Allies Get Set For New Drive On Western Front

Americans And British Rocks Germans Back On Meuse Sector; Canadians Push Drive To Clear Antwerp; Slight Gains Registered Along Southern Front.

Western Front As Big Attack Looms

Arrows indicate points of activity on the western front as reports grow that the Allies were preparing mighty assaults before winter sets in.

By ALEX H. SINGLETON London, Oct. 19. (AP)—British Tommies and American armor rocked the German back toward Venlo on the Meuse (Meuse) from the Holland salient today in what appeared to be the preliminaries to an offensive aimed at breaking organized German resistance before Christmas.

West of Antwerp in Holland Canadians forces were less than two miles from the German guns at Breda commanding the sea entrance to the port from the pocket south of the Scheldt.

In Aachen U. S. First army troops again smashing German tank and infantry counterthrusts northeast of the Siegfried Line city, held about half the wrecked city and smashed on into the northwestern quarter where fighters and fighter bombers pinpointed strongpoints ahead of the bazooka and grenade squads.

Coincident with Berlin's report of a savage Russian onslaught against East Prussia's defenses, the German radio declared that the British offensive in East Holland, "in support of the American attack on Arnhem, has increased in violence."

The timing raised the possibility of a grand strategy plan to beat the Nazis by smashing simultaneously at East Prussia, heart of German militarism, while wrecking the Rhine-Ruhr valley, the center of German industry.

An Associated Press war correspondent with the British Second army said U. S. Gen. Sir Miles G. Dempsey's "last night's swift after taking Venlo, had advanced about three and a half miles south toward the railroad town of Amerika. An American armored column was converging at a distance of five miles from the same objective from the east."

The Germans had been eliminated from all but seven square miles of territory west of the Meuse, and the Allies were within 33 miles of Dulsburg in the Ruhr.

Berlin said Dempsey had concentrated strong forces in the area to annihilate the Germans' Meuse bridgehead — an objective which would straighten the line along the Dutch border in preparation for an Allied crossriver assault.

In a desperate effort to avoid being trapped on the West bank, the Germans apparently were falling to (Continued on Page Four)

State Guard Detail Off To Fort Bragg

Capt. Jasper L. Jones and Lieut. W. H. Woolard, Jr., and a detail of Company 4 left Greenville today for Fort Bragg to participate in the annual encampment. Others of the company will leave here under command of Lieut. Robert B. Greene Sunday morning at 4:30. They will be in camp 10 days.

Last night Capt. Jones announced the following promotions in the Greenville company: First sergeant, Godfrey P. Oakley; sergeants, Herman H. Duncan and Burke H. Stancill; corporals, Milley M. Ayscue, William L. Byrd and Richard R. Forrest; privates first class, Erbes Skinner, Daniel R. Seined, Gene T. Skinner, Walker Grey, Owen E. Lowry, Samuel McLawhorn, Lester T. Dickinson, Raymond W. McKenzie and Lester F. Johnson.

Political Battle Turns To International Affairs

Dewey Assails Roosevelt Policies; President to Speak Saturday Night.

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS The White House steered Washington political reporters to the State Department today, indicating that department might have something to say on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's blast last night at what he termed President Roosevelt's "personal secret diplomacy."

Presidential Press Secretary Stephen Early, asked whether any statement would be forthcoming on the Republican nominee's New York address, replied:

"Since the remarks last night had to do with foreign policy, I think the State Department might have something to say. I would look over that today."

At the same time, Early confirmed that Mr. Roosevelt will carry his fourth term speaking campaign to Boston, but he declined to name a date. Published reports have mentioned November 4—the day on which Dewey is holding a Madison Square Garden rally in New York City.

British Capture Jap Burma Base

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Ceylon, Oct. 19. (AU)—British troops advancing into western Burma have captured the Japanese base at Tiddim, from which enemy forces launched their abortive invasion of India early this year. Allied headquarters announced today.

The British have been closing in slowly on Tiddim for several weeks after pursuing the retreating Japanese 100 miles southward from Imphal in northeastern Burma, which the enemy attempted unsuccessfully to seize.

The fate of the Tiddim garrison was not immediately disclosed. Small British forces, however, have been operating along the Japanese escape route to the south after filtering through the jungles.

The Japanese had made their first determined stand at Tiddim since starting their retreat from India at Bishapur. They were aided in their defense of the base—which they had been building up since November, 1943—by the terrain and by moonsoon conditions.

STORM HEADS UP THE COAST

Hurricane Warnings As Far North As Hatteras.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 19. (AP)—The Atlantic Coastline from Daytona Beach to Cape Hatteras, N. C., was threatened today by a severe tropical hurricane that struck the Florida coast before dawn and headed rapidly across the state toward Jacksonville.

The weather bureau reported at 10 a. m. that hurricane warnings had been hoisted from Daytona to Cape Hatteras in anticipation of winds of 60 to 80 miles an hour velocity.

The blow was moving across state at a rate of 15 to 20 miles an hour and will pass into the Atlantic near Jacksonville.

No loss of life or casualties were reported from the hurricane which earlier caused perhaps a dozen deaths, injured between 300 and 400 persons and sank at least three small vessels in Cuba.

The storm swung around Key West last night, moved up the Florida west coast and turned inland just east of Tampa.

Winds up to 100 miles an hour caused some property damage in the Tampa area and the city was warned to expect another hard blow later today. St. Petersburg came through with no heavy damage reported.

A 10:30 a. m. advisory warned persons on low exposed beaches from Daytona Beach northward to seek high ground, as tides will be considerably above normal.

Nazi Garrison Gives Up Fight

Rome, Oct. 19. (AP)—The Nazi garrison on Santorin island, 70 miles north of Crete in the Sea of Candia, surrendered yesterday to the British cruiser Ajax. Allied headquarters announced today.

The naval command said that carrier planes sweeping in from the Aegean heavily attacked enemy transport in the vicinity of Volos, 35 miles southeast of Larissa on the Greek mainland. The same planes also took a heavy toll of enemy shipping in the Sporades islands in the Aegean northeast of Athens.

A German armored vessel containing 200 German infantrymen was sunk in the same area October 16 by H. M. S. Argonaut while the destroyer Tergantant accounted for a Sierbe ferry loaded with enemy equipment. Some survivors were picked up.

In the Volos area the naval planes were credited with destruction of three locomotives and 36 trucks. An additional locomotive, four armored cars and three barges were damaged.

Six enemy vessels were destroyed and another merchant ship set afire October 17 off Lemnos, southeast of Salonika, the naval command announced. Twenty smaller enemy craft were disposed of in the same region.

Storm Damage In Cuba Heavy

Havana, Oct. 19. (AP)—Authorities today began planning a relief expedition which would provide food for western Cuba, where the population faced serious shortages in the wake of a hurricane.

The storm destroyed $500,000 worth of food imported from the United States and stored in the United Fruit Company warehouse. The U. S. embassy estimated the food loss, in stores, warehouses and fields, exceeded $3,000,000.

American Forces Reported Invading The Philippines

Nazis Falling Back In East Prussia Before Red Drive

Berlin Radio Announces German Evacuation Of Border Town As Russian Tanks Sweep Forward.

London, Oct. 19. (AP)—Russian forces backed by 500 tanks have penetrated well into East Prussia where the German border town of Eydkuhnen has been evacuated, the Berlin radio said today.

The deepest Russian penetration "was in the Eydkuhnen area 37 miles east of Insterburg and the Red army had passed this town, Berlin said. "The Russians have advanced further on German soil."

The German communique acknowledged loss of the town but insisted that a breakthrough had been averted.

Tremendous infantry and tank forces were being hurled against the homeland of the Junker generals to "achieve a grand scale breakthrough at all costs," the enemy said.

The front was widened from 30 to 45 miles overnight with the Russians extending their attacks to the area of Suwalki, center of a triangle which Hitler annexed from Poland to East Prussia in 1939.

The enemy admission came within hours after the Russians announced an invasion of Czechoslovakia in the south on a 171-mile front, plunging through the main Carpathian mountain passes to a junction with other Russian army groups driving through Transylvania and Hungary.

The German communique said 250 Russian tanks had been disabled in the three day battle at the edge of East Prussia, a campaign not yet announced by the Kremlin. Strong Russian attacks were reported west of Riga and southeast of the Latvian escape port of Liepaja, through which remnants of perhaps ten trapped German divisions in the Baltic must attempt an escape. Beyond Petsamo, the German command reported heavy fighting on the Arctic road leading into the frozen tundras of northern Norway.

Berlin tacitly acknowledged in yesterday's communique that the great new Russian offensive had plunged across the East Prussia border and reached another frontier town of Schirwindt, nine miles northeast of Eydkuhnen. Moscow has not yet announced the drive.

Airmen Pound German Cities

London, Oct. 19. (AP)—A Thousand or more American heavy bombers attacked important military objectives today in the Mainz, Ludwigshafen and Mannheim areas of southwest Germany.

Some 700 fighters flew with the Flying Fortresses and Liberators. The three cities on the Rhine have large rail yards and numerous war industries including armored vehicle works, ordnance and oil depots and chemical plants. Mannheim was hit by Mosquito bombers last night, while others of the wooden craft bombed Hannover.

The armada flew through a heavy overcast. It was the first time in six days that U. S. Eighth air force attacks have been directed beyond the Rhineland city of Cologne, 40 miles from the battle of Aachen.

Mainz is a city of 150,000; Ludwigshafen 144,000 and Mannheim 284,000. Night fliers bombed several unidentified objectives in western Germany.

A United States communique said 10 heavy bombers and 23 fighters were lost yesterday in attacks on the northwest German communications centers of Cologne and Kassel.

Boy Scouts Aiding Search For Officer

Raeford, Oct. 19. (AP)—Boy Scouts took up the hunt for clues today in the mysterious case of Major Robert H. Clark, New Jersey army officer who disappeared last March 17 while driving from Raleigh to Fort Bragg.

Police officers yesterday scoured the area around the spot where Clark's cream colored coupe was found Monday carefully concealed with army blankets and pine brush in a wood 10 miles from camp Mackall.

Invasion Of Philippines?

The Jap high command announced today that American forces have invaded the Leyte Gulf area in the central Philippines. The report stated that the American warships entered the area Tuesday and had been bombarding the coast since yesterday.

Victory In Europe This Year Is Still Possible

Success Hinges On Allies Turning Antwerp And Warsaw To Their Own Use.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER Washington, Oct. 19. (AP)—The possibility of victory in Europe this year will very likely be decided by the speed with which Allied armies can turn to their own use the two great strategic keys to Hitler's fortress Germany—the Dutch port city of Antwerp and Poland's devastated capital, Warsaw.

Full use of the unloading facilities of Antwerp could solve much of the western front supply problem and support a crushing thrust into the Reich over the shortest, best route to Berlin.

Antwerp is in Allied hands but enemy guns still dominate its approaches, barring the way to shipping. Clearing those approaches is conceded by military men here to be one of the top-priority jobs on the western front.

Unless they are cleared very promptly it appears highly improbable that the Allies can muster full strength against all the enemy's vulnerable points for multiple heavy (Continued on page seven)

Flying Bombs Hit Town In England

London, Oct. 19. (AP)—Heavy casualties were reported today in a small town in southern England which suffered one of its worst blows of the war as the Germans continued their flying bomb attacks for the eighth successive night.

An entire row of houses in the community was destroyed by a robot which plowed into the earth after being hit by anti-aircraft fire. Rescue workers still were digging in the ruins this morning for dead and injured, but the total number of casualties remained uncertain.

Flying bombs also fell in other scattered areas. In some districts lightning-like flashes lit up the sky—seen far beyond the range of the sound of the explosion.

Speculation developed whether the Nazis were experimenting with some new type explosive as the criss-cross flashes were different from those to which Britons have become accustomed.

Tokyo Reports Landings In Leyte Gulf Area Of Central Philippines Following Bombardment By American Warships; Carrier-Borne Airmen Continue To Pound Japs.

(By The Associated Press) U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 19.—American forces have landed in the Philippines, Tokyo radio reported today, climaxing the steady pounding by Allied naval and air might which has knocked out more than 900 enemy planes, close to 200 ships and more than 150 smaller craft since October 9.

The Japanese announcement said the invasion forces had landed Tuesday on tiny Suluan island at the mouth of Leyte Gulf, about 415 miles southeast of Manila, and that coastal areas were being subjected to an aerial and naval bombardment which commenced Wednesday afternoon.

(The Japanese announcement was without confirmation from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters, only Allied source for such information.)

After crumbing the Ryukyus-Formosa line of reinforcement last week, Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., has concentrated his firepower on the invasion-menaced Philippines, breaking radio silence only briefly to pass through fragmentary accounts of the momentous operations.

On the basis of admittedly preliminary reports, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced that seven enemy ships and 19 planes—including the lone plane encountered in the sky—were bagged yesterday in attacks on Luzon. Then he added:

"Action is continuing and further details will be released as they become available."

Daily since Sunday, Nimitz has referred to "continuing" raids on the Philippines while confining the reports to terse preliminary ones.

The 16 planes were added to a total of 915 which Nimitz, in the same communique, said were destroyed October 9-15 by carrier aircraft. Even that total was "based upon still incomplete reports."

Emphasizing the fleet's ability, during prolonged absence from base, to defend itself as well as deal out punishment, Nimitz said 236 Japanese aircraft were shot down "in the vicinity of our fleet and 40 were knocked down by anti-aircraft fire."

Another 269 were blasted from the skies over the targets, the remainder smashed on the ground.

He listed American losses through October 15 as 21 planes, 31 pilots, 21 air crewmen. He previously had acknowledged ship damage to two "medium" warships, contrasting with extravagant Japanese claims which prompted that nation to (Continued on page four)

Want Snapshots Of Places In Japan

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 19. (AP)—The Sixth Naval District public relations office has issued an appeal to North and South Carolina citizens for snapshots and photographs taken on the Japanese mainland or on islands of their war empire.

The photographs are needed by military strategists as invasion plans are formulated, the P. R. said. Pictures should be sent to Naval Intelligence in Charleston, Wilmington, N. C., Greensboro, N. C., Spartanburg, S. C., or Durham, N. C.

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 19. (AP)—American towns and cities are planning now for memorials to World War II veterans, living and dead.

Hundreds are thinking of memorials with a double purpose: to honor the veterans and give useful service to the generations coming after them.

These memorials which can be used by the living are called "living memorials. There is great emphasis on that type.

Americans have seen memorials to veterans of other wars: men on horseback, heaped cannon balls, moldy cannon on a courthouse lawn.

After the last war living memorials began to spring up across the country. Here are some which the Federal Security Agency says are being considered now:

Auditoriums, convention halls, schools for special purposes, hospitals, research institutions, band shells, open air theaters, school forests, community forests, camping areas, picnic grounds, recreation parks, beaches, swimming pools, camping areas, golf courses, baseball and football parks, playgrounds. There seems to have been a great surge of interest in memorials recently, now that the German phase of the war is heading toward a close.

In the past three months FSA says it has received more than 1,000 inquiries about youth centers alone. They are intended as World II memorials but will serve the young people of today and tomorrow.

These inquiries are in addition to hundreds asking about other plans, particularly community centers and recreation grounds.

The FSA has 12 regional offices with a field staff of perhaps 100 men, specialists in recreation facilities. They can be of help.

Tom Bowlette, U. S. N. R., of Camp Peary, Va. is at home for a few days to visit his mother Mrs. C. B. Bowlette.

A. A. U. W. Meets.

"The whole trend of history is toward the super-state," declared W. Kenneth Christian of the college faculty, speaking at the dinner meeting of the A. A. U. W. last night. "The English-speaking minority of the world must bend every energy to helping broaden the bases of democracy to guarantee equity for all. It is not to be overwhelmed by opposing cultures of the great majorities in such a state."

Mr. Christian was speaking at the first meeting of the year of the A. A. U. W., a supper meeting at the Proctor Hotel attended by fifty members, prospective members and other guests, on the topic "The Challenge of the Peace." A student and teacher of both English and History, he is especially interested in current trends in world events.

Before the program of the evening, the president, Mrs. Ethel R. Watters, announced that the annual state meeting of the organization had been cancelled because of transportation difficulties. Then, recognizing the various committees chairmen, she called on each for a few words about plans for the year. In response to the membership committee, Miss Lella Higgs pointed out that no woman eligible need wait for a personal invitation to join the A. A. U. W., that all college women with approved degrees from educational institutions approved by the A. A. U. W. are eligible for national membership, and any who have attended these institutions for two years are eligible for associate or local membership. All such, she said, can easily get in touch with her at her home.

Introduced by Miss Agnes Pulllove as a newcomer to the college English department and the section, the speaker responded with a word of appreciation for the hospitality of the South men, with in Greenville. Then laying down his basic premises the idea that a military victory will not guarantee peace, that peace cannot be written into a treaty but must be built, that no nation can expect to return after the war to its earlier way of life, and that to meet the challenge of the new time, men must enlarge their ideas and life their ideals to new levels, he went on to point out the great change in man's concepts of justice and time in the last century and the resulting divergence between the fixed political boundaries and the ever-broadening economic boundaries of nations. The latter, he said, overlap in such a way that only political adjustment on an international scale can solve the problem thus posed.

"Though men are being brought into a single world economy," he declared, "they have not developed a corresponding unity in their ways—indeed, are more and more drawn into competing political and cultural units without any understanding of each other."

He closed by pointing out the importance of the democratic process, and to the development of an ethic that is world-wide, knows no economic or racial lines, and provides equity for all. This calls for a greater vision, said the speaker, than we have yet had and a higher and more universal type of manhood and womanhood.

Guests and prospective members present included Mrs. Christian, Miss Jean McIver Lane, Mrs. Karl V. Gilbert, Mrs. Julia Fowler, Mrs. Wendell Smiley, Miss Nell Matheson, and Mrs. R. E. Hardaway.

Chatham Book Club. The Chatham Book Club held a delightful meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Adams. Colorful Mexican sunflowers added to the attractiveness of the house.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Adams presided over a short business session and books were exchanged. We welcomed with pleasure our two new members, Mrs. C. A. Bowen and Mrs. S. H. Williams.

Mrs. Beard had charge of the program for the afternoon and introduced Rev. A. Hartwell Campbell, who gave us, in a most interesting talk, a review of "The Nazarene." A religious novel, written by Sholem Asch from an historical point of view, it reveals in its pages the person of Jesus through contact with its various characters. We felt very much indebted to Rev. Campbell for his splendid presentation.

Mrs. Adams, assisted by Mrs. Beard and Mrs. Conway, served a delicious dessert course with coffee.

To Present Play

The first production of the year of the Chi Pi Players of East Carolina Teachers' College, producers of such hits as "Claudia," "Ladies in Retirement," and "Wuthering Heights," will be the intensely dramatic mystery "A Murder Has Been Arranged," written by Emylin Williams, author of such successes as "Night Must Fall." The club, in a meeting last night, decided that November 24th and 25th should be set as the days of presentation, and immediately started planning for the production. Tryouts will be held sometime next week, and rehearsals begin as soon as the cast is chosen.

Mr. Kenneth Christian, recent addition of the English Department, who will direct the production, served as chairman of the play selection committee. He was assisted by Ethel Smith, senior, and Jimmy Warren sophomore. After a careful study of several days, "A Murder Has Been Arranged" was finally chosen.

I am looking forward to directing the play," stated Mr. Christian.

Chapter 28

Susan hurried upstairs to the office, her heart beating fast. She could see Julie and Erich through Thorny's open door.

"Did you hear the news over the radio?" she cried.

"No," Thorny looked up from the legal form he was reading, "but Joe Corliss called. His wife was tuned in."

"Isn't it wonderful?"

Erich said a little satirically, "That I didn't murder him?"

"No, darling. That you could disguise your fingerprints and fool the experts."

Julie laughed. "That isn't all the good news, dear." She turned toward Erich. But Erich was engaged in a private game with the curtain cord. Thorny shoved the sheet of papers he had been reading across his desk.

Susan scanned the typewritten pages. When she looked up her eyes were stary, misted with quick tears. Erich was watching her. She went over to him and kissed him. "They want it—the Navy wants your paint!"

Erich's arms closed around her, but almost at once dropped back to his sides. His eyes evaded hers.

"Ironic, isn't it?" he grinned. "A few days ago that contract would have opened the factory."

"It still will," Susan argued.

He raised an eyebrow. "You think that fingerprint stuff is going to clear me with this town? After all Grandfather had no actual proof against him either?"

"But you forget, Erich," Julie cried, "that anchor holds the fingerprints of the real murderer!"

"That's a help," said Erich, "providing the murderer has a police record or we round up an actual suspect."

Thorny picked up a pen and traced it tentatively across the surface of his blotter. He's got something there," he growled. "In the meantime, the extension's okay?"

"It's okay," said Susan.

Erich was playing with the curtain cord again. "You mean our extension with the railroad company's still good? You didn't fight with Chick Malloy?"

Susan jolted, spurred for time. "Chick Malloy?"

"You had lunch with him, didn't you?"

Only then did Erich's sardonic unhappy mood make sense to her. "How did you know I had lunch with him?"

"Have you lost faith in the vigilance of your townsmen?"

Susan took a deep breath of exasperation. "It's a wonderful town."

"Wonderful," said Julie. "Thorny, could I see you outside a minute?"

She smiled at Susan as they passed, a gay little smile. Under its impetus, Susan wasted no time.

"Darling, you promised me once you wouldn't let the town put Chick Malloy between us."

Erich turned. There was that clean-cut, hard jawline that she loved and was a little afraid of. He said, "It isn't the town, Susan. It's the confounded logic of the thing. You've been absorbed all your life in the mystery of your father's death. I come along. We work it out together. A moment of shared interest. You just mistook it for love."

Susan glared at him. "When men get scientific on the subject of love," she said, "it's pathetic."

"Chick Malloy is a chance in a million."

"Make up your mind. Is it love or opportunity you crave for me?"

"Susan, can't you be serious?"

"Now you're getting some place."

Susan put her arms around his neck and kissed him slowly and seriously. Halfway through it he put his arms around her and pulled her close. She knew she'd won.

Thorny and Julie returned at the sound of their laughter.

Jonathan appeared in the open door at that minute. He looked hot and crestfallen. Erich's black shoes were in his hand.

"Ready to go home?" Julie asked him.

He nodded dully. "Reckon you all will hafta spend a shoe stamp, Mr. Erich, huh." He held up the shoes for Erich's inspection. "Scoppy says nothin' take off that paint."

Erich laughed. "If I'd known you were taking those, I could have spared Scoppy his trouble. That's my paint. Nothing will take it off. That's why the Navy's buying it."

"Yesuh. Scoppy say he had another pair just like it this week. If he runs into many more he'll be plumb wore out. He—"

Erich was suddenly staring fixedly at the old Negro. "He had another pair?" he snapped. "Whose?"

Jonathan looked bewildered. He scratched his head with a long black finger, finally shrugged. "Don't recall," he mentioned. Mr. Erich, huh—"

"Well find out!" Erich shouted. "Go get Scoppy. Bring him over to the Constable's office!"

Thorny cried, "Great day, Erich! You mean the guy who has that paint on his shoes—"

"Is the guy who put Kelso's body in my half-dry boat," said Erich. "The murderer."

Jonathan let out a yelp and disappeared on a lumbering run. Erich snatched up the shoes and started out, Susan, Julie and Thorny following.

The Constable was excited, mostly because none of the city guys were around. He'd get full credit. "You're sure nobody else had this paint?" he asked Erich anxiously.

"You can send the shoes to an analytical chemist," Erich assured him. "There isn't another paint with the same ingredients."

"By Jove!" The Constable pounded Erich on the shoulder. "I think we've broken the case!"

Thorny winked at Julie and Susan but both of them were too happy to see the humor. The door opened and Jonathan limped in. Erich sent him a sharp look.

"Where's Scoppy?"

Jonathan groaned. "I didn't get 'im. Mr. Erich, huh," he panted. "When ah told him he was wanted at the Constable's office about the murderer's shoes he jest lit out. I ran till my hip pockets was scoppin' gravel but I couldn't catch him. I never did see anyone move quite so fast!"

Strength FOR THE DAY
 By EARL L. DOUGLAS

TURNING TROUBLE INTO ASSETS
 Some people collapse under the burdens of life others use them as a springboard to greater achievement.

Charles Dickens wrote novels which brought about a social revolution in England. To his writings can be definitely attributed the abolition of child labor, and the setting up of better standards of education in what the English choose to call their public schools but which we in this country call private schools.

Dickens's father had languished in a debtor's prison. When the son came to maturity, he lashed out against this cruel and ridiculous treatment of debtors. At ten years of age, Charles Dickens was sent into a factory to work twelve hours a day pasting labels on bottles. The recollection of a lost childhood haunted him through life and put bitterness into his words as he denounced the wasting of England's youth in factory and mine.

Dickens was beaten within an inch of his life by a sadistic school master, and the recollection of his unhappy school days formed the basis of his novel Nicholas Nickleby.

Not everyone, of course, can arise from the troubles of life and challenge the evils out of which they grew with the eloquence and skill of a Dickens. But everybody can make his troubles count for better living and for a better world.

AMERICA IN WARTIME
 By JACK STINNETT

Washington — When Congress comes back after the election recess, one thing almost certain to come up is a move to make the WACS, WAVES, SPARS and women Marines a permanent part of the armed forces with an Annapolis or West Point of their own.

Rep. Eugene Cox (D-Ga.), already has introduced a bill which would pave the way to such a peacetime departure for the armed forces.

Congressman Cox makes no effort to outline the program himself. He seeks to create a commission of 15 members authorized to prepare a comprehensive plan for the establishment, maintenance and operation of a women's military, naval and Coast Guard academy where women would be trained as commissioned officers to serve in those branches of the armed forces.

The commission would be composed of five members appointed by the president of the Senate; five by the Speaker of the House and five by the President.

Cox specifies that the commission shall report to Congress not later than April 1, 1945, with a suggested location of the academy, length of course, methods of appointment, pay and a suggestion on the important matter of whether the women should be appointed commissioned officers in the regular force or officers in permanent reserve or organizations in the various services.

One important factor in the Cox bill is that if it resulted in a law along the lines set forth, it not only would set up military careers for women, but would be the first unification of the armed forces; a pattern perhaps for the West Point and Annapolis of tomorrow, when prospective officers might spend interchangeable years under a unified command.

Members of all services have praised the work of various women's corps highly on numerous occasions. Except for a few old diehards who are rapidly going into the discard as the war progresses, it isn't believed here that any of the services would seek to block a peacetime women's corps.

"We have come to realize in this war," says Rep. Cox, "by reason of the outstanding service rendered by the WACS, WAVES, Marines and SPARS, as well as the Army and Navy nursing corps (who would not be trained at the proposed academy) that women can discharge a great many of the scientific and clerical duties, not to say physical and mechanical duties, that heretofore have kept able-bodied men behind the battle-fronts at home.

"It's idle now even to speculate about whether women have the capacity and equipment for active participation in war. It is already a proven fact," says Cox.

The program fits into the picture of universal military training which is certain to become one of the big postwar congressional battles.

 trition of Japanese supply lines, to a less determined point than evidenced in the Solomons and New Guinea.

Once recovered as a base for further operations against Japan, the Philippines will prove the key to the whole Pacific war. The resources of the Indies, Sumatra and Malaya on which the Japanese have depended will be largely cut off. In three years America, fighting two wars either of which would have staggered the historians of the past, will have returned the Pacific situation almost to its starting point. We know now that we can't "whip the Japs in ninety days" as some thought before Pearl Harbor. But we also know that if MacArthur has Thanksgiving dinner in Manila, Japanese thanksgivings will be all over.

But suppose a town wishes to build a living memorial, such as a community or recreation center.

The FSA can give advice on a recreation center because he has a lot of wartime experience in that field.

He can also suggest that the town get from FSA a few typical plans of community buildings which serve many purposes. The plans are out-

4-H Style Review
Nell McGlohon, from the Winter-4-H Club was one among the three girls placed in the blue ribbon group at the 4-H Dress Review that was held for this district in Wilson on Monday, October 9. Nell's costume consisted of a coat, bag, dress, and slip made by her under the supervision of Ruth Bizzell, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent. The coat is a full length sport coat of dark brown woolen material. From the scraps left from making the coat the matching drawing room dress was made. The dress is made of tan light weight wool material; simple in design, trimmed with the dark brown wool and buttons. The slip is tailored and made of a white rayon material. With this costume Nell won the 4-H District Contest will enable her to enter the State Dress Review.

The Junior Sewing Class at East Carolina Teachers College with the help of Miss Pearl Chapman, Clothing Instructor, were the judges at the Pitt County 4-H Style Review held in the College classroom on Friday afternoon, October 6. Only three contestants entered this review due to the fact that this has been such a busy summer for all boys and girls. Since all the contestants had nice costumes all were placed in the County blue ribbon group and received a reward. However, a first, second and third best were selected. They are as follows: Nell McGlohon, Winter-4-H Club, first place; Jane Tyson, Red Oak Club, second place; Vera Lee Planagan, Farmville Club, third place.

County Council Meets
The officers of the Pitt County Home Demonstration Clubs for the coming year were installed at an impressive candle lighting service at the Council meeting held in the auditorium of the Memorial Baptist Church on Wednesday afternoon. The service was led by the Home Agent with Mrs. Laurie Ellis, President of the Pitt County Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs, Miss Ruth Bizzell, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent, and all old and new officers of the 18 clubs participating. Mrs. J. Paul Davenport, President of the Pictolus Club rendered soft organ music through out the service.

Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker, Treasurer of the Liaison Committee of the Country Women of the World, made a talk on the work of the committee and ask every Home Demonstration Club member in Pitt County to contribute one penny for Tentative plans for Achievement Day to be held in November were made.

Mrs. Laurie Ellis, President, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Amos Evans was Secretary.

Home Demonstration Club Meetings
This Week
The Stokes Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. J. L. Perkins with Miss Cordella Perkins, joint hostess. Mrs. J. B. Congleton, President, presided over the short business session. Miss Joyner led a discussion on "Using The Clothes You Have For The Family." Delicious peach short cake was served by the hostesses.

The topic of the program for the Farmville Club which met also this week was "The Freezer Locker and How It Can Be Used By The Farm Family." Mr. Sam C. Winchester, Assistant County Agent, presented the program by the showing of a film. With an establishment of a Freezer Locker Plant in the Farmville Community Club members were delighted to have the opportunity to learn the value of such to the family. Mrs. B. R. Fields, Health Leader for the Club gave a most interesting talk on "It's Good Business To Keep Well." The Farmville Club voted to be the Hostess Club on Achievement Day. After delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses. Mrs. C. B. Joyner and Mrs. A. C. Caraway, the Club enjoyed packing Christmas boxes for the fifteen sons of Club members in the Service.

Ballards Home Demonstration Club held its monthly meeting with Mrs. E. M. Tyson. In the absence of the President, Mrs. A. C. Turnage, Mrs. L. E. Jones, presided. After the business session, Mrs. S. C. Winchester, Assistant County Agent, showed a film on Freezer Locker. All the members present thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated this movie being shown since several members have rented lockers in the plant that is to be established in Farmville. Following the movie, Ruth Bizzell, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent, gave a demonstration on "Save The Food You Store." The hostesses served cold drinks with cookies.

The regular monthly meeting of the Bethel Home Demonstration Club was held this month at the home of Mrs. E. O. Burroughs with a total of ten members present. Following the business session the demonstration for the month, Using What You Have" was given by Ruth Bizzell, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent. Mrs. C. M. Burton gave a very interesting book review on "Lady Randolph." This is the third book review given by Mrs. Burton this year, therefore she will receive a book certificate on Achievement Day. The hostesses served cold drinks, sandwiches and cookies.

Body Missing Man Found In Pasture

By CHESTER WALSH

The remains of Nathan Whitfield, 51-year-old Negro farm worker of Ayden who had been missing since July 29, were found in a hog pasture on Frank Hart's farm near Ayden yesterday afternoon. The body had practically been devoured by hogs and only the skull and larger bones were found. It was identified by the clothing. There was no evidence of foul play, Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said.

Searchers found the man's skull and leg and arm bones and his cap and clothing scattered over a large area of a hog pasture on Frank Hart's farm near Ayden this afternoon. Whitfield, employed on Jesse Smith's farm, was last seen on the night of July 29. He suffered a light stroke of paralysis some time ago and partially recovered. He is believed to have gone to sleep in the field and died during the night. When he failed to report for work

Monday his employer instituted a search. His disappearance was a mystery until today when a farm worker found the skull and a few bones and Whitfield's clothing and cap scattered over a large area of the pasture, 75 yards from a hard-surfaced highway.

NIGHT COUGHS

are eased, sticky phlegm loosened up, irritated upper breathing passages are soothed and relieved, by rubbing Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest and back at bedtime. Blessed relief as VapoRub PENETRATES to upper bronchial tubes with its special medicinal vapors. STIMULATES chest and back surfaces like a warming poultice. Often by morning most of the misery of the cold is gone! Remember—ONLY VAPORUB Gives You this special double action. It's time-tested, home-proved... the best-known home remedy for relieving miseries of children's colds.

GLORIFY THAT STEW

Chilly evenings call for hot food chock-full of nourishment. Nothing fills this order better than a tasty meat and vegetable stew. The good lean non-fat beef which is so plentiful these days makes delicious, tender, easy-to-make stews. When there is time to glorify the stew, transfer it to a casserole, top with pastry or baking powder biscuits and bake. Result: a dish attractive enough for a company dinner... inexpensive enough for everyday use.

Delicious Stew + Pastry Topping = Meat Pie for Company

1 lb. lean beef, 1/2 cup water, water and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Add vegetables and continue cooking until just tender. Measure liquid, add water to make up to 3 cups and thicken with a paste made of the flour and water. Add B-V which has been dissolved in a small amount of the hot gravy. Add meat and vegetables, mix carefully and transfer to a casserole. Top with pastry and bake in a hot oven, 425° F., for 20 to 25 minutes. Serves 6.
*Left-over cooked meat and vegetables may be combined with left-over gravy or B-V gravy to make this meat pie; or you may use left-over stew.

A WINDOW FOR PEEKING

A "window" was made on this meat pie so you could see the good meat, vegetable and gravy filling. For home use it's easier to cover the whole top of the pie with pastry, cutting a design in the top to allow steam to escape. Make the pastry rich and flaky by using Advance Shortening. And roll it thin if you want your pie to be praised.
Nice thing about a meat pie... you can make the stew the day before, quickly cover with pastry when you come home from work or Red Cross meeting, slide it into the oven and, presto, it's baked by the time the salad's made and the table's ready. If you make pastry mix to keep on hand, it's a simple task.
To make your own Pastry Mix: Sift together thoroughly, 6 cups flour, 2 tsp

Grain Market

Chicago, Oct. 19—(AP)—Grain futures markets turned extremely dull after some of their early losses were recovered in late trading today.

Some of the bullish interest in rye was checked by a Commodity Price change order effective tomorrow and calling for reports on accounts having net position of 25,000 bushels or more in December rye. The previous reporting level was 200,000 bushels.

At the close wheat was 1/2 lower to 3/4, higher than yesterday's finish, December $1.65. Corn was 1/2 to 3/4 lower, December $1.13 1/2. Oats were off 1/4 to 3/4, December 64 1/2. Rye was unchanged to 1/2 lower, December $1.11 1/2. Barley was off 1/4 to 1/2, December $1.05.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 19—(AP)—Cotton futures opened 5 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower.

Light hedge selling was about off-set by mild buying in the cotton futures market as traders awaited further details on the export subsidy program for cotton. There was some switching from the near to distant months.

Noon values were unchanged to 10 cents a bale lower. Dec. 21.85, March 21.82 and May 21.81. Futures closed 5 to 15 cents a bale lower.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 19—(AP)—The stock market reverted to selectivity today, while assorted rails and steel stocks managed to keep on the recovery track, many leaders switched to the losing side.

Volume of around 900,000 shares compared with 908,215 in the previous session. Fractional irregularity ruled near the close.

about his chances of not returning very well. So I feel it is right when I say Fodie is the finest, cleanest, living man or Marine in the organization. He has courage above what can be expected from any normal man. The going was rather difficult from time to time, but he seemed to always have the strength to meet the situation.

In camp he was always ready to give someone a helping hand, and in combat he didn't change. His men (boys as he calls them) practically worship the ground he walks on. If he'd say O.K. men let's go, I believe they'd walk straight into a machine gun. It isn't only the men, the officers feel the same way. We regret that he is leaving us, but we're very happy that he can go home and hope that he stays there for a long time.

I feel that many of Fodie's fine qualities could only come from a nice home and a good family. So it is; that I wish for Fodie and his family much happiness and a Merry Christmas together.

Sincerely,
G. E. MARTIN

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 16 miles of tiny tubes of filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or constant awakenings with smarting and burning sensations when you get up, or feeling wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits a poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, hot palms, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizzy spells.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out the waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Victory In . . .

allows this fall. This would sharply limit what appears to be the grand strategy for a 1944 victory in Europe—final twin offensives by the Russians in the east and the Anglo-American Allied forces in the west before winter closes in.

To this grand strategy many of the present operations are contributing only indirectly in that they (1) maintain pressure on the enemy, (2) continue to wear down his forces, (3) deprive him of the moral support of his satellites and (4) straighten lines, especially on the Soviet front, for the grand push.

The main trend of Russian front events and their significance in the broad picture of the war—often obscure—can now be reported on high authority as having developed in this manner:

The Russian summer campaign paralleled the Anglo-American invasion of Normandy and contributed much to its success. The campaign reached its most advanced point in the suburbs of Warsaw at the end of July. The Germans had determined to hold the city, and counterattacks drove the Russians out.

Subsequently toward the middle of September the Russians made another, limited, try in the Warsaw area and again they suffered a setback or—as some authorities now call it—"a mild defeat." Thus they were stalled on the central front, as their high command apparently had realized from the time of the July reverse, and required much reorganization and supply of forces, which presumably is still going on.

Meanwhile they undertook their cleanup campaigns in the Baltic and Balkans areas. In those it is frankly recognized by officials here that Soviet military interest in maintaining some kind of pressure on the Germans coincided with Soviet political interests, especially in the Balkans. The Balkan campaign, which has been advanced at relatively light cost, became one of opportunity as first Romania, then Bulgaria and finally Hungary fell from the Hitler fringe like overripe apples.

These events put the emphasis on political rather than military measures and prompted many inquiries here as to whether the Russians had suddenly put aside their hope of beating Hitler this year to concentrate on establishing their power in the Balkans.

The political profit accruing to Russia from the Balkans drive is freely admitted here but there is no information to bear out the view that they have forsaken primary military objectives.

On the contrary it is expected that after adequate preparations for a grand scale assault the Allied armies on the eastern front will join with those on the west in a major, unlimited campaign to defeat Hitler this year. But to do so they must take Warsaw.

Part of the increase, the department said, is due to a revised and improved statistical system which permits a more up-to-date picture of the situation. However, there inevitably remains a time lag of about 15 days between actual casualties and the receipt of individual reports for accounting at the War Department.

Of the 384,895 casualties, 75,562 are dead, including those who died of wounds as well as battle-field deaths; 208,392 are wounded (excluding those who died of wounds); 48,444 are missing and 52,537 are captured and interned.

The total of 351,293 casualties announced two weeks ago was divided as follows: 68,568 killed; 189,821 wounded; 45,486 missing and 51,216 prisoners.

The latest navy casualty figure is 68,480, an increase of 2,688 in two weeks.

The comparative navy figures for today and October 5, respectively, are: killed 27,047 and 25,963; wounded 27,268 and 25,586; missing 9,595 and 9,761; prisoners 4,490, unchanged.

They Look to the West

THEY LOOKED to the West for strength of arms . . . for liberation from the yoke of the oppressor.

And still they look. But they look now for food to keep alive the spark of life. They look for food for their children . . . their hope of the future . . . the hope of their unhappy, war-racked lands.

They look for clothing . . . warm clothing to protect them against the dread, sickening chill of coal-less houses.

They look for medicines and vitamins . . . to help them save their wounded, their ill, and their plague-stricken victims.

They look for seed . . . to plant the fallow earth once more . . . to eke out their famine rations of grass and weeds and ersatz, sawdust bread.

They look for hope.

Out of the cradle of liberty they pray that there will come the inspiration to build anew . . . with new rights, new freedoms, new opportunities for themselves.

They have suffered long, and they are weary. We cannot fail them . . . we must not fail them . . . now that a new day is so close at hand.

The things they need . . . food and clothing, medicines and vitamins . . . and hope for the future . . . are all made possible by your contribution this year to your Community War Fund, representing the National War Fund.

Now is the time to open your heart . . . and open your checkbook. Now is the time to give, as you have never given before, that others may have the chance to life, and liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Phantoms Will Play In New Bern Friday Night

Greenies Hope To Avenge Two Defeats By Bears Last Year.

The GHS Phantoms seeking their third grid victory will journey to New Bern, Friday night.

Coach Snag Clark's Flying Phantoms expect to run into stiff opposition Friday night when they meet the New Bern Bears in the Bears' own back yard.

The Phantoms, fresh from victory over Tarboro last Friday night, are expected to be in full strength. No serious injuries occurred in the game last week, and those on the injured list from the week before will be in top shape.

New Bern is known to have a strong team this year. They have lost only one game this season.

In the games last year the Phantoms were defeated twice by the Bears in bitterly fought contests.

All the Phantom squad has worked hard this week and everyone wants a victory to make up for the setbacks last year.

When kickoff time rolls around Friday night, Coach Clark will have his charges tuned up to turn in their third victory. He has not yet announced his starting lineup.

One of the earliest ways of measuring time was by burning a candle or stick.

Marines Play Fast Brand Basketball

In Monday's and Tuesday's games Marine 914 Port Men nosed out 913 Starboard Officers 28-26.

913 Starboard men remained unbeaten in taking their second game from the 914 Sloths 21-12.

Field Operations bettered their standing making it 3-1 in defeating 914 Starboard men 41-24.

A better brand of ball and greater enthusiasm is being displayed as the league season progresses.

the peace, with Republicans and Democrats sharply at odds on which man could best run the job.

And more is yet to come—in a Saturday night speech by President Roosevelt at New York, where his policies in diplomacy were assailed last night by Governor Dewey as resulting in American soldiers "paying in blood."

"I am x x x convinced," Dewey said in a broadcast from the New York Herald Tribune Forum, "that to the extent that we leave our international relations to the personal secret diplomacy of the President, our efforts to secure a lasting peace will fail."

Germans have been terrified "into fanatical resistance and are fighting with the frenzy of despair," he said, because of "our failure to have ready an intelligent program for dealing with invaded Germany."

"Doubt that Dewey, if elected, could 'buck the known and recognized powerful isolationist forces in the Republican party as expressed in Raleigh, by Joseph Daniels, Secretary of the Navy under Woodrow Wilson, Daniels said in a radio talk."

"There is only one great issue before the American people. It is, after victory, to win the peace and undergird it. And only one candidate (President Roosevelt), by his record and forthright consistent pledges, can be trusted to win this goal."

Also on the Herald Tribune Forum were Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn) and Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democratic candidate in California for a seat in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Mrs. Luce spoke of the need of working constantly to maintain peace and said Dewey "has clearly grasped this courageous concept of waging peace."

Mrs. Douglas stressed the need of international cooperation in "this rapidly shrinking world" and continued: "Franklin Roosevelt has long understood this philosophy. He fought for it with all the strength of his magnificent heart."

In Chicago, Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill) said in radio speech that "Mr. Churchill now has found that, instead of being a good horse trader, Mr. Roosevelt is a push-over, and Mr. Stalin has found that out, too. That's why Mr. Stalin is for a fourth straight for Roosevelt."

The Vice Presidential nominees, Democrat Harry S. Truman and Republican John W. Bricker, for the time being stressed matters other than foreign policy.

Truman told an Eugene, Ore., crowd that Dewey travelled to the Pacific Northwest "posing as a liberal, then goes east to tell the Old Guard he is going to repeal all the liberal laws." At Portland, Truman said "We don't want to take a chance on losing the life of a single one" of the service men by switching "to a new commander-in-chief."

Bricker, in a Los Angeles speech saying that the war is being won "often in spite of the New Deal," attacked Truman as "one who is the product of the corrupt Pendergast machine, which preyed upon the people of Kansas City, which stole elections and perverted justice." Bricker was cheered so much by the crowd that he responded with an encore.

An Associated Press survey showed that far more than candidates are to be voted on Nov. 7. In 30 states there are 125 proposed amendments to state constitutions, referenda and initiated measures to be adopted or rejected.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla) journeyed to Kennett, Mo., where he declared that Dewey "has abandoned the role of candidate for president and has become the ruthless, unscrupulous prosecutor attempting to convict Franklin D. Roosevelt as a Communist, a liar and a common crook."

Nazi Falling ...

the major Prussian rail center of Interburg on the Trunk highway and railroad from Kaunas, Lithuania. It is 87 miles east of Konigsberg, capital of East Prussia and a German submarine training station.

Eydtkuhnen is a town of about 5,000 and the first German settlement which the Nazis have abandoned in the East.

"The battle is rising in intensity and taking on greater proportions," the Berlin radio said. "The Russians have brought up most of their forces from Finland and Estonia and flung them into the fray."

The enemy said the drive, under command of the 39-year-old Russian Jewish general, Ivan D. Chernakovsky, was aimed at Interburg. The battle was reported savage all along a 30-mile front from Schirwindt to Kalvarija and Lithuania.

"The Soviets are employing their old tactics of blasting a way for their infantry through German positions with massed use of artillery and bombers," said Col. Ernst Von Hammer, Nazi commentator. He asserted that the defenses of East Prussia were "very elastic and deeply staggered." He said 257 Russian tanks had been destroyed in three days.

The reported breakthrough was north of the wild, Masurian lake country where armies of the Czar sustained a crushing defeat from Von Hindenburg in opening months of the last war.

Germany announced the East Prussia offensive three days ago. The most eastern German province is menaced on the north, east and southeast by Russian army groups, and Berlin has said repeatedly that the grand Russian strategy is to drive to the west of East Prussia to the former free city of Danzig, cutting off the entire province. Russian armies which might strike in that direction, however, have been pinned down on the Narew River north of Warsaw since summer.

The evacuation of Eydtkuhnen, Von Hammer said, "shows that the German command is quite prepared to give further ground, if it gives greater effect to their defenses."

Ocala is now moving north northeastward 20 miles per hour," the advisory continued.

"It is still attended by winds of full hurricane force with gusts up to 100 miles per hour."

Key West, Fla., Oct. 19—(AP)—Six naval vessels were driven aground here by winds and rough seas whipped up by a severe hurricane which passed west of Key West yesterday afternoon.

The navy reported that none was seriously damaged, and that there were no casualties.

Aground were a sub chaser, three patrol chasers, an auxiliary mine sweeper, and coastal auxiliary mine sweeper.

Meanwhile no word came from a navy tug which picked up 21 men from an abandoned lightship. Either three or 41 men were in the tug crew, the number not being known definitely. The tug radioed that she had picked up the men, headed for Key West. Then radio communication was broken.

The navy was hopeful that the tug had turned away from the storm and sought haven in some other port.

The communique said "very heavy fighting" continued on the southern slopes of Monte Belmonte in the highway 65 area. South African troops on the left flank of this sector captured Monte Pezza.

Negro troops of the U. S. 92nd infantry captured Mount Castiglione, an important height overlooking the west coast main highway.

Bad weather again hampered ground operations in most of the sectors and curtailed operations of the Mediterranean Allied air force.

However, fighter bombers attack-
