on assembly line standards," says Dr. G. Canby Robinson, national director of the blood donor service. "But we're dependent for our raw product upon human emotions."

Take invasion morning as an example: News of the American landings in France almost swamped some of the blood donor centers. Volunteers shot up 700 per cent before night fall.

In Philadelphia a line began forming outside the center as soon as the news got around town. In Washington—usually a "steady production center" regardless of the news—the number of donors who came in without appointments increased an average of 1,000 per cent the first three days.

A woman with a son in uniform flew 300 miles to the Portland, Ore. center to donate her blood on D-Day. Hundreds of donations came from veterans who fought in France in the first World War.

By the end of the week 123,284 pints of blood had been donated. That compares with 95,875 the week before the invasion.

The same thing is reflected in all war news, although never before was the reaction so startling and immediate. Anzio and Salerno and Tarawa all stepped up blood donations. But during the quiet weeks before the invasion officials had trouble keeping production up to normal in some parts of the country.

Although they are still cashing in on the first response that came from the invasion, they don't agree on how long it will last.

"It depends on how the invasion goes," a National Headquarters spokesman said. "If we get a succession of victories and keep getting news of small casualties, the chances are the present enthusiasm will soon die down."

Directors of the blood donor program would much prefer to see vol-unters coming in at a steady clip, but they have a theory to explain the ups and downs: Many people are naturally afraid at the thought of a needle piercing their blood stream. It takes a tremendous emotional shock to get them into the ranks of the blood donors.

Consequently, Dr. Robinson and his associates go around with their fingers crossed for several days whenever some responsible Allied leader begins talking about possible victory this summer. They know the thought of victory later in the summer will cut down on the amount of blood they need today and tomorrow.

LADY IN A WHIRL

By Esther Valck Georgens

"Hospital! Are you sure?" Zelda demanded.

"Yes," Cora replied breathlessly. "I talked to Mr. Donner. He said Pete was taken sick at their office. They've already operated for acute appendicitis at St. Stephens."

"Well, don't stand there like a post," Zelda told her. "Come on, we'll have to get off this train."

"But Zeld—"

"Don't stand there like that!" Zelda yanked her towards the door. "Wait. My dressing case." She flew back and got it.

They hurried up the platform. Suddenly Zelda realized that her purse was still in the compartment. "I'll get it," Cora purred. "You go on."

"Hurry," Zelda told her. "I'll go on to the hospital."

Cora ran back. There was no time to lose. She scrambled onto the train and through the corridor to Zeld's compartment. Seizing the purse, which she found on the seat, she turned to leave.

But suddenly a colored porter barred her path.

"What are you doing here?" he wanted to know. "This is Miss Germaine's compartment."

"I know whose compartment it is," Cora snapped. "Get out of my way. I've got to get off this train."

The porter spotted the two handbags—her own and Zeld's—both dangling from her arm. His eyes bulged and he stood firm.

Cora said: "Will you let me by? I've got to get off this train!"

"Oh, no," came the reply. "Sorry ma'am, I'm goin' to get the conductor."

In the meantime Zeld had made her way to the street and hailed a taxi. "St. Stephens," she told the driver. "And hurry."

Traffic was heavy and the driver did the best he could, but it seemed as though he stood firm. Zeld sat tensely on the edge of the seat.

"Oh, Pete, she thought, please don't die! Even if you do love some other girl."

Zeld's mind hesitated over that. What girl? She went over her female friends and acquaintances one by one and dismissed them all. If it had been any of them she would have known it.

Whoever she is, Zeld thought, she's a fool not to grab him. There aren't many like Pete. And now—she was going to die, maybe.

Pete mustn't die. Life without Pete was unthinkable. He and Cora were all she had. And suddenly Zeld knew that they were the only ones she wanted. Life without either of them would be a lonely affair. Life without Pete would be unthinkable. Because she had been so used to him, she had never realized how dearly she loved him.

The blocks crawled past slowly. "I could walk faster," Zeld said aloud. "We'll never get there."

But they did, finally, and she hurried up the steps.

"I'm Miss Zeld Germaine," she told the girl at the desk. "I've come to see Mr. Nickols. How is he?"

"Just a minute, please."

The girl talked to someone on the telephone, and then, "He's still unconscious, Miss Germaine," she told Zeld, "but you may go up Room 607."

"Thank you. My friend, Miss Pettit, may arrive at any moment. Will you please send her up when she comes?"

The door of 607 was closed. Zeld tapped gently and a nurse let her in. Pete lay silently, looking ghastly white, but his eyes were open.

"He's just coming to," the nurse said.

Zeld knelt beside the bed, taking one of Pete's cold hands in both her warm ones.

"Pete," she said softly.

"Oh, darling," he murmured between breaths, "so you've come."

Zeld thought: He's delicious. His hand clung tightly to Zeld's. "Don't go," he said faintly.

"I won't," Zeld assured him. "I shan't leave you, dear. Just be quiet."

The nurse brought a chair and motioned Zeld to sit down. "I'm certainly glad you came. He's been calling for you ever since he got off the table," she whispered.

"For me?"

"No body else," the nurse assured her.

It was nearly an hour later when Pete opened his eyes, again.

"Hello, angel face," he said, his voice scarcely audible. "Where's Cora?"

"I don't know!" She realized Cora should have appeared long ago, but her mind was all on Pete.

"This girl," Zeld said. "You know, the girl you love. Wouldn't you like to see her? Shall I call her for you?"

Chapter 30

Pete turned his head away from Zeld for a minute. "There was never any girl but you, angel," he said.

"Pete!" Zeld gasped.

Pete smiled. "I know. Silly, isn't it?"

Zeld raised his hand to her lips. "Silly not to have told me before," she said.

Pete looked incredulous. "You mean—"

"That's right."

"But what about the count?"

"What count?" Zeld asked, and then they both laughed.

"You're not saying this just because I'm sick—just because you feel sorry for me?"

"Oh, Pete, when I thought you might die—I just couldn't stand it. Darling, what a nut I've been!"

Someone lit twin candles in Peter Nickols' eyes.

"Pete," Zeld said, "won't Cora be surprised?"

She was mistaken. They were the ones who were going to be surprised.

"Listen," said Cora as soon as Elsworth had departed, and trying to speak calmly, "if you'll only listen to me—"

"I can't listen now," the conductor said. "I've got things to do. Here," he pushed her back in the compartment, "you stay in there until the porter finds Miss Germaine." He turned in the doorway and shook his head at Cora.

"Tsch, Tsch! A drunken man is bad enough, but a drunken woman—"

Cora's only answer was a hic-cough.

Well, she thought, after he had closed the door, I'm certainly in a fine fix now.

She sat down and took off her hat. The train had to stop some time and when it did she could get in touch with Zeld. But what was the first stop? She wished she knew. In the meantime, something would, undoubtedly, turn up.

TRAFFIC ON NORMANDY BEACH — While German prisoners march past, a jeep carrying U. S. wounded prepares to go aboard an LST for the trip from France to England.

"But she's got Miss Germaine's pocketbook," Elsworth pointed out. The conductor stared at the two handbags on Cora's arm. "Say," he said, "what're you up to?"

"I'm Miss Germaine's companion," said Cora. "She had to leave the train and she forgot her purse and I came back to get it. Now you let me off before this train starts."

"Let me see your ticket," the conductor commanded.

"Ticket!" said Cora. "I haven't any ticket! I'm not going any place!"

"Well, where's Miss Germaine?"

"I told you. She's gone. She got off the train."

"Oh-oh. That's a story!" Elsworth scoffed. "I wuz talking to Miss Germaine not more'n ten minutes ago."

"Well," said the conductor, "damned if I know what to do."

"Well, you'd better let me off," Cora told him, and at that moment she realized the train was already moving. She began instantly to hic-cough.

The conductor regarded her with disapproval. "You've been drinkin'," he snapped, then to the porter: "Find Miss Germaine."

"Listen," said Cora as soon as Elsworth had departed, and trying to speak calmly, "if you'll only listen to me—"

"I can't listen now," the conductor said. "I've got things to do. Here," he pushed her back in the compartment, "you stay in there until the porter finds Miss Germaine." He turned in the doorway and shook his head at Cora.

McSutton SAYS...

"From the record... in synthetic tires it's GENERAL for LONG MILEAGE!"

We can tell you—from actual mileage records—that today's General is truly America's new long mileage tire.

This new General has made almost unbelievable mileages on General's desert test car fleet.

Hundreds are on taxi-cabs from coast-to-coast. Enthusiastic statements from these taxi operators report complete satisfaction. And, mister, they give tires the works!

As for passenger cars, many thousands are rolling on the new Generals.

These owners, too, tell of mileages far beyond their expectations... often more than they ever got before.

These are facts... supported by local users who are glad to tell you first hand what they have learned about this General. Let us tell you their names and show you what they say.

Yes... it's a Top-Quality General throughout. With General's famous slow-wearing, quick-stopping Silent-Grip tread. Same extra strong, cooler running cords... from General's own mills, as always. And, made by those same quality-skilled workmen of General's.

Just the rubber is different from pre-war... and, in synthetic compounding, General has scooped the industry for long mileage.

Remember, of course, that you must save your present tires and have them recapped, if possible. However, if you get a precious new-tire certificate, use it for the best: General's proved Top-Quality.
