Furious Fighting Raging In Suburbs Of Budapest

Resistance strengthens as Russians Drive Into And About City From Three Directions; Nazi Prisoners Being Taken At Rate Of 1,000 A Day.

London, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Furious fighting raged in the suburbs of shell-torn Budapest today as heavy Russian infantry forces joined armored vanguards which had penetrated the defenses of the Hungarian capital from the north and south on the east side of the Danube River.

The Germans said they had recaptured the East Prussian rail town of Goldap, 19 miles inside the Reich, after surrounding the place. The Russians at midnight reported violent German counterattacks staved off there.

The enemy said also that a counterattack had started south of Budapest and that the Hungarian capital was not yet under a major Russian assault. The Red Army was declared regrouping and reinforcing for the final attempt.

The German radio announced early today that Soviet tanks crashed into the southern metropolitan limits, only two miles from the heart of the city, while a Bucharest broadcast said other Red Army units, racing around the eastern edge of the capital, stormed the northern suburbs through Ujpest.

At the same time Red Army troops threatened to gain a bridgehead across the eastern fork of the Danube, just south of Budapest, and cross on to narrow Csepel Island which divides the river into two arms for 30 miles southward.

The city's German and Hungarian defenders were being captured at the rate of 1,000 a day in the powerful Russian encirclement, Moscow announced. Hungarian reports quoted by Bucharest indicated the bulk of the Nazi forces already were fleeing to the western part of the Danube-bridging capital.

The Danube bridgehead, presumably shaping up in the vicinity of the captured town of Taksony, seven miles south of the capital, appeared essential for decisive exploitation of the successful Red Army sweep across the marshy plains between the Tisza and the Danube during the past week. The Danube represented a formidable defense for Nazi flanks on either side of the capital and Russian engineers were rushed up to prepare for its crossing.

The Moscow communique, although not confirming the thrust of the Budapest city limits, announced the occupation of nine suburban points by Soviet troops in the last 24 hours, including Uilo, rail town eight miles from the city on the Budapest-Cegled trunk line.

The war bulletin said enemy resistance had stiffened temporarily and was particularly furious against the strong Soviet counterstroke against Budapest's northeastern communications. It put the total of Nazi prisoners taken in the week's offensive at 10,518.

Berlin said the Russians were using at least 600 tanks and 65,000 men in their drive for the Magyar city, whose capture would provide a sort-ofboard for a new invasion of Germany from the south over the soil of Austria. Vienna is 140 air miles northwest of Budapest and the borders of the Reich were only 90 miles distant from the advancing Red Army.

The situation inside Budapest was reported chaotic. The Ankara radio said Hungarians were fleeing the city. (Continued on page four)

Called Nation's Youngest Voter

The Columbia Broadcasting System checked voting lists through its Atlanta outlet, radio station WGST, and announced that this pretty army cadet nurse, Rachel Naomi Williams of Rockmart, Ga., will be the nation's youngest voter in the elections November 7. She'll be 18 years old November 7, her birthday. And since Georgia is the only state which allows 18-year-olds to vote, she'll just squeeze under the age limit. Cadet Williams is in training at Georgia Baptist hospital in Atlanta.

AIR OFFENSIVE STILL GOES ON

Americans Pound Nazi Centers Again Today.

By HENRY B. JAMESON London, Nov. 6.—(AP)—More than 1,800 American bombers and fighters attacked industrial targets in western Germany again today as the Allies carried the mightiest bombing stage of the war into the third straight day.

The main force from an armada of over 1,100 Eighth Air Force Liberators and Fortresses went for oil refineries in the Hamburg-Harburg region. Others attacked industrial and rail objectives in the Ruhr valley.

The bombers were escorted by 700 Mustangs and Thunderbolts. British Mosquito bombers sailed deep into southwestern Germany and attacked the rail city of Stuttgart twice last night to keep the around-the-clock offensive going.

The Reich was battered over the week-end from the west and south by approximately 9,000 American and British planes—virtually un- (Continued on page four)

POLLS FAVOR ROOSEVELT

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Four of five nationwide polls show President Roosevelt slightly ahead of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his Republican opponent on election eve.

The final Gallup poll, released today, gives Roosevelt 48.5 per cent and Dewey 48.5 per cent of the civilian popular vote. Gallup's 48 individual state surveys show 18 states with 100 electoral votes sure for Roosevelt and 10 states with 85 electoral votes sure for Dewey. The remaining 29 states, with 111 electoral votes, are classified as "pivot states" in which neither candidate leads by more than three per cent.

The Fortune survey of public opinion gives President Roosevelt 53.6 per cent of the popular vote as compared to Dewey's 46.4 per cent. These figures were compiled from answers to "attitude questions."

A secret ballot poll conducted by the survey gave the President 52.5 per cent and Dewey 47.5 per cent.

Emil Hurja, associated publisher of Pathfinder magazine and who has been identified with Republican political activity this year, said a poll which he supervised in 28 counties in 15 states indicated Dewey's election by an electoral vote of 264 to 167 with the New York reversal cutting 23 per cent of the popular vote.

Other polls were unchanged from previous announcements. The Crossley poll gave the President 52 per cent of the major party vote. A Newsweek magazine survey listed 224 electoral votes for Roosevelt and 98 for Dewey—Pennsylvania, listed as undecided, was not included.

TOMORROW IS ELECTION DAY

Candidates Await Verdict As Estimated 44 Million Voters Prepare To Go To Polls.

By J. W. DAVIS Associated Press Staff Writer The flood of argument—Republican and Democratic—that orator ran out to America every four years is about over for this time, and tomorrow the people will speak.

For 17 hours, over the various time zones of the country, an estimated 44,000,000 men and women (some guesses run up to $3,000,000) will decide finally whether they want Franklin D. Roosevelt to be president for a fourth term, or whether they want Governor Thomas E. Dewey to take over the job.

The great issue—who is the better man to speed victory and guide the peace?

Both the President who once was governor and the governor who would be president are expected to confine their remaining words largely to appeals for a big vote.

Mr. Roosevelt's last campaign appearance will be a brief address to-night on a program over the four major networks, from 10 to 11 p. m. EWT, under the sponsorship of the Democratic National Committee.

His schedule today as customary, called for visits among communities neighboring his Hyde Park, N. Y., home, making talks here and there.

Governor Dewey, after a 15-minute talk over the four networks to-night at 11 p. m. EWT, will go to New York City tomorrow where he and Mrs. Dewey will cast their votes.

British And Canadians Advance On Dutch Front

Push To Maas River In Mop-up Campaign Around Antwerp; See-Saw Battle Southwest Of Aachen; Third And Seventh Armies Score Gains On Respective Fronts.

By WILLIAM FRYE London, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Allied assaults threw the Nazis back across the Maas today along a 50-mile front to the sea—mired only by two small enemy pockets. British field officers declared the German 15th army had been hit in the offensive that began two weeks ago. As the British and Canadian armies drew up to the water barrier 16 miles south of Rotterdam on a potential new assault line, the British estimated that 65,000 Germans had been killed, captured and wounded while being driven northward from 25 to 15 miles.

Declaring Field Marshal Walter Von Model's 15th army had suffered a "serious setback," British army spokesmen said British and Canadian troops had bagged 25,000 prisoners in the drive that opened north of Antwerp on October 22. The campaign freed 1,200 square miles of Dutch territory and 570,000 Netherlands. Already Allied droppings and minesweepers were clearing the west Schelde approach to Antwerp.

The Allies hold all the south bank of the Maas from north of S-Hertogenbosch to the sea except for two small pockets, each four miles long and two miles deep at the Moerdijk bridge and Willemstad ferry 10 miles south of Rotterdam.

West of these pockets, the German rout became more complete as Allied troops swarmed over Tholen Island and St. Philipsland peninsula to the north which forms the southern bank of the mouth of the Maas.

Allied troops seized all of Walcheren Island except the small part of Veere on the north coast and the rest of the island on the east.

To the east, the American 7th Army kept up its hard pressure from Hurtgen to Schmidt. Although gains in the past 36 hours were measured in mere yards, the potential menaced down hastily mustered German reserve and dipped deeply into the dwindled German supply of tanks.

In probing attacks, Allied infantry and tanks kept pushing the enemy all along the front, scoring gains against stiff resistance around Meljert in eastern Holland, southeast of Aachen, above Metz, and in the Vosges mountains.

In the Hurtgen forest area south-east of Aachen, where Yank infantry has made the deepest penetration inside Germany, American troops who were thrown out of Schmidt by an enemy counterattack mopped up German units in the woods a mile west of that town, and scored minor gains elsewhere.

Fighter bombers blasted German tanks and infantry near Schmidt in support of the American attack, which was hindered by extensive minefields south of the town of Hurtgen, and ran into strong tank, infantry and artillery fire near Kierscheid.

There was no Allied confirmation of the German radio announcement broadcast yesterday and repeated today, that the Allies have landed airborne units again in the Arnhem area. But Marshal Montgomery's men now hold the line of the Maas in western Holland. Except for two small pockets at Mook and Willemstad, both were about four miles (Continued on Page Four)

Stalin Declares Germany On Verge Of Catastrophe

MAKING PLANS FOR WAR LOAN

Region One Meeting Held At Washington Yesterday.

By JUDSON O'QUINN London, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Germany is "on the verge of catastrophe," Marshal Stalin declared tonight in an address in which he said Russia, the United States and Great Britain have "made plans for a secure peace."

"It is not enough to win the war we must make any future war impossible," the premier declared before a Moscow throng commemorating the 27th anniversary of the Russian Revolution.

He hailed the invasion of France as the operation which enabled the Red Army to drive the Germans from Russian soil and declared that 120 German divisions had been destroyed during the year.

In a forty-two minute review Stalin proclaimed: "The United Nations face undoubted victory. But a firm peace is not yet secured. New wars must be made impossible."

"The only way is to create a special organization of the United Nations to preserve peace and security, give it armed forces and make it responsible to apply them immediately to avert or suppress aggression."

"This is not like the League of Nations, without resources or powers, but will be a new armed organization to avert new wars. It will be effective if the great powers which bore the brunt of the war continued to work unopinionably in concert and only so."

"The alliance of Russia, the United States and Great Britain is vitally important for all," Stalin said. (Continued on Page Three)

By MURLIN SPENCER General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Nov. 6.—(AP)—(Via American Radio)—American 155 millimeter long tons sent 400 rounds of high explosives whining into Japanese concentrations at dawn today as Yank infantrymen annihilated a "banzai" attack in another sector.

The artillery barrage in the Ormoc area possibly presages a bloody fight for that Japanese reinforcing point on the west coast of Leyte Island and possibly the final battle of the Leyte campaign.

Enraptured Japanese, estimated at 600 to 2,000 and including recent landed reinforcements that crossed a mountain chain from Ormoc, clashed violently with advancing American infantrymen of the 96th division west of Dagami, important central valley road junction.

Fighting was bitter. The Americans were pinned down for two days until light tanks, flame throwers and grenadiers were hurled against the Japanese. Then the Japanese made a futile "banzai" counterattack, led by sword-waving officers. The bodies of at least 5.0 Japanese littered the battlefield.

Units of the American 10th corps straddled the Dagami-Jaro trail, effectively trapping the survivors.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst The Red army's furious assault on the Hungarian capital of Budapest represents the crisis in one of the war's major operations. The city's inevitable fall will speed Hitler's end.

This vastly important communications and industrial center, which straddles the broad Danube like a colossus, is the guardian of the Danubian basin route into southwestern Germany via Austria. It's capture will at once open the gate for advance up the valley and provide the Soviet forces with a magnificent base for operations against the Reich itself.

But Budapest to my mind means far more than that. It's only about 100 miles, as the airplane flies, from the Austrian border and 140 from Vienna itself and many Austrians are only waiting for a chance to rise and throw off the Nazi yoke.

Thus it strikes me as quite possible that the arrival of the Red army at the Austrian frontier might precipitate a revolt against Hitler within that enslaved country. Once a rebellion started in Austria there would be no telling how far it might spread through unhappy Germany itself.

The proud and handsome city of Budapest, with its population of more than a million, has been one of Hitler's greatest assets. It is the hopper through which Hungary and much of the rest of the agriculturally rich Balkans have poured their grain and other supplies into a Reich which couldn't feed itself. It's the greatest railway center in that part of Europe, and also is one of the chief ports on the Danube which carries cargoes from the Black sea clear into Germany.

Moreover Budapest is one of the world's great milling centers and Hitler has depended heavily on its flour to feed his people—a mighty item in maintaining the morale of a nation. The city also has many war industries that have been a godsend to the Nazi dictator as his home factories had disappeared under the avalanche of Allied bombing.

Other Giant B-29s Smashed Oil Refinery In Sumatra; No Planes Lost.

Washington, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Striking audaciously by daylight, B-29 Superfortresses plastered military targets at Singapore in one of two raids yesterday by the aerial dreadnaughts.

The once mighty bastion of British naval might in the Pacific was visited in "substantial force" while sister ships lashed out heavily at an oil refinery in Sumatra.

None of the Superforts was lost to enemy action in either blow. Giant bombers of the 20th Air Force which since early summer have ranged from Manchuria in the north to Sumatra in the south, and which have hit directly at the Japanese home islands, yesterday directed their might at the strategic tip of the Malay Peninsula which Japan wrested from the British early in 1942.

It was the longest daylight strike ever flown by military planes, and a communique described results as "good to excellent."

India based Superfortresses also struck heavily at the Pangkalan-Brandon oil refinery on the north coast of Sumatra as long-distance raids against the enemy were stepped up to what soon may grow to almost clock-like regularity.

A Tokyo radio broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission asserted that one B-29 was shot down and another damaged in the raid on Pangkalan-Brandon. It said "No damage was incurred on our side."

Singapore was hit by Superfortresses in "substantial force," the communique announced.

Weather was clear enough so that observers witnessed direct hits on a control house in the largest drydock and on other vital points; in addition, two direct hits were scored on a Japanese ship in dry dock.

At Pangkalan-Brandon, at least one bomb dropped squarely on the refinery which was described as the second most important source of high octane gasoline in the Far East. (Continued on page six)

Reflector Election Party Tuesday Night

Election Party Telephones Will Be 3356 and 2710

On tomorrow night, The Daily Reflector will hold an election party giving full returns on the county, state and national election. Countywide returns will be compiled at our office and our Associated Press teletypes will bring in the reports from over the state and nation.

In addition to announcing the returns over our public address system in front of our office, we have procured the facilities of Greenville radio station WGTC and will broadcast the returns direct from our office just as quickly as they are received.

Election parties are a regular public service that this paper has been furnishing this community for many years and the public is invited to be with us again tomorrow night, or if you prefer to stay at home, keep your radio tuned to station WGTC for Reflector returns.

Returns should begin coming in around seven o'clock and we will go on the air as soon thereafter as enough material for a broadcast has been compiled. We will remain on the air throughout the night or until such time as returns are definite enough to signify the winners in the presidential race.

In view of the tremendous task ahead of us in handling these returns, we urge the registrars at the various precincts in our county to tally their votes and get the reports to us as quickly as possible after the polls close. The sooner we get our own county returns compiled and out of the way the more time we will have to give attention to reports as they come in from other sections of the country. With your cooperation we can make Pitt County the first to file a complete return with state headquarters that night.

Don't forget the time or place—tomorrow night in front of The Reflector office or at home by your radio with it tuned to station WGTC. We know the people of our community are interested in this election and we are using every available means to get the news of it to you as quickly as possible.

Some of the campaign speech makers didn't seem to understand that. They seemed to take it for granted that he knew everything and remembered everything. Which he didn't, of course.

They tossed off some things so easily you'd think children had them with their oatmeal in the morning. What things, for instance?

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The little guy—any little guy—had his mind made up about tomorrow's elections.

For months Democrats and Republicans had been saying "We can do everything better," meaning better than each other.

They said plenty he could understand. He ate it up. Some of it he believed. Some he didn't. But there were some things they said he didn't understand. And this upset him.

It bothered him more than he liked to admit. Here he was, a little guy, living a little life. He tried to keep abreast of things with his newspapers and his radio. But a lot which happened in the world was over his head. He had read and heard millions upon millions of words through the years. Words and years piled up. Some were a blur in his head now. Some had disappeared out of his head altogether.

Sometimes the campaign speech makers didn't seem to understand that. They seemed to take it for granted that he knew everything and remembered everything. Which he didn't, of course. They tossed off some things so easily you'd think children had them with their oatmeal in the morning. What things, for instance?

Oh, things like the disarmament conference, the economic conference, the Neutrality Act, things that happened years ago, any number of them.

The little guy rummaged around in his memory to fetch them up. He sincerely wanted to see what they meant in this election.

But, for the life of him, they remained vague or were gone entirely. And the speech makers didn't go into details. These were fine points. They beat each other on the head with them. They mentioned them. They didn't explain them.

The little guy told himself that if he could understand all these things, he would be a better voter.

But since he had to make up his mind anyway, he did. He knew for whom he was going to vote for tomorrow. He had that all settled. (Continued on page four)

At the conclusion of his talk he conducted an open forum, inviting questions in regard to the betterment of our town. Several questions were asked and answered most capably.

In the course of the discussion, the town billboard that is located on the court house lawn, really obstructs one of the prettiest spots in our town, was mentioned and it was moved, seconded and passed that a petition be sent to the Board of Aldermen to have it removed, as it was not an object of beauty, and although it was constructed to show honor to the boys in the armed forces, that in a few months' time it would be so weather-beaten that the names would not be at all legible, and it would only be an eyesore to the public.

Ridding the city of mosquitos was discussed and the proposed new highway which is to be constructed along the river bank was also discussed.

Christian Science Service.
"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday.

The golden text was from Romans 6:15. "Sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace." Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness. . . So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female he created them. But there went up a mist from the earth and watered the whole face of the ground. And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." (Gen. 1:26-27; 2:6-7).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "But there went up a mist from the earth and watered the whole face of the ground." The second chapter of Genesis contains a statement of this material view of God and the universe, a statement which is the exact opposite of scientific truth as before recorded. The substance, Life, intelligence, Truth, and Love, which constitute Deity, are reflected by His creation. Many and woman as coexistent and eternal with God forever reflect, in glorified quality, the infinite Father-Mother God."

Attends Achievement Day
Miss Verona Lee Joyner, home demonstration agent, attended the first annual Achievement Day of the Greene County Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs. The club members of the twelve organized home demonstration clubs in the county gave excellent reports of work accomplished during 1944. Mrs. Estelle T. Smith, assistant state home agent, was guest speaker for the day. The people of Greene county were justly proud of this their first Achievement day.

Red Oak H. D. Club
Red Oak Home Demonstration Club began its new year on Wednesday, November 1, at the club house with a total of 12 members present, and one visitor, Mrs. S. C. Winchester. Mrs. L. W. Edwards, the new president for the coming year, presided. The club made plans to entertain the members of their families at a Christmas party during December. The program of work for the coming year was presented by the president. The meeting was then turned over to Ruth Bizzell, assistant home agent, who gave the lesson for the month, "No Space to Waste." This discussion included many suggestions as to how needed storage may be added to the home at a very reasonable cost. A report on the "Use of Sweet Potatoes in the Diet" was given by Mrs. W. T. Page. The meeting was then turned over to the hostesses, Mrs. Jarvis Tripp and Mrs. W. T. Page. They served delicious potato pie topped with whipped cream. The recipe for the pie was one that is suggested in the bulletin, "Sweet Potatoes—How to Use Them."

Belvoir H. D. Club Meets
The Belvoir H. D. Club held its monthly meeting with Mrs. W. E. Small in Greenville on Thursday. Mrs. Willie Bell, the new president, presided. The lesson for the month was presented by Ruth Bizzell, assistant home agent. All club members showed much interest in this storage lesson and some offered excellent suggestions. Mrs. H. P. Harham, a former nurse, gave a very good report on "It's Good Business to Keep Well." After a short business session the hostess served a delicious salad course. Among the visitors were Mrs. Lector Bullard, Mrs. Marvin Nobles and Mrs. H. P. Markham, neighbors of Mrs. Small.

Lang's 4-H Club
The Lang's 4-H Club held its monthly meeting at the home of Peggy and Frances Jones on Thursday. Several members and the adult leader, Mrs. Lester Turnage, were present. The new officers are as follows: President, Peggy Jones; vice president, Frances Jones; secretary-treasurer, A. C. Turnage; reporter, Ann Turnage; song leader, Gale Flanagan. Plans for increasing the membership of this club were discussed by the members. Chapter 14

They crossed the terrace, the lanterns gave a dim, exotic shadow on the seaward side of the terrace. The lighting played a trick out a profile here, a shadow there, among the tables set with the little tables set with ferns and flowers.

She did not look for Julia. She got away as quickly as she could. It was an effort to walk naturally, smiling up at him in a natural fashion; she wanted to look like a hurt child, to rush into the enveloping velvet darkness of the garden beyond. The orchestra started playing again, and she sipping drinks began leisurely in through the door to the Palm Court. The sea, a soft shimmering against the end of the marble terrace, provided an accompaniment to the music. If she had been here, she would have seen the commissioner's man whistled softly, and a man stepped out of the darkness, captured by magic. Cherry looked into it, unaware that Rory had stopped halfway on the terrace, recognizing them, as the taxi was swamped in the pitch darkness of the night, an acid comment on her tongue. Then some man warned her to say nothing to the young man at her side, about Cherry, anyway. She had put her hand on his shoulder, and the floor are just faintly. Rory said stiffly, absently.

TAKE YOUR FERTILIZER NOW

War Food Administration WARNS
"NOW OR NEVER FOR 1945"

There's a crisis in the making!

If stocks pile up in fertilizer plants and agents' warehouses, the stream of supply will choke up. They must move fast or the lack of man-power will cause a paralyzing shortage.

Take the Chilean Nitrate situation for example. To supply the quantity needed for 1945 crops, many cargoes must be unloaded each month at each port, then moved out by train and truck for immediate allocation. It must move out of agents' hands as fast as it moves in. If not, the choke-up starts and works back to the ports, even back to the ships.

Already there's a threatened shortage of nitrogen, due to sharply increased war needs. Unless you help smash the bottle-neck by taking your nitrate as soon as it is offered, the shortage will become acute. Thousands of tons will pile up at U.S. ports or on the docks in Chile. The only place Chilean Nitrate does you any good is on your crops. Get yours now... while you can.

Storage Tips

- Pile all materials on dry boards in barn or shed.
- Pile materials separately.
- Keep piles close together.
- Destroy the bags when you use the contents.

and splendid radiances; the palms and trees threw inky shadows, like woodcuts. And over and above everything was the almost overpowering smell of a tropical country at night, the damp earth and ripe fruit and a thousand nameless flowers. Their Negro driver grinned when he pulled up outside the ruins of Old Panama City.

Cherry found herself walking softly in this enchanted land, as if one ghost city could still feel and hear. She listened to Douglas telling her what the buildings had been, and he spoke so vividly that she could see the cathedral a fortress of the Spanish church again, towering heavily against the blue sky, the bells pealing from the tower and summoning worshippers in queer costumes and flowing black mantillas. She could feel the grim tenacity of those pioneers transplanting the old world to the new; she could see, as Douglas talked, the rise and fall of their power, the coming of pirates, the red ruin as the city was looted and plundered and fell gradually to decay—that swift and terrible decay of the tropics.

"It is strange, the way gold will make and break a country. This place was ruined because it hoarded untold wealth. Men died like flies of fever and plague to cut a trail through jungle and swamp across these mountains from ocean to ocean. Am I boring you, Cherry?"

"No!" she cried breathlessly. "I could listen to you forever. But it frightens me. It's so lovely here."

Chapter 15

They stood side by side under one of the old windows of the cathedral, throwing pigmy shadows beside its grandeur. The only sounds were the breezes playing among the palm fronds and the never-ending song of the cicadas.

Douglas caressed the cool stone under his hand. "Come and sit on the wall where I can see you," he urged.

Obediently she sat on the mossy, soft top of the old walled slope, realizing suddenly that she was tired. It had been a long day, and they had crammed a week's adventures into this one evening. Douglas sat close, without touching her, his hands loosely clasped between his knees. Thick ferns grew at their feet, cool and damp. He said in his gentle, whimsical way, "I have a confession to make to you, Cherry."

"To me?" she asked, surprised.

She could see him smiling. He turned and laid his hand over hers and it was cool and strong and somehow comforting. "Thirty years ago I brought a very lovely lady here. I was young and romantic and full of the glamor of this country, you see. And I asked her to marry me."

"Yes?" Cherry was interested now, breathlessly.

"And then—"

"She agreed to marry me," Douglas smiled and looked at Cherry for the first time. "She was very beautiful, Cherry, Maria de las Vegas—the daughter of a Spanish nobleman and an English noble. I brought her here in my carriage and said all the foolish things one does say at 24."

Cherry nodded. "Why did you—what happened?"

"She died," he answered simply. "She was very beautiful, kind, and intelligent. And she died at 18, of tuberculosis."

She felt sorry for them, those ghosts; she sat there weighed with sadness for a beautiful drama. It hurt, it made her feel again that painful longing for Rory.

So that was the reason Douglas had never married and had sons, she thought. He must have loved her very much.

Douglas turned and put his arms around her, gently. He was still smiling that self-mocking smile, but his tone was different. He said abruptly, "Cherry—I love you. I owe you an apology, for bringing you over "The firm front of the Allied Nations has made plans for a secure peace. Some people speak of discord. There are differences of opinion . . . the amazing thing is not that differences exist but how small they are and how well they are solved peacefully."

He declared that Russia had destroyed 120 German divisions during the year and that "only 204 German and non-German divisions stand against us."

(At present, German strength in the East, this indicated the destruction of 1,200,000 men leaving about 2,040,000 opposing the Red Army from the Arctic to the Balkans.)

"Thirty German divisions are cut off from East Prussia in the Baltic states and are being hammered to smithereens," Stalin said.

"There is no doubt that without the second front which wins down the Germans out of the Soviet Union," the premier added.

"But without our pinning down 200 divisions our allies would not be able to drive the enemy from Italy, France and Belgium."

"The task is to continue holding Germany between two fronts. That is the key to victory."

Of the 204 divisions facing the Red Army, Stalin said 180 were German and 24 Hungarian.

The premier-marsh spoke at a Moscow celebration marking the 27th anniversary of the Russian Revolution.

The Red Army was enabled to do its duty because of the support of our entire country," Stalin said. "Our people this year have achieved great results in war economy—our army is sufficiently supplied with food."

"Now the war is ending the importance of the Soviet people becomes obvious. They saved world civilization."

Turning to international affairs and the postwar world, Stalin said: "When you read reports of divergencies of views among the three great powers about postwar organization, remember that such differences always exist even in the same party and obviously will exist between different countries."

"If differences have occurred, as for example at Dumbarton Oaks, we must not complain but we must be glad they were so few. Dozens of points were solved in complete agreement."

"Therefore I think that Dumbarton Oaks is an indication that peaceful solution is possible."

"There were differences among the Allies about the second front but, as everybody knows, they finally were solved in a spirit of complete agreement."

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

INSPIRED BY PLEASANT RECOLLECTIONS

Many years ago in England there was a man who rose high in the affairs of commerce and state. On his desk was an old china bowl, and in it faded rose petals from the garden of his father's home.

There is nothing so bracing for us as the pointed reminder in an hour of discouragement, or in the moment of temptation, that we are part of a worthy heritage. We had parents who taught us certain things regarding right and wrong.

Washington—In a day of high-powered, fast-talking, be-jettered agencies, the old-line Veterans Administration is being swamped along at a swift clip by one of the new agencies of legislative roads.

Most objective viewers believe that VA is doing a pretty good job with perhaps the biggest leading program in the history of the nation. Potentially, every serviceman will be entitled to a loan for a home, farm, or new business. VA will handle the bulk of it.

Many of the filing cases are old enough to have held records of men who have sons in this war. Most employees can look upon plates outside of Washington as towns they lived in when they were children.

The only complaints that have found their way to the Veterans Administration are built on its reluctance to tell anyone—even related government agencies—just what it's doing.

a policy that nothing substantial shall be said before anything substantial is done. Unfortunately, as a result of this policy, veterans of this war now know little of how from whom or when they will get their loans.

However, other government departments and sources interested in veterans' legislation give assurance that, when VA finally does wind up its intensive work on the GI bill-of-rights, service men will have a new and better way to postwar life.

after his major campaigning was over, he had "almost lost" his voice.

The 21 governorships to be filled tomorrow are held by 19 Republicans and 12 Democrats. Of the 35 seats at stake in the now Democratic-dominated senate, 22 are filled by Democrats and 13 by Republicans.

Today, the emphasis and the worrying of the politicians center on the "silent vote"—the people who keep their feelings to themselves as they enter the voting place.

Backing the Roosevelt fourth term drive, this group headed by Sidney Hillman has worked to get out a big vote. Dewey has said that President Roosevelt put the Democratic party on the question of peace and that the "E" bond buyers were the PAC and "Earl Browder's Communists."

There are, actually, white blackberries.

thetic efforts to stop the Americans. One Nipponese lieutenant climbed atop a tank and hacked at the muzzle of a barking machine gun with his saber before being picked off.

Col. Macey L. Dill, commanding a 96th division regiment who first estimated the Japanese at 600, but later 2,000 on information furnished by natives, said:

"I think we've broken their back. We heard 'em groaning and grunting and squealing, dragging back their wounded and dead until 5 a. m., Sunday."

While Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger's 8th army artillery hurled shells into Ormoc, other heavy guns were sweeping highway Number 2 as it winds through mountain passes to Carigara, making it impossible for the Japanese to move troops over it, even under cover of darkness.

Pinamooan, strategic communication center on Leyte's northwest coast, was captured yesterday by veterans of the American 24th division who immediately headed south toward Ormoc, west coast port town 20 miles away through which the Japanese for three days have managed to bring in reinforcements.

South of Ormoc—the enemy's last escape port—the 7th infantry division was about 12 miles away after a 14-mile drive from captured Baybay.

Thus a climactic battle for the central Philippine island appeared taking shape fast.

Japanese mechanized reinforcements, brought north along the Ormoc-Pinamooan highway despite ceaseless aerial interference already have been in contact with advance units of the 24th division, but no large-scale fighting was in progress yet.

American artillery was brought into play in forward positions from the Pinamooan spearhead and shells from 155 mm "guns" sent steel screaming into the Ormoc Japanese for the first time.

Pinamooan, bitterly defended, fell to the Yank infantrymen driving by land from Carigara, seven miles to the east along Carigara bay, after an earlier amphibious assault on the town had been beaten back by determined enemy rear-guards.

A headquarters spokesman said all present have been taken to guard against a possible Japanese attempt to counterattack by landing on Carigara bay.

Only light and ineffectual enemy air raids were reported against Leyte. Much of the Japanese aerial sting was eliminated during repeated American bombing of enemy airfields in the central Philippines.

In two coordinated blows on successive days the Eighth and airforces struck Hitler's war machine in 13 vital spots ranging Vienna and Regensburg in south to Hamburg and Han in the north.

British heavies, continuing a series of 1,000-bomber raids, mined the steel and coal center Bochum in the Ruhr with 360 tons of high explosive and bombs Saturday night while a fighter and medium bomber force of the western front night and U. S. Thunderbolts, Mustangs and Havocs smashed a hydroelectric dam near Fritzlar and about half a dozen railway yards in many Sunday. RAF Mosquitos up 15 trains in Holland.

Large numbers of Nazi fighters came up in defense of them but nowhere else did the armadas encounter such a situation.

Several planes previously missing are known to have landed safely in France and total losses in all operations are not expected to exceed 120 aircraft. The Eighth force lost 14 bombers and five out of a force of 1,900 Saturday the Fifteenth lost 15 out of 200 taking Bavaria and Austria.

Southwest and Liberators through intense flak over the Luftwaffe on yesterday, and 24 bombers and 13 fighters were to return.

NEXT TIME I'LL TAKE CARE OF MY CAR!

You probably don't expect to depend on a horse and surrey for future transportation. But consider this fact, which is brought out by government surveys—approximately 800,000 cars will wear out this winter.

To help keep your car from becoming one of these 800,000, ask your nearby Sinclair H-C Gasoline Dealer to Sinclair-ize your car for winter now. This fall change-over service protects vital parts against wear and break-downs as your car manufacturer recommends.

HOW SINCLAIR-IZE FOR WINTER SERVICE SAVES YOUR CAR

- SAVES WEAR ON transmission and differential gears in cold weather. Summer-grade lubricants are drained and replaced with tough Sinclair lubricants of right grade for winter.
- SAVES MOTOR WEAR in cold weather—helps prevent the formation of dangerous sludge by draining and flushing the crankcase—refilling with Sinclair Pennsylvania or Opaline Motor Oil—winter-grade.
- SAVES CHASSIS wear in cold weather—by lubricating bearings, springs, shackles and other vital parts as your car manufacturer recommends. Front wheels protected by special lubrication.
- SAVES COOLING SYSTEM by cleaning out the rust and sludge, tightening hose connections and putting in the right amount of anti-freeze.
- SAVES BATTERY and helps assure fast starts. Service includes checking and refilling battery with water, checking battery connections and testing strength of battery. Spark plugs tested, too.
- SAVES TIRES by carefully inspecting for cuts and bruises and valve troubles. The Sinclair Dealer will also gladly cross-switch your tires to equalize wear.

Tar Heels Will Vote On Five Amendments

Raleigh, Nov. 6 — (AP)—North Carolinians will have more than party candidates to consider at the polls tomorrow they must also decide upon five proposed amendments to the State Constitution.

Statewide interest mounting almost to a fever pitch has followed one of the proposed amendments—which would change the present structure of the State Board of Education—since its introduction into the group two years ago.

The proposed education amendment would rewrite the amendment adopted at the last general election. The principal changes proposed are that the present position of controller would be stricken out and the state superintendent of public instruction would be administrative head of the public school system and secretary of the board; ten members would be appointed by the governor subject to confirmation by the general assembly, one from each of eight educational districts, and two members at large—the present method of selection is by congressional districts; and the following provision in the present constitution would be stricken out: "a majority of the members of said board shall be persons of training and experience in business and finance, who shall not be connected with the teaching profession or any educational administration of the state."

One amendment would abolish constitution requirement of private examination of wife for sale of homestead. At present, in order to convey absolute title to real estate free of power and homestead rights, the wife must be examined privately, separately and apart from her husband, and there must be a certificate to the effect that she signed without fear or compulsion voluntarily.

Another would amend the constitution so as to exempt notaries public from prohibition against double office holding. At present a notary public is an officer contemplated in constitutional prohibition against double office holding. If an amendment is adopted, a notary public could hold any other office or place of trust under the authority of the state.

At present, the compensation of the lieutenant governor is fixed at $700 for each session of the general assembly. One of the five amendments would authorize the general assembly to provide compensation for the lieutenant governor, fixing compensation at its own discretion. The fifth amendment would make the commissioners of agriculture, labor and insurance constitutional officers and members of the council of state. At present the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction and the attorney general are named in the constitution as composing the executive department. The secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and superintendent of public instruction constitute, ex-officio, the council of state, to advise the governor in the execution of his office. If adopted, the officers named in the amendment would be added to the executive department and also to the council of state.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
New York, Nov. 6—(AP)—Saturday is the twenty-sixth anniversary of Armistice Day but there will be no cessation of football hostilities. That is the day Army is booked with Notre Dame in Yankee Stadium, Auburn opposes Mississippi State, Duke takes on Wake Forest, Tulane tangles with Georgia Tech, Illinois invades Michigan, Oklahoma decides the Big Six title with Missouri, UCLA and California collide in a repeat contest, Randolph Field works out against Southwest Louisiana and Arkansas meets Rice.

Notre Dame, shackled by Navy's heavy line Saturday in a 32 to 13 defeat, probably will enter the Army game, for which all seats were sold in August, as the underdog. The Cadets, who flattened Villanova in their final tuneup by an 83 to 0 score while their head coach and both first string fullbacks were absent, haven't scored against Notre Dame since 1938 and haven't triumphed in the series with the South Bend Ramblers since 1931. This year, however, the Cadets are after revenge. They have rolled over six rivals at exactly a point a minute clip and have permitted only three touchdowns to be registered against them. A week ago they were rated the No. 1 team in the land.

While some 77,000 spectators will jam their way into the stadium and millions of other fans will follow the game from afar, the contest isn't the only one of importance Saturday. Mississippi State, leader in the Southeast circuit since its 26 to 0 victory over Kentucky, and unbeaten Auburn, winner by a 57 to 0 score over Presbyterian in its latest outing are booked at Birmingham while Georgia Tech, pushed from the clean state list by Duke, 19 to 13, bans into Tulane, loser only to Notre Dame.

Wake Forest unbeaten leader of the Southern loop, invades Durham where Duke found the winning combination Saturday against Tech, Illinois, idle Saturday, moves against Michigan in an important Big Ten fray just a week after the Solvines deflated Pennsylvania, 41 to 19. Although minus two of its stars because of Navy transfers, Michigan piled up a 34 to 0 lead on the Quakers in the first half. Ohio State, undisputed leader in the Big Ten and a 21 to 7 winner of Indiana, takes on unbeaten Pittsburgh and rejuvenated Purdue, 35 to 0 winner from Wisconsin, takes on Minnesota, held to a 14 to 4 tie by Westvoters. Oklahoma, which continued its domination of Iowa State with a 12 to 7 victory, has a chance to settle the Big Six title problems by downing Missouri. The Tigers dropped Michigan State off the unbeaten list 13 to 7, with a last period touchdown.

Randolph Field, with what is probably the greatest team in college circles today, follows its 63 to 0 conquest of North Texas Aggies with a night meeting against Southwest Louisiana, shorn of its 1943 naval stars.

Tulsa, whipped by Iowa Pre-Flight in a 47 to 27 scoring spree, has Southwestern of Texas as its guests while the Seahawks wait until Sunday to play the unbeaten Bunker Hill Naval Station.

Navy tosses its stonewall defense against Cornell, a 25 to 7 victory over Columbia. The Lions meet Penn in an Ivy league game. Unbeaten Yale, extended to whip Dartmouth by a 6 to 0 edge, takes on Brown, a 20 to 0 victim of Coast Guard Academy.

In the far west California visits UCLA and Washington is host to the powerful Fourth Air Force outfit. The California-UCLA fray is the second of the year, the Bears winning the first 6 to 0 on Sept. 30.

Arkansas, remaining in the Southwest Conference picture with a 7 to 6 triumph over Texas A & M, entertains Rice, spilled by Texas Tech and the Texas Longhorns, who crushed Southern Methodist, 34 to 7, next take on Oklahoma A & M. The Aggies who burst Tulsa's bubble a week earlier, were spilled in turn by the Norman, Okla., Naval Base, 15 to 0. Bainbridge (Md.) Navy
