Big Tank Battle Is Raging Along Road To Berlin

Moscow Reports Russian Tanks Across Neisse River In Several Places; Fall Of Poznan Opens Short Supply Line On Main Moscow-Berlin Route

By JAMES F. KING London, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian army engaged the Germans in a large-scale tank battle today in the no man's land region of Goerlitz southeast of Berlin as the Russians assaulted in force the enemy's Neisse and Spree river lines.

Russian attempts to establish bridgeheads on the west bank of the Neisse were beaten back, the German communiqué said. A Moscow dispatch said that Konev's troops were bucking a defense system some eight to 12 miles deep in trenches and anti-tank ditches.

While Soviet dispatches did not put Konev's troops far beyond the Neisse it seems they might be holding several salients well on the Berlin side.

The German war bulletin said the Russians were thrown back to the north at Goldberg, 13 miles southwest of Liegnitz and 36 miles due west of the by-passed and surrounded Nazi stronghold of Breslau. Konev's assault troops have broken into the southern defenses of Hirschberg, in the Katschab mountains on the road to Prague.

To the north, Konev's tanks and tommygunners surged into the streets of Guben and Forst against German armor and Volksturm units.

Reported heavy fighting in East Prussia, the Germans said a Soviet attack failed north of Melnik and Zinten, both south of encircled Koehnberg.

Clearing their supply lines along the direct-line route to Berlin, Russian troops wiped out the last German resistance in long-encircled Poznan and Arnsauwe.

The capture of Poznan shortened by some 50 miles the First White Russian army's communications with the rear.

Simultaneously, the Russians stepped up pressure on besieged Breslau in an effort to reduce that German Silesian stronghold and (Continued on page three)

Pitt Bar Endorses Judge W. C. Harris

The Pitt County Bar Association at a special meeting today unanimously endorsed Judge W. C. (Buck) Harris of Raleigh for judge of the United States Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina.

Judge J. W. H. Roberts, president, presided. The Western jurist is the dean of the North Carolina Superior Court judges.

The association had previously endorsed Lindsay C. Warren of Washington as the successor to Judge Isaac M. Meekins of Elizabeth City, who recently resigned.

Warren Will Not Consider Change

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Declaring he cannot leave his position which carries "increased responsibilities by reason of war," Lindsay Warren declined yesterday to consider appointment to a North Carolina federal judgeship.

His statement was made public by Senators Bailey and Hoey, who had endorsed him as a successor to Judge Isaac M. Meekins, district judge for eastern North Carolina.

The senators declared "the attorney general of the United States was prepared to recommend Mr. Warren to the President. There was no question of his appointment and confirmation. They said the dean could be filled "within a reasonable time," but not until after the return of the President to this country.

They added that they are giving "the utmost consideration" to each of the many letters and endorsements they are receiving.

Embezzlement Trial Enters Fifth Week Monday

Cross examination of Dr. Leon R. Meadows on trial here for false pretense and embezzlement, was completed yesterday afternoon and Judge Clawson L. Williams recessed court until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

The trial got under way January 29 with Solicitor D. M. Clark, J. H. Harrell, both of this city, and Jesse A. Jones, of Kinston, representing the state and Judge Albion Dunn, of this city, Clay Carter, of Washington, and John G. Dawson, of Kinston, representing the defendant.

Dr. Meadows took the stand in his own defense Thursday of last week and completed his direct testimony at noon Wednesday. From then until court recessed yesterday he has been under questioning by Jesse Jones.

During yesterday afternoon's session Dr. Meadows underwent further questioning about payments claimed to have been made to Negro workers in amounts much larger than the Negroes admit receiving for the work. The state has charged that by using the padded figures in a statement to the college stationery store Dr. Meadows received repayment in a greater amount than that actually expended in preparing quarters for the college commerce department. This transaction was one of the major counts upon which the false pretense charge was based. On his cross examination Meadows still insisted that he had paid every cent to the workers as represented by their receipts. The workers had testified (Continued on Page Two)

Food Racketeers Killed In Raid

Paris, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Two members of a gang of nine Negro soldiers were killed and two military police were wounded in a raid on the gang's headquarters in a hotel in the little town of Ermenonville in the French north.

The men were drawing rations for 250 men daily, using forged requisition forms and stolen army trucks to transport the food from Paris to Ermenonville. Black market operations motored to the little town to pick up the stolen supplies.

Military police found 1,100 cans of evaporated milk, more than 2,000 pounds of meat and numerous grocery staples in the storerooms.

The seven, who signed confessions, are awaiting trial on charges of desertion and theft, with possible death penalties.

As a result of this and other less sensational cases the army routine for requisitioning food supplies has been strengthened.

Marines Battle Way Onto Central Airfield; MacArthur's Men Closing On Last Japs In Manila

By ELMONT WAITE U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Backed by a terrific bombardment from heavy artillery, aircraft and naval guns of fleet units standing offshore, Marines on Iwo Island opened their most concentrated attack of the six day battle today but were only inching forward against virtually unyielding enemy opposition.

The tank-supported attack was launched from the southwestern tip of the airfield in the morning and by noon was making slow progress. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported.

Terrific resistance from Japanese artillery, small arms and automatic weapons made every inch of ground gained a bitter, costly affair.

The Marines appeared, however, to have reached the turning point in their conquest of the island, having taken Mt. Suribachi at the southern end of the island and now being engaged in mopping up operations against remnants of the garrison at that one-time enemy strong point.

Conditions on the beaches are generally improving and unloading of cargo is proceeding.

At the island's south tip, after scaling Mt. Suribachi to secure their rear, the Marines systematically dug out Japanese from pillboxes and blockhouses extending even inside the crater of the volcano. More than 700 already have been killed.

Supplies on the beaches grew from a trickle to a flood as the advance toward the island's center overran Nipponese gun positions which had been shelling the debris-littered shore.

The fight is far from over. A communique covering action up to 6 p. m. last night said "In all sectors the enemy is resisting our advance from concrete pillboxes, emplacements and caves."

The Nipponese are opposing the three Marine divisions with such modern weapons as 1,000-pound rocket mortars, presumably fired from launching platforms.

They are using deep pillboxes, linked by tunnels, which were years in the building and can only be knocked out by a direct shell hit.

But the overall significance of this morning's communique, despite the fact it records limited advances, is its strong suggestion the crisis is past.

HITLER ASKS FOR SUPPORT

Says Nazism Only Hope For German People

London, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler told the Nazi old guard today on the 25th anniversary of the formation of his National Socialist program, that Germany was an "unshakable community of people," Berlin radio announced.

Hitler sent a message saying he could not be with the party stalwarts as "my sense of duty and work prevent my leaving headquarters even for a moment."

The German news agency DNB said Hitler's message was read by Secretary of State Hermann Esser at the "festive hour held at Munich."

"Providence shows no mercy to weak nations but only recognizes the right of existence of sound and strong nations," the message said. It declared that without the "National Socialist reconstruction there would neither be a German Reich nor a German people today."

"Not at a talking shop in Geneva nor by any other convention will Bolshevism be beaten back, but only by our determination to win victory and by the strength of our arms," the message said.

In a harangue against capitalism, Bolshevism and the Jews, Hitler said that the "enemy whom we (the National Socialist party) declared war on Feb. 24, 1920, because we wanted to preserve our nation" was the same one threatening to engulf the world today.

It was just a quarter of a century ago that Hitler began drafting the Nazi program in a prison cell, to overthrow the German republic which the Allies had sanctioned in (Continued on page three)

Results of the bombing by the upwards of 150 B-29s were not disclosed immediately by headquarters of the 20th air force here, which announced the raid.

The raid by Brig. Gen. Eger M. Ramey's 20th bomber command was the second of the month. On Feb. 1, the India-based fleet destroyed a floating dry-dock capable of handling the world's largest warship.

ASSEMBLY HAS BUSIEST WEEK

Increase In Hunting License Fees Sought

Raleigh, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Senator Smith of Stanly chairman of the Committee on Conservation and Development, introduced two bills today to increase hunting and fishing licenses from 50 cents to $1, the additional revenue to go to the propagation of fish and game.

The measures were interpreted in legislative circles as a partial answer to charges of some sportsmen that the game and fish program in North Carolina had been neglected.

The bills also provide a special 25 cents tax for each deer killed. If such a tax is not paid, the deer may be confiscated. They stipulate that a person who has resided in a county six months may be considered a county resident and may acquire such a license if he intends to use artificial lures or baits.

The license increases would boost the 22 taxes to $3, and those in the higher brackets from $15.25 to $15.75. The additional revenue would be used to acquire additional lands for progressive purposes, and to otherwise assist in the enlarged game and fish program.

Meanwhile, the current week goes down as one of the busiest of the session, witnessing the passage in record time by both branches of the Legislature the big Appropriations bill, and the approval by the joint Finance Committee of the budget revenue measure which will likely pass the Legislature next week.

The finance measure requires three readings on different days in both houses, a procedure not necessary in connection with the appropriations bill.

Some new business hit the hoppers yesterday and several previously introduced measures received action. The Senate passed on second (Continued on page four)

Asks Partnership For The Italians

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Alberto Tarchiani, the new Italian ambassador, asserted today that his people have paid long enough for Mussolini's crimes and now merit full partnership in the United Nations.

Italians "want to put an end to the status of co-belligerency," the Italian envoy said in an interview, adding: "They are beginning to feel that Italy has paid heavy penance long enough for what the Fascists did and should be invited now into the family of United Nations."

Seventeen Towns Overrun As Two American Armies Surged Three And Half Miles Beyond Roer River; Other Units Widen Bridgehead Across Saar

By JAMES C. LONG Paris, Feb. 24.—(AP)—U. S. troops fought within 19 miles of Cologne on the Rhine today in a huge two-army offensive ripping Germany's western defenses. They overran 17 towns and surged as deep as 3 1/2 miles beyond the Roer river.

Infantrymen on the northern wing of a 22-mile assault are more than 12 miles from industrial Muenchen Gladbach and 24 from Dueseldorf, on the Rhine below Cologne.

Bridgeheads from one to 3 1/2 miles deep were firmly established on the Roer's east bank and 1,400 prisoners were swept up in the first day of the assault, launched at 3:30 a. m. Friday.

Troops crossing between fallen Juelich and besieged Dueren captured Niederzeller, 19 miles short of bomb-rubbed Cologne. Further north the U. S. Ninth army's deepest surge topped Baak, 12 miles from Muenchen Gladbach.

The American battle line was being pressed forward over the trench-slit Cologne plain against an enemy who was stunned by the first shock of the assault.

Berlin broadcasts declared the full force of Gen. Eisenhower's push had yet to be reached, and that "40 Anglo-American divisions are thus far employed in the western offensive."

The German high command reported bitter fighting, but asserted the American offensive would be repulsed. "Our main battle line is in a major depth."

The Germans, staggered by tremendous shelling and hampered by the aerial seal-off of the battlefield, struck back with six tank-led counterattacks which failed to halt the American onslaught.

U. S. First army troops cleared one-fourth of Dueren, on the Roer's east bank 20 miles from Cologne on the Rhine.

But thick and strong defenses lie ahead. German resistance was reported stiffening. Eisenhower's push had yet to be reached, and that "40 Anglo-American divisions are thus far employed in the western offensive."

South of this breakthrough bid, the U. S. Third army seized 16 more towns and gained up to four miles along a 20-mile sector. (Continued on page three)

The WAR TODAY AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst This is General Eisenhower's all-out offensive into the Rhineland, and the big news of the moment is that American resistance is increasing, however, as the enemy troops recover from the incapacitating shock of one of the most terrific and destructive preliminary bombardments ever seen. We must expect fierce fighting, for this is the show-down in the west.

As the U. S. First and Ninth armies broke across the racing Roer—ant-amazing operation in which amphibious jeeps, assault boats and infantry bridges were used—the Canadian First army on the northern end of the front, and the American Third and Seventh armies on the south, intensified their assaults on the German flanks. Thus the entire battle line is flaming.

This offensive is what Field Marshal Montgomery a few days ago in an order of the day to his troops in the north forecast as the "final round" which would continue without cessation until the "knockout." That aptly describes this great and crucial operation.

It has been staged, despite adverse weather conditions on the whole, in conjunction with the Red drive on the eastern front. It conforms to—and may be the direct outcome of—the decision of the big three in the Grand Alliance to bring the Hitlerian war to a quick termination.

There are two prime reasons for forcing the issue. One is that the German war machine is definitely cracking, and now is the time for the kill. The other is that we also want a speedy clean-up in Europe so that we can fling all our resources into the Pacific conflict.

Supreme Commander Eisenhower is in far better shape now for this major operation than he was last December when Nazi Field Marshal Von Rundstedt interrupted plans for an Allied drive by launching his own ill-fated offensive which developed into the battle of the Belgian bulge. At that time Allied supplies weren't up to requirements, owing to lack of ports and transport facilities. The great harbor of Antwerp had just begun to function in a large way. Now, however, General Ike is said to have all the material he needs, and a wealth of manpower. His objectives are these:

In the first place, as this column previously has explained, the Allied force may be expected to try to force Rundstedt to give battle on the broad and level plain of Cologne where American tanks can be brought into play. The object of this strategy, of course, is to annihilate (Continued on Page Two)

Diversify Your Investments Babson Suggests Ten Groups

Babson Park, Mass., Feb. 24.—This week, let me talk on the necessity of diversifying your investments in order to get safety. In other words—don't put too many eggs in any one basket. If you have $10,000 invested or to invest, divide it among ten groups of securities. The following groups and ideas are not the only ones to consider, but they serve as illustrations.

1. Manufacturing: Select some company like a paper, textile or oil company which is in a "repeat" business rather than a company dealing in equipment which lasts a lifetime. Thus, beware of many ship-building, aviation or machine tools at this time.

2. Public Utilities: Select the stock of some good company which is being eliminated by the Securities and Exchange Commission and which should liquidate for considerably more than the present market price. Stocks which fulfill such requirements may be immune from stock market sinking spells.

3. Merchandise Stocks: Visit the variety chain stores in your city. Pick out the two or three which you like the best. Ask your local banker which of these have their stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Buy the one which yields you the most annual income.

4. Fire Insurance Stocks: Look at your insurance policies and buy the stock of the company which has been doing business the longest.

5. Bank Stocks: Buy either the stock of the local bank with which you deal or else buy the stock of the New York City bank which your local bank uses as a correspondent. Besides earning money on services rendered, most banks now earn on large government bond holdings.

6. Building Stocks: These should be good, although they already are. (Continued on Page Two)

Strength FOR THE DAY BY EARL L. DOUGLAS

RIGHTHOUSNESS IS OF THE HEART

St. Paul speaks of the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus which made him free from the law of sin and of death.

So long as the law is merely written on a page, it is hard to obey. In fact the more we are told we must not do a thing, the more does it seem that in our perversity we want to do it. Paul, therefore, looked upon the law of the Old Testament as being something which drove him to sin, and following that, to death.

But Christ had written the law not in a book but upon men's hearts. It had become an inward thing, allied with all the resources of the soul, vitalizing all good instincts, making this effective in the living of a good life. As soon as Paul had a vision of Christ, the law lost all its terrors for him. After that he wanted to do what the law very solemnly and harshly commanded him to do. The law of sin and of death had become the law of life, and this law of life now rendered him serene and invincible.

"The letter killeth but the spirit giveth life." When the spirit of Christ lay hold on the soul, the believer hastens gladly to do everything God requires of him. True morality is always spontaneous. It is the result not of external pressure but of internal power.

AMERICA IN WARTIME BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—While the War and Navy Departments are moving pins about on the Philippine map and thinking what recapture of the islands will mean in the war against Japan, the Department of Commerce is rubbing its hands over the same conquest for an entirely different reason.

Next to Manila may be a shameless pig in the path of the American sugar. The Philippines may be reasonably clear of Japanese, Manila Bay is re-opened and the crops are in, the United Nations are going to have access to some needed raw materials and the Filipinos will receive the badly needed foods and cash for them.

Before the war, raw and refined sugar was the leading money crop of the Philippines. About a million tons a year was shipped to the United States alone, representing nearly one-third of the islands' total export trade of something less than $200,000,000.

The fall of the Philippines hastened the rationing of sugar in this country. Their recapture won't immediately relax it, but it will contribute importantly to the United Nations stockpile and lessen the drain on other sources.

First reports indicate that nearly all Philippine crops in growth have a good stand, and there's no reason to believe that plantings and harvests won't be substantial once the Japanese are wiped out.

The experts here think that by the end of 1945 the U. S. will get half a million tons of Philippine sugar. Lend-lease, the military and UNRRA will get the rest.

Coconuts and their by-products (mainly copra) are the islands' second largest export crop and these should start moving out as soon as the harbors are cleared and shipping is available.

This would make the soap-makers happy. Coconut oil is an important ingredient in many sudsy soaps; it's also used in shortening, margarine, paints, confections and other products. The shortage of coconut oil is one of the principal reasons for the collection of kitchen fats (although the fats are needed for other purposes as well).

Third largest export from the Philippines and one of the most important from a military standpoint is abaca—more commonly known as Someone Called, Please?

Manila hemp. In pre-war days, the United States took about one-fourth of the hemp (around 350,000 bales). Great Britain took about as much and Japan nearly all the rest. It's important now for hawsers and other ship's lines. In this, among other things, the Philippines will be a sore loss to Japan.

7. Chemical Stocks: These also are selling pretty high now; but we are going into a chemical age and many miracles are ahead of us. For instance, Dow Chemical is making products from sea-water. Remember that while our agricultural soils are getting poorer every year, the ocean is constantly getting richer in chemicals and minerals.

8. Transportation Stocks: Probably everyone should own a little stock of some well established automobile company. Certainly, these should be safer to hold than most railroad stocks. I think nearly all railroads will suffer in the postwar period. Airplane transportation stocks are now fairly high.

9. Mining Stocks: This may not be the time to buy any mining stocks; but if so, one should buy the stock of a company which is also well established in the fabricating end.

10. Food Stocks: This group includes the baking companies, canning companies and other food processing companies. Personally, I would rather buy the stock of some good grocery chain than tie myself down to any one of the manufacturers. If, however, you want a strictly "food stock," I suppose one having both "necessity" and "luxury" foods would be my choice.

Please remember I give the above simply as illustrations, there are other good groups and ideas which I have not included. In this great country there are many good companies. But whatever you buy, diversify!

End Meadows ...

(Continued on Page Five) that they had signed blank receipts at the time Dr. Meadows paid them and that the receipts as filled in are far too large. Jones questioned Dr. Meadows at length about two different shades of ink appearing in the writing in the receipts but the witness explained the difference by declaring that he practically always carried two fountain pens and that probably both were used in filling out the receipts. Meadows admitted that he had contacted three of the workers since the investigation of his affairs had begun and that they had signed a joint statement to the effect that they had received all the money represented by the receipts held by him. The workers testified that in signing the statement they understood they were stating that they had received all the money due them but not that they had received the larger amounts represented by the receipts. Jones, in his questioning emphasized the fact that the signed statement gave no figures and asked Dr. Meadows why he did not have the document set forth how much each worker received. Meadows said he presumed they knew how much they got for the work and the figures in the statement were not necessary. Meadows reiterated his former statement that he had employed the Negroes at prices ranging from $1.10 to $1.25 an hour and told them to keep their own time and he would settle on that basis.

The matter of the sale of college swill to G. C. Honeycutt was some into again and Dr. Meadows again went through his explanation of how the deal was handled, how the college and the campus funds re-

BABSON

(Continued From Page One) ceived what were due them and how he lost $14.50 on the deal through two loans to Honeycutt. Jones asked Dr. Meadows that if he had made such personal loans to Honeycutt and had used Honeycutt's payments to the college to repay himself, if, actually, he had not converted college funds to his own use? The witness again explained his repayment was a part of the transaction and that he had not misappropriated college funds. He said he did not recall that he asked Honeycutt to sign a statement to the effect that money had been lost on the hog-feeding deal but did admit that he visited Honeycutt at his home and discussed the hog deal at length prior to the meeting of the board of trustees last year.

Asked why, as secretary to the board of trustees in 1924, he had written the resolution empowering the college president to handle student funds, in between other matters in the minutes of the meeting, he stated that frequently matter was filled in at the bottom of the pages in the minute books and that accounted for the item appearing in the minute book in the middle of another resolution. He explained the difference in the color of the ink by saying possibly a different pen was used at the time of writing that particular portion of the minutes.

The prosecution through its questioning was able to get into the court records the fact that, during the first nine years of Dr. Meadows' administration as president of the college, the state spent $121,574.27 on maintenance and repairs to college buildings, grounds, etc., and an additional $21,062.16 for furniture and furniture repairs. The figures did not include salaries of regular maintenance employees at the college. Jones emphasized that these expenditures were for the same type of services for which Dr. Meadows claimed to have spent student funds during the same period.

The state also asked Dr. Meadows if he did not know that during the nine years in question there had been returned to the state $83,385.20 in unused college appropriations. The witness explained that appropriations as a rule were earmarked for specific items and could not be diverted to other uses. Jones asked him if it were not a fact that requests for transfer of funds from one department to another were not turned down if the requests had merit. A defense objection sustained by Judge Williams prevented an answer to the question.

The state again turned to the matter of Dr. Meadows' income other than his salary from the college and his rentals between 1924 and 1943 and the witness stated that he did have other income but that he did not know how much. Asked if he had sold any property between 1934 and 1943 the witness said he did not recall. He was then asked from what source he received the $45,875 invested by him in Federal Savings and Loan certificates and government bonds from January 1939 to 1943. His reply was that a part of the money belonged to his children, having previously been given to them by him. He said cash he had on hand prior to that time, together with savings from his income made up the balance. Efforts of the state to bring Dr. Meadows' income tax reports into the trial were blocked by objection of defense counsel, sustained by Judge Williams.

Asked why he felt it necessary to prepare a financial statement and place it in his safe at the time he became president of the college Dr. Meadows said he thought it wise to do so in view of the general public opinion that school teachers as a rule do not have so much and he wanted to be able to show that he had his money before becoming head of the institution.

"And immediately after you had made this statement and filed it in your safe you began to receive in your hands state funds entrusted you; put them into your own personal bank account, began to check on them without even making a notation on the checks showing the purposes for which the money was spent and began to pay out sums in cash without even taking receipts," Jones asked. The witness stated that he had done so.

Shown a letter he had written to Baxter Durham, former state auditor, in 1936 regarding certain actions of the college board, the witness admitted that he had made no mention of the board's resolution requesting that student activity funds be audited by the state auditors along with their regular annual audits at the college. The witness further admitted that had this request been forwarded to the State Department the funds handled by him may have been audited in conformity with the request. There had been previous testimony by a former board member that such a resolution had been adopted by the board but presentation of the letter yesterday was the first intimation that the request had not reached state headquarters.

Asked how he was able to make up his income tax reports without records of his rents and other income Dr. Meadows stated that a book containing his personal records had been taken from his residence during his absence on March 28, 1944. He stated that he and his wife spent the day in Raleigh and after returning home they found the entrance unlocked and the book and other papers contained in it gone. He said so far as they knew nothing else was missing from the house although there were silver and other articles of value close to the spot where he kept the book. On a redirect examination Judge Dunn asked Meadows if the theft of his record book was during the investigation of his affairs but the witness said he did not know whether it was during or immediately following the investigation. Meadows said he had reported the robbery to the chief of police but that the book had never been recovered.

Asked why he felt it necessary to prepare a financial statement and place it in his safe at the time he became president of the college Dr. Meadows said he thought it wise to do so in view of the general public opinion that school teachers as a rule do not have so much and he wanted to be able to show that he had his money before becoming head of the institution.

"And immediately after you had made this statement and filed it in your safe you began to receive in your hands state funds entrusted you; put them into your own personal bank account, began to check on them without even making a notation on the checks showing the purposes for which the money was spent and began to pay out sums in cash without even taking receipts," Jones asked. ## Jaycees To Carry On Paper Salvage

Greenville's Junior Chamber of Commerce held its regular meeting at the Proctor Hotel last night. Presided over by President McBrayer, the group discussed the plan of joint paper salvage with the local Boy Scouts for the months of March and April. Inasmuch as the local Scouts have been asked by the National Council to collect waste paper during these two months, the Jaycees had been asked to cooperate in making these two monthly collections, the largest ever held in Greenville and the surrounding territory. The matter was approved by the membership and referred to the Salvage Committee to be worked out with the Scouts.

The organization also discussed ways and means of acquainting the citizens of the city with the advantages of the bus lines.

W. T. Kzyer and M. L. Widenhouse were guests of the club. Invocation was given by Jack Nobles.

Miss Crisp Tells About USO Club

By CHESTER WALSH. Miss Lucy Cherry Crisp at the Kiwanis Club's supper meeting last night told the Kiwanians many things about the USO Community Club and the work it is doing for servicemen. As director of the club Miss Crisp has done an exceptionally fine job. Senator Arthur B. Corey said in introducing her as the guest speaker.

She said 62,000 persons had visited the USO club since it was established, and that 47,000 of them were servicemen.

"We provide a 'home spot' and recreation where the men can mingle and make friends," she said. "We develop their hobbies and talents and show a personal interest in their welfare that is reflected gratefully in numerous letters from the men, some of them from the South Pacific and elsewhere. Then we have the older women to provide good cheer and make the place more like home."

Miss Crisp enumerated the various recreation and entertainment projects carried out. She complimented Mrs. John Mitchell, who has charge of the popular snack bar, and others who have assisted in making a home-like atmosphere for servicemen.

Sgt. Herschel Smith, USMC, sang several songs without accompaniment. Ed (Little Lamb) Rawl presided for Dr. Barrett, and, incidentally, won the attendance prize. Carl Reid and Dick Bundy contributed a nickel for each year of their ages on their birthdays.

Eli Bloom, director of the Kiwanis minstrel to be given in April, had his first rehearsal last night, and the chorus sang like veterans. Tide Gardner reported that a bagful of new jokes are being polished up for the minstrel show. It will be given in the Austin building at the college on April 19 and 20.

SEVENTEEN DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Accident Occurred In Mountains Of Virginia

Cedar Springs, Va., Feb. 24—(AP)—Five injured persons, including a carefree woman who walked barefooted for help, survived today by the crash of an American Airlines plane in which 17 were killed in a desolate mountain area of southern Virginia.

The survivors, taken to a hospital at Marion, were Mrs. Frances Ulen, of Washington; Sally Padgett, stewardess, Nashville, Tenn.; Ensign Leonard J. Rice of Meriden, Conn., and Washington; Marine Lt. Erwin Schwartz, Syracuse, N. Y., and Ensign F. L. Middaugh, Los Angeles.

Discovery of the wrecked plane on the side of Glade Mountain late yesterday afternoon ended a search by more than 500 persons starting soon after the pilot had reported to the emergency landing field at Chilhowie, Va., that he was having motor trouble.

But it was more than twelve hours after the pilot's report before a farmer, one of the searchers, met Mrs. Ulen, who had started out barefooted at daybreak to summon aid for her motorously injured companions lying without shelter on the bleak mountainside.

Even after the farmer succeeded in telephoning for help, it was several hours before stretcher-bearing state police and forest rangers were able to ascend the almost perpendicular slope and reach the plane.

Airline officials said so far they have not determined the cause of the crash of the twin-engine plane, known as the Mercury, on a New York to Los Angeles flight.

A doctor at the Marlon Hospital quoted one of the injured as saying that the plane "hit a terrific storm" shortly before it plunged to earth. He said several of the survivors told him they were asleep at the time and didn't know anything was wrong until after the accident.

He was told, he said, that the stewardess and Mrs. Ulen were thrown clear of the wreckage and the others were not.

Of those aboard only three were civilians. In addition to Mrs. Ulen, they were listed by the airlines as Major Carlos Audifred, identified as a member of the Mexican Purchasing Commission in New York, whose home is in Mexico City, and Clyde J. Pinney of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia.

The crew consisted of the stewardess and Captain James E. Stroud and First Officer R. M. Brigan, all of Nashville.

Big Tank Battle . . .

(Continued From Page One) free additional Soviet units for Marshal Ivan S. Konev's flanking drive on Berlin from the southeast. Poznan, Nazi stronghold in western Poland which was bypassed by Marshal Zhukov's First White Russian army in its drive to the Oder river, fell yesterday after a month's siege. The Germans lost 48,000 killed or captured.

Moscow announced that a total of 23,000 Germans, including the commander and his staff, were captured at Poznan and 25,000 were killed. The booty also included hundreds of planes, guns and freight cars.

In capturing the city, Soviet tank and infantry teams started their way through six huge underground fortresses.

An official Russian war bulletin said Soviet units, after fierce fighting broke through the southern defenses of Breslau, captured the radio station and a motor car works and cleared the Nazis from the southern park area.

This great industrial Oder river city of 630,000 bristles with Nazi fortifications, but Moscow said Konev's assault troops were routing the Germans from one block house after another.

The German accounts said the Russians had crossed the Neisse river, establishing bridgeheads less than 10 miles from the Spree, last water barrier protecting the German capital.

Other spearheads of Konev's forces were battling on the approaches to Goerlitz, Neisse river citadel 48 miles east of Dresden.

Hitler Asks . . .

(Continued From Page One) the hope of keeping world peace. "If the Germany of 1920 had had only a fraction of the resistance of the Germany of today, it would never have collapsed," he asserted. The Nazi assumption of power after a 13-year fight, Hitler declared, "was the result of a tough fanatical battle which often seemed completely hopeless."

"I recently read in British papers that the Allies intend to destroy my berghof (Hitler's mountain house)," he said. "I almost regret that this did not happen so far, since my personal property is of no greater value than that of other Germans. I shall be happy—as far as this is possible for anybody—to bear all that others have to bear. The only thing I should not be able to bear would be the weakness of my nation." Hitler concluded: "I predict the final victory of the German race." "The life which is left to us should serve only one task, namely, to make up for all the wrongs done by the international Jewish criminals and their henchmen to our nation," the statement said.

"I think of my unshakable will to must of Germany alone until our last breath. Man after man, woman after woman, in towns and in the country we shall live only for the task to liberate our nation from this distress, to reconstruct Germany's culture."

N. Y. Stock Market New York, Feb. 24—(AP)—Light selling continued to trim most stock market quotations today although, here and there, resistance was displayed. Caution remained the watchword in Wall Street as the Allied sweep into the Rhineland revived thoughts of possible postwar economic prob- lems and apprehension persisted over talk of Washington's plans to crack down on speculation in securi- ties and real estate. Bonds and commodities were un- even.

Assembly Has . . . (Continued from page one) reading a bill to place all loan agen- cies and brokers under the super- vision of the State Banking Com- mission and to require them to pay fees based on total resources. The Senate also passed on third reading nine of eleven bills to re- write the insurance laws. Among those passed were bills which would authorize to approve or disapprove rates, provide for state rating bu- reaus for fire and casualty com- panies, and create an insurance ad- visory board with the commissioner as chairman and six other members to be named by the governor. Passed by the Senate on second reading was a bill to allow special judges and Supreme Court justices an additional $950 annually for traveling expenses. The Senate beat down an amendment by Rowe of Pender to cut the figure to $150. A measure which would license dealers, manufacturers and retail- ers of ice cream, other mixed and frozen dairy products, sherbets and water ices was sent up by Rep. Ed- wards of Greene. The license would range from $5 to $25, and would be secured through the Department of Agriculture. Under a bill by Rep. Stoney of Burke, the State Board of Health would be designated to deal with the federal government in the lat-
