Four Hundred Superforts Pound Up Oil Supplies

Smoke Rises 15,000 Feet From Wreckage Of Oil Storage And Fuel Centers On Japanese Home Island; Nimitz Promise Of Greater Blows Against Japan Being Fulfilled

By ROBERT GEIGER
Guam, May 10—(AP)—Japan's dwindling homeland oil supplies were blasted for the first time today by a record fleet of more than 400 B29's.

Smoke columns rose 15,000 feet from wreckage of oil storage and fuel manufacturing centers on Honshu, main Japanese island, and returning Superfortress crewmen reported results "excellent."

The big bombers also struck at airfields on Shikoku and Kyushu islands, from where Japan sends suicide planes into the battle for Okinawa.

Fulfilling Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz's promise of greater and greater air attacks on Japan, today's formation of six giants carried a total bomb tonnage equivalent to the maximum loads of more than 1,000 Liberator bombers. And the Superforts winged more than 3,000 miles to do it.

First on the list of oil areas to be struck were the Tokuyama and Otake fuel storage and manufacturing centers on the Inland Sea, a major source of supply for the enemy. Bombs were spilled in a one-target salvo at the Tokuyama naval fueling station and a nearby synthetic fuel factory.

Japan's biggest homeland oil storage center on tiny Oshima Island, just off the northwest tip of Kyushu, was another top target.

Bombs were dropped visually and accurately in daylight with but little fighter opposition.

It was a different story when the Superforts roared over a Japanese naval base. There, said 2nd Lt. Joseph E. Rogers of Wharton, N. J., the sky "turned black with flak."

The big planes disdained the naval force to carry out the devastation. (Continued on Page Five)

Merchants Sponsor Sale Of War Bonds

The War Finance Committee has asked that a meeting of all employers and employees of Greenville be held for the purpose of soliciting cooperation in selling War Bonds during the Seventh War Loan drive. This meeting will be held at the Pitt Theater next Tuesday, May 15, at 9 a. m. Charles R. McBrayer, Greenville retail chairman of the N. C. War Finance Committee, announced today. Attendance slips will be distributed and turned over to employers.

A motion picture, "Freedom Comes High," will be shown free. All business places are requested to open on that day at 10 a. m.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Prizes will be awarded at the end of the drive to salespeople selling the largest volume, in dollars and cents, of E Bonds. Volumes to be based on issuing price and not the maturity value. Managers are asked to work out a system by which they can keep up with the actual sales of their employees. No credit will be given salespeople unless they complete the sale. The committee feels that in fairness to all, employees of issuing agencies of Bonds should not compete for the prize. The following prizes are being offered: (1) $10 in War Stamps for the salesperson selling the largest volume of E Bonds. (2) $5. (3) $5. (4) $5. Official forms for applications and receipts for the money for bonds will be furnished to firms.

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
The text of this little sermon is found in an Associated Press dispatch from Moscow regarding V-E day observance there.

Thousands of wildly celebrating Muscovites, the message says, gathered in front of the United States embassy and staged the greatest spontaneous tribute to America ever seen in the Russian capital.

"Long live America!" they shouted. "Long live Truman! Long live the memory of Roosevelt! Long live the American people!"

Now that's a mighty friendly gesture and, seems to have a direct relation to a question one hears debated daily by the man-in-the-street: Is it inevitable that the big three—America, Britain and Russia—will come to a parting of the ways because of differences of view on international matters?

Let's be even more specific and put it the way one generally hears it: Is it inevitable that Russia on one hand and the Anglo-American partnership on the other will arrive at loggerheads?

That's one of the paramount

Stimson Reports April Casualties

RECONVERSION PLANS GIVEN

Some Materials Released For Civilian Use

By STERLING F. GREEN
Washington, May 10—(AP)—The government has decided to open up steel, copper and aluminum supplies to civilian goods manufacturers July 1.

This decision, reported today by officials in a position to know, is scheduled for early announcement by the War Production Board. It follows the shift from two-to-one-point warfare.

It was learned also that most of the remaining restrictions on production of consumer "hard goods" such as radios, washing machines and vacuum cleaners, will be lifted shortly. Only those covering such products as automobiles, trucks and stoves will be retained for a time until material supplies are moving more freely.

Even in the case of these items, however, control orders will be amended to permit some production. About 70 restrictive regulations already have been revoked, and WPB expects that about half the total of 420 will be on the shelf shortly.

The agency opened the way. (Continued on Page Six)

Broadcast Postponed
London, May 10—(AP)—A statement from Prime Minister Churchill's No. 10 Downing Street residence today said that "owing to his many engagements at this time" the Prime Minister had postponed his scheduled broadcast tonight. He will speak Sunday at 9 p. m. (3 p. m. eastern war time).

Death Penalty For Multiple Slayer

Little Rock, Ark., May 10—(AP)—The death penalty was decreed today for James W. Hall, 24-year-old cab driver, who police say, confessed killing six persons.

Judge Lawrence C. Auten was expected to pass formal sentence late this week in line with a midnight jury verdict which convicted Hall of first degree murder in the death of his 19-year-old second wife, Fayrene, and ordered that he die in the electric chair.

The jury took only 45 minutes to reach its decision.

Total Casualties On Western Front Since Invasion Of France Over Half Million

Washington, May 10—(AP)—The fighting in Germany during April cost American ground forces 34,598 casualties, Secretary of War Stimson reported today.

This figure included 5,324 killed, 25,407 wounded and 3,876 missing. At the same time, Stimson reported ground force losses on the Western Front from the time of the invasion last June until the end of April totaled 512,113, including 88,225 killed, 365,320 wounded and 58,568 missing and taken prisoner.

Stimson estimated that the cost of casualties for the Army among all forces and for all theaters in the war against Germany will amount to about 800,000, including approximately 150,000 killed. Fortunately, he added, about half of the wounded have already returned to duty and those who were taken prisoner are returning to American forces.

Some 70,000 to 80,000 Americans have been released from prison camps and more than 8,000 have now returned to this country.

The casualties for both the Army and Navy, meanwhile, neared the million mark with the announcement that Army losses in all theaters as reported through April 30 have reached 867,709 and Navy losses have amounted to 104,945. This totaled 972,654, an increase of 22,182 since the previous week's report, breakdown on Army casualties. (Continued on Page Six)

Science To Play Great Part In Postwar Period

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Chapel Hill, May 10—(AP)—The creation by science, in order to win the peace of millions of new jobs that were never dreamed of before, was proposed today at the University of North Carolina's Sesqui-centennial Celebration by Dr. William A. Lazier, director of the Southern Research Institute of Birmingham.

After World War I, he said, millions of new jobs were created in the United States by research. In the present war science has done far more than ever before to aid victory and has gone ahead at a faster pace.

This pace, he declared, can be maintained in new science creations for the needs of peace and in adapting war's discoveries to peaceful pursuits.

Dr. Lazier enumerated many fields of research in the South that promise new jobs. In tobacco there already are studies on curing, compounding and burning to produce better smokes. At Duke University an effort is under way to duplicate the aroma of Turkish tobacco in home grown varieties. Research hopes to take the harshness out of tobacco smoke, and for those smokers for whom too much nicotine is harmful, search is on for varieties with less nicotine, but all the aroma.

Costly Fire Last Night

Unofficial Estimates Place Loss In ACL Freight Depot Fire At $100,000 To $150,000; Firemen Did Good Work

Fire of undetermined origin that destroyed over half of the Atlantic Coast Line freight warehouse here and damaged the other portion of the building and contents, together with box cars on adjacent sidetracks, caused damage unofficially estimated at $100,000 to $150,000. The fire was discovered shortly after 7:30 o'clock last night. The firemen battled the blaze for nearly an hour before it was brought under control. More than two more hours were required to extinguish the flames.

The portion of the large warehouse destroyed was mostly under lease to individual firms for storage purposes, although the railroad suffered considerable damage in the section of the warehouse where current freight is handled. Among the local firms who suffered damage or losses in stored merchandise were Home Furniture Store, Keel Supply Company, J. A. Watson, White's Stores, VanDyke Furniture Company, Smith Douglas Company, C. and S. Baking Company and others. Two box cars of merchandise on the sidetracks were severely damaged while other cars including several empties suffered lesser damage.

Praise went today to Elijah Thomas, 13-year-old Negro Boy Scout, who turned in the first alarm. The boy was said to have appeared on the scene about the same time several adults noticed smoke pouring from the building. While the grown-ups were considering what to do, the boy rushed to the nearest fire box and turned in the alarm.

Fire Chief George Gardner publicly expressed his thanks to the local marine air station for the assistance it gave in the way of personnel and its fire truck. He also thanked the citizens generally who aided in the task of fighting the fire. Speaking of the local fire-fighting equipment, Chief Gardner declared that the recently purchased aerial-pumper truck more than paid for itself last night. While it was not necessary to use the ladders, the additional pumper made it possible to control the blaze without calling for assistance from nearby cities. Approximately half a million gallons of water were used before the fire was out.

The throngs of citizens who visited the scene were loud in their (Continued on Page Three)

No Compensation For Coal Miners

Harrisburg, Pa., May 10—(AP)—Pennsylvania's 72,000 anthracite miners, who left their jobs at the expiration of their old work contract at midnight, April 30, have been declared ineligible for unemployment compensation.

William H. Chestnut, state secretary of labor and industry, said yesterday that "the unemployment of each miner involved in the current work stoppage at any coal mine which has been seized by the U. S. government is due to voluntarily leaving without good cause."

"Such individuals are, therefore, ineligible to receive compensation or waiting period credits as long as such facts remain."

The miners' awaiting the outcome of contract negotiations of United Mine Workers representatives and operators in New York, defied governmental orders to return to work last Monday. Secretary of Interior Ickes seized the mines Thursday under presidential direction.

Delegates Seek Security System For Pan-America

MEMORIAL DAY IS CELEBRATED

Joint Confederate And V-E Exercises Held

By CHESTER WALSH
Confederate Memorial and V-E day exercises at the courthouse today typified the spirit of a united country, with Maj. V. O. Ullman's Marines, participating with the United Daughters of the Confederacy in memorializing those who have made the supreme sacrifice for their country and the late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. It was a solemn and impressive occasion, characterized by a spirit of reverence which was inspiring. The presence of the Marines at the exercises and in the parade and planes overhead from the Greenville Marine air station added a distinctive martial air to the solemn event.

"Taps" by Jack Whitchard, concluded the ceremony.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming, president of George B. Singletary Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy and chapter members participated in the placing of flowers on the Confederate monument by a group of girls was impressive.

Smaller Nations Seek Greater Voice In Proposed Peace-Enforcing Security Council

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press
Diplomatic News Editor
San Francisco, May 10—(AP)—The United Nations conference faced its first big test today on a small nation bid for greater voice in the proposed peace-enforcing security council.

A Cuban proposal to enlarge the council from 11 to 14 or 15 nations was put forward in the conference committee charged with working out council membership and some members said a vote probably would be taken today.

As the council plan now stands, it would include the Big 5 powers, plus six smaller ones.

American delegates sought meanwhile for a formula for fitting a Pan American security system into a world organization without splitting this organization into regional blocs.

They recognized this problem of regional versus world security control as one of the most critical facing the conference.

It is especially acute for the United States delegation. Its members are divided on the issue, which is: Shall the American republics be on their own, or shall they be under control of the world organization, when they feel they must use force to suppress aggression in the Western Hemisphere?

Latin Americans want the authority to act in the Western Hemisphere without waiting for world organization orders. To counter this, it appeared likely that advocates of regionalism in other areas (Continued on page six)

Soviet Losses

By MATTHEW HALTON
(Canadian Broadcasting Company Correspondent Representing the Combined Allied Press and Radio)
Berlin, May 9—(Delayed)—(AP)—I heard today from a source who certainly should know an estimate of what it cost the Russians to save their country and come at last to this triumph in Berlin—between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 dead, of whom about half were soldiers and half civilians.

"There were times," said a Russian general, "when we had to lose half a million men at a time to save the army itself."

These figures greatly exceed any previous estimate of Russian casualties. In June, 1944, the Russians gave their last official announcement of Soviet casualties—5,300,000 killed, missing and captured. No figures on wounded were given.

In June, 1943, DNB, official German news agency, declared 20,000,000 casualties had been inflicted on the Russians. This figure presumably included dead, wounded and captured.

The Russians have given no figure on civilian losses.

FOURTEEN DIE IN MINE BLAST

Several Others Were Injured And Five Missing

Sunnyside, Utah, May 10—(AP)—Fourteen miners were known to have been killed in an explosion in the Utah Fuel Company's No. 1 mine here yesterday and rescue workers were combing the tunnels today for the bodies of more possible victims.

Seven injured, three in critical condition, were taken to hospitals. Deadly carbon fumes which spread through the mine following the explosion three miles underground hampered rescue operations and removal of bodies.

Mine officials said the explosion partially blocked the shaft, forcing rescue workers to dig debris before they could search for the bodies. Survivors said flames shot nearly (Continued on Page Six)

Americans Will Land In China

Washington, May 10—(AP)—The army intends to land on the China coast.

This was confirmed officially by Gen. Joseph Stilwell at a news conference in discussing the scarcity of qualified civilians in the Pacific to unload supplies for the war against Japan. This is the way Stilwell phrased it:

"Although some help is available in the Philippines and can be expected along the coast of China, soldiers will have to be used to handle the large portion of the thousands of tons of cargo unloaded daily."

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW

San Francisco, May 10—(AP)—If you're dizzy by this time—trying to follow the merry-go-round at the United Nations conference—here's an explanation.

This conference has been in session 15 days. It has given final approval to nothing so far as setting up a league to prevent future wars is concerned.

All the delegates are busy, working on details. What has been done so far will have to be approved formally by the whole group.

There have been committee meetings and a great deal of agreement on many points. This is why the going has been so slow.

The entire conference revolves around the Dumbarton Oaks proposals.

Last Autumn representatives of the Big Four—United States, United Kingdom, Soviet Union and China—met at a mansion called Dumbarton Oaks in Washington.

Personnel With Service Credits Of 85 Points Will Be Eligible For Discharge; Transferring Men And Materials To Pacific Is Gigantic Task

Washington, May 10—(AP)—The War Department announced today that a point score of 85 has been decided on as the minimum required for discharge of ground, air and service forces enlisted men at this time.

Men with this total will be considered eligible for release and will start moving next week for separate centers.

Separate critical scores for each of the services will be established in about six weeks.

About 1,300,000 men are to be released in the next 12 months under the point system.

The points for each of four factors for discharge are as follows: Service credit—One point for each month of Army service since September 1, 1940. This is the same as 12 points per year. (More than 15 days will be counted as a full month.)

Overseas credit—1 point for each month overseas since September 16, 1940.

Combat credit—5 points for each award of combat decorations since September 16, 1940.

Parenthood credit—12 points for each child under 18 years up to a limit of three children.

Those who attain the required score will be released unless military necessity dictates, their retention until replacements can be obtained.

A temporary score of 44 points has been set for members of the Women's Army Corps.

The combat credits are based on awards of the Distinguished Service Cross, Legion of Merit, Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross, Soldiers Medal, Purple Heart and Bronze Service Stars (Battle Participation Stars).

Credit also will be given for the following naval decorations to Army personnel: Navy Cross, Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Silver Star Medal, Distinguished Flying Cross, Navy and Marine Medal, Bronze Star Medal, Air Medal and Purple Heart Medal.

In addition credit will be given for awards and decorations of a foreign country which may be accepted. (Continued on Page Four)

Rose are acting as local chairmen. The school men will have supper at Restaurant on the Bethel highway tonight.

Rose and Conley will lead the discussions at tonight's meeting. Supt. J. H. Knox of Salisbury, president of the state organization, is presiding.

Some of those attending the meeting are Paul Reid of Raleigh, comptroller, and C. D. Douglas of Raleigh, finance officer of the State Board of Education; Miss Alice Puhakus of Raleigh, editor of the N. C. Education Association magazine; Supt. Horace Grigg of Albemarle, vice president of the state organization, and F. Sifford of Albemarle, superintendent of Stanley county schools.

San Francisco to whip a final plan into shape.

This was to enable all of them—since all were expected to be members of the new league—a chance to approve, or disapprove, or change, or add to the Dumbarton Oaks plan until they had it the way they wanted.

Not even the Big Four was completely satisfied with the plan which they had drawn up in Washington.

But in order to work out the final plan the United Nations delegates had to divide up the work. They broke down the Dumbarton Oaks plan into four main sections and started to re-mold them.

Inter Se Club.
The Inter Se Club met on Tuesday, May 8, with Mrs. Sam Northrop as hostess. The meeting opened with a prayer of thanksgiving for V-E Day, a moment of silent prayer, followed by the Lord's Prayer said in unison.

Mrs. Bob Rankin read a paper on "Army Field Hospitals" which was exceedingly informative, and well developed in all its phases. She presented the history of a soldier wounded in battle, through the various stages of medical care, from the "medics" and litter-bearers arrive to carry him to the battalion station where doctors decide the extent of his injuries, thence by ambulance or jeep to the general or base hospitals. She also went into the story of the medical supply work its problems, and the research which has been necessary to find containers which will withstand the heat, cold and moisture to which these supplies are often subjected before they reach their destinations.

Mrs. Rankin also mentioned the fact that over one hundred women doctors have been commissioned in the war, and they are working in all but the active combat areas.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and the new officers were installed. The club decided to present the books to Sheppard Memorial Library, as has been their custom in previous years.

Much Interest In Revival Here

Increased audiences characterize the revival being conducted at the Eighth Street Christian Church every evening this week, by Dr. R. H. Crossfield of Birmingham, Ala. It is reported by the pastor, Dr. H. G. Haney.

On Wednesday evening, the subject of the message was "A Delightful Sinner," and the text was taken from the tenth chapter of Mark reporting the failure of Jesus to convert the rich young ruler.

Dr. Crossfield said this young man possessed a delightful personality, something greatly to be desired by every man, and a thing that should be cultivated. However, he was a delightful sinner and his besetting sin was thievery of money. This demanded a major operation, if he should enter the kingdom. He was instructed to sell all he had, and come and follow Jesus as a poor man. Refusing to comply, he went away sorrowful, his observance of the law availing him nothing, the speaker said.

"It was not the fact that he was rich, but that he loved his riches that caused him to make the great refusal. Riches in the hand may be a blessing, but in the heart, is fatal." Many instances were given where the use of money proved the greatest blessing, said the minister.

This evening at 8 o'clock, the subject of the sermon will be "A High-up Churchman Converted." A special musical number will be given by Mrs. Knott Proctor. The public is invited to attend. The services last just one hour.

Club Sponsoring Dance Revue.
Sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville, "Dancers of 1945 On Parade" will be presented by Marie's School of the Dance on Friday night, May 18, in the Austin building of ECTC.

Receipts from the performance will be diverted to the Watson Memorial Fund, a fund being established to honor the memory of Dr.

T. M. Watson and his service to Greenville in treating children. The fund will be used by the Junior Woman's Club to beautify and improve the children's wing of the Pitt General Hospital.

The dancers will perform a variety of styles of dancing to make the program as varied as possible. All local talent, the dancers were trained by Mrs. Marie Smith Crute and her assistant, Miss Kathryn Youngblood.

Mrs. Crute studied at the Chalfin School of Dancing, Stanley School of Dancing and the Dale School of Dancing in New York. While in school at Blackstone Junior College, Blackstone, Va., she studied under Misses Eleanor Fry and Julia Milford Harper in Richmond, in Raleigh Mrs. Crute continued her study of dancing under Louise Williams. She began her dancing career when quite young under local teachers, Miss Bette Dixon and Mrs. N. O. VanNortwick, Jr., the former Miss Ramona Staples.

Miss Youngblood has been an assistant teacher to Mrs. Crute for the past four years and is also a former pupil of Mrs. VanNortwick. The choreography for the dances was designed by Mrs. Crute.

Half Holiday
In observance of V-E day and of the good record which the students made in sale of bonds and stamps the high school was given a half-holiday today.

The election of the GHS Student Council officers took place today by Australian ballot. Out of the 396 who registered yesterday 375 voted. That is an unusually good voting record. The returns from the election will be announced tomorrow in Green Lights and in this column.

A SLIGHT CASE OF Theft

By RUFUS NEED

Chapter 18

It was nearly nine o'clock when Brenda walked into the lobby of her apartment building that hot July evening. For more than two hours she had been questioned by the police, who swarmed into the fur section after the robbery had been reported. They had checked and rechecked Irene's statement that Brenda had given her consent for the cashier to carry the money down to the sub-basement without a guard.

Donohue had been particularly unpleasant about it, Brenda thought wearily as she stood looking at the imitation opulence of the lobby's gaudy decorations—and hating it. She was desperately tired and very worried about the position she found herself in at that moment. Two robberies within a week in one department was certainly a calamity of the worst order for a new executive.

And Donohue was emphasizing this in no uncertain terms. He kept repeating that he had warned her to be careful, that the mob would probably stage another holdup in the store. He reiterated that her carelessness in leaving the cash unprotected had invited disaster. If he kept on making her action the pivotal point of his investigation there would be serious consequences for Brenda.

Christopher Humbert tried to explain it and Irene had hysterically insisted it was all her fault. But Donohue had stubbornly taken it all on the down beat and it was quite evident to Brenda when she left the store, that he intended to tighten the pressure around her. If he kept on, it might well jeopardize her new position. Eve Young would never miss such a golden opportunity to get her out of the department.

Her bad luck was certainly holding.

When Brenda opened the door of her apartment a few minutes later, the air of the living room was full of stale tobacco smoke, alcohol fumes and the sickening odor of medicine that smelled like liniment. Tom was surprised to see her. He was obviously expecting someone else when she walked into the room.

Her husband was sprawled out on the sofa, still wearing a bathing suit covered with flecks of soot and dirty spots left by dried sand and water. As Brenda came across the room toward him, she noticed the grey putty color of the skin around his eyes and the bad sunburn he had on his face, arms and legs. Tom looked ill.

The apartment was littered with scraps of newspapers and torn racing sheets. Two large chairs had been dragged up before the sofa. Between them stood a small table covered with old pipes, twisted cigarette packages, ashes, burnt matches and dirty glasses. A ragged towel was tossed over a bundle tied in tattered newspapers lying on the desk.

"What goes on here?" Brenda exclaimed in amazement, gazing around the disordered room. "You've been on the beach this afternoon. I thought you had special work at the Club Boulevard all day."

"We did some of the work on the beach and then came up here to follow the races on the radio."

Tom leaned back on the sofa and adjusted a wet towel wrapped around his head. Tony's getting russy about having racing returns at the Club these afternoons so a couple of the fellows came up here with me after we'd been on the beach a while.

He scowled up at her, but before she could answer, a wave of pain made him clutch both sides of his head with his hands.

"It's that damned pain again," he groaned. "Get my medicine, Brenda. It's the blue bottle in the bathroom—in the medicine closet."

Brenda hurried to the bathroom and brought back the bottle with a glass half-filled with water.

"What on earth have you been doing to yourself?" she asked as she handed him the water. She saw his face was blotched with dark ugly spots.

"It's my heart," he gasped, "the pain is terrible."

Brenda was alarmed. She had never seen Tom in this condition before. Gradually the whole story came out. Tom had met some of his friends on the beach which was just two blocks from the apartment. They had stayed there practically all afternoon and the heat had been too much for Tom's weak heart. He had had a bad attack. The doctor had left only a few minutes before Brenda came home.

As she listened to the dreary story and saw the wreck Tom had made of himself that day, Brenda knew this was not the time to tell him of the robbery at the store. She heard someone moving about in the kitchenette and left the room hastily, closing the door behind her. Anything to get out of that dreadful place!

She found Hannah, their maid who came in to work by the day, sniffing her disgust as she tramped around the dinette, clearing the table and pushing chairs back in place. Hannah was fat and black and usually good natured, but tonight her annoyance at the appearance of the kitchen and the little alcove opposite it, was very apparent.

"Po' do Lord, I never seen such a mess as dis heah apartment when I come back a few minutes ago—looks as if an ole Kansas twister done gone through de place."

"Did Mr. Blair have any dinner, Hannah?" Brenda asked as she looked at the bottles and the soiled dishes stacked on the table.

"Yes'm. That is, I fixed some for him. But he was sick and didn't eat nothin'. I guess. He told me to go—he'd take care of things, and Lordy, when I gets back—this here is what I finds. Men sure don't know nothin' 'bout cleaning things up."

"Well, just wash these dishes and we'll leave everything else until tomorrow. You better come early in the morning to clean up the place."

Leads Capture of Nazis

With the 84th Division, Germany. Eight men of the fast-moving 84th Division, looking for a command post site, captured 27 Germans near Baal.

Capt. Milton L. Wick of Grand Forks, N. D., entered a farmhouse, heard voices and kicked the door open. He saw eight Germans there. The Germans caught flatfooted, fled out and lined up in front of the house. Seven other Ratsplitters came over to see what was going on and at that moment two of the krauts decided to make a break for it. A volley of rifle, carbine and pistol shots riddled one; the other fell with a wound in his leg.

As the volley still echoed the men heard someone yell "Don't shoot. We surrender!" They were amazed to see 19 Germans walk out of the courtyard with their hands held high, several more civilians, one who spoke English.

Capt. Wick told the English speaking man to tell the krauts to line up. Then he asked about numerous civilians taken with the soldiers. He found that the English speaking man was an Austrian civilian who accompanied the colonel of the German regiment, taking care of his dogs and guns on his hunting trips. The other civilians and were hastily organized Volkstrum who had not yet received uniforms.

The krauts were taken into Baal and handed over to the MPs.

Besides Capt. Wick, the Americans included Lt. Allen H. VanDyke of Greenville, N. C.

German Cities Devastated

First Sgt. Bernice E. Ellers, U. S. Army, Casualty Detachment, Ninth Army, somewhere in Germany, in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ellers of Greenville, said: "You can't imagine the extent of the damage done to the German cities and towns by the Allied attacks. Some towns are literally wiped off the map. The German people are really paying for the trouble they started five years ago. I believe (this letter was written before the surrender) if they would allow the Germans to come back to these towns and see what has happened they would never want to go to war again." The Pitt County soldier requested mail—plenty of it—and candy and chewing gum. His address is 1st Sgt. B. E. Ellers, 341125, Co. K, Cas. Det. APO No. 1000, care Postmaster, New York City.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

EVERY MAN HIS DUTY

The famous statement of Lord Nelson given to his crew just before the Battle of Trafalgar has come down across the generations to inspire Englishmen, and in fact to inspire men of all countries who believe that doing one's duty is the thing most worthwhile in life.

On the morning of the battle, Nelson instructed his personal lieutenant to announce to the fleet that England confides that every man will do his duty. It was pointed out to him that this word "confides" would have to be explained to many men, and he decided to substitute the simple word "expects." By means of flags this signal went from ship to ship. It was one of those simple statements which seem to grip men's hearts and put into them a new confidence. Trafalgar was won. Napoleon was far from defeated, but that naval battle made certain that the triumph in which he then gloried was destined to come to a bitter end.

How simple this statement and yet how effective. "England expects every man to do his duty." The folks back in England in quiet homes, in country lanes, at work in field and factory were looking out over the sea and observing how the defenders of the Empire conducted themselves. The realization that the eyes of their countrymen were upon them and that the hopes of their countrymen were relying upon their fidelity made them strong in an hour of great national crisis.

AMERICA IN WARTIME

Washington—Don't think the reports of German atrocities aren't having their repercussions in Washington.

Every suggestion, however, that we or our Allies apply retaliatory measures has been knocked down by such officials who declare that regardless of the action of our enemies, we must and will abide by the letter of the Geneva convention.

That leaves mostly unanswered the query: Well, what can we do about it?

Rep. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) suggests that we repatriate the 400,000 or so Nazi prisoners of war in this country as soon as possible and let them get a taste of what "freedom" in their own land is like these days.

Bender told the House: "Actual eyewitness accounts of hundreds of Americans, including senators and representatives, military officials and newspaper reporters reveal vividly the depths to which Germany has sunk under Nazi leadership. It must be obvious to every American who has had a boy in the German prison camps that the provisions of the Geneva convention have been flagrantly violated. Some of the emaciated, starving prisoners may never recover their health."

"To continue the policy of maintaining German prisoners in American camps here in the United States on a level of American conceptions of decency in the face of the German record is to defeat one of the purposes for which this war is being fought. The thousands of German prisoners who are being well fed, clothed and housed in our country will go back to Germany with contempt for our American 'softness' rather than respect for our American decency."

"I say that the time has come when these prisoners should be sent back to Europe to rebuild under Polish, Russian, Czech, Belgian, French, Dutch and Yugoslav authority the lands they have devastated."

"This procedure would not violate the principles of international law and it would remove from Germany a group of dangerous, arrogant men who might otherwise someday form the nucleus of a new menace to the world."

"I call upon the War Department with all speed to prepare plans for the removal of all German prisoners in our territories to Europe."

Successor To Hitler

It's surprising how many officials are on the Congressmen's side in this argument. Any day now we may hear that on the western front alone the Allies have taken 3,000,000 prisoners of war.

That means that the armies of the western front have the problem of feeding, clothing and housing these millions as nearly in line with the dictates of the Geneva convention as is possible.

To get rid of them as soon as possible is bound to be one of the most popular moves in solution of this vexing problem.

delegates established a commission. Every nation represented here is represented on each of the four commissions.

Then each commission divided the section upon which it was working into sub-sections and appointed committees to work on those sub-sections.

Many recommendations were received from the various nations here, and from private groups.

When the committees finish their work, they'll turn what they've done over to the commissions which will lay it before a plenary session of the conference. Plenary is fancy language for formal or full-dress.

All the nations sit in on these plenary sessions, but because they sit in on the commission, it's a cinch the plenary sessions will approve the work of the commissions.

The commissions haven't met to pass on the committees' work as none of the committees has finished its individual task yet.

And that's where the conference stands right now.

The Big Four, plus France, dominate the conference just as they will be the big voice in the new league. They won the war. They have the strength. Future peace depends on them. That is why they are the keystone of the league taking shape here.

The signs don't read that way to me. Certainly it's going to require a lot of give and take among the big three to maintain balance, but thus far there's no unsurmountable obstacle in sight.

Russia is extending her sphere of influence westward on the continent, and probably will do so in the Orient. That's a natural corollary to her emergence from the war as a dominant power of the eastern hemisphere. The indications also are that Moscow is encouraging the efforts of Communist elements in various countries to establish Soviet governments. However, there is no sign so far as I can see that Russia is bent on territorial expansion as such.

It strikes me that the basic difficulty among the big three lies in suspicions of one another—that probably is mainly due to lack of acquaintance.

For a generation now Russia has been living within herself and has become a stranger. But the attitude of the Russian people seems to be friendly enough when they turn out and shout "long live the great American people."

I think we are justified in believing that trouble with Russia is not inevitable.

Science To Play...

for the South's beef cattle and use of wood wastes. He said the odor of kraft mills will be eliminated.

Raymond R. Patty, president of the University of Alabama, said there is a serious question whether there will be enough scientists to meet the next generation's needs. He said that many of the young men, both teachers and researchers, have been taken from the universities. The problems, he declared, are more acute in the South where there has always been difficulty in holding the promising men at home. He urged every effort to stop this flow of talent away from the South.

Both talks were made at a session on research in the South presided over by Howard W. Odum, head of the Sociology Department of the University of North Carolina. This afternoon a session discussed nutrition and public health with M. J. Rosenau, dean of the School of Public Health of the University of North Carolina, presiding.

Tonight there is a discussion of the humanities and social sciences under the chairmanship of Newman I. White, professor of English, of Duke University.

Army Announces...

cepted and worn under War Department regulations in effect when this program went into operation.

The Department said the method for releasing officers will be "tougher" than the plan for enlisted personnel primarily because officers have received additional training, have heavier responsibilities and have developed specialized skills and leadership capacity.

Therefore, the Department said, "Although officers will have an adjusted service ratings score based on the same multiples as for enlisted personnel, this factor will be secondary to the prime requirement of military necessity."

The Department said enlisted men with the highest point totals will become eligible for release from the Army "except where considerations of military necessity make it impossible to let them go until qualified replacements can be obtained. This exception applies particularly to men possessing special skills required in the war against Japan and to men in units that will have to move to the Pacific so swiftly that no opportunity is provided for replacing men with high scores until they reach the new theater."

Each soldier will be given a scorecard so that he can count up his points and determine whether he's in line for discharge.

Approximately 1,300,000 men will be released under the point system, including 650,000 now in Europe, about 433,000 in the Pacific and the rest in the United States under the rotation system.

Meanwhile, the Army disclosed that it will take almost a year to move out of Europe the 3,100,000 troops destined to be shifted to the Pacific or brought back to this country for discharge. Six months more will be required before all the equipment labeled for the Pacific area has been shipped from Europe.

An occupation force estimated at 400,000 will be left in Europe.

But while the Army outlined its Europe-to-the-Pacific redeployment plans, older 1-A and potentially 1-A men remained in doubt as to their draft status. War Mobilizer Vinson said yesterday Selective Service calls "will continue to be large."

He gave no figures but said "Deferreds for men under 30 will continue to be relatively few and will become fewer as more veterans return to industry and the farms."

Here are the high spots of the redeployment task as cited yesterday at an Army service forces news seminar headed by Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of the ASF:

Despite the use of hundreds of surface vessels and transport planes, it will be months before the full weight of American power is shifted to the war against Japan.

The Army expects to move out of Europe 845,000 men during the next three months, including 45,000 this month; approximately 1,185,000 in the second three months and 600,000 in the third three months. Peak rate in any one month is expected to be 500,000.

The redeployment job, in Somervell's opinion, will be even tougher than raising a new army in this country and sending it around the world.

The bulk of the men and most of the equipment for the war against Japan will have to come from Europe—over a 13,000 to 14,000 mile route.

The majority of the men will be shipped via the United States but all of the equipment, except that needed for training here will be sent direct.

The fastest vessels will be used to send men directly from Europe to the Pacific and from the west coast to the Orient. Many of the men coming home will travel in converted cargo vessels.

About 60 to 75 per cent of the Army equipment in Europe will be recovered, repaired and used in the Pacific. Fifteen to 25 per cent will be in European ports ready for shipment during the next three months.

In Europe, one supply soldier served two and a half combat men. In the Pacific, the ration is one supply man for each man and a half at the front, and behind the supply soldier are several dozen others "passing along the buckets."

When the men are returned from Europe to the United States, they will go directly on special trains to 22 personnel centers located near their homes. A week later, after they have been "spruced up" with haircuts, etc., they will go home on a 30-day furlough. Unless they are to be discharged they will go back to the personnel centers then to assembly points for re-assignment and retraining for the Pacific.

Reserve 5 frankfurters for top of dish and cut remaining ones in 1/2 inch pieces. Pare and slice the potatoes very thin. Brown the onion lightly in the Certified Margarine, blend in flour and add milk

PLAN AN EASY MENU

A simple meal is more likely to be a success than an elaborate one when the cooks are not experienced. This menu is one that can be prepared easily even if there is only one child and Dad to do the honors. (The time given after each dish indicates length of cooking time.)

Frankfurters and Scalloped Potatoes (1 1/2 hrs.)
Margarined Green Beans (1/2 to 3 hrs.)
Asparagus and Egg Salad
Thousand Island Dressing
Corn Bread (1 1/2 hr.) Apple Butter
Ice Cream.

FOLLOW THESE DIRECTIONS

Drop fresh beans which have been sliced, cross-wise or length-wise, into a small amount of boiling salted water (1 tsp. salt for 1 lb. beans), cover and boil until tender—15 to 30 minutes if you like them slightly crisp; 3 hrs. if you're a Southerner (in which case, add small pieces of Wilson's Economy Pork Jowl Bacon or salt pork at the beginning of cooking period and decrease the salt). If you cook the beans without meat, add 3 or 4 tbsp. Certified Margarine after draining of excess liquid from cooked beans, cover and place over low heat to allow margarine to melt. Mix well before serving.

Thousand Island Dressing
Combine 1 cup Wilson's Mayonnaise, 1/4 cup chili sauce, one hard-boiled egg, diced, and (if available) a tbsp. each of chopped green pepper and chives.

Use Mother's corn bread recipe. You may increase the oven temperature to 400° F. during the last half hour while baking it. Be sure the casserole used for the potatoes is large enough to allow the potatoes to boil without running over. Plan ahead so everything will be cooked at the same time. And have fun doing it, won't you?

Cordially,

of the most successful in which he has participated. Eighty Superforts were over the target ahead of him, "and when we arrived a column of smoke more than 15,000 feet high with scarlet bursts of flame through it," he said.

Crewmen of another plane said billows of smoke towered more than 30,000 feet from the Tokuyama fueling station, and Lt. James Pratt of Wesleyville, Penn., reported flames leaped upward 2,000 to 3,000 feet. Although crewmen of Pratt's plane found the smoke a minor nuisance in sighting the target, Flight Officer Wayne Story of Rifle, Colo., said bombs from the plane added new flames to the holocaust.

Even the usually reluctant Japanese Domei news agency admitted the fleet of attacking planes was huge, and reported by broadcast that "approximately 300" Super-fortresses had participated. Japanese fighter pilots were timid, and in one instance, reported by Capt. W. E. Timm seven buzzed near his formation but never attacked.

At the Otake target more than 100 planes had showered their bomb before Lt. Nelson McDowell of Philadelphia, Penn., and his Superfort arrived. By that time thick clouds of oil smoke had risen 20,000 feet.

Hugh Horton Guest Speaker Bar Meet

Hugh G. Horton, prominent attorney of Williamston, guest speaker at the Pitt County Bar Association's monthly supper meeting last night made an interesting talk on post-war affairs and rebuilding, interspersing his eloquent after-dinner speech with considerable wit and humor. He reminded the bar members that "a closed mind makes a more impenetrable prison than walls of brick, stone, concrete or steel."

The speaker urged toleration among the united nations as well as among individuals. "Toleration and absorption of differing opinions indicates a big man as well as a great nation," the Martin county attorney said.

President J. W. H. Roberts presided. State Senator Arthur B. Coe introduced the speaker. The meeting was held at Nelson Hopkins' restaurant on the Falkland highway.

LOCALS PLAY AT KINSTON

Will Meet Red Devils Tonight In First Night Game

By JIMMY FUTRELL
Coach Snag Clark has his GHS sluggers in fine shape for the third contest of the season when they play the Kinston Red Devils tonight. The G-Men up to this time support a record of one defeat and one victory.

Handicapped somewhat by lack of practice but determined the G-Men meet the Red Devils in their second clash of the season. Coach Mock's Grainger High nine trounced the locals in the opener 17-1.

In spite of the previous score, tonight's game should be a great improvement over the first contest. Coach Clark will probably start Bobby Clark, first base; Stump Garrett, second base; Dave Perkins, shortstop, and Jimmy Futrell, third base. The outfield will probably consist of Billy Harrington, left field; Julian White, center field, and "Josh" Lupton, right field.

Dick Flye will probably start on the mound for the locals with navy bound Amos Leggett behind the plate.

This will be the locals first taste of night baseball this season.

Farmville Kiwanis To Sponsor Scouts

The Farmville Kiwanis Club at a recent meeting unanimously approved the suggestion of Kiwanian J. T. Sutton, local scoutmaster, to sponsor a Boy Scout troop. The Kiwanians decided on the sponsorship of the troop at the suggestion of the Farmville Rotary Club, which has sponsored a Boy Scout troop for some time. At the next meeting of the club John Hackney of Wilcox divisional Scout executive, will discuss "Scouting And Its Activities." J. Y. Monk of Farmville divisional counselman, and Scoutmaster Sutton will participate on the program.

The Farmville Kiwanis Club is taking an active part in the Seventh War Loan drive. Vice-President Charley Hotchkiss said.

Stimson Reports ...

and similar figures for the preceding week:

Killed 175,168 and 170,407; wounded 536,029 and 520,208; missing 74,304 and 80,364; prisoners 82,208 and 77,110. Of the wounded, 283,472 have returned to duty and of the prisoners, 15,379 have been listed individually as exchanged or returned to military control.

Corresponding figures for the Navy:

Killed 41,458 and 40,271; wounded 48,158 and 47,739; missing 10,382 and 10,123; prisoners 4,247 and 4,250.

Despite the end of the war against Germany, Stimson said, some individual casualty notifications to next of kin will continue to be made for several weeks as an aftermath of the operations in Germany and Italy.

"This is inevitable in view of the magnitude of these operations, the extent of territory they have covered, and the care and time involved in checking the records and making necessary investigations," he said. "However, the additions to the individual roster of casualties should be limited in number."

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills. Used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Memorial Day ...

who died for a cause. On this Confederate Memorial Day we have men from the north in the Marines joining with the Daughters of the Confederacy in paying tribute to our war dead, typifying a united country. We sincerely appreciate the presence of Major Ullman and his officers and men. No military man has come to Greenville for a time and contributed more to the community life than Major Ullman and his Marines. They help us in all our undertakings with a generous spirit."

Rev. A. Hartwell Campbell said the invocation, the Glee Club responding.

Mayor Bruce Sugg spoke briefly of the important occasion when the people are paying tribute to the honored dead and offering thanksgiving for the victory in Europe. J. Herbert Waldrop, Greenville banker and Pitt County War Finance Committee chairman, reminded that winning the war in Europe is but half of the job ahead and urged continued buying of war bonds.

The squadron of planes flying in changing formation during the exercises was a feature of the occasion. Marine officers near the platform were in radio telephone communication with the planes. Mr. Rose announced that the exercises were being recorded at the Greenville broadcasting station and that the program will be broadcast tonight at 7:30.

A thousand persons were in the parade, which started at the high school. The high school band and drum major and drum majorettes, under Director Harold McDougle, led the procession, with Major Ullman's squadron of Marines marching with the precision of a watch, reflecting credit upon themselves and the entire Marine Corps. The Civilian Air Patrol squadron, recently organized here, nattily uniformed, made a good impression. Boy Scouts and the entire high school student body and members of the U. D. C. and officials in cars followed. Several thousand persons witnessed the parade and the exercises.

The program at the courthouse included: "America," "Dixie," martial airs and "The Star Spangled Banner" by the high school band, and "Tenting Tonight," Kipling's "Let's We Forget," and "The Lord's Prayer" by the high school Glee club.

Greenville people, always friendly to the Marines, had an opportunity today to see the squadron assembled about the monument and frequent praise was heard of the fine personnel and the squadron's military bearing.

200 feet along the workings when the explosion let go yesterday at 3:15 p. m., mountain war time. Bodies of the men were burned and the injured were suffering from burns and poisonous fumes.

Five men were missing and believed to have been trapped.

Rescue workers donned gas masks before entering the shaft. Fumes still permeated the workings this morning.

Survivors attributed the blast to "black damp," a miner's term for accumulated fine coal dust which explodes upon coming in contact with an electric spark.

OPA prepared meanwhile to announce tomorrow (11:30 a. m. EWT) its policy for holding down prices on the new goods soon to re-enter the market for the first time in three years.

Restricted zones were abolished, thus eliminating all military restrictions relating to beaches, and military enforcement of air raid protection regulations was terminated.

These other developments attracted top interest:

1. A Big-Five committee on international trusteeships is reported to have reached agreement "in principle" on what sort of machinery to set up for governing the enemy territories of this world war and the previous one.

2. Senators Vandenberg and Connally (D-Tex.) made clear in public statements that they and other American delegates are constantly concerned with what the United States Senate may or may not be willing to accept, by two-thirds vote.
