Russian Forces Drive On Berlin From All Sides

Two Soviet Armies Battle Germans Southeast of Capital City; Germans Report Advance Russian Spearheads Have Penetrated Breslau; Allied Airmen Help

By JAMES F. KING London, Feb. 17—(AP)—Russian troops closed on shell-ripped Guben 56 miles southeast of Berlin today and hammered toward Cottbus, a second gateway fortress city on the Spree river 47 miles from the Nazi capital.

A Moscow dispatch said armored units of Marshal Ivan Konev's army perhaps had ranged to within 35 miles of Berlin.

The Germans rushed armor and huge infantry reinforcements into the spreading, intense battle southeast of Berlin, and Soviet planes took a heavy toll on crowded highways.

Guben, on the Neisse river, was under artillery barrage, and Soviet troops fought toward it from three sides.

The Berlin radio said the Russians were within 12 miles of Cottbus, southwest of Guben, in the area of Forst on the Neisse.

A Red Star dispatch from Konev's front declared a river—perhaps the Neisse—had been stormed in this area and that another stream beyond also had been forced.

The German high command announced the fall of Sagan, Bober river city 35 miles southeast of Guben, and said Konev's men had forced "extensive penetrations" into the Silesian capital.

The Germans also indicated the struggle in Poland was near, saying street fighting raged in the heart of the city.

Moscow had no confirmation of German reports that Konev had linked with Marshal Gregory Zhukov's First White Russian army at Crossen, on the Oder 53 miles southeast of Berlin and 36 northeast of Cottbus.

Russian broadcasts said Konev's tanks were within 10 miles of Cottbus.

Soviet capital dispatches said the Nazis were throwing all kinds of troops, and even Berlin school teachers and policemen, into the Capital's southeastern approaches, trying desperately to form a solid line.

German counterattacks increased, and a Moscow dispatch said Konev's whirlwind advance into Brandenburg province might well be slowed by this bitter opposition.

A news blackout on Zhukov's Oder river front east of Berlin was continued. Veterans of Stalingrad are operating there.

MEADOWS CASE STILL GOES ON

Defendant Denies Allegation in Memo Book

The trial of Dr. Leon R. Meadows, former president of East Carolina Teachers College on charges of false pretense and embezzlement, will enter its fourth week when hearings are resumed at 10 o'clock Monday following a week-end recess.

The state rested its case last Monday morning after presenting numerous witnesses, chief of whom was M. L. Widenhouse, state auditor, whose audit of funds handled by Dr. Meadows describes items totalling more than $18,000 as unsatisfactorily accounted for.

Dr. Meadows took the stand in his own defense late Thursday afternoon after the defense had offered testimony of more than 60 witnesses. Meadows' preliminary testimony was followed yesterday with a detailed account of expenditures he made for the college as recorded in his Memo Book No. 1 and most of Monday is expected to be devoted to other expenditures from the same account.

The witness testified about more than 80 individual expenditures yesterday and declared that each of them was for the sole benefit of the college and that not one cent of the college funds had been converted to his own personal use or benefit.

Of the items about which he offered testimony yesterday, 30 were allowed by the auditors in their original report and the others had been disallowed as unsatisfactorily explained expenditures.

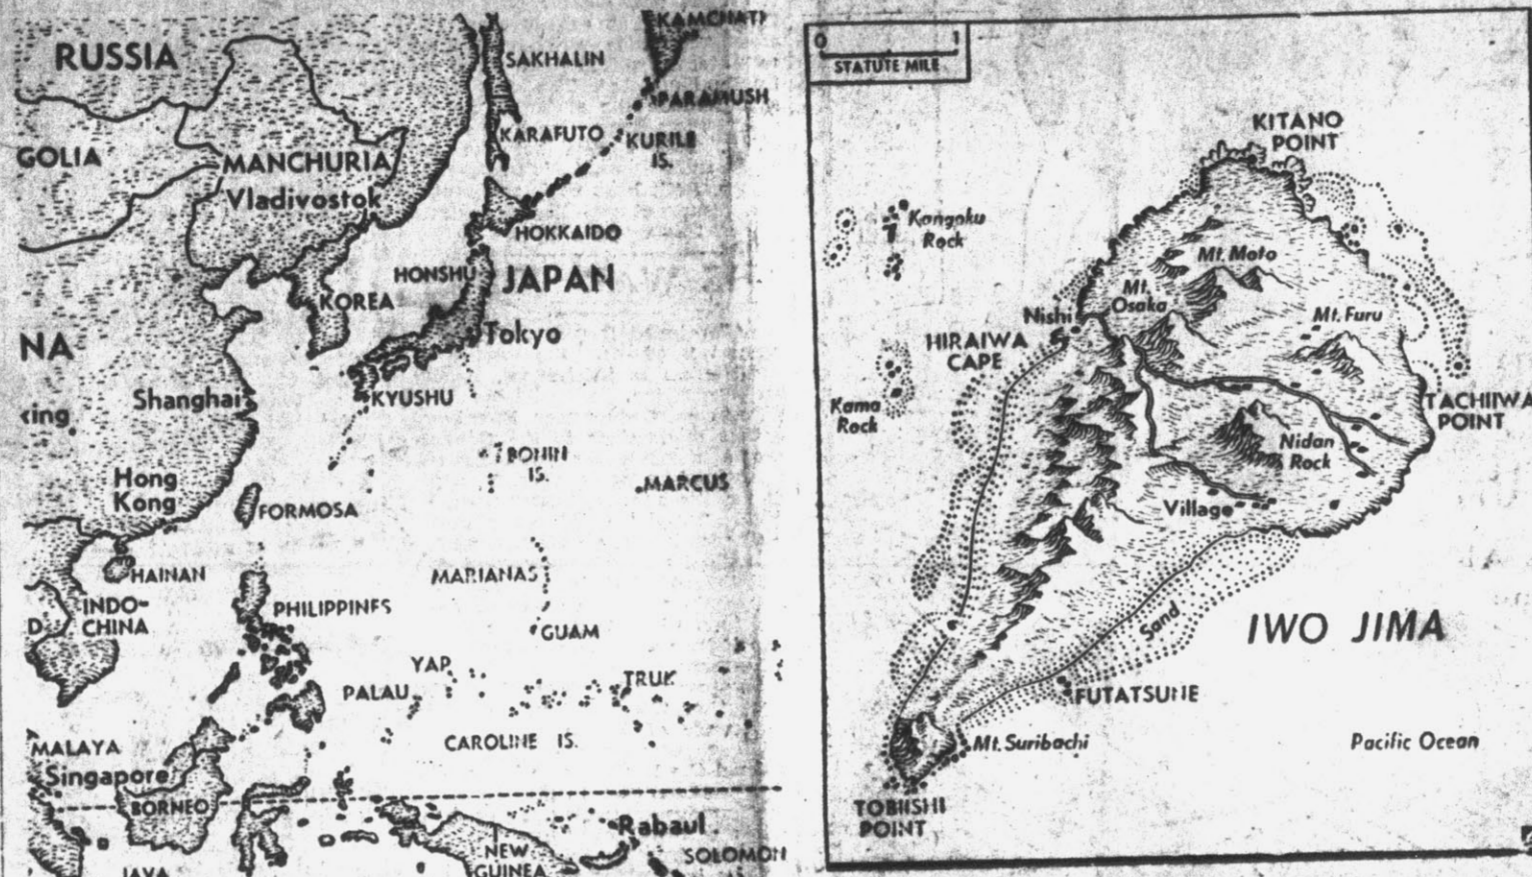

Yesterday afternoon's testimony was highlighted by further explanation of paying transactions between Dr. Meadows and J. W. Clark, explanation of the much-discussed purchase of a Kelvinator for the college president's home, reference to cement purchases for the college by the late E. G. Flanagan and a declaration by Dr. Meadows that he had not changed an item in his memo book from $9.78 to $59.78 as charged by the state auditors.

Answering further questions regarding large sums shown by the records to have been paid to J. W. Clark in cash for paving work, Dr. Meadows explained that most of the time Clark asked for advances with which to pay his labor and for other expenditures and that such items had been added together, at settlement and entered in the records as one payment.

He said that frequently Clark would draw all his pay for certain jobs before the work was actually completed. Clark testified last Monday that he frequently received much cash advance.

London, Feb. 17—(AP)—Dr. Edward Benes, president of Czechoslovakia, announced tonight he would leave for his homeland almost immediately to establish a new government.

Carrier Planes Blast Tokyo Again; Japs Trapped On Bataan; Landings On Corregidor Reported

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 17—(AP)—Japanese carrier planes began invading Iwo Jima on the road to Tokyo this morning, but there was no official word of such action at this headquarters as the powerful American Fifth fleet carried its double-barreled attack on Tokyo and its southern approaches into the second day.

The Japanese Domei news agency said two landings were made within ten minutes on little Iwo, 250 miles south of Tokyo, but claimed both have been repulsed.

A Tokyo communique said the landings were made under the support of "furious naval gun barrages." It said one battleship, two cruisers and two unknown type ships were sunk under attack by shore guns and the Japanese air force.

Three assault ships were claimed damaged, and 10 attacking planes downed.

The Tokyo home radio also reported simultaneous attacks by 200 carrier-based planes on Hachijo Jima island, in the Izu group some 200 miles south of Tokyo.

The radio quoted two Japanese newspapers, Asahi and Mainichi, as expressing the possibility that the Americans "might strike directly at the Japanese homeland and effect landings there."

At 1,500 largest planes from the world's refueled flotilla of aircraft carriers hovering 300 miles off Japan's coast swept in for the second straight day to rekindle raging industrial fires in the capital.

The Tokyo domestic radio issued the startling warning to the Japanese people that the Americans "may attempt to come near the homeland at two points, one of them the Boso peninsula, the eastern land arm of Tokyo bay. It did not elaborate.

Eranté appeals were issued for "stark effort of the government and the people" urging them "at this time to make still more firm the air-light defense structure of our land."

Tokyo broadcasts shortly after noon made it clear today's attack already has exceeded five hours.

WALLACE WILL BE CONFIRMED

Passage Of George Bill Removes Obstacles

Washington, Feb. 17—(AP)—Only time, a stroke of the President's pen and some debate in the Senate today appeared to separate Henry A. Wallace from a coveted cabinet post.

Congress let down the last practical bar to his confirmation as Secretary of Commerce when the House passed and sent to the White House the George bill shearing the multi-billion dollar lending agencies from the Commerce Department.

President Roosevelt has promised to let the bill become law—an action without which the former Vice President admittedly could not be taken at once since the President had agreed to sign the bill.

The Senate has agreed to vote March 1 on the appointment. But before it does, there is likely to be more talk by those members who don't want the CIO-supported former Vice President to hold any job where his salary is met by taxpayers.

Although they succeeded in blocking him out of a place where he would have had an important part in spending the taxpayers' money, some of his opponents were not yet willing to give up.

For instance, Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Republican Steering Committee, said the passage of the George bill "makes no difference in my position."

"I am just as much opposed to confirmation of Mr. Wallace as I was before."

But Senator Bailey (D-NC) said he was "pleased" by the House action in approving the George bill exactly as it passed the Senate.

It was Bailey who made the original motion which carried the Wallace nomination to the bring of defeat on a Senate showdown. Wallace supporters won on a tie vote.

Wallace was understood to be prepared to urge his opposition colleagues to give up the right and let Wallace be confirmed.

Allies Register New Gains Along Northern Front

ASSEMBLY IN BRIEF SESSION

Local Measures Given Consideration Today

Raleigh, Feb. 17—(AP)—Local bills made up the General Assembly menu today, and only a handful of legislators were present for the brief session.

Senator Carlyle of Forsyth introduced a bill to amend the private laws of 1927 for Winston-Salem, to increase the tax rate for general purposes. The bill would raise the tax rate limit to $1.25. It now is $1.

Four other local bills were received by the senate, while the house passed 28 local bills.

But, as the lawmakers prepared for the eighth week of the session opening Monday, the legislative scene was fraught with the possibility of spirited floor debate as the calendar still held several matters that might easily develop into major controversies.

Since the joint committee on Appropriations concluded consideration of the $215,000,000 money bill for the coming biennium, thus hurrying one of the tremendous tasks of the session, it was open season on questions when the 1935 session would end.

Some of the experts still could not see adjournment before March 15, but one capitol hill authority, long a student and close observer of legislative vagaries, gave it his opinion that the session would be terminated sometime March 5.

Meanwhile, at least one of the controversial matters that has loomed large on the legislative scene almost since the beginning of the session, appeared yesterday to have been shelved, at least temporarily, when a special five-man commission turned thumbs down on a proposal to divorce the division of inland game and fisheries from the Department of Conservation and Development.

Although the governor had previously asked the legislature to follow the recommendations of the commission, persistent rumors of the house hopper probably Monday night.

Thus it may be that another battle over the proposition may be precipitated. The fireworks thus far have been confined to the two hearings held by the five-man commission named at the request of the governor to study the matter and report to the legislature.

Other matters before the legislature Friday included two bills sponsored by Senator Blythe of Mecklenburg, and Rep. Moseley of Guilford. (Continued on page Two)

Canadians Continue Push Despite Bad Weather And Increasing German Resistance; More Than 1,000 Nazi Prisoners Pried From Mud Within Last 24 Hours

ASSEMBLY IN BRIEF SESSION

Paris, Feb. 17—(AP)—Allied troops of the Canadian First Army battled today to within 1-2 miles or less of the shell-ripped Nazi bastions of Goch and Dohr south-east of Klevé in a sudden, resurgent push over mired battlefields.

Britons, Scots and Canadians under Gen. Henry Crerar's command lunged forward yesterday behind a wall of bombs, rockets and bullets from Allied planes, and British troops speared 2-4 miles ahead, cutting the main Goch-Calcir highway at two points.

Troops closing on Goch and Calcir gained 2,500 yards. They entered Asperden and Herxstorf, within 1-1.2 miles of Goch, and toppled Hommerum and Mull, five miles west of the strongly-held road center seven miles south of Klevé.

Canadian tanks and infantry troops fought a mile and a half from Calcir, southeast of Klevé, and 17 miles from bomb-wrecked West, northern gate to the industrial Ruhr.

Crerar's men were five miles or less from Ederes, third road center stronghold.

More than 1,000 Nazi prisoners were pried from the mud in the last 24 hours, boosting the total in the army's offensive to 4,900, a front dispatch said. Another described Friday's air-assisted gains as probably the best since early in the nine-day drive.

British troops bludgeoned 4,000 yards deep and across the Goch-Calcir highway almost scored a breakthrough, front reporters said, spearing deep into lines of the German 116th Panzer and 15th Panzer grenadier divisions.

This push carried clear of the Siegfried Line's defense zone from Klevé to Goch, and cut just north of Halvenbrunn.

ABC Officers Find Buried Bear Mash

Capt. Bowen S. Dorsey and other ABC enforcement officers found 100 gallons of beer mash buried in the ground on Robert Stancill's farm near Belvoir Monday and poured it out and destroyed two kettles. Officers Jasper Lee Mills and J. L. Taylor assisted in the raid.

On Wednesday Capt. Dorsey and officers Walter Gray, J. L. Taylor and C. C. Jackson found 100 gallons of beer mash buried in the ground west of Stancill's house. They destroyed it and a still cap and worn key, Dorsey said. No arrest was made.

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Feb. 17—(AP)—Because the government draws a line between servicemen's insurance beneficiaries under and over 30, servicemen ask:

Does a beneficiary under 30 or over 30 have a choice of insurance payment plans? Yes. But, there's a point to be remembered. It will be explained at the end of this story.

To simplify the explanation, let's put it this way: There are two plans for beneficiaries under 30 and two for those over 30.

For those under 30: Plan 1. This gives 240 monthly installments (payment for 20 years) until the face value of the policy has been paid up, plus interest. In the case of a $10,000 policy this payment would total $13,444 at the end of 20 years.

The payment rate is the same whether the beneficiary is 21 or 29. If the beneficiary dies before receiving the full 240 payments, the balance is paid out monthly to the next beneficiary.

Buying Listed Stocks At A Big Discount

Babson Park, Mass., February 16—At first thought it would seem impossible to buy General Electric or any other stock on a given day for perhaps 20 per cent less than its quotation in your daily newspaper.

Yet there are times when this can be done if bought in conjunction with other good listed stocks at the same time. To do this you must buy the stock of an Investment Trust. But first let me explain the difference between the two groups of Investment Trusts.

Open-end Trusts These trusts are often limited to owning certain groups of securities. Some of them buy only bonds; others buy only listed stocks which pay dividends; and others confine themselves to definite industries such as the railroads, or the utilities, or the industrials. The total quantity of securities which they hold may increase or decrease, according to the amount of money the trust obtains from or refunds to its shareholders; but the relationship between the securities held for investment and the shares outstanding usually is stable. In other words, the managers of the trusts do not exercise much discretion unless the trust agreement specifically gives them such.

Closed-end Trusts When salesmen call upon you to sell you some shares in an investment trust, it usually is an open-end trust. If you invest $10,000 the trust uses this $10,000 in buying a diversified list of stocks according to its charter. When you sell your shares, you sell back to the trust. The trust theoretically sells the proper portion of its diversified list of holdings, and you get approximately the current value. In purchase of sale, or in both cases, you, the customer, pay a "loading charge" of from 5 per cent to 7 per cent to take care of the salesman's commissions, etc., and the expenses of routine business and management are deducted before distributing dividends. These open-end trusts are usually honestly run, and some provide excellent diversification (except as to management); but if you are willing to buy and take care of your own securities, confining yourself to a list selected by a careful investment advisor, you should save money by not bothering with an open-end trust.

These are trusts with a definite capitalization which does not change when shares of the trust are bought or sold by investors. When you buy the shares of a closed-end trust, you do not buy them of the trust but through a stock exchange, from someone who wants to sell. Similarly, you sell the shares of a closed-end trust, not back to the trust, but through a stock exchange where your broker finds someone to buy. (Continued on Page Two)

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst We shall be far from wise if we dismiss as mere tub-thumping the exploitation by the Nazi foreign office to the German people to cast aside their "last scruples" and to kill, murder and poison their enemies.

That barbaric hymn of hate fits the Hitlerian mentality like a glove, and there's small doubt that the Allied forces will encounter a great deal of this type of civilian "warfare." Just to make sure that the population doesn't get out of hand, the German government yesterday placed most of the Reich under what amounts to martial law, and citizens showing "cowardice" will be subject to the death penalty.

Well, we Americans are adaptable and I dare say we can accommodate the Germans if that's the way they want to play the game. There are well defined international laws of war governing the killing of enemy troops, or attempts to kill them, by civilians—and the invading forces are permitted to exact the penalty of quick death. There are less severe penalties for other forms of civilian obstruction.

In any event, we don't need to be afraid about our men lacking the firmness to deal with such situations. We had a couple of examples last September when American troops first crossed the German frontier. There was heavy sniping from houses in Waldorf and in a neighboring village. It wasn't clear whether civilians were involved, but the Yanks burned every building in both places.

Of course this destruction was necessary in order to ensure the safety of our men. It was recognized, however, that this also would serve to let the Germans know the Allies weren't taking any nonsense. Even if the Hitlerites were normal minded folk we still should have to expect civilians to try to obstruct invasion. We should do it ourselves if the United States were invaded—not murder, but the mounding of operations. The Poles have done it, and so have the rest of the unfortunate peoples whom Hitler overran. However, the grand resistance which the cracking and desperate Nazi government now demands belongs to the special type of savagery which Hitler has instilled in his people—or at least in the younger generation—through a long process of intensive education. The great massacres and tortures carried out under his regime are fair samples of the extremes to which the real Nazi is prepared to go.

Naturally not all Germans have reverted to that state of barbarity, but a big percentage of them have accepted Hitler's doctrines. In this connection one notes that Hitler's inspiration—even from boyhood—has been drawn from the Prussian militarists always have represented the super-race in his scheme. (Continued on page two)

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

A HUMBLE MAN MADE GREAT

What would Simon Peter have thought as he sat in his fishing boat on the Sea of Galilee, casting a net into the water, if someone had come to him and said: "Peter, in future generations you will be one of the two or three most famous characters of history. The greatest church in the world will be built over your grave. Men will have a regard for you that they have for almost no one else who has ever lived." If anyone had said this to Peter, can you imagine what the humble fisherman would have regarded him with anything but disdain and incredulity? Yet all these things have happened. One day, Jesus, standing on the shore, had called to Peter as he sat in his fishing boat and had said: "Come ye after me and I will make you a fisher of men." Peter left his nets to follow the unknown teacher. Things went pretty hard for the fisherman the rest of his life. He had great honor among the little groups of Christians who regarded him as their leader, but he had no honor at all among the influential and learned people of his day. Finally, he suffered martyrdom.

Two thousand years have passed, and Peter is enshrined today in the hearts of millions. The point of the story is that Peter made a world figure out of a very humble man. He added up his personality, influence, and talents to inconceivable heights. And what he did for Peter? He did in a measure for all of us, if we put trust in our fellow man. Hardaway Speaker Kiwanis Meeting

By CHESTER WALSH At the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night Dr. Richard E. Hardaway gave an interesting historical sketch in which he emphasized the large number of important men born in January and February. The after-dinner patriotic speeches were informative and timely. The speaker reviewed the life of George Washington as the general of the Continental army and the Nation's first President. "Great crises always produce great leaders," the popular minister said.

The famous Kiwanis minstrel show will be presented at the Austin building at the college on Thursday and Friday, April 19 and 20. Ed Bloom will produce the show. The (Sweetpea) Gardner was co-producer. Ed Little (Lamb) Rawl is general chairman of the minstrel committee. Proceeds of the show will be for the benefit of the Underprivileged Child Committee. The minstrel will be strictly a home talent show and will include some talent from the Greenville Marine Air Base. Rehearsals will begin next Friday night.

Special guests of the club last night were Maj. V. U. Ullman, commander of Marine Squadron 954; Lieut. D. Bryan, USMC; Ensign J. B. Smith, Jr., U. S. Coast Guard; Pfc. R. M. Garrett, Jr., Roy L. Trimp, M. L. Whitehouse, Jimmy Morton, grandson of Kiwanian Otis Morton, and Jimmy (Glasgow) Smith I, Jimmy (Glasgow) Smith II, Jimmy (Glasgow) Smith III. A. C. Tadlock won the attendance prize. Ed Rawl and several Greenville Kiwanians will attend the Farmville Kiwanis Club's meeting in Farmville Monday night at 6:45. It was announced.

Konev's troops have been closing a steel arc on the lower Silesian capital for many days.

The Russians fought to exploit the results of the closely coordinated aerial lambasting dealt Cottsbus Thursday by a force of American bombers. Similar American and RAF aerial mass attacks on Dresden have paved the way for the onslaught of Konev's southern army, which is at the threshold of Saxony and has reported within 45 miles of Dresden.

Jap Radio . . .

(Continued from page one) announced. "Enemy shore batteries which fired on the bombardment group were silenced by the guns of the fleet. The bombardment is continuing."

Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's fleet maintained a radio blackout. That the mighty air strike of Vice Adm. Marc Mitscher's fast carrier task force still was continuing today, more than 24 hours after it began, is proof that it remained unhampered to any extent either by enemy planes or by Japan's striking navy. The Fifth fleet, which includes some of the newest 45,000-ton battleships and the largest aircraft carriers, obviously ached to cross with the obsequious Japanese home fleet.

Manila, Feb. 17.—(AP)—American tanks and guns renewed their assault on the ancient walled city in Manila today after the Japanese defenders there ignored an offer of Corps Commander Major General Oscar Griswold, of honorable surrender and safe conduct of several thousand civilians.

The offer, made at 8 o'clock last night, was unanswered at the end of a four-hour limit set by the general. Griswold, in a message broadcast by radio and through loud speakers, told the Japanese "Your defeat is inevitable. I offer you an honorable surrender." The enemy either refused or failed to receive or comprehend the offer.

The renewal of the 11-day-old attack on the medieval citadel follows the encircling of several thousand Japanese on historic Bataan peninsula. Gen. Douglas MacArthur proclaimed "we have captured Bataan," where Filipino and Americans had fought a losing battle three years ago. A daring warship-supported landing on the south coast under the silenced guns of once formidable Corregidor resulted in the surrounding of the enemy on Bataan.

Tokyo radio said American paratroops and seaborne forces landed on Corregidor today and "were fighting" followed. Mariweles airdrome, seized after the landing, was already in use by American planes today. Losses were light as the Yank invasion troops, their path skillfully cleared by minesweepers, bombarding cruisers and destroyers of the U. S. Seventh fleet, opened a 500-yard beachhead in Mariweles harbor.

Meeting only light resistance, they seized Mariweles town and nearby airdrome and drove swiftly north-east toward a juncture with Maj. Gen. Edwin Patrick's Sixth division. The Sixth was 18 road miles away, after capturing Lamoa in a rapid drive down the Manila bay side of the jungled peninsula.

The Seventh fleet, under Rear Adm. Arthur Struble, sailed within four miles of Corregidor on the swing to Mariweles from the Olongapo naval base in Subic bay, just north of Bataan. Yet bombardment of cruisers and destroyers so effectively silenced Corregidor's guns the naval force was unscathed.

AP Correspondent Jim Hutcherson said only a half dozen shots were fired from Corregidor. The fortress has been bombed almost daily for weeks. MacArthur reported today a 147-ton bombing by Liberators and fighters.

The fight may not be over on Bataan. But with control of the single coastal road on the peninsula and command of the northern jaw of Manila bay, the Americans have all they want or need for the moment.

In Manila, the reinforced 14th corps drove through to the bay on an 800-yard front to squeeze the cornered enemy garrison into a triangle measuring about 2,000 yards at the base along the Pasig river and 3,000 yards along the waterfront side.

(Continued From Page One) buy them. This means you might lose money when selling at a greater discount from each share's asset value than when you bought; but conversely, you are likely to get some bargains when buying such shares. For instance, your broker could give the names of two or three investment trusts—with good managements—where the market value of the holdings is over 30 per cent above the price which you would need to pay for the stock of the investment trust. This means that by buying such trust stock you indirectly buy at a big discount the stocks which it holds. Why more people do not avail themselves of these bargains is beyond me. S. E. C. Commented I can understand why it "gets the goat" of successful mature business men and experienced lawyers to have to go to Philadelphia and "sit on a hard bench" awaiting to get the approval of some young chap who perhaps never owned a bond or share of stock. It also is probable that the commission is far too slow and perhaps too fussy about crossing 't's and dotting 'i's. On the other hand, the Securities and Exchange Commission is every year saving investors hundreds of millions of dollars. The commission gives special attention to investment trusts. No more raw deals can be pulled off as were done during the "good old days." Unscrupulous persons, in the position of investment trust managers, can no longer sell to themselves the good securities and sell to the trust. That day is over. The commission also watches carefully to protect investors when trusts are finally liquidated. This fact alone should make the stocks of investment trusts some day in real demand. This applies both to the "open-end" and "closed-end" groups. Both have their advantages and disadvantages—like everything else in this world.

THE WAR TODAY

(Continued from page one) normal mind—and the essence of Prussianism is intolerance, cruelty and aggression. Supreme Commander Eisenhower has made clear to the German people through his proclamations what conduct he requires. A couple of months ago he warned them to avoid "suspicion of compliance" with secret Nazi efforts to obstruct the Allied military government. He told them that the first duty was to remain "peaceable and orderly" and to continue their daily occupation if they were engaged in a lawful pursuit.

Another proclamation about the same time told the German public to beware of joining underground military organizations. NEW YORK COTTON
New York, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened 20 cents a bale lower to 5 cents higher.

March liquidation and commission house profit taking following Friday's sharp advance, lent an easy tone to cotton futures today and offerings met indifferent mill buying support. Belief that the Bankhead purchase program for another year will encounter considerable opposition influenced some of the selling. Futures closed 10 to 20 cents a bale lower.

ECTC Takes One From A C College

The ECTC Pirates captured the old Wooden Bucket from Atlantic Christian college last night in the AOC gym by outclassing a game Bulldog quintet by the score of 60-32. The Bulldogs were in there fighting all the way but the Pirates had too much height and experience for them.

This Wooden Bucket is an old trophy that has passed back-and-forth between the Pirates and the Bulldogs for many years. Year before last the Pirates lost the bucket to the Bulldogs in a baseball game, but last night the Pirates gained it back.

flank struck down the Gennep-Venlo road, and routed Germans from a wood less than a mile northeast of the Meas River town of Afferden.

The Germans—their strength now consisting of elements of eight divisions—threw in small but vicious counterattacks throughout yesterday morning.

Elsewhere on the Western front, mud halted most activities, but the U. S. 7th division pushed a half-mile northeastward along the Echemach-Irre road, winning heights dominating the Pruen River.

The Fifth division of the Third Army advanced half a mile northeast into Schankwiler, six miles northwest of Echemach.

Southeast of Echemach, Third Army patrols entered Wasserbillig, at the junction of the Sure and Moselle rivers, but were forced to withdraw. Supreme headquarters said, and in the Sins area southeast of Remich Germans counterattacking with tanks re-took several pillboxes.

Flood waters were reported ebbing along the Roer River front of the U. S. First and Ninth armies.

No changes were reported on the Alsatian front.

Allied planes flew 3,500 sorties against western front-line objectives and supply lines and targets far behind the Rhine Friday. In token of their effectiveness, 170 bomb-shaken Germans surrendered at

Meadows Case ...

vances from Dr. Meadows while the work was in progress.

With regard to cement purchases by Mr. Flanagan Dr. Meadows stated that during the paving program at the college the cement was about to give out and that funds for further purchases were also running out. He said that Mr. Flanagan, member of the board of trustees and chairman of the budget committee, told him he could procure the cement from a friend and that he (Flanagan) would stand for the account until further funds were available. Dr. Meadows said the $339 item in question was payment he made to Mr. Flanagan for one of the cars of cement so purchased. He said that the cement was received and used by the college at some date prior to the date of the entry on his records of the payment to Mr. Flanagan.

As to the Kelvinator purchased for the president's home and charged in the bill of indictment as being purchased by Dr. Meadows for himself and paid for with college funds, Dr. Meadows said it was strictly a purchase for the state and that at no time had he ever claimed it as his own property. He explained that prior to the purchase, ice refrigeration was being used in the college president's home with the college furnishing the ice. He said that deliveries had to be made at least twice a day necessitating a great amount of time of college employees and at much cost to the state. He said he and Mr. Flanagan discussed the advisability of the purchase of an electric refrigerator to replace the ice box. He said the purchase had not been approved by the state purchase commission but that Mr. Flanagan, as head of the college budget committee, approved the purchase and aided in arranging for it. He said that $95.45 of the summer term entertainment funds were used as part payment on the purchase and that the balance was paid from the college treasurer together with college refrigeration equipment included in the same invoice. Asked if he had told H. I. West that it was his refrigerator he said he may have so referred to it the same as he would have called the president's home his home while living there but that at no time had he considered the refrigerator as his personal property and that he did not take it with him when he moved from the president's home in July of last year. He further stated that the refrigerator was much larger than he would have purchased for his own private use but that as president of the college there was a lot of entertaining to do that necessitated greater refrigeration facilities. He stated that it was his opinion that since the purchase of the electric refrigerator in 1937 the college had saved approximately $1,000 as a result of lower cost of operation compared to the old system of furnishing ice. He likewise stated that the refrigerator today would probably sell for as much or more than it originally cost.

Asked by his counsel if he had raised an entry in his memo book from $9.78 to $59.78 the witness testified that he had made no such change. The amount of the expenditure, as revealed by a check already presented as evidence he said was $59.78 and that was the amount he entered on the book. He said that the book had become worn and some of the figures dim from handling and that a portion of the entry now appeared to have been retraced in order to make it more legible but that he did not do this nor had he changed it in any way since he first entered it in the book. (The state has charged that photostatic copies of the book did not show the figure five in front of the nine when auditors made their reports from the book and that therefore the entry had been altered since it was turned back by the auditors.)

Court recessed at five o'clock yesterday afternoon until 10 o'clock Monday morning.
