

Eden Opposes America's Hands-Off Announcement

Declares Britain with in Her Rights in Trying To Shape Government Of Liberated Countries; Reiterates Objection To Sforza As Italian Foreign Minister.

By JAMES F. KING London, Dec. 6 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden asserted flatly today that Britain was within her rights in trying to shape the governments of liberated countries, and thereby split completely with the American declaration of a "hands-off" policy in Italy.

Eden stood by the British government's veto of the proposed appointment of Carlo Sforza as Italian Foreign Minister. Secretary of State Stettinius had announced yesterday the United States did not oppose Sforza and felt the Italians should be allowed to form their own government without outside interference.

Eden's stand—clearly of significance in the reshaping of a post-war Europe—brought divided sentiment in the House.

Orin of "No" met a suggestion by Ivor Thomas, Laborite, that Britain "withdraw gracefully" and admit that "A blunder has been made."

Just as Stettinius implied that his "no-interference" statement was a far broader declaration than the immediate issue of Count Sforza, so Eden apparently applied his words to the future of all liberated Europe.

Eden announced a full-dress debate for Friday on the crisis in Greece, where Britain is using her armed forces in line with a Churchill declaration, against Left-Wing elements.

When Laborite member Ivor Thomas asked whether the British government's views were being modified in the light of the American statement in favor of a hands-off policy in Italy, Eden replied: "I can assure you that my answers are revised up to the very last minute."

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst This column has been asked to interpret Britain's intervention in the Greek political crisis to prevent, as Prime Minister Churchill has made clear, any attempt to "impose by violence a Communist dictatorship"—a crisis which is producing fresh bloodshed in ancient Athens as this is written.

CROWD SEES ARMY SHOW

Second Performance To Be Given Here Tonight.

By CHESTER WALSH This was "army day" in Greenville and several thousand persons witnessed a band concert by a 30-piece Army band at Five Points and parade preliminary to the presentation of "Here's Your Infantry," a dramatization of battle scenes, at Guy Smith Stadium at 3:30 this afternoon.

The crowd was thrilled by what they saw at the baseball park. The battle scenes were spectacular and awe-inspiring. People at home had an opportunity to see just what the American soldiers experience in battle with the Japs and Germans.

Disorders And Bloodshed Continue Throughout Athens Today.

By STEPHEN BARBER Athens, Dec. 6 (AP)—A British Sherman tank and a platoon of British soldiers seized headquarters of the left-wing EAM party by storm today as fighting spread throughout wide areas of Athens.

The Communist party building on Constitution Square also was taken. Parachute troopers forced the main entrance with grenades, and seized 42 prisoners, including women. Some were armed.

Fighting with tanks and machine-guns broke out after snipers of the ELAS—the militia of the EAM, National Liberation Front—fired on a truckload of British troops before dawn, killing one and wounding another.

A Sherman tank was sent to batter in the door of EAM headquarters, and British troops charged the stairs, scattering EAM defenders with half a dozen bursts of fire, and cleaning up floor by floor.

One British soldier was killed by a bullet through the head while searching the building. A dying ELAS soldier lay on the roof. British troops are establishing control over the center of Athens by degrees, working out in concentric rings. Sniping continued incessantly throughout the city, with occasional bigger thumps from grenades and machine-guns.

SOVIET TANKS DRIVE TOWARD AUSTRIAN LINE

Advance Forces Within 40 Miles Of Border; Other Units Drive On Budapest.

(By The Associated Press) London, Dec. 6.—Soviet tanks sweeping past Lake Balaton have plunged within 40 miles of the Austrian border, Moscow dispatches said today, while the Germans acknowledged a new threat to the Hungarian capital, Budapest.

The Soviet sweep, curling around the lower end of the great Hungarian lake was beating through the final defense-zone guarding the southern door to Germany.

The Berlin radio said Russians had crossed to the west bank of the Danube below Budapest from 30-mile long island, establishing a new bridgehead and winning the town of Ercsi, 20 miles south of the capital.

Budapest was under large-scale attack from both sides, the German high command declared, the fighting in Hungary was rising in violence.

One Berlin broadcast said the main Soviet blows were thrown in between the Danube and Lake Balaton, and that the Soviets gained ground toward the north and northwest. The German communiqué, however, declared these thrusts were largely halted.

The race toward Austria ended in a rear communications of the large Yugoslav city of Zagreb. The major rail line north from Nagykanizsa through the Hungarian city of Szombathely to Wiener Neustadt, big German aircraft manufacturing center, and Vienna was reported blocked by Russian artillery.

The Austria-bound Russians spring forward from the area of Marcell, reported captured yesterday. Tolbukhin's triumph in mauling the rear of most of the German forces in the northern sector gave him a pivotal base for flinging out incursions to the northeast around Budapest, Hungarian capital, and to the southwest around Szeged, southern Hungarian city and capital of Croatia.

Russian vanguards, moving with extreme boldness, were probing the rolling countryside between the lake and the Drava river, beyond which thousands of Croatian partisans loyal to Marshal Tito are said to be active.

Payroll For U. S. Troops Is Stolen

London, Dec. 6 (AP)—The London Daily Herald said today a $210,000 payroll for United States troops on the western front had been stolen while in transit in England.

It was the most "hush-hush" crime of its kind in England's history, the Herald said. How and when it occurred is a mystery, and nobody will talk about it.

"American military policy and G-men have joined in a widespread hunt," the Herald said, adding that the money was in small notes and sealed in tin boxes.

Renew Fight Against Govt. Control Of Press

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Associated Press renews its fight in the Supreme Court today against the government anti-trust suit which it says threatens to saddle AP with government controls "from now on."

In fact, John T. Cahill, AP council, told the court yesterday at the opening of argument on the case, these controls already are in effect.

ALLIED GAINS IN NORTH ITALY

British And Poles Establish New Bridgehead.

Rome, Dec. 6 (AP)—British and Polish troops have smashed across the Lamone river southwest of Faenza and established a bridgehead while other Eighth army units are cleaning out isolated enemy groups in captured Ravenna, with the aid of Italian patriots, Allied headquarters announced today.

Headquarters said the crossing of Lamone was made in strength and that the bridgehead was firmly against strong Nazi opposition.

The crossing was made upstream from the village of Quartolo, four miles southwest of Faenza, German strongpoint on the Dimini-Bologna highway.

The capture Monday of Ravenna, ancient Ostrogoth capital and important communications center, was followed by a marked Eighth army advance westward which was driving disorganized German elements back behind the lower Lamone river. (Continued on page six)

General Somervell Makes Plea For Production To Meet Growing Needs

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—Conquest of the Japanese will cost us $71,000,000,000 a year after Germany is defeated, Lt. Gen. Stephen Somervell predicted today.

"The war against the Jap alone will be the biggest war this country or this world ever fought before the present war," asserted the commanding general of the army service forces.

Somervell declared 300,000 more war workers are needed at once on critical programs as he appealed for an "upsurge of production" in a speech prepared for delivery before the National Association of Manufacturers.

Secret weapons are being produced that "must be ready in large quantities for the Pacific push," the speaker declared. The devices are "not yet in use in Europe."

For the first time munitions are being used up faster than they are being produced, said Somervell, warning that the full fury of the war in Europe may not even have been reached and "we are certainly not yet full out against Japan."

Germany "with its undeniable fiendish skill and efficiency is right now training thousands of fresh troops and turning out millions of tons of equipment for them," the manufacturers were told.

"Within the past 90 days we have had to increase by 25 per cent our estimate of the production we believed we would need to fight the Japs after Germany is defeated," said Somervell.

Somervell acknowledged heavy cost in ammunition and equipment, while reminding that "this nation has committed its troops to fighting the war in one specific fashion—with an overwhelming superiority of material."

"We would rather fire a ton of munitions than lose a single American soldier," he said. Our manpower was saved at Aachen where in our concentration of fire 300,000 rounds were fired from 105s alone, he said. Similar tactics in the Pacific have cost the (Continued on page five)

NAZI OIL IS BOMB TARGET

Important German Railway Centers Also Pounded.

By HOWARD COWAN London, Dec. 6 (AP)—Eight hundred American heavy bombers escorted by 200 Mustangs and Thunderbolt fighters, attacked Germany's No. 1 synthetic oil plant at Merseburg and the railroad yards at Bellefeld today.

The 3,000-ton raid took place under adverse weather conditions and results were unobserved.

Five thousand planes hit Germany yesterday, leaving blazing destruction strewn all the way from Berlin to the Rhine.

Almost 1,400 British-based American bombers and fighters bombed the Nazi capital and Munster, knocking down 81 German planes against the loss of 12 bombers and 17 fighters.

The RAF hit rail yards at Hamm and Soest—the two most important in Germany—with a bomber-fighter fleet equal to the U. S. Eighth air force effort. Two bombers were lost.

Third Army Artillery Sets Saarbrücken Factories Aflame; First And Ninth Armies Find Tough Going On Road To Cologne; Seventh Army Pushes Germans Back.

By JAMES M. LONG Paris, Dec. 6 (AP)—Americans of the Third Army forced the Saar River at six places and the French border town of Sarreguemines today. Artillery was turned on the Germans withdrawing northward into the Saarland.

Other assault teams bent down the last six miles toward Saarbrücken, little Pittsburgh of the rich coal and iron basin and the key to German defenses.

Maj. Gen. Paul W. Baade's 35th Infantry division overran the major part of Saareguemines (pop. 14,000) against light resistance. The largest French town on the river, it was entered this morning.

The Germans blew up all five bridges across the Saar in withdrawing into the third of the town they still held.

Patrols crossed the river at a seventh place, at Merzig 16 miles northwest of Invested Saarlautern, where Germans still held out in strong knots around concrete advance posts of the Siegfried Line.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's assault troops fought into the Siegfried Line itself at two places beyond the river in the Saarlautern area.

Texans of the 90th Infantry crossed the Saar early today in assault boats at four new places in a two and a half mile stretch between Merzig and Saarlautern. They fought in the morning hills on the east bank of the river at the edge of the Siegfried Line in a rain of rifle and machine gun fire.

Saarbrücken, capital of the 700 square miles of the Saarland, was in great and increasing peril as shells landed among its thickets of factory chimneys, smoking as they turned out war material for Hitler. The Americans were within sight of the city.

Patton's right and the flanking U. S. Seventh Army squeezed down the German hold on northern Lorraine—the Karlsruhe corner—to a strip no more than 50 miles long and only five to 20 miles deep. His troops still poured through the original Saar bridgehead inside Saarlautern and through the second gap thrown in the Saar defenses south of that city last night. The exact locations of the assaults upon the Siegfried Line itself were not specified.

Supreme headquarters regarded the four new Saar crossings as a single bridgehead, the third forged this week. All along the 50-mile front from Merzig to Sarre Union, natural defenses of the Germans were being negotiated and the enemy was being forced into the refuge of the stout and thick Siegfried Line.

Flood conditions along the rain-soaked Rhine River shielding Cologne were so bad that the U. S. 9th Army, along the stream, filled in its first attempts to get patrols to (Continued on page five)

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—Congress is on the verge of creating a committee of its own members to explore ways of improving congress. In some ways congress is out of date: its machinery creaks and it doesn't have all the help it needs to do a job.

Newspapers, political scientists and particularly younger congressmen have urged improvement. The proposed committee is the first step.

The work of that committee, which seems sure to be set up, undoubtedly will do some good. But don't expect too much or anything too radical.

Already some of the older congressmen are skeptical about the intentions of the younger congressmen who want the committee.

"This is just a dodge of these young fellows to try to get around us old fellows," one oldtime congressman said.

The legislation that flows out onto the floor of congress for debate and action is prepared in committees, piece by piece.

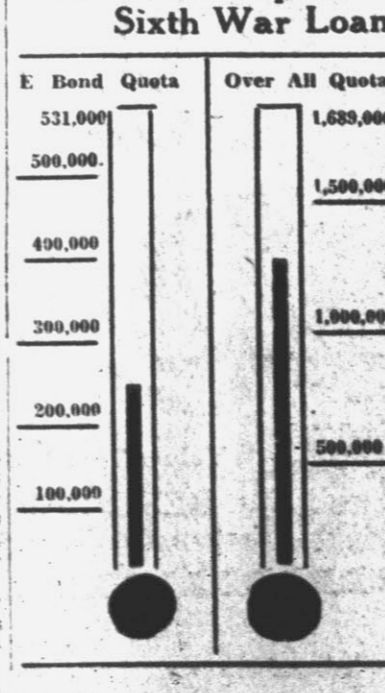

In congress, if you're on a committee you want to stay on. It carries prestige, power and publicity. The bigger the committee, the more important you are.

And a committee chairmanship is the big prize, powerful. You get it automatically as someone ahead steps out—if your political party has majority control in house or senate.

Thus, committee chairmanships are distributed by longevity—called seniority—and not by ability.

It has been suggested inside and outside congress that chairmen be appointed on ability and that where committees overlap in their work they be combined.

MRS. J. HENRY HIGHSMITH SPEAKS AT WOMAN'S CLUB

On Friday, December 1, Mrs. J. Henry Highsmith of Raleigh, president of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, spoke at the clubhouse on the occasion of the annual luncheon-meeting of the Woman's Club of Greenville.

Mrs. C. C. Hilton, president of the local club, presided, and the meeting which was largely attended, was opened with the singing in unison of the Club Woman's Hymn. The singing was led by Mrs. Dink James and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor. Mrs. N. C. Brooks offered the invocation.

Amidst the creation of an atmosphere suggestive of the brightness of the approaching Christmas season, a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess committee which was headed by Mrs. J. Hicks Corey, chairman.

Following luncheon, Mrs. J. Knott Proctor delighted her listeners with a couple of solo numbers, "Morning" and "When I Have Sung My Songs To You." Mrs. Proctor was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ray Tyson.

Mrs. Hilton welcomed the guests who were present, presented her officers for the year and then introduced Mrs. Hugh Ragdale, chairman of the program committee; who in a few well-chosen words presented the honor guest and speaker for the occasion, Mrs. J. Henry Highsmith.

Mrs. Highsmith, who has a most charming personality, spoke on the topic of juvenile delinquency and the post-war problems of youth. She ably discussed the place of the Woman's Club in a community and the part that club women can, and should play in the future by the adoption, and the enthusiastic carrying out of a big and long-view program of youth protection.

First, Mrs. Highsmith believes, the prevention of emotionally-damaged personalities, caused by unhappy childhoods, and the formation of idle and evil habits in youth is more important than all reclamation and rehabilitation programs that can ever be devised.

Among the fronts on which we, as clubwomen, can tackle the youth program are: the home, the adoption of resolutions against divorce, the formation of more parent-teacher study groups, an educational program of preparation for marriage and parenthood, the creation of a mental hygiene clinic, the passage of a school attendance law that works, the planning of recreational programs, insistence upon the teaching of the Bible in the public schools and the hearty approval of the back-to-church movement; the organization in our midst of a Teen-agers' Committee to cooperate in the working out of all these projects, and last, but not least, the creation of public opinion in favor of them and in getting suitable social bills passed by our legislature.

The strength and safety of a community consists in the virtue and intelligence of its youth. Someone has said aptly that the future belongs to the children but the children belong to God. So, if we catch the vision and have the will to do, we, as the last of the earthbound generations shall be able to teach the coming generation of things that it should know. We shall be able to grasp the high privilege of helping to guide our air-minded youth into safe paths and shall thereby not only help to mold what is to be the character of the next generation but of the destiny of the nation. We shall, moreover, not only help to preserve the American way of life and, in general, we shall be headed in the future toward a more beautiful way of life.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Highsmith's magnificent speech, she extended a cordial invitation to the Greenville club women to attend in May the meeting in Raleigh of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The meeting was closed with a prayer which was led by Mrs. L. A. Stroud.—Reported.

Speaks At Chapel Hour.
Miss Venetia Cox, native of Pitt County, who has recently returned from China, spoke at the regular ECTC chapel yesterday noon on "The Uprooted Students of China."

Miss Cox was presented by the YW and YMCA in connection with the World Student Service Fund Drive being sponsored on campus this week.

The speaker told how the Chinese colleges had originally been located near the coast and had gradually moved inland until they are now located near the Burma border.

She related experiences which the group of high school students and faculty members she was with encountered. She said that the group moved four times while she was there and that she had received word in the last few days of the fifth change in location caused by the recent advance of the Japanese.

In describing the work carried on, Miss Cox said that they had very few books and paper, practically no pencils, and a few boxes of Science equipment. She described the crude furniture built each time they moved and the lack of food and clothing.

Most of the student she said had lost contact with their parents, many of whom were dead.

Miss Cox reported that prices in China are 141 times as high as they were before the war. The Chinese government and the World Student Service Fund are the chief aids to the students who, after they finish their training, work in chemical factories to produce ammunition, act as interpreters for Americans in China, become pilots, or organize guerrilla bands and fight the Japanese.

Miss Cox is a native of Pitt county and is the aunt of Troy Rouse of Greenville and of Virginia Rouse, who graduated from the college last year. She returned from China less than a year ago after teaching high school there for 27 years.

Construction is under way in converting the top of the Firestone building into the Greenville teen age club.

Women Doing Great Work Selling Bonds

The Women's Division of the Pitt County War Bond Committee had fine success in its "door-knocking" campaign in Greenville a week ago. The women so far have sold $300,000 worth of War Bonds and are on the job every day doing their part to help exceed the county's quota.

The Women's Division's quota is $31,000 of E, F and G bonds. They hope to sell enough bonds to pay for a B-29 Superfortress. Mrs. Charles E. Blair, publicity chairman, said today. If they sell enough bonds to pay for the Superfortress the Boeing Aircraft Corporation will send them a model B-29 Superfortress for their good work.

"The members of the Women's Division, nearly all of them housewives, are unselfishly giving their time daily to selling War Bonds and deserve to succeed," said War Bond Chairman J. Herbert Waldrop. Mrs. John Warner is chairman of the Pitt County Women's Division.

Chapter 7

Kiliani cried out to the soldiers as they paused on the beach. "You must not shoot" commanded the princess sternly. "He has done no wrong. He is a friend."

The guards were bewildered. They did not know whom to obey, and they looked doubtfully from Kiliani to the princess. They swayed from a foot to the other.

"Stop it!" cried the princess in a sharp voice. She took an angry step toward them. "Do not shoot!"

The guards lowered their weapons. There was no disobeying the commands of royalty.

Kiliani choked and spluttered. He felt the lump at Jason between his hands.

The princess turned on her savely. "Enough of this, Kiliani!" she snapped. "The captain did not know this was the king's beach. No harm is done."

The guards nodded fearfully and went back. Kiliani led the girl away, followed by the three soldiers. Jason, however, went briskly to where he had left the carriage and found it waiting under a tree. The driver was asleep. Jason woke him and thumped on the ribs and ordered him to take him back to Honolulu. The man stretched and yawned. "You have good swim?" he asked.

He saw none of the beauty of the beach to town but sat hunched on the rear seat of the carriage, deep in thought. He remembered the lovely oval of the princess' face, the faint fragrance of her hair. He recalled the slender beauty of her golden body. Her words, her smile and fall of her voice, the roll of the letters with the sweetest trace of the melody of the Hawaiian language in her pronunciation.

He was puzzled at his own attitude. The affair which he had entered so lightly and gaily was becoming almost serious. Impatiently, he brushed the idea away. The Princess Kilea was just a little kanaka he'd found on a lovely island in the mid-Pacific. Naive, sweet, innocent. A few weeks of dalliance, then a mail away on the Vanity and forget her. Ah, but there was the fact. For Jason had an idea that the little brown-skinned princess was going to be hard to forget.

lounging in the rear of the carriage, he shrugged and smiled to himself. Life had taught him that he had to take things as they came. No amount of philosophizing could change the course of events. The fact that the girl was tabu added spice to the game. A little danger made things more interesting.

The Vanity rode high, already it caught of her cargo when Jason reached the harborside. Caleb was waiting for him, a thick envelope in his blunt-fingered hand. "A message in a fancy uniform brought it," he explained. "What opened? You in trouble at the palace already?"

Jason grinned as he tore open the envelope and read the message card it contained. "On the contrary," he handed Caleb the card upon which the King's coat of arms glowed in rich color. Caleb read:

Chamberlain of the Household
Is Comanded by HIS MAJESTY
to invite Captain Blake and his officers to a Concert at the Palace grounds on the Day of November 10 at 8 o'clock.

Caleb whistled softly. "Another shaka hoedown. You seem to get well—with royalty. How was the princess?"

"A charming little miss, very friendly—and very lonely." Jason told him. "I shall look forward to seeing her again at the concert."

Caleb watched the brown-skinned unloading pipe, shook his head. "I'd better go along," he mumbled. "I can see trouble brewing."

On the night of the King's concert Jason and Caleb put on their blue uniforms, which were as full dress as they could attain. They tilted their hats over their eyes after the fashion of outgoing ships' officers and left the ship.

As they walked up Nuuanu Street, toward the palace, the door of the bar bulged open and the heavy-set figure of Captain Callahan lurched out—followed by a flock of feminine laughter. Callahan staidied himself, stared up at down the street.

"There's a trouble maker," Caleb winked his thumb in Callahan's direction. "Always mixed up in something shady."

"They say he's wanted in Boston," Jason added in a low voice. "A fight against I believe. They found a man with Callahan's knife in his hand."

"Well, that's Honolulu for you!" Caleb declared, eyeing his brother with a mocking smile. "All the ash and driftwood of the seven seas comes floating into this port."

When Callahan saw the brothers rushing forward, seized each by an arm, and acted as if they were long-lost shipmates. "The very lady I was looking for," he bellowed. "Belly up, me bullies, and have a drink on me."

"No, thanks. Jason drew away. Caleb shook his head.

But the captain was a thick-skinned man and didn't notice the well-edged disk with which his invitation was received. He launched the uniforms of Caleb and Jason. "Ho," he said, "sparkin', I'll wager!"

"We're going to the palace," Jason told him.

"Palace, is it?" Captain Callahan thumped Jason on the back. "Let me put a word in yer ear. The premier ain't always going to be able to overtax us poor sea-captains."

"What do you mean?" demanded Jason. "Stop that kind of talk."

"Stop it, I will not," growled Callahan. "Talk's free, and I'll use as much of it as I like. I'll tellin' ye the truth; there's a movement brewin' to depose the premier. Already the committee has been formed."

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion? YES NO

Do you feel headachy after eating?

Do you get sour or upset easily?

Do you feel tired—listless?

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about ten pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, the food may remain undigested—causing you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—within as little as 30 minutes. And, when on the road to feeling better, don't depend on artificial aids to "artificially" indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 10¢ and 25¢.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

TOMORROW MAY BE TOO LATE
A few hours ago I talked with a man who gave such a description of his health that I can only conclude that he is standing on the threshold of death. The symptoms he described are unmistakably those which foreshadowed an early demise.

Yet he does not want to give up his business. He is clearly. He has a comfortable income and only one child to whom he would leave this fortune. Everything points to retirement immediately if he would nurse his failing health along for a few years and forestall the eventual day. There are certain business matters that it might be well for him to have settled before he dies. Purely from the financial standpoint, it will mean much for his estate if he can live two or three years more.

Why men keep on going in the face of such a situation as this is hard to understand. It is often true that men retire too early, and the quick cessation of activity leads to an early death. But it is also true that many men hold on too long and attempt to oppose an impossible situation.

When we recognize the inevitable, the wise thing to do is to bow to it. And when a man begins to manifest such symptoms of declining health as such a layman can diagnose his case as serious, it's time to mail a resignation.

Here's straight talk by an industrial editor to his fellow war workers. It is worth your listening to and thinking about tonight through reading the war news. It may seem a long way from that over a lighthouse in the Pacific to a cottage in the suburbs, but they're not as far apart as you might think.

To the boy whose father looks to his family as a source of strength and security, that foxhole is security. To us who stay at home and fight the battle as civilians, the cottage in the suburbs is the security we look forward to when the world is again at peace.

When the noise of battle dies, when men and women across the world renew their peacetime pursuits, those of us who have invested in War Bonds can step immediately into the future we planned.

So the foxhole and the cottage in the suburbs aren't so far apart after all. Different as they seem, they have one common denominator—War Bonds. Extra bonds will move our boys out of the foxholes sooner.

THE EDITOR.

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington— I think one thing that has official Washington more worried than any other as we move into the most critical stage of warfare on all fronts is the manpower shortage in war industries.

It has upset the War Production Board's plans for gradual reconversion to production of civilian necessities. It has put the War Manpower Commission on a worse spot than ever before. It is so serious that both the War Department and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower have had to pause in prosecution of the war to try to drive home the seriousness of it to the folks on the homefront.

Small arms ammunition plants which had been closed are trying to reopen. Shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser is complaining that 26,000 workers have deserted his industries. WMC Chief Paul V. McNutt is pleading for 300,000 more war workers. At least 60,000 will be needed to step up the small arms ammunition production. Sixteen other vital war industries are painfully short of manpower.

They include artillery ammunition, foundry production, testing,

This strain as a great sea-power to challenge (peacefully, but still to challenge) Britain's domination of the Mediterranean which perhaps more than any other single factor has maintained England as the gendarme of Europe.

Of course, as Churchill says, conflict between the Greek government and armed guerrillas (the Leftists) makes it impossible for Britain to carry out relief measures in the stricken country. He also promises that the people shall have a free choice of government.

Still, the Greek Imbroglio isn't an isolated instance. Britain also is supporting the Bonomi government of Italy, which is having hard sledding against Communist and other Leftist opposition that is against the monarchy. London also has turned thumbs-down on Count Sforza for Italian Foreign Minister. The count reputedly leans towards the Left and is anti-monarchist. Similarly England is supporting the Belgian government.

In all this Moscow has sat very tight. The Washington State Department, however yesterday came out with its striking declaration that the United States expects the Italian people to develop their government "along democratic lines without influence from outside." That's blunt enough, but more sweeping is the additional statement: "This policy would apply to an even more pronounced degree with regard to governments of the United Nations and their liberated territories." And Greece is a liberated United Nation.

be better than United Press or other news agencies. Frankfurter said he was not implying that one service was superior to the other but that AP and UP services presumably are an advantage to a newspaper.

It would not be a wide jump, Frankfurter said, for a court to say it would be an advantage to have both.

Attacking the lower court's "full illumination" theory, Cahill said that no newspaper with a major news service is without comprehensive news of the world, and with all this news "fully illuminated" the AP by-laws are in no way related to that issue, he argued.

Justice Frankfurter at one point wanted to know if the government's legal theory requiring admission of all comers to the cooperative news association could be applied to other cooperatives dealing in such things as "peanuts and potatoes."

Cahill explained that in the AP case it was applied only to the press, but said it was the government's contention that it could be applicable to anyone.

Chief Justice Stone inquired several times about the basis of the suit and remarked that he had all ways understood one purpose of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act was to promote competition. He commented that when one railroad takes in another, the Supreme Court had been decreeing that "it couldn't be done."

Howard Ellis, counsel for the Chicago Tribune, an AP member and a defendant in the suit, began arguments on the Tribune's separate appeal at the conclusion of Cahill's appearance. Ellis will complete his argument in today's session beginning at noon. He will be followed by Justice Department attorneys who will present the government's case.

Christmas Spirit Begins To Prevail

By CHESTER WALSH
With only 45 more shopping days until Christmas, gift buying is getting into full swing. Many of the stores are crowded with good-natured shoppers and extra clerks are needed. Christmas decorations in stores and windows suggest the approach of the Yuletide season, but the absence of many novelties and toys from shelves and counters remind that there is a war going on and merchandise is hard to find. Toys are at a premium and many articles of merchandise usually selected for Christmas gifts are not to be found. Fireworks are forbidden for the duration of the war.

Stores are expected to be open nights the week before Christmas, which comes on Monday this year. The cold wave with clear crisp weather, ushered in hog-killing time at many places in the county, and this promises plenty of spare ribs, backbone, tenderloin and country eating experience to make a round sausage for feasting during the holiday season.

Many tobaccoists are migrating toward the Tennessee and Kentucky markets. Nearly all of the crops have been harvested, and some farmers are already breaking ground for new tobacco beds to be sown in January. Excellent crops and ideal weather for harvesting and high prices brought prosperity to the farmers. Millions of dollars have been distributed during one of the most prosperous harvest seasons Pitt county has ever experienced. J. Herbert Waldrop, War Bond committee chairman, today suggested that in the shortage of suitable Christmas gift merchandise the people here give War Stamps and War Bonds for Christmas.

The cigarette famine continues to prevail. It was pointed out here today that hundreds of thousands of persons in this country who formerly rolled their own are now smoking ready made cigarettes in their war time prosperity. It is an interesting experience to make a round

The extreme advance from Brest to Sarreguines was 430 airline miles. By official French estimate the Germans had suffered 1,150,000 casualties in the western invasion, seemingly a conservative figure in view of 749,394 captives officially announced by the eight Allied armies.

The German Ruhr, Rhineland and Saar which erode the vast preponderance of the enemy's heavy industry all were imminently threatened. The Saar was invaded and more than 150 square miles of Germany was behind Patnikov's lines alone.

Unofficially it was reported that Tolbukhin's capture of 120 Hungarian towns and villages yesterday was increased overnight by several scores more as his troops surged toward both Austria and Yugoslavia.

Having this day qualified as administrators of the estate of J. H. Carrow this is to notify all persons having claims against the estate to file them with the undersigned, Guy Carrow, at Grimesland, N. C., within twelve months from this date or this notice will be plead in bar of recovery.

Some of the Junior High squad, a few of the veterans from last year's team will not be able to practice for two or three weeks because of injuries sustained in football but they in all probability will be ready before the season gets very much underway.
