Expect Early Settlement Polish Government Issue

Poles And Representatives Of Russia, United States And Britain To Meet In Moscow Friday To Begin Discussion Of Reorganization On More Democratic Scale

By ALEX H. SINGLETON London, June 13 (AP)—Poles and Big Three representatives will discuss reorganization of the Polish provisional government in Moscow Friday, it was announced today.

A British foreign office commentator said "A very serious deadlock has been broken," but cautioned that "It is contrary to all our experience to say that it is going to be clear sailing from now on."

A simultaneous announcement in London, Washington and Moscow said reorganization of the Warsaw regime on a broad democratic basis as "provided for in the Crimea agreement on Poland" would be discussed in the Soviet capital by representatives of Britain, Soviet Russia and the United States, spokesmen for the provisional government in Warsaw and Polish democratic leaders.

Members of the Polish government in exile in London, still recognized by Britain and the United States, were conspicuously absent from the list of Poles who will take part in the discussion.

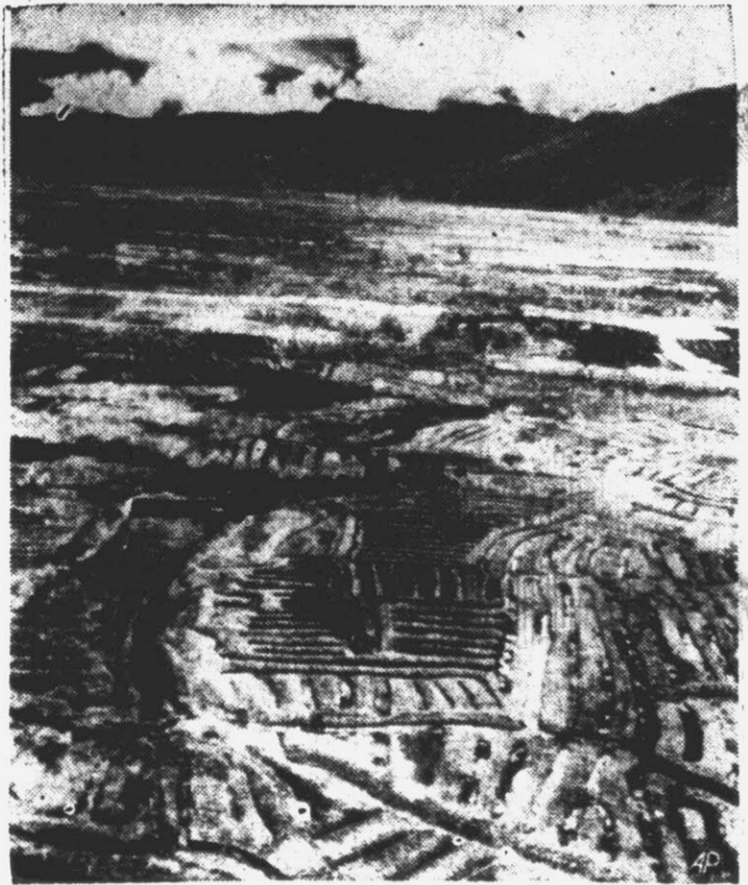

Responsible quarters here said that Julian Zakowski, 48-year-old architect and one of three London Poles invited to the conference, had decided to turn down the bid on the ground that he has never been connected with politics. Regarded as a liberal Socialist who has no affiliation with the exiled administration, he was understood to have been nominated by the Warsaw provisional government.

A dispatch from Moscow by Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore said a reliable diplomatic authority stated the conference was to be held on the basis of reorganizing the government with the Soviet-sponsored provisional government as a nucleus. Gilmore said diplomats in Moscow believed there were several good reasons to be optimistic.

Big Three representatives to the conference will be Russian Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov, U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and British Ambassador Sir John Archibald Clark Kerr.

Principal Polish leaders selected to attend were Boleslaw Beirut, president of the Warsaw provisional government; Wincenty Witos, former premier and leader of the democratic group inside Poland not affiliated with the Warsaw government; Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, peasant party leader who resigned as premier and withdrew from the exiled government in London last month.

SAYS MEETING OF BIG THREE HAS BEEN SET

President Truman Declines To Reveal Definite Time Or Place Of Coming Conference With Stalin and Churchill

Washington, June 13 (AP)—President Truman announced today that a Big Three meeting has been set, but he said he could not announce the time or place until his arrival there.

The President also told a news conference that he expected the meeting at Moscow this Friday to work out a unified Polish government on a broad base to produce results.

In obvious good humor following an earlier conference with Harry Hopkins and Joseph E. Davies, his representatives to Moscow and London, the President told the reporters the results they had obtained have been completely satisfactory and gratifying.

He said he would take Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., James F. Byrnes, former war mobilization director, and Davies to the Big Three meeting with him, the latter two if their health permits.

He said that while no members of the present Polish government in London were invited to the meeting, the United States still recognizes the London-Polish government.

He expressed some concern when reporters sought to put him down on detail as to the position of the London government.

The President reminded his questioners that Russia has done some very pleasant yielding on this and other questions and that all should keep their heads.

He would not give reporters any hint whatsoever on the locale or time of the Big Three meeting other than to say that it will be within the 40-day limit he announced at a news conference last Thursday.

Yanks Crack Jap Okinawa Defenses; Japs Fire Borneo Oil Storage Tanks

Raging Fires Light China Sea; Australians Make New Amphibious Landing To Trap Defenders Of Brunei; Japs Show Little Inclination To Make Stand

By JAMES HUTCHESON Brunei Bay, Borneo, June 13 (AP)—The Japanese fired West Borneo's rich Seria oil field storage tanks last night—seven as Allied forces did before the Nipponese captured this island with its vast stores of oil early in the war.

Hundreds of thousands of gallons must have been destroyed last night alone. I counted 16 tank infernos from a P-T boat which went within a mile of the shore in the Seria vicinity.

Seria is 60 miles south of the point where Australian troops landed three days ago on the Borneo mainland at Brunei Bay.

The Aussies sped their southward push in the general direction of Seria by making a small scale amphibious landing on the Brunei river. The landing 15 miles from the original invasion point, cut behind Japanese who were opposing the push toward Brunei town.

The main force was nine miles from Brunei when the amphibious operation was made to close the pin.

On Labuan Island in Brunei Bay where the largest Australian force is involved a drive pushed two miles beyond the captured airstrip.

Japanese in several strong pockets are resisting mostly with rifles and machineguns although one artillery piece was captured after it was knocked out.

There is no road connection between the two areas, but the Japanese apparently are taking no chances on having the rich oil reservoirs captured by any surprise attack.

It is taken for granted that they also will destroy the oil wells if that is not already done.

State Gives Testimony In Case Of Dr. Meadows

Negro Workmen Say Meadows Filled Out Receipts For More Money Than He Paid Them

The state sent a parade of witnesses to the stand today in support of its charges that Dr. Leon R. Meadows obtained $705,40 under false pretense while president of East Carolina Teachers College. The four other bills against him allege that he also embezzled more than $14,000 while president, but they will not be taken up until after the false pretense charge is disposed of.

The testimony on the false pretense charge also bears on the embezzlement indictments.

In general, the state is pursuing the same strategy as it did in the first trial, which continued for eight weeks and ended in a mistrial in March when the jury was unable to agree.

Three negro workmen, W. S. Shine, a plasterer, Henry Freeman, a cement worker, and Alton Taylor, a tile setter, testified today as the state sought to prove that they signed blank receipts for work done at the college, and that Dr. Meadows later filled in the receipts for amounts in excess of those actually paid the workmen.

Direct examination was conducted by Solicitor D. M. Clark, while Attorney Albion Dunn and Clay Carter alternated in cross-examination.

Pre-Dawn Flanking Attacks On Southern Plateau Area Catch Japs Napping; Aided By The Flamethrowing Tanks, Doughboys Seize Eastern Anchor Of Suicide Line

By RICHARD O'MALLEY Guam, June 13 (AP)—Simultaneous American pre-dawn attacks on both flanks of Yaeju Plateau caught the Japanese napping and apparently cracked the enemy's last ditch defense line on Okinawa, front dispatches reported today.

The Japanese came to life at daybreak and attacked with machineguns and knee mortars. But it was too late.

Cliff-scaling Seventh Division infantrymen held the eastern anchor of the Nipponese suicide line. First Division Marines were astride a ridge at the western anchor, three miles away. And from the north, American field artillery unleashed one of the heaviest barrages of the campaign against two concentrations of the 10,000 to 15,000 enemy troops dug into caves atop the plateau.

Fighting was so fierce that in 36 hours battling for the slope of one hill, 137 men in a single Marine company, including all of its officers, were killed or wounded. That is more than half the company's strength.

Japanese, including at least one woman in soldier's uniform, charged Marine lines during the night with machineguns. They blew up like firecrackers when hit.

U. S. infantrymen met counterattacks with machineguns and a brand new flamethrower technique. Machineguns were packed to the top of the escarpment on the backs of Yanks scaling ropes, hand over hand. Tankmen brought flame-throwing 500-foot hose extensions connected to their tanks at the base of the cliff.

The Okinawa battle was so nearly ended that Tokyo turned its back on the Mikado's dying garrison, 325 miles south of Japan.

The enemy radio, instead, switched its theme to the menace of a homeland invasion. It quoted the Nippon Times as saying "Japan will defend herself unflinchingly and unshakably... as long as her very existence and her sacred ideals are threatened."

Action Aids Ground Forces On Mindanao

Manila, June 13 (AP)—Marine Dauntless dive bombers smashed Japanese resistance east of Davao river on Mindanao and made possible capture of Mandog town by the 24th Infantry Division, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique reported today.

The Marines flew 125 sorties. Fighting still was intense in hills near Davao city. Typical was the experience of a 34th Infantry regiment patrol which was reconnoitering a pocket into which the Japanese were squeezed. They ran into an almost perfect trap. As the patrol, led by Sgt. Joseph W. Helwig of Ashland, Pa., reached a steep cliff along a river bank, a superior force of the enemy attacked from both flanks and the rear.

Helwig set up a machinegun on the edge of the precipice and fired until the heated gun burned his hands. Wrapping his jacket around it, he held it steady.

Appointment Approved Washington, June 13 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today unanimously recommended confirmation of Tom C. Clark as attorney general.

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) said the nomination would be reported to the Senate today and would be taken up on the next regular meeting day.

AIRMEN POUND JAP POSITIONS

Shelter for the assault forces was poor. The foe in the distant caves played a deadly game of peekaboo. He withdrew deep inside as shells fell; then he darted back to the front.

Split Of Small Nations Assures Big Power Veto

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER AP Diplomatic News Editor San Francisco, June 13 (AP)—Defeat of an Australian amendment cleared the way today for approval in a United Nations conference committee of the Big-Five demand for total veto control of proposed machinery for world security.

The amendment, which would have removed the veto from steps to settle international disputes peacefully and limited it to use of force, was voted down 20 to 10. Fifteen nations abstained and five were absent.

Simultaneously small nations were beginning to rally behind a proposal that they should be promised another crack at the veto about 10 years hence.

Col. Sidney Minor Dies In Danville

Freeman said he actually received $175, while the state sought to show that blank receipts which he signed later were filled in to total $325. Freeman said he was paid $325.

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW Washington, June 13 (AP)—Congress is again going through the motions of considering a law to eliminate the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in federal elections in seven Southern states.

Don't look for enactment. The House yesterday passed a bill to eliminate the tax in Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

But that doesn't mean anything. On the basis of past considerations, the anti-poll tax bill will die in the Senate. It's an old story.

Because House debate is limited, House Southerners who would like to talk on the poll tax endlessly find their tongues tied. Not so in the Senate. A Senator can talk till he drops dead. And the Senate has killed similar bills by talk or threat of endless talk three times in recent years.

Senators can't be limited in talking except by a rule called cloture. Cloture means a time-limit on debate. Before that can be invoked, two-thirds of the Senate must vote for cloture. That they won't do.

Our Farm Folks
Reports from the Garden Leaders of the Home Demonstration Club are that the monthly program "Garden Insect Control" was a well-attended topic for this month. Mrs. R. O. Overm, leader in the Pactorius Club said "Every garden is confronted with insect problems sometime during the growing season."

Mrs. W. H. Causey, leader of the Ballard's Club, thinks every farm family in the county needs a copy of the New War Series Extension Bulletin No. 13, Vegetable Insect Control Guide. A copy can be secured from our office.

The Belvoir meeting was held at the home of Mrs. H. L. Lewis with Mrs. R. M. Manning giving the program of the month; Stokes Club at the home of Mrs. W. C. Parker with G. M. Britt, vocational agriculture teacher, giving the program. Mrs. Raymond Tyson was hostess and leader for Red Oak meeting on last Wednesday. Nineteen members were present.

Mrs. E. H. Boyd sent this report of the Red Banks meeting. The meeting of Red Banks Home Demonstration Club was held at the home of Mrs. Charlie Hardee with an attendance of 19 members. Mrs. R. B. Starling, president, conducted the regular business session, and plans for the annual picnic were made, the date being August 17th. A talk then followed, "Ten Rules for a Happy Home," by Dale Carmonie. An enjoyable recreation period followed after which the hostess and her assistants, Mrs. Hugh Hardee and Mrs. Glenn Hardee invited the guests into the newly arranged kitchen which was convenient and attractive where ice cream and cakes were served. Mrs. E. H. Boyd leader for the subject of the month, "Garden Insect Control" gave points on the subject. It was an inspiration to visit Mrs. Charlie Hardee's lovely garden which we are safe in saying, is second to none in the county. I personally enjoyed discussing the subject and the bulletin is very valuable. Having purchased a new duster the job of controlling insects will not be a hard one.

Mrs. H. E. Smith reported the Chicod Club meeting as follows: The Chicod Home Demonstration Club had one of the most enjoyable meetings of the year on Friday, June 1, in the home of Mrs. J. J. Edwards. The president, Mrs. Carroll, presided. The meeting was well attended with 19 members, five new members and two visitors. The home was beautifully decorated with flowers from her garden.

The meeting opened with singing of America accompanied by Mrs. James Mills, followed by the collection. Mrs. L. J. Edwards led an inspiring devotional.

The business for the afternoon

was plans for the annual picnic to be held Thursday, September 13, on Mrs. George Haddock's lawn.

Members of the club had invested $230 in bonds and stamps in the Seventh War Bond Drive. Twelve pounds of waste fat had been salvaged during the month. Mrs. Newman Lewis was appointed receptional leader for the remainder of the year.

The poultry leader, Mrs. George Haddock, gave a very interesting report. Miss Annie Carroll gave some tips on stretching our sugar.

Every member joined in playing two interesting games. These brought fun and laughter for each person. We were then invited to see the garden filled with growing vegetables. Mrs. James Mills in her charming manner demonstrated the use of different insect control ideas and experiences were exchanged.

The hostesses, Mrs. J. J. Edwards, Mrs. James Mills and Mrs. Melvin Porter invited the members to the flower garden for delicious refreshments. Iced drinks, nuts, cookies, and sandwiches were served from a beautiful decorated table. Everybody enjoyed the afternoon.

Mrs. E. H. Boyd leader for the subject of the month, "Garden Insect Control" gave points on the subject. It was an inspiration to visit Mrs. Charlie Hardee's lovely garden which we are safe in saying, is second to none in the county. I personally enjoyed discussing the subject and the bulletin is very valuable. Having purchased a new duster the job of controlling insects will not be a hard one.

Mrs. H. E. Smith reported the Chicod Club meeting as follows: The Chicod Home Demonstration Club had one of the most enjoyable meetings of the year on Friday, June 1, in the home of Mrs. J. J. Edwards. The president, Mrs. Carroll, presided. The meeting was well attended with 19 members, five new members and two visitors. The home was beautifully decorated with flowers from her garden.

The meeting opened with singing of America accompanied by Mrs. James Mills, followed by the collection. Mrs. L. J. Edwards led an inspiring devotional.

The business for the afternoon

was plans for the annual picnic to be held Thursday, September 13, on Mrs. George Haddock's lawn.

Members of the club had invested $230 in bonds and stamps in the Seventh War Bond Drive. Twelve pounds of waste fat had been salvaged during the month. Mrs. Newman Lewis was appointed receptional leader for the remainder of the year.

The poultry leader, Mrs. George Haddock, gave a very interesting report. Miss Annie Carroll gave some tips on stretching our sugar.

Every member joined in playing two interesting games. These brought fun and laughter for each person. We were then invited to see the garden filled with growing vegetables. Mrs. James Mills in her charming manner demonstrated the use of different insect control ideas and experiences were exchanged.

The hostesses, Mrs. J. J. Edwards, Mrs. James Mills and Mrs. Melvin Porter invited the members to the flower garden for delicious refreshments. Iced drinks, nuts, cookies, and sandwiches were served from a beautiful decorated table. Everybody enjoyed the afternoon.

Chapter 8
 Dr. Warner started the motor and Kay sighed. The worst part of the trip was over for Tommy.

Kay had become very well acquainted with Dr. Warner during the past week of meeting him several times at the children's clinic. She hoped now that he would tell her something of his life, where he had lived, what he had done before he had become famous. They had always talked of Tommy and made plans for his trip, and obviously they couldn't discuss his operation just now.

And she was not disappointed. Presently he was telling her of his boyhood home in California, of his mother and father, dead several years. He had, he said, left medical school to volunteer for the war in 1918. "I was too young to be prepared for surgical work at first. I finished serving my internship after enlistment."

"You were in the hospitals all the time?"

"Yes, I was made captain in the medical Corps just before the armistice. Afterwards I worked and studied at different places in Europe. But when the offer came from the Board I decided I was home-ck. So here I am."

Kay was wondering how old he was. If he had left college to go to war, he must be a little more than 40 now. He didn't look it; he was one of the most attractive men she'd ever seen.

"I wish I could do worthwhile things like you," she said wistfully. "My mother was like that."

He turned to her. "Self-discipline is the first lesson a medical student learns. If he spends his energy in emotional feeling for the patient he will be unable to relieve suffering." He paused, and then added, "But according to Dr. Sims you do lead a busy life. Don't think I can see what you've done for Tommy."

There has been so little I could do for Tommy. But Dr. Sims has worked hard with him. Warner nodded. "I know how Dr. Sims must have worried during Tommy's illness. I'm afraid that an epidemic would strike in Lowell, how do you feel about that?"

The pond was leaving the muscles in Tommy's feet paralyzed, how hard it was to wait until the paralysis was over. He could not do any more. Yes, I thoroughly agree.

They drove in silence for a few moments. The car was in the highway. "How do you feel about that?"

A deep silence fell on the car. Kay's Tommy interrupted.

Kay and the doctor looked at each other and then at Tommy. Well, as far as you could.

"I won't be long," he said. Dr. Warner told him.

Dr. Warner drove the car off the highway to the right and between two tall stone columns supporting the sign. "The Georgia Warm Springs Foundation. The wide dirt road was winding around the mountain and red and yellow leaves fell in clouds before them."

Now they were passing low built cottages, each with a ramp built from the ground to the porch, thus giving the patients freedom to come and go in their wheel chairs.

At the top of the mountain Dr. Warner stopped the car in front of a large white studio building with a sign over the entrance that read "The Georgia Warm Springs Medical Building." Kay thought it was the most beautiful hospital she had ever seen.

They could see a number of patients in the first floor rooms. Some were in wheel chairs and in rolling beds; others had become able to walk with the support of crutches and canes.

Kay turned to Tommy and was shocked at the whiteness of his face and the fear in his eyes. She could read his thoughts. He was going into this building, he would be hurt just as he had been hurt many times before. When he came out, he would probably be just as crippled as he was now. The doctors had failed so many times.

An attendant wheeled out a chair from the hospital. Kay slipped to the back seat of the car and, drawing Tommy close to her side, whispered to him, "Tell Dr. Warner that you are Leonidas; that you have been wounded in battle. Ask him to place you in the chair so that you can sit tall and straight before all your soldiers who look to you for courage."

Tommy's eyes widened, and he turned to Dr. Warner who was standing by the car. "Is this my white charger?" he cried. His voice was shrill with attempted sternness. "Yes, it is, sir," Dr. Warner agreed. "Will you mount now?"

"I'm ready!" Tommy announced and then turned back to Kay. "Why does the man with the wheel chair look at us so funny? Doesn't he know about Leonidas?"

"Fina out while you're here," she suggested. "And if he doesn't, it's your duty to tell him." They exchanged their secret salute and Tommy turned to the car.

Dr. Warner turned away with the child. He would, he told Kay, return in about an hour and they'd have lunch at the hotel nearby where they had reservations to stay until Tommy's operation.

Chapter 9
 Kay looked about and felt a swell within her. This Foundation was known from the Atlantic to the Pacific and to all foreign countries. Its aims and accomplishments had brought hundreds of cripples here to learn for themselves what could be done in the name of medicine.

Kay's eyes moved about the grounds. The buildings of the Foundation were set on a velvet green lawn. The mountain woods were in their autumn glory with the red and yellow of sweet-gum, the scarlet of dogwood, the may blue of the ash. There was an aisle that ran down the mountainside to the blue water of the pool below.

She saw Georgia Hall, the magnificent recreation building, erected by gift subscriptions collected from thousands of men, women and children all over the state. She decided she'd wait there for Dr. Warner.

She got out of the car and followed the walk to the entrance.

The large recreation room in the Hall was beautiful, with high windows shaded by soft draperies. There were rows of books along the walls, reading tables, and a piano.

At one side a great fireplace was burning up a cheerful fire.

Kay saw a thick white line on a table. On the back was lettered: "Subscribers: Georgia Hall. She remembered her father's words at the time his voice saddened by the recent loss of his sight. "I'll make it a general check, Kay. It would please your mother." On Daddy's Daddy's she came in her heart. "What happened to you? Why did you marry a girl like Lucia?"

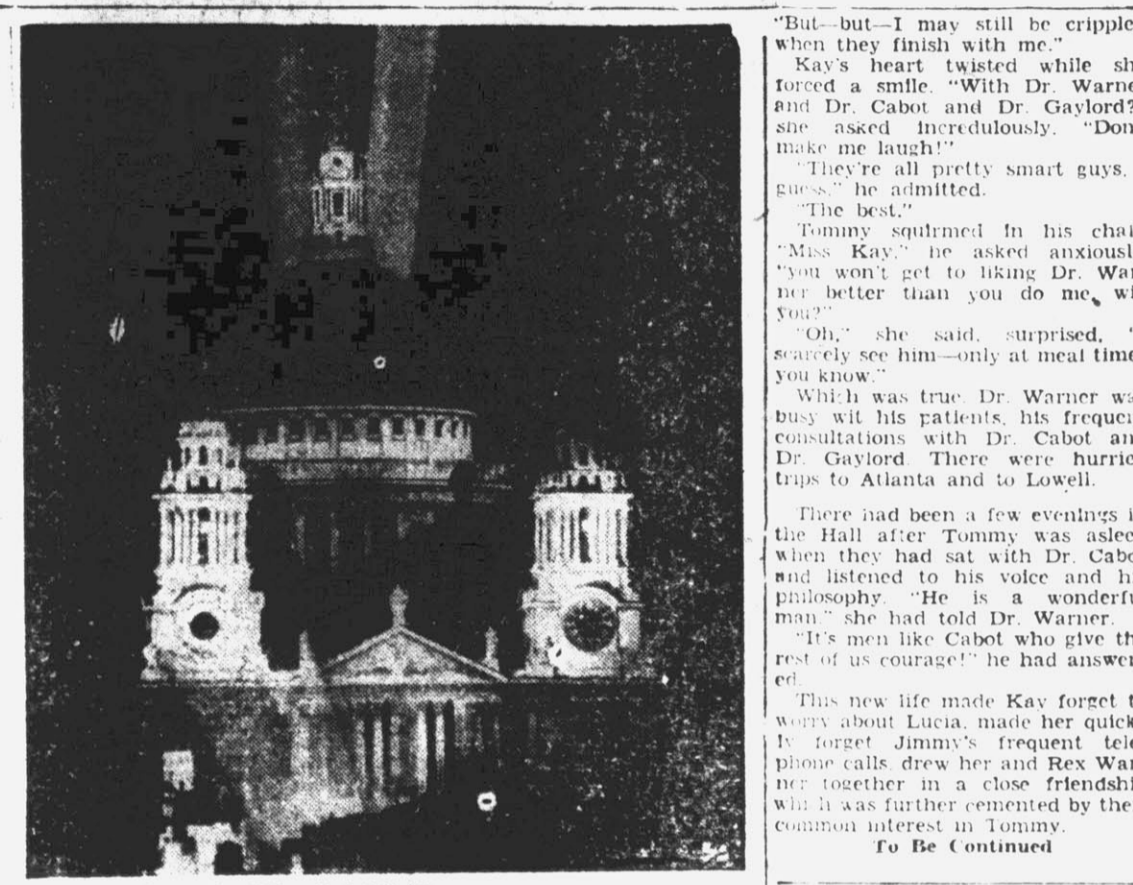

She got into the car and sank back upon the seat. Presently she saw Rex Warner coming toward her. She thought, "The Crusaders must have worn that look as they marched along carrying their banners before them."

He smiled at her. "Tommy is pretending very well," he told her, "but he is very insistent that you come to his room the first visiting hour."

"Oh, I meant to be assured him. The hotel where Kay and Dr. Warner were staying was only a short distance from the hospital. Kay spent all the afternoon and evening visiting hours with Tommy and she soon learned to appreciate Dr. Warner's impatience with emotional interference of a pious patient.

"It took many long hours of persuasion to convince him that the physiotherapists meant to help restore his strength with the massage treatments and exercises down at the patients' pool."

But the time came when her efforts were rewarded. When the large low-slung bus stopped in front of the infirmary on its way to the pool, Tommy was the first to roll his chair up the ramp and take his place. He even began to pity Key because she was not included in his daily routine.

"If you get yourself a wheel chair, Miss Kay," he generously offered, "I'll make room for you to go, too."

"Thank you, darling. But you'll have to teach me how to handle the chair," she answered, as she waved to them all.

Tommy had become a favorite among the patients. And the devotion that existed between him and Kay was a topic of conversation according to Tommy's reports.

"They think you are pretty," he relayed to her. "And the girls think you wear swell-looking clothes."

"Oh, thank you. They're kind aren't they?"

Kay laughed. Yes, Tommy was much stronger. His food planned by the expert dietitian, his supervised swimming, his long hours of sleep and rest were paying the way for his operation. She said, "You are happy, aren't you, Tommy?"

"I'm terribly happy," he acknowledged. "This is a swell place. But, he added confidentially, "if you hadn't been here—I would have been awfully scared. And I've tried to do everything right because you would have felt bad if I hadn't."

"Think how grand it will be when you can run and play up and down Lambert Avenue."

The old fear returned to his eyes

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

THE BURDENED LIFE

As we grow older we try, if we see wise, to rid ourselves of certain troublesome "musts." If we are in debt, we try to get out of debt. If our estates are involved and tied up in non-liquid assets, we try to reduce these assets to a more fluid state. If business becomes too burdensome, we try to hand over some of the details to others. If our health has begun to break we try to accommodate ourselves to these new circumstances.

Try though we may, there will always be a number of "musts" in life. Compulsion will be with us as long as we live. If we could put out of our lives every compulsion, then boredom would ensue, and this would be heavier to bear and more troublesome than the burdens from which we had tried so hard to shake ourselves free. As long as we live we must obey physical laws. The wise man knows that as long as he lives he must obey spiritual laws also.

Life does not have to be burdensome to be significant, but no life has significance unless it is carrying some load. The tramp tries to avoid all responsibility, and he ends
up by relinquishing everything which gives significance to life. For the right to live as he wants to live, he relinquishes every other right.

There is always competition about life, and the more significantly we live, the more are we conscious of burdens and the more are we willing to bear them.

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

By RERYL SIOENFIELD
(Subbing for Jack Stinnett)
Washington—The dramatic story of the clandestine broadcasts by Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, betrayed by OWI to Japanese-occupied Manila can now be disclosed.

Murphy's shortwave messages of encouragement to Filipino guerrillas were transmitted all through the hills of the islands under the name of "Kilo." Kilo is a radio call sign.
"Frank" is the name under which the last governor-general of the Philippines, the late Commissioner of the Philippines, was known there.

"Nowhere in the world during this present war has the people in any area put up a more valiant fight than did the Filipinos," Murphy declared in his first broadcast, March 24, 1943, the anniversary of the Tydings-McDuffie Act and Philippine independence.

November 15, 1943, the seventh anniversary of the declaration of independence of the Philippines, was dedicated.
"I have a tremendous faith in you on the next anniversary of independence," he said. "The Japanese will be brief in their occupation and will be brief in their rule."
"One day in the not distant future, you will see the American fleet—stars and stripes—sailing proudly into Manila Bay. It will be final assurance that independence did not end in the blasted tunnels of Corregidor."

That the Japanese were paying attention to these pronouncements was evident when Hideo Toyko blared: "If Governor-General Murphy wanted to be frank, he would have said—the American fleet
will come—drawn up in readiness, and only that part which has not been sunk!"

The Japanese, from their Murphy was able to broadcast on the ninth anniversary of the independence.
"Your Japanese slave masters
sneered at those words and called them absurd and ridiculous."
I wonder how absurd and ridiculous the Japanese High Command believes that statement to be today.
How that units of the United States
fleet have met, defeated, and routed,
a substantial portion of the Japanese fleet in Philippine waters.

Admitting there was "yet no cause for celebration or rejoicing," Murphy added, "but we can take just pride in the accomplishment."

The military genius and fighting strength which is symbolized
by the names of Guadalcanal, Coral Sea, Hollandia, Morotai, Pa-
lau, and Tieloban."

In his last broadcast to the Philippines, shortly before recapture of Manila, Murphy said:
"The dead of Bataan did not die in vain. For they have stood through these dark days as bright beacons of hope, hope for the future
when no Filipino need bow his head
nor bend his knee but to his God."

Japs Fire Borneo . . .

steadily against only light to moderate opposition on two main fronts.
Lt. Gen. R. L. Morhead predicted at a press conference that "the real fighting is yet to come."
He said the Borneo campaign will be impeded by rivers, swamps and mountains and lack of roads. He foresees a "tedious and arduous campaign" and said: "The Jap will run with the best of them but when trapped he will fight to the death."
There were indications the Japnese had made a planned withdrawal from the invasion sector.
They had strewn numerous booby
traps and left dummy wooden guns
in unoccupied pillboxes in efforts to delay the Australians' advance.
Sheet steel and pipe in an area
MacArthur visited Sunday, near Brooketon, indicated the Japanese had planned to construct a naval depot there.

One small group of natives was seen at Brooketon.
Don Starr, representing the combined American press, radioed that the sultan presumably had fled to the mountains, along with his reg-ed harem, to await a safe return
under British rule.

Fifty British civil administration
officials raised the Union Jack over Government House in Victoria town, buan Island, where a major landing occurred Sunday.

Labuan was the first of the Malay
Straits Settlements to be liberated.
Fighting on Labuan was stiffer than that encountered on the main island, but the veteran "Rats of Torbruk," supplemented by Australian dismounted cavalry Commando units, secured a perimeter two miles north of captured Labuan airfield.

They were sending patrols probing through the low rolling hills, which are covered with a coconut and rubber plantation.

The southern portion of Labuan is swampy flat land, covered with dense mangrove forestation.

The Australian and American 13th Airforce bombers and fighters provided close support for the advancing ground forces. On Labuan island, Tambal airstrip, still held by the enemy, was hit heavily while other planes smashed at Jesselton on the mainland to the north and at Weston and Beaufort along the northeast rim of the broad, green waters of Brunei Bay. In 170 sorties, Liberators, Mitchells, Lightnings and Beaufighters dropped 163 tons on selected targets in this area on Sunday, paying particular attention to a narrow gauge rail line running from Beaufort to Weston. It is believed that the enemy may be unable to work the problem out.
There will be further discussion of the Polish situation at the Big
Three meeting, he added.

The Chief Executive said that
Press Secretary Charles G. Ross also would accompany him to the Big Three meeting and that he would
do everything possible to see that American newspapers get equality
of treatment as to the conference
developments, which in itself, he added, will necessarily be secret.

To Seek Senate . . .

both Senate and House of taking a recess once appropriations and other urgent legislation are out of the way.
The Senate had a pretest in a six-hour session yesterday of the sort of debate the San Francisco agreement may produce.
First, in a lengthy prepared talk,
Senator Burton R-Ohio applauded
the agreement as it is developing.
He said the work done thus far shows marked improvement on the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, and he pronounced the charter "well within" the Senate's declared policy on participation in an international peace organization.

The veto power "Big Five" members may exercise against use of armed force, "is a strong argument in favor of the special interests of the United States under the charter."

These records, along with that of
the trustees' hearings were marked
for identification, but not sworn into evidence. The state experts to introduce the records later during
the trial.

Richard K. Law, speaking for the British Foreign Office, told Commons today that "The early release
of these men would, I am sure, contribute to the success" of the Moscow consultations.

"The Soviet government is well
aware of the desire of the British government for full information
about the Polish leaders who are
under arrest in Russia," he said.
Law indicated that the release of
the 16, some of whom are believed
affiliated with the exiled government, might be sought at the conference.

At his press conference on Polish development, the British
Foreign Office commentator said:
"Mr. Harry Hopkins' visit to Moscow achieved this success."

Says Meeting . . .

ularly with persuading the Russians to yield from their stand on the Big Five power veto at San Francisco. Asked if Hopkins' mission had anything to do with that,
he replied: Categoricaly did.

He said Hopkins also discussed the recent arrests of 16 Poles in Russia, which brought about a halt to Polish issue negotiations at San Francisco.

Mr. Truman said he had no announcement about the arrested Poles at this time. He cautioned reporters that every effort is being made to work the problem out.
There will be further discussion of
the Polish situation at the Big
Three meeting, he added.

The Chief Executive said that
Press Secretary Charles G. Ross al-
so would accompany him to the Big Three meeting and that he would
do everything possible to see that American newspapers get equality
of treatment as to the conference
developments, which in itself, he
added, will necessarily be secret.

State Gives . . .

$125 by college checks and the remaining $50 in cash by Dr. Meadows. He admitted he signed another statement at Dr. Meadows' request saying he was paid extra for extra work at the college, but on re-direct examination said he signed the statement after the investigation was started in 1943. He said he did see a pistol in Gating's car but insisted he never was threatened. He was unable to remember details of some other work he did.

Taylor said he was paid $56 in two $28 payments, and the state sought to show that Meadows retained a total of $250 on the receipts. Taylor too, said he signed another statement after the investigation started, that he was requested to do so by Meadows.

Two states witnesses took the stand yesterday as the prosecution opened its case. Miss Lillian Henry a stenographer at the college, identified the typewritten proceedings of the hearings. Miss Henry said on cross examination that witnesses at the board meeting were not sworn.

The other state witness to take the stand yesterday was J. B. Congleton of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company. He identified approximately 250 items, mostly checks and receipts, as bearing the signature of the defendant.

These records, along with that of
the trustees' hearings were marked
for identification, but not sworn
into evidence. The state experts to introduce the records later during
the trial.

Richard K. Law, speaking for the British Foreign Office, told Com-
mons today that "The early release
of these men would, I am sure, contribute to the success" of the Mos-
cow consultations.

"The Soviet government is well
aware of the desire of the British
government for full information
about the Polish leaders who are
under arrest in Russia," he said.
Law indicated that the release of
the 16, some of whom are believed
affiliated with the exiled government, might be sought at the conference.

At his press conference on
Polish development, the British
Foreign Office commentator said:
"Mr. Harry Hopkins' visit to Moscow achieved this success."

Expect Early . . .

Optimism reflected in Moscow dispatches was accepted as strong evidence to support unconfirmed
reports that some or all of the 16
missing Poles who helped direct underground activities for the London Polish government had been released by the Russians.

Richard K. Law, speaking for the

VETERANS ARE CLUB GUESTS

Winterville Ruritan Club Welcomes Home Boys

By CHESTER WALSH
Sgt. Charles H. Little, infantryman in the 36th American Division,
who was a prisoner of war in Germany about 20 months and liberated by the Russian Army on April 22 this year, is back home at Winterville. He was given a warm welcome by the Ruritan Club at its meeting last night. Little gave an interesting recital of his experiences. Sgt. Reed McLawhorn, radioman on a B29, based in India,
has also returned to his home in Winterville. He was recently honorably discharged from the Army.
McLawhorn's talk to the Ruritans was very interesting. The people of Winterville provide a warm welcome for their boys in the armed forces when they come home. President Graham Olive presided.
Chicken supper was served.

STORM CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE

Big Fire At Louisburg Was Caused By Lightning

Durham, June 13—(AP)—A storm accompanied by hail, lightning and winds of cyclonic proportions considerably damaged crops and farm buildings in northern Durham County early last night and is reported to have touched off a fire which burned all night and destroyed practically an entire business
block at Louisburg.

Roofs were ripped off of farm buildings in Life Bahama and Rougemont areas, tobacco crops on several farms were riddled by hail,
and heavy rains damaged farm lands by washing away top soil.

The fire at Louisburg broke out during the storm, according to Chief of Police C. L. Cash of Louisburg, and is believed to have been caused by lightning. Fire trucks had to be called in from Camp Butter and Henderson and the blaze
was not brought under control until around 7 o'clock this morning.

Cash said stores razed were located on Market and Nash streets and included a five and ten cent store,
a shoe shop, a dry goods firm, a meat market and grocery, a candy company, and a drug store. No estimate of the damage was available today, but Cash said it would amount to well over $130,000.

Sgt. Reed McLawhorn of Winterville, radioman and spare gunner in an American B-29, based in India, a former ROTC student, had some exciting experiences with the Nipponese over China and Japan.
He entered the armed forces in 1943. McLawhorn participated in 25 bombing missions. His ship made a forced landing 20 miles from a Japanese camp, but Chinese hid them and assisted them to get back to their own base. McLawhorn said most of the people of India are pro-Japanese, but the Chinese are great people. They would not allow the Americans to pay for anything.

After the Ruritan meeting last night the members quizzed Little and McLawhorn for an hour and they made better speeches than during the meeting.

Spain Ready To Release Tangier

Madrid, June 13—(AP)—It was learned today Spain had notified Britain informally that she is ready to negotiate the return of the international status of Tangier, strategic Moroccan port zone. Spanish and British sources here said the notification was made verbally.
Spain took over the occupation of Tangier in June, 1940, after the fall of France.

London, June 13—(AP)—A Foreign Office commentator said today that the United States is "among the interested powers" in preliminary exchanges over the return of Tangier to international status.

Yanks Crack Jap . . .

mouth to pour forth machinegun
fire.

The Japanese defense pattern was an old, familiar one, seen on many a Pacific island. But the trick of hauling the flame-throwing hose up slopes which stalled tanks eased that going somewhat.

In Honolulu, Col. George F. Un-nach, chemical officer who designed the extensions, said:
"We are gratified, of course, at the success of these weapons. However, we are not through yet. More surprises are coming up but let the Japs hear about them first."

Associated Press Correspondent
Dopping told in a front dispatch low elements of Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Infantry Division got atop hill 95 on the east flank of the escarpment Monday by first spraying the summit with flames from a hose attached to a tank. Then the Yanks climbed hand over hand up a rope attached to a boulder and won that strategic height southwest of Hanagusuku.
Since then, these 32nd regiment infantrymen have pushed down the south slope, despite heavy enemy
fire.

Huyun was recaptured on June 9 and the Chinese advanced 19 miles to the north. It was originally taken by the Japanese as part of a plan to protect the approaches to Canton and Hankow to enable the enemy to move troops quickly to the west coast of Hainan in the event of an American invasion.
In Kienow Province strong Chinese units on June 9 penetrated Japanese lines between Nankang and Sinfeng, cutting the escape route to the north, particularly for those Japanese holding the former American air base at Kienow which was abandoned Jan. 30.

ASKS PROBE OF DEBT RELEASE

Elliot Roosevelt Settled $200,000 For $4,000

New York, June 13.—(AP)—Carruthers Ewing, general counsel for the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, says a $200,000 loan to Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt from John Hartford, president of the A. and P., was settled for $4,000.
Hartford yesterday termed "substantially correct" a story in Westbrook Peegler's column syndicated by Kings Features, that the son of the late President borrowed the $200,000 in 1939. Roosevelt could not be reached for comment.

Peegler's account "is not the whole story but it is substantially correct," Hartford said, adding, "I would not have made it public myself and I regret very much that it has been published."

Ewing said in Danville, Ill., the debt was settled three years later "at the request of the Roosevelt family" through the then secretary of commerce, Jesse Jones.

"The loan," Ewing said, "was written off by Mr. Hartford in his 1932 income tax report as a bad debt."

Peegler said in his column: "Hartford then loaned Elliott the $200,000, taking as collateral stocks in business interests in which Elliott was concerned. Hartford closed the transaction on March 17, 1942. He never demanded payment and only made inquiries regarding the stock." Finally, he wrote off the $200,000 in his income tax returns as an uncollectible debt and the net result has been that Elliott Roosevelt got $200,000 for his business and the treasuries of the United States and the State of New York have lost the high bracket taxes that Hartford otherwise would have had to pay on the money.

"There is no doubt that the President knew of the loan and approved it."

Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) declared Congress should investigate the transaction.

In a Senate speech, Bridges said: "It's a thing you can't pass by with the lifting of an eyebrow or the winking of an eye. It is something that is a moral and ethical issue, and also concerns the taxpayers of the country who helped make it up when the loan was written off by Mr. Hartford."

"This is something Congress should not pass by," Bridges repeated. "If it is not true, it should be made known and Elliott Roosevelt's name cleared. If it is true, that should be brought out and condemned and action taken."

Senator Johnston (D-S.C.) asked if Bridges also wanted to investigate "everybody in the United States who has lost money. Bridges rejoined that there were unusual circumstances about the reported transaction "which make it a very peculiar and unique case."

A few months ago Bridges conducted an extensive inquiry into the transportation of young Roosevelt's dog, Blaze, across the continent by air.

To Hold Revival At Belvoir School

Rev. J. D. Henderson of Spartanburg, S. C. will begin a revival meeting Sunday afternoon at 4:00 in the Belvoir School House. Services will be held each night at 8:30. Mr. Henderson has preached in several churches in the county and has won many friends. During the last three weeks he has had 96 to come forward for church membership in his meetings. This shows something of the power of the man and of the accompanying presence of God's Holy Spirit.

A Bible School will be held each morning at 9:00-11:30. This Bible School and Revival is sponsored by the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church of which the Rev. Hayes Clark is pastor. Children of all ages are urged to come to learn the lessons of the Christ and lively choruses.

SPEAKERS AT BAR MEETING

Judge Frizzelle And Ralph Howland Special Guests

By CHESTER WALSH
 Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill was guest of honor at the Pitt County Bar Association's supper meeting at Nelson Hopkins' restaurant near the city last night. Attorney Julius M. Brown presented the Greene county jurist as "the best trial judge on the North Carolina bench."

Judge Frizzelle was reminiscent in his interesting talk. He stressed the point that the advancing years of lawyers and others should not bring fear and apprehension, but a full appreciation of life, law and values and he encouraged his hearers to face the future with stout hearts and optimism.

State Senator Arthur B. Corey introduced Ralph Howland, manager of the Associated Press branch in Raleigh and now reporting the Meadows trial here, who made an interesting talk about news gathering. Howland emphasized the unalterable principle of the Associated Press in giving the news in truth and fact through its 1,400 newspapers and over the radio and the wires. Beyond all the news must be truthful and decent to be handled by the Associated Press, he declared. He described in detail how news stories are broken down into local, state, national and international items and stories. He described the process of sending pictures by telegraph, telephone and radio from foreign countries to the United States, and then forwarded to points of publication or distribution by wire and radio.

Howland impressed the lawyers when he stated that there is now in process of development machinery whereby facsimile news items and stories may be sent by radio.

Judge J. W. H. Roberts, president of the Bar Association, presided. Willard Gatling of Raleigh, SBI agent, said the invocation. The association went on record as favoring the holding of the annual meeting of the District Bar Association Dick Bundy, Public Relations Committee chairman, announced that arrangements have been made for the association to have a speaker on WGTC each Monday night at 10:15. Compulsory military training will come up for discussion at the July meeting.

A message of sympathy was sent to John R. Barker who is ill.

Army Joins Drive On Black Markets

Washington, June 13—(AP)—The Army joined today in a drive against black markets.

The War Department announced that Army representatives will be stationed at highway check posts in eight states to make spot purchases and seizures of any poultry found to be moving into illicit channels.

The Army's action was taken, the Department said, at the request of War Mobilizer William Davis. A survey in recent weeks has shown, the Department declared, that "quantities of poultry, some of which should have gone to the Army, have been trucked to black market outlets."

England didn't use the ballot system of voting until 1872.

Prices On Live Poultry Reduced

Raleigh, June 14—The Raleigh District Office of Price Administration announced today that prices on live, dressed and drawn poultry will be reduced effective today as much as three cents per pound at retail under a new OPA Community Ceiling Price Order which covers 54 Eastern North Carolina counties.

The new OPA ceiling price for live broilers, fryers and roasters will be 38 cents per pound as compared with the former ceiling price of 41 cents. Live hens will sell for three cents less per pound as the ceiling drops from 37 cents per pound. The new prices are effective from June 14 through July 11.

Dressed poultry prices will not drop as much as live prices. Dressed broilers, fryers and roasters will sell for no more than 48 cents per pound as compared with 50 cents previously.

Drawn poultry will drop an average of two cents per pound with the best grade broilers and fryers weighing under two and a half pounds, selling for 61 cents per pound as compared with 63 cents.

OPA emphasized that these ceiling prices are for A-1 poultry and that lower grades must sell for lower prices.

Farmers selling at retail may charge the same as the Group 1 stores and for A-1 poultry. These prices are quoted above.

Much Interest In Revival At Chicod

Crowds continue to attend the revival services being conducted in the Chicod School Auditorium. Rev. Sam Zealy of Greensboro, Ga., has stirred the hearts of the many who have heard him. It seems like the old-fashioned revival times where souls were saved. Faithful preaching of the Gospel from the Bible has brought many nearer to God. Tonight is Meadowbrook night in the meeting. The sermon will be "The Gerson Cord."

Thursday night is Farmers' Night and the sermon will be on "Fifteen Minute Crop." Friday night, "Sowing and Reaping."

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the sermon will be "How to Live the Christian Life." A Baptismal service and reception of new members will be held. There will be a basket lunch for all served on the school grounds. Every one is invited to all of these meetings and to the Basket Lunch.

CHURCH GROUP MAKES REPORT

Local Council Sponsored Many Religious Activities

At the June meeting of the Greenville Council of Churches, this week there was a short review of the work which the cooperating body of the churches has done. Of particular interest was the program of the month which was in the nature of a report from the various denominations of the student-work carried on in connection with East Carolina Teachers College students. Reports of student secretaries of the various churches were supplemented with various statements from representative students of each denomination.

In a statement reviewing the work of the past year, Rev. A. Hartwell Campbell, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, called to attention some of the outstanding contributions made by the Council of Churches. In January of this year there was an institute of religious education at which training was given in each department of the Sunday school. At the institute there were more than a hundred persons who attended one or more of the five day sessions. This effort was the direct result of a study conducted by the Council of Churches on the teaching activities of the churches.

The council was responsible for the return engagement of Dr. F. Cressley Morgan, Bible teacher and preacher for a week of lectures. Dr. Morgan presented two messages daily for one week which met with great approval from the public.

One other week which the council observed was the week of prayer services at the Presbyterian Church, when local ministers brought lengthen messages. This was climaxed with a community communion service in which all the churches participated.

For the coming year the organization is planning to sponsor the Bible in the public schools which met with such favor during the two years when Mrs. Isabelle Reid was employed by the council. As soon as plans can be completed this course will be introduced again.

Plans are also under consideration for the second annual institute of religious education. Speakers are now being invited for this week of training next January.

The Greenville Council of Churches has proven a most helpful organization for the active cooperation of the churches of the city in areas of Christian life in which their objectives can be translated in activities for the good of the entire community.

Churches which are members of the Council of Churches are as follows: Memorial Baptist Church, Emmanuel Baptist Church, Eighth Street Christian Church, Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, Pentecostal Holiness Church, and the First Presbyterian Church.

Rankin Reports On Tobacco Crop

R. C. Bob Rankin, sales supervisor for the Greenville tobacco market, issued the following report today.

For the second time since May 15th good rains and warm, growing weather have followed a cool, and in some sections a cool, dry spell. The unfavorable weather caused quite a bit of the East Belt tobacco crop to shatter up and harden to a certain degree and to button out prematurely; however, the more favorable seasons of the past few days are fast offsetting these troubles. At the present time tobacco is a good healthy, green color; it is growing rapidly and spreading nicely, fast climbing to a peak condition. There are some complaints of a low leaf count per stalk, with predictions of tobacco being topped lower than last year but generally speaking, the condition of the Eastern Carolina crop as a whole is very satisfactory.

While the present outlook is bright and everyone is optimistic, reasons for the next week will determine the volume and the quality of the crop in the East Belt. At this time it is in the "making stage" and everything depends on continued warm weather, especially warm nights, with rains at the right time.

Saturday, June 2nd brought rain and wind accompanied by hail in many instances, to the greater part of the Belt and a period of very cool weather followed. Hail reports come from many communities, but in nearly every case damage has been light. Indefinite reports indicate the worst damage was suffered by Johnston County growers. Approximately 1,500 acres of tobacco was damaged in Greene, the losses ranging from 5 per cent to 10 per cent with a few reports of 20 per cent loss or more. About 150 claims for hail damage were filed in Pitt with the average loss light, running from 5 per cent to 10 per cent. Bertie, Hertford, Lenoir and possibly one or two other counties had hail over smaller areas. In the latter named counties losses ran from two to ten per cent.
