Russians Tighten Vice On Budapest

Berlin Reports Important Town Of Vac 15 Miles Northeast Of Hungarian Capital Has Fallen To Soviets Sealing Off Budapest From The North.

London, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The Berlin radio said today the Germans have lost the town of Vac 15 miles northeast of Budapest on the Danube, after hard fighting.

Asserting the Russians had thrown in fresh reinforcements in the battle for Budapest, Transcarpathian German lines "had to be taken back several miles east of the capital."

"From their penetration north of Budapest," the news agency said, "the Soviets increased their pressure southwards on Budapest, at the same time attacking toward the north."

The broadcast said the Russians were not attempting to cross the Danube at Vac, but had turned south.

Previously Berlin had announced that the Russians were pushing westward from captured Habsburg and captured the railroad town of Aszod, 15 miles northeast of Budapest, and were threatening Vac.

Capture of Vac seals off Budapest from the north. The town stands on the big bend of the Danube where the river turns west toward Vienna.

The hard-driving Russian armies were closing in on Budapest like a vice and Moscow reports of wholesale defections by Hungarians from the defending forces.

The city already was under heavy pressure from Russian forces on the west bank of the Danube less than 13 miles south of the city.

Berlin also said units of the second and third Ukrainian armies had lined up on the west bank of the Danube at Ercsi, 13 miles south of Budapest following a crossing by the narrow island that throned Malomkő, troops from Cesepel, the narrow island that splits the Danube from 30 miles south of the capital.

A supplement communiqué stressed that Hungarian units fighting with the Nazi defenders of Budapest and western Hungary were giving up in great numbers in the face of a situation their commanders acknowledged was "hopeless."

A midnight Soviet bulletin said an entire Hungarian infantry comprising 29 officers and 1,300 men surrendered to the Soviets on the Danube. The bulletin said 1,500 Germans and Hungarians were killed yesterday on the front west of the Danube.

In that area Moscow said Tolbukhin's forces smashed ahead 11 miles and captured the rail station of Kiscseri and Csova village, only nine miles south of Szekesfehervar, great road and rail junction between Budapest and the northern end of Lake Balaton.

Soviet forces were poised all along the eastern and southern shores of the lake, while in the corridor between lower Balaton and the Yugoslavian border, Third Army units advanced closest to the Austrian frontier. Moscow said 30 Russian soldiers captured against heavy German counterattacks in the area and officially placed the Red army 41 miles of the Austrian border and less than 110 miles from Vienna.

NEW GAINS ON ITALIAN FRONT

Eighth Army Troops Capture San Prospero.

Rome, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Eighth Army troops rapidly completing the encirclement of Faenza have captured San Prospero, on the west bank of the Lamone River a mile and a half due west of the Bologna-Rimini highway stronghold.

Capture of San Prospero represented an advance of approximately three miles from Pideura, around which Allied headquarters today described the fighting as "particularly bitter."

German troops already had been reported pulling back west of Faenza toward the next last highway center of Imola, eight miles from Faenza and only 19 from the Po Valley prize city of Bologna.

Elsewhere on the front activity yesterday was confined to patrol operations, headquarters said.

The withdrawing Germans were putting up stiff resistance in an attempt to prevent the outflanking movement on Faenza.

Allied fire was directed across the Lamone, north of the Bologna-Rimini highway, where the Germans had dug in on the west bank of the stream.

The bridgehead over the Lamone below the highway was already five miles deep in some places.

In the bloody battling for Pideura, enemy infantry and armor counterattacked and recaptured the village yesterday. The Nazis held it most of the day in vicious house to house fighting until Allied tanks and troops regained control.

The west bank of the Lamone north of Faenza has been cleared as far as three miles south of Mezzano and Allied patrols were active all the way to Faenza itself.

Activity on the Fifth Army front was slowed by the weather.

great city of Cologne, towards which Allied forces at this moment are driving again. War correspondents shortly were received by the Burgomaster—a high and mighty square-headed Prussian of that super-race type which instantly inspires thoughts of manslaughter.

This arrogant heel received us in a great, oak-paneled room and had us seated about a long table. He presided at the head in an ornate chair with a throne-like back, behind which stood an obsequious who served as secretary. We had no more than sat down when the burgomaster demanded in angry gutturals:

"Why have not the Allies sent us food and clothing? I will not be responsible for the attitude of my people towards your troops if we don't get supplies immediately."

It was a clear threat of an uprising by the Germans against the armies of occupation. Having uttered it, his highness glowered about the table and awaited his answer. His glance fell on me, and I got up. "Mr. Burgomaster," I said, "the answer is that the Allies are too much occupied with trying to bring relief to the suffering peoples in the areas of Belgium and France devastated by the German armies."

The burgomaster's face flamed crimson and he shot back: "That's not true! There has been no such devastation!" "Mr. Burgomaster," your scribe retorted, "I'm telling you that I've just come from a devastated zone where there are long lines of refugees. People are dropping dead from hunger and privation."

After Three Years Of War In The Pacific

The third anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, found American forces driving into the western Pacific, fighting in the Philippines, Iwo Jima, the Marianas Islands, and waging naval warfare on the approaches to Japan. Moves, which have carried the American forces forward, are indicated by arrows on this map: The Solomon campaign, which began August 7, 1942, with the invasion of Guadalcanal; the South Pacific drive, which began in New Guinea in September, 1942; the Aleutian campaign during the spring and summer of 1943, and the central Pacific "island warfare" which began November 1, 1943, with the landing at Tarawa. On the Asiatic mainland, the Japanese hold the areas shown in black. (AP Wirephoto).

COUNTY GOES OVER THE TOP

Sales Of "E" Bonds Still Far Short Of Quota.

Pitt County's Sixth War Loan quota of $1,680,000 has been over-subscribed by about 50 per cent but the purchase of "E" bonds and other purchases by individuals is far short of the goal according to an announcement today. Total overall purchases have passed $2,400,000 but only around $300,000 of the $331,000 "E" bond quota has been reached.

Announcement from Washington yesterday was to the effect that the increased tempo of the war on all front made the government's immediate needs far greater than the 14 billion quota set for the Sixth War Loan and it was emphasized that everyone should make an extra effort to purchase all the bonds possible.

The purchase of war bonds at this time by individuals is not only helping win the war but by making such purchases they are laying aside money for postwar spending that will come in handy when peace comes and normal conditions are again established.

County War Finance Chairman J. H. Waldrop today called attention to the fact that certain of the more attractive types of the bonds would not be on sale after the end of the drive and he urged that the citizens of the county take advantage of the opportunity to invest in these bonds.

Aldermen Hold Busy Meeting

By CHESTER WALSH The Board of Aldermen in regular session at the City Hall Thursday night contracted with George G. Scott and Co., Charlotte certified accountants, to audit the city's books for the fiscal year 1944-45. A resolution of respect for Mr. D. S. Spain, who died Wednesday night, was passed.

The city clerk was ordered to close the city offices at noon Saturday before Christmas and reopen the following Wednesday.

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett reported on the rat control program, County Sanitarian H. A. Hendrix who is assisting the city in sanitary work, made his report.

An application for a marked unloading zone at Fifth and Greene streets was referred to the Street Committee. Reflector stop lights were ordered placed at Fourth and Student streets, at the eastern end of Fourth street near the cemetery and at the end of Ninth Street at the college.

The city engineer reported that he had completed a new map of Greenville Cemetery, including recently bought land.

The Aldermen instructed the chief of police to enforce the city ordinance requiring all local cars and trucks to carry the license tags. The tags cost a dollar each. The law is enforced elsewhere in the State and will be here. The ravine on East Second Street was included in the post war plans for improvements. Signs designating streets are being erected as soon as materials can be procured.

It was ordered that members of the street department who did not take a vacation last year be given half a week's wages for Christmas and that the other half of the week be given as a vacation next summer.

Americans Closing In On Japs In Ormoc Area

Shipping Destroyed. All-Out Drive To End Central Philippines Campaign Quickly; More Jap Ships Destroyed.

By MURLIN SPENCER General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Storming the outskirts of the port city of Ormoc, the recently landed U. S. 7th division prosecuted the "island warfare" by attacking the west Leyte today and a front-line dispatch told of bewildered Japanese fleeing in disregard of orders to stand or die.

In the main, however, there was bitter Nipponese resistance.

Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger's Sixth Army, going all-out to wind up the central Philippines campaign, was on the move in all sectors, converging from three directions on Ormoc.

Vigilant naval patrols were maintained in the Camotes sea in an effort to choke off the last trickle of enemy shipments to that gravely menaced reinforcement base. Today's communiqué disclosed the patrols sank six fully loaded small vessels and set a seventh ablaze.

Far out over the Philippines from Luzon to Mindanao, army, marine and navy planes hunted down other enemy ships, sinking a 9,000-ton transport and destroying or damaging 14 small freighters.

The 27th veterans of Guam, powered their way north for two miles from the point of Thursday's amphibious landing to seize the former U. S. army base of Camp Down on the edge of Ormoc.

Five miles south of the 77th's beachhead, the northbound Seventh division swept beyond Palanas to seize Balogo and inland high ground north of the Tabags river.

Not far away to the northeast other Yanks were disclosed to be within six miles of the west coast after capturing the mountain pass at Mahonag.

The pass is 10 miles due west of Bureau near where American ground forces still are probing the wilds for any supervisors of the 209 Nipponese paratroopers dropped behind the lines Wednesday for sabotage purposes.

Advice To Consumers

Babson Raps Booby-Trap Goods

Babson Park, Mass., Dec. 8.—Some weeks ago I warned investors not to get too starry-eyed with visions of fabulous new gadgets in the post-war period. Unless human nature suddenly reverses itself, the peace-time world will swarm with promoters of war-born inventions. Beware of a merchandise mirage! It is true that vast changes impend. If a Rip Van Winkle arouses himself 30 years hence, he will blink with amazement at the innovations spread before his eyes. However, he will discover at once that the majority of the really desirable novelties bear the trademarks familiar to us and to our parents. Most of the successful inventions will be perfected by time-tested industrial leaders rather than superseded by new concerns. The investor's route to success from new discoveries is through broadly based holdings in well-established existing companies.

Caution to Housewives and Householders As I study the prophecies of some artists and authors, it is evident that strong warnings must be issued now to buyers of merchandise. Purchase your needed goods when offered by trustworthy factories and stores. Let's not forget our old friends. Avail yourself of seasoned, staple articles instead of waiting around for the Superman to bring you plastic plumbing and glass crowlers, guaranteed goods do not leap from the hat. They cost sweat, tears, and time!

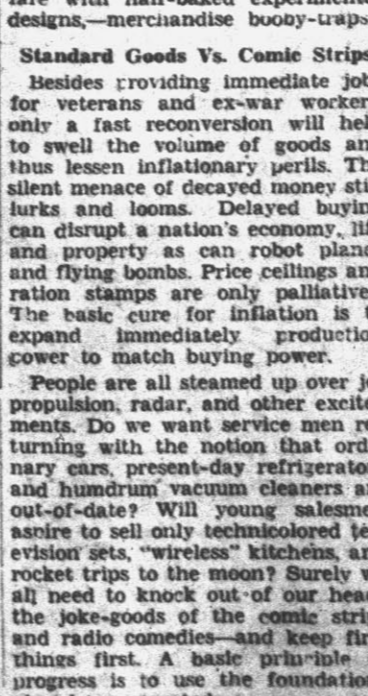

Few customers appreciate the prolonged effort which conscientious fabricators must devote to the development of any wholly new article. Between the drawing-board and the production line stretch long years of heart-breaking struggle. Testing in actual use imposes necessary delay. Finally, the all-important details of servicing must be perfected. All this and more is needed to assure lasting customer satisfaction.

War Bond Show Is Big Success More than 300 persons attended the bond show at the Pitt theater last night to see the premiere showing of "Seventh Cross" featuring Spencer Tracy. Admission to the performance was by war bonds only and the attendance represented purchases of a total of $2,350.

Prior to the showing of the picture W. H. Woolard, president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, and war finance chairman of region one of North Carolina, extended a brief address of welcome to those in attendance and thanked the management of the theater for its cooperation in helping to make the Sixth War Loan drive in this county a success. In addition to the special bond show the theaters have carried on a daily campaign on the screen urging the purchase of war bonds.

Giant Superforts Raid Japan Again Tokyo And Coastal Area Pounded In Hour Long Attack.

By The Associated Press American planes raided Tokyo and the inland sea area today (Japanese time), the Japanese radio announced.

The Japanese reported one B-29 flew over the capital and "dropped a few incendiaries." A second B-29 flew over the capital seven hours later, but "was not able to drop bombs or incendiaries," said the broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

The second sortie over the Japanese capital was followed an hour later by an hour-long raid on the Seto Naikai (Japanese designation for the inland sea) coastal area.

There was no indication by Tokyo on how many planes were involved in the Seto Naikai action. The Japanese made no report of damage at either Tokyo or Seto Naikai.

The inland sea flows between the home Japanese islands of Honshu, Shikoku and Kyushu and the strong Kure naval base lies on the inland sea. It may have been the target of the bombers. The broadcast did not say B-29's were involved in the Seto Naikai raid.

Said Tokyo: "That the enemy is making raids in this way with a very small number of planes, night and day, is indicative of the fact that they are aimed at a war of nerves."

By LEIF ERICKSON U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Two Jimmys threat to American Superfortress base at Saipan was considerably diminished today after a thorough coordinated pounding by warships and perhaps the biggest amphibious force ever sent against an island target in the Pacific war.

Scores of Superfortresses and 108 four-engine Liberators, flying under a shield of 30 Lightning fighters, poured a fearsome load of bombs yesterday on the Japanese base in the Bonin Islands while warships sent destructive salvos ashore in the first combined attack of its kind.

Six Japanese planes took the air to intercept. Five were shot down and the sixth was damaged.

Rear Adm. Allan E. Smith's task force almost certainly included cruisers and possibly even heavily-gunned battleships with escorting destroyers.

The crushing blow on the island only eight square miles in size served to clear the B-24 bombing route between Saipan and the Nippon capital, and to knock out for the time being the enemy's take-off point for raids on Saipan.

EXPECT VETO OF TAX FREEZE

Social Security Rates Double If Measure Fails.

By FRANCIS J. KELLY Washington, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Fingers crossed, Congress looked hopefully to the White House today for speedy action on a controversial bill freezing the Social Security payroll tax at one per cent.

If President Roosevelt vetoes the measure in the face of thumping Senate and House majorities, legislators hope he'll do it without undue delay so they can vote on overriding and still get home for Christmas.

After the bill reaches his desk, the President has 10 days in which to sign or veto it, not counting Sundays. If he fails to act within that limit, the bill becomes law provided Congress hasn't adjourned. In that case he could kill it, if he chose, by doing nothing.

Lawmakers who want to prevent an otherwise automatic doubling of the tax on Jan. 1 are prepared if necessary, to recess over Christmas and come back just before the new session begins Jan. 3.

Washington, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Employers who wish to find jobs for disabled veterans — might benefit from a government study recently made.

The study—largest of its kind ever undertaken—was made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). It covered 300 plants.

"It is clear from the reports that the majority of companies consider handicapped a nice word of disabled persons to be as good or better than the non-handicapped as regards performance on the job."

The study showed that the disabled were just as efficient as the non-disabled.

It also showed that the disabled workers were absent less often, were injured less often, and quit their jobs less frequently.

Forces Waging House To House Fight In Saargemines; Seventh Army Cracking Southern Front; First Army Gains Near Roer River; Other Fronts Unchanged.

By JAMES M. LONG Paris, Dec. 9.—(AP)—U. S. Third Army troops fought house-to-house in the eastern part of Saargemines today after a new forcing of the Saar.

The Third Army was beating against eight Saar valley steel towns smouldering from fighter-bomber attacks, and field guns ripped the provincial capital city of Saarbrücken.

Americans were within a couple of miles of Saarbrücken, but supreme headquarters had no confirmation of reports that the city's outskirts had been reached.

Above Saarbrücken their comrades required a strong German counterattack and then seized 12 more pillboxes in the Stegried line.

Further south the Nazis' last Alsatian stand was cracking up, and fighter-bombers bombed at the Nord Brisch, escape bridge over the Rhine near Colmar.

On the northern flank of the long Allied front, both sides maintained thunderous artillery fire, but a relative lull in ground activity suggested the American First and Ninth armies were gathering strength to smash the last German hopes of holding along the flooded Roer River before Cologne.

The German high command communiqué indicated the whole western bank of the Roer River at Jülich had been surrendered at last, declaring that the bridgehead garrisons there "battled their way back to the eastern bank of the Roer after retreating gradually during the last days of the fighting."

The Allied communiqué had reported only two small pockets remaining west of the river near Jülich.

The 26th Infantry moved out the new crossings of the Saar, and today was fighting along the stream of Saargemines, eight miles west of east of Saarbrücken, and dominating a bridgehead below the city to a mile. Saargemines on the east bank just southeast of Saargemines was captured.

The 26th division edging northward along the east bank of the Saar had almost joined the 35th, but also was meeting stout opposition. It reduced five pillboxes, presumably part of the old Maginot defense.

The Germans in Dillingen three miles southwest of Saarbrücken counterattacked with 400 infantrymen and 11 tanks, but were knocked back by the 90th Infantry division. The enemy quit the town after a close-quarter battle.

The wedge into the Maginot line was not appreciably deepened, however, in the face of such stubborn resistance.

Germans forming up for an assault on the 95th division near Saarbrücken were scattered by artillery.

The U. S. Seventh Army had driven within 4 1/2 miles of the German border, prying loose the last German hold on northeastern Lorraine, and was making progress against stiffening Nazi resistance.

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW Washington, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Employers who wish to find jobs for disabled veterans — might benefit from a government study recently made.

The study—largest of its kind ever undertaken—was made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). It covered 300 plants.

"It is clear from the reports that the majority of companies consider handicapped a nice word of disabled persons to be as good or better than the non-handicapped as regards performance on the job."

The study showed that the disabled were just as efficient as the non-disabled.

It also showed that the disabled workers were absent less often, were injured less often, and quit their jobs less frequently.

The reason: Disabled workers have a harder time getting a job and therefore try harder to keep it. The 300 plants in this study employed 1,300,000 workers. Of that number 63,000 were disabled. Their disability ranged from the crippled to the deaf and blind.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst General Eisenhower has rendered the German people great service in warning them to safeguard their resources against the scorched earth policy of the retreating Nazi army, since they can't count on food, fuel or clothing from the Allied military government.

The general points out that our aid "will primarily go to the population of the countries which have been ravaged and plundered by the German armies." That's a fair notice which not only should help the German people, but should preclude any such misapprehension and anger as existed in the Reich after the last war, when the Allies were expected to pour supplies into the country the moment the armistice was effective.

OUR UNREMEMBERED ACTS Many of the best acts in our lives are spontaneous. The poet Wordsworth in his "Tintern Abbey" speaks of "That best of a good man's life—His little nameless, unremembered acts Of kindness and of love."

It often happens that the things we plan for most carefully never yield the satisfaction we hoped they would. By the same token, we discover that some little event we did not plan for at all gives a thrill and produces a permanent happiness for which we could never have planned. Also we frequently discover that the little things we did for our friends—with our left hand, as it were—find these people to us and make them more our friends than if we had given them a great sum of money. People never forget the word that was kindly spoken in a moment of discouragement, the little helpful act which made living endurable in a season of trial. A man who attained great fame in English literary life said that it was a brief walk and conversation he had with the English man of letters Halliday which started him on the road to high achievement.

Influences are going out from our personalities all the time, unseen forces which are powerfully influencing those round about us. Very often such forces work most powerfully when we are entirely unconscious of the process.

How you handle your war wages and salaries will determine the time it will take to destroy Japan; how you handle your money will also decide whether you get them out of the ruins of Tokyo and Berlin. Inflation can defeat any military victory.

What is inflation? It is simply runaway prices for the things you eat and wear and sundry other items which make up your way of living. Every War Bond is insurance against inflation because it removes from the market place dangerous dollars, dollars which in competition with the dollars of your neighbors would shoot skyward the price of a limited supply of civilian goods.

You read about conversion often in this newspaper. Conversion eventually means normal stocks of the things you like for your home and for yourself. However, you still have a war to win. War goods come first, until Japan is beaten. Even with the all-out help of every American at home and on the fighting fronts, the knockout of the Nips may take at least two more years from the day Hitler goes down for the final count. Meanwhile the best way you can celebrate good news from Europe is to buy more War Bonds. Every extra $100 War Bond bombs two enemies—Tokyo and Inflation.

Washington — Political dopsters here are still trying to evaluate the unanimous decision of the CIO convention to make PAC a permanent organization.

The fog arises out of the fact that it is not yet possible and perhaps never will be—to evaluate the importance of PAC in the November election.

It is conceded by members of both parties that PAC or somebody else is a whale of a job getting out the vote in industrial areas both in the primaries and general elections.

Some candidates they backed won, others were defeated. Some in both categories were Republicans; others Democrats. In many instances, the value of organized labor support has to be weighed against purely local factors, personalities of the candidates, effectiveness of their chairman of the Public Relations Committee, said in a review of the club's history at the weekly supper meeting last night. "A procession of names of men in the various walks of business and professional life has graced the club's membership roster through the years and each one has contributed to the upbuilding and progress of the community."

The speaker recited some of the club's history, recalled the names of the unselfish men who have served as presidents. He gave a summary of what the Kiwanis Club has done in community activities during the current year, including underprivileged child work, cooperation with other agencies in War Bond sales, United War Fund, Red Cross, Boy and Girl Scouts, the War Price and Rationing Board, Health Department, Civilian Defense, draft boards, the churches, schools and other civic groups and trade bodies. Every Kiwanian has some particular work assigned to him in the club's activities and the record shows that Kiwanis is a potent factor for good.

Talent in the club is diversified, Walsh said, and this was demonstrated last April when Eli Bloom and Tige Gardner presented the best and largest attended minstrel show ever staged in Greenville and netted a profit of $1,000 for the underprivileged child fund. The speaker described the secretary of a Kiwanis club as the "spark plug" of the organization and paid deserved tribute to veteran Secretary Dave Moore. He recalled that the Greenville club has had five of its members elected lieutenant-governors of the Carolinas Kiwanis District, namely: J. B. James, Prof. Ralph C. Deal, Judge Dink James, Dick Bundy and Don H. Conley. Secretary Moore read a list of the Kiwanis Club's presidents and those present were recognized. The first president was Rev. James B. Turner in 1921; J. B. James, 1922; R. G. Fitzgerald, 1923; W. E. Hooker, 1924; the late Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse, 1925; Marvin K. Blount, 1926; W. H. Woolard, 1927; J. Frank Harrington, 1928; Ralph C. Deal, 1929; Bruce Sugg, 1930; the late Judge W. A. Darden, 1931; Guy V. Smith, 1932; Rev. E. L. Hillman, 1933; Dr. R. S. McGeachy, 1934; Judge Dink James, 1935; the late J. C. Galloway, 1936; Berry Bostic, 1937; Don H. Conley, 1938; David

C. Moore, Jr., 1939; Rev. Clarence H. Patrick and Dr. S. M. Crisp, 1940; Dr. Robert S. Boyd, 1941; O. P. Matthews and Claude D. Ward, 1942; Joe Tait, 1943, and Dick Bundy, 1944. Dr. John M. Barrett will succeed Dink as president in January. Ed E. Rawl will be vice-president.

A moment of silence was observed when Judge James announced the death of Lt. Matt Phillips, son of Mrs. Ed E. Rawl and army pilot who lost his life when his plane crashed on a combat training flight in California Wednesday.

Chairman Dave Evans reported that the Kiwanians have sold $92,750 worth of War Bonds in the Sixth War Loan Drive. Don Conley reported that the Kiwanians had "chipped in" $20 for Mrs. K. B. Face's Red Cross committee for "Christmas Cheer Boxes" for hospitalized servicemen.

Judge Dink James presided, Fred Stokes won the attendance prize. Guests were Marshall F. Clark, manager of the Greenville Poultry Home; Don Schlien, with the U. S. Department of Revenue, and Jack Darden of Florence, S. C.

Jap Admirals Join Ancestors

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS The deaths of 13 Japanese admirals—many of them probably in the air and sea battles related to American retribution of the Philippines—were announced today by Japanese headquarters at the Yokosuka naval station.

Vice Adm. Hideo Yano, former chief of the Navy press section, who on last Oct. 4 himself announced the deaths of seven other admirals, was in the list.

Tokyo thus has announced the deaths of 32 admirals since early September. The Oct. 4 announcement of seven deaths had brought the total within a month to 19.

The Federal Communications Commission recorded the Tokyo broadcast. The broadcast said the men "met gallant and heroic deaths while fighting dauntlessly and gallantly at the front lines in the southern region."

campaigns and a number of other things. It will take more than the 1944 elections to measure with any exactness the influence of the PAC. Some brush it off as unimportant and a lucky stroke of being opportune, the other extreme are those who say gloomily or happily that the PAC may be the nucleus of a new party which will wreck both the GOP and Democrats unless those organizations get a hump on in the next two to four years.

Few will argue that PAC wasn't well organized and that its major objective of getting out the vote wasn't achieved. Just about there, all agreement ends. Unless PAC has setbacks in 1946 or '48, it's going to be more or less a fixture in the political picture that both parties will have to reckon with, especially in industrial areas.

The important thing now is that CIO has voted to extend and strengthen PAC, and being well organized it has the jump on both parties. Under the leadership of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, plans are being laid for reorganization of the Republicans. The Democrats haven't started yet. Periods of lethargy in party organization invariably follow the biennial election. PAC can make political hay. The enthusiastic manner in which it was extended by the CIO eliminates any possibility that it will consider its job done. With the elections over, it can legally return to its pre-primary policy of drawing on union treasurers for funds. It's a lusty political youngster. Just what it will grow up to be in the next two to four years is what has the political long-view boys wandering in the mist.

Today On The . . .

(Continued from page one) least three jobs for each returning veteran. And one of these jobs is being selected on the supposition that the veteran may return disabled. In some cities finding jobs for disabled people has been made a community project. Some examples of where the disabled fit in: Blind workers can sort rivets, bolts or do other work depending on touch; deaf workers are more satisfactory in a boiler shop than workers who can hear; a man minus his right arm, where the lever was always on the right, can do the work if the lever is placed on the left side.

The War Today . . .

(Continued From Page One) leagues started to clap their hands. His excellency was fit to be tied, and looked like a man about to have a stroke. He opened his mouth to speak, but just then his secretary whispered in his ear, and the burghmaster didn't say it. Often since then I've wondered just what the great man intended to hand me. Well, that was the situation at war's end in 1918. The Germans not only expected to be fed and clothed by the Allies but some of them demanded it. Looking back at this situation through the smoke of a second world war perpetrated by these self-same people 21 years later I can't resist adding:

On December 9 as I stood on the great Cologne bridge with Field Marshal Hais, British commander in chief, he handed me a little English flag which had been nailed to a stick whittled out by his batman. It was a gracious memento of what was then thought to be a lasting Allied victory, ending all wars. Some victory!

Giant Superforts . . .

(Continued From Page One) F. Harrison was the new commander of strategic air forces, Pacific ocean areas. Nimitz said a "sizeable" force of B-29s participated in the raid. Each superfort could carry 10 tons of bombs on such a mission, and the Liberators could pack at least two tons. In the past official counts the use of "sizeable" force by Nimitz has meant 75 to 100 planes.

Patton's Army . . .

(Continued from page one) the heavily-wooded Eifel pass just south of the fortress town of Bitch, and closed up to the Rhine above Strasburg with the capture of Gamsbalm. French First army troops pouring out of Bonhomme pass reached Beenwihl, widening a wedge driven within four miles of Colmar from the northwest. The Germans were fighting a desperate rearguard battle there to hold open the escape road to the Neuf Brisach bridge. Farther south, French units mopped up all the Thur valley northwest of Mulhouse except for a three-mile stretch between St. Amarin and Thann.

There were no changes reported along the British second or American 9th army fronts in the north. The American First army held on to three newly-won heights, one along a spur overlooking the Roer east of Gerstein, and two about a mile east of Grosshau, against German counterattacks. While the Allied tactical air forces were pounding the German front lines and supply routes with over 1,500 sorties yesterday, the Germans struck back with a strong force of planes. The 9th army lines particularly were bombed and strafed.

Local Flier Has Close Call On Bombing Raid

An Eighth Air Force Bomber Station, England—Second Lieutenant John R. Hardy, 21, of Greenville, was flying as bombardier on the B-17 Flying Fortress "Hull's Angels" during a recent Eighth Air Force bombing attack on oil refineries at Merseburg, Germany when the AAF bomber was so badly damaged by flak that it landed with one engine functioning at an emergency English airfield after almost having to "ditch" in the North Sea.

Shortly after its bombs were released, both of the Fort's left engines were put out of commission by flak. Damage to the other two engines caused them to begin smoking and throwing out a stream of oil. Losing altitude at the rate of 250 feet per minute, the bomber was soon far behind its formation. However the pilot and co-pilot decided that it had altitude sufficient to reach the North Sea.

Flying along at 120 miles per hour, and without fighter escort, "Hull's Angels" was a "sitting duck" target for Nazi fighters up in force that day so the radio operator sent out a call for friendly fighter support.

He received an immediate answer, and a request for the plane's position. However, he suspected a Nazi trick when the message he received contained no identification. He waited a few minutes, and then sent out another call. He received the same response, and his suspicions were confirmed when complete silence greeted his challenge for identification. Finally, the home override a veto—the Senate ran up considerably better than that ratio yesterday when it approved the measure 47 to 19. The House vote was even larger—262 to 72 on last Monday's roll call.

Lt. Hardy is a member of the 488th Bomb Group, commanded by Colonel Chendon P. Overing of Orange, Mass. The group is a unit of the Eighth Air Force's Third Bombardment Division, the division cited by the President for its epic shuttle bombing attack on Messerschmitt aircraft factories at Regensburg, Germany, in August 1943.

The doubled rates on employers and employees were scheduled to start Jan. 1, 1942, but three Congress has halted the increase.

Senator Vandenberg, (R-Mich.), leader in the fight to freeze the levy again, told the Senate yesterday the rise is not needed to protect the integrity of the reserve fund from which old age and survivors benefits are paid. The fund now holds nearly $6,000,000,000 and the current levy is bringing in more than $100,000,000 a month. Benefit payments in the last fiscal year were $184,500,000.

Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.), frequently called the father of the Social Security law, argued vainly against the freeze. He thinks the fund should be built up in preparation for the time when millions will be on the benefit list.

New York, Dec. 9 - (AP) - For the first time in more than six months heavy buying and selling orders for a brief interval today put the stock market ticker tape two minutes behind transactions on the floor of the exchange and raised volume to one of the largest for a Saturday since last June.
While fractional plus signs were well distributed, losers were plentiful. Transfers for the two hours ran to around 1,000,000 shares.

Police Raid House And Arrest Couple
Police raided Elizabeth Burnette's house, Short and First streets, Thursday night and arrested Margaret Freeman and Hassell Gibson on a charge of fornication and adultery. They gave bond and will be tried in Police Court Monday.

In padlock proceedings in Superior Court more than a year ago the Burnette house, found to be a place of ill fame, was ordered padlocked for a year. She was ordered to leave the city. She was permitted to visit the city once a month to attend to business.
The padlock order ended some time in October. Miss Burnette returned here and reopened her house as a rooming house, police stated.
