Plan Air Attacks On Jap Homeland

Two Separate Heavy Bombing Forces To Be Used; Tokyo Reports Reconnaissance Flights Preparatory By Americans Preparatory to New Assaults

Washington, June 21—(AP)—The strategic bombing of Japan will be carried out by two separate heavy bombardment forces, the 20th and the 8th.

This was disclosed today in a new conference with Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, chief of the 8th Air Force which now is being redeployed from Europe to the Pacific area.

In answer to a question about the general setup, Doolittle said:

"The 8th will be under my command; the directives will come from the joint chiefs of staff."

This will parallel operations of the 20th Air Force, commanded by Gen. H. H. Arnold, with Lt. Gen. Barney Giles, the deputy commander in the Pacific.

The 21st Bomber Command, (a part of the 20th Air Force), based at Saipan, has been conducting the attack on the Japanese home islands. The 20th is directed from Washington and the strategy is determined by the joint chiefs of staff here.

Doolittle said that Colorado Springs, Colo., will be the headquarters of the 8th Air Force while it is retraining in this country.

Asked whether the 8th would use only the Superfortresses used by the 20th, Doolittle said that the "decision to date is to have B-29s and such other ships as are needed." He was unable to say whether the B-17s used along with the B-24s in the bombardment of Germany, would be part of the 8th Air Force in the Pacific.

He said the 8th hoped to have long-range fighters as part of its Pacific organization.

While Doolittle gave no further details on the Pacific air organization, he said there would be an announcement on the strategic command in that area soon.

He said he believed Japan would be easier to destroy industrially than Germany because:

1. There is a greater concentration of Japanese industry than was found in Germany.

2. The targets in Japan are more inflammable.

3. The Japanese war economy and industry do not have the recuperative power which Germany had.

4. The Japanese, he said, had not had time to put their factories underground as the Germans were doing in the closing months of the war.

MEADOWS CASE DRAGS ALONG

State Auditor Under Cross Examination Today

The defense tried to show today that M. L. Widenhouse changed his testimony in this trial as compared with that he gave in the first trial of Dr. Leon R. Meadows, former president of East Carolina Teachers College.

On cross examination, Widenhouse said that Meadows gave him 2,700 checks covering a 10-year period immediately preceding an investigation of Dr. Meadows' handling of special and student funds. Widenhouse also said that Dr. Meadows had given permission for an inspection of his personal bank account.

The State yesterday concluded its direct examination of Widenhouse, and the defense immediately attacked his testimony as having varied from that he gave in the original trial last spring.

The auditor's testimony while dealing with numerous items the State charge were involved in the court ruling in the admissibility of the State concentrated chiefly on two items, the Baker-Davis account and the Bolling item.

The first involved a check of $678, which Meadows proffered "in payment of two cars of cement. E. L. Baker, head of the Baker-Davis Co., testified earlier in the trial. Baker said his firm made no such delivery to the college and that he returned the check to Meadows.

In connection with the other item, the State charges that R. C. Bolling of Norfolk, Va., a piano tuner who had done work for the college, endorsed a college check for $503.05 over to Meadows and that the latter converted the funds to his own account.

Counsel for State and defense engaged in a sharp legal battle yesterday, and the jury was excluded from the court room while they argued as to the admissibility of a letter in the first trial directing that the defendant be found innocent of nine of the 16 counts on which he was originally indicted by the Pitt County Grand Jury.

Laval Offers To Surrender

Madrid, June 21—(AP)—Pierre Laval, former Vichy chief of government who fled to Spain shortly before the German collapse, has now promised to surrender voluntarily to French justice when he completes preparations for his defense. It was learned on good authority today.

Laval's offer was said to have been made in a letter to the Spanish government.

The French government has requested that Laval be delivered to France to stand trial for treason, but the Spanish government has refused under terms of an old French-Spanish extradition treaty whereby prisoners are exempted from extradition if it is against their will. The Spanish have hinted that France was sheltering a number of Spanish leftists which the Madrid regime would like to have returned.

Jaycees Will Collect Paper

This nation needs waste paper to help win the war. Each hour of every day this country needs thousands of pounds of paper not only for civilian necessities but also for use in war programs. Cardboard containers, for instance, by the thousands, are needed to carry supplies to the Army.

If this paper is not available immediately it will slow up these supplies and the production of war materials.

Right now there is a more critical paper shortage than ever before and place it in front of your home before two o'clock.

The Jaycees will be out as usual at 2 p. m. and will collect paper until the entire town has been canvassed.

Conference Will Come To End Next Tuesday

New World League Charter Completed; President Truman Will Address Final Session

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Diplomatic News Editor
San Francisco, June 21—(AP)—A charter embracing the views of 50 United Nations was wrapped up today into a world document designed to maintain peace.

President Truman, now taking a brief holiday in Washington State, will bring the United Nations conference to a formal close with a speech on international affairs Tuesday afternoon.

Until that time the delegates of the 50 nations represented here will be busy with a variety of technical problems and speech-making sessions. But the real work of the conference, which met April 25, is accomplished.

It reached that stage last night. A committee approved an Australian-Russian compromise empowering the proposed general assembly of the United Nations to discuss and make recommendations on any question "within the scope of the charter" written here.

This ended a long struggle by small nations to make the assembly a "town meeting of the world" potentially capable of exerting the pressure of public opinion on the big-power-controlled security council, even though it could exercise no control over the council directly.

Victor Andrade of Bolivia, chairman of the committee, presiding over the proposed assembly, said he would discuss and make recommendations on any question "within the scope of the charter" written here.

The last commission session to go over a chapter of the charter was called today to receive the report of Andrade's committee. From the stage of commission action the conference will move through plenary sessions in which the four commissions will formally report various sections of the charter for approval.

Secretary of State Stettinius announced yesterday that the charter would be signed Monday. A special room, with a huge round table, blue-covered against a background of United Nations flags, has been prepared for that ceremony.

The President will arrive Monday in time for the signing and will remain through the closing session about 24 hours later. When he leaves to fly back to Washington by way of his hometown, Independence, Mo., he will take the charter with him to submit to the Senate with a plea of speedy ratification.

Among sections of the charter which won committee approval yesterday and last night was a charter setting up a system of international trusteeships for government of internationally-held territories and also setting forth standards for colonial powers in the government of all dependent peoples.

Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, who had fought for the promise of independence for such peoples, hailed the statement of standards in a commission speech.

Documents Show Nazis Planned World War III

By TOM REEDY
Washington, June 21—(AP)—A Senate committee said today it has obtained secret German documents showing how the Nazis intend to "hide" in strategic industries while planning "a third attempt at world conquest."

The announcement was made by Chairman Kilgore (D-W. Va.) of the War Mobilization subcommittee of the Senate Military group.

Kilgore said his committee will open hearings next Monday on the economic base for German aggression and that additional facts will be brought out.

The announcement contained a report on a meeting of German industrialists at Strasbourg, August 10, 1944, intended to make postwar plans.

This document, Kilgore said, "is evidence of how German industry worked hand in hand with the Nazi party to unloose against the world a war of aggression."

to the broad economy of Germany. The document on the secret meeting quoted a Dr. Scheid as saying that at that moment, "German industry must realize that the war can not be won and that it must take steps in preparation for a postwar commercial campaign."

Each industrialist must make contacts and alliances with foreign firms, but this must be done gradually and without attracting suspicion.

At another meeting, Kilgore said, the Nazis told the industrialists that the war was lost and they must prepare themselves to finance the Nazi party which would be forced to go underground.

From that point on the document went on, the Nazi government would allocate large sums to industrialists so that each could establish a secure postwar foundation in foreign countries.

It was suggested further that the big firms set up small research units not connected with their factories adding:

More Than 30,000 Falling Back Before Onrushing 37th Infantry Division

By SPENCER DAVIS
Manila, June 21—(AP)—A force of possibly 30,000 Japanese was headed north up the Cagayan Valley today by onrushing columns of the 37th Ohio Infantry Division toward three Igorots bent on adding them to the more than 400,000 enemy casualties on Luzon.

The Nipponese were falling back on Aparri, a scant 100 miles ahead of the 37th advance patrols, with nowhere to go once they reach that northernmost city on Luzon.

On the west side of the Cagayan River, which splits the valley, the Igorots and other Filipino guerrillas waited in long-prepared positions to frustrate the Nipponese attempt to find refuge among the wild, spiny ridges of the Cordillera Mountains.

Maj. Robert S. Beightler's Buckeyes drove unchecked north of captured Iligan and its grass-grown airstrip. The backtracking foe was hounded by planes, some flown by Mexican pilots, which are making as many as 300 sorties a day in support of the Luzon operations.

Latest field advices added 336 more Japanese to the daily mounting casualty lists.

On Borneo, Australian forces have made a new landing, this time at the northern head of Brunei Bay to give them control of "the shores bordering both entrances into the bay," headquarters announced today.

The diggers crossed the five-mile strait from, previously captured Labuan Island in a move which would block any attempt of the Japanese to attack from Jesselton, 60 miles north.

Headquarters reported another in the daily series of attacks by heavy bombers on the oil center of Balikpapan on Borneo's east coast but still said nothing concerning reinforcements.

Casualties Well Over A Million
Washington, June 21—(AP)—United States battle casualties in World War 2 now total 1,923,453, an increase of 6,356 from those reported a week ago.

The Army casualties reported today represented the period extending through the greater part of May and the increased apparently represented mainly Pacific action.

Of the total, 903,701 are Army casualties and 1,019,752 Navy.

Army casualties reported this week and a week ago follow:

Killed 189,294 and 187,369; wounded 599,826 and 558,611; missing 39,956 and 42,710; prisoners (before liberations) 113,615 and 111,262.

The Navy figures:

Killed 45,417 and 44,769; wounded 59,196 and 57,402; missing 10,980 and 10,736; prisoners 4,231 and 4,238.

STILWELL TO HEAD TENTH

Will Take Over Command of Late Lt. Gen. Buckner

By SPENCER DAVIS
Manila, June 21—(AP)—Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, switched from his post as chief of army ground forces to the Pacific, has been selected by Gen. Douglas MacArthur to command the U. S. 10th Army now mopping up on Okinawa, it was announced today.

The veteran Japanese fighter's transfer to the Pacific Ocean area theater and his appointment to the command vacated by the death in action of Okinawa of Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., was announced from MacArthur's headquarters.

The assignment culminated a series of conferences among Stilwell, MacArthur and other field commanders in the Pacific area recently, and it is assumed he will (Continued on Page Three)

Gen. Buckner's Prediction Of Victory By Tomorrow Fulfilled; Tokyo Now Wondering Where Americans Will Strike Next; Okinawa Fighting Cost Japs 90,000 Men

By ROBBIN COONS
Guam, June 21—(AP)—The end of the Okinawa campaign after 82 days of savage fighting was announced by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz today, giving American forces a strategic base only 325 miles from Japan.

Costliest of all the Central and Western Pacific campaigns, the battle of Okinawa took a toll of 35,116 Americans killed and wounded to four weeks ago, and cost the enemy more than 90,000 dead.

While the big guns of the fleet and the artillery battalions fell silent, U. S. 10th Army forces still hammered with tanks and flamethrowers at two small pockets on the southern tip of the island, mopping up a handful of Japanese who refused to surrender.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz in a special communique declared all organized resistance had been ended. His announcement was made shortly after Gen. MacArthur reported from Manila that Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, chief of Army ground forces, would take over command of the 10th Army.

Victory was made three days after Stilwell's predecessor, Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., was killed by a Japanese shell burst as he watched the final, decisive assault.

It fulfilled Buckner's prediction, made a short time before he was struck down.

The general's stand cost the Japanese 87,343 killed and 2,565 taken prisoner up until Tuesday, and the few soldiers still beside him were hungry, thirsty and short on ammunition.

U. S. Army and Navy casualties from March 18—when fleet units bombed Japan's Inland Sea in preparation for the invasion—to May 24, were 9,602 killed and 25,514 wounded—but they do not include the last four violent weeks of the campaign.

Largest Japanese island captured by Nimitz's forces, Okinawa was invaded Easter Sunday, April 1, with two strategic objectives:

First was the lightning of the Iwo Jima air base. The second was to provide fields for large numbers of American bombers to hammer Japan into surrender or to soften (Continued on page six)

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, June 21—(AP)—Congressmen have been flying to Europe in relays since the war ended. They go to inspect this, that or the other thing. Then they fly back. Some make reports. Some don't.

But what do they think while they're whirling around Europe? How much will they remember? Just to be sure he'd have some record, one such congressman kept a diary.

This was Rep. Edward Herbert, Louisiana Democrat, who went over with a group. Every night before he went to bed he wrote his impressions of the day.

His notes total about 22,000 words. He said I could poke around in the congressional mind and help myself to the notes. I used to work with him when he was city editor of the New Orleans States.

His party went to Bermuda, England, Paris, Bremen, Munich, met General Eisenhower, had an audience with the Pope in Rome, visited Naples and the French Riviera and Casa Blanca, returned by way of Scotland.

Two dominant notes run through his diary: The destruction and poverty of Europe and talk of Russia and communism every place he went. "Everywhere without exception," he wrote in his diary, "communism crept into the conversa-

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Tokyo radio, broadcasting as though it had something new, distasteful today from its recent fretting over imminent invasion to reticent that the United States has started long and complicated preparations against Japan.

That's not exactly what you would call a military secret. Aside from unconditional surrender, the Japanese have no other future, and there are few signs that is being considered. Tokyo broadcasts on the subject are almost identical with those which emanated from Berlin a few months ago. One official broadcast that, for the Japanese people, "there is no choice but to take death."

The big question is when we will be able to deliver that death. It can be answered specifically only by events.

Clean-up operations are proceeding throughout the Pacific while the invasion preparations go forward. Important troop contingents, released by the victory in Europe, will begin to arrive soon.

another staging area, so to speak, in Japan proper. This would involve capture of some outer area which could be filled with the necessary strength for the climatic attack against the heart of Honshu. This would be comparable with the establishment of the Normandy beachhead and the subsequent breakthrough toward Germany, except that in the Japanese islands it might take on more of the aspects of two separate invasions and therefore require more time. It could work like the Salerno-Anzio hop in Italy, or could involve taking one of the smaller islands before Honshu is attempted.

This is indicated by the fact that Okinawa is hardly large enough to base forces of the size which will be involved. The initial invasion of Japan, for various reasons, is likely to require considerably more men than did Normandy. Okinawa seems destined to become one big aircraft carrier, too crowded for a large army, although it may prove a big help as a jump-off point for certain short-range forces.

From Casablanca to the Elbe, America's share of the war in Europe lasted 30 months. If we think of England as the Philippines, Iwo and Okinawa as Iceland and northern Ireland, and China as Africa, we find ourselves now in much the same position in the Pacific as the (Continued on Page Four)

Chapter 15

It was late when Kay went to the dressing room. Several girls were there. She heard their voices through the cigarette smoke and the music from the orchestra.

"Kay, she's lovely. She'll be like a sister to you."

"Oh, Kay, the divinest music."

"That's a sweet dress, Kay. But isn't Mrs. Lambert gorgeous?"

Babs Downs and Mary Scott came in and gradually the others left. Babs said, with a trace of bitterness, "She's charming tonight, Kay. The queen graciously smiling on all her subjects—and especially on Jimmy."

Kay nodded from the mirror. "I hope Daddy doesn't see it," she said fiercely. "I'd rather have a job as sweeper in the mill than to have to live with her."

"You know I'm sorry, Kay," Mary broke in. "It hurts dreadfully to see what she's doing to Katherine's home, and to you. But you know what your mother would say: 'It's the wealth of the spirit that counts.'"

Kay turned from the door. "Yes," she agreed, "she'd say that, wouldn't she?"

The music changed, became faster and faster. Jimmy swung into the center of the room in a series of fast, intricate steps. Her feet scarcely touched the floor; her cheeks were glowing; her copper curls were gay and disordered.

When they stopped amid loud applause, Kay saw her father's affectionate smile turned upon her by the jealousy in Lucia's black eyes; the boredom on the faces of the guests from Atlanta. Then she felt her glance drawn to the door and saw Rex Warner standing there. Their eyes met for a fleeting instant and exchanged a thousand tender and uncharted thoughts.

She hastened to him, smiling a joyful welcome. "This is a happy surprise," she cried. "I was trying to watch for you after your note came."

"I drove faster than the law allows to get here," his glance moved about the room. "But I don't see how you missed me. There's such a crowd here."

"Yes. Come and meet Lucia and Francis."

They crossed the room to her father and Lucia. "This is Dr. Warner," she told them, and her voice held a cadence of joy.

Lucia raised her eyes to the doctor's face. He looked at her closely this woman whose coming had made Kay unhappy. Certainly she was a work of art, hard and brilliant, sure of what she wanted, but lovely to look upon. Almost any man favored by her attention would feel the stir of pride.

He murmured something, out of Kay's hearing. Where was I even here? Rex danced well. Not as well as Jimmy, but then what else did Jimmy ever do except dance?

"You saved the night for me," she whispered happily.

"How?"

"By coming here. I was having a miserable time."

You seemed to be having fun when you were dancing with the young man over there who's dancing at me now."

"It wasn't nearly as nice as dancing with you," she confessed.

He bent his dark head over the light one that came even with his heart. "You dance like a dream," he said.

She stilled happily. "It can be acquired," she whispered. "All one needs is inspiration."

"Well, how do you like my new partner?" Kay asked.

Remembering Lucia's venomous glance toward Kay, his arm tightened protectively about her. "Perhaps it's better not to answer," he said slowly. "I'm thinking of your real mother—the portrait down at the hospital."

Kay bit her lip. "Don't," she said. "or I shall cry before all this ghastly crowd."

He was silent for a moment. "I'm sorry, Kay. I know I don't like a schoolboy. But I'm too tired for polite conversation. I shouldn't have come here tonight. The air was suddenly oppressive with the odor of cigarette smoke and liquor. "I'm going now."

"I'm terribly sorry. But please don't leave me here," she begged.

"Take me with you."

"Will your father mind?"

"Suppose he does?" she retorted. "I'll think of explanations afterward. Wait for me while I get my coat."

She was gone and presently Rex was standing with Lucia and Francis. Jimmy was cool and bold and sure of himself, as he asked the doctor, "Been telling Kay some of my war stories?"

"War?" repeated Lucia quickly. "You look too young to have been in the war, Dr. Warner."

"I was in the medical corps," he told her, to keep from answering Jimmy's question. "Your face is familiar, Mrs. Lambert. Is it possible that we have met before?"

"I lived in Charleston," she replied. "My first husband was Bob Wentworth. He belonged to an old family there."

"Wentworth? Charleston? He turned to her, and only the years of training kept the horror from his voice. "Not Captain Robert E. Wentworth?"

When he was sure he could speak in a natural voice, he said, "Yes, Mrs. Lambert. I knew Captain Wentworth—I knew him very well."

But he was sure now that he had never seen the beautiful Lucia Lambert before tonight. He had seen only a small picture of her.

take over the Tenth Army as soon as he can get there.

Stilwell conferred with MacArthur earlier this week. He left headquarters several days ago but still is in the Pacific area.

It is believed he will take command of the Tenth Army upon his arrival.

MacArthur-as commander of the Army forces in the Pacific has over-all jurisdiction of the Tenth Army, but the Okinawa campaign was under Army Gen. Chester W. Nimitz and under the operational control of the joint chiefs of staff.

Lt. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, a Marine general, now is serving as a stop-gap commander of the Tenth Army in the mopping up operations on Okinawa.

The 63-year-old Stilwell, known as "Vinegar Joe," knows the enemy as do few other field commanders.

After his long and distinguished service in the Burma-China theater, he was known to have been anxious to take another crack at the Japanese as a field commander.

He had served as U. S. commander of army ground forces in Washington since his return here from Chungking.

Stilwell was commander in chief of American ground forces in China and military adviser to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek before his recall to Washington.

It was Stilwell who fought the Japanese when they invaded Burma, and with his slim command was chased out of the country.

"I claim we took a hell of a beating," he said as he came out of the Burman wilds at the head of his forces, and he promptly set about organizing to fight back into the country.

This he did with the ultimate result that the road which bears his name was cut through northern Burma, re-establishing a ground supply route to China.

Stilwell said recently at his conference with MacArthur in Manila that he was convinced there was to be a crack in the Japanese jungle and that the enemy would have to be beaten on the Chinese mainland as well as in the home islands before giving up invaded positions.

Advancement For Stokes Postmaster

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Due to the advancement of the fourth class Post Office at Stokes, N. C., to the third class, the Post Office Department called on Congressman Bonner to either recommend the present Postmaster for appointment as third class Postmaster on a non-competitive basis, or to request a Civil Service examination for the establishment of an eligible register from which a Postmaster could be appointed. Mr. Bonner recommended the advancement of George H. Rootuck, present fourth class Postmaster, to the appointment of third class Postmaster.

EISENHOWER

The reason for today's cheering, Eisenhower said, was not that "one individual, one American" was back from war but that "a nasty job is done—one nasty job is finished."

LET'S MAKE SURE IT IS FINISHED

Just hear that throng:—cheers for one we love, While ticker tape falls to the ground from high above. Thrilled children scream:—"Look! here comes 'Ike' " Let's let him know we love him—Abe and Mike."

So do the kids in lands far—far away Who waited patiently that joyful day When Eisenhower, soon, would bring new life;— New hope—and end their bitter, bloody strife. He came—and with his coming—men were free To live once more in quiet tranquility.— Now—while he smiles, and lifts his hat,—his heart Bleeds—hoping, praying when, again, we start In Peace—we'll have the patience of a nurse Whose sleepless nights pull humans through their worse. Behind Ike's smiles there's very grave concern For those he knows will nevermore return.

So we—they left behind to carry on Must see that greed forevermore has gone:— If not—those cheers today will mean no more Than those that greeted Pershing once before—

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

THE EXAMINED LIFE

Nobody likes criticism. Yet probably the greatest source of our growth is the helpful criticism we get from friends and the critical attitude we take toward our own shortcomings.

Socrates many centuries ago made the wise observation that an un-examined life is not worth living.
Fortunately, circumstances occur in the lives of most of us which bring us up with a jerk and make us examine ourselves and our situations carefully, whether we want to do so or not.

Probably because it involves considerable effort and patience, most people are indisposed to spend much time in reflection. The habit of daydreaming is widespread, but daydreaming and reflection are not the same thing. In reflection we get out of ourselves, as it were, and think not about the things we should like to have happen, or the person we should like to be, but about the things that are actually happening and the kind of person we really are.

If any man or woman will give five minutes a day to a searching look into his soul or hers, and will during that time make certain definite resolves on things which need to be done, the result will be an astounding improvement in character. We may not be delighted by what we observe when we look into our own hearts, but the examination will do us good if we face facts candily and act courageously.

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — It's a rare thing when the folks who sit in the congressional galleries are given an insight into the fast manipulations that can go on under rules of order.

In most cases, the laws of the land are made in committees. Nine-times out of ten the fate of a bill is a foregone conclusion before it ever reaches the floor of either House or Senate. However, when the time comes that something unexpected comes up or a bit of legislative shenanigans is being worked, a fast man in the chair on matters parliamentary can almost run his own show.

A case in point was Sen. Kenneth Wherry's (R-Neb.) amendment to the OPA time extension act making it obligatory that farm prices be established at a level that would assure the farmer a "reasonable profit" on all that he produces. The bill ran a fast one on the opposition administration, it happened to be this time, that left them bewildered and befuddled.

During the height of the debate on the Thomas and Taft amendments (neither of which got anywhere), Sen. Wherry and staunch administration supporter Sen. Carl Hatch, of New Mexico, were on their feet, asking to be recognized. President Pro Tem Kenneth McKellar was in the chair. The grizzled veteran Tennesseean must have known what was coming. He recognized Sen. Wherry.

Wherry went up his highly controversial amendment, asked that it be read, and immediately called for a "yes and nay" vote. All of the opposition to amending the OPA act in any such broadening of controls was caught flatfooted, with the possible exception of Sen.
Hatch, who, even if he knew what was coming, was powerless to do anything about it.

The amendment passed 37 to 29, without one word of debate in the upper chamber, where debate ordinarily is unlimited.

Sen. Hatch didn't even have a chance to argue, because Sen.
Thomas (D-Okla.) moved in with a motion that the move to reconsider be laid on the table, which cuts off all further debate and makes the original vote completely binding.

Sen. Hatch did get a word in edgewise. He said: "I want it definitely understood that I was first

The president pro tem said simply: "The chair did not see the Senator or hear him address the chair."

You can't go beyond such an explanation as that.
But when the fracas was over and the amendment passed, Sen. Hatch added: "Unfortunately there has been exhibited today on the floor of the United States Senate a great desire on the part of the Senators to cut off debate and limit inquiry." He concluded a little vehemently: "Let it never happen again."

Sen. Scott Lucas (D-Ill.) contributed: "Now for the first time I have learned what we were voting upon in connection with the last amendment."
Majority Leader Alben Barkley told newsmen later: "There was no debate on the amendment, because we didn't think it had a chance to pass anyway. I am sure the House will take it out."
That may be so, and in the long run the Barkley-Hatch-Lucas faction may feel that no harm was done, but they knew that day that they had been taken over the parliamentary hurdles.

The War Today...

one we occupied in Europe on Nov.
1, 1942. Since no big campaign is indicated in China now as was the case in Africa and Italy, it seems fair to lop off some months in comparing the Europe and Pacific campaigns, provided we assume that no lengthy war on the Asiatic continent will be necessary after Japan itself has fallen.

Take it that several months will be consumed in invasion preparation, that the campaign in Japan will take longer than the one in Europe because it probably will be divided into two major steps, and we have a war which, discounting the possibility of a political termination, will run us well into 1947.

By CHESTER WALSH
Some nationally known stars of the baseball diamond are expected to play on the Fort Bragg and Camp Butler teams which will play at Guy Smith Stadium here on Wednesday, June 27, at 4 o'clock.

Guy Smith, ardent baseball fan and for many years sponsor of the Greenville ball club, will throw out the first ball. Dave Moore, Jr., former secretary of the Greenville club, may be one of the umpires.

Lieut. Carl A. Langley and Lieut. Edgar Denton, Army Airforce pilots who recently were liberated from a German prison camp, and other returned veterans will attend the game. John G. Clark, district highway commissioner, chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, announced today. Clark and Bill Lee will be masters of ceremonies. Admission will be free. Fans will have an opportunity to see some big league stars in action. Bill Lee, Guy V. Smith, Don H. Conley and Dave Moore, Jr., are members of the committee. The ladies are invited to attend.

There is a possibility that Pvt. Max Lanier, former St. Louis Cardinals twirler, may pitch for Fort Bragg. Pfc. Van Harrington, former Cincinnati Reds star, will play second base. Two first class hurlers will be ready to take the mound assignment for Fort Bragg. They are Sgt. Jesse Cole and Sgt. Ray Smith, a former State star, who will play the infield if he does not pitch. Other players will probably be W. W. Johnson, former Carolina star; Paul Mickler, Presbyterian College utility man; Capt. Homer Ramsey, Western Kentucky Teachers' College infielder; Troy Ray, who played on an Army team at Guam in the Pacific; Al Przybyla, an Army cook who plays centerfield; LeRoy Spell, former Leaksville star, and others.

The roster of Camp Butler players will be announced tomorrow. The teams from Fort Bragg and Camp Butler will arrive in Greenville the morning of the game. They will be quartered at Proctor Hotel and have lunch there. At night they will have supper at Respass' place. The Camp Butler players will return to their base that night. Fort Bragg players will spend the night here. They will breakfast at the Olde Towne Inn.

Ricks passenger buses will leave Five Points for the ball park at stated times before and after the game.

HOME PEOPLE WELCOME IKE

Missouri And Kansas Pay Tribute To Eisenhower

Kansas City, June 21—(AP)—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower and 53 members of his official party returning from Europe came home today to his native Middlewest to receive a tumultuous two-State homecoming celebration and greet his 83-year-old mother, Mrs. Ida E. Eisenhower, of Abilene, Kans., and four brothers. The general's plane landed at Municipal Airport at 12:16 p. m. (CWT).

General "Ike" in his gigantic five-star plane, "The Sunflower," stepped forth first and was given a tremendous ovation as he saluted the military band that greeted him. General Eisenhower then rushed to his mother and gave her a big kiss, shook hands with Governor Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri and Hoy A. Roberts of the Reception Committee.

He was wreathed in smiles as he posed for photographers as a hundred military planes roared overhead and bands played.

Governor Andrew Schoepel of Kansas stepped forward to greet the general and after a brief greeting to his four brothers here for the gala event, the general retired to a room for a half hour of privacy with his immediate family. On hand also to greet him was his wife, who had come from New York by train.

The band played "The General's March" as General Eisenhower, in bright, warm sunshine, moved toward the reception roan after also greeting Mayor John B. Gage of Kansas City, and mayors of adjacent cities.

A 17-gun salute roared forth a greeting to the European supreme commander as he came home to his home after great ovations in London, Paris, Washington and New York. The Texas bred and Kansas reared general beamed broadly throughout the greeting with his family, some members of which had not seen him in three years.

Tonight the whole Eisenhower clan, some 65 of them, will assemble for the first complete family reunion in 20 years. This will be at Abilene, Kans., the general's home, where he will go by special train late today after the Kansas City parade and celebration.

Sprightly 83-year-old Mrs. Ida Eisenhower was nervous and excited as she awaited her famous son. Her happiness was increased by the knowledge that the whole family will be together in Abilene tonight.

Along the line of march General Eisenhower will see many reminders of the home front played in his armies' triumphs in Europe. Landing barges, tanks, weapons and airplanes produced in this area are on display, decked with flags and welcome signs.

Distinguished guests will include the first lady and her daughter, Mrs. Harry S. Truman and Margaret, and others of the President's family, as well as the governor of Missouri, Phil M. Donnelly, and the governor of Kansas, Andrew Schoepel, who will introduce General Eisenhower.

PRESIDENT TO RETAIN ICKES

Says Secretary Of Interior Not To Be Removed

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Olympia, Wash., June 21—(AP)—President Truman today praised the work of the San Francisco conference, promised the meat situation would be straightened out and denied reports of contemplated removing Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes.

In his first press conference since leaving the White House the President also expressed gratification over the Senate's approval of legislation extending the reciprocal trade agreement program with further tariff lowering authority.

He announced that he would stop over in Portland, Ore., at 11 a. m. (Pacific war time) Monday enroute to San Francisco where he expects to arrive at 4 p. m.

The President expressed confidence the senate will take favorable action on the Bretton Woods agreements as well as the reciprocal trade legislation. The latter, he said, permitting direct quotation, "places the United States squarely behind the principles of international trade cooperation."

He came out flatly in favor of the postwar completion of the Alaskan highway in cooperation with British Columbia and Canada. He said there is about 600 miles of road up the trench to complete.

"Stories have appeared in eastern papers that you are getting rid of Mr. Ickes and replacing him with Cap. Krug (J. A. Krug, chairman of the War Production Board)," a reporter asserted. He asked if the President planned such action.

No, the President replied, he didn't, it was the first he had heard of it, he added, and it was news to him. He hasn't discussed it with Mr. Ickes at all, the President concluded.

The President added that he had no cabinet changes immediately in mind, and that he would let the reporters know when he did.

"You suggested we keep on asking you if you contemplated a change in the State Department (presided over by Secretary Stettinius) and we are wondering if you have anything on that?" A reporter asked.

The President said he still had nothing on that.

Says Eisenhower To Get What He Wants

Olympia, Wash., June 22—(AP)—President Truman said today that General Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of Allied forces in Europe, was entitled to anything he wants and that he would see that the general gets it.

The President did not elaborate on this remark, made after a reporter inquired of his plans for Eisenhower, a guest at a White House stag dinner Monday.

Eisenhower's first job is to get back to Germany and finish his work there, the President said.

How long he will be there, he said, he did not know, adding that was one of the things to be settled at his forthcoming "Big Three" conference with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

The general, he said, is entitled to anything he wants, and he wants to see that the general gets it. The man.

San Francisco, June 21—(AP)—Tokyo radio reported southern Japan was scouted for two hours today by 56 assorted American aircraft—Gruman fighters, Liberator bombers, naval patrol planes and a Superfortress—gathering data for further bombing attacks.

Report of the strange reconnoitering expeditions over most of Kyushu Island and the southern tip of Honshu came at the end of a series of Tokyo broadcasts telling of American carrier strikes, invasion preparations, Superfort successes and Okinawa fighting.

The FCC-intercepted broadcast said:

Wake Island was raided yesterday by 300 Allied carrier planes.

The United States already has started long and complicated preparations to invade Japan.

B-29s Wednesday cut rail traffic for many hours between two fire-bombed cities southwest of Tokyo.

Allied minesweepers swept mines out of waters of Balikpapan, eastern Borneo, for the second day. (An English language version of the broadcast, in which the Japanese translator apparently stumbled over the languages, said they were laying mines.)

Developments have convinced the Home Affairs Ministry it is a mistake for Japan to have cities as big as Tokyo and Osaka—and there should be more space between houses.

Beamed in English, the Domei news agency account quoted Tokyo "informed quarters" as saying invasion of Japan was next in the cards—then sprinkled in liberally talk about the "task of building bases," the "vastness" of the supply problem and America's "geographic disadvantages."

Okinawa Now . . .

the Home islands for American invasion. Against the invaders of Okinawa,

The Japanese flung Kamikaze (suicide) pilots and planes against the American supply ships crowding the surrounding waters, sinking at least 24 and damaging 54, most of them light, small vessels.

In all, the enemy lost, by the last announced count, 4,096 planes but still they could not halt the flow of supplies.

While the Japanese had yet to acknowledge the fall of Okinawa, the Tokyo radio admitted that only a "handful" of Japanese still fought on.

It described the garrison's "valiant resistance" as an example of what the American forces "can expect in the forthcoming battle of the homeland."

The Japanese have been speculating on where the Americans will strike next, whether at the heart of the homeland or on the Chinese mainland, 450 miles west of Okinawa.

They have reported at least two U. S. task forces are on the loose in waters west of Okinawa with large numbers of supply vessels and assault boats anchored in Okinawan waters.

The text of Nimitz' brief communique read:

"After 82 days of fighting the battle of Okinawa has been won. Organized resistance ceased 21 June. Enemy garrisons in two small pockets are being mopped up."

Japanese fought stubbornly to the last although they were running out of ammunition, food and water. They employed machine-guns, rifles and mortars to the fullest while the Yanks relied on flame-throwing tanks, demolition charges and automatic weapons.

Last Friday Lt. Gen. Buckner told Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopking:

"I can't see this battle lasting more than a week longer."

Buckner was killed at the front Monday, watching the start of this final, victorious assault.

Eight hundred eighty-five Nipponese surrendered the first three days of this week—probably a Pacific war record—but there was no weakening of their comrades' determination to live up to the Bushido command to kill 10 Yanks before being conquered.

Lt. Harry Hartmann, Cairo, Ill., Army medical officer at the front, told Associated Press Correspondent Robert Geiger there was evidence some Nipponese were "filled with narcotic. Other medics supported his statement."

The Japanese were compressed so tightly that the Yanks were limited to attacking with tanks, flame-throwers and small arms. All heavy guns, both artillery and naval, were silenced because of the danger of firing into American forces. The battlefield seemed strangely quiet without the backdrop of heavy gunfire and explosion.

The battle was narrowed to a job of extermination—a job of ferret-

POLES GIVEN PRISON TERMS

Sentences Range From Four Months To 10 Years

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, June 21—(AP)—Twelve of 16 Poles accused of subversive activities behind Red army lines were convicted by a Soviet court early today and given sentences of from four months to ten years in prison. Three were acquitted and the trial of another was postponed.

The heaviest sentence—10 years—was imposed upon Maj. Gen. L. Bronislaw Okulicki, commander of the underground home army after the ill-fated Warsaw uprising.

Jan Jankowski, deputy prime minister of the London Polish government-in-exile and leader of the Polish underground movement, was sentenced to eight years imprisonment.

The sentences will date from the day of arrest, March 27.

"The Moscow radio, heard in London, said no appeal from the sentences would be permitted."

Gen. Okulicki received his sentence stoically. His only show of emotion was a tightening of the lips. As he heard the president of the military presidium, Col. Gen. Vassily V. Ulrich, read the verdict and the sentences.

Flood lights beat down upon the defendant's standing in the wooden dock as the sentences were read.

Expressions of great relief were on the faces of those acquitted—Stanislaw P. Mikhalowski, J. H. Stember-Dombrowski and K. S. Kobylanski.

One defendant, Anton Paidak, had been too ill to attend the trial and he will face the court later.

The other sentences:

Adam Bien, president of the peasant party and assistant to the chief of the underground council of ministers, five years.

Stanislaw Jasiukowicz, president of the National Democrats and minister in the underground government, five years.

Kazimir Duzhak, general secretary of the Socialist party, one and one-half years.

Alexander Zwezziwerski, journalist and chairman of the National Democrats a year and eight months.

Kazimir S. Baginski, a journalist and vice president of the peasant party, one year.

Eugene Czarnowski, chairman of the Union Democrats, six months.

Stanislaw Merzuva, secretary of the peasant party, four months.

P. A. Urbanski, vice chairman of the workers party, four months.

J. A. Khratsinski, chairman of the workers party, four months.

Z. Stankowski, young Warsaw lawyer and peasant party member the only one of the 16 to plead innocent, four months.
