First Army Captures Nazi City Of Kleve

Northern Anchor Of Siegfried Line Taken In Heavy Drive; American Forces Win Half Of Preum; First And Ninth U. S. Armies Stalled By Flood

Paris, Feb. 12 (AP)—Kleve, northern anchor of the Siegfried line, was captured today by the Canadian first army. The city of 20,000 lies 12 miles east of Nijmegen, starting point of the Canadian and British offensive. Reduced to smoking junk by Allied aerial and artillery poundings it was the largest place yet captured in the two-day drive. Some 115 miles south, the U. S. Third Army won half of the major traffic center of Preum, which the Germans apparently were abandoning.

In between, Roer river floods created by German breaking of head-water dams kept the U. S. First and Ninth and the British Second Armies immobile. The reservoirs behind the opened dams still were draining but the Roer, two miles wide at one place, did not appear to be rising further than the seven foot stage already reached at some points.

The Canadians, British and Scotch bulge was enlarged on both the north and south ends of the Kleve sector, and Allied lines encompassed more than three fourths of the Reichs forest. The Allies were beyond the main defenses of the original Siegfried line in the north. The Canadians cleared the low Rhine lands up to a railroad connecting Kleve with the river and forced the Spon canal, leading four miles north of Kleve to the Rhine. At points below Kleve, the Allies were within 22 miles of Wesel on the Rhine, nearest city of the great Ruhr industrial valley.

The Canadians bypassed or captured Rindern, Wassenburg, Wardhan and Brienen. Field Marshal Montgomery's men moved on beyond Kleve, even before it finally was captured.

To the south, patrols reached Kessel, a road crossing four miles northwest of Goch, second most important town in the region under attack. The town of Hat on the main Kleve-Goch highway, five and a half miles north of Goch, also was reached. At this point, the Allies were eight miles inside Germany. With the capture of more than 4,000 prisoners, the Canadian first army total since D-Day reached 123,520. The British Second Army, also fighting under Montgomery's standard, has taken 101,878.

Marine Held On Assault Charge

Selma, Feb. 12 (AP)—Pfc. Jack English of the Cherry Point, Marine Air Base, who lists his home as Steubenville, O., was being held in the Johnston County jail today without privilege of bond, charged with the criminal assault of a Winston-Salem woman. In the absence of Dr. E. N. Booker, acting sheriff of Johnston County, C. G. Uzzell of the Sheriff's office said today that the 26-year-old serviceman, who says he is married and the father of a small child, would face trial as soon as possible, but that no definite date had been set.

Longer Hours For Oil Trucks

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—The government today asked a 130-hour work-week for oil tank trucks. (There are 168 hours in a full week.) Setting this schedule for the country's 16,000-over-the-road petroleum carriers, the Office of Defense Transportation asked operators to use less than the 130-hour minimum to lease his equipment to any carrier or shipper who can use it during its idle periods.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst The battle of Germany—last act of the European war—has on the whole gone well for the United Nations over a hard fought week-end. The western Allies, in intensive preparation for their projected all-out offensive, fought their way into two strategic communications centers—Kleve, in the north, and Preum, a hundred miles to the south. So great was the threat produced by these two attacks that the Germans were reported rushing reinforcements from the eastern theater.

On the other side of the Reich the Red armies continued to batter into the country over a wide front, especially on their northern and southern flanks. The Moscow radio today said that the Nazi fighting machine has been smashed and can't stand up to the Soviet pressure.

All this is of course vastly encouraging, but it strikes me as important that despite this gigantic military squeeze the Hitlerites are continuing to display determination to fight to a finish. Knowledge that defeat is inevitable hasn't yet broken that determination, even though the very foundations of Berlin are shaking.

APPEALS FOR SERVICE ACT OWM Renews Request For Immediate Action On Bill

By FRANCIS J. KELLY Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Office of War Mobilization renewed its appeal today for national service legislation as a compromise manpower control plan was reported under preparation in the Senate. An OWM statement released by Jonathan Daniels, an administrative assistant to President Roosevelt, said:

"The Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion has advised me that an article in the New York Herald Tribune today indicating that the Voorhis bill is acceptable to it as a substitute for the May bill is without foundation in fact. The director holds firmly to the belief that manpower legislation should recognize that there is an obligation for men eligible for the draft who are not called into the (Continued on page two) can happen at any time. In short the Nazis might blow up overnight, and it's all right for us to recognize this so long as we don't start day-dreaming. A collapse at this time would be due rather to a snapping of morale than to military or other material deficiencies, although these are great. Therefore we shall be wise to put aside thoughts of surrender in the immediate future and figure on a considerable stretch of bitter and costly warfare. The Reich still has military strength to carry on to a formidable war for some time—if morale stands up.

Speaking of morale, one of the most significant pieces of news is the estimate by British economic experts that the German food situation may have reached famine dimensions by autumn. The experts say the Russian advance has deprived the Reich of another 16,000,000 tons of foodstuffs. Moreover, the position has grown worse rapidly because of the millions of refugees from areas captured by the Red armies and because of disorganized transportation.

That's a black picture and it's important that it be over-emphasized. Don't forget that when the awful plague of famine descends on a people, they're quite likely to do most of their thinking with their bellies.

Hunger can be a rank poison to morale, as we saw in the last war. One of the main reasons for Germany's defeat in Germany, anything (Continued on Page Two)

Bitterly Resisting Enemy Trapped Between Manila Bay And Pasig River

By FRED HAMPTON Manila, Feb. 12 (AP)—The bitter, cunning and bloody fight at Manila, against the backdrop of a blackened and still burning city, ploughed slowly ahead today, house by house and street by street. The Queen city of the Philippines burned for the eighth consecutive night last night. Downtown Manila, south of the Pasig river, is a scene of desolation. Hundreds of Japanese dead have been counted in the streets. Many more hundreds probably are buried beneath the debris which they have pulled down and are continuing to pull down with them.

Fighting of this bitterness is not being done without cost to us or the Filipinos whose city has been turned into a battle zone. In the embattled southern section, the 37th Infantry and First (dismounted) cavalry division are slowly squeezing the enemy between the river and the bay front.

Probably the toughest fight yesterday afternoon was around the Ermita cemetery, about a mile and a half from the high commissioner's residence on the waterfront. Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge's First Cavalry Division columns thrust deep into south Manila from the east yesterday after fording the Pasig again. Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

They swept over the Nelson alley-strip and through the Santa Ana district southeast of the flame-blackened business district, fashioning a firm vise on the entrenched enemy defense garrison in the ninth lav of the bloody battle for the capital.

Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 7th Infantry division, meanwhile, fought through the residential Ermita district, along the south Manila Bay shore, in the face of withering artillery fire from Japanese heavy guns and mortars mounted on or behind 10-foot thick walls of (Continued on Page Two)

LESS MEAT FOR U. S. THIS YEAR

Sharp Drop In Supplies Predicted For Americans

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—It may be a meatless summer for a lot of people. The new government food estimates are that this year's consumption of meat per civilian will be between 120 and 132 pounds. This would be the smallest since 1935 when per capita consumption was 116 pounds. It compares with a figure of 147 last year.

There are two principal factors: much smaller total meat production than had been expected and the usual sharp drop in livestock marketing that comes with the spring and summer months.

The combination of these two factors means that the government will have to take a lot of meat, which might have gone to civilians, and use it instead for the armed forces and for lend-lease.

Currently the government is trying to stock up for these needs and present marketings and slaughter are reported to be insufficient allocations for war agencies and civilians both.

Civilian supplies could be expected to improve with the normally larger fall marketings of livestock. But government officials say that meats, already scarce on the home (Continued on Page Four)

New York Stores Can't Hide Smokes

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Daniel P. Woolley, regional OPA administrator, announced after an informal meeting with tobacco jobbers and wholesalers that beginning "early next week" stores will put their cigarettes, if any, in plain view on their counters—not hidden under them.

Woolley made no promise of smokes for all, however. He estimated that only 60 to 70 percent of the 1943 cigarette consumption would be available this year.

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—It was officially announced today that the big three talks have been held in the Crimea. The meeting decided on military plans for the final defeat of Germany, it was stated, and the combined plans will be made known only as they are executed. Meetings of the three staffs will be continued in the future whenever the need arises, the announcement continued.

NEW TREND IN FIXING POLICY

See More Public Participation In Shaping Relations

By FLORA LEVINS Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—A new move toward greater congressional and public participation in shaping foreign policy became apparent today.

This was in the disclosure that Senator Connally (D-Tex.) and Rep. William (D-N.Y.) had called on Congress to carry out the Bretton Woods agreements for world economic cooperation.

In his first major public statement since leaving for the big three meeting, Mr. Roosevelt asked specifically for "prompt action" in authorizing American participation in a proposed international bank and international monetary fund.

"It is time," he said in a message to Congress released at the White House, "for the United States to take the lead in establishing the principle of economic cooperation as a foundation for expanded world trade."

The world bank—to provide guaranteed loans for reconstruction and development—would be capitalized at $8,100,000,000, with an aggregate United States participation of $3,175,000,000 although this country and other member nations would be required to put up only one-fifth of their quotas in cash.

The monetary fund, designed to stabilize currencies and trade balances, would be capitalized at $2,800,000,000 of which this country would subscribe $2,750,000,000. Political collaboration as provided in the Dumbarton Oaks security organization is not in itself enough. (Continued on page five)

Studying Case Of Condemned Youths

Raleigh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Governor Cherry studied today the details of the case of Elmer Hardie Biggs, William Dalton Biggs and John Edgar Messer, youths who are scheduled to die Friday in the gas chamber for the slaying February 19, 1943, of E. J. Swanson, elderly Jamestown storekeeper.

The youths, who have resided in Stokes and Rockingham counties and Washington, D. C., were first convicted in May, 1943, were granted a new trial by the State Supreme Court and convicted again last April.

State's witnesses identified John Edgar Messer as the youth who fired the fatal shot. They placed William Dalton Biggs in the store, a pistol in hand, and Elmer Hardie Biggs in the car in which the trio fled after the shooting. The State contended Swanson was killed during an attempted robbery.

The trio was captured a short time later, allegedly after they attempted a similar robbery in Danville, Va.

To Issue Warrants Chief of Police Herbert Wooten stated today that the police department had begun issuing warrants for all car owners who have not purchased their city license tags. The 30-day grace period ran out Feb. 1, he stated, and those who have not purchased the tags will be cited to court.

FDR Asks Congress To Carry Out Plans

President Says United States Should Take Lead In Establishing Economic Co-operation

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Cautioning that the future "is full of promise and danger," President Roosevelt today called on Congress to carry out the Bretton Woods agreements for world economic cooperation.

In his first major public statement since leaving for the big three meeting, Mr. Roosevelt asked specifically for "prompt action" in authorizing American participation in a proposed international bank and international monetary fund.

Today On The Home Front

Editor's note: This is the first of three stories on Veteran's Insurance—changes likely and changes wanted.

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—At least one change—in the government's insurance program for servicemen—seems certain this year. Veterans organizations and the Veterans Administration, which handles the insurance, agree: That the present five-year term insurance should be extended two or three or more years. And for this reason:

This insurance was created by congressional act Oct. 3, 1940. It was to cover servicemen for five years. But the policies taken out five years ago will expire this year unless Congress extends the coverage for them.

So many servicemen, after paying premiums for five years, would be without insurance at all after Oct. 8. A man who bought it only four years ago, of course, would still have coverage for another one. It was issued as term insurance, not as the usual life policy, because term insurance is the cheapest that can be bought.

The cost of the premium increases according to the age of the serviceman buying it. The rates are almost identical with those charged for term insurance in World War I. This is how the cost of the insur-

Unchecked Russian Armies Driving Across Silesia, Now Have Encircled Breslau, Menacing Dresden And Berlin

By The Associated Press London, Feb. 12—Marshal Ivan Konev, virtually encircling Breslau in Silesia and racing ahead 15 to 27 miles a day, has forced two bridgeheads across the Oder river 75 miles or less from Dresden, German broadcasts said today.

The Germans said Konev's tanks had broken into Breslau on the Oder, while to the north they had smashed through German defenses some 12 miles north of Sagan. This point is about 90 miles south of Berlin and only 30 miles south of Marshal Gregory Zhukov's first White Russian army which the Germans said had crossed the Oder south of Fuerstenberg.

Khukov, the Germans said, had made a spur to within 15 miles of Stettin, Berlin's Baltic port. The Germans said Khukov's right wing had penetrated to both sides of Mague See, a lake north of Pyritz, where they were menacing the rear of Stargard, a stronghold of Stettin's eastern defenses.

The breakthrough at Sagan menaced the rail center of Sorau eight miles to the northwest and indicated that Konev's first Ukrainian spearheads had emerged in the rear of German forces dug in on the Oder's southern bank southeast of Berlin.

Sagan is 27 miles west of the farthest point which Moscow has reported as reached. The breakthrough here threatened to roll up the southern flank of Berlin's defenses, while the spearhead pointed at Stettin threatened the northern flank.

The drive to Sagan took the first Ukrainian army three-fourths the way across lower Silesia to within 22 miles of Czechoslovakia. Breslau's only communications were cut to the southwest, toward Czechoslovakia. From Breslau dispatched said some of the most recent units rushed up to the battle over new communications systems were fresh bridge-building outfits—a clear indication that Marshal Gregory Zhukov might be ready almost any time to open the battle of Berlin.

The two kingdoms of Berlin's defense along the Oder, Koenigin and Frankfurt, were beginning to wear away under incessant day and night artillery pounding, Moscow said. The fire from the Frankfurt forts was diminishing, while Soviet units crowded close to the railway bridge supplying Koenigin. The Nazis ran a virtual blockade of the stronghold last night with what may be its last supplies.

To the northeast of Berlin the Russians had captured the stronghold of Deutsch Krone and overrun (Continued on Page Two)

Major Problems Yet To Come Before State Body

Raleigh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Proposals to expand the medical school of the University of North Carolina, to consolidate the state's law enforcement agencies, to set up the eight educational districts as provided by constitutional amendment, and to provide for a statewide liquor referendum after the war, are yet to be whittled into bill form for presentation to the legislature.

The general appropriations bill may be approved this week by the joint committee, clearing the way for floor action. Passage of the bill, according to present agreements, will clear the way for introduction of the hospital bill, which would establish a four-year medical course at the university and provide for a related hospital of at least 400 beds.

The measure to consolidate the law enforcement agencies—the State Bureau of Investigation, the State Highway Patrol, Safety Division and other units was requested by Governor Cherry in his inaugural address. But whether Cherry will push it remains to be seen.

Twelve members of the present State Board of Education are selected from to congressional districts. The constitutional amendment provided that educational districts be (Continued on page two)

May Investigate Taylor Appointment

Atlanta, Feb. 12 (AP)—A dispute between Dr. Louis D. Newton, vice president of the Southern Baptist Convention, and Secretary of State Stettinius over United States relations with the Vatican will be the subject of discussions between Stettinius and Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.), the Atlanta churchman said today.

Dr. Newton, who started several years ago asking the President and the State Department for information regarding the appointment of Myron C. Taylor as the President's personal representative to the Pope, made public recently a letter from Stettinius which asserted he (Dr. Newton) was "not seeking the information in good faith."

AFL May Accept Lewis' Terms

Miami, Fla., Feb. 12 (AP)—The AFL was given John L. Lewis' reply today to its request for his terms for reinstallation of the United Mine Workers.

Both Lewis and President William Green of the American Federation of Labor remained silent on details of the Mine Workers' conditions for returning to the parent organization they left more than eight years ago, pending a meeting of the Executive Council.

The council was prepared to accept the terms as understood by Green in verbal discussions with Lewis—but the miners would come back as they are constituted today, with a sizeable miscellaneous group of unions in his catch-all district 20, leaving jurisdiction problems to be worked out by the council.

It was known that Lewis wanted to use every possible argument within the AFL to arbitrate those differences, since control of the council by interests unfriendly to Lewis might mean loss of some fast-growing units in district 20, such as the Chemical Workers Union.

Strength FOR THE DAY

FACTORS IN LINCOLN'S LIFE

Three factors stood out in Abraham Lincoln's life and contributed to his greatness.

The first was his moral character. Lincoln believed that he lived in a universe controlled by moral law. To him it was stupid and hideous that men should attempt to break that moral law.

The second factor in his make-up was his sound common sense. Lincoln acted as if he believed that the principles and policies which worked in the management of a grocery store at New Salem, the Post Office over which he had presided, and the little farm his father owned, could be made to work in Washington in the handling of a nation.

The third outstanding factor of his life was his unusual spiritual insight. He could see straight into the hearts of men. He had a child-like dependence upon God. Every situation, no matter how secular it might appear, was to him a spiritual situation.

He was a man of great ability, but his overpowering genius lay in his penetrating insight into spiritual truth.

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Not since the U. S. entered the war has there been so much activity in the Senate as there was the other day when the question of confirming Henry A. Wallace came up.

Not since the last appearance of the President before Congress have there been such crowds in the Capitol. It was a different crowd too. I searched the galleries in vain for the "big names" that generally show up on historic occasions.

There were no members of the Wallace family, and if CIO's Political Action Committee had any representatives in the galleries, I couldn't find them.

Yet the crowd overflowed the corridors of the Capitol, strung out down the halls. It was recognition of the fact that there was another event making history. Only six times in U. S. history has the Senate refused to confirm a cabinet appointment. The last time was when President Coolidge set up the nomination of Charles Warren for attorney general. On that occasion the vote was a tie and the deciding vote went to Vice-President Dawes. But Dawes was in his office taking that now historic map. Warren was turned down.

Vice-President Harry S. Truman wasn't asleep when history repeated itself and gave him an opportunity to break the tie vote on immediate consideration of Wallace. But why did Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) quickly changed his vote against consideration to a vote for consideration. He thus cleared the way to reconsideration of the vote at any time.

This cleared the way for the George Bill to separate the lending agencies from the Department of Commerce. This made certain that unless they were in the minority, the Wallace nomination couldn't come up until they had separated Commerce from all its lending agencies. These have made the Secretary of Commerce easily one of the most powerful men on the home front.

Why all this furor over the nomination of a new cabinet member, when it is traditional that any President shall have the right to name the members of his official family? Personalities, addily enough, never had entered into the fight much.

The First Job Is The Hardest--

CONGRESS EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Opponents of Wallace called him "visionary" and impractical, but about there the adverse personal criticism ended.

The fight really was culmination of one that had plagued the Roosevelt administration from the first: whether this country is going right or left, conservative or liberal. One thing is certain now. Henry Wallace is more than an ex-vice-president seeking office. He's a symbol. That's what the fight has been all about.

THE WAR TODAY

many's capitulation was scarcity of food. The people were hungry, as I can testify, having gone into the country with the armies of occupation at the time of the armistice. This sapped civilian morale, and that in turn reacted on the forces at the front, for men won't fight when they know their women and children are crying for bread.

But to return to the battle-front, the western Allies are up against as tough a proposition as they've encountered in the Rhineland. Nature and man between have conspired to put much of the terrain under water, so that the fighting is more like a sea battle than land warfare.

Under such terrible conditions, units of the Canadian First Army drove into Kleve where they are engaged in hand-to-hand fighting. This bears the marks of being the start of a flanking operation to help open up the Cologne plain to the Allies. Along the hundred mile stretch between Kleve and Pruem the British and American forces are idle because the Roer river—the barrier which they must force to reach the Rhine—is many feet above normal level owing to the blowing of the Schwanau and dam southeast of Aachen by the Germans. The Hitlerites had hoped to cause disaster by this flood, but while it reached a width of two miles at one place, it is believed to have reached its peak.

Special lighting devices have been developed for inspection of gun bores and shell cases.

This is how a man would benefit by converting the term insurance into the other kind: He'd have insurance for life and the money he put into the term insurance would not be lost if he lived beyond those five years.

The ordinary life policy means he'd pay premiums the rest of his life; the 20-payment means he'd pay for 20 years; the 30-payment means he'd pay 30 years. In all cases he'd be protected for life.

It would cost him more in monthly premiums to convert. Ordinary life is higher than term insurance; 30-payment is higher than ordinary life; and 20-payment is higher than 30-payment.

For instance: The monthly premium on $1,000 at age 20 for the various kinds is: 65 cents for term; $1.23 for ordinary life; $1.54 for 30-payment; $1.96 for 20-payment.

There'd be no good reason for him to junk his low-rate term insurance for the other kind until the 5-year term policy was almost expired because he'd be saving money for 5 years with the cheaper policy.

And the payments to his beneficiary would be the same, no matter what policy he bought. And those payments to beneficiaries are a sore point with servicemen. This will be explained here tomorrow.

Mr. Roosevelt said. He promised a whole series of further recommendations, ranging from control of cartels to legislation aligning the United States to lend money directly to stimulate trade. He called, again, too, for repeal of the Johnson act which now prohibits such lending.

The chief executive said the Bretton Woods plan is the "cornerstone for international economic cooperation" as the Dumbarton Oaks plan is "the cornerstone for international political cooperation."

Moreover, he continued, the proposals drafted at Bretton Woods, N. H., last July constitute a means of seeking both within the United States and among the United Nations the goals of "more goods produced, more jobs, more trade, and a higher standard of living for us all."

"In this message," Mr. Roosevelt said in summarizing his arguments to congress, "I have recommended for your consideration the immediate adoption of the Bretton Woods agreements and suggested other measures which will have to be dealt with in the near future. They are parts of a consistent whole."

"That whole is our hope for a secure and fruitful world, a world in which plain people in all countries can work at tasks which they do well, exchange in peace the products of their labor, and work out their several destinies in security and peace; a world in which governments, as their major contribution to the common welfare are highly and effectively resolved to work together in practical affairs, and to guide all their actions by the knowledge that any policy or act that has efforts abroad must be considered in the light of those effects."

"The point in history at which we stand is full of promise and of danger. The world will either move toward unity and widely shared prosperity or it will move apart into necessarily competing economic blocs. We have a chance, we citizens of the United States, to use our influence in favor of a more united and cooperating world. Whether we do so will determine, as far as it is in our power the kind of lives our grandchildren can live."

Mrs. Humber Speaks At College
Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, a native of Greenville living in Greenville spoke at the YWCA Auditorium last night at the YWCA's "Responsibilities of a Christian Citizen."

Mrs. Humber discussed the training of young people for participation in a world order. "We must be crusaders for the establishment of a world peace," she said. "All people are basically alike; they differ only in language and customs."

Teachers can do a great deal in creating a friendly attitude toward other people of the world by teaching young people something about the life of people in other countries and by creating in them a desire to travel. The easiest way to create a better understanding of other nations is to talk about them and create a favorable public opinion about them.

In closing, Mrs. Humber asked two questions. Are we going to be prepared to be leaders in building a new world? Or are we going to have a part in bringing on World War III.

Teachers Hold Monthly Meeting

Supt. M. L. Lambeth of Washington, Supt. H. M. Roland of Wilmington, and Miss Alma Browning, grade school teacher in the ECTC Training School, participated in a joint discussion on Teacher Training Curricular at the regular monthly ECTC faculty meeting Friday night in the New Classroom building. Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, acting president, in introducing the speakers, emphasized the need for greater coordination and cooperation between the college and the public school system of the state.

Miss Browning reported on a five weeks teacher training workshop at Peabody college. Experts in many fields of education and representing 16 states were present at the session at which the ideal teacher training college was defined.

"No teacher is a good one without a sound philosophy of education," Supt. Lambeth claimed. Next in importance to the teacher, he said, is an understanding of human behavior, the ability to understand the child's reaction to problems under given circumstances, and a keen knowledge of the learning process.

Supt. Roland reported that he has employed teachers from 46 states and that those graduated from ECTC compare favorably with teachers from any other state. He suggested that teachers should be "hand picked" that an aptitude test given the first year be used to eliminate those less capable.

Ullman Case Sent To Superior Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court this morning Judge J. W. H. Roberts found probable cause in the case against Mrs. Frances Ullman, charged with breaking and entering the home of Major and Mrs. Douglas Lenardson, 207 Washington Street, and the burglary of silverware and a silver fox fur jacket.

The court bound her over to Superior Court under $1,000 bond, recommended by Solicitor Eli Bloom.

Mrs. Lenardson on the stand today testified that while she and her husband were away during the Christmas holidays their home was robbed and that she reported it to police. She gave a list of the missing articles to police and estimated its value in the neighborhood of $700.

Sergt. Lester D. Page, police fingerprint expert, who worked on the case, testified that when he learned that Mrs. Ullman had mailed two packages from Kingston early in January he checked on it and had police at San Diego, Calif., check on the parcel post packages by the numbers and issue a search warrant on the receiver. The California police reported that the articles in the packages were those described.

A warrant was issued for Mrs. Ullman and at the time of her arrest a search warrant was served on her at her home. Page said he took to the police station some silverware found in her home and that he also took a pistol. Attorney Marvin D. Blount subjected Page to rigid examination.

Page testified that after her arrest Mrs. Ullman told him that she went to the Lenardson home and that nobody answered the door. She said she kicked the door and it opened. There was a red-headed woman in the Lenardson apartment who said she was a friend of the family and was staying there while the Lenardsons were away, the officer quoted her as saying.

Several days later this same red-headed woman went to Mrs. Ullman's home and offered to sell her a silver fox fur jacket for $75. Mrs. Ullman bought the coat from the strange red-headed woman for $75 without opening the bundle, she told Sgt. Page, and added that she didn't know the silverware was in the bundle until she opened it after the stranger had departed.

The witness further quoted Mrs. Ullman as telling him that after the Lenardsons returned to Greenville she learned that the jacket and silverware belonged to them, that she became alarmed and mailed the articles to San Diego, Calif.

The officer said the articles had been shipped back here by California police but the package had not yet arrived.

Replying to questions by Defense Attorney Blount, Page said he gave Mrs. Ullman permission to call any person she desired after she was arrested; that he intended to keep her in custody until the $1,000 bond was provided.

Amos Byrd, a carpenter, was found guilty of non-support, and Judge Jimmy Roberts ordered him to pay to the court the sum of a dollar a week to his wife, Mrs. Eva Cannon Byrd. She gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

Ernest Wells and Gus Wells, Jr., Negroes, larceny of meat from the Independent Market: Prayer for judgment in this case was postponed to February 16. Charles Huges, Magnolia Huges and Mantha Parker, Negroes, were not guilty of receiving stolen meat.

Drunks: L. W. Parrish, L. A. Stocks and Francis Dansey, each paid costs; Arthur Mabry, Negro, paid costs.

Several days later this same red-headed woman went to Mrs. Ullman's home and offered to sell her a silver fox fur jacket for $75. Mrs. Ullman bought the coat from the strange red-headed woman for $75 without opening the bundle, she told Sgt. Page, and added that she didn't know the silverware was in the bundle until she opened it after the stranger had departed.

The witness further quoted Mrs. Ullman as telling him that after the Lenardsons returned to Greenville she learned that the jacket and silverware belonged to them, that she became alarmed and mailed the articles to San Diego, Calif.

The officer said the articles had been shipped back here by California police but the package had not yet arrived.

Replying to questions by Defense Attorney Blount, Page said he gave Mrs. Ullman permission to call any person she desired after she was arrested; that he intended to keep her in custody until the $1,000 bond was provided.

Amos Byrd, a carpenter, was found guilty of non-support, and Judge Jimmy Roberts ordered him to pay to the court the sum of a dollar a week to his wife, Mrs. Eva Cannon Byrd. She gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

Ernest Wells and Gus Wells, Jr., Negroes, larceny of meat from the Independent Market: Prayer for judgment in this case was postponed to February 16. Charles Huges, Magnolia Huges and Mantha Parker, Negroes, were not guilty of receiving stolen meat.

Drunks: L. W. Parrish, L. A. Stocks and Francis Dansey, each paid costs; Arthur Mabry, Negro, paid costs.

Plan To Check Nazi Death Lists

London, Feb. 12—(AP)—Increasing skepticism over Berlin announcements of deaths of high Nazi officials has led to the conviction here that in the future Allied authorities should check thoroughly before accepting such German claims.

A flurry of synthetic death notices of Nazis high on the war criminal lists is anticipated as the German position becomes more acute.

Last week Berlin announced that Roland Freisler, president of the so-called people's court was killed in an American air raid on the German capital. Freisler sent hundreds of persons opposed to Hitlerism to the gallows.

The possibility exists that in this case, and other similar instances, there may have been a deliberate death report, followed by a fake funeral, to allow Freisler to start a new life outside of Germany.

HOGS HIT CEILING Raleigh, Feb. 12—(AP)—For the first time in more than a year the live weight price of farmer-to-dealer hogs reached the ceiling in North Carolina today with 180-270-pound weights of choice stock bringing 14.55.

John Winfield, State Agriculture Department market newsman, said the price uprising followed a production decline.

At Florence, S. C., the South Car- olina ceiling of 14.40 was reached. The North Carolina top was reached at Kinston and Fayetteville.

Judge Overrules . . . (Continued from page one) the summer of 1944 and surveyed and measured a considerable amount of paved driveways, sidewalks, tennis courts, floors in certain buildings and other items of concrete and cement work pointed out to him by Dr. Meadows and A. D. Boyd, college employee. The witness stated that using a figure of four inches for thickness of walks and six inches for driveways he found that the work pointed out to him contained a total of 24,758.6 square yards figured on a six inch depth basis. On cross examination the witness stated that the work surveyed by him did not include all of such work that had been done at the college. He further stated that he made no borings to determine the actual thickness of any of the work but had figured it on the regular standard of six inches for drives and four inches for walks.

The second defense witness was J. W. Clark, formerly of this city but now located at Cocoa, Florida. On direct examination Clark stated that he had done a considerable amount of paving work at the college since Dr. Meadows became president of the institution and that at times he had sold surplus materials to Dr. Meadows for the college. He stated that he had been paid for some of the work by the college and for some of it by Dr. Meadows, part of the time by check and at other times by cash. Asked for an opinion as an expert as to what quantities of materials would have been used in the nearly 25,000 square yards of paving described in the Lewis report Clark stated that figured on normal standard basis the work would have required approximately 4,100 tons of rock, 27,000 bags of cement and 1,300 tons of sand. The witness also stated that from time to time he had rented his concrete mixer to Dr. Meadows for use at the college and had furnished one laborer with same. Asked by defense counsel if two checks given him by Dr. Meadows in the amounts of $125 and $200 were payment for such use of his mixer the witness stated that he could not remember the exact amounts he had received and on how many occasions but that Dr. Meadows had always paid him for the use of the equipment. He also stated that from time to time, while he was working at the college, Dr. Meadows had advanced him money for paying his labor and for freight on materials. He said sometimes this was by check and sometimes by cash. He stated that he did not have definite records on the amount of work he did for Dr. Meadows for the college but that it would probably total between $3,500 and $5,000. He testified that all the work he had ever done for Dr. Meadows on his private property would not total more than $300 to $400. He said that in November 1943 he had received a letter from M. L. Widenhouse, state auditor, calling attention to certain payments made by Dr. Meadows and inquired if these payments were for work for the college. In his reply Clark told Widenhouse that he had done considerable more work for the college than pointed out by the (Widenhouse) letter and that he had on many occasions received payment by cash or check from Dr. Meadows. Questioned on cross-examination as to a letter he had written to Dr. Meadows giving figures as to amounts he had received from him, Clark stated that the letter, although dated Cocoa, Fla., December 15, 1943, was actually written in Greenville on December 28 of that year and that the figures contained therein were given him by Dr. Meadows to be used in the letter. He declared that he himself had no records and that he accepted Dr. Meadows' figures at face value having full confidence in him then and now. Asked to explain why the letter was dated Cocoa, Fla., November 15, 1943 when it was written until the 28th in Greenville, Clark stated that he had started to write the letter while in Florida on the 15th but after getting as far as the date and "Dear Dr. Meadows," he had placed it in his grip and brought it on to Greenville where he was called because of illness in the family. He said that after arriving in Greenville, Dr. Meadows had contacted him and given him the figures upon which the letter was based and he used the original piece of stationery to complete the letter. Asked again why he had stated in the letter that "his" records showed the figures when he used Dr. Meadows' figures he repeated that he had no records of his own and was willing to accept those given him by Dr. Meadows. He said he told Dr. Meadows, however, that he could not swear to the figures since he had no records of his own with which to verify them.

Clark was still under cross-ex- amination when court recessed for lunch shortly after one o'clock this afternoon.

Conscript Women For War Service London, Feb. 12—(AP)—Every woman and girl in Germany was made liable for auxiliary service with the Volksturm (peoples army) under a decree broadcast by DNB, thus bringing the entire German nation within the grip of German Chief Heinrich Himmler, commander of the home army.

The Germans had jibed at con- scription of women in Britain and prided themselves previously on the "volunteer system" of their women's service.

DNB said the new decree was signed by the "chief of the Nazi party."

The Berlin radio also announced the innovation of "marriage by telegraph" reporting that this was designed "particularly to help men of the Atlantic strongpoints who have no other means of communications."

Under this plan Nazi soldiers trapped in Atlantic ports can be married in absentia by merely signing a declaration of intentions in the presence of their commanding officer.

New Trend In . . . (Continued From Page One) a precedent for future conferences of all kinds, including the expected United Nations parley to establish a world security organization.

Among the non-governmental leaders who will go to Mexico are Eric Johnson of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Alfred S. Goss of the National Grange, David McDonald of the United Steel Workers and George Meany of the American Federation of Labor.

The tightness of the current situation was underlined in a Labor Department survey of independent retail stores in 56 large cities in mid-January. More than half the stores had no bacon or veal and more than one-third had no beef, pork loins, lamb, mutton or hams.

G-Men Meet Caps Tomorrow Night

The Needham Broughton High School Caps come to Greenville for a return game tomorrow night when the Phantoms meet them on the local court at 8 o'clock.

After playing a superb game against the Broughton team last Thursday evening the locals were overtake in the final minutes of play and edged out 28-27. Coach Clark stated that he was pleased with his boys' showing but a weakness in foul shooting was quite obvious.

The G-men have not lost to a high school team on their home court this season and they will be trying to maintain that record tomorrow night. Coach Clark will probably start his usual team of Harrington and Batchelor, guards, Williams and Futrell, forwards, and Joe Lupton, center. He will probably use Denis Fleming, Amos Leggett, Jack Whickard, Lawrence Posey and Julian White for considerable relief work.

Since this game is bound to be one of the season's best, a large crowd is expected to be on hand to watch the Phantoms set back the Caps.

Stokes Cagers Win Two Games

Stokes High School cagers have won both their regular scheduled games for the past two weeks. On Friday night, February 2, they won over Bell Arthur by the score of 51-19, with Warren making 30 points, and Simmons following with 11.

On last Friday night they took on Grimesland in a close game, 38-33. Stokes led all the way. Warren again was high scorer with 16 points to his credit, and Harris following with five.
