Russians Smash Forward
At Both Ends Of Front

Reds Slash Inside Mamel Defenses And Get Within Five Miles Of Riga; In The South Hungary Expected To Admit Defeat Quickly Opening Route To Austria.

London, Oct. 13—(AP)—Marshal Joseph Stalin tonight announced the capture of Riga, Latvian port and capital.

The capture of Riga, announced by the Free Yugoslav radio, also announced the capture of Brijuni, 12 miles south of the capital, and Belgrade, about the same distance to the southwest.

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Moscow, Oct. 13—(AP)—Russian tanks and infantry stormed the centuries-old Junkers lands of East Prussia, barely nine miles north of the important city of Tilsit today, while in doomed Hungary the victorious Red Army raced for the 100-mile distant Austrian frontier.

The East Prussian frontier was cracked in the Memel sector. Hitler annexed this region from Lithuania in 1939, thus recovering territory which was held by Germany for hundreds of years before the first world war.

Great offensives against the eastern and southern extremities of the Reich rolled back maimed German divisions like driftwood in a flood. Hungary's admission of defeat was expected hourly. Russian columns were converging on Budapest from the north and east, approximately 60 miles east of the city and reportedly less than that on the south. All major communications between Hungary and Serbia were reported in Russian hands.

No natural barriers stood in the way of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's four-pronged blitz on Budapest across the Hungarian plains. Russian forces were less than 15 miles from the only Hungarian rail lines connecting Budapest with Magyar troops at the Carpathian passes in Rutenia. The routed German-Hungarian forces in northern Transylvania were virtually cut (Continued on page eight)

Lt. William Crute Killed In Battle

The Secretary of War today informed Mrs. Marie Smith Crute of this city that her husband, 1st Lt. William E. Crute, Jr., was killed in action in the South Pacific on September 26, the day on which he was first reported missing. He was assigned to the quartermaster's department.

Lt. and Mrs. Crute had been married about a year. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Crute of Wilson. He had been in the service nearly three years. Mrs. Crute is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Smith, 708 Evans street, Greenville.

Battle For Aachen Rages

The arrows on this map show how the U. S. First Army closed its pincers around the strategic German city of Aachen where the greatest battle of the western front now rages. The Americans are establishing a 25-mile front from six to 10 miles inside Germany and are preparing for a break-through punch toward the Rhine, and the prize cities of Cologne and Dusseldorf. War Fund Drive Gets Under Way Monday

ITALIANS WILL GET FREE HAND

Will Have Government Of Their Own Choosing.

Washington, Oct. 13—(AP)—President Roosevelt, saying the American Army entered Italy "not as conquerors but as liberators," has promised the Italian people that they "will be free to work out their own destiny, under a government of their own choosing" when the Allies defeat Germany.

"The United Nations are determined that every possible measure be taken to aid the Italian people directly and to give them an opportunity to help themselves," the President said last night in a radio address from the White House. It was directed to the meeting of the Italian-American Labor Council in New York in acceptance of the Council's Four Freedoms award. Earlier, Mr. Roosevelt addressed chiefs of diplomatic missions from the other American Republics on the occasion of Columbus Day. Recalling the millions of Italians who have followed Columbus to the Western Hemisphere, he said: "This is one of the many reasons (Continued on page eight)

Total Quota For County Set At $40,000; Greenville Township's Quota $21,000.

BY CHESTER WALSH
"While the men on the battlefronts are out there fighting the Germans and Japanese, sacrificing bodily comforts and risking their lives every hour of the day, it will be a cheering message for them to know that the people of Pitt County do their part on the homefront and contribute to the United War Fund which gets under way next Monday."

This was the inspiring comment of Sam H. Underwood, Jr., Pitt County chairman, made this morning when he announced that committee chairman and their workers are all ready to go to work Monday morning, seeing the people of the county and giving them an opportunity to give money, according to their means.

The United War Fund is used to provide recreation and good cheer for the men in service, those in enemy prison camps and the people of the invaded and war-torn countries. A single dollar will provide enough seed for a French farm family to plant a year's crops.

Pay Increase For Teachers Sought

Raleigh, Oct. 13—(AP)—Before the Advisory Budget Commission today was a record-breaking appropriation request for the operation of the state school system for the next biennium.

Included in the budget submitted to the commission yesterday by the State Board of Education was a request for a minimum salary of $125 a month for teachers holding class A certificates.

Requested was a total of $83,032,000 for two nine-month school terms.

For the year of 1945-46 the board asked for $41,198,000, which represented an increase over the 1944-45 appropriation of $2,950,000 for the following year. $41,834,000 was asked.

The sharpest gain in proposed expenditures was for teachers. This would amount to $3,290,000 for the two-year period.

During the 1944-45 year there would be spent $34,845,897 for instructional services, while the following year there would be spent $35,464,622.

ALLIES BEGIN NEW ATTACK ON ITALIAN FRONT

Air Activity Paves Way For New Drive.

By LYNN HEINZLERING
Rome, Oct. 13—(AP)—Heavy fighting flared up in the hills along the Florence-Bologna road today following yesterday's massive air assault on German positions and installations south of Bologna, key communications center in the Po Valley.

Allied headquarters announced that Fifth army troops took more than 300 prisoners in the new assault in the central Italian sector. Aided by warm weather American forces pushed ahead in the wake of yesterday's tremendous aerial attacks and partly flanked the town of Livorno, 10 miles south of Bologna on highway 65, the communications center in the Po Valley.

The doughboys again encountered stiff enemy resistance. In describing the heavy fighting astride highway 65 the communiques said "no material advances have been made." Foot troops reached the summit of one hill only nine miles southwest of Castel San Pietro on the Bologna-Rimini road, while other forces captured Mount Delle Formiche, two and a half miles east of Livorno where the fiercest fighting seems to have centered.

Yesterday's pulverizing raids by American planes in their greatest blitz yet in the north Italian campaign were made in an attempt to blast a pathway into the Po valley for Fifth Army forces which have been virtually stalled south of Bologna for two days by a Nazi counter-stand.

West of highway 65 Fifth army units pushed a mile beyond Montefiore, village in the hills overlooking a subsidiary road to Bologna. On the west coast, troops of the 92nd American infantry division clung to Mount Canale, about four miles southeast of Livorno, western terminus of the Bologna line.

The Eighth army roundly beat off firmer ground and appeared to be moving steadily forward everywhere except in the immediate Adriatic coastal sector where a succession of streams at short intervals gave the Germans a wide choice of defensive positions.

Markets To Take Two Day Holiday

Raleigh, Oct. 13—(AP)—Tobacco markets wound up their first four-day "trial week today and looked to a three-day period next week to ease a critical situation congestion on the floors of the markets in the eastern, middle and old belts and the redrying plants.

Gov. Broughton suggested yesterday that farmers delay the grading and marketing of their tobacco to assist in alleviating the congestion. After the three-day week next week, the buyers and growers will determine whether or not the three-day week will relieve the situation enough to return to the regular five-day week program.

Another War Between Labor Factions Looms

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
Associated Press Labor Writer
Washington, Oct. 13—The AFL and the CIO, losers together in the War Labor Board's decision to give President Roosevelt no recommendation on easing wage controls, may start swinging at each other again before the year is over.

Despite the ostensible unanimity of the AFL and CIO members on the board, there are some important differences in their positions.

Their association is more formal than intimate. Feelings run deep into the stratum of politics, labor-wise and nationally. There have been no personal reminiscences so far, but they may come after the election. The gap in the labor movement is widening.

On the surface, two groups of labor leaders clamored for a liberalization of the Little Steel wage policy and both suffered equally by the WLB action in taking a non-committal position. But there is more to it. CIO President Philip Murray is in the position of having assumed his members more than three weeks ago that the Little Steel formula would be revised soon.

He is in the position of publicly advocating the candidacy of President Roosevelt, and hence has risked some personal prestige in a labor movement that is already divided. He has specific enemies before the WLB involving large amounts of retroactive pay

Tokyo Reports Second Raid On Formosa By U. S. Airmen

GREECE WILL BE LIBERATED

Wilson Indicates Big Allied Landings Imminent.

London, Oct. 13—(AP)—Rome radio broadcast an "official announcement" today that Athens has been evacuated by the Germans and its administration is in the hands of Greek patriots.

Rome, Oct. 13—(AP)—Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean, said in a broadcast tonight that "a force under my command is about to land in Greece" and that "kingdom's liberation was at hand." Official reports said that the Greek flag was flying over the Acropolis in Athens and that the Athens radio was in Allied hands.

Allied proclamations were broadcast promising immediate aid to the Greeks.

Gen. Wilson told the Greeks: "Four days of liberation is at hand. For the second time in this war, a force under my command is about to land in Greece but I am thankful to say, under very different conditions."

The Allied commander declared: "We come now to sweep away all traces of the invader and, by use of your ports and airfields, to harass his retreat." He said the Allies were also returning to restore Greece's administrative services. (Continued on Page Four)

Nimitz Says 221 Jap Planes Destroyed And 16 Ships Sunk In Wednesday Assault.

Washington, Oct. 13—(AP)—American carrier based planes, pounding the Japanese base of Formosa for two days, has sunk or damaged 16 ships and destroyed 396 enemy airplanes.

(By The Associated Press)
American warplanes renewed their attack on Formosa today, a Japanese Imperial communique reported.

The broadcast, intercepted by the Federal Communications Commission, said the "enemy planes" which made the 1,000-plane raid on the big island guarding the central China coast Thursday, struck again Friday morning (Japanese time).

"Fighting still continued on both sides up to about noon," the communique said.

A previous Tokyo broadcast asserted one American carrier was sunk and another damaged off Formosa in night-long attacks Thursday.

As recorded by the Associated Press, today's Japanese communique said that an unidentified vessel was sunk as well as one carrier and that another carrier was heavily damaged.

Domei Japanese news agency, said in an English language broadcast intercepted by the FCC that China-based planes of the 14th U. S. air force participated in the Formosa raid. Domei said this was "of particular significance," and indicated future strikes would be point operations of land-based and sea-borne planes.

The broadcast saw a threefold purpose in the raids: (1) to hit the Japanese airforce in Formosa; (2) to cut communications between Japan and the Philippines; (3) and as part of the general plan to conquer the Philippines "and ultimately to launch landing operations on the (Continued on page four)

WMC Will Open Farmville Office

An office of the United States Employment Service of the War Manpower Commission will be opened in the Citizens Bank building in Farmville on Monday, October 16, according to an announcement made by P. B. Pollock, area director of the War Manpower Commission whose headquarters for the area are in Washington, N. C.

The office will serve as an outpost of the Greenville office, and Mrs. Frances B. Harrell, interviewer in the Greenville office, will serve as interviewer-in-charge. The office will be under the supervision of the Greenville office of which Mrs. J. B. Spilman is the new manager.

The employers and workers of the town and immediate vicinity, Farmville has been served on an itinerant basis for the past few years, and Francis E. Brooks, interviewer in the Greenville office, has made daily trips to Farmville during the past two years during the months of September through January for the purpose of serving seasonal industries such as tobacco warehouses, tobacco processing plants, and fertilizer and cotton oil operations.

BANKS WILL MEET ISSUES

Plan For Ample Credit During Reconstruction Period.

The bankers of North Carolina at a special meeting in Raleigh Thursday night endorsed the nationwide movement of the American Bankers Association to place ample bank credit at the disposal of business during the reconstruction period. J. Herbert Waldrop, Vice-President of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co., who attended the meeting, said a large and representative group of bankers attended.

J. N. Coburn of Whiteville, state president of the N. C. Bankers Association, presided at the meeting. The speakers included Robert M. Hanes of Winston-Salem, chairman of the ABA Post-War Small Business Credit Commission, H. H. Augustine of Richmond, a member of the Commission, and Walter E. French and Edward Drew deputy managers of the ABA in New York.

"While serving the credit needs of small business has always been the chief activity of banks," Mr. Waldrop said, "it is realized that special needs will develop during the postwar period and new types of loan services must be developed to meet some of these requirements. (Continued on page four)

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 13—(AP)—Who gets the first new cars when Germany quits? And so soon? The price? Will they be rationed? And what will they look like?

The honest answer is: at this time no one seems to know the answer except to the last question: what will they look like?

There is pretty general agreement that the first of the new cars—except for some appearance changes like a new hood line or a new angle to the windshield—will look pretty much like the pre-war cars.

When will the first post-war cars start rolling? Even on this automobile men do not agree. Their estimates range from 90 days to 6 or 8 months after Germany folds. A good guess is: four months after Germany folds.

Why should it take that long? The auto industry will have to convert from war to peace production. That takes time; new machines, and so on.

How many cars are there now? About 23 million, 4 million less than at the time of Pearl Harbor. There are only 19,000 new cars left, unsold, and being doled.

man explained: "Should the new car go to a guy who slips a dealer's slip on 1942 or does it go to someone like a doctor who really needs it?"

How much will the new cars cost? They'll hardly cost less than those sold in 1942.

But will they cost more? This is another point on which even automobile men do not agree. Some say yes, some say no. OPA Boss Chester Bowles thinks it possible there will be no increase. OPA will do the price-fixing.

New car prices in 1942, one government source says, generally were about 15 per cent higher than 1941. Thus a car which might have sold for $800 in 1941 would have cost $1,020 in 1942.

There have been reports that new car prices might be even 25 per cent higher than 1941. Bowles denies this will happen. But even if they were only 15 per cent higher, then that same $800 car in 1941, the one which went to $1,020 in 1942, would be $1,179.30 after the war (Continued on page four)

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

Here's a new crisis to watch: The effort of a strong Spanish Republican movement to start a rebellion against Generalissimo Franco and reestablish the republic which he overthrew in 1939 in one of the bloodiest civil wars of history.

It's significant that the Moscow radio has been urging Spaniards to revolt against Franco. During the civil war Russia supported the Republican government, which included strong Communist elements. Franco had the heavy backing of both Germany and Italy, and it's the German retreat from the Spanish borders in face of the Allied invasion of France that encourages the Republicans to strike.

Working on the anti-Franco front has been apparent for a long time. The latest development came yesterday when the Toulouse (France) radio stated that the "Republican Junta of the Spanish National Union" (an organization set up by exiled Republicans in France to oppose Franco) had called on patriotic Spaniards to rise.

These Spanish exiles are reported to total 40,000 in southern France. Units of the organization have been raiding Spanish territory for ten days or more, and on October 6 it was reported that there had been a clash between the raiders and a Spanish garrison.

Hitler and Mussolini not only provided Franco with great quantities of war supplies but with large numbers of fighting men. The Republican government, on the other hand, was terribly hard pressed to find resources. It received its chief foreign aid from Russia, and communications between the two countries for movement of supplies was extremely difficult.

Now, with Italy out cold and Hitler hanging on the ropes, the generalissimo would seem to be dependent on his own resources—and they're slim. The Republicans certainly must be hoping that the time they will have great assistance from Russian sources, in view of the Moscow radio's urgent call for rebellion.

When Franco took over the country in 1939, after nearly three years of war, the devastation was terrific. There was a great shortage of raw materials and manufactured goods. The country's finances were chaos. Naturally, with a world war raging about him, he hasn't had much chance for recovery. He certainly isn't prepared to embark on another conflict.

Franco's position may be complicated by the fact that throughout most of the European war he has given his moral and material support to his friends, Hitler and Mussolini. His attitude has caused difficulties with Washington and London, both of whom have protested repeatedly against numerous violations (Continued on Page Four)

Social and Personal

Miss John Anderson Boyd has returned to Washington, D. C., after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Boyd.

Claude Flyler, Jr., will arrive today from Chapel Hill to spend the week-end.

Mrs. R. C. Vaughan of Winston-Salem, will arrive this afternoon for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Arthur and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Arthur.

Mrs. Claude Flyler has returned to her home on Harding street from the General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Lemmon have returned from an extended trip to Washington, D. C., and are at home with their son, Mr. Owen H. Lemmon, at Bruce on the Falkland highway.

Tucker-Bittess.
The wedding of Miss Frances Lathrop, daughter of Jacksonville, Fla., and Captain W. Eric Tucker of Greenville, will take place tomorrow afternoon at five o'clock in Calvary Episcopal Church in Tarboro.

No invitations have been issued, but all friends are invited.

Literature Department Meets.
The Literature Department of the Woman's Club held its opening meeting of the year Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Frederick P. Brooks. Mrs. W. H. Woodard presided.

Shortly after the members assembled for the evening, refreshments consisting of tea, cookies, candy and nuts were served. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Brooks' young sons, Frederick and John.

In a brief business session, conducted by Mrs. W. H. Woodard, president, five new members were welcomed into the group. The new members are: Mrs. Wendell Smiley, Miss Frances Alex. Mrs. W. K. Christian, Mrs. B. H. Grider and Mrs. Cecelia Capelhart. Mrs. Woodard announced that Miss Nell Matheson, at one time a member of the group, is returning this year to the club's membership.

The speaker for the afternoon was Miss Eunice McGee. Miss McGee was presented by Mrs. H. R. Phillips, chairman of the program committee. The book chosen for review was "A Bell for Adano," John Hersey's story of American men in Italy during the present war.

In her particularly interesting way, characterized by a well-timed sense of humor, Miss McGee described personalities in the story who had especially impressed her. Not least among these were the Italian villagers whose lives had formerly revolved about their beloved bell, which had been used to make gun barrels.

For years the bell had reflected in its tone the very moods of the people of Adano. With realistic detail Miss McGee described also the war-torn country which served as the setting for the story. She pointed out that in other settings similar to this in the various battle areas the responsibility of establishing an understanding among different peoples lies largely in the hands of the officials sent into conquered territory to administer temporary governments; that the hope for lasting peace depends on the conduct of affairs not only during the battle, but also after the firing has ceased.—Reported.

The King's Daughters Meet.
The first full meeting of the Parents' Council of The King's Daughters was held last night at the Proctor Hotel with Mrs. Richard Williams as the speaker. The meeting was opened with the prayer of the hour followed by a short devotion by the president, Mrs. W. R. Jones, taken from the Silver Cross, the magazine of the order.

Mrs. Richard Williams, treasurer, gave her report which showed a remarkable year's work for the circle. Letters were then read from delegates of other circles who attended the state convention in Greenville, many of them declaring it to be the nicest convention ever attended by them.

The birthday roll call was made and two members responded. A social hour was enjoyed and a shower of gifts given the hostess for her birthday. Tempting refreshments were served by Mrs. Williams.—Reported.

With Wilkerson Funeral Home.
Mr. and Mrs. S. Lindsay Wilkerson and children are now living in the apartment house, 709 Evans street. They formerly lived in Suffolk, Va. Mr. Wilkerson is connected with Wilkerson's Funeral Home. Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Wilkerson also live at 709 Evans.

U. D. C. Meeting.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. E. B. Allsbrook and Mrs. E. L. Willard very graciously entertained the members of the George B. Simelton Chapter, United Daughters of Confederacy, at the home of Mrs. Allsbrook on Charles street.

Mrs. T. A. Person presided over the meeting in the absence of the chapter president, Mrs. J. L. Fleming, on account of illness, and welcomed the good number of members present. An interesting business session was held, and the treasurer, Mrs. W. P. Moore, reported that all obligations had been paid in full.

Plans were made for Confederate Flag Day to be held on Saturday, October 28, and the list of names of those appointed for this committee read, with Mrs. W. P. Moore as chairman. Mrs. J. C. Wooten gave the report for the nominating committee, and the slate was accepted unanimously.

Mrs. P. E. Wells gave the program for the afternoon, using for her topic "Songs and Rhymes Written and Used During the Confederacy." She stated in her paper that "A knowledge of these songs and rhymes written during the most trying time in all southern history, and their historical background, would enable anyone to know the truth concerning the south and her principles, and to understand the principles and the struggle of human passions, of liberty against despotism, and the invasion of the sacred rights of home and commonwealth, and all of these passions were emphasized in the songs and rhymes they wrote."

During the social hour that followed, delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.—Reported.

A. A. U. W. Meets Monday.

The first meeting of the year for the Greenville branch of the American Association of University Women will be a supper meeting Monday evening at 6:30 at the Proctor Hotel, with the new president, Mrs. Ethel R. Waters of the college faculty, as presiding officer, and W. Kenneth Christian, new member of the college English department, as speaker.

All college women of Greenville have been invited to attend this meeting, whether members of the organization or not, and whether permanent or temporary residents in the town, and reservations for all those attending are already in the hands of Mrs. D. S. Spain, Jr., chairman of the social committee, as reservations had to be closed last night.

The speaker's topic will be "The Challenge of the Peace." Mr. Christian who has taught history, as well as English, at other colleges, has been interested for many years in forces at work in the social order.

Society Adapts Nursery Plan.
Under the sponsorship of Circle No. 9, led by Mrs. Ed Parkinson, the Woman's Society for Christian Service is adopting a nursery school plan to operate during church services at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Cooperating with the society are the High School Girls' Sunday School Class, the College Girls' Class, and the Ada Cherry Class.

The nursery is to be held in the basement of the church for the benefit of mothers with young children who wish to attend church services and who can make no other arrangements about the children. One circle each month will supervise the play and make arrangements for helpers, amusements and toys.

The plan was prepared and enthusiastically adopted at the regular October meeting of the W. S. C. S. It will be put into operation Sunday, October 15. Parents are urged to bring their children.

Troop 30

Last night's meeting of Troop 30 was opened with a program prepared by the Owl patrol. We first pledged allegiance to the flag, after which the troop sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Howard Proctor asked a number of questions about the flag. Mr. Drum checked the points in the contest. Several boys paid registration fees and one new member, Gerald Tapper, was received into the troop. Jimmie Walters was elected troop scribe. Gilbert Windham gave lessons on the Morse Code, which was very interesting.

Patrols then held short meetings. The Owl patrol is planning to go to the cabin this week-end to represent Troop 30. The Eagle and Fox patrols joined to make one patrol. We now have two patrols in the troop, the Owl and Fox. The Fox patrol will have charge of the next meeting. —Graham Baker, Scribe.

Lieut. B. H. Sadler Killed In Action

Mrs. S. Lee Sadler of the Lynchburg Va. College staff, was notified by the War Department recently of the death of her son, Lieutenant Bertram Hillard Sadler, United States Army, somewhere in the European theater. Lieutenant Sadler, who was recently stationed in Italy, enlisted in the Army November 3, 1943, and received his commission upon completion of the officers candidate course at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga. He was a graduate of E. C. Glass High School and of Lynchburg College, where he and his wife, the former Sara Ramsey of Charlottesville, received their degrees in the class of 1942.

Besides his wife and mother, Lieutenant Sadler is survived by a week-old son, James Bertram Sadler, and one brother, Capt. Lee Sadler, U. S. A. instructor stationed in Texas.

Lt. Sadler was a former resident of Greenville, his father the late Rev. Lee Sadler having served as pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church for several years.

Chapter 26

When Thorny came in with Susan and Julie there was no display of dramatics. Erich was sitting there across the Constable's littered desk in the dim glare of a naked electric light bulb suspended from the ceiling and shaded by a disc of yellow cardboard. The color was drained from his face. His eyes glistened by a diaphanous film, his clothes hung on him dripping, his hair was matted, his face grimy. The brief smile that he turned on them was grim-but courageous.

Julie walked over and put her hand on his shoulder. It was a simple gesture but it seemed to transfer some of her strength to him. His face perceptibly brightened.

The Constable dragged up some old straight-backed chairs and formed them into a semi-circle. When everyone was seated he said, "Now, start from the beginning and tell us exactly what happened."

Erich spoke unhesitatingly and looked the Constable coolly in the eye. "I worked late at the factory," he said. "When I got home around 12 I put my car in the garage and decided to walk down to the boat-house. I had painted my rowboat with a new waterproof paint I've been experimenting with and was anxious to know how long it took it to dry."

The Constable nodded sagely. "Then I started down the driveway and took the cut-off to the old road that leads from the lake to the highway."

Erich continued: "While I was walking along I heard a car coming pretty fast but I couldn't see any headlights. It came around a bend in the road and I jumped out of the way. When the driver saw me he turned on a powerful spotlight and blinded me so I couldn't see who it was. I saw it was or anyone in it."

"A spotlight, eh?" the Constable mused. "Well, I reckon half the cars in town have spotlights since Lockhart had that special sale on them at the hardware store." He gestured to Erich to continue.

"When I got down to the boat-house my boat was gone."

Out across the lake I saw the boat. Or at least part of it. It was about half submerged and wasn't more than a hundred yards from shore. I waded out to it and found the dead man tied to the seat."

"Seemed kinda funny to me," the Constable said. "That you wouldn't stop to take off your clothes before you jumped into the lake. Why were you in such a big hurry?"

Erich flushed a little. "Because the boat was sinking and I knew it was going to be hard enough to drag it in half filled with water without letting it sink completely."

"This man you found in the boat. You didn't recognize him?"

"No."

"What did he look like?"

"Man about 60. Thin, white hair, small moustache, poorly dressed."

"Did you look for papers of any kind on him that might identify him?"

"Yes, but whoever killed him had taken care of that. His wallet was gone if he carried one, and there wasn't a thing in his pockets."

"Is that all?"

"That's all. As soon as I had pulled the boat into shore I came right down here to make a report."

The Constable made a few notes on a scratch pad. Before he was finished the door opened and Jed Black, the undertaker, came in.

"What's all the excitement?"

"Tell you about it on the way," the Constable said quickly. "Right now we're picking up the coroner and going to the Scarbroth boat-house for a body."

The Constable took his hat off the corner rack. "You folks can stay here if you care to. We'll be back in a few minutes and maybe some of you can help identify the dead man."

After the door had closed Thorny said, "Well, I'll be damned. Seems like just when things begin to come our way a little something always has to happen."

Susan moved over next to Erich. He took her hand. "Don't worry, Julie," he said. "We'll get this straightened out."

Julie said, "I hope I'm wrong but I think I know who the murdered man is."

"You do?" Thorny cried.

"A couple of weeks ago Susan and Erich found some short cigarette butts down by the boat-house. We examined them and each one had a small hole in it. As though it had been smoked short by the use of a toothpick." Julie hesitated and looked momentarily around the room. "I happened to remember men that the old night watchman at father's factory used to do that."

Thorny cried. "You didn't say anything to me!"

"We thought you had enough to worry about," Julie said.

"I sure hope you're wrong," Thorny said heavily. "You know how people here jump to conclusions. They'd say Erich killed the night watchman because he knew your father was guilty of Corbo's death."

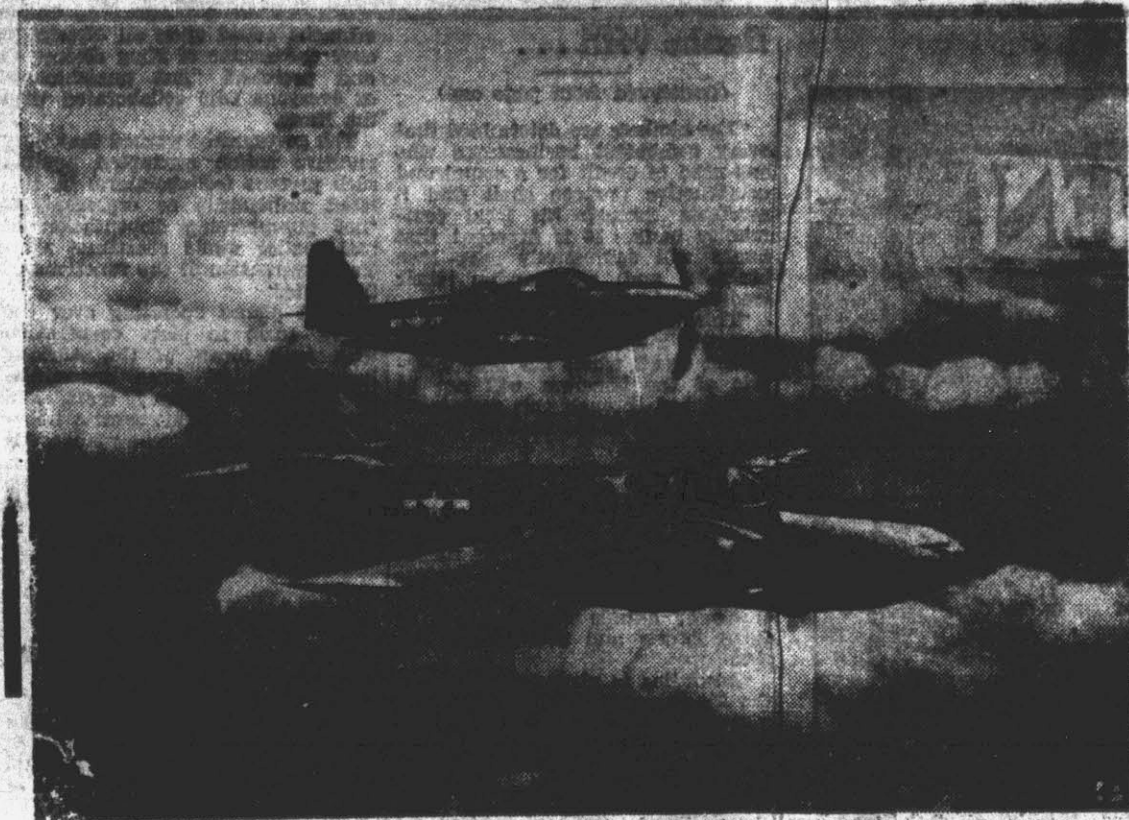

"That's what worries me," Julie said.

"Don't say anything about your suspicions," Thorny warned.

They heard the squeal of brakes as the ambulance stopped at the Black Undertaking Parlor across the street.

"I'm going over and see what they found out," Thorny said.

A few minutes later he was back with the Constable at his side. From the doorway the Constable said cheerfully, "Well, Black identified the dead man all right. Used to work with him at the Scarbroth

Good Money Made Growing Dandelions

Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—If you feel an urge to grow dandelions, the government is right up there pitching for you. Just order a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 663 from the Department of Agriculture.

The bulletin tells how to pick up a little loose change by growing herbs and drug plants, such as dill, fennel, anise, ginseng and pennyroyal. Dandelion root is highly regarded in some sections as a diuretic, stomachic and cholagogue, reference books explain.

Government Needs Money

Dallas, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The sixth war loan drive hasn't begun yet, but Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau already is figuring on No. 7. En route to Los Angeles by air, Morgenthau said last night that with the war costing $93,000,000,000 annually, demands for money would continue until victory is won.

New York Registration

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—New York City registration today totaled 1,974,846 after 536,366 signed registration books yesterday. The four-day total in 1940 was 1,924,846.

U. S. First Army. Berlin asserted the Americans already have suffered 19,000 casualties in the battle of Aachen including 5,000 dead, but nothing from Allied quarters supported such a claim.

The appearance of a fresh German armored division, shifted from the Aachen sector in Holland, stirred expectation that a major tank battle soon would be joined.

Aachen, a city of 165,000 and the largest German town yet invested, was dissolving under the weight of American shells and bombs, but there was no sign of a break in the 1,500 to 2,000 Nazi SS troops who fought from the rubble and the sewers.

To the northeast of the smoke-hidden city where German engineers of the Middle Ages were crowned, the Germans mounted a heavy counterattack in the Bardenberg area.

Fighting intensified, too, at Wurselen and Haaren, the tips of the Allied spearheads crowding the thin escape hatch toward Cologne. A German pocket was destroyed at Wurselen three miles north of Aachen.

The end for Aachen seemed inevitable—but there was no telling how long the battle would last.

Associated Press correspondent Don Whitehead reported surprisingly little resistance in the outskirts of Aachen.

The Berlin radio gave conflicting accounts. One broadcast said the American assault had slackened and that the Aachen corridor had been widened to four miles. Another said huge U. S. reinforcements had arrived, indicating major operations were contemplated well beyond the city.

The Allies improved their positions in Holland. Signs appeared that Field Marshal Gen. Von Rundstedt was preparing a stiff defense in southwestern Holland, despite reports of the destruction of the Rotterdam docks.

Front correspondents said the Germans were strengthening their forces near the Scheldt estuary, possibly for a major attack against the Canadian First Army to retain approaches to the Belgian port of Antwerp. Planes spotted heavy German traffic moving west from Tilburg toward Breda and destroyed 31 vehicles.

Considerable movement was noted on the western waterways, where planes damaged 50 or more barges. The overwhelming Allied air superiority was used in the heightening battles of the north.

Supreme headquarters disclosed that Canadians on the south bank of the Scheldt estuary had been reinforced and gained new ground beyond their Leopold canal bridgehead.

Fighting in both areas of Holland was described as desperate. A British staff officer said the Germans had shifted one tank division south from the Aachen sector to Aachen and that there were signs of more Germans being moved from the Dutch salient into the Aachen battle zone.

North of the fortress city of Metz, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's American Third Army was fighting the Germans hand to hand in the streets of Meizieres Les Metz. The remainder of the Third Army front including the strange, underground battle for Port Driant, was unchanged, a field dispatch said.

East of Luneville, the American Third Army captured the French town of Parroy and pushed patrols to the eastern edge of the Parroy Forest.

At the southern end of the Western front, the communique said the American Seventh and French First armies have made substantial gains over rugged country in the Epinal-Belfort sector leading to the Belfort gap between the Vosges and Als mountains. Several villages were captured and heavy counterattacks were repulsed. Positions near Le

Strength FOR THE DAY
By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WHAT IS TRUE VALUE?
Ruskin once wrote that there is no wealth but life including its powers of love, joy, and admiration. That country is richest, he taught, which nourishes the greatest number of noble and happy human beings that man is richest who, having perfected the functions of his own life to the utmost, has also the widest helpful influence.
Man has always been fascinated by wealth. No two men will agree in their estimate of what constitutes wealth. Even the most mercenary of persons knows that money is not wealth in itself, but only as it can be exchanged for goods or services of value.
No man is more grievously afflicted than he who concludes that the chief benefits of life are to be found in material things. The love of men and women for each other, of friend for friend, of children for parents and parents for children is not a material thing, yet it is one of the most precious realities in the world. Courage and fidelity stand high on the list of values. No one would deny that material things have value and that a certain amount of such is necessary for us if we would live at all. But when a man's sense of values begins and ends within the boundary of what can be apprehended by the five senses, then that man is missing the vast area of wealth which lies beyond and overlooks all other values. He has surrendered value and accepted delusion in exchange.

AMERICA IN WARTIME
By JACK STINNETT

(Second of two articles on the fate of surplus war properties)
Washington—Aside from necessarily cooperating with probably more government agencies than any other bureau in Washington, and having to keep its pulse constantly under the hand of Congress, the new War Relocation Authority is curbed by an intricate system of priorities.
As a result of these, the public generally is far less likely to get a shot at surplus war materials than was first imagined (except at second or third hand).
In the first place, federal agencies will have first call on surplus war materials, and these can be made by simple transfer bookkeeping. If big government continues, as many predict it will, this will take off the civilian market millions of dollars worth of surplus goods.
Second priorities on surplus materials will go to states, municipalities, subdivisions thereof (such as schools) and non-profit organizations, operating wholly or in part under tax funds, such as hospitals, clinics and relief agencies.
In some cases, the veterans of this war will come in for third priorities to start their own businesses or begin operation of farms.
For example, in the disposition of farm lands, former owners will get first call and they can pay either what they gave for the property or its value today, whichever is lower.
One nice little problem already has arisen in connection with this clause. Near Moore, Oklahoma, the Navy started to establish an aviation training station. Oil was discovered nearby, and after grading the land and spreading tons of gravel for the runways the Navy decided to abandon the property because of the barrier of derricks springing up around the field. The question now is whether the property is worth more or less than it was when it was taken over. Grading (removing the topsoil) and the spreading of gravel has destroyed the value of many acres for farming. If there is oil under the land, it is, of course, much more valuable. The Navy doesn't care about that, but the former owners do. If they are only going to get back ruined farmland at even condemnation prices, they may be holding the sack.
There are probably 3,000,000 acres of this surplus farmland that the government will have to dispose of. After former owners have had their opportunity, veterans will get theirs. But there's another phase of the bill that may cut both of them out. It probably is a matter for the courts.

That's the provision of the bill which gives municipalities first call on nearby completed airports. If the cities nearest these don't want them, other nearby municipalities the counties or states are given the privilege of buying them in.
Congressmen, however will tell you there was no intention that this bill should be final and the reason they are asking for all those reports is to pass clarifying laws later on.

with Germany.
Any reason why there shouldn't be an increase?
The obvious one, of course, is this: If manufacturers can turn out the new ones as cheaply as the pre-war cars—allowing for those increases in 1942—then there shouldn't be an uprise.
Besides, manufacturers don't want their cars to get out of their established price line. Otherwise, before the war by being cheaper, would find itself up in the bracket of the pre-war higher-priced car with the smaller market.
Any reason why there should be an increase?
The first problem is wages. Between the end of the war with Germany and the time the first post-war car rolls off the assembly line, undoubtedly the nation's whole wage structure will have been changed.
And that change will be one of the big factors in OPA's decision on the price of new cars.

Moscow also more than once pointed out grimly that Spanish soldiers were fighting among German forces against Russia.
Early this year Washington put the screws to Franco by temporarily suspending oil shipments to him from the Caribbean area. This, perhaps coupled with the failing fortunes of Fuehrer Hitler, seemed to have a salutary effect, for relations between Madrid and the Anglo-American allies have been easier of late.
We can't close our article without this note bene: Spain isn't by any means the only European country threatened with political upheaval. The world war has bred many similar situations.

Tokyo Reports

China continent.
Another Domei dispatch reported the attacking planes outnumbered the Japanese force. It said the interceptors teamed with a "fierce anti-aircraft barrage" so that the U. S. planes were able only to bomb blindly and to strafe with machine guns before being forced to flee.
By CHARLES H. MCMURTRY
U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Powerful American carrier forces destroyed 221 Japanese planes, sank 16 ships and damaged 19 at Formosa in the fourth successive powerful blow at Japan's inner defense line, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.
This was the first confirmation of Tokyo radio reports that a thousand planes had raided the island blockading the approach to the China coast.
The mighty strike Wednesday (U. S. time) only 575 miles south of Japan proper climaxed a series of attacks on the Philippines, Formosa, the Ryukyus and Marcus within four days.
(Tokyo radio reported the punishing blows were carried into the fifth day when carrier planes returned to Formosa Thursday (U. S. time).
Without identifying the harbors where Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's carrier planes discovered Japanese shipping, Admiral Nimitz reported this score:
Ships sunk: Two large cargo, two medium cargo, 12 small cargo.
Ships damaged: Two large cargo, seven medium cargo, ten small cargo.
Once again Admiral William F. Halsey Jr.'s mighty third fleet failed to find any Japanese warships willing to resist his bold thrust inside the enemy's long planned inner defense perimeter.
Of the Japanese airplanes destroyed, 124 were shot out of the ground and 97 finished off on the ground.
American losses were 22 airplanes and "there was no damage to our surface ships," Nimitz said.
Loss of 221 airplanes was a severe blow to Japanese defenses but comparative smallness of the number once again emphasizes how pinched the enemy apparently is for airpower.
Formosa is one of the largest islands on the Pacific, 249 miles from north to south and ranging to 93 miles wide. Strong defense would dictate that thousands of airplanes be based there. However, the fact that only 22 U. S. aircraft were downed is the strongest possible evidence that the enemy could have sent comparatively few more interceptors than Mitscher's pilots destroyed.

Banks Will ...

The bankers are determined that every competent businessman who has need of credit for a sound and constructive purpose shall find it available through his local community bank. It is expected that banks will aggressively seek loan business and merchandise their credit services.
This does not mean that banks expect to make unsound loans or to extend credit where the best interests of the borrower will not be served, but through this movement we do expect to see that all proper needs are met.
If banking resources in any community are not sufficient to meet local needs, then correspondent banks in the larger cities stand ready to give assistance. If necessary, groups of banks in various trade areas may set up special funds to handle certain types of loans jointly and thus spread the risk.
According to plans announced at the meeting in Raleigh, local committees will be set up in each district and county in the State so that full cooperation will be given to the nationwide plan. The main purpose is to assure business, large or small, that ample credit for re-conversion can be obtained through our banks, the Greenville banker said.

Greece Will ...

Late in September, small British forces landed in the Peloponnese, the large southern peninsula of the Greek mainland, and with Greek patriots cleared the Germans from most of that area, capturing Patras, Pyrgos and Corinth. Ancient Corinth is but 40 miles southwest of Athens, the Greek capital.
Gen. Wilson's broadcast tonight indicated an Allied landing in force was imminent, as contrasted to the rather small forces employed in the Peloponnese.
A proclamation by the Greek gov-

RETONGA IS FINE SAYS COUNTY EMPLOYEE

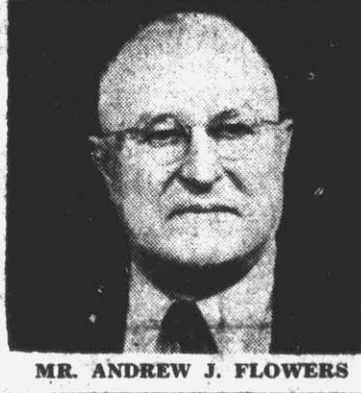

Years Of Distress Promptly Relieved, Mr. Flowers Discusses His Case.

Happy and grateful praise for Retonga continue to pour in. Among the latest to come forward with his strong public endorsement of Retonga is Mr. Andrew J. Flowers, widely known County employee residing at 311 Covington St., Florence, S. C. Mr. Flowers is a Mason, a Baptist and veteran of the Spanish-American War. Speaking of Retonga he happily stated:
"Retonga is unquestionably the finest medicine I have ever taken. For several years I had such severe pains in the muscles all over my body that I was unable to walk up and down steps without extreme suffering. I had very little appetite, I could scarcely ever get a good night's sleep and I felt nervous and miserable practically all the time. Slightest elimination also gave me considerable trouble. I tried treatments and medicines for years without finding much relief.
"Retonga gave me grand relief. I have a splendid appetite, I sleep lots better, and best of all, those severe pains in my muscles are so ernment called upon all Greeks to obey the regime of King George II and promised "just punishment" of everyone who collaborated with the Nazis.

The government warned that "any punitive action attempted against such persons (collaborators) by isolated individuals or organizations 'not guaranteeing dispensation of real justice would constitute arbitrary usurpation of the functions of the state.'"
Allied planes operating over the Greek coast in close cooperation with land forces of the Adriatic heavily bombed large concentrations of small enemy craft, and British naval aircraft sank a heavily loaded enemy landing craft. Allied headquarters announced today.
The Allied communique made no mention of forces in Greece, last reported holding Corinth on the road to Athens.

Drunks Head List In Recorder's Court

In Police Court today Judge Roberts disposed of the following cases:
Drunks—William J. Lancaster, not guilty of carrying concealed weapon; Dalton Greesh, 30 days in jail or pay $25, and not to drink or visit any place where intoxicating liquor is sold; Lillie Jenkins, colored, $25; Clyde Whitfield, $20; J. W. Cole, $15; Hyman Hardee, costs, and Jefferson D. Gibson, costs.
Driving drunk—B. J. Porter and J. R. Taylor, each $50 and costs and to lose driver's licenses a year.
Non-support—John Henry Williams, colored, six months in jail, suspended provided he pay to court clerk $15 weekly for family and court costs and give bond of $200.
Mutual assault—Mabel Cherry and Doris Parker, colored, each 30 days in jail or costs.
Refusal to pay taxi fare—Otto Joyner and Mandy Wooten, colored, Joyner was guilty and paid $15 fine and $4 to taxi driver; the woman was not guilty.
Alton Lee Jones, colored, picked up on a capias for vagrancy, was given 30 days on the city streets.

MR. ANDREW J. FLOWERS

relieved that I am now able to move around freely. Even the sluggish elimination is relieved. I feel worlds better generally. Retonga is fine."
Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at—

In Just 10 Minutes They'll Need Your Help

BACK HOME, the headlines read—60 U. S. Planes Lost.

The full news account may mention that 600 airmen were shot down with them. But nowhere will you find mention about how many of those men landed alive and are now in enemy prison camps. There is no way of knowing.

Actually, about 60 per cent of all American airmen shot down over enemy territory survive—as prisoners of war.

Some prison camps are devoted exclusively to airmen. But these camps are little different from the others. In all, the men behind the barbed wire live the same empty life. There is nothing to do but wait—wait—and try to hold on to your sanity while you wait.

That's why War Prisoners' Aid was formed. It provides the wherewithal to buy for prisoners of war the things that will help them hold on to their sanity during those empty days of waiting. Books. Games. Athletic equipment. Make-up kits for amateur theatricals. Musical instruments.

It takes money to buy these things. More and more money as more and more of our men wind up in prison camps. The only way War Prisoners' Aid can get that money is through your contribution to your local community drive. Your gift is also shared by war refugees, the U.S.O., Merchant Seamen, welfare services here at home. Give once for all these. Give generously.

SAYS FISHING BIG BUSINESS

May Become Major Industry Of Southern States.

Washington, Oct. 13—(AP)—Fishing may rank with cotton growing as a major Southern industry, the Interior Department predicted today if the South's fisheries are properly explored and developed.

The department, in a pamphlet by Richard L. Carson, aquatic biologist, described southern fishing as "one of the least known and most promising assets" of the area.

The Southern states, the booklet said, have already taken some steps to build up the industry, but "studies are needed" to disclose its full potentialities.

The booklet suggested: (1) More scientific exploration of the ocean off the southern coast regarding the habits and distribution of the fish, and (2) new methods of handling the catch to permit fuller use of species known to be abundant.

"Comparatively little is known x x x of the oceanography of the region," the pamphlet said. "With few exceptions, fishing operations are confined to waters close inshore."

Even without such development, however, the Southern states already are a major source of fish for the nation.

According to the booklet the South supplies the United States with nearly all its shrimp, a third of its crabs, a fourth of its oysters and a number of other fish not taken anywhere else in abundance, such as red snapper, spanish mackerel and pompano.

Annual landings of fish and shellfish in the states from North Carolina to Texas were listed at about 575,000,000 pounds, representing 85 different species.

Florida is rated as the Southern states leader with a third of the total yield, North Carolina second with 30 per cent and Louisiana third with 22 per cent.

Manhaden, a fish used chiefly for meal and oil in animal feeding, is listed as the leader in volume, with shrimp second. Mullet was rated the chief feed fish of the group, however, with an annual catch of 35 to 40-million pounds.

Near Record Crop Of Leaf Forecast

While cigarette smokers often are unable to obtain their favorite brands, the current limited supply is not due to a shortage of leaf tobacco used in the manufacture of cigarettes, according to J. V. Taylor, chairman of the Pitt County A.A.A. committee.

"In a recent report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, the current local shortage of cigarettes was attributed mainly to huge shipments to armed forces overseas, inability of manufacturers to obtain cottons and shipping containers for domestic use, and scarcity of factory labor," he said.

Manufacturers and dealers reported stocks of 1,187,630,000 pounds of flue-cured tobacco on hand on July 1, beginning of the current marketing year, he pointed out. Of this amount, about one billion pounds were available for domestic manufacture. This represents a supply sufficient for about 18 months.

The current crop of flue-cured tobacco, estimated by BAE as of October 1 at 1,972,269,000 pounds, will more than maintain stocks of domestic manufacturers and meet export demands. Total disappearance of flue-cured leaf during the year ending June 30, 1944, is estimated at 1,935,000,000 pounds.

"Stocks of Burley tobacco in hands of dealers and manufacturers on October 1, beginning of my current marketing year, were estimated at 448,000,000 pounds, representing about 18 months' supply," he said. The current crop of Burley was estimated by BAE as of October 1 at 478,095,000 pounds, while total disappearance for the year ending September 30, 1944, is estimated at 440,000,000 pounds.

Professor in Politics
Durham, Oct. 13—(AP)—The dean of Duke University's law school is the latest educator to plunge into a political campaign. Dr. Malcolm McDermott last night in a radio address demanded a general house cleaning of the Democratic party. He was speaking under the auspices of the newly organized Constitutional Democrats of North Carolina.

Servicemen Ballot
Can Only Be Mailed
Miami, Fla., Oct. 13—(AP)—Col. Miles R. Mounten took his servicemen's ballot to the Dade county courthouse yesterday to file it for the November 7 general election, but was turned down.
"I found out you can't turn them in personally," he said. "They have to be mailed. So I'm going out on the street corner, mark my ballot, and drop it in the mailbox."
The Camp Patrick Henry, Va., officer was home on leave for the first time in 19 months.

Somebody else's kid... you should worry!

YES, you should worry. Because juvenile delinquency is everybody's problem. These teenage hard guys and thrill-chasing victory girls... they're tomorrow's criminals. Unless we do something about it now, in a few years "somebody else's kid" may poke a gun into your ribs or kidnap your daughter.

You know in your heart that's the plain, brutal truth.

You as an individual can't do much about this problem except worry. But your dollars, given generously to your local War Fund, can do a lot:

Your dollars will support good, wholesome youth activities...

Will buy facilities and supplies for healthful recreation...

HOWELL PICKS GRD WINNERS

Says Carolina And Wake Forest To Win; Duke To Lose.

By FRITZ HOWELL
New York, Oct. 13—(AP)—Despite today's "Friday the 13th" jinx, our luck can't be much worse than it was a week ago when an even dozen of 41 football games didn't finish the way we thought they would.

Anyway, using the dope sheets and the record instead of a crystal ball and coin-tips, here's how we see this week's top-flight football encounters:

Notre Dame-Dartmouth: The Irish are too big, too fast and too many. Notre Dame.

Pittsburgh-Army: Ditto for the Cadets. Army—going away.

Ohio State-Wisconsin: The Bucks will generate plenty of steam on that home town drinking water they're taking along. Ohio State.

Purdue-Iowa Seahawks: The Hoosiers.

Western Michigan-Great Lakes:
Just a breeze for the Sailors of Coch Paul Brown. Great Lakes.

North Carolina-Cherry: Faint Marines. The Carolina boys will have the Marines well in hand.

North Carolina.

Georgia-Kentucky (Friday): It might be close. Georgia.

Columbia-Yale: Both undefeated, but Yale will win this one.

Texas Tech-Tulsa: Those Oklahoma boys are hot-shots. Tulsa.

S. M. U.-Randolph Field: The Tigers have everything. Randolph Field.

New Mexico-Second Army Air Force: Glenn Dobbs will pitch the Air Force to an easy win.

Minnesota-Missouri: On the ground from the loss to Michigan.
Minnesota.

William and Mary-Penn: Penn has turned in two upsets, and this looks like a set-up. Penn.

Duke-Navy: Duke has more than it has displayed, but the Middles appear too strong. Navy.

Georgia Tech-Auburn: The rambling wrecks are tuned up. Tech.

Iowa-Illinois: Bounding back from the loss to Purdue-Illinois.

Northwestern-Michigan: Great Lakes softened up the Wildcats, so it's Michigan.

A few fast ones: Alabama over Mississippi; Tulane over Rice; Tennessee over Florida; Wake Forest over V. M. I.; North Carolina Navy over Virginia; Indiana over Webster; Cornell over Colgate; Syracuse over Lafayette; Temple over
New York U.; Boston College over
C. C. N. Y. (Friday); Holy Cross over Villanova (Sunday); Michigan State over Kansas State.

Marine Port Quint
Appears Unbeatable

The 913 Port Men remain unbeaten in league play. Last night they defeated the 914 Starboard Men—32 to 30. This was the Star-board's first loss against two wins.
Johnson and Nyce were outstanding for the winners. Angel and Manning for the losers.

why the forces of liberation have been welcomed so cordially by the Italian people after 22 years of Fascism.

Saying aviation has brought the Old and the New Worlds closer, Mr.
Roosevelt asserted "that if we do not now take effective measures to prevent another world war and if there were to be a third world war,

the lands of the Western Hemisphere would be as vulnerable to attack from Europe and Asia as were the islands of Crete and the Philippines islands five years ago."

"Our objective," he said, "is to establish the solid foundations of the peace organization without further delay, and without waiting for the end of hostilities."

In New York, Attorney General
Biddle presented the Four Freedoms award with the statement that "long, long after Mussolini is only a half-forgotten nightmare, American and Italian scholars will be discussing their two great common heritages—the principles of Columbus-navigator and of Roosevelt-liberator."

highway 9—the Bologna-Rimini road—penetrating to a point three miles beyond Savignano and capturing the village of Balignano, Mantua, Brescia, and Montebello, south of the road. The troops which took Montebello were only four and a half miles southeast of Cesena, another junction point of highway 9.

In the hills south of the highway the Germans were putting in reinforcements and heavy fighting was in progress for the dominating peaks. Italian patriots in the mountains were continuing to harass the Nazi troops.

Headquarters disclosed that the three heavy bombers and 17 other planes were missing from yesterday's aerial operations in the Mediterranean sector, which included striking of airfields and other targets in Austria and Hungary.

Eighteen enemy planes were shot down.

A new attack on the Vienna area today by bombers of the 15th air force was reported by London.

Russians Smash . . .

off Southern Hungary was a racetrack for Russian armor. The Hungarians were reported resigned to the immediate loss of Kecskemet, rich provincial city famed for its peach brandy, situated 49 miles southeast of Budapest.

Willington Hungarian resistance all along the invasion front seemed to substantiate diplomatic hints that the exhausted satellite nation was about to quit Hitler. The mop-up of Hungary was counted on to prepare the springboard for the invasion of Austria as well as to assure the early liberation of the Croatian and Slovenian areas of Yugoslavia, and to pinch off the Germans in Slovakia.

(Meanwhile, Turkish sources said Berlin had urged Austrians to dig for their lives in a frenzy of frontier spadework near Vienna.)

While the campaign in Hungary took on the appearance of a push-over offensive, East Prussia and the remainder of the German front of the Baltic coast was a heavy slugging match all the way. Raging assaults carried the Russians within five miles of the eastern limits of Riga and slashed into the siege defenses of Memel on the Baltic coastline.

The East Prussia line cracked behind the frontier town of Sartinin-ka, 14 miles northeast of Tilsit.

Punching south from Sartininkal,
the Russians faced the Niemen River—a watery shield for Tilsit.

Russian troops driving on Tilsit from Slavik were confronted by the big bend of the Szesuppe River.

The Germans, again scraping reserves from the rear bases in East Prussia, were determined to wage along the Szesuppe, the same fanatical defense that held up Marshal
Ivan Cherniakovsky's Third White Russian Army two months. Nevertheless, attacks toward Tilsit brought the Russians within 42 miles of Insterburg and 65 miles of Königsberg, East Prussian capital.

The Russians advancing through the Balkans captured two prizes yesterday. These were Oradea, largest Romanian city then in enemy hands, and Subotica, third large-est city of Yugoslavia.

Subotica, a rail center of 100,000, lies near the Hungarian frontier 160 miles northwest of Belgrade and 35 miles southwest of captured Seged.

Oradea, in Transylvania and claimed by Hungary as its sixth largest city, had been wrested from Romania in Hitler's 1940 Vienna dictate. The city of 83,000 is a fortress town with two cathedrals and dates back to the Roman Empire.

Drying on Budapest through wheat country level as Kansas, the Russians were astride at least three all-weather roads. Budapest is virtually indefensible, because it lies

Polygamists Given
Jail Terms, Fines

Salt Lake City, Oct. 13—(AP)— Thirty-one "Fundamentalist" cult members convicted of conspiring to preach and practice polygamy were summoned to District Court for sentencing today, but a defense motion for a new trial may bring a delay.

The 20 men and 11 women can be sentenced to not more than a year's imprisonment or fined not to exceed $1,000.

In offering their new trial motion defense attorneys asserted that "new evidence has been discovered."

Plant Will Close

Raleigh, Oct. 13—(AP)—Govern-nor Broughton announced today that he has been informed that the entire manufacturing operation of the Durham division of Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation is to be moved to Burlington and that the new industry would immediately begin production of implements of war, the nature of which cannot be disclosed.

The division will occupy the plant being vacated by the corporation's aircraft division following completion of contracts to make two-engine training planes for the army air forces.

Bankers Plan For Small Credit Needs

Raleigh, Oct. 13—(AP)—The North Carolina Bankers Association started planning today the formation of a credit group to meet small business credit needs after the war.
The special one-day meeting yesterday also adopted a resolution opposing the creation of any new federal lending agencies "for the perpetuation of others set up for war purposes when the war is over."
The credit group would be formed among North Carolina banks.

Hendrix To Remain Pitt County Agent

Floyd F. Hendrix, Pitt county farm agent, who tendered his resignation to the County Commissioners the first of the month, has withdrawn it and will remain on the job. He was recently offered a position with a business firm here.

When Hendrix tendered his resignation it was understood that he was filling the place until R. R.
Bennett, who was given indefinite leave, returned from the war. Information from the State Extension Service indicated that farm agents who went into service would be given positions when they returned, but not necessarily the ones they formerly occupied.

Hendrix is doing outstanding work as farm agent, is cooperating with the farmers and making a creditable record, state and county officials stated.
