

Tokyo Is Target Of Daylight Raid

More than 400 Superfortresses pummeled Tokyo and Hamamatsu industrial areas today; 2,000 tons of demolition bombs inflicted more damage on Jap war plants

By LEIF ERICKSON
Guam, May 19.—(AP)—More than 400 Superfortresses were reported over Japan today, bombing Tokyo and Hamamatsu industrial targets and laying mines in two vital waterways.

Some 300 B-29's raided Hamamatsu about noon in the heaviest strike and the only one announced by the 21st Bomber Command here. They dropped more than 2,000 tons of demolition bombs in the greatest raid ever made on the industrial center.

The Twentieth Air Force in Washington and Japanese broadcasts both reported the strike on Tokyo by perhaps 150 Superfortresses. Japanese propaganda, which has taken to belittling the size of bomber strikes, said 30 B-29's were in the formation.

The Japanese Domei news agency also reported two mine-laying expeditions. The enemy dispatch said about 30 Superfortresses mined Wakasa Bay, western Honshu port on the Japan Sea, during the morning and another formation was "believed to have dropped mines in Bungo Strait," southwestern entrance to the Inland Sea.

Hamamatsu, an important pre-war textile manufacturing center, had converted to diversified war production, including manufacture of airplane propellers. The city, 60 miles southeast of Nagoya, has about 166,000 population.

It is an important railroad center and site of military bases, including four airfields.

The Superfortresses bombed from medium altitudes through an understudy so were unable to observe results of their attack with high explosives. Fighters, presumably two Jima-based Army Mustangs, escorted the B-29's.

About the time the B-29's were leaving for Hamamatsu, Maj. Gen. Curtis Lemay, commander of the 21st Bomber Command, said four raids on Nagoya's industrial plants and small home factories had been made.

Seek To Unseat 68 Legislators

Washington, May 19.—(AP)—Congressional hearings may be held on an attempt to unseat 68 southern legislators elected from poll tax states.

Chairman Donnell (D-La.) of the House Elections Committee No. 1, told a reporter today he will "let the committee decide" what action to take.

Ultimatum

London, May 19.—(AP)—A political commentator on the Turkish home radio said today the Turkish government was going to send an ultimatum to Japan warning that the Soviet Union was ready to enter the Pacific war unless Tokyo accepted "the conditions set up by the Allies."

Quoting "generally well informed diplomatic circles," the Turkish commentator said Moscow had demanded that Japan give up all areas she has occupied to "eliminate the danger of Japanese assault bases against the Soviet Union."

CHINESE DRIVE INTO FOOCHOW

By SPENCER MOOSA
Chungking, May 19.—(AP)—Chinese troops have completely recaptured the strategic east coast port city of Foochow in an area where the Japanese have feared American landings, the high command announced today. There were indications that the enemy already had withdrawn or was in the process of withdrawing from the coastal region around the port.

There were signs that the Japanese in the area were slipping up the coast by ships in the night toward Shanghai.

There also were indications that the Japanese at Wenchow, port in the province of Chekiang, some 220 miles south of Shanghai, might follow the example of those at Foochow, and that those at Amoy and Swatow were preparing to withdraw southward to Hong Kong. All these ports are exposed to bombing from Philippine bases and are virtually cut off from Japan and Formosa.

Japanese garrisons, in each instance, a few thousand at the most, have virtually no offensive capability against any American forces which might land on the China coast, and in defensive operations would face annihilation.

Some observers in Chungking foresaw a possibility of Japanese abandonment of southeast Asia in favor of positions north of the Yellow river, with the enemy evacuation from Burma to Thailand as the first step.

The Chinese high command said Chinese troops had broken into Foochow Thursday night and had captured it.

Mrs. Roosevelt Declines Offer

New York, May 19.—(AP)—The New York Daily Mirror said today that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt had been approached by Democratic leaders and asked whether she would accept nomination as candidate for mayor of New York. Her answer was "No," the Mirror said.

The newspaper said the former first lady had been contacted by Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan and Bronx Democratic Leader Edward Flynn.

AWAIT WORD FROM STALIN

Conference Tied Up Over Regional Defense Plan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

San Francisco, May 19.—(AP)—The United States delegation is hoping fervently for word from Moscow this weekend that may clear the way for United Nations approval of regional defense plans and break a conference jam on other critical issues.

For the moment the Russians, and small nations unsure of the course the Russians may pursue, have the world security conference tied in a knot so far as important decisions are concerned.

In addition there is an undercurrent of small nation revolt against what some are terming big-power control of present and future United Nations machinery. This alone could considerably prolong the work of the conference.

Charge Sugar Was Mishandled

Washington, May 19.—(AP)—A source close to the House Food Committee said today the group is drafting a sharply critical report "charging the government with mishandling sugar stocks to the point of extreme shortage."

The individual asked that his name be withheld. He said the document, which may be filed with the House next week, can be expected to blame OPA, War Food Administration and other government agencies for an approaching sugar crisis that may be the worst of the war.

The informant said the report, being prepared in secret, is expected to:

1. Demand a reduction in sugar allotment to foreign countries, particularly those which may use their supply to compete with American industry.
2. Blame "sloppy rationing" by OPA for a 400,000-ton overdraft of civilian sugar last year.
3. Demand a tougher rationing program to safeguard the sugar now in sight.
4. Recommend that the government do everything possible to prevent further cuts in industrial sugar, now averaging 70 per cent of pre-war supplies, by restricting quotas for army use, overseas shipment and home canning if necessary.

Inside Germany

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Aachen, Germany, May 19.—(AP)—The ghost of the Weimar Republic hovers in the closed, shuttered schools of occupied Western Germany. When they reopen, it appears they will teach the three "R's" as Weimar taught them.

But reeducation of German youth seems slated to be an international political football to be kicked around as much as "reparations in kind" and "war criminals."

Each of the four occupying powers prefers a different system of education. These differences are as pronounced as are those between the ways of life in Chicago and Magnitogorsk, Birmingham and Lyon.

Between the American and British occupation zones close coordination of the school programs seems assured. How much similarity they will have to the programs under the Russian and French control is unanswerable at present.

Aachen, ruled by the American military government since last October, is today's most advanced experiment in what will be a long continuing research on how to make German classrooms safe for democracy.

Since this war-wrecked city lies in an area ultimately marked out for British occupation, it may be assumed that what the Americans now are doing here is done with tacit British consent.

Aachen, which had a pre-war population of 165,000, is now a community of 15,000 children, women and old men. Bombing forced the 40 schools to close a year ago and most of the pupils were evacuated to the countryside.

Next month, if SHAEF approval is given, classes are scheduled to resume for the first time. They will be limited to the first four grades with facilities for 600 students. The American military government has permitted the Oberbergmeister—an oldtime member of the Catholic Centrist Party whose name is officially withheld because his predecessor was slain two months ago—to appoint a panel of "parent-citizens."

This panel, whether or not with tongue in cheek, selected a school director of mixed German and Jewish blood, explaining it was because of his idea that "our future citizens must be citizens of the world and not merely of Greater Germany."

All available textbooks published by the Nazi regime were confiscated early in the occupation. But printing presses under American supervision are now turning out 20,000 copies of a beginners' reader and an arithmetic book textually identical with those issued in the 1920's by the Weimar Republic government.

Education As An Investment

Babson Talks To Adults

Babson Park, Mass., May 18.—Now that V-E Day has occurred, the many G. I.'s who will return to civilian life, will be anxious about veterans' education. They can be assured that their problems are being given deep thought. Both government and school authorities are conscious of their obligations to returning soldiers. They are equally conscious of the help needed from servicemen for continued promotion of world security. In that spirit may I offer a word to servicemen.

Information Vs. Real Education
Education is every man's top investment. However, let us be specific. You may think that all you need is information, but information is not education. Information is merely the raw material. The finished product is development of your brain. For $10 or up you can buy a dictionary which will inform you on every word ever uttered by the master minds of all ages. For $125 or up you can buy an encyclopedia which will inform you of every fundamental idea known to date.

Both a dictionary and an encyclopedia are blue-chip, gilt-edge investments. I heartily recommend them. They put into your possession more information than any man or woman could digest in a thousand years of daily study. However, you will not find among the pages of these or any other reference book many stock dividend checks or bond coupons.

Bitter Fight On Okinawa; Capture Dam Near Manila

American Troops and Philippine Guerrillas Find Dam That Furnished Third Of Manila Water Supply Mysteriously Undamaged

By DEAN SCHEDER
Manila, May 19.—(AP)—Attacking behind record front-line fire bombings, Philippine guerrillas and Doughboys of the 43rd Division recaptured Ipo Dam, source of a third of Manila's water supply, intact at the climax of a brightly lighted two-month mountain campaign.

Today the Yanks began the arduous task of cleaning up several thousand encircled Japanese who still hold part of the aqueduct to Manila, part of the same force that mysteriously failed to blow up the dam.

Capture of Ipo Dam was the biggest stride yet in the Central Luzon campaign, during which the powerful Shimbun line was shattered.

The campaign marked the first important use in this theater of anti-aircraft searchlights as "artificial moon light." Because of persistent nighttime Japanese infiltration, sometimes in company with strength and penetrating to the outskirts of Manila, Americans began playing lights on low clouds at night.

The reflected glow lighted the mountains, enabling U. S. artillery and mortar crews to continue firing through the night without endangering their own troops, and revealing infiltration attempts as soon as they came into the open.

On clear, moonless nights, searchlight crews risked Japanese artillery fire and played their beams directly on hillsides or into gulches.

These tactics, coupled with record fire bombings broke the Nipponese spirit, whereupon the 43rd Division and guerrillas closed a carefully prepared trap by seizing the dam.

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Hall of San Antonio, Tex., 11th corps commander who directed the operation, was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal for his "aggressive leadership and through understanding of amphibious and jungle war."

Plane Crashes; Pilot Escapes

The pilot of a twin-engine fighter plane from the Greenville Marine Air Station, parachuted to safety near Red Banks Church, about four miles from Greenville near the Vanceboro highway about 9:30 this morning.

The plane crashed in a cornfield on the farm of Warren Bell, Negro. The gas tanks exploded and the ship burned.

The pilot landed a short distance away, not far from the County Home, below Bell's fork. D. C. Wilson, superintendent of the County Home, and many others saw the pilot land unhurt. There were other planes in the air at the time. A detachment of Marines was placed on guard at the wreckage.

According to the best information available after the crash, the plane got out of control while upside down in a maneuver and the gas cut off.

STALIN FIRM ABOUT POLAND

Demands Recognition Of Provisional Government

By EDWARD J. DENNEHY
London May 19.—(AP)—Premier Stalin laid down three "elementary" conditions today for solution of the Polish question, the first of which he said was recognition of the present Warsaw provisional government as the "basic core" of a future Polish government of national unity.

The Russian leader broke his silence on the Polish issue as reports were heard here that arrangements were being pressed for a meeting of the big three. His statements were contained in a reply broadcast by the Moscow radio to a letter written by Ralph Parker, Moscow correspondent for the London Times.

The second condition, Stalin declared, was that any future Polish government must pursue a friendly policy with Russia, and not a policy of "unfriendly neutrality."

Nazi Submarine Arrives Today

Portsmouth, N. H., May 19.—(AP)—The huge Nazi submarine U-234, bearing a German general and the bodies of two Japanese who committed hara kiri, glided gingerly into this surrender port today and was anchored to a mooring buoy under heavy guns of escorting vessels.

The high ranking enemy officer was identified yesterday by the navy as Major General Ushiro Kessler, Luftwaffe general lieutenant. The vessel also carried German air plane wreckage and other loot.

Japanese Fighting With Greatest Tenacity Of Entire Pacific Campaign; Yanks Punch Out Small Gains In Face Of Fanatical Resistance

By JIM LINDSLEY
Guam, May 19.—(AP)—One of the most crucial battles of the Okinawa campaign is being fought for the Sugar Loaf fortress, a 150 foot hill overlooking the eastern approaches to the island capital of Naha and to moated Shuri, central hinge of the fortified island defended by an estimated 30,000 Japanese.

Japanese commanders are desperately throwing reserve troops into the struggle to hold the hill, even trying to move columns up in broad daylight with little chance to escape observation.

The 29th regiment of the U. S. sixth marine division is bearing the brunt of the battle for Sugar Loaf. The Marines cling to the northern slope of the hill which they finally seized in the ninth attack in seven days.

Japanese still hold the southern slope and until it is cleared it apparently would be futile for the Marines to try to sweep through the empty ruins of Naha, through which increasing numbers of Yank patrol trucks are prowling.

Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., sixth marine division commander, expressed the opinion that Japanese resistance may be broken on the present Naha-Shuri-Yambaru fighting line because the Nipponese are sacrificing so many men and so much ammunition to hold Sugar Loaf and other key hills.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' command today gave no reports on operations. Yesterday, he issued a unique official account of bloody feats of such small units as G company of the 263rd regiment of the 96th division battling off counter-attacking Japanese in an hour-long close-quarter grenade battle on Conical Hill.

These Japanese were led by an officer dressed in female clothes, to white gloves and polished dress boots. This gave evidence that some Japanese commanders realize their eventual death is certain and characteristically are preparing for a ceremonial exit.

Marines of Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's first division have killed 1,000 Japanese since they landed.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign News Analyst
The leftist tide which is sweeping across Europe seems to be reaching dangerously high on the throne of Belgium.

King Leopold—who was released recently by American troops near Salzburg, Austria, where he had been held prisoner by the Germans—reportedly has made it known that he won't be returning to his capital for some time because of his "state of health." Actually, of course, he was deprived of his throne on May 30, 1940, by an order which was approved by the Belgian cabinet in exile in Paris.

Leftist groups in Brussels shrug away the "state of health" explanation. Their terse and ominous response is that it's for parliament to decide whether Leopold is in position to fulfill the duties of king. He's on a tough spot, but of far greater importance than his own fate is that of the monarchy. The extreme left has no use for royalty. Leopold was shorn of his prerogatives three days after he surrendered the Belgian army to the invading Germans, thereby exposing the left flank of the British forces to the fury of the Hitlerite attack. His supporters declared that he had no other course than to capitulate to the enveloping enemy, especially since countless Belgian civilians had mingled with their troops and were being killed in the swirling battle. But shouts of "treason" and "pro-German" were heard in the streets of Paris.

SIGNING WITH INITIALS

It has long been the custom of diplomats while awaiting instruction from their governments about pending treaties to signify their tentative approval of these treaties by signing them with their initials. This procedure means a partial but not irrevocable acceptance of the provisions of the treaty.

Many people treat their religion the same way. They sign up with God; but they do it only to the extent of signing with initials. Like the diplomats, they will consider themselves in no way bound to their agreement should any contingency arise that would make it appear at all disadvantageous. You see (they reason with themselves) religion, like everything else, can be carried too far. Sensible people should scrupulously avoid fanaticism. It's all right to be a Christian, provided you are sensible about it; but when religion is invoked for the purpose of regulating in detail either a man's personal habits or his business policies, it's time to call a halt and be sensible.

So they sign up with God, not as Paul did who "counted all things loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Jesus Christ," but as the modern diplomat does who signs a pending treaty with his initials.

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

By BERYL SHOENFELD
(Substituting for Jack Stinnett, who is working on a special project.)
Washington—A sweet-faced widow, who wears pearl grays and feather hats becomingly, has done much to make life brighter for refugees in Europe.

She is Mrs. C. Bessford Fox of New York, for 15 years a member of the World YWCA staff, operating from Geneva, Switzerland.

Mrs. Fox joined the World YWCA in World War I and for four years helped make war-displaced persons comfortable in Paris. Today, she is repeating the unhappy task.

"I had the preparation to assist refugees this time," Mrs. Fox told me. "I was a refugee myself."

"I had been discussing with Paris officials in 1940 when the YWCA could work with the French refugees. Suddenly the Germans were marching on Paris. Everyone wanted to leave at once."

She got as far as Bordeaux, where she was held up with throngs of refugees for three weeks.

"For three days I stood on the international bridge, guarding my oversized trunk full of YWCA papers, before I could pass into Spain," she relates.

"All around were cars, ranging from limousines to broken-down autos, at a standstill and honking like mad."

"There was no sleep, no food, no contact with anyone you knew. Some of the French officials stamping our passports told us they hadn't had time to eat in four days."

Later Mrs. Fox came back to southern France to assist the French YWCA organize refugee "fosters" in private homes where unrooted women could mend and wash their clothes and bring their children.

"At the first fever in Toulouse, one refugee told me 'This is the first time in months I have found myself in any other company than a monkey,'" Mrs. Fox recalls.

In Belgium and other occupied countries, she helped local YWCA groups carry on "underground" in defiance of decrees issued by the occupying powers.

YWCA workers are currently trying to contact Polish women interned and to facilitate an exchange of women prisoners.

"The prisoners are very grateful for this human touch," she reports. Mrs. Fox expresses much enthusiasm for results of a conference held in Geneva just before she left, arranged by the International Migration Service, at which 100 social workers met with 300 refugee delegates.

Says Mrs. Fox: "It was the first then that the throne was as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar—and perhaps it still is. Time will tell. Anyway, when King Albert fell from a precipice to his death in 1934, his crown prince came into a great and honored heritage. Half a dozen years and Belgium—for centuries the cockpit of Europe—again was swept with war.

Leopold's surrender, and his loss of royal prerogatives in the passions of the moment, by no means explain his present predicament. Belgium, like neighboring France and so many other continental countries, is caught in the epochal struggle between the "Left" and the "Right." If the "Left" wins, the throne presumably will go. Leopold really doesn't figure greatly in the scheme of things. A dynasty and the way of life of a nation are at stake.

Capture Dam ...

The guerrilla force, under Col. Marcus Augustus, usually called "Colonel Markings," reached the dam first. The 43rd approaching from the south, met harder going, killing more than 100 Japanese and capturing six 20 mm. guns. More than 375 Thunderbolts and Lightnings of the 5th airforce paved the way for the final assault, dropping a ton of bombs for every 10 Japanese along the battlements.

Inasmuch as the Japanese still hold part of the aqueduct route, capture of the dam does not assure Manila immediate use of the water. To the south, the U. S. 38th division moved toward the Wawa dam, another source of Manila's water, by capturing high ground 3,500 yards northwest of mount Batangan against heavy resistance, killing at least 200.

On Mindanao, the U. S. 31st division captured Valencia and two all-weather grass airstrips in the central part of the island.

The 4th infantry division, aided by units of the Americal division, drove south along the highway toward a junction with the 31st. They overpassed a strong enemy position anchored to the Mangina river Canyon and circled back on the highway at the village of Dairig.

On Davao gulf, the 24th division, which has been trading heavy punches with a big enemy force for several days on the Cogan grass plains and hillsides, scored a breakthrough and dashed four miles to the edge of Sas airfield, a 4,700 foot former Japanese navy air strip. The 24th has captured four of six enemy airfields around Davao.

pleted recapture of the city by Friday morning.
A dispatch to the newspaper Ta Kung Pao said enemy remnants were in flight to the northeast.
Meanwhile, there were persistent reports here that the Japanese were preparing to evacuate several pockets along the China coast between Hangchow bay and Hongking, all of which might become death traps if any sizeable forces landed nearby. The points reported affected included Swatow, Amoy, Foochow and possibly Wenchow.

stroyed 11.3 square miles of that third largest Japanese city. That is 22 per cent of Nagoya's area.
Lemay also said 59.58 square miles of six of Japan's largest cities, including some 17 square miles of Tokyo, have been bombed out or damaged by B-29 attacks.
Today's raid was the first in force on Hamamatsu, whose urban industrial area was the chief target. Small raids, the last April 30, previously had been directed at the city.

The Monday and Thursday fire raids on Nagoya destroyed or damaged 5.9 square miles of war plants. Three-Mizuh branch of the Aichi Aircraft Works, the Osaka Machinery Works and Nagoya plant No. 3 of the Tokai Electrode Co.—were destroyed, reconnaissance photographs disclosed.

of the "Cordon Sanitaire" against the Soviet Union.

The third essential for solution of the problem he said, was the resolving of the question of reconstruction "together with the Poles who at present have ties with the Polish people, are not without them."

At the same time Stalin dismissed as having "no connection" with the Polish issue the arrest of 16 leaders of the Polish underground, which caused repercussions in the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

"These gentlemen were arrested in accordance with the law protecting the Red army rear from diversionists, a law similar to the British defense of the realm act," Stalin said. "The arrest was carried out by Soviet military authorities in accordance with the agreement, between the Polish provisional government and the Soviet military command."

Stalin branded as "untrue" statements by the Polish exile government group in London that the arrested men were invited to Russia at the invitation of a Soviet officer to discuss the Polish question.

"The Soviet authorities do not and will not conduct negotiations with those who break the law on the protection of the Red army rear," Stalin asserted.

Both Great Britain and the United States had been reported by United Nations conference officials to have asked Russia for evidence against the 16 Polish leaders.

several Japanese officers dressed in ceremonial white uniforms, presumably formal mourning dress.

An indication of the ferocity of the Japanese was shown in their defense of 150-foot Sugar Loaf Hill overlooking Naha from the east. This was one of the bloodiest actions of the Pacific war.

The strategic mound was scaled nine times in seven days by Marines of the Sixth division. Eight times the Leathernecks were forced to withdraw. The veterans of Bikini atoll and Guam reached the top the ninth time with their lines thinned by casualties, and managed to hang on.

Dead and wounded Yanks were gathered up under artillery and mortar fire sprayed from hills and fortifications to the east toward Shuri castle, in the center of Okinawa's tough four-mile defensive wall.

Many of the casualties were suffered when Japanese rolled grenades down the ash gray slopes into American positions.

Field commanders said the enemy threw his full weight into the defense of Sugar Loaf Hill to guard the flank of the vital Shuri defense line.

Army Thunderbolts of the 318th fighter groups are flying from the first new American airfield on Okinawa. Marine and navy planes have been in Okinawa skies for many weeks, operating off captured dromes. The airfield was completed in 12 days by a veteran army aviation engineer battalion which constructed airdromes in the Aleutians and Alaska for 26 months.

Increased air strength materially stiffened American defenses against Japanese kamikazi (suicide) plane raids launched from the Japanese mainland, 325 miles to the north.

The Japanese Dornier news agency claimed, totally without confirmation, that five American warships had been sunk or heavily damaged yesterday at Okinawa by Nipponese planes.

step forward not a halt in education. The whole educational system, from pre-nursery to post-graduate, needs reform.

It is the new ground, however, the fertile fields of adult education, which beckon most happily. Adult education appears at present to hold out the optimum chance of maximum progress. Children, by nature, are somewhat superior "sponges," number learners. Adults, by very definition, are far superior in spirit and the will to learn and achieve. If you cry, No, to this claim, thereby you add one more condemnation of our educational system. For what is the purpose of education and of life itself, if I today am nowise superior to the child I was?

sometimes we think we're getting propaganda about how good the new world will be. What we want to know is the truth.

They were amazingly well-informed about the proposed new world organization, the number of votes in the security council and the assembly, and how the old league voted. Then the tallest boy asked what I thought would come out of the United Nations conference.

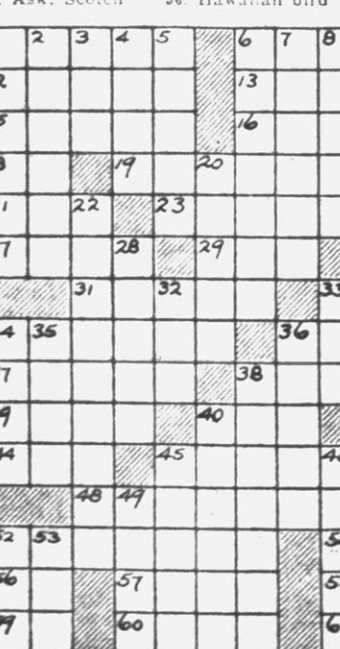

"I don't know," I said. "I can't tell yet. Certainly no one doubts the big powers have the big stick and intend to keep it."

The three looked at me solemnly. The tallest said: "If this is going to be our world, then we want people right now to tell us truthfully what kind of world. We want them to tell us honestly what they think and feel."

Mother's Day Tea.
The YWCA of ECTC entertained the members of the Memorial and Immanuel Baptist Missionary Societies at an informal Mother's Day tea on Thursday afternoon from four to five-thirty o'clock, at the Baptist Student Center.

Guests were greeted by Anne Shearing, YWA president; Jane Griffin, retiring YWA president, and Miss Mary Lee Ernest, student secretary. BSU President Catherine Charles invited the guests into the dining room, where Rosa Stephenson and Clarine Johnson presided at the table. Punch, cookies and nuts were served.

Literature Department Meets.
The Literature Department of the Woman's Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. G. Haney. Mrs. Paul Ricks was co-hostess for the meeting. Mrs. Haney's home was attractively decorated with lilies, feverfew and other garden flowers.

Shortly after guests arrived, a refreshing course of fruit punch with cookies and sandwiches was served. The hostesses were assisted in serving by Mrs. J. R. Bill and Mrs. P. P. Brooks.

The speaker for the afternoon was Miss Mary Greene of the English department of East Carolina Teachers College. Miss Greene's subject was the Currier and Ives prints, which, though produced by the hundreds of thousands in their time and at very low prices, are now relatively scarce and so highly valued that they are the object of eager search by lovers of antiques.

The speaker illustrated her remarks with prints from the original Currier and Ives lithographs. As she showed prints depicting various events of historic fact, she brought out their significance as pictorial documents of the period in which they were produced. Without claiming high artistic merit for them, she summed up their intrinsic value thus: "They were timely enough to be enthusiastically received in their own day, and now their quaint charm and their historic importance make them invaluable records of Nineteenth Century America." And in conclusion Miss Greene quoted from a facetious commentary: "Hanging is none too good for them."

Miss Greene's unusual ability in expression of ideas and her informal, energetic style of speaking kept the interested attention of her listeners. Interest in the subject was increased by the fact that Mrs. W. H. Woolard, retiring president of the Literature Department, is a descendant of the Ives family.

During a business meeting Mrs. Woolard presented Mrs. H. H. Settle, who spoke for a while of her plans as president of the department next year.

Visitors present at the meeting were Mrs. R. W. King, Mrs. R. W. Bradshaw and Mrs. J. R. Bill. During the meeting Mrs. Bill accepted membership in the department.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
May 19, 1905

Greenville graded school, the pride of the town, has closed its second session. The term was most successful and gratifying. The enrollment reached 355 and the work done in every grade was excellent.

Sometime ago preparations were begun for an elaborate commencement at the close of the session, but owing to the occurrence of several cases of whooping cough among the pupils this had to be abandoned. Yet interesting exercises were held Friday morning in the presence of a good assemblage of our people.

Jaycees Hold Regular Meet.
At its regular meeting last night, the Greenville Junior Chamber Commerce discussed the problem of juvenile delinquency and a committee was appointed to gather additional information and to work out a program in which the organization could help in eliminating this problem here.

The organization also went on record as favoring an amendment to the State Jaycee Constitution setting up an office of an executive secretary in Raleigh.

It was also decided to stage a Father's Day program to aid in the Seventh War Loan Drive.

It was announced by Charles McBrayer, chairman of the board, that the CAP marker sign had been completed. The Jaycees donated this huge air marker to the CAP as a civic contribution. The flag staff standing at the Honor Roll Board on the court house lawn was also donated by the Jaycees. All the proceeds, from the paper collections during the months of March and April were turned over to the Boy Scouts.

Frank Little of the Production Credit Co., and Sgt. Harding of the Greenville Marine Base were guests of the club. Sgt. Harding explained the work of the aerial photographer in the field.

Attendance prize was given by Bruce Baker and was won by Belle Lamm. Melvin Whitford pronounced the invocation.

"FIGHTING LADY" TO FEATURE PITT BOND SHOW
Flaming Jap Zeros and bombers plummeting into the sea after unsuccessfully spitting death at Yanks... enemy vessels loaded with TNT exploding before your very eyes... ammunition oil dumps going up in smoke and ruins... planes strafed on the ground and bursting into flames... valiant Navy airmen stepping... uninjured from their planes after crash landing on the flight deck... U. S. gunners in action, shooting the attacking enemy from the skies...

All this thrilling drama and more too, highlights the technicolor production, "The Fighting Lady" story of the exploits of an unnamed aircraft carrier during its battles against the Japs in the South Pacific. L. Robert Taylor, USNR, former film star, tells about it in his commentary for the film which will be the feature attraction at the Pitt Theater War Bond Show. Friday night, May 25. They raised the Flag again on Corregidor...

Let's raise the money in the MIGHTY SEVENTH

OUR FLAG flies once again over Corregidor. The cost was great in blood and pain, but our fighting men did not turn back. And on Iwo Jima, four thousand men—more and more—died to take the long step forward to Victory. Twenty thousand others suffered wounds. Yes, we're on the way to Tokyo!

The Seventh War Loan is the biggest in America's history because seven billion dollars must be raised from individuals alone. That means you must buy more and bigger War Bonds.

This is really two great loans in one; for this time last year you had been called upon twice to subscribe in War Loans. As our fighting men raise Old Glory all over the world—let's raise the money back home!

At home, your contribution to Victory is measured in dollars.

Bragging About Cockleburrs
Farmers in this county are beginning to brag about their cocklebur crops being unusually early this year. The thorny pest usually matures in the fall, just before the first frost, and are certain harbingers of cold weather. J. A. Buck of Grimesland brought in a sample of his cocklebur two weeks ago. J. W. Buck came into the Reflector office today with a plant from a later harvest. Strange things are occurring in the agricultural world.

SEEK TO AID MEAT SUPPLY

New Subsidy To Cattle Feeders Announced

Washington, May 19.—(AP)—A subsidy for cattle feeders designed to insure heavier animals before slaughter spearheads the government's new plan to increase the civilian meat supply.

War Mobilization Director Fred M. Vinson announced a subsidy of 50 cents a hundredweight directly to feeders, effective today.

In additional attacks on the meat shortage, Vinson ordered subsidy boosts to packers of both beef and pork.

The government's many-angled program to augment meat supplies and spread them more equitably along the home front also includes these key points:

1. Producers are guaranteed against ceiling price cuts without at least six months' advance notice, an assurance the industry long has desired. Vinson said it "should encourage the movement of cattle into feed lots."

2. As a broadside against the black market, records on cattle from the range to the butcher will be kept. This is designed to counter requirements will be taken from packing plants with a heavy slaughter and less from those with a light slaughter to achieve, Vinson said, "More uniform distribution of available supplies for civilian use."

As a further step the government may decide for the first time to direct packers to ship supplies to specific cities or individual stores experiencing undue shortages.

Vinson worked out the changes with the Office of Economic Stabilization, OPA, War Food Administration, the Army and the Defense Supplies Corporation after President Truman reportedly instructed him to straighten things out.

"While the new program is expected to improve distribution and to make more meat available in areas of the country where relative shortages have been most pronounced," Vinson declared, "it will take some time for the effects of the program to be felt."

"Consumers should not expect any immediate increase in retail meat supplies as a result of the program."

As Vinson announced the program for feeders who take range cattle and grain-feed them to higher weight and grade, the Agriculture Adjustment Agency issued a plea for early marketings to insure an even flow of meat through the summer.

Dr. Haney paid tribute to Julian J. White for his great work in establishing the Greenville radio station and cited many of the fine services the broadcasting station has performed. He lauded the good work of Mrs. Dail Laughinghouse, who managed WGTO to its present outstanding prestige and success, and expressed special appreciation for the fine services of General Manager Billy Hodges, Commercial Manager Carl McKinney, Chief Engineer Hank Tribble and Chief Announcer Charles Wheelbee and the versatile Dick Stokes III and others of WGTO's staff, and reminded the Kiwanians that "radio is one of the champions of free speech."

WGTO's manager, Billy Hodges, always cheerful, always optimistic and a useful man in this community, was eloquent and impressive in his sparkling after-dinner speech in which he stressed the point that "radio is a powerful force whose potentialities are just being developed, and that it has proved its worth commercially, in giving the news and programs and in helping to bring to a sudden close the battle of the Allied armies for Berlin and Germany's unconditional surrender."

Dr. J. M. Barrett presided. Mrs. Dink James and Miss Agnes Fullilove (the Fullilove sisters) delighted with three songs, "By the Bend of the River," "Sylvia" and "Prayer Perfect," with Mrs. Ray Tyson as accompanist.

The thousands of radio listeners who did not get to the Kiwanis minstrel show last month to hear the Kiwanians sing had a musical treat last night as good as any singing that ever came from Radio City when Ed Bloom led the Kiwanians in singing some of the songs that made the minstrel show famous, with "Tige" Gardner interpolating and Mrs. Ray Tyson at the piano.

Following up this robbery, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson, is holding in jail for $500 bond each Sam Moore, John Smith and Andrew Smith, Negroes, on charges of breaking and entering J. B. Worthington's store, below the county ward's smokehouse, below the county home, and the larceny of gasoline ration coupons and about $25 in currency on the night of May 4.

Sam Moore is also being held under $500 bond on a charge of breaking and entering Clifton Edwards' smokehouse, below the county home, and the larceny of hams, shoulders, bacon and side meat.

Ships Named For Countries. Washington, May 19.—(AP)—Eleven transports and two cargo vessels now under construction by the Maritime Commission have been named for U. S. counties. The counties include Harnett, Iredell and Mecklenburg, all of North Carolina.

KIWANIS HAD RADIO NIGHT

Club Celebrates 25th Anniversary Of Broadcasting

The Greenville Kiwanis Club last night, with 2250 other clubs affiliated with Kiwanis International, observed "National Radio Week" with special tributes to radio as a major industry in this country and a distinctive and potent influence for good in peace and war.

Dr. H. O. Haney directed the program. It was broadcast over Greenville's radio station WGTO from 7 to 7:30.

Don H. Conley paid tribute to radio's influence in democratizing the people of the world and reminded that 100 million dollars is invested in radio programs annually. Incidentally, he reminded that WGTO will celebrate its fifth anniversary in June.

Dr. Haney paid tribute to Julian J. White for his great work in establishing the Greenville radio station and cited many of the fine services the broadcasting station has performed. He lauded the good work of Mrs. Dail Laughinghouse, who managed WGTO to its present outstanding prestige and success, and expressed special appreciation for the fine services of General Manager Billy Hodges, Commercial Manager Carl McKinney, Chief Engineer Hank Tribble and Chief Announcer Charles Wheelbee and the versatile Dick Stokes III and others of WGTO's staff, and reminded the Kiwanians that "radio is one of the champions of free speech."

Minesweeper Lost
London, May 19.—(AP)—A minesweeper operating off the English coast disappeared the night of May 8 after a heavy underwater explosion at 11:50 p. m.—just one minute before the war in Europe ended.

Lifeboats sent out from two stations found only two cushions floating in the water.

conference here beyond the next two weeks.

A whole series of developments spotlighted the new crisis in conference affairs as delegates headed for their first public session in more than a week to hear a formal report from committees planning a new world court. These developments included:

1. Francisco Aguirre, of Cuba, speaking in a closed committee meeting, hotly accused the big powers of wanting to create a "collective dictatorship" of the world, other delegates reported. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) replied with a plea for "confidence and faith" in the big nations, in peace as in war.

2. A group of Latin American leaders, reported to number nine, banded together to stall any further action on major conference issues until Russia has clarified her position on regional defense treaties, such as is proposed for the American Hemisphere. Pending this they are particularly unwilling to approve a big-power veto over future United Nations peace-keeping machinery.

3. The United States delegation decided not to try to force the issue on regional defense without giving Russia a few more days to answer. Still hoping for a response, and to avoid if possible any more differences among the powers, the delegation under Secretary of State Stettinius decided to put the whole question over until Monday.

4. The possibility arose that unless some of the small nations get certain key ideas accepted by the conference they may eventually impose reservations in accepting the United Nations charter. There is talk that Colombia may thus qualify her position unless adequate provision is made for an inter-American defense system, and Canada may act likewise unless assured of a voice in any peace-enforcement decision by which she would have to contribute armed forces.

5. Blunt-spoken Manuel Gallaguer, Peru's Foreign Minister, told a news conference there was no point in the small nations trying to force compulsory jurisdiction for a world court, if great nations consider that against their interests. The only convincing votes in such a case, he said, would be those backed "by a fleet and an army."

The small nations made a further gain on one point when a committee on the general assembly voted 42 to 0 that the assembly, in which all nations will have a voice, should have power to debate and recommend action on any matters affecting international relations. The big powers previously had agreed in principle with this proposal.

7. A meeting late yesterday of the conference executive committee headed by Stettinius received a proposal from Secretary-General Alger Hiss that the conference end by June 2.
