Nazi Defenders Fighting Bitterly To Hold Aachen

Few Reinforcements Believed Slipped In Before Escape Gap Closed; House To House Fighting Continues; Slight Gains By Seventh Army on Southern Front.

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS London, Oct. 14 (AP)—S. troops routing out Germans with fire and explosives went deeper into medieval Aachen today in a house-to-house battle against strengthening resistance, and guns and planes again thwarted Nazi attempts to reinforce the besieged garrison.

The Aachen escape gap now was "as good as closed," an officer at the front said.

But some German reinforcements possibly had slipped into the burning city, and a front dispatch estimated 2,000 Germans were left there, fighting back more desperately now. In five days an American division has taken 1,000 prisoners.

Germans fought as bitterly in Holland. Canadians blockading the escape route for the enemy on Zuid Beveland and Walcheren Islands in the northern Schelde estuary were faced on the defensive.

To the east in Holland, British forces hacked out a gain of more than a mile southeast of Overloon in the sector above Aachen, but progress was slow.

Doughboys using flame-throwers, grenades and machineguns advanced slowly but steadily in Aachen. An attack on the northeast had narrowed the line from the city. Field artillery and planes hit repeatedly at German reinforcements trying to shove in from the east, and prevented any major counterattack to relieve Aachen.

Eighty-four German tanks had been knocked out in 48 hours through Friday.

Germans in Aachen had to be rescued from pillboxes and dug from wells and cellars of ruined houses.

Four miles north of Aachen, tank-reinforced Germans threw in stronger pressures, but several counterattacks were dispersed by Allied planes and artillery. Doughboys in this sector between Aachen and Bardenberg moved forward slowly against stubborn defenses including mobile guns and tanks.

Southeast of Aachen, the Allied command reported progress near Germeret, 12 miles from Aachen and one mile southwest of Hurtzen town to regain ground lost earlier to a strong enemy counterattack. In Holland the Germans brought up assault guns and tanks below Bergen Op Zoom in an apparent all-out attempt to rescue forces trapped on the Schelde estuary islands. Fighting rose in intensity (Continued on Page Four)

Nazi Submarine Sinks Freighter

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 14 (AP)—Thirty-five merchant seamen who survived a U-boat attack which sank their freighter and cost the lives of three of their shipmates have been landed here by a British rescue ship. They are the first victims of such an action to land at Halifax in more than a year.

The freighter was sunk in a four-day fight between a German submarine pack and the largest convoy ever to sail from the United Kingdom.

AIRMEN POUND NAZI TARGETS

Thirty-Six Bombers Lost Raids On Oil Plants.

Rome, Oct. 14 (AP)—Thirty-six heavy bombers and 12 fighters of the U. S. 15th Air Force were reported missing today from raids on the Biechhamer South oil refinery, 75 miles southeast of Breslau in German Silesia and communications and factory targets in the Vienna area.

The big Flying Fortresses and Liberators with their fighter escort encountered terrific antiaircraft barrages over the targets in Germany and Austria but others hitting at enemy installations in Hungary, met only moderate opposition.

Between Biechhamer and the Lake Balaton area in Hungary escorting fighters reported they knocked out a number of enemy fighters on the ground and destroyed 15 locomotives.

Mustangs attacked railroad and river traffic between Budapest and Vienna destroying 48 locomotives, 82 oil tank cars and motor transport.

More than 30 ME-109s were observed in the Vienna area but there were no fights.

Fliers reported good results in the attack on the Vienna rail yards.

Small German Garrison Surrenders Without Firing Shot; Continued Action In Greece And Albania.

Rome, Oct. 14 (AP)—Allied troops have captured the fertile Greek island of Corfu in the Ionian Sea after the German garrison of only 60 men surrounded without firing a shot, it was announced today.

At the same time Albanian partisans on the mainland occupied Delvino, an inland road center above the port of Sarande (Porto Edda) which previously was captured. The fall of Corfu, Sarande and Delvino eliminated both the Albanian coastal road and coastal waters as avenues of Nazi escape northward from Greece. The comparatively light opposition encountered in the area indicated that the Nazis no longer attached high value to these routes.

Earlier it had been reported that the Germans had garrisoned Corfu with a regiment of troops. The island is approximately 38 miles long with a width varying from three to 20 miles. It has an area of 275 square miles and a population of 106,000.

Allied headquarters announced that at Sarande delayed action explosives left by the Germans blew up the center of the town but there were no casualties.

The area affected had been roped off because many booby traps had been discovered. The explosion was 90 hours after the German surrender. And the 60 men surrounded were in the northern corner of the island. Numbers of deserters were believed scattered elsewhere.

Prior to the Allied landing, RAF planes dropped leaflets urging surrender, and shortly afterward white crosses and flags began to blossom from the island.

Low-flying pilots saw crowds waving when the tokens of surrender appeared.

Allied headquarters once again was silent on the continuing operations of British land forces and partisans on the Greek mainland. The light column which marched across the Peloponnese from Patral last was reported at Corinth.

There still was no official confirmation of yesterday's reports that the Germans had evacuated Athens and that the Greek flag was flying (Continued on page six)

More Brazilians Arrive In Italy

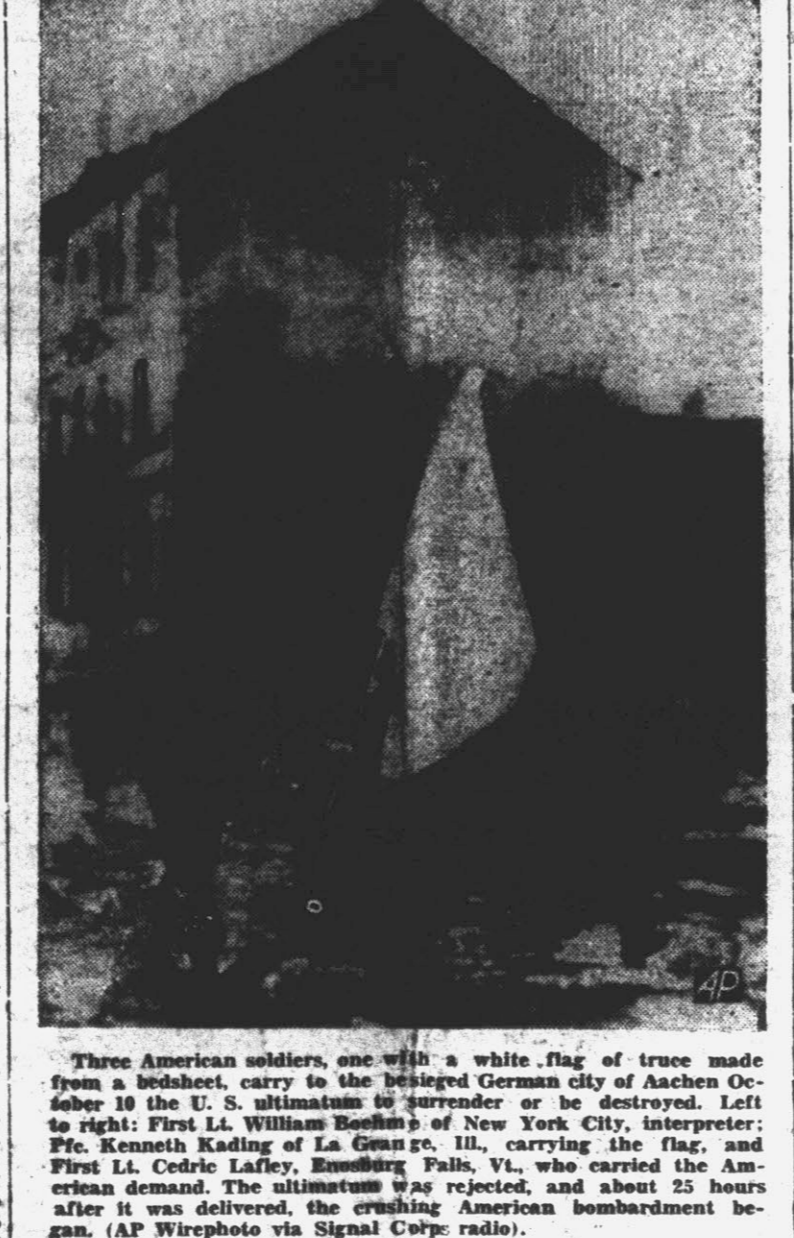

Rome, Oct. 14 (AP)—A further large contingent of the Brazilian expeditionary force has arrived in the Italian battle zone.

The first Brazilian Air Force contingent, made up of pilots, ground crewmen and ground troops, were included in the convoy.

The size of the reinforcements is a military secret, but it was learned that the total Brazilian force in Italy is more than doubled.

The original Brazilian force has been in action and has been advancing on the western end of the line across Italy.

Yanks Carry Ultimatum To Aachen

Three American soldiers, one with a white flag of truce made from a bedsheet, carry to the besieged German city of Aachen October 10 the U. S. ultimatum to surrender or be destroyed. Left to right: First Lt. William Boehling of New York City, interpreter; Pfc. Kenneth Kading of La Grange, Ill., carrying the flag, and Pfc. Lt. Cedric Lafey, Emsburg Falls, Va., who carried the American demand. The ultimatum was rejected, and about 25 hours after it was delivered, the evening American bombardment began. Stage All Set To Begin War Fund Drive Here

Solicitation of $45,000 in County To Get Under Way Monday. Greenville's Part Is $21,000.

By CHESTER WALSH The "heavy artillery" of the United War Fund campaign will get into action Monday morning at 8:15 with a breakfast meeting of John C. Clark's Special Gifts Committee at Proctor Hotel County Chairman Sam H. Underwood Jr. announced today.

Monday is the day on which hundreds of men and women—white and Negro—will begin soliciting contributions to the United War Fund to raise the county's quota of $46,000.

Similar campaigns are being held everywhere in the Nation. The money will be used for relief of Allied men in enemy prison camps, to aid the people of devastated and war-torn cities, to spread good cheer among the men in service in the USO centers and build up morale, etc. Everybody will be asked to contribute according to their means and do their part on the homefront as the boys are doing on the battlefronts.

In an interview today Chairman Clark said: "We have a representative group of busy men who are giving of their time and energy in this patriotic duty. I know that each and every one of them, as he sees each one of the persons on his list, is going to meet with a generous and liberal response to this urgent appeal for our own—for our Allies. The need is greater than it has ever been. There are more of our boys in prison of war camps and, to our sorrow, we know that there will be many more of them there. (Before Johnny Comes Marching Home Again)."

Chairman Underwood reported today that at a meeting of the Negro school teachers of Pitt County they raised $1,000 for the United War fund and are still working.

Greenville Township Chairman Joe M. Taft has his chairman and leaders lined up and ready to go to work Monday morning. Dr. J. A. Beale, chairman of the Greenville Negro division, has perfected a fine organization, and they are going out to better last year's contributions.

A. C. Ruffin of the E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company, chairman of the Tobacco Industry Solicitation Committee, and Dr. Battle today made an appeal to all of the employees of the tobacco factories and those contributing to the fund.

Superfortresses Join In New Attacks On Formosa

Russian Forces Begin Drive On East Prussia

Fall Of Riga Frees Two Mighty Armies For New Action; March Across Hungary Progresses.

By DANIEL DE LUCE Moscow, Oct. 14 (AP)—The fall of Riga, Latvian capital and last Baltic city that remained to the Germans, released two powerful Russian armies today for a thrust southward toward East Prussia.

On the Red army's southern flank, silenced cloaked decisive operations in Hungary.

(The Paris radio, quoting an unattributed report from Bulgaria, said today "the Hungarian government has accepted the preliminary conditions of an Allied armistice.")

(It offered no details as to the source of the report or the conditions of the reported armistice.)

The Soviet drive in Hungary now may be compared to operations last year in Italy during which Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth army marched up the Italian peninsula for six days after crossing the Messina strait.

It is recalled that the British landed on the mainland at dawn, Sept. 3, 1943—the same day that Marshal Pietro Badoglio's emissaries signed an armistice. Until the evening of September 8 British troops officially regarded the Italians as enemy belligerents, but day after day were amazed by large-scale desertions and even active help.

Badoglio's staff officers claimed later that the Allies had taken them into their confidence and had deceived the line of the armistice announcement, which was advanced instead of the night of September 7, a coordinated trap could have been sprung against the Germans.

Announcement of the Red army's entry into East Prussia in force from the frontier belt 12 miles northeast of Tilsit may be made tonight.

Riga, a city of 385,000, whose capture by troops of Gen. Andrei Yermenko's Second Baltic army and Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's Third Baltic army was announced last night by Marshal Stalin, was taken by storming the port area on the mouth of the Dvina, after the Russians crossed a supposedly impassable swamp in the northeast. Thus the Soviet forces blocked a German plan for a seaborne evacuation.

A correspondent of Red Star, Soviet army newspaper, said the enemy (Continued on page six)

SMALL GAIN ON ITALIAN FRONT

Fifth Army Forces Takes Hills South Of Bologna.

By LYNN HEINZLINGER Rome, Oct. 14 (AP)—British and American troops supported by low-flying fighters and fighter-bombers hammered out small gains in furious fighting yesterday against a fanatical German defense of the Po valley.

Allied headquarters announced that Fifth army troops seized new hills in the central sector south of Bologna, while Eighth army forces to the east rushed the Germans back along the entire battle line, except in the Adriatic coastal sector.

At the same time it was disclosed that another contingent of Brazilian troops had arrived in the battle zone. The original Brazilian expeditionary force, which has been operating in difficult country in the west flank of the U. S. Fifth army push to Bologna, yesterday captured Coreglia, five miles northwest of Bagni Di Lucca.

The fresh Brazilian force more than doubled the total Brazilian troops in Italy and included the first Brazilian air force to arrive in Italy.

American troops fought their way up hill 462, about nine miles southwest of Castel San Pietro, on the Bologna-Rimini highway. Farther (Continued on page six)

Jap Losses Placed At 140 Ships And 525 Planes As Result Of Carrier Plane Assaults; Philippines Cut Off From Reinforcement And Ripe For Invasion.

By The Associated Press U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 14—Japan's army of 150,000 in the Philippines, sorely harassed by guerrillas even before American invasion, was believed cut off from its main source of reinforcement at bomb-ravaged Formosa which B-29's blasted today after two days of carrier plane attacks.

(Japanese imperial headquarters command reported that carrier planes hit the island today for the third day, in two morning attacks by 450 aircraft which preceded the B-29 assault.)

Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent, said that view was taken here of official reports showing upwards of 1,000 U. S. carrier aircraft sank or damaged 63 ships, wiped out 396 planes and ripped Formosa's railway system in giant raids Wednesday and Thursday within 100 miles of the China coast.

Tokyo radio, while telling Japan of the raids, claimed six carriers and four warships were sunk but Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said last night the Japanese air force failed even to damage the fleet units in their Wednesday night torpedo and bombing attack.

Pearl Harbor correspondents were permitted to speculate that the mauling forces, which in four days accounted for 140 ships, 67 smaller craft and from 525 to 300 planes at Formosa, the Ryukyus and the Philippines, still may be in action against Japan's inner defenses.

The Philippines, by many signs, appeared wide open for invasion.

Net Japanese plane loss of the skies from Manila's main airbases Tuesday to oppose carrier planes which erased 10 to 15 grounded enemy aircraft on Luzon, the navy disclosed last night.

Haugland said Japanese freedom of movement from island to island in the Philippines could be halted whenever Adm. Chester Nimitz and Gen. Douglas MacArthur choose to combine their forces to that end.

Tokyo radio, quoting naval and diplomatic officials, told the Japanese that "American guerrillas are disrupting communications in the Philippines and that fuel and commodity shortages have arisen due to shipping difficulties."

Nippon's shipping troubles were aggravated by the fact that cargo ships made up the bulk of the 140 ships sunk or damaged in the carrier operations.

Out of the hundreds of American planes which swept hour on hour for two days over Formosa, wreaking havoc on shore installations as well as sea and aircraft, 45 were shot down, Nimitz said, indicating surprisingly thin air protection for such a formidable base. The raiders, in erasing 174 planes on the ground, came close to equalling the 221 they bagged in sky fights.

Complete reports on the lengthy attack dealt the Ryukyus, reaching to within 200 miles of Japan, Monday raid and the total enemy ships sunk or damaged from 38 to 77, the total small surface craft from 20 to more than 50 and the planes destroyed from 89 to 119. Nimitz listed the loss of eight American planes and airmen.

The WAR TODAY AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst Few battles for cities in this war have so intrigued the peoples of the western allies as that over ancient Aachen, probably because they hope that from it they can learn the strength of Germany's determination and the extent of her ability to make a finish fight.

It's likely that this grim battle will indeed give us a fairly accurate answer to the problem—which is both military and psychological. Already it is clear that Hitler intends to make this a test case, as witness the manner in which he has flung crack armored troops into the contest at the approach of the old town. Thus we have further confirmation that he is determined to hang on to the death, and still is capable of causing us plenty of trouble.

On the other side of the Nazi ledger is the proof that not all German soldiers or civilians are willing to die for him. His officers in Aachen have been shooting both civilians and soldiers who tried to surrender. However, that's not conclusive, and further evidence is needed to enable us to gauge the dictator's control over his people.

Berlin brags that the Nazi commander who rejected the American ultimatum to surrender replied: "Even an American cannot ask a city like Aachen, where 37 German emperors were crowned, to surrender." Passing by the thought that we not only can but did demand surrender, we find much food for thought in this line.

The Hitlerite commander would have been correct if he had said: "Germany cannot afford to surrender a famous old city like Aachen—the first important city to be attacked by land forces in the fatherland proper since the days of Napoleon." The loss of Aachen will be a tremendous shock to German morale—so great that Hitler dare not risk it if he possibly can hang on, by hook or by crook he could build out of it an epic of German resistance, it would strengthen morale.

By the same token, the Allies need Aachen for the psychological effect on the Germans. But that's only half the story. Militarily this city is of great importance to both sides. For the Allies it's the gateway in the corridor leading from Belgium into Germany—a vital railway and highway center. For the Germans it's a powerful defensive anchor in their Siegfried line.

Undoubtedly Aachen remains one of the notable possibilities for a breakthrough to the Rhine and thence into the heart of Germany. The crossing of the Rhine, which (Continued on page four)

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP)—Servicemen are salting away a lot of their hard-earned money in war bonds.

They're doing it by allotments—having so much deducted from each month's pay—or buying with cash. The monthly investments now: Soldiers, about $46,000,000; navy men, about $13,000,000.

So far the most popular allotment has been $6.25. Taken monthly from a man's pay, in three months full payment of $18.75 has been made for a $25 bond.

Now there is a new $10 "G. I." bond for servicemen, issued August 1. They can buy it for $7.50. It has to be in one payment.

The bond purchases do double duty: They help servicemen save money for after the war; and they help siphon off an overseas serviceman's loose cash.

Two-Day Holiday For Leaf Markets

By The Associated Press Tobacco farmers in the old belt markets, encouraged by a halt in the decline in prices, looked forward next week to an upward trend in their revenue, while prices in the eastern and middle belt markets were reported as generally steady.

All markets will observe a two-day holiday next week. They will be closed Monday and Tuesday to assist in relieving a critical congestion at the warehouse floors and the re-drying plants. The markets will return to a four-day selling week the following week.

The North Carolina and Virginia State Departments of Agriculture reported the slight increase in the old belt market yesterday. The upward show was in practically all grades, according to the War Food Administration. Sales were heavy.

Declines in prices for a few green leaf and nondescript grades offset slight advances reported for middle belt averages for several lug and orange belt grades.

The eastern belt is now in the midst of selling the belt's quality leaf and the WFA reported a fluctuation in prices. Losses in most part were offset by gains.

Skit Lampons Mrs. Roosevelt

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP)—A twentieth Century Club skit lamponing Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has resulted in the resignation of Mrs. Norman E. Mack, former Democratic National Committee woman, from the club.

The skit, entitled "My Day," was "the worst exhibition of bad taste I have seen in my entire life," Mrs. Mack said. "Regardless of political affiliations, such a cruel, mean attack on the wife of the leader of our nation is unbelievable. Mrs. Roosevelt has been my friend for 35 years. x x x"

Mrs. Edward Sharpe, president of the club, where Mrs. Roosevelt is scheduled to speak next Thursday, said the skit was "very pleasant and not unfriendly satire. If Mrs. Roosevelt had been here, I am sure she would have enjoyed it as much as our members did."

Training For Business Babson Forecasts Revolution In Education

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 13—Education is the one industry in which almost no improvement has been made during the past fifty, or perhaps, one hundred years. It is true that better school houses have been built and the teachers are being better paid. Whether or not these teachers are as well succeeding in winning the hearts and bettering the lives of their students is debatable. Certainly, the educational standards have been declining.

However, employers are not so much interested in the "words per minute," which one can do, as in the "thoughts per minute." The subjects which are not being taught in school are the important subjects. As a result, most employers believe that education today is as backward as was the electrical industry, 200 years ago, in Franklin's day, when electricity could be obtained only by flying a kite in the skies. School superintendents have yet to learn that the important things of life are the unseen and spiritual—not class recitations, written examinations and memory tests.

The troops were described as ready for combat after brief additional battle instruction.

With a set of Encyclopedias, Britannica on his desk, plus the ability to read, write and figure, the businessman has, for practical purposes, all the information available to any college graduate. The important question is whether he has those intangible assets, such as character, industry, initiative, courage and persistence. These are what our homes and schools should teach.

Statistics and Education I have been able to get satisfactory statistics on every industry except the educational industry. Therefore, I cannot prove that the students receiving the highest marks in school do not turn out to be the most useful and successful citizens. Certainly, character, industry, initiative, courage and persistence are of infinitely more value than the ability to get high marks. In fact, I believe that those who have these qualities will make a success in life whether or not they ever see the inside of a college, while young people lacking these qualities could never amount to anything with a dozen Ph. D.'s.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
October 14, 1904

Happy Hooligan in the opera house tonight.

If there is not frost in the morning it will miss a good chance.

There are four women carriers on the rural free delivery mail routes in the state.

D. D. Overton went to Rocky Mount today.

J. W. Higgs returned Thursday evening from a business trip.

Ancient people imprisoned fireflies in coconut shells to furnish light.

Yes, everything will be all right for him and the thousands of cases like his—as long as you continue to support the agencies that make this help possible.

These services were here before the war and they will be continued afterward, but their needs in wartime have been greatly multiplied. This year, more than ever, they need your contributions.

How about spending the next 5 minutes in hell?

FOR the next few minutes, imagine that you're an American soldier.

You might, for instance, imagine that you're a 20-year-old kid from Indiana, who got hit at Salerno, months ago.

Since then, you've been lying in a base hospital somewhere, with a leg that never stops hurting and a hole in your belly that makes the younger nurses sick when they try to dress it.

Or you might imagine that you're a war prisoner in an enemy hospital. For nearly two years now, you've been ill and weak and hopeless. And ahead of you lies a gray stretch of more sickness and weakness—while you try to keep alive the hope that somehow, sometime, you'll see your home again.

It doesn't make much difference where you let your mind take you—just as long as you put yourself in one of the spots where, at this minute, men are going through as real a hell as this earth ever sees. But do it, won't you?

If your imagination is any good at all, you'll dig down deep this year for your Community War Fund. For your money, through the U.S.O. Camp Shows and the War Prisoners' Aid, will help the boy in the hospital forget, for a little while, his hurt. It will give the man in the hospital new hope to carry him through.

When you give, you give just once, for all. So give all you can—

By J.C. FLEMING and LOIS EBY AP. Features

Chapter 27
Dr. Merrill put away his stethoscope, looked at Aunt Sarah and went out into the hall where Susan and Janie's mother were holding consultation about Aunt Sarah's breakfast.

"She can have anything she wants," Merrill said. "And all she wants of it. And she can dress and be up this afternoon. Can I drop you at your office, Susan?"

"You certainly can."
"Funny thing," Merrill mused as they drove down Main Street a few minutes later, "how she's picked up since that murder. That was a real heart attack she had when it looked like the factory was starting. And she didn't rally from it until this Scarborough trouble."

"Don't say that!"
Merrill smiled wryly at Susan's violent protest. "Then you've noticed it too."

"Maybe it's just coincidence—maybe."
"It's an eye opener to me on how 20 years of concentrated hate can finally take charge of the body." He patted Susan's hand as he reached across her to open the door. "That's why I'm glad you didn't carry on the feud, Susan. Love folks, don't hate 'em. It's healthier."

Two reporters from Detroit dailies were waiting for her in her office. They wanted some inside dope on the Scarborough guy.

Susan bridled at their attitude, and they seemed highly delighted. They told her then about the comb that had been found the day before up by the boathouse—a comb just like she had in her hair now.

Thorny advised her to tell them all she knew. She had nothing to hide. But Susan pleaded. Couldn't they please keep her name out of it?

"Sorry, sister, not a chance," they assured her. "To big a case. Now the way we have it doped out is this. The Scarbroughs both swore this boathouse is pretty private. No one comes here. And there being some kind of trouble between your families, you took to meeting young Scarborough in secret."

"All right. I did meet Erich there. But I was at home the night of the murder, so can't you forget it?"

"Forget it? Sorry sis, guess you don't get the angle. The son and daughter of feuding families—clandestine meetings—why it's Romeo and Juliet stuff, see? It's a gold mine!"

Susan was white. "Aunt Sarah—" she whispered. "Oh Thorny, it'll kill her."

"If it does kill her, Susan, it'll be because she wants it to kill her. Now come on. We've got work to do. There won't be a soul showing up for work now. We've got to call that factory for the next two days. Thorny kept Susan miserably at her typewriter or on the phone. There was nothing to hide from the town now. Not after every Detroit paper had built up the story of the modern Romeo and Juliet of Midvale. Susan and Janie's mother confided with Merrill to keep Aunt Sarah in bed and all neighbors and newspapers away.

Julie was pale these evenings and her eyes were shadowed, otherwise she was unchanged. Her days were spent with Erich and the Detroit attorney Thorny had asked to help them.

"Mr. Jamison says it may take time," she told Susan as they sat together before the small blazing fire in the library one night waiting for Erich to finish a conference with Thorny. "but the murderer will be tracked down."

"Does he think Erich will be indicted for murder?"
"He's afraid so."

A chill ran through Susan. If the murderer weren't tracked down—For days she had felt the town's rising satisfaction, its hardening conviction that Justice, cheated once by the powerful old Scarborough, was now to be avenged.

Julie's voice suddenly broke into her fears, trembling with violent feeling. "Susan, if they indict him for murder—it's my fault!"
"Nonsense, Julie."

"It's my fault," Julie repeated incessantly. "I had to come back here. I had to start that factory. Erich didn't want to come. Oh, Susan, if, in trying to clear my father's name, I've sacrificed my son—"

Aunt Sarah was alone sitting up in her bed. She said she had sent Julie's mother home because she wanted to see Susan. There were spots of color on her cheeks. Her black eyes blazed.

"You haven't been at your office. You've been up at Scarborough House," she said flatly as the girl entered.

Susan sank into the chair beside the bed. "What is it, Aunt Sarah? What's happened?"
Aunt Sarah reached beneath her pillow and brought out a folded newspaper. Susan caught her breath. It was a Detroit paper. As Aunt Sarah unfolded it with a flourish, she caught a glimpse of pictures of herself and Erich on the front page.

"Where did you get it?"
"Aunt Sarah's voice was sardonic. "The Peters boy was working in the garden. I called him to the window and sent him for it. I see now why you've been keeping the papers from me." She began to breathe with sudden effort. "I warned you, I begged you to keep away from the Scarboroughs!"

Susan turned and faced Aunt Sarah. "Please," she said quietly, her fists clenching at her sides. "Aunt Sarah, believe me, Erich—didn't—kill—him."

Aunt Sarah's laugh was wild. "Of course he killed him. The man came to expose the Scarboroughs as he threatened in that letter. So Erich killed him. Murder means nothing to a Scarborough! And now you, Susan Corboy—" It says it here. You're the sweetheart of a murderer!"

Susan turned and ran into the hall. She was reaching for the receiver when the phone rang. Num-got into the taxi.

The day was sultry but at Torch Lake there was a breeze. Chick ordered and got a table especially placed down under some trees at the lake's edge. He smiled at Susan. "In white linen," he said, "with those trees behind you, you remind me of an idyllic week-end in Honolulu."
Susan's laugh was slightly hysterical. "I feel like a week-end in Honolulu—the one after Pearl Harbor."
Chick Malloy's smile broadened. "Just what I hoped," he said. He picked up her hand and kissed it. "Publicity is always a strain."
"This is more than publicity."
Ed brought their orders, spilling iced tea while he stared at Chick. "Eat your salad," said Chick. "And then I'm taking you away from it all."
There it was. Susan made blind stabs at her food. Her hand trembled until she was afraid to lift it to her mouth.
"Taking me—away?"
Chick attacked his trout with relish. "That's right. I can't forget you, Arabella. The world tinkles without you. You're meaning, I'm madness, you're substance, I'm shadow. So—"
"So—?" She could do nothing but echo, feel nothing but helpless, dim panic. Her life, Midvale, Erich seemed to be drifting away farther, farther on that sea of inertia.
"So you're going with me. We're picking up some friends in Chicago and then on down to Louisville. I have a box for the Derby. We'll have one wonderful time. After that—"
As he went on in glowing plans, Susan's weakness lifted. Her nervousness was gone, even her exhaustion. She was no longer struggling with temptation. This life without fetters (she had been dreaming when she had thought Chick would consider marriage) was just what Chick had said: Tinkles, shadows—She leaned across the table toward him.
"No," she said. "You don't understand, Chick. I am tired. It's been pretty bad. But, I couldn't leave. I'm in love with Erich."
"Love is just a word coined to cover a complex. Maternal in your case, as I've told you." Chick's eyes narrowed in irritation. "You even used my influence with the railroad to save his factory for him."
Susan stiffened, hurt. "I shouldn't have done that," she said evenly. "Please explain it. We'll take our chances."
Chick's anger slowly died before her glowing earnestness. He grinned, and patted her hand. "I'm just blowing off, Arabella," he said. "because you haven't a complex over me."
The radio inside the Inn was turned up. The news announcer's voice blared out:
"—Fingerprint experts in the Scarborough Lake affair report the finger prints on the anchor used as the murder weapon are definitely not those of any member of the Scarborough household."

When women were first employed by the federal government in the middle of the 19th century, they appeared on the payroll in the name of some male relative.

Soldier of the Soil

VICTORY begins with the American farmer, working from long before sunset until long after nightfall. Upon him falls the burden of feeding the fighting forces... the civilian population... and hungry mouths in war-torn countries.

To the challenge of producing more food than ever, American soldiers of the soil have responded with heroic effort. Despite shortages of help and equipment, they have established records. They have contributed mightily towards winning the war.

Now you are asked to help your fellow-men in another way... to contribute money to give men in the armed forces needed recreation, to give books and sports equipment to prisoners of war, to give nerve-shattered men in the merchant marine a chance to recuperate. To give unfortunate people abroad and at home a chance to have life, liberty, and happiness.

The dollars you can give are needed more than ever this year. Please give generously.

Where Time Doesn't March On...

... unless you step in now to help men in German prison camps fight that deadly "barbed wire" boredom

THE CLOCK has a hundred hours on its dial and each hour has 600 minutes when you're peened behind barbed wire.

Nothing to see but that wire, the bar-rack's wall, and a sentry's back. Nothing to hear but the tramp of his feet, the beeps of your comrades.

So you go slowly, grimly, and sometimes not-so-quietly, progressively towards the "barbed wire disease" unless...

Unless you're lucky enough to have the folks back home get behind the War Prisoners' Aid (one of the 19 participating agencies of the National War Fund), and provide the money to provide the things to feed the hunger of your heart and soul and mind.

Books and baseballs and tennis rackets. Textbooks and technical equipment so you can continue studies the war interrupted. Grease paint and play-scripts for your own camp shows. Games of every sort. Anything and everything it's humanly possible to provide to start time marching on again.

This is just one of the many vital jobs your contribution helps to take care of—when you support the National War Fund by giving to your local Community War Fund. Your dollars go to work on six continents and in ninety-one countries—including your own, because this united campaign covers the big home-front needs too.

And don't just give a "token" contribution. The job is too big for that. Give—really give! Remember that no matter how much any of us gives in money it's still little compared to what the people you'll help have been giving in "blood, sweat, and tears."

THINGS THAT MAKE FOR PEACE
 It was Thomas a Kempis who, almost 500 years ago, made the wise observation, "All men desire peace, but few men desire the things that make for peace."

Here is a statement to examine carefully from all sides, as we stand in days of immeasurable significance. Peace seems not far away. Everyone is looking forward to it and ardently desiring it. But are we desiring the things that make for peace, or rather, the things that would keep the world at peace, once military conflict has actually ceased?

If all we want is to stop fighting and get back to business again, as usual, we may be putting the draft law into operation again within a decade.

Briefly stated, the principle we must adhere to is this—that the people of all countries desire the opportunity to live a full and normal life, and therefore the peace arrangements must give everybody the world over that opportunity. We would it so ardently for ourselves that we want to see that we must want it so ardently for others that we will fly vehemently in the face of any opposition which attempts in a spirit of cynicism and craft to deny it to others. This does not mean letting the enemy off easily, after his cruel career. It only means that after justice is done to all and evil-doers punished, justice is continued by offering to right-minded men and women everywhere the opportunity to live their lives to the full.

AMERICA IN WARTIME
 By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Your capital in wartime:

Far eastern experts at the State Department won't talk at all as publication, but it is indicated that the primary objective of recent military setbacks in China is lack of transportation.

You can't fly big trucks, little trucks, tanks and half-tracks over the "hump," and there has been no other way to get them in since closing of the Burma Road.

This, it is said, is the reason China's northern army can't get back to the south and east to stem the Japanese drive in that area. When war front refugees, arriving in Chungking recently, wanted to know why a Japanese column of only 5,000 men was allowed to advance 100 miles in ten days, the alibi was simply that the Chinese didn't have a division equipped with sufficient transport to cut them off.

If it's true, preparations are being made so quietly that it hasn't leaked out yet officially, but the rumor is persistent that thousands of Italian prisoners of war soon will be sent back to Italy to be released, after which they will immediately join Italian legions to fight with the Allies against the Axis.

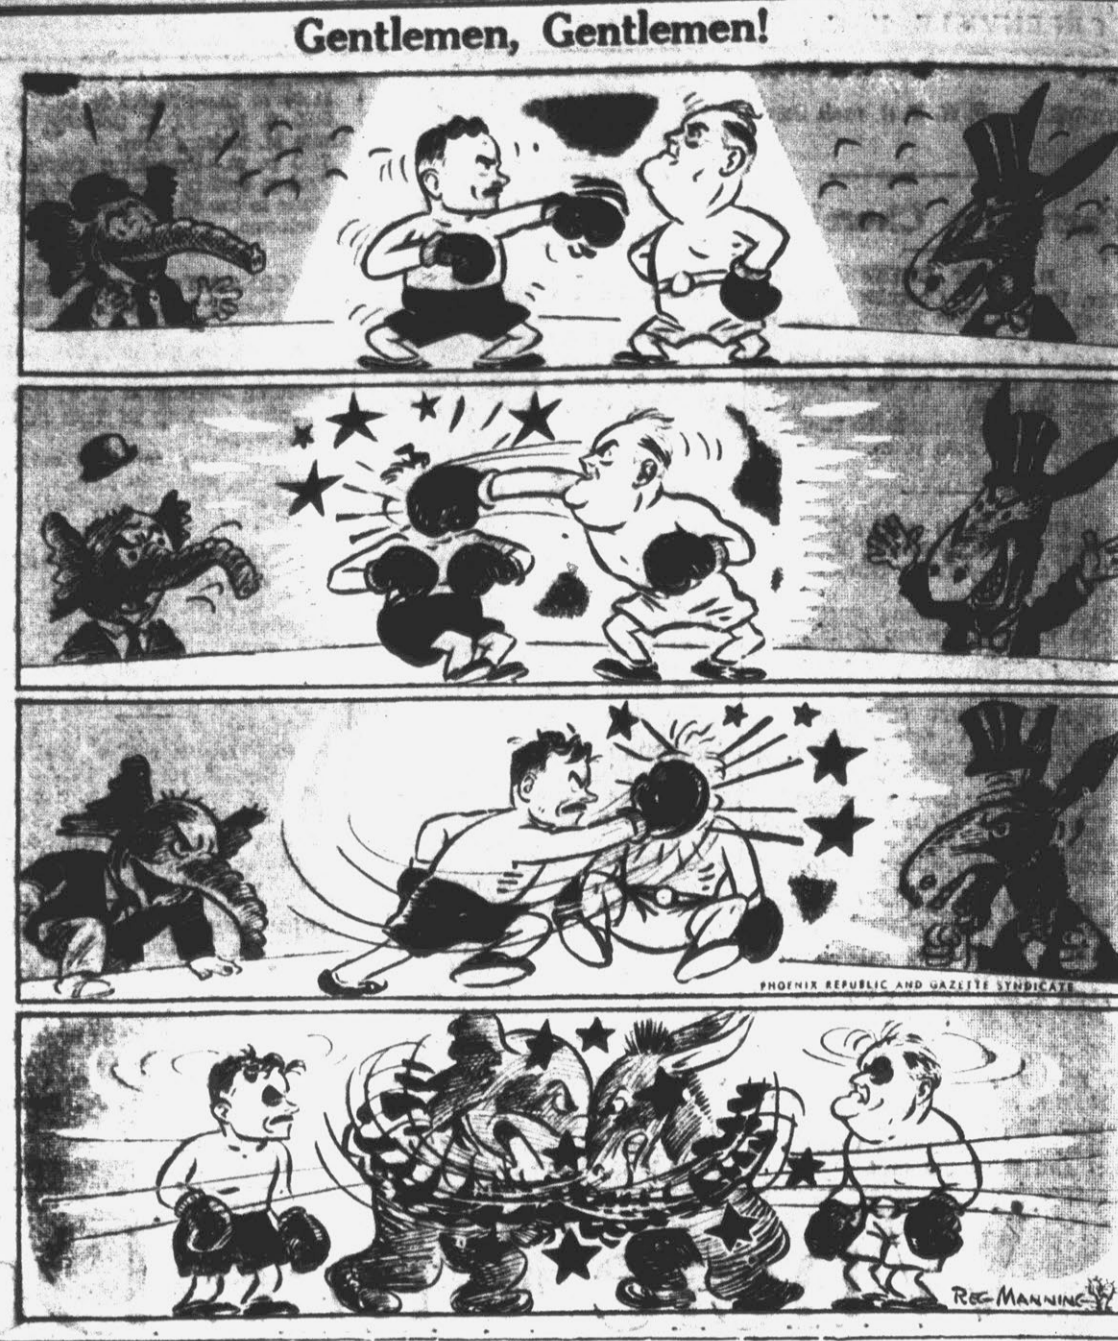

The Italian prisoner situation has caused the army plenty of grief. Most Italians sincerely desire to become active co-belligerents, yet several efforts to establish their status as even non-combatant troops here in the United States have met with considerable civilian criticism, especially when they were allowed a certain amount of "supervised freedom and recreation."

Sending them back to Italy, where they could fight for the Allies or work for rehabilitation, would cause much easier breathing in a lot of army circles.

If this plan is carried out, it will not include known Fascists and recalibrants, of which there are many.

Political observers are watching with keen interest the next few campaign speeches of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. What they are looking for is something more than meets the eye. Has he definitely abandoned the organizational policy of playing ball with the 26 republican governors?

Some think (and among them a number of GOP senators) that prior to his Oklahoma City speech Gov. Dewey had been dipping too much into state situations rather than going all out on national and international problems. Promising the west coast a new industrial empire and greater representation in government may make friends there but will find little favor in the industrial east; while direct attacks on the administration and its policies might find favor in some areas.

The question now is: Will he continue with the broad policy attacks he began at Oklahoma City?

 may prove even a greater barrier than the Siegfried line, is likely to be a major problem and one over which speculation is futile pending developments.

We can say, however, that one of the great prizes for which Eisenhower presumably is headed in the Rhineland city of Dusseldorf, which lies on the river about 24 miles north of Cologne, another goal. Dusseldorf is among the greatest industrial cities of Germany. It's also one of the principal transportation centers of the country, with trunk railways and highways running direct to Berlin.

 The preachers should be of greater help in re-generating youth. Jesus hit the educational nail on the head when He said that we all must be born again in order to amount to anything. I am much interested in what the mental experts are accomplishing at certain state insane asylums. It seems paradoxical that the laboratories in these asylums solve the educational problem of the schools and colleges; but success experiments are pointing that way.

The Babson Institute of 1944 will have a surgical department to operate on the glands and a dietary kitchen to supply certain students with needed minerals which they lack because of their home soil conditions. I am told that dumping and Canadians holding the spot of land running to the islands lost the initiative at least temporarily.

Troops that landed on the south bank of the Schelde River meanwhile hit south another 2,000 yards, more than a mile, and now were only 4,000 yards from joining other Canadians holding a bridgehead over the Leopold canal.

Americans in France gained ground in the Moselotte River bend southeast of Epinal despite heavy resistance, and struck over rugged terrain to near Cornimont, 22 miles from Epinal, the headquarters bulletin said.

Pressure was maintained from three sides on the town of Le Thillot, 15 miles above Belfort. Elsewhere in the Vosges foothills there was "vigorous patrolling" and artillery fire, the communique added.

(A British broadcast heard by OWI said Germans in the French ports of La Rochelle, La Palisse, St. Nazaire, and Royan were being supplied by air. It estimated the number of troops in these ports at 60,000.)

Allied fighters and fighterbombers ranged the whole northern end of the front in support of ground troops.

Both sides were increasing pressure all along the eastern front, and especially in the Aachen area.

Report Of Health Office September

Following is County Health Officer N. Thomas Smetter's report for September, made to the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society:

The contagious disease situation was about normal with the exception that we had two cases of polio making a total of four for the year.

The monthly tuberculosis clinics held at several points in the County and conducted by local physicians is gaining in popularity. The October clinic will be held Friday, October 13th, in Dr. Moore's Office in Winterville.

The State-County monthly orthopedic clinic had an attendance of 33 patients. This clinic always runs at full capacity.

The maternal and infant clinics had an attendance of 80 patients while the venereal disease clinics had an attendance of 1243 patients. The attendance at both clinics was much below normal.

The sanitation program for the month consisted chiefly of cafe, meat market, and dairy inspections with much attention being given to the sanitary inspection of the school lunch rooms.

There is one item I am pleased to call your attention to; and that is, that in so far as our information goes, this is the first year in the history of the department that we reached the month of October without a case of typhoid fever.

The money you gave last year helped give the boys the tonic of entertainment... a personal appearance by Jack Benny in Africa... by Gary Cooper in the South Seas... and by lovely women stars in remote places where just the sight of a feminine face is enough to make up for weeks and months of loneliness and isolation.

Your dollars made possible the U.S.O.—in addition to many other great services at home and abroad—3,000 U.S.O. clubs and U.S.O. Camp Shows.

The job is bigger this year... much bigger. Won't you be bigger than ever this year, too, and give generously?

in Greenville, S. C., Thursday, and that "Rip" Hodges of Wilson, member of Atlantic Christian College faculty, had been elected lieutenant-governor of Division 7.

Meeting Lieut. Gov. Don Cowley, Dick Bundy, Dr. J. M. Barrett and Ed Rawl, who were delegates to the convention, made a fine report and stated that the local club won a number of prizes and that attendance had increased 10 per cent. President Dick Bundy presided last night. Dave Evans had charge of the program.

Pitt County Chairman of the United War Fund drive Sam Underwood, Jr., Attorney Burt James and famous war correspondent Quentin Reynolds had messages endorsing the war fund drive and enumerated much of the good work being done for war relief. Ed Rawl projected Reynolds' "Memo to G. I. Joe" on a screen, showing where the money is spent and some of the Allied forces in battle action.

Burt James reviewed the history of the local Kiwanis Club, called the names of many of its leaders in community work and said Kiwanis is a conscious and driving force for good and unselfish community service. A letter from a soldier in a foxhole who lost his life was dramatically interesting. "The world has caught a vision of a better day and we must have faith in the future and keep the faith," James said in conclusion.

Fire Chief George Gardner made an informative talk about fire prevention. Incidentally, the Greenville fire department ranks among the best in the State, it was stated.

A message of sympathy was sent to Mrs. Marie Smith Crute, whose husband, Lieut. William E. Crute, Jr., of Wilson, was killed in battle in the South Pacific.

Hugh Ross was a guest of the club. Ed Bloom led the singing.

Chairman Ed Rawl announced that "Ladies Night" will be observed next Friday night with a supper at the Rotary building and an "unique entertainment" will be held at another place—the name of which is "Who Knows?"

His name was Smith

HE CAME into our office after he had been away for a long time. Almost a year.

He was wearing the uniform of the U.S. Merchant Marine. There were ribbons on his breast.

He opened his mouth to talk to me—and only a mumble came out.

He was drunk, I thought.

But he wasn't drunk. He had been on the run to Murmansk.

He had been bombed, machine-gunned, torpedoed. Not once—several times. Most of his teeth had been bashed out. His hands shook so badly that he could not light a cigarette. His whole body shook in starts and tremors. A slight noise down the corridor made him jump involuntarily.

He was going to a United Seamen's Service rest center, he told me. They would take care of him. Good care of him.

Then he was going back... going back to face again the things that had shattered him. Going back... for the duration.

As he talked, I was glad that I had given to United Seamen's Service through our local community campaign last year. I wished I had given more.

Sitting face to face with him, and multiplying his need by thousands and thousands, I resolved that I would give more than ever this year. Remember Smith when you give, too, won't you?

Green Phantoms Defeat Tarboro By Score Of 33 To 0

Large Crowd Witnesses Local's Second Win Out Of Three Starts This Season.

Coming to life after a slow start in the first quarter that ended with Tarboro in possession of the ball on Greenville's 13 yard line, Coach Sam Clark's Green Phantoms scored in every succeeding quarter to pile up a 33 to nothing total against Tarboro High School at Guy Smith stadium here last night. A large crowd together with the GHS band gave support to the locals throughout the game. The contest was well played throughout but the Green strategy and power proved too much for the visitors after the locals had had time to look them over during the first quarter. Practically all the members of the Greenville squad had a chance to get into action before the end of the game.

First Quarter
Greenville won the toss and Sadler of Tarboro, received the kick on the 15 yard line and returned it to the 27. Weeks ran eight yards to the 35. Sadler drove five yards to the 40 for a first down. On the next play Sadler picked up another 40 yards for another first down on Greenville's 40 yard line. Sasser was thrown for a seven yard loss and Tarboro kicked out on the four yard line from its own 40. With Greenville in possession Futrelle made two yards and on the second play Harrington picked up four yards on Greenville goal line kicked out on the 48. Tarboro took over and Sadler was thrown for a yard loss. Greenville received a five yard penalty for offside. Sadler ran 10 yards for a first down and on the next play passed to Hart on the 17 yard line who was downed on the 18. Two Phantom substitutions were: Dall and Clark for Whichard and L. Posey at guard positions. On the next play Tarboro was penalized five yard for offside to be followed on the next play by a five yard penalty against Greenville for the same offense. The quarter ended with the ball in Tarboro's possession on Greenville's 13 yard line. No score.

Second Quarter
Sadler gained seven yards but on the second play Bunting was thrown for a seven yard loss. On the next play Sasser fumbled behind the line of scrimmage and Lupton recovered for Greenville on the 17 yard line. Harrington ran 9 yards and on the next play Leggett gained seven for a first down on the 32 yard line. Futrelle made a yard. (J. White substituted for Bachelor at end). Futrelle ran to the 45 yard line for a first down. Harrington on an attempted pass was downed behind the line for a 10 yard loss. Futrelle kicked to Tarboro's 30 yard line where Tarboro's fumble was recovered for the Phantoms by Lupton, his second recovery during the quarter. Leggett gained seven yards. Perkins picked up two more yards and Futrelle made two for a first down. Perkins smashed through 12 yards to the five yard line. Three more yards gained by Perkins placed the ball on the two yard line. (Bachelor replaced White at end). On the next play Perkins crossed the goal line for the first touchdown of the game. Both sides received five yard penalties for offside before the final play for the extra point failed when Greenville's pass into the end zone was no good. (Phantom substitutions, Whitehurst, Lee and Harrington). The kickoff to Tarboro's 18 yard line was returned to the 32 by Sadler. Failing to gain Tarboro kicked to Greenville's 40 yard line and Futrelle returned it to the 48. Lee ran 12 yards for a first down and on the next play gained three more yards. (Phantom substitutions, Roberts, Mixon and Gibson). An attempted pass by Futrelle to Tarboro's 20 yard line was incomplete. (Perkins replaced Futrelle). Harrington kicked to Tarboro's 20 yard line. An attempted pass by Hart for Tarboro was no good. Tarboro kicked to Greenville's 35 yard where Greenville held the ball at the half. Score Greenville six points.

Third Quarter
Jordan received Tarboro's kickoff on the 28 yard line. Perkins gained 12 yards for a first down. On the next play Perkins gained another six yards. A five yard penalty against Tarboro for offside gave Greenville a first down on Tarboro's 49 yard line. Perkins ran 41 yards to Tarboro's eight yard line. (Perkins was hurt on the play and was replaced by Futrelle). Leggett gained three yards and on the next play went over the goal for Greenville's second touchdown. Jordan's kick for the extra point was low. Sasser received Greenville's kickoff on Tarboro's 25 yard line and returned it seven yards. A pass by Sadler was intercepted for the Phantoms by Williams on the 50 yard line. Harrington made four yards and Futrelle gained seven yards for a first down. Futrelle kicked to Tarboro's 29 yard line. Sasser gained 15 yards for a first down and the game ended with the ball in Tarboro's possession on its own 44 yard line. Score Greenville seven.

more for a first down. Futrelle gained six yards. Harrington passed to Fleming on the 10 yard line who ran over for the third touchdown. Harrington kicked the extra point. (Phantom substitutions, Whichard, L. Posey, Mixon, Lee and Garrett). Sadler received Greenville's kickoff on Tarboro's 15 yard line and ran 11 to the 23. Sadler gained three yards. Bunting made two yards. Tarboro kicked to Greenville's 30 where Futrelle received the ball and ran 70 yards to the goal line. The referee ruled that he stepped out of bounds on the 50 yard line and it was first and 10 for the Greensies at mid-field. A pass by Harrington was received by Lee on the 20-yard line and carried to the 12. On the next play Lee went over for a touchdown. The kick for the extra-point by Harrington was good. (Phantom substitutions, Whitehurst, Sutton, Ward, "X" Sideris and Gibson). Tarboro received the kick on its own 45 yard line as the quarter ended. Score Greenville 20.

JAPS CAPTURE CHINESE CITY

Defenders Of Kwei-ping Killed To Last Man.

Chungking, Oct. 14—(AP)—Kwei-ping, an important town in southern Kwantung province, has fallen to swift driving Japanese forces who killed its defenders to the last man. The Chinese high command announced tonight.

Bitter street fighting preceded its fall. The Japanese poured reinforcements into the position until they outnumbered the defenders approximately four to one. The Chinese battered back the Japanese in violent counterattacks and left the field littered with enemy dead before the end came. There was no specific figure on Chinese dead.

Kwei-ping, 25 miles northwest of Tanchuk, lies at the juncture of the Lau and West rivers, 70 miles southeast of Luichow, important rail city below Kweiin. The Japanese are driving against Luichow in an attempt to outflank Kweiin. Key southeast China defense center, on the south.

The outcome of the battle for Kweiin, key defense center for southern China, will be the turning point of the war with Japan. Gen. Pai Chung-si, deputy chief of staff, said today in an interview on the Kwantung province front, and he predicted that the defenders would make the city China's Stalingrad.

A communique of the U. S. 14th air force said Kwei-ping was "bombed and strafed" and that Japanese positions both north and south of that city were attacked from the air. (This suggested that the enemy had penetrated Kwei-ping itself.)

Gen. Pai, foreseeing violent changes in the world war situation within the next three months, said that "large scale offensives will be started in the Pacific against Japan before the end of the year."

U. S. 14th air force fighters Thursday and Friday attacking enemy concentrations on the West river, destroyed three river steamers and damaged four others. Nineteen barges were destroyed and 40 damaged or destroyed, and 130 loaded troop and supply sampans were hit.

Allied Forces ...

The bombardment of the island of Algina just off Athens in the Gulf of Saronikos on Oct. 12 by the British light cruiser Colombo was announced. The cruiser shelled an enemy battery on the island but there was nothing to indicate whether the Nazis still were manning defenses there.

Small Gain On ...

West of the highway American units captured Mount St. Bambiana. Canadian troops reached the Scio Rigossa canal in the area adjacent to the highway, headquarters said. They pushed back strong enemy rear guards and reached a point within 17 miles of Forli.

Eighth army troops also captured Casale, about two miles southwest of Montiano, the Allied communique said.

Russian Forces ...

The German commander, Col. Gen. Schermer, was reported to have ordered wholesale executions among the wavering troops. Eleven Nazi soldiers were removed from a movie house in Riga and shot in the street for being absent without leave, a Soviet dispatch said.

Several Distinguished Visitors to Moscow

Several distinguished visitors to Moscow heard the victory salute of 24 salvos from 324 of the capital's guns—Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain, Field Marshal Sir Alan Francis Brooke, chief of the British Imperial staff, and Polish Prime Minister Stanislaw Mikolajczyk.

(Although the Russian communique said nothing of a direct attack on German soil in East Prussia, Berlin reported massed Soviet tank assaults on the East Prussian garrison at the port of Memel and a large-scale Red army attack across the Narew river in northern Poland on the lower side of East Prussia.)

While the Riga battle was in progress, the Germans attempted an amphibious strike from the sea at Palanga, on the Baltic coast in western Lithuania 14 miles above Memel, but the Russian communique said Red army planes and artillerymen sank four of 24 barges in which the enemy approached. The communique said hundreds of Germans were killed or drowned.

This strike from the sea appeared to be a German attempt to relieve between 1 and 15 Nazi divisions cut off in western Latvia last Tuesday when Gen. Ivan Bagramian's First Baltic army drove a wedge to the sea just north of Memel.

Meanwhile other Red army forces in the south made steady progress through Hungary and Yugoslavia. In Yugoslavia Marshal Rodion V. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine army was almost a third of the way across than 1,000 American heavy bombers attacked railways marshalling yards and other targets at Cologne today, while other formations of Fortresses and Liberators blasted military objectives in the Saarbrucken and Kaiserlautern areas.

It was the second raid in less than 18 hours on Cologne, German industrial city less than 40 miles east of Aachen on the road to Berlin. British Mosquitos gave it a softening up blow last night.

Very strong forces of Eighth Air Force Thunderbolts and Mustangs, probably numbering between 750 and 1,000 escorted the bombers to and from the targets. Saarbrucken and Kaiserlautern, in the heart of the Saar Valley, also are important western front rail centers.

Before noon the German radio reported Allied bombers over northwestern Germany and Austria. At the same time the Nazi radio
