Riley-Townsend.

Farmville, March 16.—A marriage of statewide interest was solemnized in a formal ceremony, characterized by dignity and simplicity, at the Farmville Christian Church Saturday afternoon, March 10, at five o'clock, when Miss Neta Lee Townsend became the bride of Lt. John Robert Riley, United States Marine Corps Reserve, of Dunn. The Rev. C. B. Mashburn, pastor of the church, officiated in the double ring ceremony, using for the bridegroom the wedding ring of his paternal grandmother.

Magnolia leaves, on a background of white, outlined the pulpit and choir loft, the latter being illumined by candles in leaf clusters. Pedestal baskets of white gladioli, carnations and spirea, flanked by floor standards of cathedral candles, enhanced the setting for the wedding tableaux.

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Jocelyn House, Dean of Music at the State School for Blind, Raleigh; Miss Mary W. Davis, the voice teacher, and Harvey Miller, a student of the school, rendered a program of nuptial selections. Miss House, pianist, played "Calm As the Night," by Bolch; "I Love Thee," by Grieg; "Vendian Love Song," by Nevins; "Serenade," by Schubert; and "Trauerel," by Schumann. Miss Davis sang "Because," by d'Hardelot, and Mr. Miller sang "My Hero," by Strauss, and "At Dawning," by Cadman. The traditional wedding marches were used and "To a Wild Rose," by McDowell, was played during the ceremony.

"O Perfect Love," by Barnby, was rendered by Miss Davis as the benediction prayer. Miss House wore aqua marquette and Miss Davis a crepe dress in the heavenly blue shade. Their shoulder corsages were of pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by an uncle, Lewis G. Cooper of Greenville, wore a wedding gown of ivory brocade, fashioned with a fitted bodice, which was finished with a scalloped tulle, had a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full skirt extended into a long train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a halo-styled band caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of bride's roses and white snapdragons, showered with white sweetpeas. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Edwin Smith Pou of Greenville, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Lyman Joyner, Jr., of Dunn, sister of the bridegroom, were matrons of honor, and Miss Mary Ann Townsend attended her sister as maid of honor. They wore identical gowns of maize net, made with bodices, sweetheart necklines and full skirts ending in slight trains. Their head-dresses were of matching net, which fell to the shoulders in the back and were designed with lattice crowns and halos of daisies. The matrons of honor carried semicascade bouquets of pink carnations, sweetpeas and snapdragons, and the maid of honor carried a similar bouquet of pink roses, sweetpeas and snapdragons.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Al A. Branca of Dunn, sister of the bridegroom, Misses Louise and Virginia Harris, and Miss Bertha Lang. Their gowns of lime net were styled like those of the honor attendants and they carried similar bouquets. Little Miss Hannah Proctor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor of Greenville, was flower girl. She wore a yellow dress in the prevailing mode, and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of carnations, sweetpeas and roses. Clusters of flowers were pinned in her hair.

William Lyman Joyner, III, of Dunn, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. He wore a white gabardine suit and carried the ring on a white satin pillow. Charles Ray Townsend, Jr., of Newport News, Va., brother of the bride, was best man, and ushers were Ensign Bert S. Smith, USCG, of Farmville and Baltimore, Md.; C. S. Williams of Raleigh; Petty Officer First Class Louis H. Willson of Raleigh, and W. L. Aldridge, Jr., of Dunn and Raleigh.

The bride's mother wore a blue crepe dress with rhinestone trim and a corsage of rose camellias. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in fuchsia crepe and her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Riley, a young woman of fine intellect, beauty and much personal charm, is the daughter of Mrs. Verneesa Smith Townsend and the late Charles Ray Townsend. She is a graduate of Farmville High School and East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, and for the past five years has been an instructor at the North Carolina State School for the Blind in Raleigh.

Leut. Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Manly Riley of Dunn, was graduated from Dunn High School and the University of North Carolina. He edited the Nashville Graphic at one time but was serving as reporter and columnist for the News and Observer, Raleigh, before he entered the Marine Corps in 1942. He has just returned from a twenty-three months' tour of duty in the Pacific.

Following the ceremony, the young couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points, after which they will go to Quantico, Va., where Lt. Riley will report for reassignment to duty. For traveling, the bride changed to a three-piece suit of gold wool with black trim, a black hat in the off-face mode with veil trim and black accessories. Her corsage was of white orchids.

After the rehearsal Friday evening, Misses Virginia and Louise Harris and Miss Bertha Lang entertained fifty guests, including the bridal party, relatives and intimate friends of the couple at the Country Club.

A beautiful setting was achieved by the use of floor baskets of spirea, iris and carnations, carrying the traditional nuptial colors of green and white. Magnolia leaves, were banked on the mantels at either end of the lounge, and they were centered with large wedding rings bearing the inscription, "Jack to Neta, March 10, 1945." These were flanked by white candles in silver holders.

The refreshment table was spread with a white crocheted cloth, centered with a crystal bowl of white carnations, narcissus, spirea and fern, and illuminated by white tapers in crystal candelabra. Mrs. J. H. Harris and Mrs. T. W. Lang.

mothers of the hostesses, served ices and individual cakes, which further emphasized the prevailing colors. Wedding motifs were found in the crêpes. Miss Elizabeth Lang and Mrs. R. C. Copenhaver served mints and salted nuts.

Plans for the Memorial Trophy have been drawn up by a committee composed of Dr. W. S. Deloach, Mrs. Agnes Barrett, Mr. O. A. Hankner, Miss Lois Grigsby and Dr. J. B. Cummings. Several alumni chapters and individuals have already made contributions to the memorial.

Articles Feature Home Economics

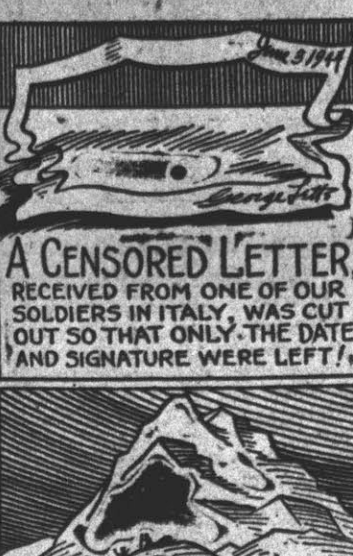

Mrs. Ethel R. Watters and Mrs. Adelaide Bloxton, members of the ECTC home economics department, have both had articles published in professional magazines this month. "Education and Guidance in Home Economics," by Mrs. Watters, has been published in the March North Carolina Education. Mrs. Bloxton is author of "After College What?" appearing in the current Journal of Home Economics.

These articles are based on a recent study of the work of ECTC home economics graduates during the past 15 years. The committee, appointed by Dr. Katherine Holtzclaw, head of the home economics department, included Miss Mabel Lacy, Mrs. Ethel R. Watters and Mrs. Adelaide Bloxton. Questionnaires were sent out to 350 graduates of the department. More than half of the graduates responded by filling in the questionnaire. A report of the study by Miss Lacy has been mentioned in a recent issue of the American Vocational Association

Sweet Potato Is Profitable Crop

"Sweet potatoes are fast becoming a valuable crop in Pitt County and show promise of becoming even more valuable as a post war crop. Sweet potatoes, like peanuts, have had many new uses and many new users during the war. They will pay off in increased demands after the war," said Pitt County Farm Agent F. F. Hendrix.

"However, the popularity and demand for sweet potatoes will increase only as the quality of the potato increases. Several stores in North Carolina have run experiments in sales which proves that quality pays off in increased sales. They placed U. S. No. 1 sweet potatoes beside ordinary field run potatoes priced 3 cents per pound lower. All the U. S. No. 1 potatoes sold before any of the farm run potatoes sold. This store later increased its sales in sweet potatoes ten times by offering only graded clean potatoes.

"Production of high quality sweet potatoes begins with the seed. Use only high quality, disease free seed of a recommended variety. The Louisiana strain of the Puerto Rico is the variety which nearest meets market demands. Purchase certified seed. This is your assurance of truthfulness to variety and freedom from disease. Several Pitt County farmers grow certified Louisiana sweet potatoes and any farmers planning to buy seed or change should contact one of these growers for seed. The county agent office will be glad to furnish a list of these growers to any person interested on request.

the producer of dirty out-sized potatoes that don't look good and so full of disease that they are inedible. The difference is good seed, proper fertilizer, proper spacing, cultivation, harvesting and packing, the farm agent said.

Control Of Leaf Plant Bed Insects

Various insects have already begun to attack the tobacco plant beds in the county. Small worms often cause severe damage in the plant beds by up-rooting the young tobacco plant. These worms can be controlled with Naphthalene (moth) flakes applied at the rate of 1-2 pounds per 100 square yards of plant bed. One to three applications may be required. Each application of the Naphthalene flakes should be applied one week apart.

White grubs can be controlled with a wheat bran bait. This bait can be prepared by mixing 25 pounds of wheat bran with one pound of Paris Green, and add enough water to moisten. Broadcast the poison bait at the rate of 10-12 pounds per 100 square yards.

Flea beetles are injurious to the young tobacco plants. These insects eat part or all of the leaves on the young tobacco plants. In order to kill the flea beetles, you should poison them with a mixture of 1 pound of Paris Green and 5 pounds of Arsenate of Lead. Apply this mixture at the rate of 1-2 pound to 100 square yard. Make application when plants are dry, because plants moist with dew or rain are more susceptible to injury.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

LAST OF THE CARDIGANS We are hearing a great deal today about Crimea. This recalls to our minds that disastrous charge of the Light Brigade wherein six hundred men went to their death through a mistaken order.

When the Colonel of the regiment received the command to charge, he knew, as did his officers, that someone had blundered. Gathering up the reins of his horse's bridle, he threw back his shoulders and said, "Well, here goes the last of the Cardigans and thirteen thousand pounds a year. He was heir to a distinguished British title, the son of one of England's wealthiest lords.

It takes courage to give up one's life at any time, and particularly when one has had so little time to live it. There has been much argument as to what the commander of the Light Brigade should have done when he received an order which he knew was a mistake. Had he refused to obey, he would have saved the lives of six hundred men. On the other hand, it has been argued that the example of the noble six hundred has been one of the most inspiring factors in British military life and has helped to win many a battle since.

Certainly the Great Master of the Universe makes all things work together for good in this incomprehensible world order, even the most tragic episodes. Many may regard the Colonel's act as mistaken fidelity, but that it was fidelity no one can deny. Upon upon fidelity all that we hold precious is built.

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — Your Capital in wartime:

Those comparative few who witnessed the administration of oath affidavits to new Senators of Commerce Henry A. Wallace tell this one: Associate Justice Black of the Supreme Court (who incidentally also had confirmation troubles in the Senate when President Roosevelt appointed him to the high court) was administering the oath.
He forgot to tell Wallace to raise his right hand before he started.
It was only after it was over that he noticed that the new secretary's arms were at his sides. His face clouded but cleared as he said:
"Give me your right hand, Henry, and you're in."

Wallace is going to hold a series of meetings to get his new department acquainted with him and his plans, but intimates say he won't follow Secretary of State Stettinius' move in having a band present and holding the affairs in Constitution Hall.

Those close to Wallace in his new job are positive he will go very slow in shaking up the department. Few men have ever taken a cabinet job with fewer commitments. Consequently there's no political need to turn Commerce upside down to fill obligations.

On the other hand, don't think for a minute that Wallace's reorganization won't be pretty sweeping when it comes. Don't forget that Commerce has been presided over for some time now by the one man in high places with whom ordinarily mild-mannered Wallace has openly feuded, Jesse Jones.

It would be too much to ask that Wallace keep all the key department appointive officials who moved into the Commerce camp when Jones was commander-in-chief.

Among other Wallace plans to get acquainted with those who work for him is a series of tours to divisions and offices which he has covered the complete field.

One Commerce employee, who holds her position under civil service and need have no fears about her job, told me: "What a pleasure that will be. I've never even seen a Secretary of Commerce, and I was working here when Harry Hopkins was appointed."

The other day Brig. Gen. Frank

No--Not The Cigarette Shortage--

T. Hines, head of the Veterans administration, appeared before the House Appropriations Committee.
He had all the facts and figures at his finger-tips and reeled them off.
Among others was one that made real news: His declaration that after the fall of Germany, the Army planned to muster out an average of 200,000 men a month.

At the conclusion of his testimony, one of the members of the committee thanked General Hines and said what a pleasure it was to have him before the committee because he always had his material in perfect form and knew whereof he spoke.

Hardly had the General testimony come out than Army officials hastened to disavow that they had any such plan.

The general was embarrassed, but off the record some officials, even in the Army, are saying that he needn't be. At the rate of 200,000 a month, it would take the Army more than three years to muster out its entire personnel, if the draft law stopped working tomorrow—and we would still have the Navy and the Marines.

small business.

Vinson added: He does not discriminate between large business and small business.

He even anticipated a question and answered before it was asked.

He said: "I have a feeling that you would like a program (for operating the loan agencies) laid out today. That might make a good story. But on that I shall have to disappoint you."

Vinson didn't seem quite positive but he thought he might have some more news conference.

The War Today ...

in this situation, however, is the fact that the whole country is almost worshipful of the man who brought England through the war—a feeling that's outside politics. It's certain that the people will find it hard to deny "Winnie" anything although there's much political opposition to him. Add to this the fact that the labor party is suffering from a dearth of outstanding leadership, and the Churchillian position seems strong.

Of course, much can happen between now and general election, but the situation may develop like this: "Winnie" (that is, the Conservative party) may be given a majority in gratitude for his war leadership. Then, in the succeeding general election, "our Socialist friends" may come into power.

China Disunity ...

on his government's delegation to the San Francisco conference.

The Generalissimo, according to reports here, is entirely convinced that the North China Communists are backed by Moscow and that in dealing with them he is not dealing simply with another Chinese political party.

American officials in Moscow received assurances that Russia does not consider the Chinese party to be Communist and had no interest, at least at the time the assurances were given, in supporting it.

The Communists themselves have sent word to Washington that they have no Moscow links, and American investigators who have been in the area have found no evidence of Russian-made weapons.

None, however, has been able to give Chiang categorical promises that if the Communist party obtain a position of power in China it might not quickly form strong ties with the Soviet Union.

Four Cars Figure In Fountain Wreck

Floyd Hester, Negro, is in jail in Fountain, charged with driving while drunk and wrecking four cars.
Mrs. Chantman Holmes, Negro, a passenger in Hester's car was locked up for being drunk, Fountain Chief of Police J. O. Bryant said.
The man and woman were painfully hurt.

Hester's car collided with the rear of Dr. E. B. Beasley's car, parked at the curb, wrecking his own machine and badly damaging the physician's. Chief Bryant said the impact caused Beasley's car to crash into J. A. Mercer's car, causing some damage and pushing it against Ernest Hunt's machine, parked nearby, slightly damaging it. "Four cars piled together in one wreck is something of a record," the chief said.

from excess acidity in the urine

Are you suffering unnecessary distress, backache, run-down feeling and discomfort from excess acidity in the urine? Are you disturbed nights by a frequent desire to pass water? Then you should know about that famous doctor's discovery—DR. KILMER'S SWAMP ROOT—that thousands say gives blessed relief. Swamp root is a carefully blended combination of 16 herbs, roots, vegetables, balsams. Dr.
Kilmer's is not harsh or hurtful in any way. Many people say its marvelous effect is truly amazing.

Schools Compete In War Bond Sales

The War Finance Committee of North Carolina is sponsoring a state-wide contest from March 15 to April 30 to recognize the school doing the most outstanding work aiding the war effort. The winning school will choose a sponsor to participate in the launching ceremonies of a vessel to be completed sometime in May by the North Carolina Shipbuilding Company at Wilmington. The schools ranking second and third in the campaign will choose attendants for the sponsor.
Judges will be selected from the State Advisory Committee which is composed of state educational leaders.

For any school to enter the contest it is necessary for at least 90 per cent of the students to participate in the purchase of war bonds and stamps according to the rules of the campaign, a one room school will have an equal opportunity with the largest city or county school in the state. The object of this campaign is to increase participation in the purchase of bonds and stamps in the schools and to promote the sales in the Seventh War Loan drive.

Greenville High School with the showing of "Combat America," a technicolor film of the army air corps, produced and narrated by Clark Gable. The high school's first goal is to get every student and teacher to buy bonds or stamps each week; next, to make the purchases as large as possible; and third, to sell bonds to others. The record of sales last week was 85 per cent and the week before only 66 per cent.

Important Meeting Board Aldermen

By CHESTER WALSH

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen at the City Hall last night City Engineer Henry L. Rivers was authorized to complete his specifications for widening Church street from East Ninth street to where it intersects Dickinson avenue and advertise for bids. Construction will begin as early as possible to facilitate the heavy traffic which flows along that street. A majority of the abutting property owners signed the petition to widen the street. The plans provide for a valley gutter in the center of the street, the sides sloping up to both property lines, with a walkway marked for pedestrian traffic, Mayor Bruce Sugg said.

It was announced that S. I. Dudley had accepted the award of $500 made to him by commissioners of the court for damage to his property adjoining the airport when a drainage sewer was installed. The city and county settled with Dudley today.

The board ordered the Carolina Produce Company to stop water from its potato washing house from overflowing on Clark street and gave the firm 30 days to comply with the order. Numerous complaints have been made to the city about the water being a nuisance.
It was stated that pedestrians are subjected to showers of muddy water from puddles in the street when vehicles pass.

The aldermen approved the action of the Police Committee in hiring Roy W. Harris as a police officer.

Sutton's Lane, short street from Cotanche past the Club to Evans street, was officially named 7th street.

The Street Committee was authorized to purchase three garbage trucks for the Street Department.

Hereafter Reade Street, which begins at the river, will end at Fifth street by the high school. Cotanche street, which begins at the river, will be Cotanche all the way to the southern limits of the city.

Citizens will be asked to name the street that runs from East 8th street to the southern city limits (formerly known as Cotanche street), between Evans and what was formerly known as Reade street.

More Non-Rationed Shoes To Be Made

Washington, March 16 — (AP) — The government plans to bring out more non-rationed, fabric-and-rubber shoes to offset a deep cut in leather supplies for civilian footwear.

A "really good" shoe, suitable for outdoor wear, is planned, said sources in WPB's office of civilian requirements.

Confronted by reportedly "enormous" demands for army shoes, WPB said last night that civilian leather shoes would be sharply reduced in April, May and June.
"The impact of this shortage," said the agency, "will fall particularly on men's shoes and on the "Greatly increased production" of non-leather shoes is now sought, WPB said, under a plan which would reserve textiles for shoe manufacturers.

The OPA said it contemplates no change at present in shoe rations and has not yet been advised of the curtailment in supplies which would result from the leather shortage.

LITTLE MAN VIEWS BIG PLANE—Harold Kirchendoll, 3 foot, 11 inch worker, looks over a Curtiss C-46 Commando, at the Louisville, Ky., Curtiss-Wright plant.

Allied Forces . . .

000 men.

Fighterbombers worked over convoys seen running for Frankfurt. Seventh Army troops were eight miles from Zweibrücken, 16 from Pirmasens, five from St. Ingbert and at the edge of Voelkingen.

To the north, other planes kept up the methodical sear of the whole communications are from Limburg to Dortmund. Thunderbolts paced the Fourth Armored divisions dash along the Rhine, blasting towns in its path.

Overnight advances by the Seventh Army ranged up to two and a half miles for an aggregate gain of up to six in the push. Numerous towns and more than 1,000 prisoners—mostly Panzer grenadiers and E-lite SS troops—were captured. Surprise was achieved.

Seventh Army troops fought at the very edge of Saarbrücken and occupied Pechingen, six miles inside the Saarland, and Enshelm, five south of St. Ingbert (21,000). Others occupied Obergailbach and advanced a mile into the German Baumbusch Woods to a point eight miles south of the steel mill city of Zweibrücken (16,000) in the Palatinate.

The siege of the 200-year old fortress of Bitch, never successfully stormed, was tightened with the capture of Freudenberg and Reysersweiler, both within sight of the great Rhine in the center of the town. Bitschoffen, eight miles northwest of Haguenau, fell and the German communique announced the loss of North Haguenau itself.

The Saarland and Palatinate both were being pried loose from the Reich—and these were the last important enemy holdings west of the Rhine.

The Third Army was also swinging down from the Middle Moselle behind Merzig and fortifications on the Saar River.

The Germans repeated assertions that the great military speedway east of the Rhine bridgehead had been severed; they expressed a great concern over the new and powerful Seventh Army offensive to which Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch already had committed at least six divisions.

All through the night, the First Army infantrymen battered their way through the rugged forests and hills of inner Germany in a fanout east of the Rhine beyond Remagen. Their small arms fire rendered the Superhighway useless to the foe.

The Germans estimated that more than 100,000 Americans were in the bridgehead, including the new U. S. 15th Army, and called it the most concentrated force since the Allies broke through in Brittany.

Inland, the men of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges fought in the village of Hoevel, almost astride the wider concrete road which Hitler built for conquest. The center of the bridgehead bulged out to the banks of the narrow Wied River, which parallels the Rhine.

The towns of Rheindorf and Steinhardt, six miles east of Remagen, fell to the new and spirited First Army thrust through difficult terrain.

Fighting also was in progress in Strodt, Reifert and Brennscheid. In capturing Steinhardt, the Americans made a two-mile advance to the Wied. At Reifert, they were five miles beyond the Rhine town of Linz.

The bridgehead was pushed six and a half miles deep at its widest point, and it was being built into a great staging base for operations against the heartland of Germany.

At the southern end of the Remagen salient, the Americans captured high ground around Hoenningen and reported white flags.

To Transfer NYA Property Schools

Mr. June H. Rose, superintendent of schools, is in Washington, D. C., today to confer with Treasury Department officials and effect the transfer of all the former NYA property to the Greenville city schools. Under the Acts of Congress liquidating the NYA, the Greenville schools were awarded this property for school purposes. This property is very valuable and is worth more than $250,000.

The local schools are making good use of the property as a vocational school. When the war is over and more teachers can be secured, the program will be expanded according to plans now being formulated by the board of trustees of the Greenville schools.

The Greenville schools were fortunate in securing this property. A number of schools and towns did not secure the property, but local authorities worked in such a manner with the NYA when it was in operation, that when the time for liquidation of the NYA came, the Greenville schools were in a position to acquire the property.

Says Germany Will win

London, March 16—(AP)—Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, writing in the weekly magazine Das Reich, predicts that Germany will "win the war by losses," the Berlin radio said today.

"He who fights with least regard for losses has the most chance of winning," Goebbels was quoted as saying. He conceded, however, that "German faces embarrassments which will force her hand."

Nation Must Tighten Belt

Washington, March 16—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared today that the American people have got to tighten their belts before the war is won.

Replying at a news conference to some criticism of the handling of food matters, Mr. Roosevelt said he thought the country would back up the idea of tightening our belts since it would mean keeping certain other people alive.

Holland, he said, is a very bad case.

A committee recently was created under War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, representing various war agencies, to examine all the factors relating to exports, primarily of food stuffs.

Suppose, Mr. Roosevelt remarked in discussing the need for the committee, that there is a world shortage of sugar. Actually, there isn't, he said, but suppose we find that by cutting our consumption of sugar by ten per cent we can keep people in some other country from starving. We are going to live, he said.

The American people, he went on, are going to understand this, once it is explained to them. The whole thing is a matter of decency, he added.

He could not bring himself to think, the President said, that we are going to suffer very greatly in this country compared with others.

out the island, he said, most of them never would have reached their Marianas bases. The lives of approximately 330 men were at stake in the big bombers.

The battle for Iwo, now 26 days old, was still being fought bitterly against steadily dwindling, but well organized and armed, pockets of stubborn Japanese.

(The German Transocean radio was heard in London quoting a Tokyo dispatch that American transports had been sighted off North America, suggesting the Marines may attempt to land at the rear of Nipponese making a last stand at Kitano Point.)

Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner, commander of Fleet Amphibious forces, said: "The major fighting is finished." It was Admiral Turner who suggested the figure of around 4,000 Marine dead by saying American losses were less than one-fifth of those of the Japanese. The latest official estimate of enemy losses is more than 20,000.

This morning's communique said Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth Marine division on the northwest side inched closed to Kitano Point despite "intense small arms and mortar fire in that sector throughout the day" Thursday. The enemy forces still appear to be well organized and capably led.

The Third and Fourth Marine divisions in the center and on the northeast had only a mop-up task against disorganized, isolated little groups.

the air and on the sea." Gen. Holland M. Smith, marine commander in the Pacific, said the cost "no doubt was weighed carefully against the importance of having this island as an operating base and speeding the ultimate defeat of Japan."

On the Berlin front a German broadcast said the Russians had encircled Klessen, 33 miles east of Berlin and on the west side of the Oder, but that the encirclement had been broken.

bridgeheads west of the Oder have been expanded until they hold about 100,000 Russians, but Moscow has never officially confirmed the crossing of the river.

In East Prussia the Soviet breakthrough to the Baltic was made at Heide-Waldburg where the Russians gained a four-mile hold on the coast.

The liquidation of the Germans in Braunsberg, the outlying fortress 35 miles southwest of Koenigsberg, seemed close at hand.

At the same time Soviet attacks were mounted in the southwestern suburbs of Koenigsberg itself and massed field guns and rockets rained death on enemy groupings as Russian tank and infantry assault teams penetrated deeper into Nazi positions.

Further to the west on the Second White Russian army front along Danzig bay Red army troops slashed anew into the perimeter defenses of Danzig and Gdynia. Opposition from the die-hard defenders was bitter and each yard of ground had to be won the hard way.

Meanwhile, capitulation of the Nazi garrison at Kolberg, struggling in a death grip clamped on them by troops of Marshal Zhukov's First White Russian army appeared to be only a matter of hours.

The Russian high command said the immediate Berlin front along the Oder south of besieged Stettin was marked yesterday only by battles of local significance, with the hardest fighting occurring farther south in the fortresses of Breslau and Glogau.

In the smashing East Prussian attacks Koenigsberg was left with only a small escape corridor running to the port of Pillau west of the provincial capital. The Russians had already overrun Wangtig, seven miles southwest of Koenigsberg, and captured Albehnen and Einsam, the latter two miles northeast of Brandenburg.

In advances toward Brandenburg, Russian forces seized 25 communities yesterday, a Soviet communique announced. The Russians reached the coast at Heyde-Waldburg, five miles southwest of Koenigsberg.

More than 1,000 Germans were captured in the Polish Corridor drive on Danzig and Gdynia yesterday, the Russian communique said.

At the meeting which was held in the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night, the Greenville committee was formed, which will conduct a survey of all business employing five or more to determine their needs in the immediate post war period. A check sheet will be mailed to every industry and commercial enterprise within the next few days asking that this information be provided. Information of the individual businesses will be kept confidential, while a tabulation of the results as a whole for Greenville will be sent to state and national headquarters of C. E. All businesses in Greenville are urged by the Greenville committee to fill in the check sheets as soon as received that the survey may be completed before the end of March. A number of the cities of North Carolina have already completed surveys, however a state summary cannot be made up until all have been completed.
