

Russian Armies Tighten Pincers On The Germans

Squeeze Being Applied On East Prussia; Breach Across Vistula River Below Warsaw Widened; Nazis May Lose 300,000 Men In The Baltics

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Russian armies applying a great pincer upon East Prussia swept today within 50 miles of Tilsit and Memel and threatened the southern boundary of that home of the Junkers with a plunge across the Narew river.

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, besieging Warsaw for the 12th day, thrust a threatening army group toward East Prussia from positions northeast of the Polish capital. This group increased the menace to Warsaw, too, because it could curve to the Vistula and outflank the Polish city from the north.

Russian troops already were seven or more miles inside the Suwalki triangle, which Germany annexed to East Prussia from Poland in 1939. In the north, the Soviet army group of 37-year-old Gen. Ivan Chernikovskiy sent bombs and artillery shells into the German province and fought bitter and repeated counterattacks at several gateways to East Prussia.

In this great action, the Germans started reporting that they were greatly outnumbered. On the south of East Prussia, the official German news agency DNB said the Russians started a new offensive yesterday between Warsaw and Augustów with strong forces, which made some penetrations.

A hundred miles or so south of Warsaw, the Russians widened the breach across the Vistula river to 42 miles, and advanced doggedly to within 26 miles of Kielce. In that area the Red army stood within 75 miles of German Silesia and within 35 of Krakow, ancient capital of Poland and her fifth city.

The Germans repeated that another bridgehead had been established over the Vistula 30 miles south of Warsaw in the Warka area.

The extermination of Germans trapped in the upper Baltic states neared its final phase. Two captured German generals said more than 30 German divisions (perhaps 300,000 or more men) would be wiped out when the Baltic drive was finished.

However, some thousands of the Germans, whose land communications were cut by a Russian plunger, (Continued on Page Four)

Jap Sisters Are Convicted

Denver, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Three Japanese-American sisters accused of helping two German prisoners escape from internment camp were convicted by a U. S. district court jury today of conspiracy to commit treason, and were acquitted of treason charges.

Judge J. Foster Symes withheld imposition of sentence, which, under the law, may not exceed two years in prison and $10,000 fine. If they had been convicted of treason the penalty could have been death. Defense Attorney Kenneth W. Robinson said he had not determined whether to seek a new trial or whether he will appeal.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

While we're waiting for a clue to the mystery of the battle for Paris (just where is that fast-moving tank armored force which already has captured Angers and Nantes?) its race for the French capital? the Russians are providing us with another first class mystery as the battle of the Vistula swells to its climax.

The tip comes from the Germans in their announcement that the Muscovites are developing a flanking movement west of the upper Narew river, that is, along the southern border of East Prussia. When you fit this bit into the Warsaw puzzle, you see that the Red forces, ostensibly attacking from the east, are pursuing at the moment the same strategy employed by the Russian armies which met terrible disaster in East Prussia in the last war.

Back in 1914 the Russian plan for conquest of East Prussia was to advance with two armies, one to the north and the other to the south of the notorious Masurian lake region. The northern army attacked near the Isterburg gap and the Red forces, then the southern army drove up against the Germans in the Allenstein sector and precipitated the historic battle of Tannenberg in which Field Marshal von Hindenburg inflicted a great defeat on the czarist forces.

SUPERFORTS RAID JAPAN

Three B-29s Unaccounted For In Yesterday's Raids

Washington, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Two forces of mighty B-29 Superfortresses lambasted centers of Japanese industrial strength 3,500 miles apart in raids yesterday that left three of the aerial giants unaccounted for and a fourth down in friendly territory.

At least three enemy craft were destroyed in carrying out the missions under cover of darkness. The 20th bombing command announced this data today in providing (Continued on page four)

Slowdown Buries Town
Santiago, Chile, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Fifty-three bodies have been recovered from Sewell, Andine copper town which was engulfed by a snowslide, provincial authorities announced today. About sixty others are believed to have been buried by the slide.

Well now, the Russians once more are driving against the East Prussian border east of the Isterburg gap, and the Hitlerites have been counter-attacking with a ferocity which in itself is recognition of the possibility that the Red army's trying to reach that strategic gateway. At the same time we get the Russian flanking movement along the southern border, southeast of Tannenberg.

It's an intriguing picture, but in calling attention to the similarity I'm not suggesting that the Red generals are bent on duplicating the strategy of their world war predecessors. There may be trickery afoot. Anyway, we needn't worry for fear the Muscovites don't know the perils of the lake country.

The greatest danger to the Hitlerites in this situation, as I see it, lies in that flanking movement below East Prussia.

Such a Red Drive would flank not only the East Prussian cockpit but Warsaw to the south. And the Polish line, the keystone of the German defense, would be under strength south of War.

Thus Hitler's whole Vistula front—his last great defensive line east of the Reich—is in terrible danger. Once that goes, the Red flood will surge against the German border.

It would be a happy coincidence—and one that could happen—Warsaw and Paris fell at the same time. What a staggering blow for Der Fuehrer!

AIRMEN BLAST NAZI TARGETS AGAIN TODAY

Heavy American Sweeps Today Followed RAF Smash At Berlin Last Night

London, Aug. 11.—(AP)—American heavy bombers smashed in force today at oil dumps and airfields near Paris and at rail yards in the German border city of Saarbrücken and the Alsace Lorraine cities of St. Louis, Mulhouse and Belfort.

Before dawn, up to 1,000 heavy British bombers attacked oil supplies for submarines, trains and other targets while Mosquitos gave Berlin residents another restless night by plunging two-ton block-busters into the German capital.

U to 1,000 U. S. planes, half flying fortresses and Liberators, bombed and strafed these objectives: Fuel dumps at St. Florentin and Pavv on the Armacon river 75 miles southeast of Paris.

Airfields at Villoublay on the outskirts of Paris, Toussus-Le-Noble southwest of the capital, and Coulommiers, 30 miles east.

Rail yards at Mulhouse and Belfort in Alsace-Lorraine near the Rhine.

Weather over the French area was good this morning.

The British heavy bombers struck at oil storage depots for U-boats at Bordeaux and La Pallice—the only bases left to Hitler's submarines.

Brest, Lorient and St. Nazaire, the oft-battered lairs for the one-time terrors of the sea, are threatened so closely now by the American army that they are virtually useless to the enemy.

Bordeaux, at the mouth of the river Gironde and well sheltered La Pallice, nearly 100 miles to the north, most supply and re-fit submarine force too large for them at a time when previous attacks on oil storage depots and rail and road communications have made it almost impossible for the enemy to bring up supplies.

By smashing what oil resources remain on the coast, the Nazis, RAF heavy bombers sought to make it even more difficult for the Germans to use the Atlantic coast either in the Atlantic or against Allied shipping to the invasion armies in France.

Mediterranean air force bombers, making their second straight flight for y into Yugoslavia, attacked rail yards at Kraljevo.

The trip to Berlin was the first for the sleep-robbing Mosquitos since July 25.

The Germans said Bremen and southern Hungary also were attacked.

In aerial combats yesterday and last night, 16 German planes were destroyed and 26 others were destroyed on the ground. The Allies lost 22 planes.

Islands Cut Off
London, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Germans on the channel islands of Jersey and Guernsey have been cut off completely from their Nazi comrades in France by the American grip on the Cherbourg and Brest peninsulas and the Allied naval control of surrounding waters.

They have heavy guns, however, which they are using to invalidate, largely, the American captured points of St. Malo, on the Brittany peninsula, and Granville, in Normandy.

Only one major casualty occurred among the aircraft makers: Higgins Aircraft, Inc. of New Orleans, was stopped short in its contract for 50 "Commando" cargo (Continued on page six)

Bumper Leaf Crop Forecast

Raleigh, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A 661-370,000 pound tobacco crop is forecast for North Carolina—107,000 pounds more than was indicated on July 1, and 22 per cent more than last year's crop.

The estimate was made by the State Department of Agriculture, which issued a mid-season report fixing the yield at 1,100 pounds an acre—seven per cent more than the 1943 yield of 935 pounds an acre.

Estimated yield and production, compared with last year: Border Belt—yield 1,100 pounds an acre, up 17 per cent over last year; production 86,900,000 up 42 per cent over last year.

Eastern-Middle Belts—yield 1,040 pounds, up five per cent; production 344,240,000 pounds, up 22 per cent over last year.

Old Belt—yield 910 pounds, up five per cent; production 230,230,000, up 16 per cent.

ALLIES DRIVE AHEAD IN ITALY

Polish Forces Gain Along Adriatic Coast Sector

By NOAND NORGARD
Rome, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Polish troops, launching an infantry and tank offensive along the Adriatic coast, have captured a high ground overlooking the Cesano valley and have sent patrols across the Cesano river after a two-mile initial advance. Allied headquarters said today.

The towns of Scazzano, Montebello and Corinaldo were seized by the Poles swept through the Nazi defenses. The drive to the south bank of the Cesano put the Poles about half way between the captured port of Ancona and the next major town of Pesara, where the end of the Gothic line are believed to begin.

Heavy storms slowed but failed to halt the onslaught. Three hundred prisoners were taken at the beginning of the offensive and the Germans suffered further casualties in attempting five unsuccessful counterattacks.

Bombers Raid Davao; Fleet Base Moved Saipan; Guam Recaptured

(By The Associated Press)
General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The air phase of the battle for reconquest of the Philippines has begun just as the ground fight for reconquest of Guam ended in triumph.

The first bombing of the Philippines since the fall of Corregidor to the Japanese May 6, 1942, was announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, back at headquarters after a historic Pacific war conference with President Roosevelt.

At Pearl Harbor, site of the conference, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, a participant, announced that all organized Japanese resistance on Guam ended Aug. 9, the 20th day of invasion.

That campaign cost the United States 7,247 casualties, including 1,214 killed, but more than 10,000 Japanese were slaughtered; the demoralized remnants scattered in flight instead of making the usual "Banzai" suicidal charge; and Guam now becomes the third American Marianas base within bombing range of Japan by the B-29 Superfortresses which hit Nagasaki on Thursday.

Today, Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner, halting triumph in the Marianas as "the greatest naval victory the United States ever won," dramatically announced the establishment of amphibious Pacific fleet and troop headquarters on Saipan. That means an advance of more than 3,000 miles from Pearl Harbor (Continued on page four)

Number of Idle Workers Greatly Reduced Today

By The Associated Press
The number of workers idle because of labor disputes dropped abruptly today with the ending of one of the nation's major controversies. The total still idle was between 50,000 and 58,000.

Employees at four Paterson, N. J., area plants of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation voted last night to return to work today after company and CIO-United Auto Workers representatives agreed to arbitrate grievances. The company said 7,000 were off the job; the union placed the number at 20,000.

The government may "at any moment" take over in the midst of truck drivers strike, Attorney General, Francis Biddle said at a White House news conference. In this dispute over alleged non-compliance by the Midwest operators associations with a War Labor Board wage increase order, the union estimated 25,000 were idle.

The area affected embraced Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, North and South Dakota, and northwestern Wisconsin. In addition a "sympathy walkout" ended truck shipments out of Tulsa, Okla. An operators spokesman estimated 2,000 were out there but the AFL- (Continued on page four)

Other Units Turn Northward Below Le Mans In Circling Move Threatening Trap For All German Forces South of Seine; British Advance

By GLADWIN HILL
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Roaming American tank forces were reported throwing the main weight of their attack to the north today after a deep mystery thrust toward Paris, and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery declared tonight that "the great bulk of the German forces in northwest Europe are in a bad way."

The commander of Allied ground troops in France announced in a message to his soldiers: "We are round behind them in many places and it is possible some of them may not get away. These are momentous days and complete victory lies ahead."

There was still no official flanking as to the depth of the penetration toward Paris or the progress of the northward thrust, but the Paris radio said the Americans had passed Alencon, 30 miles north of Le Mans. At Alencon the spearhead would be but 42 miles from Canadian-Polish forces to the north above Falaise.

Two days had passed, however, since the Americans took Le Mans, 110 miles southwest of Paris, and latest advices from the front said no solid opposition had yet been encountered by the fast-paced armored and motorized formations.

An American smash to the west of Paris might trap up to 300,000 German troops. In the 24 hours ended at Wednesday midnight the Americans captured 4,322 of the enemy.

Montgomery was hammering at German resistance below Caen so fiercely that the Germans risked destruction of their own cities to get away.

The British, supporting the Canadian-Polish attacks toward Falaise and toward Vimont, below Caen, captured the German stronghold of Thury-Harcourt, 15 miles southwest of Caen.

Below them, the Americans were closing in around the eastern side of the German pocket at Mortain below Vire, taking Gathemo and advancing to points near Vengeons, three miles to the east.

The Americans reached points only a little more than 90 miles from Versailles, a Paris suburb, without meeting serious resistance. (Continued on Page Four)

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW

(Editor's Note: This is the second of two stories, raising some questions and giving the answers, on old age insurance. That subject is cause for thought now among those workers who, nearing 65 or having passed it, are considering whether to quit or continue on the job when the war ends.)

Washington, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Many men and women, close to 65 years of age or older, are working now but when the war ends some will want to quit and others will continue working.

Because all of them must be thinking of old age insurance as something they will be glad to get or don't need—here are some questions and answers:

Q. Can anyone get old age insurance under the social security law before he or she is 65? A. No.

Q. When a person reaches 65, does the government automatically start payments? A. No. He has to file a claim with the nearest social security office, in writing or in person.

A. If a man reaches 65 and starts drawing insurance benefits, does his wife get any? A. Yes. When she reaches 65 she also will receive a benefit. It will be half of her husband's benefit. If he receives $20 monthly, she will receive $10, or a total of $30 for the pair of them.

Q. Can a man who is over 65 and has gone back to work continue to receive old age benefits? A. That depends on the kind of work he chooses and how much he makes. If he goes into the kind of work covered by the social security law he can still receive his old age insurance but only if he is not earning on the job more than $14.99 a month.

If he goes into the kind of work not covered by the law, he can continue receiving his insurance no matter how much he earns on the job.

Factory and commercial jobs—as examples—are covered by the law. And only people who have worked in covered jobs receive old age insurance.

Non-covered workers include farmers, domestic servants, federal, state or local government employees, those in non-profit organizations, and people who work for themselves. They receive no insurance when they reach 65 if they have remained in that kind of work since the law went into effect January 1, 1937.

Q. If a man who has been receiving old age insurance goes back to a job in "covered" employment and earns more than $15—thus forfeiting his insurance—is he ever entitled to benefits again?

A. Yes. When he stops working his old age insurance will be re-instituted. (Continued on Page Four)

U. S. O. CLUB GIVES RADIO PROGRAM

A very interesting, informing and entertaining program was given over WOTC last night by the Community USO Club with Miss Lucy Cherry Crisp, director, in charge.
The theme song "America the Beautiful" which was beautifully played on the violin by Tech. Sgt. Samuel Rich of the USMCR, was followed by Miss Crisp's comments on the words "amber waves of grain" and "purple mountain majesties above the fruited plain" which appropriately expressed the spirit of the Home Volunteer Hour. In her gracious manner she also paid tribute to the Home Demonstration clubs of Pitt county for their contribution to the Community USO program in the way of Sunday night suppers consisting of home produced and home prepared food both fresh and canned.

Sgt. Walter Dean Warren of the USMCR was then presented by Miss Crisp, and very graciously thanked the homemakers of Greenville and Pitt county for the great part they are playing in boosting the general morale of men in service through producing, preserving, and conserving a well-rounded and adequate home food supply and thereby it so generously with the boys. He expressed a special interest in the success of the summer program now being carried on with city homemakers.

Tech. Sgt. Samuel Rich, the violinist, stated that in his experience overseas, his company missed more than any food, other than hucy steaks, the home-grown vegetables. "We never realized what a big difference vegetables, both fresh and canned, made in our meals until we didn't have them any more," said Sgt. Rich. He, too, congratulated the home demonstration department for the important services they are rendering through the victory garden idea, and expressed his interest in the continued success of the program.

After a plea for the conservation of food in the interest of our armed forces, Miss Crisp closed with the beautiful poem "Kitchen Garden" by Rupert Croft-Cooke, which was followed by Tech. Sgt. Rich's soft violin strains of "America the Beautiful."

The program was introduced by Mrs. Ethel Reed Watters, who expressed her appreciation for the cooperation of the Community USO Club in the promotion of the food program, and for the valuable program being carried on by the club for our men and women in service.

Greenville's Gretna Green Shows Decline

By CHESTER WALSH

Greenville's prestige as a Gretna Green is waning, it appears. Only one marriage license was issued by the Register of Deeds, E. C. Cox last week and only one has been issued this week. This is in striking contrast to some weeks ago when clerks at the registry office were kept busy issuing licenses to servicemen and Magistrate H. L. Jenkins transferred his offices last to the courthouse into a marriage chapel. As many as 60 marriage licenses have been issued here in a single month, some of the ceremonies being performed in pastor's studies, the most of them in magistrate's offices. The license clerks and officiating ministers and magistrates were kept busy shortly before Marine Squadron 342 moved away from the Greenville base.

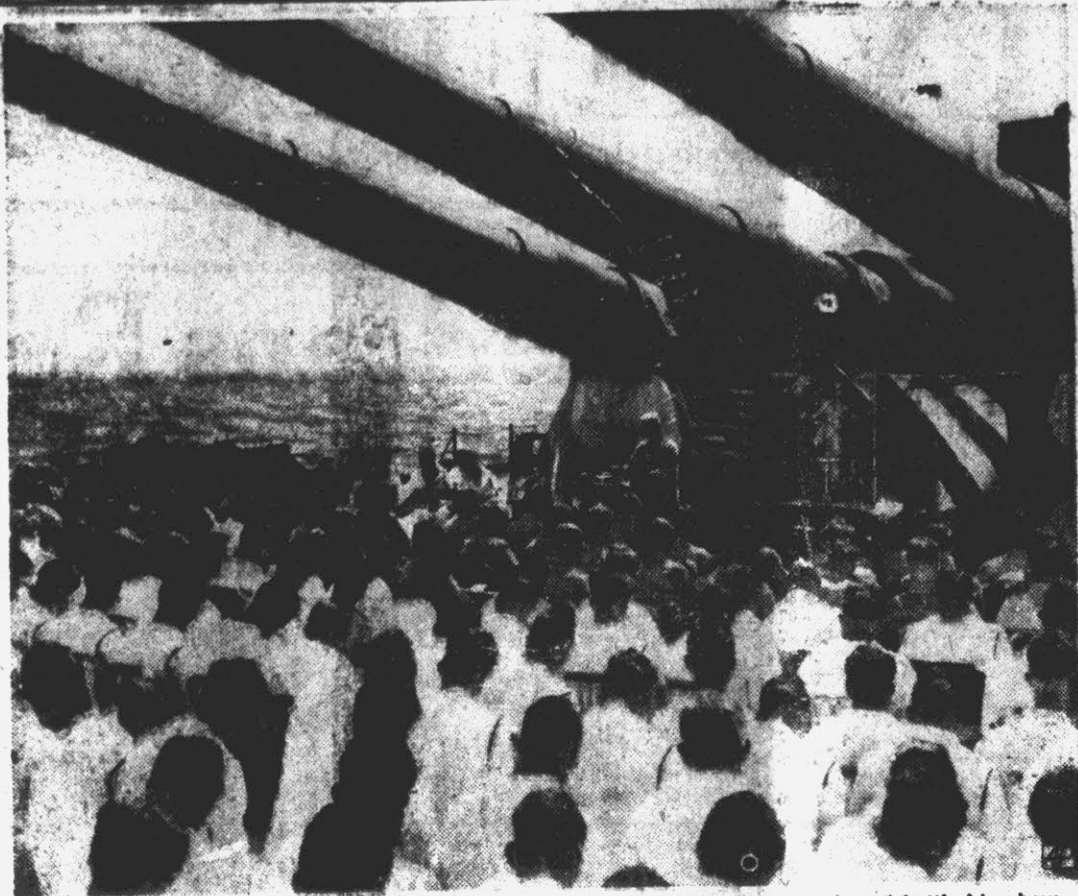

The only license this week was issued to Hiram Hardison and Arletta McCauley, colored, of Greenville.
Surgical Dressings Room To Reopen

The workroom will also be open each Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 7:30 until 10 o'clock.

Plan Now To Mail Christmas Packages

Save strong string and box material and start to make shipping. Postmaster General Frank C. Walker advises Americans in announcing the rules for mailing of Christmas gifts for army and navy personnel overseas.
This year the Christmas mailing period for both army and navy overseas forces is the same—September 15 to October 15. After October 15 no gift parcel may be mailed to a soldier without the presentation of a written request from him.
The great demands upon shipping and the need for giving preference to arms, munitions, medicine and food is the prime reason for the early mailing date. Moreover, gift parcels must travel great distances to reach army and navy personnel who are located at remote points and frequently the transfer of large numbers to new stations necessitates forwarding of the packages and additional time is required.

Bethel Police Chief Is Expert Fisherman

Police Chief S. M. Martin of Bethel took a long vacation this summer in New York State and Canada and did a lot of fishing. He said after his return, he visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skocum in Utica, N. Y., and spent some time at Black Lake on the Canadian border.
Martin had the time of his life pulling in black bass on numerous fishing trips. The black bass bite like lions in the cold deep water of the northern lake, he said.

Should Save Waste Paper For Salvage

Waste paper salvage in Pitt county during July totaled 45,997 pounds, most of which was collected in Greenville. This is less than one pound per person, while our quota is ten pounds for each one of Pitt county's 55,000 citizens, said Mrs. Louise Swann, salvage chairman for Pitt county.

The Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce collected more than half of the waste paper shipped from this county. Jaycee Chairman of Salvage Alton Barrett reports the next collection on August 20th and others regularly each month. In every town of Pitt county a chairman of salvage has been appointed and is working with a committee to re-urge efforts in collecting waste paper and tin cans, two vitally needed war materials. We hope each town will report successful totals in August.

Save by conserving and salvaging waste paper. Paper bag shortage is acute and is presenting a serious problem to merchants and homemakers alike. The shortage will probably become increasingly critical in the months ahead because thousands upon thousands of tons of paper pulp used in making paper bags, cardboard cartons, and other wrapping materials are going into cartons used to ship supplies to our fighting forces and our Allies. Each victory the Allies win means more goods shipped overseas (in paper containers) to sustain the occupied countries.

Conserve those paper bags and take them back to the merchants with you to avoid the wrapping of individual items. Do not ask that packaged foods be again wrapped by the grocer; make it a habit of honor to carry home the baking powder, the breakfast food carton or the coffee unwrapped.

Merchants are trying to conform to the policies requested by the chairman of the War Production board and you can help by cooperating with them to the utmost.

Pitt Medical Men Hold Meet Ayden

The Pitt County Medical and Dental Society held its regular monthly meeting in Ayden Thursday night. Drs. Frizzelle and Dixon entertained with a chicken dinner.
After dinner the meeting was called to order by President N. T. Ennett and a scientific program was given. Dr. H. M. Bonner gave an illustrated paper on "Diseases of the Mouth and Esophagus." This was followed by a paper by Dr. F. P. Brooks on "The Diseases of the Stomach and Duodenum."

The health officer then reported on the activities of his department, emphasizing the fact that no typhoid cases had been reported this year and that the general contagious disease situation was satisfactory. Owing to the lateness of the hour the business session was postponed until the September meeting. The meeting was well attended.

Waste Paper Goes to War

From the day a soldier goes to war, he is dependent on paper. From his draft card to his honorable discharge, his records are kept on it.

His rations are packed in it; his cartridges are wrapped in it; his shoes are lined with it; his letters are written on it.

His barracks are built with paper wallboard, paper roofing, paper insulation.

He shoots at paper targets, cuts from paper plates, drinks from paper cups.

His battles are planned, his orders are issued, on paper.

Literally, he lives, trains, travels and fights with paper his indispensable ally.

And, of course, his "honorable discharge" will be handed to him on a piece of paper—after a beat-up Axis has signed the peace terms—on paper!

Women IN THE CHURCH

With a total membership of 1,024,700 women, meeting in 26,000 local societies in as many churches throughout the United States, the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church lays claim to being the largest denominational society of women anywhere in the world. The Society works in twenty-two different countries outside the United States. It maintains 900 deaconesses, 581 foreign missionaries, and 765 home missionaries. Its annual appropriation for home and foreign missions and for social welfare in the United States is about three and a half million dollars. For the training of its members it conducts 20,000 Sunday classes each year—mostly in home and foreign mission subjects. The national president is Mrs. J. D. Briggs of St. Louis, Mo.

The national board of the United Council of Church Women has sent to the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, and to members of Congress these resolutions as the attitude of American church women: "Believing peace-time conscription to be opposed in principle both to the democratic way of life and the Christian belief in the worth and integrity of the individual and believing that all young people should have an adequate opportunity to complete their education, we urge that Congress take no action looking toward the peace-time conscription of youth."

"We must learn to see every local problem in its global setting. Poverty anywhere constitutes a danger to prosperity everywhere. Hatred, vindictiveness or narrowness of vision in any individual is a step in the direction of future wars. We pledge ourselves therefore to international and interracial justice and goodwill in both personal and public relations, and will endeavor to educate our children and youth in this spirit toward building international security."

The Christian church must keep the closest relation with the women who go into industry, so that the sense of family may never be destroyed," says Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of New York. "It must likewise urge its women to join those great labor organizations through which they may protect their living standards and express themselves on equal terms with management in the industrial life."

Reward.
Glenns Perry, Idaho, Aug. 10.—(AP)—When the local rationing board awarded Mrs. W. O. Ruberry extra sugar for canning, she returned the favor by presenting the clerk with a juicy berry pie.

Lime And Phosphate Valuable For Crops

"Producing higher yields of pasture and forage crops by the use of lime and superphosphate fertilizers is an effective way to meet the wartime shortage of farm help, and a quick way to reach feed and food production goals for war needs," J. V. Taylor, Pitt county AAA chairman, said today.

"If every farmer in Pitt county would take a few days during the early fall months to spread lime on his permanent pasture, and on the land where he expects to seed adapted grasses and legumes next year, the country's production of pasture and forage crops would be increased tremendously," Taylor said.

"Lime spread now, and superphosphate later, can do much to grow feed to produce the milk, eggs, and beef we need. Immediate application is important. Lime is a conditioner of the soil and needs time to be dissolved by winter rains and snows before its full effect in sweetening acid soil can be realized. There is plenty of lime to be had now, either through the AAA program or from commercial dealers," Taylor said.

Lime and superphosphate are available to any farmer who will apply these materials on his land in accordance with the AAA conservation program. The quantity of lime or phosphate a farmer may receive is determined on the basis of the size of his farm. Farmers should call at the AAA office in Greenville to get complete details of the program and to make application for the materials.

COAST GUARD HEAD — Vice Adm. R. R. Waesche, U. S. Coast Guard commandant, stands aboard a ship.

Worthwhile Effort.
Ada, Okla., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Scoutmaster Otis Stockton had a hard time convincing members of his troop that they should learn how to administer artificial respiration.

But he's happy he persisted. While on a swimming party, Stockton became exhausted and sank. His scouts pulled him out and brought him back to consciousness after applying artificial respiration for 20 minutes.

WAVES are sent first to New York for recruit training. Many receive advanced training in specialized work at other schools.

Chapter 25
Mrs. Grogan shuffled to the door—in no good humor, as she could have told you herself. Last night her sister's husband's nephew who was in the Merchant Marine—and a fine boy too—had stopped in to say hello. And Mrs. Grogan had felt that it called for a little celebration. So at eleven o'clock in the morning, after her bell had been ringing insistently for a good five minutes, she had reluctantly put on a wrapper and toiled up the stairs from the basement. She was a little surprised to find that the girl who stood in the vestibule did not appear in any better humor than she was herself.

"I'm looking for Angelica Saunders," The voice was clear and commanding, as if the dark-haired girl standing there was used to having others jump when she spoke.

"You are, are you?" Mrs. Grogan folded her arms and privately resolved to take this young woman down a peg. "And what do you want me to do about it?"

"I understand she lives here," said the girl, still in that clear, imperious voice.

"Do you see her name on any of the boxes?"

The girl shook her head. "No, I don't."

"Well, then, she don't live here," returned Mrs. Grogan, preparing to close the door.

"Oh, please!"

Mrs. Grogan saw with surprise that the large brown eyes were filled with tears, and that the well-manicured hands the girl placed against the door to keep it from closing were trembling. She looked at the visitor sharply, then opened the door a little wider.

"This Mrs. Saunders I'm looking for," the young woman went on, "is a tall, good looking blonde. If you'd seen her around you couldn't forget her. She's really quite striking-looking. Her name may not appear on the boxes because she came to live with her family."

Mrs. Grogan still looked unimpressed. She hadn't heard more than one word in three, but she had no intention of letting this pretty female know that her hearing was not of the best. She merely repeated now:

"I'm telling you she don't live here."

The girl was turning away, when suddenly she wheeled around. Even Mrs. Grogan, although still sobered with sleep, sensed the desperate tension in her manner that caused her to raise her voice so that it could be clearly heard.

"She had a baby with her," said the girl. "A very young baby."

The janitress was impressed now. "Oh," she said, "you mean the baby Mrs. Malone's daughter brought home?"

Mrs. Grogan wanted to talk now. But her visitor had already pressed the Malone's bell and was now almost flying up the stairs, her smart, high-heeled pumps clicking on the linoleum, and her trim figure fading into the shadows of the first landing. Martha was as bewildered as Mrs. Grogan had been. She had just finished giving Baby Jeanne her bath, and hoped to get the bathroom cleaned up before Angel and Louise were awake. But already she could hear Angel's voice asking petulantly, "For heaven's sake, Mother, who's ringing that bell at this ungodly hour?" And she was sure the bell had awakened Louise too. Moreover, it seemed obvious that the young woman who stood facing her in the doorway had come to the wrong apartment. Martha although she did not know a great deal about style, saw instantly that this girl was dressed in a way that spelled money and good taste in no uncertain terms.

"You—you've come to the wrong apartment," she said when at last she could find her voice.

"Aren't you Mrs. Malone?" queried the girl a little breathlessly.

"Yes," Unconsciously Martha smoothed back her hair with a hand still damp from Baby Jeanne's bath.

"Is Baby Jeanne here?"

Martha nodded dumbly, and lifted her hand to her head in an involuntary gesture. Somehow she knew, without being told, that this was no idle question. For some reason she could not fathom, she knew at once that this smartly dressed young woman had a right to see Baby Jeanne. She did not even stop to analyze it in her own mind, but stepped back and held the door wide, saying as she did so:

"Yes, she's here. Won't you come in?"

The girl rushed past her, but paused in the dark.

"You're Baby Jeanne's mother," Martha said. It was a statement, not a question.

Chapter 26
Martha never knew how she lived through the next two hours. There were moments when she thought that it must all be a dreadful nightmare, and that soon this woman would go away and leave her with Baby Jeanne to tuck in for her afternoon nap. But then an icy hand would descend from nowhere and fasten its cold fingers about her heart, and she would find herself whispering:

"No, it isn't a nightmare. When this woman goes away, Baby Jeanne will go with her—and I'll never see her again. I must keep this woman talking. No matter how much it hurts, I must keep her here, so that for an hour—or maybe even a little longer—Baby Jeanne will still be mine."

There was no doubt about it. This stranger was the baby's mother. Martha couldn't remember what her last name was—Angel called her "Barbara." Through a dull throbbing, Martha could hear Angel explaining that she and Barbara had shared an apartment in Hollywood. It was during the time that Barbara was expecting a baby, and it seemed that her marriage had been to a no-account fellow of whom her family disapproved. Barbara's family kept coming back into the conversation again and again, and Martha could well believe that they were a force to be reckoned with. At any rate, it was obvious that the girl had decided against telling her family of the baby's arrival. Angel frankly admitted that Barbara had paid her well to take the baby back to New York, since she, Barbara, was going to be unable to return for some months.

"But you told me your family lived on Long Island, in Forest Hills. I understood you had—well, at least a private house, and that my little girl would be well taken care of—"

Barbara repeated for the third or fourth time.

Each time she heard them the words seemed to cut through Martha's mind. She wanted to resent them, but she felt that the mother was justified to some extent. Of course this railroad flat was not a country estate, but Baby Jeanne had not been neglected, and certainly nowhere would she have been more beloved.

"I've told you before," Angel said petulantly, "the family did live out on Long Island when I left home. I don't know they'd moved to this hole. And I was doing my damndest to earn enough money so that I could get the child to a better place and have her cared for properly—by a nurse."

Louise had been practically a silent participant in this discussion, but now she turned on Angel indignantly.

"Don't you even dare hint that Baby Jeanne didn't have the finest and most loving care Mother could give her," she stormed. "I admit you never raised your finger to do anything for the baby. The most you ever did was to pull the covers because I'm a widow with a—"

"Why didn't you write and tell me you needed more money?" Barbara demanded of Angel. "When my checks started coming back, I was frantic. I should think that anyone as beastly selfish and mercenary as you are would have thought of asking for more money, even if you didn't care about the child."

"I did write you, but you'd left Hollywood," returned Angel, ignoring the thrust. "I tried every way I could think of to find you."

"I was in Arizona—in a sanitarium, for awhile. But I still say that even if you people didn't care about the child—"

"Didn't care about the child?" Louise broke in. "You have no right to assume that your child was neglected. You have no right to assume anything, for that matter. You sent her off in the arms of a woman who was practically a stranger, all because of a little family pride!"

"I know," Barbara's voice was scarcely more than a whisper. "I was wrong—so wrong. Wrong about my family, too. Mother can't wait to see the baby, and Dad's got the apartment so full of electric trains and dolls you can't walk through the living room. But you don't know what I've been through these last few weeks, trying to trace where my baby had been taken. Oh, I've been punished."

The talk went on and on, but to Martha it meant only one thing: the time was growing close when she would have to dress Baby Jeanne—and kiss her goodbye. Even now Barbara was getting restless and glancing more frequently at her diamond-studded wrist-watch.

Finally Martha could stand it no longer. She hesitated a moment. Then:

"You'll want to take the baby home, of course. It's almost time for her afternoon feeding." Her voice sounded harsh and unnatural even to her own ears. "I'll go wake her now and get her dressed."

"Let me help you," Barbara cried eagerly, half rising from her chair. Again it was Louise who interrupted.

"Can't you let her have even a few minutes more with Baby Jeanne?"

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Good morning, Doc. Your good wife tells me you're working night and day now that so many of the younger doctors are in the army."

"That's right, Judge, and I'm glad I'm still able to do it. Had a long letter from Harry... that bright young fellow I was breakin' in to take over my practice. He said the boys in the service are getting the best medical care of any armed force in our history. They really should with all those brilliant doctors and plenty of supplies to work with."

"Speaking of supplies, Doc, not many people realize that a large part of the alcohol required to make the medical supplies that are being used right this minute to alleviate pain, combat infection and save human lives, is produced by the beverage distilling industry. For nearly two years this wine industry has been working night and day producing nothing but alcohol for the government's program."

"Nobody knows better than I, Judge, what an important contribution to our war effort that has been."

Washington—U. S. grade A large 43 to 44; broilers and fryers, 27 to 29.

Hog Market

Raleigh, Aug. 11—(AP)—(NCDA)—Hog markets steady with tops of 14.25 at Clinton and Rocky Mount and 14.50 at Richmond.

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 11—(AP)—Cotton futures opened 10 to 35 cents a bale higher.

Noon prices were 35 to 55 cents a bale higher. October 21.29, December 21.12, March 20.85.

Futures closed 75 to 90 cents a bale higher.

Grain Market

Chicago, Aug. 11—(AP)—Grain futures advanced rapidly at the start today but lost about all their gains in late dealings.

Continued drought in the eastern part of the corn belt and the bullish government corn forecast were the main props, but selling developed later, attributed partly to forecasts for rain in the parched corn growing areas. Sellers in the rye pit found demand limited and prices eased, affecting other grains.

Futures closed at or near the low points. Wheat was 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher than the previous finish. September $1.53 1/2, oats were 1/4 off to 1/2 off, September 85 1/2, rye was 1/4 to 1/2 off, September $1.03 1/2, and barley was 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, September $1.11 1/2.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 11—(AP)—Purchasers turned to selected rail and industrial leaders in today's stock market and, while the recent low-priced motor and utility sprinters were active at intervals, the majority failed to get anywhere in particular. Transfers were around 1,000,000.

SAYS TOKYO IS BIG FIRE TRAP

School Children Now Razing Flimsy Structures

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
(Chief of the Former Associated Press Bureau at Shanghai and longtime resident of Japan)

Washington, Aug. 11. — (AP) — When Tokyo's warlords begin telling the children to tear down the houses preparatory to American air raids, they know they're whipped. "Tens of thousands of homes" in the Mikado's capital have been destroyed by Japanese school children bringing one of the greatest levellings since the earthquake of 1923.

Well do the Japanese see the American B-29 bomber casting its long shadow over their empire, and approaching close behind it that of the newly-born B-32 dreadnaught of the skies.

By and large Tokyo is a fire trap, notwithstanding its vaunted "modernization" since the great quake of 1923. I lived in Tokyo before they were going on and have been back since. Burning Japanese homes constituted the major damage in Tokyo from that earthquake.

So the school children have been turned into demolition crews to cut paths of open ground through the capital's closely built structures, hoping to less the toll American fire bombs will take when they start falling like leaves.

Tokyo is in the shape of a giant wheel. The hub is the Imperial palace, surrounded by centuries old stone wall and water filled moat. There is lots of space at the hub, although the Mikado's palace is a collection of inflammable structures. From there to the rim, most streets run in almost any and all directions, narrow and crooked.

These streets, thousands of them narrower than many of our alleys, are lined with pine wood and paper structures, the homes of Tokyo's millions.

Mixed among such structures are many of Japan's industrial plants upon which she depends for her materials of war. The same is true in other cities such as Osaka, Kobe, Nagoya.

Our bombers went over Nagasaki yesterday. They may hit Tokyo tomorrow. In fear Japan rushes its school children to tearing down its houses. Indeed the shadow of the B-29 is reaching far.

The cars remained upright and railway sources said no one was injured serious enough to require hospitalization.

Black Market. Kansas City, Aug. 10—(AP)—Warrants have been issued in federal court charging four men with illegal sales or transfers of gasoline, coupons worth more than 10,000,000 gallons.

One of the men, in a written statement made public by OPA investigators, said that used coupons, taken to a furnace to be burned, had been raked out with a poker and salvaged illegally.

The four against whom charges were made yesterday were Charles Cline and Byron Stafford, both of St. Joseph, Mo., and Jack Arnold Ross and Marion Bolder, both of Kansas City.

To supplement the civilian campaigns for collection of waste paper, the army has promised to salvage and return to the United States much waste paper, including fiber boxes from at least two combat areas.

planes monthly before any were delivered. The first C-46 was expected this month.

This repeated the experience of Higgins industries with Liberty ships in 1942. The contract was canceled, said to be for want of steel, before a keel was laid. The air transport contract was belatedly given as a substitute, and the company was declared to have made

"not fully determined." It was stated. Some 1,400 skilled tire manufacturers who went into aircraft work in Akron may be steered back into production of critically needed heavy truck and bus tires by the removal of some aircraft parts production from Goodyear and perhaps two other Akron aircraft sub-contractors, officials said.

The airplane cutback, extending as it does over a period of a year, will not meet the existing acute demand for workers in other vital programs," said Arthur H. Bunker, director of the WPB's production executive committee staff, through whom all cutbacks are cleared in advance.

"It is necessary to emphasize," Bunker continued, "that the overall production for the armed forces is scheduled to increase substantially during the balance of this year, and that the decrease in the airplane represents only one-third of the increase in the overall army program still to be met."
