Nazi Forces North-West Of City Hurdled Back; Russian Patrols Cross Vistula And Scout Enemy Positions; Tank Battle Rages In Praga Area.

London, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Czechoslovak forces fighting in eastern Slovakia were reported officially today to have established contact with advanced elements of the Red Army.

A communique from the commander of the Czechoslovak forces said Russian units had crossed the Slovak border and that for the first time Czech planes had participated in the battle against the German air forces in Slovakia's skies.

The bulletin broadcast from Czech headquarters said heavy fighting was continuing in the Nizhny valley where German tank attacks, with artillery and air support had been repulsed with heavy enemy losses.

Moscow, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Red Army patrols have crossed the Vistula from captured Praga and scouted German positions at Warsaw while Russian and Polish troops hurled back the first Nazi armored attack upon their positions in the east bank suburb, field dispatches said today.

Eleven localities north of Praga were declared seized by Russian and Polish units, increasing the pressure upon Warsaw.

The patrols were reported to have brought back information on the disposition of Nazi defenses in the besieged Polish capital, but Moscow had no information on whether a crossing had been accomplished in force.

The army newspaper Red Star said the Germans sent numerous tanks and self-propelled guns to aid their troops between the Vistula and the western Bug, "but nothing helped."

Tank warfare in the Praga sector is becoming the most severe of the entire war. Most of the 110 tanks which the midnight Russian communique reported destroyed were in the Praga area.

The Red Star dispatch said the blazing, smoking city of Warsaw was in full view of the Russian forces on the banks of the Vistula at Praga.

First photographs flown back from Praga to Moscow showed that many of Warsaw's buildings were shattered and where the flames and smoke were not billowing the buildings looked gutted and ruined.

Reconnaissance disclosed that Red Army artillery and air power had already driven Nazi troops from a 100-yard strip between the west bank of the Vistula and the first line of buildings in Warsaw.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Substituting for DeWitt MacKenzie

Emphasis on the Pacific war at the Quebec conference has led to speculation about a supreme commander for the final haymaker against Japan.

From London comes the suggestion that Roosevelt and Churchill may have picked Eisenhower, Nimitz, MacArthur, Stilwell and others are mentioned. Mountbatten, already boss in the China-Burma-India theater, would appear casually to be a candidate.

But we don't know what the situation will be when the time comes for joint British-American-Chinese operations in real force. (I omit Russia because, on the basis of present information, I don't think Russia will be in it.)

MacArthur now is headed for the Philippines, Nimitz for China and Japan, and the British for Malaya, the Indies and China.

Only when they converge would and over-all command seem indicated. By then we may have new men emerge, or old men who have gained experience, in new places.

But as for the situation now regarding the availability of various commanders mentioned:

There is hope but no surety that Eisenhower can be released from Europe soon. The Pacific offensive is not on a waiting basis. It is definitely under way and calls for a type of warfare far different from that to which Eisenhower has devoted such a high degree of organizing ability.

STORM TOLL REACHES 39

Delayed Report From Ocracoke Says Damage Heavy.

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least 39 persons lost their lives in the hurricane which swept up the Atlantic coast Thursday causing damage estimated between $30,000,000 and $53,000,000 in northeastern coastal states.

The toll end of the storm was reported today to be blowing across Canadian maritime provinces and losing its force, although causing some damage in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Two new deaths were reported today when the bodies of a man and a woman were washed up at Beach Haven, N. J. to increase New Jersey's hurricane death toll to five. The storm took 15 lives in New England states where extensive property damage occurred in coastal sections. New York's loss of life stood at 17 with one death each for Virginia and North Carolina.

When facilities were disrupted at the Army's Col. Thomas M. England General Hospital at Atlantic City, more than 1,000 wounded, most from European and Pacific fronts, were evacuated to Halloran General Hospital in New York.

Ocracoke Island, N. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Damage estimated at $200,000 was done to this outer banks village when the great Atlantic hurricane thundered through here Thursday morning.

First reports from the isolated community came from Aycock Brown, who said the village was virtually wrecked by 75-mile wind and high tides.

"I have not seen a house that was not damaged," Brown said.

He said ten houses were destroyed, 46 fishing boats washed ashore and most of the chickens, cats and dogs were drowned. Almost destroyed was the Pamlico Inn.

Elizabeth City, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Storm tides reaching 12 inches higher than any in the history of tropical storms on Roanoke Island inundated Manteo to a depth of six feet in Thursday's storm while the wind leveled the plant of the Manteo Shipbuilding Company, engaged in war contracts for the Navy Department, according to the first authentic reports reaching here from the isolated island.

The fishing village of Wanchese, at the south end of the island, had an estimated 10 feet of tide, and the Condition Improved.

Washington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing was confined to his bed today after suffering a "severe setback in his physical condition," but the War Department reported an overnight improvement.

A brief announcement said that Walter Reed Hospital, where the aged world war commander lives, "reports improvement in the condition" of the general this morning.

When General Pershing celebrated his 84th birthday last Wednesday, hospital attaches reported he was then suffering from a cold.

Improving weather today gave promise of a resumption of grand scale Allied air attacks. The German radio interrupted morning programs and reported that fighter formations were penetrating to central Germany.

The bombers which attacked Kiel set fires which were visible for 100 miles.

In addition the RAF hit objectives in Berlin for the fifth night in a row and carried out what was officially described as an "extensive minelaying operation." No further details were given. A total of 11 British and Canadian planes were lost.

U. S. Ninth air force Thunderbolts flew 363 sorties in spite of rainy weather yesterday and destroyed 44 trucks and 10 armored vehicles, and damaged or destroyed 12 railway cars, 17 locomotives and 15 artillery pieces between Strasbourg and Cologne.

Will Declare War On Nazis

Stockholm, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Finland apparently was moving today toward a formal declaration of war against Germany, her former ally.

The Finnish newspaper Vastara Nyland declared the Nazi invasion of three islands of Soursaari (Hogland) in the Gulf of Finland had converted "the question of diplomatic relations into a direct act of war."

(A Finnish declaration of war on Germany "is expected after the rupture of diplomatic relations between the two countries," the London radio said in a broadcast heard by CBS).

The Swedish foreign office confirmed that German troops intended to close the border of northern Finland effective today. The Finnish Parliament was scheduled to meet in secret session as the deadline for the Nazi withdrawal from Finland under the terms of the Finnish-Russian armistice agreement expired last midnight.

The Securities and Exchange Commission is certainly doing much for investors in connection with investment trusts. Some years ago some of the investment trusts did very wicked things. Insiders loaded them up with securities which they knew were no good, and purchased from them for themselves securities which they felt were valuable and would go up in price. Of course this was very wrong but it has all been stopped by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Investment trusts are now watched almost as carefully as are State banks.

In order to get this diversification and management, investors must pay a "loading charge." The sponsor of an investment trust—or the "manufacturer"—so-called—usually take a commission of 1/4 of 1 per cent plus the cost of supervision. They, in turn, usually allow 2 per cent to the wholesalers plus 5 per cent to the retailers from whom you buy the investment trust stock. This means that there usually is a loading charge of about 7 1/2 per cent equivalent to about $75 per $1,000, which is included in the price of the stock.

If you will be content to buy the stock and hold it, this loading charge is not unreasonable; but if you—say once a year—switch into some other investment trust, then you will be paying this loading charge unconsciously every year and it finally could eat up all of your investment.

Avoid Switches

As soon as a person buys an investment trust stock and it goes up in price, or some other stock goes down, the salesman will come around and want you to switch in order for him to get another commission. There are a hundred different good investment trusts and these salesmen watch them all with the eye of a hawk. If they find one that yields a trifle more or shows a little more rapid appreciation, they may advise you to sell what you have and switch into this other investment trust stock. They tell you that the slight increase in yield or appreciation may be but temporary. Also that what they switch you into has probably gone up as much or more than what they want you to sell.

FLIER KILLED IN CRASH HERE

Accident Occurred Near House Station Yesterday.

A Marine flier from the local air station met instant death yesterday when his fighter plane crashed and burned while on routine practice flight. The accident occurred about a mile northwest of House Station. The name of the dead lieutenant was not officially released by the Fifth Naval District Public Relations at Norfolk, pending certification that the next of kin had received notice of the death.

Highway patrolmen and Coroner Griffin Houser investigated the accident.

According to available information the plane was flying at a low level when it crashed. The crash occurred about a mile northwest of House Station. The name of the dead lieutenant was not officially released by the Fifth Naval District Public Relations at Norfolk, pending certification that the next of kin had received notice of the death.

Airmen Pound Germans Again

London, Sept. 16.—(AP)—More than 600 RAF and Canadian heavy bombers unloaded tons of explosives and incendiary bombs on Kiel, Berlin and Lubek in Germany last night, the greater part of them going to the naval base of Kiel where fires still smoldered from an attack earlier in the week by the U. S. Eighth air force.

New fires sprang up in Berlin. Improving weather today gave promise of a resumption of grand scale Allied air attacks. The German radio interrupted morning programs and reported that fighter formations were penetrating to central Germany.

New Pacific Invasions Proceed Successfully

Morotai Already Conquered; Palau Invasions Closing In On Important Airdrome.

By The Associated Press

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters Pearl Harbor, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Marine heroes of Guadalcanal drove against 8,000 furiously fighting Japanese today on Peleliu in the invaded Palau, closing in on a big airdrome within 515 bomber miles of Davao to the west.

Even nearer that principal city of the southern Philippines, Yank lightning conquerors of Morotai, 375 miles south of Davao, worked feverishly on air bases within fighter plane range of Mindanao.

In the Halmaheras, Richard Bergholt, Associated Press war correspondent reported from Morotai there was only one landing casualty—an officer stepped into a deep hole, breaking his leg.

Bergholt said the landing beach was the most difficult one yet encountered in the southwest Pacific. But the Japanese were not there. MacArthur's deceptive air attacks had fooled the enemy into thinking the invaders would strike further south.

Conference With Stalin Indicated

Churchill And Roosevelt Wind Up Second History-Making Quebec Meeting Today.

By W. L. BEALE, JR.

Quebec, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Agreed upon the military strategy for liberating Japan, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill wind up their second Quebec conference today amid expectations that Europe's explosive war marches may require further personal talks, possibly, with Premier Stalin.

There is no official word on possibilities of a meeting place which Stalin could attend.

From London came word that Anthony Eden, the British foreign secretary, brought arguments here for a clarification of Anglo-American and Russian views, particularly as to the Polish border question. In Quebec conference circles, however, Eden's trip is understood to be related more particularly to plans for dealing with Germany after the impending Nazi military collapse.

With the Pacific military pattern charted on the Anglo-American council table, the next conversations turned primarily toward shredding the Nazi crazy-quilt in Europe and on postwar occupation and economic clamps on Germany and her kin.

Prior to the conference—and press session, it can be reported that these major topics have occupied this week's meeting:

1. Japan and the Pacific war. The United States military staffs brought here a minutely woven war plan, drafted in Washington with the cooperation of the British-American joint chiefs of staff, and centered at the Pearl Harbor conference between President Roosevelt and General Douglas MacArthur of the southwest Pacific command, and Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet. It was in operation before the conference began, as evidenced by MacArthur's invasion of Palau and Morotai islands the way to the Philippines. Command problems were settled in advance.

2. From the minute that Eden arrived, the occupation and demilitarization of Germany and related European economic problems took precedence in the informal exchanges between Roosevelt and Churchill, as distinguished from those of the strictly military men.

This European emphasis was further stressed by the arrival of Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, to report to Eden, and Churchill on the program of the world security talks at Dumbarton Oaks, Washington. Roosevelt has had, even while in Quebec, daily talks on these considerations of a permanent postwar peace organization with Secretary of State Hull and his undersecretary, Edward Stettinius, the official United States delegate and conference chairman.

What about the kids in the rural schools? Less money is spent on them than on city youngsters for their educations.

The National Education Association is going to try to do something about it. The NEA wants to lay out a program for the next 10 years.

The NEA and the White House will be host next month to 200 educators and others interested in the problems and it is a problem.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be held in the White House October 3-5.

The NEA's rural education expert, Dr. Howard A. Dawson, says these are some of the problems the group will try to work out plans for, with his opinions expressed.

Some means of getting better teachers for rural schools.

Rural schools should have more financial aid. There should be federal support. But also there should be more state support. And the help should be given according to need.

Too often state aid is distributed on a population basis. That means that a large city area, better able to pay its education needs, would get as much for each child from the state as some poorer area where the children are fewer but the needs greater.

There should be minimum education requirements established in each state. A lot of states don't require a minimum standard.

There should be local taxes back-

Supreme headquarters declared a grand Allied drive was beating eastward along a curving 600-mile front from the Stettin frontier south of the Baltic Sea to the Dutch border.

The drive beyond Aachen apparently contained the gravest threat to the Germans.

Although there was no doubt that the main steel and concrete defenses of the Siegfried line and been breached, the supreme headquarters took the official view that more of the line's positions lie ahead of the U. S. First army spearhead which was driving down the last 30 miles toward Cologne and the Rhine and pointed toward Berlin 315 miles away.

It was said to be difficult to tell whether the American troops actually were through the last of the deep defense zone at least one more belt of minefields, pillboxes and gunposts may be found west of the Rhine.

Aachen itself, the first great fort center to be pinched out and a guardian of the invasion route to the German capital, along the northern European plain, was closed in a tightening ring and appeared about to fall.

German broadcasts said there was fighting inside the city, indicating that the American cleanup assault had broken through its last line of defense.

A front line dispatch said Field Marshal Gen. Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt, Prussian strategist, was believed to have returned as ed by state guarantees to provide those minimum needs mentioned above.

And the conference will discuss such things as these, and perhaps draw up programs which may or may not come true:

Medical supervision for rural schools; a nurse or doctor traveling from school to school.

Manual training; a workshop on wheels, with an instructor who could travel from school to rural school within his area, giving regular courses of instruction.

Vocational training and special training; such as music or art by a teacher circulating among the rural schools.

Handicapped children; this is a special problem for there are many thousands of children who are deaf or crippled—very often they have to be sent off to state institutions—who could be taught locally in their rural schools and so live at home.

Teaching rural teachers; Dawson says: "I'd be liberal if I said that only half the teachers' colleges do an effective job as they should in training teachers for rural schools."

"A lot of them don't even think it worthwhile to have a rural education."

Strength FOR THE DAY

THERE ARE SPIRITUAL LAWS ALSO

In the spiritual world we deal with laws precisely as we do in the physical world. No one thinks for a moment of questioning the fact that there are unyielding and inflexible laws in the physical world. We understand the law of gravitation and the law of compass also, but very few people have grasped the idea that in the spiritual world also there are laws and that Jesus has done more than anyone who ever lived to demonstrate the existence of these spiritual laws and to state them. Very often people have the idea that while physically the world is conducted strictly on the basis of law, spiritually the universe is a sort of hit and miss affair.

Yet the spiritual laws are just as unyielding as are the physical laws. The soul of man is governed by universal principles as his body is conditioned by universal law; and happy living is the portion of those who conform themselves to the requirements of spiritual law as well as to the requirements of physical law. They are not contradictory but supplementary. We get so into the habit, however, of thinking of things that we fail to appreciate the superiority of the spiritual laws and the spiritual universe of which they are a part.

Says Protection Is Essential Now

"The present burden of taxes on individual and business incomes is so heavy that it is almost impossible to replace capital which is lost or dissipated today," declares Mr. Wickham of the Ernest Wickham Insurance Agency. He made this statement in explanation of an advertising campaign for the protection of money and securities which his agency is sponsoring.

"As a practical matter, and he is not alone in this, the only way to save a dollar is to make it. Protection is just as great to the man with $10,000 as for the wealthy individual or large business firm.

"Even though business volume holds up, net profits are generally lower because of the higher cost and taxes. Therefore losses of money and securities, which are more serious today than in normal times.

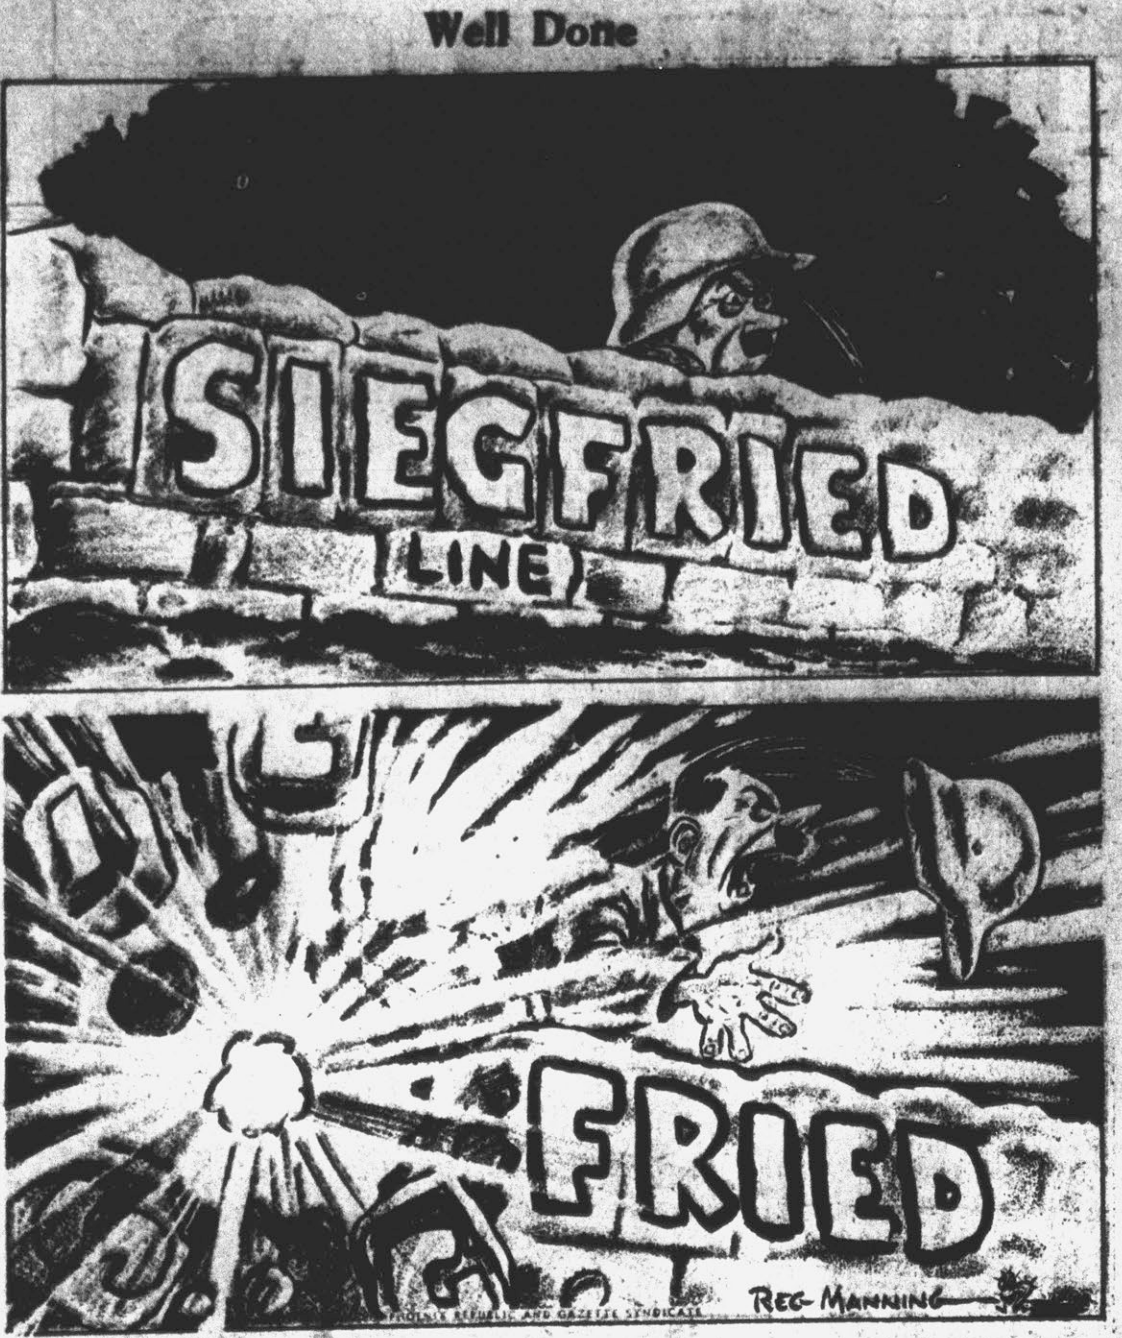

"It is now possible to fully protect against all risks to money and securities under a new type of insurance, which replaces old style burglary and holdup coverages. Believe it or not even mysterious disappearance of money and securities is covered, even though it might not be provable as a burglary or embezzlement loss under an old style policy."

Enjoyable Program At Kiwanis Meeting

By CHESTER WALSH

At the Kiwanis Club's supper meeting at the Proctor hotel last night R. B. Starling of the Greenville high school faculty exhibited the program of vocational training at the school and described the system of having boys and girls students who are interested in some particular occupation work at least 15 hours a week for some business firm to get practical experience and credits for the work on their school cards. Howard Ford is coordinator for this work. He said, John Glover, chairman of the Vocational Guidance Committee, had charge of the program. He introduced Mrs. Starling, whose special vocation is telling entertaining and interesting stories in chalk talks. She made a hit with the Kiwanians especially with her illustrated poem.

Fred Blank will have charge of the program next week. Guests present were: Lieut. Matt Phillips, Navy Air Corps, recently returned from the South Pacific, and Ed Rawl, Jr., of the Navy, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rawl; Cpl. James T. Long of the Marines, W. L. Hunsucker, president of the Winterville Kiwanis Club, and R. S. Atkinson.

the top German commander in the west, apparently replacing Field Marshal Gen. Walther von Model.

Both Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge and Field Marshal Erwin Rommel were defeated in the battle for Normandy. Von Kluge now is reported dead and Rommel is said to be seriously injured. Model was reported in command only a few days.

The new thrust across the German frontier was made 63 miles south of Aachen and east of the Luxembourg city of Diekirch. It is midway between the cross-border drives near Trier and Prum which already have buckled the Siegfried line system.

Wallendorf, one mile inside Germany, was captured. A front dispatch said it was reported at U. S. Third Army headquarters that every building in Wallendorf was burned yesterday because of persistent shelling and that a nearby village was subjected to a similar scorching for the same reason.

The German radio said German forces clashed heavily east of the Sure river in the direction of Bitburg, 13 miles inside the German frontier. Bitburg is 15 miles northwest of Trier. Front reports previously placed American units 10 miles inside Germany in that general area.

Still farther south the capture of Nancy crumpled the Germans' last stand in northern France. There American Third Army tanks racing 10 to 15 miles eastward on a 30-mile front sent the Germans reeling back to the Rhine. The German defenders of Metz, the last important enemy held city in France, were faced with possible encirclement or a retreat to the rich Saar industrial basin 20 miles away.

The Germans put up an unexpectedly weak defense of the Siegfried line in the Aachen sector where they left only part of the formidable forts occupied by machine-guns and had comparatively light artillery. Some of the Nazi defenses were fakes.

In a front dispatch telling of the First Army breakthrough Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead said, "In 24 hours our crack infantry moved 6,000 yards through the very heart of the potentially strongest defenses ground troops ever assaulted. They did it swiftly and methodically and with extremely few casualties."

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges men captured Stolberg, six miles east of Aachen, and only 32 miles southwest of Cologne. The breach in the west wall was at least 10 miles wide extending from near Aachen south to the German Boomersdorf, which was captured.

In the breakthrough area the Americans were almost exactly the same distance from Berlin as the Red army was on the eastern front at Pultuck north of Warsaw.

Forty miles southeast of Aachen American troops drove into the heart of the Siegfried line at Prum where the Germans were routed from their pillboxes by bayonets, dynamite and flame throwers.

Yank units drove 10 miles into Germany north of the fortress city of Trier, 75 miles southeast of Aachen. The Germans there were putting up a hard but poorly organized defense.

On the northern flank of the Allied line American troops and Dutch patriots took Maastricht yesterday, four years, four months and four days after the Germans swept through there in their campaign to conquer France. Eysden, five miles to the south, also was freed.

Only a few snipers opposed the American Third Army entry into Nancy after an armored force above and one below the city closed a trap around it. Epinal, 37 miles to the southeast, also was captured. Some of the armored forces engaged in encircling Nancy had a tough fight. One commander wirelessed, "Appear to be surrounded by Germans. Am attacking and going forward."

It was announced that Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army which drove up from southern France and now is pushing toward the Belfort gap had been placed under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's western front command.

Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, deputy supreme commander in the Mediterranean, has been placed in command of the Sixth Army group on the western front. It was presumed that the Seventh Army which contains French as well as American units was included in his command.

a silver service for outstanding service. She pointed out the great good women can do in the Farm Bureau to make the standards of living in rural sections better and to lift and lighten the burden of the farm homes of the nation.

"The great problem you have in North Carolina in this organization is to get the public ear," Tell the women and let them speak with you and they will get the idea over. In the Associated Women's group of the American Farm Bureau Federation the women will make it known that the American farm home has given something to the nation," she said. "Let the women work with the farmers and they will make it easier for them when the boys come back from the war."

Mrs. Sewell enumerated some of the great things farm women can do to strengthen the Farm Bureau Federation's influence. She spoke from the standpoint of a practical farmer and illustrated her points with humor and anecdotes that carried them to the hearts of those in the audience for development and practical application.

The highlights of the Indiana farm woman's address were application of the principles and rules which have helped other lines of industry to progress and prosperity. "If the women of the farms work with the men in this great farm movement I know that farming will be elevated to a more profitable bank. Go to work to build up the Associated Women's group of the American Farm Bureau Federation and when you do this the men and women alike will share in a greater era of prosperity in American farm life," she said in conclusion.

The musical features of the meeting were numbers by the famous Lone Star Quartet and "congregational" singing, led by Johnny Overton.

Meanwhile there was reason here to believe that violent fighting was breaking out in many new sectors of the eastern front, with the initiative completely with the Red Army.

Preparations were said to be complete for the Russians' autumn and winter campaign. It was believed to be only a matter of days before German forces from Finland to Yugoslavia will bear the brunt of drives by veteran Russian armies refreshed and eager to march into the Reich.

Moscow reports said the Soviets were particularly eager to resume their Baltic campaign.

Storm Toll ...

Village has been without drinking water since Thursday.

Direct communication with Mantol will be reestablished some time today when the first of two freight boats chartered by the Virginia Dare Transportation Co., to carry freight and mail to the island is expected to dock here. Three thousand feet of the causeway and one bridge linking Roanoke to the highway along Nags Head were wiped out by storm tides, and it will require several weeks to restore highway traffic to the island. No start can be made on repairs until the U. S. Engineering Department has restored service on the bridge over the inland waterway at Conitlock, 48 miles north of Mantol, which was damaged when a barge escaped its tow during the storm.

"Reasons of security" withheld the report of representatives of the American Red Cross who were flown over the storm-battered area between Cape Henry and Cape Lookout yesterday, but another representative who arrived here today was busy with a survey of available supplies of lumber and other building material which has aid would obviously be needed. The first concern of the Red Cross was to make some provision for drinking water at Wanchese, where the usual supply is rainwater stored in ground-level cisterns. These were flooded by salt tide water.

Planned return of these representatives to Roanoke Island today was cancelled when the Coast Guard Air Service was "busy with another emergency," the nature and location of which was not disclosed.

New Inlet, last opened by the storm of 1933, and closed gradually by 1941, was reopened with a width of about 1,000 yards, according to pilots who flew along the outer banks yesterday. The village of Hatteras had eight feet of tide, and many buildings were floated or driven from their foundations, but there is no evidence of wide destruction. Hatteras, the village at Cape Hatteras, about eight miles above and Hatteras, 30 miles above had very heavy tide and wind, and suffered considerable damage, the exact extent of which was not determined from the air.

Camden Blades, general manager of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company which owns and operates telegraph and telephone lines to Roanoke Island and to Hatteras, was back in his office today after a flight over part of the company's installations. He estimated that it would be six or seven days before communication was restored with the island. He said that it was impossible yet to determine the company's loss in money but that it would be heavy. Power company officials were unable to say when power would be restored, but think it will be a month or more. About 50 miles of their lines were wiped out.

R. R. Roper, maintenance engineer of the State Highway Commission, was back here today after a preliminary survey of highway damage. He said that 3,000 feet of pavement and one bridge of the Roanoke Island causeway was the major damage. The highway along Nags Head beach was littered with debris from partially wrecked beach cottages and outbuildings, but the pavement was not broken. The three-mile-long Wright Memorial bridge, partially swept away by ice in February, 1940, was not damaged beyond the removal of some of the guard rail.

There is a bill pending in Congress now—it has been there for more than a year—"to provide 300 million dollars in aid to state's educational programs.

Let us think that Dawson is magnifying the size of the problem. Here are some figures he gives:

There are 26 million school children in this country, and half of them, 13 million, are in rural schools. By rural is meant an area with less than 2,500 population.

The general term "schools" in this story means grammar and high schools. The average rural school has less than 100 students. There are 150,000 rural schools

Of that total, 108,000 are of one room and usually in that one room one teacher has to teach eight grades.

There are 950,000 teachers in the nation and more than half of them—420,000—are in rural schools.

For the average city area the money spent per pupil per year is $108. For the rural areas it is $70.

Average annual salary of the city teachers is $2,000. The average for the rural teachers is $850.

In 1943 there were 54,000 teachers, almost all rural, who got less than $800 a year.

Taking Mississippi as one of the poorest states in the country: There are 6,000 negro teachers in Mississippi. Last year they earned an average of $225. In the same state there are about 10,500 white teachers. Last year they averaged $821.

Yet in money spent on its school system—that is, taxable money—in relation to income, Mississippi ranked third in the nation. New York was 47th.

But at the same time New York was first in money spent on educating its children, having spent about $135 per pupil last year, while Mississippi, with its poor income, spent only $25.

Yet in number of school-age children, 9 to 17, for each 1,000 adults, Mississippi and several other states head the list.

This led former Senator Josh Lee (D-Okla.) to say: "Looka like where the kids are the money ain't."

USO NOTES AND NOTICES. The USO Club had a "box from home" this week. From up in White Plains New York, came a big box addressed to the club. Inside—well, inside were those things that are traditionally found in a box from home. Home-made cookies, candy bars, even several packages of chewing gum. And a card that read: "My sincere appreciation to the Greenville USO for your kindness to my son and to the many other sons whose mothers feel as I do, and can't say thank you. Cordially, Lillian G. Freund." The box was

But there were a lot of them, enough to make a real "party" for the men and girls at the club for the evening. So, up to White Plains, New York, our sincere thanks for the nice box from home now speed on their way.

Urges Compulsory Military Training

Chicago, Sept. 16—(AP)—The American Legion today drafted a new demand for a year of military training for all able-bodied American youths amid predictions that a law for such service would be enacted soon.

Michael T. Kelleher of Boston, chairman of the organization's National Defense Committee, said he was certain Congress would take favorable action on such legislation.
