KITRELL BUYS TERMINAL SITE

Will Make Greater Use Of Local Port Facilities.

The Tar River Port Commission announced today the acquisition of a site for construction of a terminal warehouse for the handling of sugar and other commodities.

At the time of completing his purchase, Mr. Kitrell announced he expected the arrival of the "S. S. Dixie Crystal" within the next few weeks.

The sale of this property is the second such sale within the past few months, the Pure Oil Company having purchased a large site in June for oil terminals.

Regular scheduled water freight service will be resumed as soon as the operators of the inland waterways lines are able to obtain the necessary ships.

ARMY GROUP NAVIES Exchange Blows In Ormoc Gulf Battle

Americans And Japs Each Lose A Destroyer; More Air Attacks On Jap Shipping.

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Sharp naval blows were traded by Americans and Japanese in Ormoc gulf off Leyte island Saturday.

The American vessel was sunk completely in two, presumably by an aerial torpedo, and went down in 55 seconds.

The free army show will be given at Guy Smith Stadium Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 and at night at 8 o'clock.

The sinking of the American vessel furnished the backdrop for a thrilling rescue drama.

Ricks passenger buses will transport passengers from Five Points to the stadium for the afternoon and night shows.

British Take Firm Stand On Situation In Greece

By JAMES F. KING

London, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Britain will resist any attempt to impose violence a communist dictatorship in strife-torn Greece.

The army show tomorrow is free. You don't have to buy anything to get in.

The Greek people form themselves into monarchy or republic must be left for them to decide later.

Churchill deplored the fighting, and declared "We and our American allies are doing our utmost to give assistance, and our troops are acting to prevent bloodshed."

A NBC broadcast from Athens this morning said no American troops were in Greece.

The ships in Piraeus Harbor may have to move out and all our relief work has had to stop.

The broadcast also reported that Elias forces said they had lost 150 men killed in a 15-hour battle near the Acropolis.

The armed force must be dependent on the Greek government.

The Prime Minister said, "No government can have a sure foundation so long as there are private armies owing allegiance to a group, party, or ideology instead of the state and nation."

Declares Italy Will Handle Own Affairs

Washington Announcement Gives Assurance To Liberated Countries.

Washington, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The United States has informed both Britain and Italy that it expects the Italian people to develop their government "without influence from outside."

The State Department's unusual disclosure of policy in such a case today apparently placed the United States in an opposite position from that taken by Great Britain.

One purpose of the assertion apparently is to reassure the people of liberated Allied countries who may have read into recent developments in Italy an indication that the great powers intend to meddle in their internal affairs.

The brief statement ended with a declaration that the policy of international government would apply to an "even more pronounced degree" in the liberated territories of the United Nations.

Italy as a defeated enemy nation now has the status of a belligerent and is under Allied military supervision.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Great Britain recently told Parliament that the British were opposed to the inclusion of Count Sforza in the Italian government.

Bridgehead Across Saar River Expanded Despite Gunfire

Paris, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The 95th Infantry division of the U. S. Third Army has driven clear through Saarlautern and is fighting well into the Siegfried Line.

The satellite towns of Roden and Fraulautern, each a mile and a half beyond the captured Saar river bridge, were passed by the Americans advancing through defenses from German artillery emplacements.

Other troops of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army threatened Saarbrücken, capital of the Lorraine region of steel and coal.

The town of 11,000 lies ten miles from the Rhine and 25 southwest of Strasbourg.

Some fighting still was going on in the east bank sector of Saarlautern where the Americans were meeting the Volksturm, recently mustered civilians wearing arm-bands.

Five divisions of Patton's Army to the southeast were heading forward either inside the Saar or through the last bit of Lorraine.

The First and Ninth Armies on the middle Colmar Plain 25 miles from the Rhine were deadlocked with the German 7th and 15th armies along the Moselle River, still uncrossed.

The U. S. Seventh Army on Patton's right was clearing the Karlsruhe corner of France and moving within eight miles of Colmar.

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Congress has a billion-dollar baby. Some baby.

It's a plan which says: Within 10 years after the war this country will have 400,000 civilian airports—commercial and private.

It isn't a dream. The plan comes from the Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA).

Congress asked CAA to whip it together so we can tell what to expect next year or wait till full peace comes.

Some of what CAA's experts say and think is given here, although they'll reach 400,000 ten years after the war, they'll keep on multiplying.

There are 3,000 existing airfields. CAA wants to improve 1,625 of them and add 3,000 more.

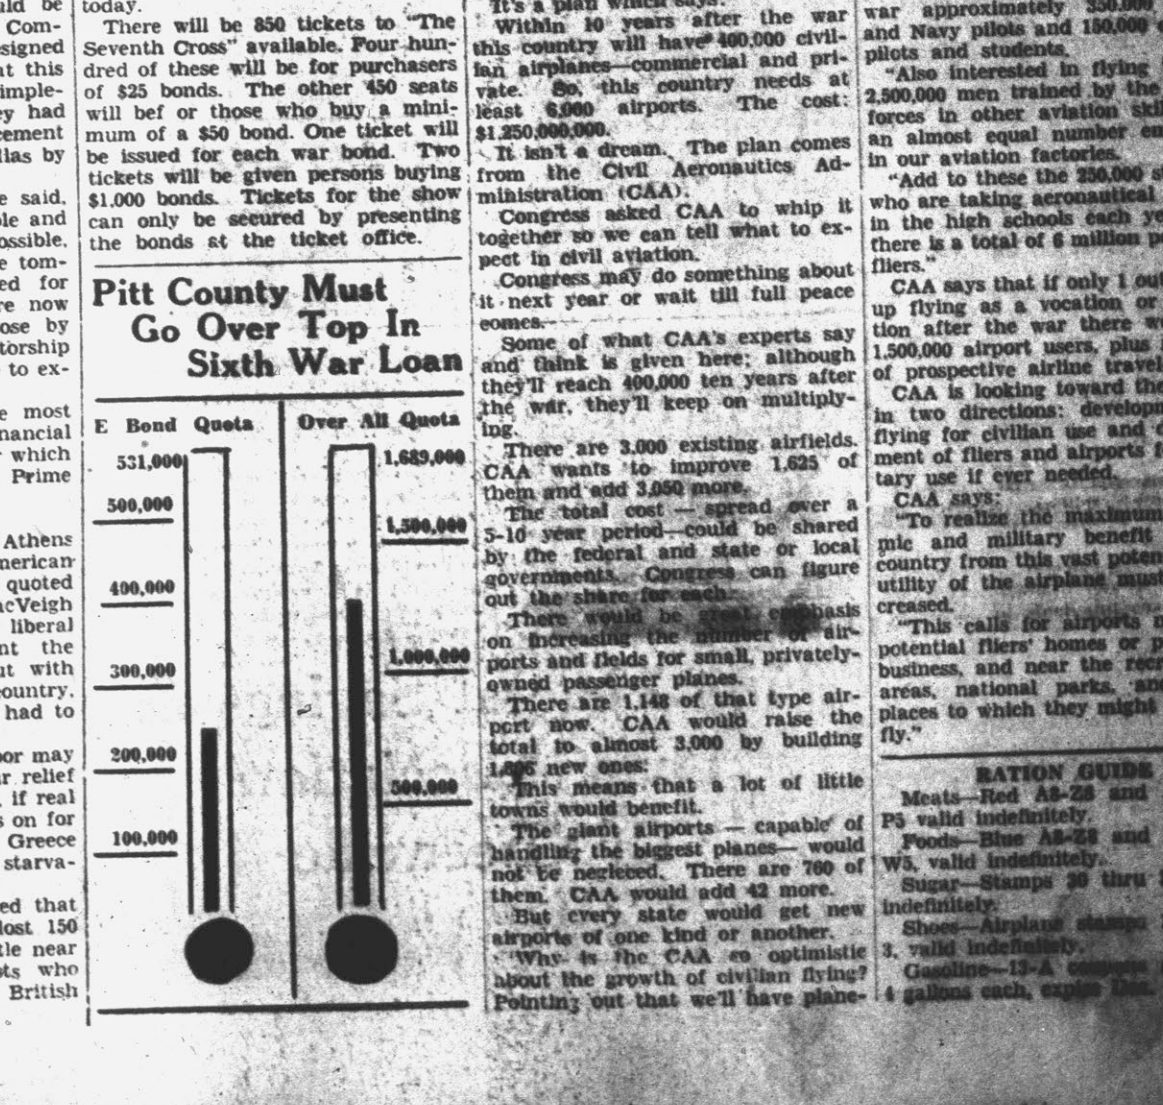

There are 1,148 of that type airports now. CAA would raise the total to almost 3,000 by building 1,852 new ones.

This means that a lot of little towns would benefit.

The giant airports—capable of handling the biggest planes—would not be neglected. There are 700 of them. CAA would add 42 more.

But every state would get new airports of one kind or another.

What is the CAA so optimistic about the growth of civilian flying? Pointing out that we'll have plane-

ECYC Alumni Meets Friday. The Greenville chapter of ECYC Alumni will meet on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the alumni office.

To Wrap Christmas Packages. The Christmas gifts and boxes for the marines and soldiers who are hospitalized in this camp area are to be wrapped from 2 to 5 o'clock in the surgical dressing room, Austin building at ECYC. Volunteers are needed for this, so please plan to come at this time to complete the job.

Service League Meets. The members of the Service League met at the Sheppard Memorial school Monday morning at 10:30. The president, Mrs. W. S. Post, opened the meeting by reading a poem from the Ancient Mariner "The Serpent's Kiss." Miss Mary Lee Ernest, student worker for the Baptist church, was then presented and read a most beautiful story "Christmas in the Alley," by Olive Thomas Miller. This opened the holiday season with a thought that the way to enjoy it is to share it and make others happy.

Miss Tyson Billiam, as chairman of the group of eight who had charge of the sale of foods and gifts on the Laughinghouse Hospital Bed Shelf at Ellington's for November, made a most interesting and successful report. The league wishes to thank the many friends for patronizing this shelf and helping make our hospital fund possible. During December we hope to keep many attractive Christmas gifts on this shelf. Visit it while Christmas shopping.

Mrs. R. C. Stokes, hospital bed chairman, reported that four patients, two white and two colored, had been discharged this past month.

League War Participation. Mrs. J. W. Tyndall, chairman of the League War Participation, thanked the members for their generous contribution of time in the Sixth War Bond Drive. She asked for volunteers to aid the OPA in their work this week.

Mrs. K. B. Pace, camp and hospital chairman for the Red Cross, asked for volunteers to wrap attractively the four hundred boxes that are to be sent to our hospitalized boys in this camp area.

Mr. Dall Laughinghouse, chairman of the lending chest which contains linens, blankets, crutches and other articles needed in a sick room, reported that a pair of crutches had been loaned. This chest is gladly loaned to anyone needing these articles upon the recommendation of a minister, doctor or nurse.

The league adjourned to meet the second Monday in January, which will be January 8.—Reported.

Junior Philatelia Class Meets. The Junior Philatelia Class combined its November and December meetings in a joint gathering at the home of Mrs. Marnie Brown on East Third street Thursday evening.

With Mrs. J. W. Tyndall, chairman of the November group, assisted by half of the December, with Mrs. Ed Ratcliffe, chairman, as hostesses. Mrs. Eunice McGee, president, presided over the business meeting. The secretary and various committees made their reports. A photograph of one Chinese orphan girl had been received and this was passed around for everyone to see. Plans were made for a Christmas box to be sent to our "adopted daughter," Edna Crane, at the Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh. Other plans were suggested for a needy family in this community. A lovely framed picture of Edna, which was made on her recent visit to Greenville by Mrs. A. P. Baker, was given the class. Devotional was led by Mrs. J. A. Frier. During the social hour games were played and the Christmas season suggested with the reading of a Christmas poem and story. Delicious refreshments were then served.—Reported.

Friday night the COGA club will sponsor the annual COGA party at which time "Miss Greenville High School" will be chosen. To enter a contestant, a petition must be signed by ten students and handed in to Faye Duval or Mary Ruth Carter. Judges will pick the winners at the party.

Ten teachers in the Greenville city schools who are officers in the local and district organization of the North Carolina Education Association and Classroom Teachers will attend a business meeting of those organizations in Washington tomorrow afternoon. There will be two sessions, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening after a dinner meeting.

Yesterday afternoon the Greenville High School basketball squad had their first practice under Coach Clark.

This season should be a most successful one for the Greenville high cagers, because they have eight members of last year's first two strings back.

The first game is here December 19 with Morehead City.

Tomorrow afternoon the Greenville High School students will be dismissed at 3 o'clock to see the army show, "Here's Your Infantry," a realistic demonstration of the infantry's weapons which will be presented at Guy Smith stadium, at 3:30. The demonstration will follow a parade by a company of veteran soldiers who will be accompanied by a 30-piece band.

The entire show is free so here is your chance to see your Infantry in action.

AMERICAN RED CROSS COMPLETE SURGICAL DRESSINGS PROGRAM

The Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross has received a letter from the headquarters in Atlanta announcing the completion of the U. S. Army surgical dressings program, and with this message to the workers from the War Department.

The War Department wishes to take this opportunity to thank the volunteers in your chapter who have given untriflingly of their time and effort in providing surgical dressings for the army. These surgical dressings volunteers have made an outstanding contribution to the war effort and their help cannot be evaluated in terms of hours or dollars and cents. The total requirements were enormous, far beyond the available industrial facilities of this country and could not have been met except for the work of these volunteers whom we are sure take great pride in having had such an active part in this vital wartime activity.

Officials of the Pitt County Chapter wish to add their thanks to those of the War Department for the fine work done by the women of Pitt county in the surgical dressings program.

NAVY TO USE MORE ROCKETS

Weapon Proving Satisfactory Against Japs.

By STERLING F. GREEN Washington, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The Navy shortly will be spending $100,000,000 monthly on rocket ammunition alone.

Rockets have been found increasingly useful, among other things, for spraying death upon Japanese machine gunners as a cover for landing operations.

The $100,000,000 outlay, to be sustained within four months, is "as much as is now being spent per month for all types of naval ammunition," said the Office of War Information in a cautiously worded report today on the U. S. use and development of rockets.

The Army is down for about $12,000,000 monthly throughout 1945 for rocket ammunition, over and above the amount spent on the projectors themselves— tank-piercing bazookas and other rocket launchers.

Indication that America may have some rocket surprises in store for the Axis was given in this OWI comment: "Newest American rocket developments, including design details and the range and speed attained by the projectiles, as well as projection figures, have not been made public by the military authorities."

Noting that ordnance experts have not officially reported any giant, long-range rocket like the German V-2 "rocket" bomb, OWI said: "American ordnance experts have concentrated on developing artillery type rockets, with emphasis on correcting the present relative inaccuracy of rocket fire."

Characterizing the rocket as "one of the principal weapon innovations of this war," OWI said it is now used on seven types of American warplanes—the Army's Lightnings, Alracobras, Warhawks, Thunderbolts and Mustangs, and the Navy's TBF torpedo planes and

and Godo, towns on the Ravenna-Bologna railway, and midway between Ravenna and Faenza, headquarters of the Seventh Fleet Amphibious Force, was quoted as reporting that rockets "particularly effective during the crucial phase of establishing a beachhead, after naval guns and planes have bombarded the shore and the first wave of assault troops is going in."

"Fired from multiple deck tubes on landing craft, rockets spread destruction among enemy machine gunners as they wait for the troops to hit the beach," the report continued.

The bazooka, pioneered by the Army ground forces, is credited with destroying 10 of a concentration of 35 German tanks at Caen in the Normandy campaign, OWI said.

The newer 4.5-inch "M8" rocket is roughly twice the diameter and length of the bazooka and equals in firepower the 105 mm. medium artillery gun, OWI reported. Yet its launcher costs $104 compared with $3,406 for the artillery piece.

NEW GAIN ON ITALIAN FRONT

Canadians Capture Important Adriatic City.

Rome, Dec. 5.—(AP)—British Eighth army troops have captured Ravenna, German stronghold on the Adriatic, the Allied high command announced today.

Ravenna (pop. 81,000), is 16 miles northeast of Forl.

The announcement said the city fell as the result of "a brilliant encircling movement by the (Canadian) Princess Louise's Dragon Guards which outflanked the city and forced the enemy to withdraw to avoid being trapped."

The Canadian unit cut route 16 and entered Ravenna from the northwest as the 27th Lancers plunged into the city from the south, it said.

Previously Allied headquarters had announced the capture of Russ

and Godo, towns on the Ravenna-Bologna railway, and midway between Ravenna and Faenza, headquarters of the Seventh Fleet Amphibious Force, was quoted as reporting that rockets "particularly effective during the crucial phase of establishing a beachhead, after naval guns and planes have bombarded the shore and the first wave of assault troops is going in."

"A woman can spend Christmas at home, and still have the knowledge that she is helping the WAC now—will soon be serving where she's needed most," Sgt. Tom Monette, WAC recruiter for Greenville, said today.

"Most everyone wants to spend Christmas in her own home, if it's at all possible, Sgt. Monette added.

"That's what existing now in the WAC Enlisted Reserve Corps will enable a woman to do. Women who enlist between now and the first of the year will be called to active du-

"The army is offering qualified women a splendid opportunity to learn a well-paying profession with training by some of our most renowned professional men," Sgt. Monette said, "and at the same time to take a vital part in the rehabilitation of our wounded men."

WALKING BOYS

Chapter 5
Ashore, Jason found an open carriage for hire. The driver, an Italian, was dressed in the remains of an old uniform. He was gray-haired and his face was criss-crossed with fine wrinkles. A price was fixed upon. Jason climbed in, the driver checked to his horse and they were off.

"How the royal family?" Jason asked. "You must see a good deal of them here in Honolulu." "Ah, yes," the driver nodded. "Before I drive them all over. Many days I take the princess to the beach. She is fine summer, that girl, very beautiful."

Jason recalled how the princess looked that day at court. Yes, she was beautiful. "I suppose every twin at Waikiki?" he asked. "Not much—any more," the driver answered sadly. "In the old days women and children all to beach, jump around and have fun. But it cause too much trouble. So old Doctor Webb, he stop to it."

"A great man," Jason suggested. "I doubt the premier has done a deal of good for the islands." "Sure," grumbled the driver. "He laws all time. No drink run. play games for money. No dance. Everybody wear pants. Pretty thing girls are put in fort. Before in premier a man had good in Honolulu. Now, no can. Doc Webb, he good man—too amn."

The road which the carriage followed wound in and out among the trees, seeking the easiest way. Jason could catch occasional glimpses of the sea, where long white combers led in to break on a sandy beach. The road crossed a stream and followed around the edge of a large pond.

The driver rambled on. "The best way for a swim is by the banyan tree. Water not so deep there. Surf better. Before, when I take the princess she always go there to that place."

The carriage swung from the road into the sand of the beach. The driver pointed up the beach about two hundred yards away a great umbrella-like tree spread its branches over the sand. "Wait for me," Jason ordered. "I want to go there. Fine swimming."

"Wait for me," Jason ordered. "I want to go there. Fine swimming." The sun was high and hot. It beat down on Jason's back and cast shimmering shafts of light on the water and the beach. Somewhere in the neighborhood, flowers blossomed and gave out a heady, sweet fragrance. The sand got into Jason's eyes; the sweat dripped from his face. He took off his jacket and carried it on his arm and began to walk a little ridiculous. It seemed a little thing to do, to come out here and ramp around in the hot sun in the mere hope of seeing a girl.

Just in front of him the beach curved, forming a shallow bay. Polishing the beach, Jason lost sight of the banyan tree. The little bay presented a beautiful picture and Jason stopped to admire it.

Near the shore the water was a pale green. Farther out, it shaded into emerald and then into a light blue. Beyond that, the blue became darker as the water grew deeper. He tried to furnish a frame for a picture—a double line of white surf rolled in, to die out just before it reached the dark blue water. Being a seaman, Jason judged that a reef fringed the bay and kept the surf from piling into it.

The water did look inviting. He stepped behind a guava and stripped. When he returned to the beach there were only a pair of cotton drawers. His leap, hard body rippled with muscle. He was tanned of face and arms, but his body was snowy white except for the V left by his shirt.

The water foamed about his feet and was delightfully cool. He plunged in, swam with wide, sweeping strokes, sailor fashion, out through the rolling surf. His body seemed to move through waves of light—the water was so soft that he hardly felt its caress on his skin. Jason experienced a feeling of exhilaration. He felt as if he could swim miles through this warm, green sea, so different from the harsh gray water of his own New England.

Half a mile from the beach, he noticed that the water was blue. He could look down through it and see a brilliant coral forest growing on the ocean floor. Bright red and yellow and striped fish fitted about among the coral reefs. A flat blue fish with orange eyes glistened slowly into view. It was an enchanting scene. He felt suspended in mid-air, looking down into a mysterious world.

Then he heard the rush of an incoming wave, a green wall rose before him, slid under his body, lifting him high, then dropped him and freed smoothly for the beach. Half-way in, the wall toppled forward and broke, littering the sea with creamy-white splashes of foam. Jason felt the suck and pull of another wave and turned to face it. And then he saw an astonishing thing. A brown figure came shooting at him, balanced upright on the crest of the wave.

He stared unbelievably—made out a dark flat object upon which the figure stood, balancing, both arms extended, head thrown back—long black hair streaming in the wind. A woman!

With incredible speed, the wave under shot down upon him. Another green wall towered above him. Jason looked up—and found himself looking up into the laughing face of the Princess Lilia.

There was a splash. Water foamed and boiled about Jason. A head popped up after the wave had slid past. A long narrow board floated nearby. The princess shook the water from her hair, caught it up into a thick strand.

Jason's first impression of the swimmer was that she was naked. Then he saw that she wore a tight-fitting garment of brown cloth extending from just above her firm, budding young breasts to her knees. She swam toward him, pushing the board ahead of her, her dark hair fan-like in the water.

"What are you doing here?" she challenged. "It's a free ocean," Jason was annoyed at her tone. "Is there a tabu against swimming, also?" "Yes," said the princess abruptly. "This is the king's private beach." Jason realized for the first time that he was very fixed. The water was soft and warm but he had been fighting the surf for some time and his arms were heavy, his breath short. "Sorry if I have invaded your privacy," he panted.

OVERSEAS VETERAN DEMONSTRATES FLAME THROWER. Technical Sergeant Warren D. Madigan of Waseca, Minn., shows how liquid flame thrower is used against enemy pillbox. Sergeant Madigan, a combat infantryman who wears five overseas stripes for 31 months of service in the European and African theaters, is typical of the soldiers who will take part in the outdoor show "Here's Your Infantry," presented by the Army Ground Force and the War Finance Division of the Treasury Department as a feature of the $14,000,000,000 Sixth War Loan Drive. The flame thrower, one of the 10 basic infantry weapons to be explained and demonstrated in "Here's Your Infantry," will be used in the spectacular 30-minute reduction of a Japanese pillbox which climaxes the program. do you think it would be dangerous if anyone touched you?" "I don't know," Lilia explained earnestly. "In the old days there was so much looseness between men and women that a tabu was proclaimed to protect the chastity of the daughter of some chief or king. At her marriage, of course, it was removed." She looked up at him.

"I can see the sense in that," Jason mused. "They must have led a gay life out here before the missionaries came. But are you content to go living in this way? Isolated from your friends by an invisible wall?" "I have no friends," said the princess wistfully. "How about me?" asked Jason. "The girl gazed at him quietly for a moment, then nodded. "Yes," she said. "You are my friend. The first."

"Hi! hi!" a screeching voice came from somewhere down the beach. The princess sprang to her feet. "It's Kilani," she turned quickly to Jason. "You must go at once." "Where?" asked Jason with a smile.

Kilani's head came bobbing over the rise in the beach. She had been running and was out of breath. When she saw the girl with Jason she let out a loud cry, a wall of alarm and anger. "Haole! she cried. "You pupule, crazy." She shook a heavy fist at Jason. "I tell king you talk to my girl," she spluttered, beside herself with rage.

"Hush, Kilani!" commanded the princess. "Paying no attention to the princess, Kilani let out another ear-splitting yowl which ended in a strangled groan." Down the beach came three soldiers wearing white trousers and jackets, but no shirts or shoes. They wore cocked hats on their heads and carried muskets.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

PREDESTINATION

Many people are baffled by the Christian doctrine of election, also known as predestination. There are many who believe that God has elected, or predestined, certain men to be saved and other men to be damned. Notable church figures in the past have advocated this doctrine, and it is incorporated in certain of our creeds. But the most superficial reading of Scripture reveals that such a belief has no basis in the teachings of the Bible. We are assured that whosoever sincerely seeks after God will find Him. There is a way in which God elects us for salvation, and salvation never occurs apart from the power of God. We do not save ourselves simply by desiring to be saved. It is true that we are elected, but everyone is elected who believes. Everyone who has truthfully said Yes in the face of Christ's offer of himself is saved.

The word, "whosoever," rings through many a passage of Scripture. To believe that God has appointed certain men to salvation and others to condemnation quite apart from anything they may do, is to take the whole meaning out of the Christian gospel, which bids everyone repent and come to a saving knowledge of Christ.

We are elected to salvation, but that election depends upon our willingness to say Yes to God's offer and to abide by its consequences. All Rights Reserved—Babson Newspaper Syndicate

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—It happened in Buffalo the other day, but only in aviation circles here and among Army fliers scattered over the world did it cause any stir. What actually happened was that the Curtis-Wright plant there turned over to the Army Air Force the 15,000th and last of the P-40's. It was a P-40B warhawk, 14th model of the fighting plane in this war, but now a casualty of wartime aviation progress. The assembly line has been torn down. The cavernous Curtis-Wright factory there is temporarily as empty as a barn. But in history and in the minds of thousands of pilots the P-40 will live on for many years. In something over three years, the P-40's hung up a fighting record that may never be equalled. For a long time, the P-40 was Gen. H. H. "Happy" Arnold's baby. Col. Robert I. Scott, author of "God Is My Co-Pilot" and "Damned to

On The Sidelines—

-BUT STILL AVAILABLE FOR COACHING

Glory," not long ago summed up many pilots' views when he said "Give me my old P-40 and I'll go back to China any time, and slap the Japanese back where they belong."

The P-40 originally was designed as a pursuit plane but in the hurry-scurry to catch up with the blitzkrieg of the aggressor nations, it became probably the most versatile fighter plane in the skies.

The famed shark-mouthed "Flying Tiger" planes in China were all P-40's. But what isn't generally known is that the P-40's or their "daddys"—the P-36's—chalked up more "firsts" than any other type of fighting plane. For example, they shot down the first Me-109 over France in 1939; the first enemy aircraft downed by Allied or American airmen over Pearl Harbor, Iraq, the Philippines, Australia, Java, the Aleutians, Russia, Africa, Italy and Yugoslavia.

It is claimed that more Army aces to date have flown P-40's than any other plane. Among them, at least, are Wing Commander Olive "Killer" Caldwell, the Australian ace who is credited with 20 and one-half Nazi planes; Col. David Lee "Tex" Hill, who dropped 18 Japanese planes in the Chinese theater; Maj. Kenneth M. Taylor, who sent the first Japanese plane over Pearl Harbor plummeting to death; and Col. Scott, who commanded Gen. Claire L. Chennault's fighter force in China and himself bagged 13 Japanese planes.

In addition to the United States, 26 other members of the United Nations have painted their insignia on P-40's. The P-40's, despite their original design as pursuit planes, have served as dive bombers, photo-reconnaissance ships, ground stragglers and just straight bombers carrying up to a ton of deadly missiles. In a cross-section made in all theaters, it is estimated that 2-1/2 million have accounted for 13 and one-half enemy planes for every one of their own shot down. That estimate, based on 457 planes that engaged 1,287 enemy planes, undoubtedly would be cut down considerably in an overall picture, but it still is a record that may never be approached.

As far as production is concerned, the P-40 is gone, but it will be a long time before it is forgotten either by our Army pilots or our enemies.

THE WAR TODAY

Major Gen. Wedemeyer, who succeeded Gen. Stilwell as commander of the United States forces in China said a month ago that the military situation was unfavorable "but not irretrievable." Perhaps that still can be said, so far as preservation of the Burma road and Chungking are concerned.

However, military experts generally are veering to the view that China may be about washed up as the grand base from which to conduct the final assault on Japan; That's the uncomfortable but true appraisal.

American Bombers...

The Allied armed forces will import the bulk of their requirements, the proclamation said. "If they should be in a position to give help to the population of Europe, this help will primarily go to the population of the countries which have been ravaged and plundered by the German armies. The German people will have to rely on its own resources. It is of highest importance that these resources should not be destroyed by the Nazis' scorched earth policy."

"Food supplies, seeds, fertilizers and agricultural machines must be salvaged above all," Eisenhower said. "If trumper is not to follow the defeat, German farmers must by all possible means prevent the Nazis from driving away their cattle as the Allied armies advance. They must do everything in their power to keep their farms in order and to achieve peak production." Eisenhower warned the people of the Reich that "the hopes of the German people to avoid economic collapse after the defeat are largely dependent upon the extent of German opposition to Nazi plans to destroy German property and German natural resources before the occupation by Allied troops."

tion of the French and Belgium systems, the British air ministry said last night.

Pointing out that Allied heavy bombers had from March to June of this year to tie up French and Belgian lines, the ministry explained that Germany has a more elaborate rail system than France and one which now is less dependent on large switching yards and depots. If the Reich's larger rail yards are destroyed, there are many smaller ones the enemy can use as alternates.

The plan worked out by the Allied air forces is designed to isolate Germany's main industrial centers from the western front. An intolerable strain can be put on the railway system by bombing key points behind the front and large industrial areas close to the front.

It was explained that the nerve center of the whole German rail system is crammed into a comparatively small area of the often-bombed Ruhr and middle Rhine districts. Freight traffic density in the Ruhr is more than double the average for the whole of Germany.

Eisenhower...

The Allied air forces have developed a plan for immobilizing Germany's rail network but the task will take longer than the disloca-

Patton's Forces...

(Continued from page one) armies were inside or at the fringe of Germany and up against defenses of great strength and depth. The maximum penetration of Germany was about 15 miles in the Hurler Forest areas east of Aachen.

At Supreme headquarters it was said that the winter campaign which became general on Nov. 16 started off at a rate costing the Germans 4,000 men daily in dead and long term casualties. Enemy losses now are estimated to be running much heavier, representing a terrific drain on the Wehrmacht's thinning manpower. The 15th and Sixth Army groups comprising one French and four American armies, alone have captured 67,000 prisoners in three weeks.

Headquarters released no figure on Allied casualties, but Gen. Eisenhower's men were bearing the burden of the attack and this indicated their losses too were heavy. The Germans had studied the east bank section of Saarlautern with concrete advance posts of their Siegfried Line belt. Patton's following forces still were beating street by street, at nests of Germans still in the city of 32,000, second largest in the Saarland. The enemy was trying frantically with mortar and machinegun fire to hold its thick-walled positions. The Volkssturm opened fire from street barricades and house windows. Berlin asserted that a counterattack had wrested the Saarlautern citadel from the Americans.

Headquarters said the Volkssturm was not well organized and was inadequately armed. Infantry of the Third Army fanning out north and slightly northeast of Saarlautern captured Roden and an adjacent village, also named Srlutern, and the larger town of Fraulautern. This indicated Patton had broadened his east bank bridgehead over the Saar River to at least two and a half miles. The Germans' first counterattack from their Siegfried defenses failed. It was a small affair against the twin village of Roden and Saarlautern and cost the Nazis four of their six attacking tanks with which they covered their infantry.

The Ninth Air Force flew 300 sorties above the fronts of the Third, First and Ninth armies up to noon. Weather improved. Patton's forces were on the Saar River all the way to Merzig, 16 miles above Saarlautern. His center and right were wheeling into Germany or through the last thin strip of Lorraine all the way southeast of Sarre Union.

Navies Exchanging...

(Continued from page four) Heavy bombers on night flights sank two 1,000-ton freighters off the north coast of Borneo, and damaged three other ships.

In New Guinea mopping up operations, an additional 1,821 enemies have been killed, Gen. MacArthur reported, and 120 prisoners of war and 713 "friendly nationals" liberated.

Associated Press correspondent Fred Hampson reported that the Japanese defending Leyte are displaying improved fighting qualities, and said the Americans face plenty more tough fighting before the island can be liberated. The enemy has given up his suicide tactics and is making the best possible use of his manpower, Hampson said.

RED OFFENSIVE PUSHES AHEAD

Budapest Outflanked; Other Units Nearing Austria.

London, Dec. 5—(AP)—Red army forces surging through western Hungary in a drive outflanking besieged Budapest were massed today along the south shore of Lake Balaton, only 60 miles from the Austrian frontier.

Led by Marshal Fedor I. Tolbukhin, the Austrian-bound Russians piled up one gain yesterday of 17 miles. The overall advances carried them 12 miles closer to the border than previously reported—60 miles from Nagybasom, at the southwest end of the 42-mile lake front. A Moscow bulletin issued at midnight said a column driving north along the west bank of the Danube was 37 miles south of Budapest and still advancing toward the capital's back door. East of the river, which divides the city, other Russian troops have been hammering the southeastern and eastern suburbs for days and on the north-eastern army communications have been cut.

Tolbukhin's forces were rapidly taking positions to swing around both ends of Lake Balaton toward Austria. Nagybasom was the springboard for the southwestern army. At the northeastern end of the lake front the base was Sagvar, reached yesterday in a 17-mile advance from Tamas.

The Russians swept through more than 100 towns and villages north-east, west and south of the communications hub of Kaposvar, captured Saturday.

The Germans are abandoning their military technique, their arms and military equipment," the Moscow communique said of the fighting in this sector.

Reports still incomplete declared the Russians killed 2,000 enemy soldiers in yesterday's fighting. The communique said, 3,000 prisoners were taken in three days of fighting ending Sunday.

West of Pees in the area of the Urava river border of Hungary and Yugoslavia the Russians were hurling the enemy on the approaches to the rail junction town of Sasgetvar, 80 miles northeast of Zagreb.

Red army troops operating in northern Yugoslavia with Yugoslav forces captured Mitrovica, on the Sava river 41 miles northwest of Belgrade.

Boy Scouts Guests At Rotary Meeting

By WYATT BROWN
Youthful enthusiasm together with songs, games and stunts was afforded the Rotarians by five Boy Scouts from Troop 96 last night at the weekly dinner meeting of the Rotarians and their guests. Jimmy Diener acted as master of ceremonies after W. F. Young had presented the Boy Scouts. They were R. W. Tyson, Jr., Jimmy Ward, Carl Denton, Louis Evans, and Jimmy Diener.

Scout Commissioner Young in presenting the Scouts said he had chosen for the occasion five of the outstanding Scouts from the outstanding troop in eastern Carolina. A. B. Stalworth is the scoutmaster. The boys proceeded to let the men see and participate in their games and songs. They "did" the Rotarians join them in a couple of the songs. In one song the main idea was to see whether five boys could outdo the assembled Rotarians. The other was a tricky song where pantolines/regimes certain words. Jimmy made a fine master of ceremonies. Carl Blackwood of Farmville and Gullford Smith of Point Pleasant, West Virginia were visiting Boy Scouts last night. Guests were Sgt. Wesley Harvey, Clayton F. Fuller, Vernon Grove, and W. T. Spyer. The program was presented by the Boy Scout Committee, Joe Starn, president, presided.

Widows' Pensions
Washington, Dec. 5—(AP)—House action today sent to President Roosevelt legislation providing pensions up to a maximum of $74 a month for widows and orphans of World War I veterans.
The chamber accepted senate amendments increasing sums provided in a bill previously passed by the house.

DAVIS CHOSEN
BEST PLAYER

Picked As Outstanding
Grid Star Of Southern Conference.

By BARTON PATTIE
Richmond, Va., Dec. 5—(AP)—The outstanding football player of the 1944 campaign in the Southern Conference—in the belief of coaches and sports writers of the Maryland-Virginia-North and South Carolina area—was Tom Davis, Duke back, who will make his last college grid-iron appearance against Alabama in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's day.
Davis was the handy man of a Duke backfield which had to face one of the toughest schedules ever attempted by a Blue Devil team. Injuries to other key men in the Duke quartet forced a variety of assignments on Davis.

Owen, a 200-pound former G-I from Birmingham, Ala., is rated by Coach Walker as second only to 1943 All-American Pat Preston among the tackles he has seen as a conference coach.
Duke and Wake Forest each won three berths on the all-conference line. Duke and North Carolina have a claim on another of the honorees, John Kerns, 230-pound, six-foot-three giant, who played for the Blue Devils until November when he was transferred as a marine trainee to North Carolina.
The all-Southern Conference line-ups for 1944:

First Team

Winter Ahead Of
Regular Schedule

By CHESTER WALSH
Last Friday was the coldest day of the fall, when the official thermometer at the U. S. Weather Bureau at the Greenville Machine Works registered 21 degrees at 8 a. m., 11 degrees below freezing.
The mercury stood at 22.3 degrees Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. The thermometer registered 22.3 degrees at 8 o'clock Monday morning.
The cold weather here followed a blizzard in the central west. Clear weather has prevailed here the past three days, with light wind. Winter officially begins on December 21, the shortest day of the year.
Cold weather arrived in this section earlier than last year. Last December 16 a mild blizzard swept this section, with rain, sleet and snow, and the next day the mercury registered 11.8 degrees and the highest point it reached that day was 21.3 degrees in the afternoon. Traffic was halted on highways and many cars were marooned downtown. Snow and ice made traffic difficult. Passenger bus traffic was halted. Numerous minor collisions occurred on the icy streets.

Game Protectors Of East Hold Meeting

The Eastern Carolina Game Protectors' Club held its quarterly meeting at Respass' place Friday night. All members of the Fifth District were present.
Walter Lupton, Jr., of Belhaven, was installed as president; Carlton Parker of Pollockville, vice president, and J. O. Teel of Greenville, secretary and treasurer. The club was organized to promote cooperation in uniform enforcement of the game laws.

Operators Cancel
Plans To Strike

Memphis, Dec. 5—(AP)—Given company approval of their demands for a 45 weekly pay increase, long distance operators of Memphis and Louisville have cancelled plans for a strike which a union official said might have led to a nationwide telephone tieup.
The American Telephone and Telegraph Company announced last night it had agreed to meet the operators' wage request, and union leaders in the two cities immediately said the strike threat was off.
Weather Forecast
Extended five-day forecast for North and South Carolina—Continued cool weather during period. Rain Wednesday and early Thursday, followed by fair weather Friday and Saturday.

Hold Negro Woman
For Child's Death

A coroner's jury at Bethel last night found that the month-old daughter of Ernest Person and his wife, Luretha Person, Negroes, came to her death at the hands of an unknown person and recommended that the mother be held under $2,500 bond for further investigation by the grand jury. Coroner Griffin H. Rouse of Greenville presided.
The mother and child were alone in the house at the time of death, testified Attorney Jack Edwards of Greenville was counsel for the woman. She is in jail here and receiving medical attention.
Last Friday Dr. R. M. Garrenton of Bethel was called to the Person home and found that the child had died of strangulation. Its mother told Bethel Police Chief Martin, Dr. Garrenton, Sheriff Ruel Tyson and Coroner Rouse that she strangled

May Hunt Quail On Christmas This Year

Quail may be hunted in lay counties on Christmas Day and New Year's Day. Pitt County Game Protector J. O. Teel said today. In Pitt and adjoining lay counties the hunting of quail is allowed only on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.
A state game law provides a heavy penalty for persons who buy or sell quail. The day's bag limit is 10 birds.
To Get Paroles
Raleigh, Dec. 5—(AP)—About 200 prisoners, whose terms normally would expire between December 25 and January 1, will be paroled in time for them to reach home by Christmas, governor Broughton said today.
No other "Christmas" paroles will be granted.
