Marines Split Remaining Jap Garrison On Okinawa

Last-Ditch Defenders Being Attacked With Flame Throwers And Grenades; Japs Renew Suicide Plane Attacks; Tokyo Claims Larger Type Warships Sunk

By HAMILTON W. FAJON Guam, June 9.—(AP)—American infantry, attacking with flame throwers and demolition charges today began flanking the last-ditch Japanese defense line on southern Okinawa along the Yaeju-Dake escarpment, which radio Tokyo said was being given "arms and supplies" by parachute.

Marines of the First Division drove 1,000 yards to the west coast yesterday, sealing off the only possible escape corridor of Nipponese in the Naha airfield area, where the enemy was compressed by the Sixth Marine Division into a three-square mile trap.

Heavy Navy rifles, field artillery, rockets and bombs, boomed across the entire southern tip front as the final battle for Okinawa was joined and the Japanese returned to all-out attacks by suicide pilots against the fleet in Okinawan waters.

The 84th Regiment of the Seventh Infantry Division pushed southwest from Gushichan toward Hanagusuku village in the opening move to skirt the eastern flank of the Japanese line, of which Hanagusuku is the anchor. The 184th Regiment overran a stone fortification in a parallel advance, wiping out resistance pockets with flame throwers and grenades.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported the return of Japanese Kamikaze (suicide) pilots to the attack Wednesday and Thursday and said two small ships in the United States fleet were damaged, bringing to 25 sunk and 60 damaged the announced casualties of the fleet in operations connected with the Okinawa campaign. Sixty-seven Japanese planes were shot down, 25 by the tactical air command based on Okinawa. Nimitz claimed two "enemy warcraft of the larger type" and one large cruiser were sunk. Two additional cruisers and three aircraft carriers were damaged in the two-day attack, Tokyo said.

Kamikaze attacks likewise inflicted damage to two airfields on Okinawa and one on Ie Island, the Japanese said. The Tokyo radio, quoting Domei news agency, indirectly admitted the hopeless position of its southern tip garrison in reporting the hemmed-in troops along the 450-foot escarpment were receiving only (Continued on Page Four)

Traffic Accidents Kill Twenty-Eight

Raleigh, June 9.—(AP)—Twenty-eight persons were killed and 230 injured in traffic accidents in North Carolina in April, the State Motor Vehicles Department reported today.

Cities and towns reported 261 accidents, with five deaths, and rural areas reported 185 with 23 deaths. Commissioner T. Boddie Ward said the April total brought the number killed during the first four months of this year to 168, the number of injured to 1,100, and the number of accidents to 1,917.

The WAR TODAY AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By J. ROBERTS, JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst Japanese reports of an Allied landing near Brunel, Borneo, probably are correct and indicate another step in General MacArthur's consolidation of his position for the ultimate drive against Japan.

Experts estimate that if we could capture Borneo's oil fields, and find them quickly usable, it would be tantamount to a two-thirds increase in our tanker fleet in the Pacific or Borneo would give our naval vessels a source of oil thousands of miles nearer their scene of operations than at present.

The Brunel area in North Borneo, like the island of Tarakan already invaded by the Australians, is one of these rich fields. The Japanese report only one Allied division in action so far. Yet it is so important that the Brunel installations be secured quickly that unless the Japs have pulled out completely this is likely to develop into a major operation.

In fact, it is the type of job which MacArthur likes to supervise personally when not too involved in the over-all business of this theater. For it seems likely that the extent of damage done by the Japanese at Brunel and Tarakan might determine whether a campaign is worthwhile in the great Balikpapan fields, far down the Bhat Borneo coast. Balikpapan is directly across from

GERMANY TO BE STRIPPED

Pauley Says War Potentialities Will Be Removed

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, June 9.—(AP)—Germany will be stripped of various industries to destroy her future war potential, through one of the principal functions of the Reparations program, Ambassador Edwin W. Pauley, President Truman's personal representative on the Allied Reparations Commission, announced today.

Pauley said it was the view of the United States that any German industries of a war nature which could not be removed should be destroyed. "We do not want another war to take place," Pauley said, "and we are anxious to see that type of equipment taken out of Germany, even though we don't want it ourselves."

Pauley heads the American delegation en route to the initial reparations conference to be held in Moscow under plans laid down at the Yalta conference. Pauley indicated that the American delegation, which just completed a lengthy survey in the American-occupied zone of Germany, (Continued on page four)

Tokyo Says Landing On Labuan Island Followed Bombardment By Battleships

By RICHARD BERGHOLZ Manila, June 9.—(AP)—Tokyo radio today reported Allied troops had landed yesterday on Labuan Island off the north coast of Borneo, as Gen. Douglas MacArthur said Borneo was bombed heavily Thursday for the seventh straight day. MacArthur also said torpedo-boats made daring sweeps off that oil-rich island's north coast and light naval forces shelled coastal defenses.

The aerial assault, with 170 tons of bombs, cratered airfield runways, destroyed two grounded planes and fired installations. Tokyo radio said one division landed on Labuan after an Allied convoy of battleships, cruisers, destroyers and 50 smaller warships bombarded Japanese positions.

Labuan is in the China Sea. Almost directly across Northern Borneo from Tarakan Island, which Australian and Dutch troops virtually have secured after a month's fighting. Elsewhere in the MacArthur theater, ground troops recorded steady gains in cleanup drives on Luzon and Mindanao islands.

Doughboys of the veteran 24th Division straightened out their lines west of Davao City and launched a landing drive toward the key Mindanao island town of Baguio. Working through intense heat and humidity, the troops under Maj. Gen. Roscoe B. Woodruff drove steadily through dense, scrub (hemp) groves to within 4,200 yards of Baguio, important town astride the vital Talomo Trail.

Eighth Army Headquarters, Philippines, June 9.—(AP)—Frontline 24th Division troops reported a wild, drunken brawl by hard-pressed Nipponese in the Davao area today and evidence that a Japanese major's command had mutinied against him.

The indications of demoralization of the Japanese contrasted sharply, however, with stubborn, almost fanatical delaying actions being fought elsewhere on the Davao front.

Outposts at a Yank position spotted a Japanese figure lurching through early morning mists toward their lines and promptly shot him. When the sun was up the American found the body of a Japanese major who apparently had been forced to walk toward American lines with his hands tied behind his back. "The greater part of Germany's army will collapse before the German planting season opens in the spring of 1945. Japan will not hold out so long as most people think. Japan will collapse within six or twelve months after Germany collapses."

Army Plans Big Postwar Reserve

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—The Army plans a postwar reserve officer force of 400,000, four times the pre-war number and sufficient to staff an army of 4,000,000 men.

Brig. Gen. E. A. Evans, secretary of the Reserve Officers Association, disclosed the plan in an interview. He revealed that an army poll showed that at least 450,000 officers now in the army are willing to accept reserve commissions after the war.

Evans said that in order to keep the reserve officer force at 400,000 the reserve officer training program must be expanded to provide at least 30,000 new officers yearly—an increase of 22,000 above the annual pre-war ROTC output. "This supply directly will be augmented with officer candidate schools, operating in connection with universal military training."

To Bring Laval Back To France

Paris, June 9.—(AP)—Authorized sources disclosed today that Pierre Laval would be returned to France by French Army plane either tonight or tomorrow. The plane left for Spain before dawn today.

Details of the return of Laval, former chief of the Vichy government, were still withheld to avert possible mob action. Laval likely will be flown directly to Fresnes, where he will be held in prison pending trial on a charge of treason. Pressure brought on Spain by both the United States and Britain was understood to have been a factor in obtaining Laval's surrender to French authorities.

San Francisco Parley Is Nearing Completion

Big Five Veto Agreement Gets Top Consideration; Conference Will End June 16 Or 20

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER AP Diplomatic News Editor San Francisco, June 9.—(AP)—The United Nations conference moved a long step nearer completion of a new world charter today with plans for international trusteeships virtually complete and the veto voting formula under apparently final debate.

With more certainty than they have shown previously most delegates are talking about June 20 as the windup date on which President Truman may address the conference, though some few still held hope for June 15 or 16.

The pressure for speed is so great that weary delegates were called to meet tonight in a committee session dealing with the voting formula. Under this formula, the great powers would retain a veto control over all major decisions of the proposed world security council. A preliminary subcommittee meeting was scheduled for earlier in the day.

Since Russia agreed with the United States, Britain, China and France Thursday that the veto could not be used to prevent free discussion in the council, it only remains now for the small nations to express their views on the formula. All signs indicate they will accept it.

The break on international trusteeships came in a three and one-half hour session last night. Russian objections on two points involving independence for trusted peoples and the status of present mandated territories were ironed out before hand.

That enabled the conference committee to complete approval of the trusteeship plan except for three or four points held over for further consideration. Most important of these is the demand of Brig. Gen. (Continued on page two)

When Will Japan Surrender? Forecast On Germany Was Correct

Babson Park, Mass., June 9.—May I start by calling attention to the definite statements made in my Annual Forecast of December 28, 1944, in which I said: "The greater part of Germany's army will collapse before the German planting season opens in the spring of 1945. Japan will not hold out so long as most people think. Japan will collapse within six or twelve months after Germany collapses. If Stalin's health continues, he will be the world's most powerful man in 1945 and may dictate the peace terms, especially for the Pacific."

Chinese Forces Gain On Indo-China Front

Two Important Kwangsi Province Towns Captured; Jap Counterattacks Repulsed

By SPENCER MOOSA Chungking, June 9.—(AP)—The Chinese high command announced today that Chinese troops had captured a town on the Indo-China border in Kwangsi Province, after applying the important highway town of Szelo, 2 miles from the Indo-Chinese frontier.

"During the morning of June 6," a communique said, "our troops attacked the enemy at Chungchingfu on the border of French Indo-China, and after a day of fighting occupied Chungchingfu. The enemy's remnants fled toward Gaobang."

The high command said the Chinese also threatened Mingkian, about 30 miles from the border. Szelo, 70 miles southwest of Yungning (Nanning), and some 120 miles northeast of the Indo-China capital of Hanoi, first was threatened a week ago, after the Chinese drove a wide gap into the enemy's overland corridor from Korea to Southeast Asia.

The high command said local militia troops also attacked Lungchow on the highway, only 12 miles from the Indo-China border. Other Chinese in Kwangsi repulsed four counterattacks by Japanese troops from outposts of Lshan on the Kwangsi-Kweichow railroad, 43 miles west of Luochow. This railroad is the main escape route for Japanese forces at Hanoi. The Chinese inflicted 100 casualties and lost 34 men.

Chinese units already have taken Tating, a town on the Indo-China highway, 21 miles southwest of menaced Luochow, and appeared to be in a position to cut the road west of Luochow, site of the former U. S. 14th Air Force base.

The high command also announced that the Japanese yesterday had opened a drive southward from Nanking in Southern Kiangsi Province toward Sinfeng, 100 miles east of Kukong, the Japanese-occupied provincial capital of Kwangtung Province. This move possibly was designed to set up a safeguard for the eastern flank on the Canton-Hankow railroad.

Fighting was said to be in progress in Kiangsi. Former Congressman Dies Oklahoma City, June 9.—(AP)—Scott Ferris, 67, former U. S. congressman from Oklahoma and promoter of democratic national political figure, died today of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Special Buses To Bring Jurors

One hundred of the 200 Pasquotank County men of the special venire of prospective jurors for the Meadows trial in Superior Court will be brought here from Elizabeth City Monday morning in three motor buses. J. H. Coward, Pitt County auditor, announced today after procuring a permit from the ODT in Raleigh. If a 13-man jury is not obtained from this contingent another 100 men will come here Tuesday morning. Transporting the prospective jurors by motor bus will save the county considerable money, Coward said.

The round trip cost of each bus will be $91.43. If the second 100 veniremen are brought here Tuesday the cost to the county would be only $548.58. Whereas, if the 200 prospective jurors were allowed mileage for the 200-mile round trip from Elizabeth City the cost to the county would be $2,000.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Pasquotank County Sheriff Thompson and the Elizabeth City chief of police extended every courtesy to him when he presented Judge J. Paul Frizzelle's court order for the 200 veniremen.

Fire Early Today Destroyed Building

Fire about 1:30 this morning totally destroyed Clark's Service Station and cafe on the Bethel highway across the river from Greenville. Origin of the blaze was not known. A Marine on guard duty at the Air Base saw the blaze and phoned the fire department. Local and Marine firemen had apparatus at the fire but too late.

The fire department was called to Clark's place yesterday afternoon when blazing kerosene oil caused considerable damage.

Precision Attacks With High Explosives On Aircraft Factories In Three Cities Today; Nearly Five Million Japs Homeless As Result Of Recent Raids

Guam, June 9.—(AP)—Superforts, which by Tokyo's admission have left one of every 15 Japanese homeless, pinpointed aircraft factories in three Nipponese cities today while Japan's premier was telling an emergency parliament session that B-29s have already caused "considerable damage" to the empire's war industry.

Tokyo reported "about 50" Mustang fighters followed up the big bombers at midday, raiding the area between Nagoya and Osaka. Today's strike was an unescorted raid by 100 to 150 Superforts with high explosive bombs at specific targets in Nagoya and two small cities in the Kobe-Osaka area.

The precision attack was a departure from mass fire raids in May, which enemy broadcasts reported today destroyed 500,000 homes in Tokyo, Yokohama and Nagoya, leaving 1,700,000 homeless.

This Tokyo broadcast combined with previous reports on April and March fire raids would make a total of 4,930,000 Japanese left homeless by Superfort destruction of roughly 1,500,000 homes in five major cities — Tokyo, Osaka, Yokohama, Nagoya and Kobe.

Japan claims a population of 100,000,000 but other sources list it at 72,000,000. In Tokyo alone, enemy reports add up to 3,100,000 homeless and 47,000 dwellings destroyed by B-29 fire raids.

Premier Katoiro Suzuki told the emergency session of the Diet (parliament) that "so small number of people suffered the victims of B-29s, but: "Measured on a nation-wide scale, those areas affected by the enemy air raids are very limited in scope."

He reported that "much headway" is being made in digging both industry and homes underground in bomb-ravaged cities as protection against further strikes. Japanese have already been warned that these would be extended to smaller cities and towns. "This prediction was fulfilled by today's three-way attack."

Akashi and Naruo were the small cities struck by the B-29s. They are both near the east end of Japan's Inland Sea. Nagoya is about 30 miles farther east, on Honshu's east coast and 15 miles southwest of Tokyo.

At Nagoya the B-29s rained their explosives on a former watch and precision instrument factory now (Continued on page two)

Britain Develops Four New Airplanes

London, June 9.—(AP)—Development of four new British warplanes, among them a bomber unofficially said to be larger than the American B-29 Superfortress, has been announced by the Ministry of Aircraft Production.

There will be reports that in some far off country — or maybe deep in the Black Forest of Germany—he is working out a way to whip his countrymen into one final bid for the victory he lost in 1945."

And a thousand years from now, if he is not found, he will pass into the folklore of the race. He'll be a demon to men of good will, a patron angel to evil men who will find in the memory of him a new incentive to be inhuman.

There have been other myths about other big names when there was a lot less mystery about their deaths. The British supposedly burned Joan of Arc to death at the stake. Years later, according to legend, she bobbed up in her home town, married a local boy, and settled down. (Continued on page two)

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

PARTIAL ANSWER TO AN OLD QUESTION

Why do the righteous suffer? The Book of Job is an attempt to answer this question. This upright man finds himself involved in every conceivable variety of misfortune, including loss of health. Why did it come about? Job's friends insist that good fortune is always the result of righteous living and misfortune the result of sin. Job accepts this as a general proposition but insists that there is much suffering in the world in no way connected with either merit or demerit.

The conclusion of the book is that some of life's troubles come upon us with God's permission, in order to test and strengthen our characters. After Job had had a revelation of the might, majesty, and goodness of God, he realized that he had sinned in accusing the Almighty of injustice. Injustice arises from malice and pettiness, and God is too big, and—It may be said with all reverence—too busy to be involved in any such unworthiness. Job's complaining was the outgrowth of a faulty conception of God. When he got that straightened out, the whole tangled skein of life's events was unraveled.

But Job's answer to the problem of suffering is only a partial answer. The full answer is to be found in the gospel and cross of Christ. All Rights Reserved Babson Newspaper Syndicate

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — Your Capital in Wartime: It's a foregone conclusion here that Sen. Harry S. Truman didn't personally want any part of the vice presidency, much less the presidency.

That being understood, it probably isn't disrespectful to report that White House gossip says he is getting quite a kick out of two of his presidential heritages: (1) the modest little swimming pool in the west wing of the White House; and (2) the presidential yacht, Potomac.

President Truman hasn't had much time to use either, but it already is apparent that he will use the yacht for occasional hideaways on week-ends, much as President Coolidge did; or as a place to knock off important addresses, as President Roosevelt did.

The swimming pool will provide moments of physical relaxation on clear, full days; but for mental relaxation, take the place of the President's pipe at which he enjoys "doodling out" times both classical and popular.

The federal court judges who grant citizenship to aliens are full of good stories. One of the better ones came off recently when a judge spent some time explaining all about the American flag, paused for a moment, and then asked what it is that we see most often flying over the nation's capital.

One cheerful little fellow held up his hand in most gleeful classroom style and given the nod, answered: "Peeluna."

According to Jerry Klutz, Washington Post columnist whose business is to know all about government employees, W. Pierce MacCoy, State Department assistant personnel director, has an infallible rule for getting the best out of the workers under his command.

The MacCoy law is: "Give two cents on the back for every kick in the pants."

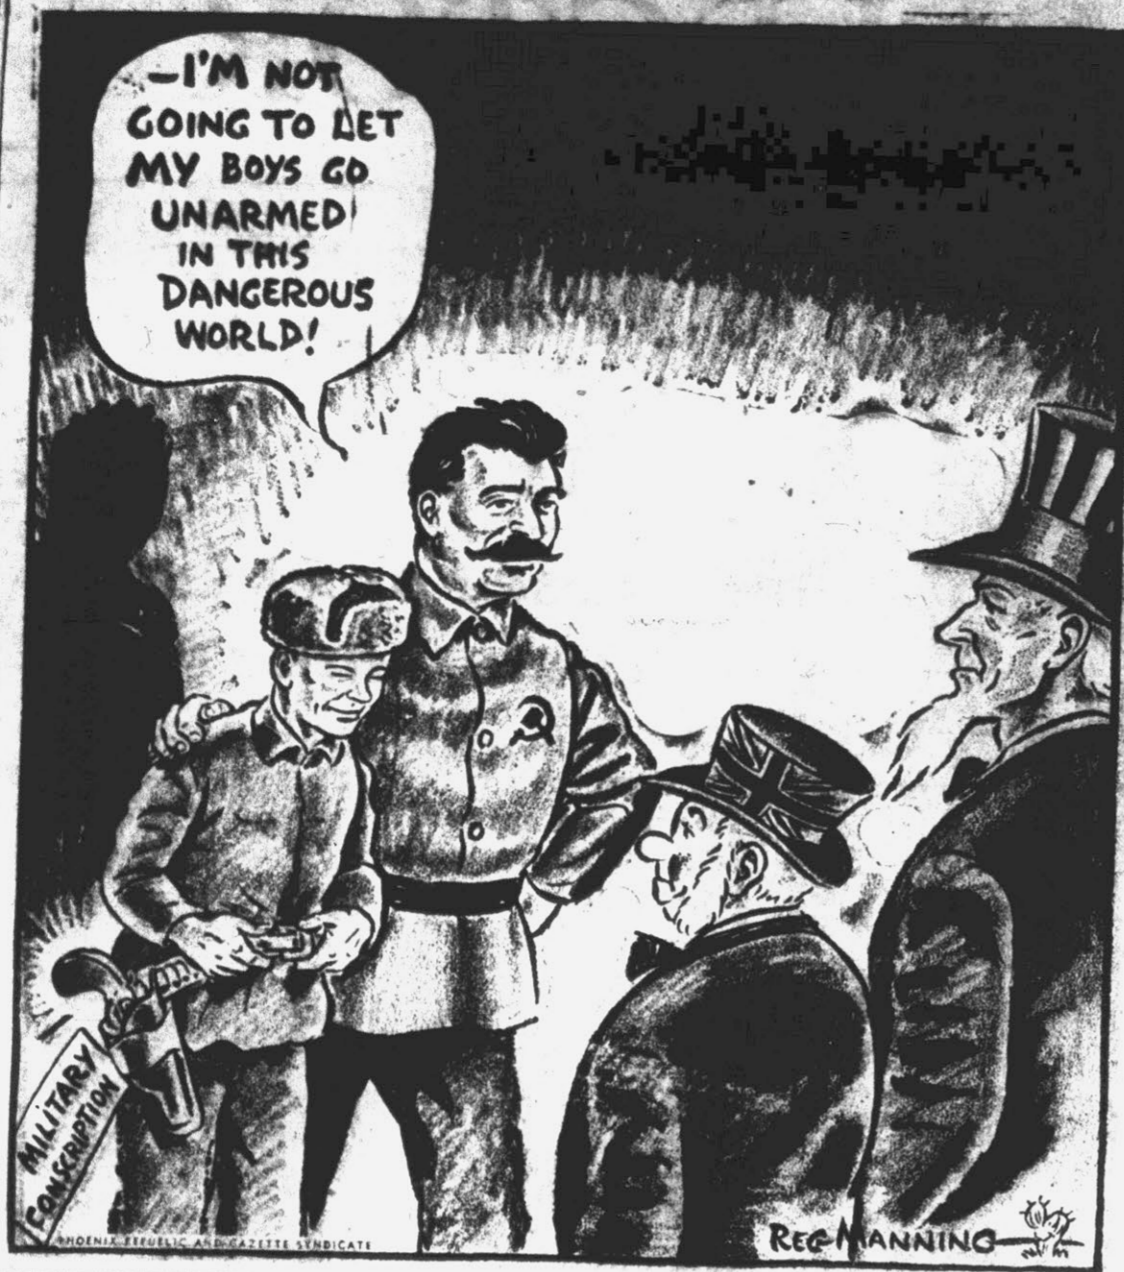

Add to the fact that the government goes round-and-round: the new Secretary of Agriculture, Clint Anderson will get all of the authority when he takes office that Chester Davis, initially appointed wartime "food czar," was denied and lost because he couldn't have.

Apparently, there's a good reason for it. When Davis was appointed, the emphasis was on military supplies rather than food—airplanes, tanks, munitions, etc.

Now all the cutbacks have started on most of those products and the emphasis has been shifted to food—supplies for civilians at home, for starvation abroad, and for the armed forces that still have the Pacific to clean up.

During the next year, you will hear more about food and less about other supplies than at any time since Pearl Harbor and the man who will have to work it out will be Anderson.

up or suffer civil revolution. Then he surely need not be a menace to the British Empire, to China or to ourselves.

Says Hitler . . .

(Continued from page one) He doubts it. Hitler probably waited until the last moment and then took off in a plane that was ostensibly held in constant readiness.

"I think," said the Marshal, "that Hitler is hiding somewhere in Europe, possibly with Gen. Franco. And now it's up to you British and Americans to find him."

"Diaries of the staff had fallen into the hands of the Russians and from them it was learned that Hitler married the German movie actress Eva Braun."

Reuters carried a similar report quoting Zhukov.

The broadcast continued: "Marshal Zhukov told us he had established a strict occupation regime in Soviet-occupied Germany which forbids the men of the Red Army to fraternize with the population and that he will pursue a policy of economic disarmament of Germany so that Germany never to rise again as a military power."

"As for Berlin, it is ruined beyond any hope of restoration," the correspondent said. "It is a sight ghastlier than Stalingrad."

San Francisco . . .

Britain and France, as colonial empires, oppose this, preferring the goal of self-government instead. The United States supports their position and Russia and China have accepted it.

The trusteeship plan to cover both old League of Nations mandates and territories which may be put under international control after this war—such as islands captured from Japan—is purely voluntary. No territories would come under trusteeship supervision until the nations holding them agreed to put them there.

The plan calls for a trusteeship council of all the nations holding such territories plus an equal number of nations which did not have trusteeships. Those other nations would have to include any of the big five powers not otherwise on the council—meaning Russia and China.

This would allow the United States to develop under its own supervision, military bases on Pacific islands it considers essential to keeping peace in that part of the world.

The declaration of political objectives for trustee peoples says that they should develop "toward self-government or independence as may be appropriate to the particular circumstances of each territory and its people and the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned, and as may be provided in each trusteeship arrangement."

On the status of mandated territories Russia had called for elimination of a provision that the mandates should be frozen until new arrangements were made for them. The other powers felt this arrangement essential for the transitional period. They compromised on an addition of a line stating that the freeze was only for the transitional period.

Another conference committee put the finishing touches on its work, approving in final form a chapter of the charter setting forth economic, political and military measures which might be used to enforce security and prevent aggression.

Napoleon, that he died in exile on St. Helena—haunted the French. They kept whispering that he didn't die, that he escaped and was coming any minute now to raise a new army.

There were probably a hundred myths about John Wilkes Booth who shot Lincoln. These myths said he wasn't shot to death by Union soldiers but appeared later in a dozen American cities and cut his throat 40 years after Lincoln died.

This week news dispatches from Berlin said a "high Russian military source" announced that a burned-up body found there was identified "with fair certainty" as that of Hitler.

But the same stories said four charred bodies were found in Berlin and that any one of them answered fairly well to the description of Hitler.

This seems pretty flimsy identification. Because it's so vague—and unless Hitler or his body is identified beyond dispute—look out for the myths and for men with little mustaches and big pop-eyes.

Winslow Speaker At Kiwanis Club

By CHESTER WALSH J. E. Winslow, president of the North Carolina Bureau Federation, guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting, gave an interesting review of the tobacco situation since 1932 as it concerns the farmers. He recalled that in one of those years the tobacco manufacturers made more profit than the farmers received for their entire tobacco crop.

The musical program consisted of a solo "O Promise Me," by Mrs. Ola Tucker, and a duet, "I Love You Truly," by Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Floyd Smith. Mrs. Ray Tyson and accompanist, Eli Bloom, led the singing of Kiwanis songs and serenaded Carlos W. Fred Blank of Nashville, Tenn., formerly associated with the Carolina Sales Corporation and a member of the Greenville club, was given a warm welcome by the Kiwanians when he and his brother, Lloyd C. Dr. H. G. Haney, program chairman, announced that returned servicemen will be entertained by the club next Friday.

Prisoners To Be Used As Laborers

Paris, June 9—(AP)—The U. S. Army disclosed today it plans to release 600,000 German prisoners of war as laborers.

When victory came, American armies held 2,852,000 German war prisoners on the continent. In addition to the 600,000 to be used by the American army arrangements have been completed for transferring 200,000 to 225,000 American-held prisoners to France for labor.

Col. Robert J. Hill of the U. S. Provost Marshal's office disclosed at supreme headquarters. These prisoners, who will come under complete charge of the French just as if the French had captured them, are now held in seven inclosures in France.

At Ndruo, on Amagasaki harbor of Osaka Bay, the Marianas-based raiders attacked the Kawanishi Aircraft Company's main production plant for the manufacture of the Japanese navy fighter planes called "George" by the Americans. Greatly expanded since the beginning of the war, the plant has a total roof area of 2,699,000 square feet.

At Akashi, west of Kobe, the Americans bombed the Kawasaki aircraft factory. It was their second strike at the plant.

U. D. C. Meets
At the country home of Mrs. T. H. Hollingsworth, the George B. Singsletary chapter was signally honored by having as its guest speakers Mrs. A. T. St. Amand of Wilmington and Carl Reid and Sam Northrop Jr., students of the Greenville High School.

Mrs. St. Amand, daughter of Dr. B. T. Cox, a prominent physician of a former generation, very graciously presented for his heirs, through our chapter, her father's surgical instruments which are to be placed in the Museum of the Arts Department at the Sheppard Memorial Library. She also brought greetings from the Cape Fear Chapter and gave items of historic interest pertaining to that section and urged us to be diligent in searching out places and stories connected with the Confederacy in this county.

Carl Reid was the recipient of the prize, offered by our chapter to the high school student for the outstanding paper on some phase of Confederate history. His subject was "Blockade Running During the War Between the States." He was kind enough to read this paper to us. This piece of work showed his capacity for research, as well as his ability to express in clear, concise English the information gained thereby.

We were happy to have Sam Northrop give us a very interesting talk on "Jefferson Davis, the President." This also showed much study and the ability to put into interesting form the story of this phase of the life of this great southerner.

We were greatly indebted to these guests who contributed much to make this meeting enjoyable and worthwhile.

Other guests of the afternoon were Miss Mary Harding, Mrs. Albion Dunn, and Mrs. W. J. Stief, Mrs. J. H. Boyd was assistant hostess.

After a social hour when a delicious ice course was served, we adjourned for the summer months.

Mary Scott, chairman of the reception committee, introduced Dr. and Mrs. Weston. As they moved away, Mary whispered, "Everyone is asking about Francis. Isn't he coming?"

"He may—be along later," Kay replied. "Oh, hello, Babs."

"Hi, darling," responded Babs who was looking her prettiest in green chiffon. "When will Francis and the Mrs. be here?"

"Oh, I'm not sure," Kay answered. "Kay turned to find Ned by her side, his face grim with anxiety. "Francis won't be here, will he?"

"Kay swallowed hard. "No, he isn't coming, Ned." She tried to make her voice sound casual, but as she met his eyes they read each other's thoughts. Francis' marriage was to be as bad as they had feared.

Kay could feel an undercurrent of gossip in the crowded room. She knew they were discussing Francis' marriage and his absence here today. It was time for most of these guests to leave, the shift would change in a short while, and others would come. Not only would they be disappointed over Francis' failure to appear, but the famous Dr. Warner had not arrived either.

"Oh, Kay," a young, excited voice called. "Isn't it grand?"

Kay turned to face Josephine Blake, one of Lowell's young college students. "Why, Josephine," she exclaimed, "how does it happen you're home from school? You go to Kiltore University, don't you?"

Yes, Travis and I were excused for the week-end," Josephine explained, her gray eyes sparkling with happiness. "Travis heard Dr. Rex Warner was to be in Lowell, and he just had to meet him. Isn't it marvelous that Travis is studying to be a doctor, too?"

"Yes, it is," Kay agreed, smiling at the younger girl's enthusiasm. "And you two are still that way about each other, I would gather?"

"Oh, it will always be Travis for me, Kay," Josephine's face flushed. "Always. And I've just got to see Mr. Francis and thank him again and again for the loan that makes it possible for us to go to college."

"Well, it'll be late—if he gets here at all."

"I can wait," Josephine said. "Kay felt she couldn't stand another moment here, not even to meet Dr. Warner. She couldn't answer a stranger's question about her father. She thought wildly: Let me get out of here before I start weeping and wailing. Maybe I'll find it's a nightmare after all, and I'll wake up.

There was a large portrait of Katherine hanging in the entrance hall of the hospital. Pausing a moment to look up at it, Kay felt her throat tighten, as it always did when she looked into the clear eyes and lovely face.

For a moment the white walls faded away, the faint odor of ether and the nurse at the information desk were not there. Kay was a little girl again, laughing with her mother, adoring him together.

A shaft of late afternoon sunlight coming from a window on the stairway shone upon Kay's uplifted face. Thus illumined, they were much alike—the same direct eyes wistful with dreams, the same golden beauty. Kay stood there until she felt hot tears on her lashes. Then, turning abruptly, she ran against a tall man.

"I'm sorry," she said. "My dear, I am sorry, too."

Kay paused and, raising her eyes again, she saw he was looking at the portrait. She was more surprised at the quality of his voice than his words which he spoke again. "I thought at first you were looking at your own picture," he said.

Kay flushed when she realized he had been watching her. He picked up a black satchel and they moved toward the elevator together. "There's a little boy upstairs who can't walk. He had poliomyelitis and it left him crippled. I'm supposed to be able to do something about it."

LIDICE MEMORIAL — Mario Korbel, Czech sculptor, puts finishing touches on his working model of a memorial to the village of Lidice, obliterated by the Nazis in one of the war's most horrible atrocities.

Chapter 6
It was a little past four o'clock when Jimmy arrived to drive Kay to the reception. The picture she made in her frock of white jersey caused Jimmy to smile with appreciation.

When Kay and Jimmy entered the reception room they met the gaze of a hundred people—staring at them and past them. Looking for Francis and his bride.

Kay felt a moment of panic as she spoke to everyone about her father. What would these people think if they knew the truth? That Lucia was hard and mean and clever, and that already her father was changed?

For, to the workers, Francis Lambert was more than an employer. He was the symbol of their own security, their own success. They wanted him present at all their meetings; they wanted a speech from him on every occasion, so that they might cheer to show their approval of him, and of their own contentment.

Mary Scott, chairman of the reception committee, introduced Dr. and Mrs. Weston. As they moved away, Mary whispered, "Everyone is asking about Francis. Isn't he coming?"

"He may—be along later," Kay replied. "Oh, hello, Babs."

"Hi, darling," responded Babs who was looking her prettiest in green chiffon. "When will Francis and the Mrs. be here?"

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 9—(AP)—Stocks leaned over a slightly irregular area in today's market with scattered favorites edging forward while many leaders did little or nothing.

The direction was cloudy at the start. Small declines and advances were pretty evenly divided near the close. Dealings were slack throughout and transfers of around 500,000 shares were among the lightest since early April.

Two small ships. Sixty-seven Japanese planes were destroyed in the attacks. Nimitz credited the Okinawa-based tactical air command with downing 25. He also reported TAC Mustangs and Corsair fighters swept southern Kyushu airfields which the Japanese had used to launch kamikaze attacks. The Army and Marine pilots shot down eight interceptors but found the fields virtually empty, indicating the Japanese are flying from northern Kyushu now.

Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner's 10th Army troops made gains on all fronts yesterday. Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger's Third Marine Amphibious Corps reduced the Oroku Peninsula Japanese into a three-square mile pocket, half the area the enemy had held Thursday.

Germany To...

(Continued From Page One) many, was going to Moscow with a definite program in mind, but virtually in the dark as to the desires of Russia and Britain, the only other powers to be represented at the initial meeting.

He said there had been no exchange of views. Pauley and 18 to 20 others of the 35-man delegation will leave Monday for Moscow, while the remainder, all technical representatives, will continue studying the possibilities of reparations in Germany.

Disclosing that the United States is feeding 7,000,000 persons in Germany, including its troops, prisoners of war and displaced persons, Pauley said it seemed false economy to consider reparations until after that burden was lifted. He and his staff found that Germany's transportation system was so wrecked by Allied bombing that it would take an inestimable time to repair it; but her industrial capacity—with few exceptions, such as fuel production—could be restored in up to eight months.

"Our primary policy," Pauley said, "is to de-industrialize Germany, to destroy its war potential in the future. With that in mind, there is considerable material for reparations."

He contrasted this view with that following the end of World War I when he said reparations were considered from the standpoint of getting dollar value out of Germany, adding: "If that plan were followed, you must encourage industrial development."

He said the German gold hoard uncovered by the U. S. Third Army would be considered by the reparations commission as a means of restitution and disclosed that certain countries—which he did not name—already had advanced informal claims to portions of it.

Local Air Cadets To Army Air Base

Thirteen members of the Greenville Squadron of the N. C. Civil Air Patrol will leave here under Warrant Officer Ward Simmons Sunday for the Maxton Army Air Base for two weeks training in aviation. Maxton is headquarters for the State Civil Air Patrol. Lieut. Ray McKenzie is commander of the local squadron.

The CAP squadron was organized here last January. It has more than 50 members. Membership is open to boys and girls from 16 up and to adults.

Air cadets leaving here Sunday are Sgt. Milton G. Bunch, Cpl. Robert E. Coward, and Privates Walter E. Briley, Don L. Carson, Jr., Joseph A. Eberidge, Charles Harris, Charles A. Lewis, Leon Manning, Asa V. Moore, Paul Spivey, Alton R. Thomas and Jerome Worsley.

Arthur Manning Is Victim Of Robbers

Arthur E. Manning, formerly of Greenville, now a storekeeper in Norfolk, Va., is in a serious condition in a Norfolk hospital as a result of being attacked and robbed by thugs last Sunday night. A surgeon took 23 stitches in wounds on his head and face. Manning was found unconscious on the street. He had been robbed of his wallet and the keys to his store. Police are working on a clue given by Manning after he regained consciousness.

Manning is a son of Mrs. Lydia Corbett, 109 Albemarle Avenue, Greenville. He served about five years in the U. S. army and received an honorable discharge.

British Advance Toward Thailand

Calcutta, June 9—(AP)—British troops pursuing Japanese forces toward the Thailand frontier have captured the lower Shan states hill station of Kalaw, 63 miles east of Thazi on the Thau-Taunggyi road and 95 miles southeast of Mandalay. Southeast Asia Command headquarters announced today.

The hill station fell without opposition.

Some 120 miles to the south, British forces moving eastward along the Toungoo-Mawchi road advanced a little more than 19 miles east of Toungoo, where they came under fire from an enemy bunker.

ASKS TRAINING ON TRIAL BASIS

Educator Suggests Draft For Five Years

Washington, June 9—(AP)—A compulsory peacetime draft program for a trial period of five years was recommended to Congress today by Edward C. Elliott, president of Purdue University.

One of the few educators to support universal military training proposals during an entire week of public hearings, Elliott told the House Post-War Military Policy Committee:

"The happenings of the present, day by day, afford little encouragement for the removal of the stresses and strains of war conditions during the years immediately ahead."

"At the moment," he said, "I have the conviction that this nation must face the grim and realistic fact that conditions approximating an enduring peace in the world are beyond early attainment—human nature being what it is; the governments and the moralities of nations being what they are, and are likely to remain for years to come."

"While we have the task of dreaming and doing for peace, at the same time," he cautioned, "we have the solemn and continuing obligation of being fully prepared to protect all that which is ours to protect. The experiences of the past four years have taught us how dependent we are upon our youth to provide this protection."

At the end of three to five years, he declared, "We shall know things we cannot now know, and then we shall have learned the invaluable lessons learned only by experience."

Crops Respond Heavy Showers

More than an inch and a quarter of rain fell here from 3 o'clock Friday afternoon to the time the showers ceased during the night, according to the Greenville Machine Works. The exact rainfall recorded on the instrument was 1.28 inches. The temperature continues unusually low for June, but indications today were that the clouds would disperse and let in some sunshine. Incidentally, Old Sol has been getting higher and higher, and when the skies do clear midsummer heat will prevail.

Farmers in town today from various parts of the county reported good showers and that the water had moistened the fertilizer under the tobacco plants and they are spreading out. Growth has been slow, but stands appear to be uniform.

Wise Philosophy In This Advice

"Pitt County has a quota of $250,000 and has sold $275,000, a little more than 30 per cent of E Bonds. The E Bonds pay more interest than any other Bond. You get a third of the principal invested for interest in 10 years, which is 3 1-3 per cent simple interest. They may be cashed in any time after 60 days. They represent postwar purchasing power and at the same time show your interest and patriotism in backing up our boys who are offering their lives and have placed themselves subject to the wishes of their commanding officers to do or die. What have you done?" County War Bond Chairman J. H. Waldrop said today.

"Let's bestir ourselves to put Pitt County over the top on the E Bond quota. Other parts of the State and nation are ahead of us. We have subscribed more than our quota for the six drives combined. It would never do to fall behind in this drive, when so many of our boys are making the supreme sacrifice and many others that are wounded and have been prisoners of war are coming back home and are going to know what we are doing and how we are backing up the boys."

"We have enjoyed our greatest era of prosperity during the war. Let's buy the War Bonds with our savings and profits and not spend them in the black market, or try to take trips when our government has asked us to stay home, or buy substitutes at a higher price in so many lines."

Furlough Gas For Veterans

Washington, June 9—(AP)—The OPA announced today that servicemen returning to this country for rehabilitation, recuperation and recovery may obtain furlough gasoline rations.

These veterans should apply to local ration boards and present both their temporary duty orders and the mileage rationing record of the car they plan to use, OPA said.

Heretofore servicemen could obtain furlough gasoline only when they presented leave or furlough papers. Those being sent home for periods of about 30 days are not being given such papers, it was explained.

The furlough ration remains unchanged. It provides one gallon of gasoline each day of the furlough, to a maximum of 30 gallons.

Tito Forces To Leave Trieste

Washington, June 9—(AP)—Marshal Joseph Broz (Tito) has agreed to withdraw most of his Yugoslavian troops from the Adriatic-Austria communications zone under a three-power agreement announced today.

Details of this temporary solution of the recently critical Trieste dispute were given out simultaneously in London and Washington shortly after formal announcement that an agreement had been reached and signed in Belgrade.

Pending a peace conference, it was agreed between Yugoslavians, Britain and the United States to give the supreme Allied commander, Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, control of the vital communications zone of the Venezia Giulia Province.
