Zero Hour For All-Out Red Attack On Prussia Is Near

Russian Armies Mass On Border As Nazis Announce Evacuation Of Important Communications Center Of Oswiec 15 Miles South Of Frontier

By DANIEL DE LUCE Moscow, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The zero hour for an all-out Soviet assault on East Prussia appeared to be approaching rapidly today as Russian armies massed in a great threatening arc before the borders of that German province.

Russian units to the south were to 17 miles from the East Prussian frontier, while to the east other Soviet forces were seven to 10 miles away and to the north from 30 to 35 miles.

Red army forces apparently striving to rip Nazi defenses in East Prussia wide open from the south menaced the enemy stronghold of Lomza, vital communications center that links embattled Warsaw with the bunker province.

The German radio said strong Russian forces supported by many tanks and planes "succeeded in gaining some ground" northwest of Bialystok—the drive threatening East Prussia from the south and Warsaw from the north.

Great tank battles continued west of the Vistula in the Kielce region about 100 miles south of Warsaw and within 35 miles of Krakow, the last great Polish bastion guarding industrial centers of German Silesia 75 miles from advanced Russian elements. The Germans were counterattacking vainly.

Virtually no news came from the siege of Warsaw itself where the Russians were planted just outside the Polish capital on the eastern side of the broad and winding Vistula.

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky still was bringing up tanks, supplies and reserves and building communications.

Since Friday the Russians between Warsaw and East Prussia have bitten deep into German lines, capturing 530 settlements and forcing three rivers, the Narew, the upper Bug and the Biebrza, crossed Sunday. Progress here was one of the major strategic victories of the summer campaign.

At the same time, a Soviet communiqué disclosed that the twin armies of Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky and Gen. G. F. Zakharov, whose mammoth drive to outflank Warsaw on a 100-mile front has reached almost the entire length of the Warsaw-Bialystok railroad, had cleared the Germans from more than 180 settlements.

LABOR FRONT IMPROVEMENT

Number of Idle Workers Lowers Considerably Today

(By The Associated Press) Truck shipments of vital war goods began flowing across the mid-west today, as 25,000 drivers for 103 companies paralyzed by strikes since August 4 returned to their jobs.

Termination of the walkout, together with the end of several other strikes throughout the country, lowered the nation's total of idle workers from 61,000 to between 17,800 and 20,500.

The government seized the truck lines Saturday after operators contended they were unable to pay a wage increase of approximately 1 cent an hour recommended by the War Labor Board.

A work stoppage at the Worth Steel Company, Cleveland, Del., which involved 850 employees, ended.

Naval Secretary Present in Italy

Washington, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Forrestal was disclosed today to be among the high Allied leaders present in Italy during recent days.

An army signal corps picture showed Forrestal on an inspection tour of the Fifth army front. Dispatches from Italy have mentioned the presence there of a number of leaders, including Prime Minister Churchill, Lt. Gen. Brentnall Somervell, chief of army service forces, and Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson.

British and British troops are driving down from the bloody Caen sector while American armored forces are striking north from Argentan.

We don't know how many Germans there still are within that trap, but there may be 100,000. They are battling fiercely to escape. They're reported to be doing this grimly and methodically—still exhibiting the discipline and training of what once was an almost perfect fighting machine.

Can they avoid panic and get away? Some certainly will, but only a little, of which the cul-de-sac is only a part though a very important one is one of the thrilling moments of the war. Its outcome will mean much to the hopes of an early end to the Hitlerian conflict. The whole structure of the German defense line in western Europe will be vitally affected by the outcome of Eisenhower's "momentous" week.

I call your special attention to the assignment of the Allied air services in this battle. With the retreating Germans, swarming all roads, main and rural, out of Normandy and Brittany, the mighty Allies are attacking furiously to close the mouth of their trap, which is only a few miles wide. Ca-

Calls For Action

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French Committee of National Liberation issued a call today for a national uprising in France.

"The duty of every Frenchman has been outlined in the appeal of de Gaulle for the people of France," a statement said. "There is not one Frenchman who does not feel and who does not know that it is his sacred and sacred duty to take part immediately in the supreme war effort of the country."

"In the field, in the factory, in the workshop, in the street—whether he be under arrest, deported or a prisoner of war—each Frenchman can harm the enemy or prevent that which harms him."

ALLIED FLIERS POUND BROKEN GERMAN RANKS

Rain Destruction On Retreating Nazis While Other Airmen Blast Targets Over Wide Area

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR London, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Great armadas of American and British planes numbering well over 3,500 today pounded war industries in southern Germany, enemy installations throughout France and shipping lanes in the great port of Brest, while harrying the Germans in their perilous retreat in Normandy.

They struck from British and Italian bases.

Up to 1,500 U. S. Flying Fortress and Liberator bombers from England attacked German war industries at Mannheim and Ludwigshafen and German airfields, rail yards and bridges in both Germany and France.

Another great fleet of up to 750 American heavy bombers struck from Italy at military objectives in the south of France for the third consecutive day. They also hit the northwest Italian coast again.

The heaviest few Mustangs and Lightnings saw apparently and spent the day strafing targets in the same areas which the bombers hit. Targets were not immediately identified.

Hundreds of British medium and heavy bombers were also reported to be active.

Other Raids North And South of Japan; Nimitz May Advance Headquarters

By The Associated Press U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 14.—The fourth bombing of the Philippines in five days and new air blows north and south of Japan were portents today of a war moving west so fast that Adm. Chester W. Nimitz may have to advance his headquarters to catch up with it.

Underlining this tempo of offensive, Nimitz told a press conference the war may be won without invading Japan—although occupation "would be necessary to insure a winning peace"—and mentioned the possibility of American warships bombarding Nippon.

The commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet and Pacific ocean areas, in looking for new headquarters, even has his eye on the recently invaded Marianas, 3,000 miles away, more than 600 miles past Japanese-held Truk and within 1,500 miles of Tokyo.

It now can be disclosed that Nimitz, after momentous conferences here with President Roosevelt and Chief Douglas MacArthur, went to Guam and Saipan, consulted fighting leaders there and just has returned, determined "to put the heat on as hard and fast as we can."

"I am not prepared to say now whether I will advance my headquarters to the Marianas," he said, "but I can say that I constantly am on the lookout for an opportunity to move closer to the fighting."

That fighting was carried again to the Philippines Saturday, MacArthur announced today. By New (Continued on Page Six)

Draws Ten Years For Disloyalty

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Velva Lee Dickinson, 50-year-old proprietor of a doll shop, was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment and fined $10,000 today on her guilty plea to a charge of violating the federal censorship law.

The sentence, the maximum, was imposed by Federal Judge Shackelford Miller Jr. after U. S. Attorney James B. McNally described Mrs. Dickinson in court as "a woman who sold her country to the Japs for money."

Mrs. Dickinson, who made an impassioned plea for clemency, admitted associating with Japanese agents in this country but said no agreement to send Japan information about west coast activities had been made by her husband.

The government charged that Mrs. Dickinson was instrumental in sending restricted information to Tokyo by way of Argentina.

Eighth Army Advances On Adriatic End Of Line

By NOLAND NORGAARD Rome, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Eighth army troops have captured Frontino, 27 miles inland from the Adriatic coast in the Apennines, in the only major advance along the Italian front, headquarters announced today.

Scriping died down within Florence, enabling allied military government officials to supply the stricken city with food, water and other necessities without major difficulty, the Allied command said.

Empoli, the Arno river city west of Florence, fell to the Eighth army without a fight yesterday. Although enemy movements were observed in the north side of the Arno near Pisa in the Fifth army sector, there was only scant fighting on the whole front.

Mediterranean Allied air forces hammering for the third successive day at German defenses in southern France, struck at Rhone river bridges and coastal installations yesterday.

Says Jap Aggression To Be Ended For All Time

By HOWARD FLEIGER Bremerton, Wash., Aug. 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, land and healthy looking beneath the forehead of a modern United States Navy destroyer, gave his solemn assurance here Saturday that never again would the Japanese empire be given the leeway to start another Pacific war.

The President spoke less than an hour after the destroyer had docked, bringing him from Alaska on the last leg of a Pacific tour of inspection that had taken him from California to the Hawaiian Islands, up to the Aleutians, through the fringe of what the Japanese call their "sphere of influence," and back down to the Puget Sound navy yard here, where he made his report to the people.

Twenty thousand shipyard workers and naval personnel were his immediate audience, gathered around the drydock where the destroyer tied up. But through the radio, the world could hear him when he declared:

"The word and honor of Japan cannot be trusted."

The President told of his visit to defenses in California and the watching of amphibious landing practice, of his conference with Pearl Harbor, and of "playing hooky" to catch a flounder and a halibut in the waters off Juneau, Alaska.

But throughout the speech ran the thread of determination that the defenses of the United States hearers that "the war is well in hand in this vast (Pacific) area," and of all the Americas must be so strong in the future that no would-be aggressor dare attempt to disturb the peace of the continents.

Says There Is Slight Chance Political Collapse Of Germany May Begin Soon

By MERRILL MUELLER Representing the Combined American Networks

Gen. Eisenhower's advanced Command Post, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The destruction of the German 7th army is about to take place in the present battle of France.

Gen. Eisenhower, supreme Allied invasion commander, predicts this coming week will be one of the most momentous in the history of this war—a fruitful week for us and a fateful week for the enemy.

Peace cannot come with the major victory we are about to accomplish, because there still are three German armies remaining in France which are not engaged in the Colmar starting tomorrow of three remaining armies have been shifted into the present battle and are lost in the Allied pocket.

Some of the enemy divisions east of the Seine are lower units of poor quality, but the fact remains that these three armies have plenty of drive and fire power.

Only a political collapse within Germany—another attempt on Hitler to succeed—could possibly deliver this war to an armistice within the next week. There is a slight chance that a political collapse may show its first manifestations on either the Russian or the Allied battle fronts with the German army's effort to rid itself by revolt of (Continued on page six)

Investigate Death Of Woman On Road

By CHESTER WALSH Inquiry into the mysterious death of Miss Bernice Hinson, about 38, whose body was found in a ditch on the road near Otter Creek in Edgecombe county several miles from the road near Otter Creek, on Sunday morning, August 6, will be resumed in Recorder's court in Tarboro next Monday morning, Sheriff Barden stated today.

Authorities are holding for investigation Robert Ellis and Rufus and Melvin Whitley who live over the Edgecombe line from Fountain. They were the last persons seen with the woman before her death. It was testified when Coroner J. G. Raby held an inquest and continued the hearing for further investigation.

According to Edgecombe authorities, Miss Hinson, housekeeper for Alvin Bell, near Fountain, went to a dance at Craig's dance hall in Edgecombe county on Saturday night, August 5. She asked the three men now being held to ride her home. Their car had a puncture near Otter Creek. Miss Hinson decided to walk toward her home near Fountain. The men were unable to repair the tire and slept in the car all night, they told authorities.

A Farmville undertaker stated that she had what appeared to be a stab wound in her back and that no bones were broken, Sheriff Barden said. She was buried in a Pitt den county.

Miss Hinson was the daughter of Joe Hinson of Farmville, who dropped dead in a tobacco field some years ago.

Four Congressional Committees Studying Reconversion

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST Washington, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Four congressional committees hammered away today at a three-point reconversion program, hopeful of getting it out of the way in time to permit a pre-election recess starting about September 1.

Should bills dealing with surplus property, unemployment and demobilization machinery be disposed of within the next two weeks, leaders said, there would be no reason why Congress could not take a second vacation. The legislators concluded a five-week recess August 1.

Both the House Rules and Expenditures committees called meetings today to clear the way for floor consideration starting tomorrow of the Colmer bill setting up procedure for disposing of an estimated $15,000,000,000 in surplus war materials which the house postwar economic committee believes will fit into civilian economy after the war.

Non-Highway Gas For Farm Work. Gasoline rations to complete the harvest and to carry on other essential non-highway activities are now being issued in this area in the form of E-2 and R-2 coupons. This makes three types of E and R coupons that will be circulating in this area in the next few months—the new R-2's, and E-2's, the E-1's and R-1's which most farmers are now using, and a few of the old type E's and R's without serial numbers which have not been issued here recently. All the R coupons are worth five gallons of gasoline each, and all the E coupons are worth one gallon each. They are issued to farmers and other non-highway users of gasoline such as mining and logging camps and construction projects, for gasoline to be used in tractors, sawmills, stoves and all types of off-highway gasoline-burning equipment. They may be used, however, only for gasoline delivered into stationary storage tanks, or into cans or drums. They may never be used for transfers of gasoline into the fuel tank of a truck or automobile.

Warning To Users Fuel Oil, Kerosene. Raleigh, Aug. 14.—Moving in advance of a threatening serious fuel oil and kerosene shortage this winter, the Office of Price Administration has halted issuance of fuel oil for domestic hot water heating and lighting if electric equipment and current is available; lifted rationing of coal-wood laundry stoves and certain gas ranges; and provided additional penalties for persons who destroy or otherwise dispose of coal or wood burning equipment in order to obtain fuel oil rations. OPA described the stoves removed from rationing as laundry stoves of the flat-top, cast iron type and gas ranges with non-metallic, outside back or side panels. The amendment is effective August 15 and dealers must report their inventories by August 25. After August 16 local War Price and Rationing Boards may withhold fuel oil equipment to persons who destroy or dispose of coal or wood burning equipment solely to obtain fuel oil rations. Heretofore, boards have been permitted only to revoke outstanding ration if such equipment was destroyed or made unserviceable after the ration was issued.

Chapter 28

In the living room, Angel stood at the window and watched the cab go down the street. Louise remained standing in the doorway where Martha had left her, her hands clasped to a face drained of all color. So much was clear to her now—Angel's cruel indifference, her complete lack of feeling regarding the child. Louise could understand that. Angel had always been selfish. But why had she done this? It wasn't like Angel to assume the care of a child, no matter how much money was involved.

"How can you live with yourself?" Louise blurted out at last. "And why did you do it?"

Angel still stood with her back turned. "Why did I do it?" she repeated, ignoring the first question. "If you must know, I was broke at the time. And a hundred a month—that's what Barbara promised to pay—sounded pretty good to me. How did I know she'd dash off to Arizona and leave me stuck with the child?" She turned now and faced Louise. "And how did I know you'd let Forest Hills, and that my mail wouldn't be forwarded?"

That afternoon Angel received a telegram. It informed her that Jimmie Saunders was no longer missing. He had slipped away from an enemy prison camp, and was at that very moment recuperating in a hospital overseas.

With a vague sense of shame she noticed the feeling of panic that swept over her. "I'm glad about Jimmie—but what about me?" She wondered if now, without being a widow, she could make good in her new and best-yet night club.

Angel spared herself all she could in the telling, explaining to Louise and later to Martha all about herself.

She said Elsa Rand had been her roommate in the girls' school they'd both attended in the south. That Elsa had been arrogant and jealous. That she had been particularly boastful about the handsome young aviator to whom she was engaged. It seemed only natural to Angel—that she should take Elsa down a peg. Only fair that she should make a play for Jimmie Saunders when he came unexpectedly to see Elsa, and Elsa was away for the week-end only because that he should fall in love with Angel, and that three days after their first meeting they should run away to a little town in Virginia and get married. According to Angel, it served Elsa right.

The marriage, she had to confess, had been a mistake. Both she and Jimmie had realized that almost immediately. Even before he went overseas, plans for a quiet divorce were being made. Now that he was coming back, it would come through. And he would marry Elsa, just as she'd planned.

Yes, she had told Martha and Louise everything—and they had not turned away from her. True, Martha had been shocked, but the only comment she had made was, "Poor Angel."

She had a brief moment of mis-giving when she recalled Baby Jeannie, and the fact that she had written to Jimmie's parents and tried to pass her off as Jimmie's child. They hadn't believed her—and she could only hope they wouldn't tell Jimmie about Baby Jeannie.

Martha brought the coffee and put it on the dressing table in front of Angel, then left the room. For a long time Angel sat staring at her reflection, smiling a little ruefully. Then she began to put on her makeup. She would use very little today, and she would wear her sturdiest black dress, the black coat left over from last year, and the plain little hat with the veil. It was no cocktail date that she was going to, as she had told Martha. It was an appointment with Jimmie's lawyer. It would be a little difficult for her—but she was sure there would be a nice settlement. Jimmie's family wasn't poor—and Jimmie himself, she was frank to acknowledge, was a very grand person. It was really too bad their marriage hadn't worked out.

"But some day he'll come back," she smiled at herself in the mirror, "and he won't be ashamed for people to know that once he was married to me. I'll be singing at the nearest night club in town—with my name in lights on the marquee. He'll be married to Elsa, and they'll come to the club where I'm singing. But I won't snoot them. I'll sing something sweet and sentimental. Something old—Thanks for the memories, perhaps. It wouldn't hurt to give that self-satisfied Elsa a jolt."

She drank the black coffee which Martha had brought and began hurriedly to dress, humming softly as she did so. She had reasoned herself out of what might have been a very black mood, and was feeling rather virtuous about the whole thing.

Push Work On . . .

Rep. Manasco (D-Ala.), has approved a bill following the principles recommended by the postwar committee. Manasco said he would ask the Rules committee to order two days of general debate, Tuesday and Wednesday, followed by passage expected Thursday. Except for relatively minor details, the legislation has the backing both of House Democrats and Republicans.

A postwar economic subcommittee headed by Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.) turned to the full committee today with a bill setting up an office to supervise the demobilization program. Cooper said the proposal agreed on by his group follows generally the lines of a demobilization section written by the senate into the unemployment compensation bill of Senator George (D-Ga.) it passed last week.

Still to be decided by the house leadership was whether to divorce the demobilization section from the George bill and consider it as a separate measure.

Despite house determination to give priority to its own surplus property measure, a senate military sub-committee went ahead with hearings on a similar bill. The house bill is not expected to reach the senate before Friday.

Put off until next week was house action on the senate's George unemployment bill. Chairman Dough-ton (D-Nc.) summoned the Ways and Means committee to meet tomorrow to determine what action to take on the senate measure. Backers of the Kilgore-Murray bill, defeated in the senate, were expected to make a fight before the Ways and Means group to incorporate into the George measure provisions for unemployment benefits up to $25 weekly.

The George bill, leaves the amount of payments up to the individual states.

Escort Vessel 'Reported Sunk'

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—The 300-foot destroyer escort Fiske has been sunk by a torpedo launched from a German U-boat in the Atlantic.

A navy announcement did not indicate how many of the approximately 150 men aboard lost their lives. Lt. John A. Comly, the commander, was listed as a survivor.

The loss of the Fiske raises the number of American warships lost since the war started. This includes 134 sunk, 32 listed as overdue and presumed lost and nine destroyed to prevent capture by the enemy.

Fire Destroys Amusement Park

Fort Lee, N. J., Aug. 14—(AP)—Most of Palisades amusement park was a smoldering ruin today after a fire in which 150 or more persons were injured or affected by smoke and a Sunday afternoon crowd estimated at 25,000 was sent stampeding.

Several spectacular rescues were

More Than SIX MILLION Firestone synthetic rubber Tires Now in Service!

Today's Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tires are Setting New Records for Mileage and Safety

ON THE fighting fronts and on the home front, more than six million Firestone Tires, made with synthetic rubber, are helping to transport vitally important manpower and materials. In every respect, these tires are upholding the Firestone tradition of "Best in Rubber—Synthetic or Natural."

Today's Firestone Tires are setting new records in mileage and safety because for more than 20 years Firestone has been a pioneer and pacemaker in synthetic rubber. This position of leadership has enabled Firestone to develop special compounds, new constructions and improved manufacturing methods for synthetic rubber tires.

As a result, Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tires now provide many new and revolutionary features in addition to such patented and exclusive advantages as Saffi-Lock Gum-Dipped Cords for greater body strength and extra blowout protection—Vitamic Rubber for longer life—Gear Grip Tread for utmost protection against skidding and for added mileage—and that priceless ingredient which we Americans call "know-how" backed by 44 years of experience in building many millions of quality tires.

So when you get permission from your ration board to buy new tires, buy time-tested, extra-value Firestone DeLuxe Champions—the tires that stay safer longer.

BETTER FOR GREENVILLE

(Goldboro News-Argus) The Greenville Morning News, a daily paper, has folded.

Greenville is about one-fourth less in population than Goldboro. It is entirely too small for two daily papers.

A town needs a daily that adequately covers its trading territory for business purposes. It needs a paper to carry the message of its merchants and business houses.

Greenville merchants will be better served by one strong paper than by two which were weakened by division of available business.

man seventh army extra protection during the night, but American marauders and British Mosquitos pounded Nazi troops, supplies and transport far beyond the battle zone, and other Mosquitos attacked the German industrial city of Thunover. All the Marauders and Mosquitos returned.

Marauders, bombing with the aid of flares, rained explosives on troops and ammunition stores dispersed in the forest O'Hallouse, some 15 miles east of Mortain, where the Germans were putting up the stiffest rearguard resistance.

Mosquito squadrons bombed and strafed rail lines from the battle area to Paris, and many radiating northeast from that city. Direct hits were scored on a bridge over the Orne.

The Germans are now in the position Allied air forces have been hoping for since D-Day. They have been driven to daylight withdrawal, putting all their manpower and material on the open road, where bombers and fighters can blast them at will without the danger of hitting Allied lines.

This situation was forecast recently by Air Chief Marshal Stafford L. Leigh-Mellory, who promised that once it developed the Germans would turn enemy withdrawal into a rout.

Yesterday's score by U. S. Eighth air force fighter bombers alone was more than 3,000 railroad cars damaged or destroyed, including 42 ammunition cars, 71 oil cars, 229 locomotives disabled, 432 trucks and other military vehicles shot up or destroyed, and more than 40 barges damaged.

The U. S. Ninth air force and the British second tactical air force fighter bombers and rocket firing planes, operating closer to the battlefield, knocked out 19 tanks, 58 railroad cars, two locomotives and 39 vehicles.

The Germans offered little opposition in the air. The day's known Allied losses were 14 heavy bombers, two medium bombers and 17 fighters, but the reports were admittedly incomplete.

Land Bank To Lend Money On Woodland

The Federal Land Bank of Columbia, S. C., has extended its loan facilities to include loans on farm woodlands and forest lands, according to W. G. Stancill, secretary-treasurer of the Washington National Farm Loan Association, which handles Federal Land Bank loans in Pitt county.

The new timber loan plan is designed to serve all farmers who have timber land in excess of normal farm needs and who are following sound forestry practices as well as those growing timber on large scale. Loans made are expected normal earnings. Normal values and not current market values of growing marketable timber will be used in determining loan values, Stancill stated.

Repayment plans are made to fit the individual operator and loans usually run from 10 to 40 years. Partial or full payment may be made at any time.

The Federal Land Bank of Columbia is pioneering in the making of loans on timber lands just as it pioneered in the making of long-term farm mortgage loans at low interest more than 25 years ago. The association's office is in Washington, N. C.

But at Groton, Conn., workers on the first shift at the Electric Boat Co., makers of submarines, walked out. Officials of the Shipbuilders and Marine Engineers Union of Groton, Inc. (Ind.) said between 3,000 and 4,000 were out, while company spokesmen declared 1,289 were idle and added this figure was only 407 in excess of the firm's average Monday absencees.

In Montreal, street cars and buses resumed service with the Montreal Tramways Company under temporary government control which sent back to work 4,000 operators who had been out 11 days.

Other major settlements were at Detroit, where 7,000 returned to their shifts at General Motors Chevrolet gear and axle division and 3,200 employees of the Briggs Mfg. Company reported for work; and at Muncie, Ind., where 3,000 Borg Warner workers were on the job again.

The largest remaining dispute kept 4,500 workers idle at the Philadelphia and Reading Co. mines at Shenandoah, Pa.

Elsewhere, 1,650 workers were out at International Harvester, Canton, Ill.; 1,400 in three woodworking plants at Dubuque, Iowa; and 1,200 at the St. Louis Car Company, St. Louis.

Twenty other labor disputes involving about 8,200 workers remained unsettled.

are listed together as one family. Some families have only a few related jobs. Some take up pages.

Here is an example: John Jones doesn't want to go back to his old civilian job of clerking. In the army he was trained to be an airplane armorer gunner and after the war he wants work similar to that.

The "job family" book shows that he might fit into several kinds of civilian work: a testing machine operator, a gas-meter repairman, a vending machine assembler, or maybe a gunsmith.

Here's another: Tom Jones was a military policeman in the army. Anything related to that in civilian life? The book lists some related jobs, such as claim adjuster, watchman, policeman, and even food inspector.

The book lists 23,000 civilian occupations. It doesn't contain all the answers for everyone. It's meant as noted before, to be a guide, a kind of starting point in helping the job-hunting veteran.

THE WAR TODAY

American-British fleets are taking a terrible toll both in lives and in equipment. Moreover, Nazi command front but throughout western Europe are being shattered by the endless line of Allied planes.

Meanwhile the Hitlerites are getting almost no assistance from a Luftwaffe which is about gasping its last. This means that the German armies are having to meet this great crisis blindfolded. They've lost the use of their eyes, for warplanes are the eyes of the modern army. That's a terrific handicap.

We can't foresee what tactics Field Marshal von Kluge may pursue in an effort to save himself. Probably he doesn't know himself at this moment. What is clear is that he apparently had hoped to pull his forces back northward and make a stand along the Seine river, with Paris as an anchor. This would protect the Nazi forces along heavy bombers hammered Nazi lines in the Falaise sector to pace the new Canadian offensive. A large flight to heavy Lancaster bombers earlier had bombed German shipping at the besieged port of Brest in Brittany.

More than 250 Marauders and hawcoes platted bridges, road and rail junctions, including half a dozen highway spans over the Touques river between Pont-Eveque, 10 miles north of Lisieux, and Gace, 25 miles south of Lisieux, in the immediate path of the fleeing Germans.

They also bombed road and rail junctions and bridges both east and west of Paris and around Amiens.

Up to 750 Flying Fortresses escorted by Mustangs and Thunderbolts rained tons of explosives on the I. G. Farbenindustrie chemical plant at Ludwigshafen, an electrical equipment factory at Mannheim, and air force stations near Mannheim and near Stuttgart.

A fleet of Fortresses and Liberators of the same size attacked German airfields in eastern and north-eastern France, railroads in south-western France, and bridges north-east of Paris.

Cloudy weather gave the Ger-northeast of the Polish capital. The Russians announced Gen. Andrei Yeremenko's second Baltic army, now almost half way across Latvia, had killed or captured nearly 70,000 Germans in a month, boosting to 609,526 the Nazi casualties inflicted in the summer offensive.

Mostowka, 11 miles northeast of Warsaw, was taken by Rokossovsky's troops. That town and captured Sulejow, 26 miles northeast of Warsaw, are only two miles from the Warsaw-Bialystok rail line.

Soviet rifle units supported by tanks and planes were 27 miles from the East Prussia city of Lyck, along the main highway-rail lines running northwest from Bialystok.

Soviet troops threw the Germans back across the Biebrza river, last big water barrier before East Prussia, and fought for bridgeheads from which to press toward Lyck.

Yeremenko's Latvian legions, driving toward the Baltic, captured the rail-highway center of Madona, 75 miles east of Riga. Other units reached within 55 miles of Riga on the southeast in Russia's attempt to smash remnants of two Nazi armies trapped in Estonia and Latvia.

Incessant fighting raged between the troops of Gen. Ivan Cherniakov and the Germans in southern Lithuania less than a dozen miles from East Prussia, but there was no word on Red army progress.

Red army forces west of Sandomierz bridgehead across the upper Vistula, south of Warsaw, beat off enemy armor and maintained pressure against the Warsaw-Krakow line.

dreeds of heavy and medium bombers which smashed enemy strong-points within 3,000 yards of the Allied front lines.

The Canadians, who had been five miles north of Falaise and 11-2 to 2 miles north of the Laison river, got across that major barrier. Capture of Falaise, three miles south of the river, would close another German escape point.

The British on the Canadians' right flank also scored gains of three miles and more, capturing Martainville and pushing on to near Bonnoel, seven miles southwest of Falaise, and taking Proussy, two miles north of Conde-sur- Noireau 15 miles west of Falaise.

Seven mile spurts were made by the Americans on the west side of the pocket along the Vire-Tinchebray line.

It was announced that American troops on Saturday had taken 2,828 more German prisoners, bringing their four-day total to more than 13,000. German prisoners taken in France since the beginning of the campaign had now mounted to beyond 115,000.

Eisenhower, in one of his rare orders of the day to all men of the armies, air and naval forces, called it a "definite opportunity for a major Allied victory."

It may be grasped, he declared, "only through the utmost in zeal and determination and speedy action."

The trap was sprung, it was disclosed, after five days of secrecy shrouded operations west of Paris, when powerful American armored and infantry spearheads sweeping in a 250-mile arc through Le Mans, and rearing in sudden twist to the north. This swing took the Americans through Alencon, Sees and Argentan, only 18 miles south of the Canadian first army five miles above Falaise.

Now the American armored hammer was beating the Germans against the Canadian-British anvil below Caen.

Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge's defense of France south of the Seine appeared doomed as his forces squirmed under frightful punishment to pull out through the suddenly narrowed gap.

Practically all his escape roads toward the Seine were cut. Allied air forces were pouncing on every movement of the Germans, wrecking hundreds of locomotives and thousands of rail cars. Not a single wagon or bicycle was immune from attack from the swarms of aircraft which buzzed over the battle area in endless processions.

Roads that remained open were under Allied shellfire, and it appeared that only new German armies could stem the Normandy tide. However, von Kluge already had drawn on 40 of the 60 or 65 divisions he was believed to have had in France at the start of the invasion. British staff officers yesterday said the Allies already had contacted 40 divisions.

Of these 15 already have been counted as destroyed or badly cut up in the beachhead battles, the St. Lo breakthrough, the British sweep and the terrific battles in the heather below Caen.

Now 12 more understrength divisions were believed caught in the giant bag.

Only the coming hours would show how many of these von Kluge would be able to extricate.

It appeared unlikely he would be able to save enough to make another strong stand below the Seine, and as yet there was no indication that he had been able to build up a reserve to defend even Paris.

He was making a desperate effort to save as much as possible, however, using haywagons, farm vehicles and even bicycles to move his troops, and leaving behind a hard rearguard crust to prevent Allied armies from the west, south and north from cutting his retreating forces to pieces.

The German withdrawal was not a rout.

Meanwhile, there still was no news of any Allied operations east of Le Mans toward Paris, nor from the spearhead which crossed the Loire three days ago and struck southward 10 miles.

It was carried within 600 miles of Tokyo Friday by Marianas-based Liberators which bombed the airfield and a cargo ship at Chichi Jima in the Bonins, south of Japan.

Striking within less than 500 miles of northern Japan, Aleutians-based Liberators sank a patrol vessel and damaged another near Paramushiro in the Kuriles Thursday.

The aerial arm swung like a giant scythe along more than 3,500 miles of Japan's inner defense wall of islands, adding a 3,000-ton ship, a 1,000-ton freighter and a coastal vessel to the shipping disaster befalling the enemy in the Halmahera-Talaud defense zone for the Philippines.

Nimitz plotted war strategy in the Marianas with Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner who is establishing a huge invasion base at Saipan. He talked with Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher, whose powerful task force 58 recently drove the Japanese fleet behind the Philippines, and conferred with Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger of the Marine corps.

Nimitz said he did not believe any "single form of attack will defeat Japan."

"It will have to be a combination of every weapon—sea blockade, air bombardment, possible surface ship bombardment."

Although foreseeing the possibility of forcing Japan, without invasion, to "throw in the sponge," Nimitz told newsmen "we should keep in mind the possible necessity of invasion and be prepared for it."

During the entire central Pacific campaign—Gilberts, Marshalls, Marianas—Nimitz said 52,223 Japanese killed in action have been counted and 3,022 taken prisoner at a cost in American dead of 5,903.

campaign in northwestern France and the next phases are the campaigns of northeastern and southern France.

Gen. Eisenhower asks his command for even more self-determination and speedy action. He is commanding a navy, air and army corps around what is left of a German army, once under Rommel's command—a cordon without a passageway for the escape of a single Nazi.

If it succeeds, Paris is the plum for the taking with little effort.

Allied troops have produced a tremendous battle situation about to pay dividends of a great victory in the field. There will still be much fighting left to do in Europe thereafter.

day. Objectives in north Italy also were hit.

Gen. Alexander's headquarters said a pamphlet issued by Nazi Marshal Kesselring threatened stringent retaliation against Italian civilians for attacks which jeopardized Nazi supply and communication lines behind the front.

The pamphlet said shooting would be the penalty for aiding patriot "bonds," failing to report activities of patriots, or giving them information about German military installations.

Attacks on German soldiers or acts of sabotage in Italian villages would be punished by burning the village, shooting male inhabitants over 18 and interning all women in labor camps, the pamphlet added.
