

Brynes Expected To Be New Secretary Of State

President Announces
Selection Of Stettinius
As Head Of
American Delegation
To United Nations
Organization;
Will Name Successor
Next Week

By JACK BELL
Kansas City, June 28—(AP)—President Truman will send the name of his nominee to succeed Edward R. Stettinius as secretary of state to the senate Monday.

Charles Ross, the President's press secretary, in making the announcement refused to comment on reports that James F. Byrnes, former war mobilization director, would be named for the post.

Ross said Stettinius' resignation was effective yesterday and that Joseph C. Grew would continue as acting secretary until a successor had been confirmed by the senate.

Washington, June 28—(AP)—If President Truman picks James F. Byrnes as his new Secretary of State the Cabinet shift may be followed by a drastic departmental shakeup.

The President said in accepting the resignation yesterday of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as secretary that he expects to announce a successor early next week.

Capitol Hill is convinced the choice will be Byrnes, former senator, Supreme Court justice and War Mobilizer who quit the latter job shortly before President Roosevelt died.

Stettinius, Mr. Truman said, will lead the American delegation to the proposed new United Nations organization and serve as this country's representative on the League of Nations Security Council.

Selection of Byrnes probably could mean an almost complete turnover in the ranks of assistant secretaries named when Stettinius took office last December and began reorganizing the State Department. The only likely survivor of this group is William L. Clayton, assistant in charge of economic affairs, although others may be asked to stay on for a while.

Friends thought it likely that if Byrnes gets the post—said to be the only one in the government he would be willing to accept at this time—that another place also may be found for Undersecretary Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan.

The assistant secretaries include Nelson A. Rockefeller, in charge of Latin-American affairs; Archibald Mac Leish, former librarian of Congress, now in charge of public and cultural relations; James C. Dunn, in charge of European and Far Eastern affairs. (Continued on page two)

Anniversary

Independence, Mo., June 28—(AP)—The first lady, Mrs. Harry Truman, is celebrating more than the President's homecoming today. This is the Trumans' 26th wedding anniversary.

The couple were married June 28, 1919, in Independence, shortly after his return from the war. They were engaged before President Truman went overseas.

Meadows Still On Direct Examination Today

The defense introduced checks and receipts again today in an effort to disprove state charges that Dr. Leon R. Meadows had embezzled more than $14,000 while president of East Carolina Teachers College.

The state objected to introduction of the word "personal" on one check which Chief Defense Counsel Albin Dunn introduced in an effort to show that Dr. Meadows had paid from his personal funds for work on his own property.

Numerous checks paid to Roy House, allegedly for work on the college buildings, were introduced. Dr. Meadows said that he paid House himself for work on his own property, and the college paid for work on college property. Dr. Meadows said that while the scarcity of ration meats is still acute, rationing is still acute, re-

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP News Affairs Analyst

Quite a lot of good folks who are sensitive in the matter of mental sickness are worried because the Allies haven't yet announced a detailed program covering every phase of the punishment and regeneration of Germany.

Speaking of programs in general, these critics may be right in insisting that the T's be dotted and the T's be crossed, but there are exceptions to every rule and this is one of them, as I see it. Anyway, there certainly are great advantages in being able to handle the Germans under a very flexible arrangement at this juncture.

The point is that we are dealing with a lot of tricky impediments in working out this problem. The Big Four must proceed cautiously in making commitments lest they find their hands tied in uncomfortable situations.

Every day the Allies are discovering fresh and startling facts about Hitler's plans for conquering the world. Yes, schemes exceeded anything he displayed in action. Official letters and documents discovered in Berchtesgaden and other places are proving to be gold mines of information.

For instance we have learned Hitler's method of handling his problem of keeping Turkey neutral. Spain's friendly relations with the Axis are becoming more clear. We are cleaning the inner thoughts of other countries during the war, too.

Then we may expect that Allied research in connection with the trials of war criminals will provide us with further invaluable information regarding the ramifications of the Nazi activities, not only in Europe but in the Western Hemisphere. We shall learn more about Hitler's scheme of restoring Nazism's war potential by the creation of a politico-economic empire in the Western Hemisphere. We shall add to our list of who's who among the war-mongers.

One of the vital questions to be ironed out is the exact attitude of the German public as a whole towards the activities of Hitler the Hun. Are any of them repentant, or are they just sorry that they lost the war and want another chance at conquering the world?

In this connection the Allies have to figure out just what disposition is to be made of the high-ranking professional German soldiers. It has been decreed that Prussian militarism shall be destroyed—but just how is this to be effected? General Jacob L. Devers, commander of the U. S. Sixth Army Corps, said in New York a few days ago:

"The German general staff has been destroyed, and for my part I would shoot those who remain."

Well, that would be one mighty effective way of disposing of them. But General Devers was expressing a personal view, and there's no indication that the Allied control has decided this issue.

Another indication that it pays to proceed methodically is seen in the report on Germany's power of recovery by U. S. Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley. In a statement to the Senate Military Affairs Committee he declared that despite the Allied bombing, many

REPORTS COST OF CAMPAIGN FOR OKINAWA

American Casualties
In Action Near Jap
Homeland Total 46,319; Nimitz Reports
Task Force Strike
West Of Kuriles
North Of Japan

By ROBBIN COONS
Guam, June 28—(AP)—The Ryukyu campaign, including capture of Okinawa Island and several associated strikes by the Navy's fast carrier forces on the Japanese homeland, cost the United States 46,319 casualties, of whom 11,897 were killed or missing.

Naval casualties of 4,907 killed or missing and 4,824 wounded—a total of 9,731—for the period March 18 through June 20 were announced in Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz's communique today. Previously, he had reported Army and Marine casualties of 6,990 killed or missing and 29,598 wounded in Okinawa ground action.

The Navy's first venture into the Okhotsk Sea, west of the Kuriles—a penetration which destroyed or damaged a five-ship convoy—also was announced in today's communique. A task force of cruisers and destroyers sank three cargo ships, probably sank a fourth and damaged the fifth in a daylight action west of Harumukotan Island, 60 miles south of Paramushiro. Success of the daring thrust indicated almost daily air raids have pretty well neutralized Japanese airfields in the Kuriles.

This was the first task force raid so far west in the North Pacific. Naval casualties for the Ryukyu operation included nearly 1,000 killed, missing or wounded on the carrier Franklin, and 656 on the carrier Bunker Hill.

The inland sea attack, in which the Franklin was damaged, cost the Japanese the 45,000-ton battleship Yamato sunk, along with two cruisers, five destroyers and several smaller vessels sent to the bottom. The enemy lost an estimated 3,500 naval personnel on those ships.

Japan also lost more than 4,000 pilots and planes in attacks on America's Okinawa sea and land forces, and 111,351 of her ground troops.

More than 1,400 U. S. ships were engaged in the Ryukyu operation, principally in landing the troops. (Continued on page four)

Say New Weapons To Block Invasion

San Francisco, June 28—(AP)—Japan announced today it was closing even "necessary" industries to step up war production and boasted that the anticipated American invasion of the homeland would be repulsed by an array of suicide weapons that would create "world-wide amazement."

Domei news agency dispatches, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said production priorities would be allowed only for aircraft and "other armaments and explosives."

The Domei agency quoted one of its correspondents on his return from "special attack" bases scattered throughout Japan. The correspondent said "enormous" numbers of youths were being trained to man the weapons.

Mitcher's Flagship Reaches Port After Being Blasted By Jap Suicide Planes

Washington, June 28—(AP)—Sorely wounded and set afire by two Japanese suicide planes, the 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Bunker Hill was saved to fight again by a dangerous maneuver. It consisted of dumping overboard thousands of gallons of flaming gasoline and tons of water from firefighting hose.

The story of the Bunker Hill's ordeal, which ranked her second only to the Franklin as a surviving casualty of this war, was told by the Navy as the ship still was undergoing repairs at the Puget Sound, Wash., Navy Yard. She was described there as the most extensively damaged ship ever to enter the yard.

The Bunker Hill was the flagship of Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, commander of fast carrier task forces. For 58 consecutive days and nights her planes had been carrying destruction to Japanese strong points.

While many of her planes were shot, supporting Marine and Army ground advances on Okinawa early on the morning of May 11, the two suicide planes struck within 30 seconds to turn the Bunker Hill into a flaming holocaust which cost 656 casualties, including 373 killed or dead of wounds, 19 missing, and

Clark To Command Troops In Austria

Washington, June 28—(AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark was designated chief of United occupation forces in Austria. Undersecretary of War Patterson announced today.

Clark, who commanded the 15th army group in the Italian campaign, will be the supreme American authority on military government and political problems in the United States occupation zone in Austria, Patterson said.

With some variations Patterson added, Austria will be occupied in the same manner as Germany with four zones of occupation—one each for the four major powers, Vienna, the capital also will be divided into four zones similar to the pattern on the division of Berlin.

Ask Rehearing Of Case Against AP

New York, June 28—(AP)—A petition for rehearing of the federal government's anti-trust case against the Associated Press will be filed with the Supreme Court, AP's board of directors announced last night. The petition will be filed on or before September 1 in connection with the Supreme Court's recent decision affirming a lower court verdict.

The decision held that AP by-laws violated the Sherman Anti-Trust Act and should be amended to remove competitive effects upon existing members as a factor in consideration of new applications for membership.

Action Of House Committee Presages End Of Agency

Washington, June 28—(AP)—The House Rules Committee today blocked off House action on any new funds for FEPC, while a Senate talkathon prevented consideration of a proposed FEPC appropriation in that chamber.

The combined actions presaged a demise for the Fair Employment Practice Committee by the end of the week.

The Rules Committee tabled and thus laid aside legislation to appropriate $125,000 to wind up the affairs of FEPC within three months, leaving the agency no funds with which to operate after June 30.

Before the conference started everyone knew that the three important agencies of the United Nations after the war would be these: The Security Council (to prevent wars), the General Assembly (to discuss world problems), and the International Court of Justice (to settle international disputes by legal means).

Everyone knew there would be an Economic and Social Council but many—including some of the American delegates—looked upon it as a stepchild that might be helpful but not important.

MacArthur Describes Recent Fighting As Most Bitter And Savage In American History; Australians Score New Gains On Borneo; Japs Report New Naval Attacks

By SPENCER DAVIS
Manila, June 28—(AP)—American and Filipino forces have won the campaign for mountainous North Luzon, "one of the most savage and bitterly fought in American history," to completely liberate this biggest island in the Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

His triumphant communique added conquest of the 300-mile-long Cagayan Valley in 28 days as the conclusive chapter of an operation which:

Began January 9 at Lingayen Gulf; swept down the 125 miles to Manila in 28 days; freed that shell-shattered city only after three weeks of battling in its ruined streets; reclaimed hallowed Batang Peninsula; and reopened Manila Bay by paratroop-amphibious invasion of Corregidor.

A juncture Tuesday in the Cagayan Valley of the U. S. 37th Infantry Division and the 11th Airborne Division, wound up "the major phase of the Northern Luzon campaign."

"No terrain has ever presented greater logistical difficulties and none has ever provided an adversary with more naturally impregnable strongholds," MacArthur said. "The losses inflicted on the enemy (in all North Luzon) were heavy—113,593 dead, with the graves of many other thousands located but uncounted, and several thousand prisoners. Our losses were 3,793 dead, 34 missing and 11,351 wounded, a total of 15,178."

"The entire island of Luzon, embracing 40,420 miles... now liberated."

In effect, MacArthur wrote off the Philippines as a lost cause, began last October at Leyte. The only other active sector is the southern island of Mindanao, the today's communique phrased operations there by the Eighth Army as a mop-up of a disorganized foe.

The bulk of the estimated 20,000 Japanese which had been bottled up in Cagayan Valley fled into forested mountain regions where they (Continued on page four)

House Passes Money Measure

Washington, June 28—(AP)—A $3,634,494,336 deficiency supply bill containing $174,500,000 for the Office of Price Administration for the 1946 fiscal year was passed today by the house and sent to the senate.

Passage was by a roll-call vote of 317 to 14.

The OPA fund was the amount recommended by the House Appropriations Committee and $6,000,000 less than budget estimates.

The major part of the funds, $2,475,000,000, was earmarked as operation of the lend-lease program for the 12 months starting July 1.

USO NOTES AND NOTICES

On display at the USO this week is an interesting small group of water colors and drawings by First Lieut. Howard Muncie, USMCR, of Westport, Conn., who has just returned from almost three years of service in the Pacific area with the Third Marine Division.

The drawings and paintings in this show come directly out of Muncie's experiences on Bougainville, Guadalcanal, and Guam. Of special note is a portrait sketch of a Marine friend of the artist, done in a fox-hole on Bougainville on a Japanese rice paddy with a piece of blue grocer's crayon which happened to be the only material available at that particular moment. Another arresting painting in the group—and one excellently drawn—is of a cornered yellow rat on a Japanese flag, used recently on a large War Bond poster. One glance at the rodent subject of this sketch leaves little doubt as to the feeling the artist has for the enemy he has met in first-hand contact for three years. This is the second show of the work of Howard Muncie to be presented at the local USO Club. Just before he left for overseas duty, in the summer of 1942, a number of his sketches and paintings were shown and greatly enjoyed here. There is a noticeable growth in the strength of his work since that time, despite the fact that war has left him little time for the practice of his art. Lt. Muncie is now stationed temporarily at Camp Lejeune.

OPA Suspended 29 Shoe Dealers

Raleigh, June 28.—Twenty-nine more shoe dealers found in violation of shoe rationing regulations have been ordered to stop the sales of rationed shoes in Eastern North Carolina. It was announced today by Theodore S. Johnson, Raleigh OPA district director. The suspensions cover periods ranging from ten days to "the duration," and affect some of the largest mercantile firms in Eastern North Carolina. The violations were chiefly in short inventory accounts of shoe coupons and shoes and the suspensions were ordered by Daniel L. Bell, Chief OPA hearing commissioner, of Atlanta. In all cases except one, which runs for the duration, part of the suspension is made inactive, thus putting the dealer on probation for the duration of rationing. Most of the suspensions are scheduled currently, but in a few instances the dealer has already complied with the required active ban on sales. It was explained. During the active suspension period the dealer cannot lawfully sell or receive rationed shoes.

Fuel Oil Users Urged Buy Now

Raleigh, June 28.—Users of fuel oil in Eastern North Carolina are urged to fill out applications for their winter supply now. District OPA Director Theodore S. Johnson, said it and currency.

Johnson stressed the importance of ordering the first tank full of oil on the day coupons are received on the War Price and Rationing board.

"Your tank is part of America's storage," he pointed out. "With bulk storage filled to capacity with fighting gasoline, to delay your order now is to overburden transportation and run a risk of cold homes this fall."

"Heavy storage will not be available to meet your instantaneous needs this fall, because transportation facilities are still inadequate for heavy demands," he added. "Every tank which is filled to day insures a warm home this fall and lessens the strain on America's manpower," Johnson said.

tern affairs; Dean Acheson, in charge of congressional relations, and Julius C. Holmes, administrative expert.

Mr. Truman's choice of Byrnes for the state portfolio could be expected to be received favorably in the Senate. There is some opposition to him there, however, from those who don't like his labor record and who do not class him as a member of the so-called liberal wing of the Democratic Party.

Byrnes was one of the first to denounce the sitdown strikes while he was in the Senate. He balked at labor's efforts to break the Little Steel wage formula while he was War Mobilizer. Organized labor leaders prevented Byrnes' nomination for vice-presdent in the 1944 Democratic Convention, which eventually chose Mr. Truman as a running mate for the late President Roosevelt.

Byrnes gets the job, he will become next in line for the Presidency, at least until Congress acts on Mr. Truman's suggestion that the succession statute be changed to the presidency after the vice-president.

Reports persist here that Morgenthau soon will be replaced, possibly by Senator George (D-Ga.) for the sixth cabinet change since Mr. Truman became President.

Due to a last-minute change in plans, Stettinius will remain in Washington during the forthcoming Big Three meeting to be available while the Senate debates the charter.

Some time later his job is likely to become embroiled in a hot legislative controversy over how much latitude he shall have as the Security Council representative in voting to employ this Nation's military forces in peace-keeping moves.

New York, June 28.—(AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Nelson A. Rockefeller, arriving early today by plane from San Francisco, said his resignation had been on President Truman's desk since the Chief Executive took office, but there was no indication any action had been taken on it.

The young assistant to former Secretary of State Stettinius said he "would be glad to remain in the department so long as I can continue to be of service," but he declined to speculate on his future.

Chapter 22

Suddenly Kay knew that her loss of the Lambert home would be nothing beside Francis losing his assurance, his gaiety, his vanity. Francis, old and broken. She wanted to cry out against the aching doubt in his heart when he mentioned Lucia's name.

She thought: Terrible enough to see your gods fall, without having to sweep over the fragments lying in your feet!

She managed a laugh, but there was no mirth in the sound. "Is that all that's worrying you?" she demanded. "Well, there's no need for that, darling."

"What do you mean?"

She heard herself falter. "Jimmy and I—well, we're going to be married. She looked up at him, then looked quickly away. "I—I haven't had time to tell you."

There! She had said it. It had come to her suddenly—the awareness that this was the only way out. After all, what else in life was there for her to lose?

The relief in his eyes caused a hurt, burning sensation in her throat. The room swam a little before her eyes, then became steady again.

"Are you?" he beamed, utterly oblivious to the stricken look in her eyes. "That's fine! Then he frowned again. "But that still doesn't give Lucia a home in her own name."

She stared at him silently for a moment, then she said: "I'll turn the house over to you, and you may do with it as you like. Of course, Liza will go with me."

She turned quickly, opened the door, and was gone before Francis could speak again. She started the motor of her car, and drove past the mill, the village, far out into the country before she realized she was driving at all.

She had to see Jimmy; she'd ask him to take her to lunch.

She started across the table from Jimmy, she said, "Let's splurge, Jimmy. Order champagne."

Jimmy grinned. "I never drink champagne," he protested, "without some very good reason to celebrate."

"Well," she suggested, smiling recklessly, "can't you think of some reason to celebrate?"

He looked into her pale lovely face, her blue-black eyes. "Say, Kay," he breathed, "do your eyes mean what I hope they do?"

She continued to smile. "What—do you hope they mean? I don't have Liza's cup."

"Gosh, Kay," he said, staring at her, "you know I'm a man of few words. Will you—or won't you marry me?"

Jimmy accepted his light mood gracefully. "I didn't mean to," she admitted. "But you've talked me into it!"

Jimmy's surprise would have been ludicrous had Kay's mood been less tragic. "Honey, do you mean it? Actually?"

"Yes."

Jimmy's happy surprise broke into a whoop. "Walter," he cried, "a bottle of champagne! A great big bottle of champagne!"

His happiness mounted by the moment until Kay's own eyes lost their blankness. After all, if she were the only person who could make Jimmy happy.

His kiss was light when she left him to return to Lowell. "Kay, sweet," he murmured, "if you don't try to smile when you said it!"

Several days later Kay was standing at the window of her room, her gold hair shining against the brightness of the January day. She was thinking of the President's Birthday Ball in Atlanta next week. She'd go with Rex, as he had asked her to do. They'd dine together at the banquet, she'd watch with a cheering crowd while an official of the National Foundation presented Rex with a medal in recognition of his unusual contribution to the treatment of infantile paralysis.

The pain in her heart became a physical ache. He had been lost to her all the time; she'd been a fool to dream without any encouragement. Even now she was surprised at the jealousy she felt for the unfortunate Amelia, the girl to whom Rex had carried his first blind adoration.

Kay turned away from the window, thinking wearily: I'll have to snap out of this or Jimmy will ask again tonight. "What's wrong, Kay? You're so quiet. And your lips are quivering, but your eyes are not!"

"And she'd say again, 'Nothing; only tired, I guess.'"

He'd say, "If you were Lucia, I'd say you needed a drink. But I wouldn't join you. I don't any more since I'm engaged!" Kay had been surprised at that; she hadn't asked him to stop drinking.

Yes, Jimmy was sweet to her. He was considerate and eager to please her; and he was buckling down to work at the bank. Several times lately she'd been surprised at the fine qualities in his make-up that his engagements had brought to light.

Once he had whispered over his good night kiss, "Smile at me, Kay. The way I've seen you smile at Dr. Turner."

appropriation bill which would grant funds to the FEPC.

Bilbo (D-Miss) talked against the Fair Employment Practice Committee for three hours and 32 minutes yesterday, forcing the Senate to quit until noon today without acting on a pending war agencies appropriation bill.

The Mississippi said it wasn't a filibuster, he simply wasn't going to permit the offering of the proposed amendment granting funds to the FEPC.

As long as Bilbo can talk, he has the floor. And until he yields the floor the business of the Senate cannot go on.

"And like Tennyson's brook, I can run on forever," he said.

Moreover, Bilbo called on his shock troops to help out if necessary when he takes the floor today. He first will allow Senator Connally (D-Tex) to report on the San Francisco United Nations Conference, but the understanding is that Bilbo is simply "yielding temporarily."

Senator Johnston (D-Sc) is on Bilbo's team against FEPC, and he served notice he is ready to take up the cudgels the moment Bilbo's voice starts to give out. And John-

AIRBORNE WEDDING—Under a cloud of rice a former Flying Tiger, Col. Herbert Morgan, Jr., commander of the Clovis, N. M., air base, and his bride, the former Wasp, Doris Marland, leave a Lawry Field chapel.

There wasn't any sign of Chavez agreeing to any such thing, however.

Bilbo told the chamber FEPC is a means of trying to fuse the white and Negro races and he criticized Eleanor Roosevelt for backing the agency in her syndicated column.

BOMBER PLANT FINISHES JOB

Last Liberator Completed At Willow Run Today

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automobile Editor
Detroit, June 28. — (AP) — The big $100,000,000 Willow Run bomber plant came to the end of its war job today with the completion of the last four-engined Liberator bomber plane.

With the end of the European phase of the war, the Army Air forces announced it had all the Liberator bombers needed; other types of bombers would take over the job in the Pacific.

The final bomber, scheduled to roll off the automobile-type assembly line late this afternoon, was the 8,685th made in the plant by the Ford Motor Company. The first one was assembled in September, 1942.

After the last bomber is sent from the assembly line the working force at the plant, which at one time numbered approximately 42,000 men and women, will have declined to about 2,000 to be retained as plant protection workers.

Both the Ford Motor Company and the Army Air Forces have announced they have no plans for future use of the factory, which covers about 63 acres. The big airfield that edges up to the final assembly line, however, already has become storage space for hundreds of B-24 (Liberator) bombers that have seen service in the European theater.

Willow Run, symbol of war production on the grand scale, was begun here in 1941.
Highest production level reached was one completed bomber every working hour. In March, 1944, the assembly lines turned out 462 of the big planes.
The original $480,000,000 contract developed into a $1,500,000,000 project before the final bomber was assembled.

SUPERFORTS BLAST JAPS

Series of Raids Wreck Major War Industries

By LEIF ERICKSON
Guam, June 28. — (AP) — Four more Japanese aircraft plants and 345 more square miles of Japanese cities have been hard hit by Superfortresses, the 21st Bomber Command announced today, disclosing results of attacks June 18 and 22.

More than 115 square miles of factory and urban areas have been burned or bombed out. Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, commander of the 21st, said after examining reconnaissance photographs of the sky fleet's handiwork.

Results showed: The Wawasaki Aircraft Works at Kagamiyagahara, near Nagoya, was 35 per cent destroyed or damaged. Kawasaki Aircraft Plant at Himen was almost completely destroyed. Mitsubishi Aircraft Works at Tanasuma was 35 per cent destroyed or damaged, and the Kawasaki Plant at Akashi, near Kobe, received 24 per cent new damage. These were the June 22 targets struck.

Fire raids on three cities June 18 and 20 brought this havoc: Kagamiyagahara on Kyushu Island, 204 square miles, or 42 per cent of the built up area; Gukuoka, on Kyushu, 133 square miles, or 20 per cent of the built up area, and Omuta, on Honshu, 11 square miles.

Three other targets were hit on the June 22 daylight demolition raid. They were the Mitsubishi Aircraft assembly plant at Kameyagahara, the Kure naval arsenal and the Utsube River oil refiner at Yokkaichi.

The Kasumigaura seaplane base northeast of Tokyo was 33 per cent destroyed June 10. General LeMay reported.

Tokyo broadcasts reported stepped up mine-laying activities by Superfortresses in Japan's home waters about 12 mined Osaka Bay and the Naruto Strait at the eastern end of the Inland Sea Wednesday and today. 13 others mined the coast of southern Honshu today and seven others sowed mines in the approaches to Niigata on Honshu's northwest coast, the Japanese said.

1,800 piles per day. A maximum weight of 250 pounds per pile will be in force on all belts.

On other markets, the plan calculated to relieve congestion in plants includes the reduction of the number of piles to be sold on any market by each set of buyers to 1,400 piles. For most of these markets, the number of selling hours per day for each set of buyers will be 3 1/2.

However, where the number of sets of buyers was reduced on any market last year, the 1945 selling time will be based on 3 1/2 hours per day per set of buyers operating on the same market the year before.

In effect, this would mean that markets which operated with two or more sets of buyers last year, and were reduced by one set this year, would be allowed to base their number of selling hours on the number of sets of buyers which operated last year, providing in some cases as much as 4 1/2 hours of selling time per set of buyers.

The 1,800 and 1,400 pile limits do not include purchases made by warehouses and speculators.

NEGROES TAKE SIX ISLANDS

Will Be Used For Emergency Landing Fields

By ROBBIN COONS
Guam, June 28—(AP)—American Negro troops landed on six small islands in the northern Marianas and brought them under American domination with a single pistol shot, Pacific fleet headquarters announced today.

It was purely a reconnoitering operation to locate more areas where crippled Superforts could crash land while limping back from raids on Japan. Reconnoitering troops left no holding force behind after discovering Japanese didn't have a garrison on any of the islands.

The operation was carried out by two platoons of Negro infantrymen, aided by native guides and Japanese captives who promised their compatriots good treatment in the hands of Americans. The "naval force" consisted of a destroyer escort, and two 133 foot LCI's (Landing Craft, Infantry).

Neither ships nor landing forces spent a single bullet. A guide fired only one shot—a pistol cartridge expended on a Japanese who refused to surrender.

The new Marianas islands were acquired easily as the largest islands of the chain—Guam, Tinian and Saipan—are already firmly held by Americans.

The six new islands are Anatahan, Saipan, Alamagan, Agrihan, Aguncion and Maug. Maug was the only island which showed signs of Japanese military occupancy.

Bodies Found
New York, June 28—The Prague radio said today the bodies of more than 1,000 Allied prisoners of war, who had been shot or starved by the Germans, had been found in western Bohemia.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS GAME

Royal Welcome For Bragg And Butner Ballplayers Here

By CHESTER WALSH
Servicemen from Fort Bragg and Camp Butner, including some nationally known baseball stars; several army officers and enlisted men, recently liberated from German prisoner of war camps, a navy ensign and W. H. Woolard, president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company and War Finance Committee chairman for Region One (16 northeastern counties) combined their energies yesterday to give a boost to the sale of War Bonds and drew nearly 3,000 persons to Guy Smith Stadium to witness a ball game between teams from Fort Bragg and Camp Butner.

Reports from bankers today indicated that the sale of War Bonds has increased considerably.

Camp Butner won the game, 6 to 5, but everybody had a good time. Said District Highway Commissioner John G. Clark, who acted as master of ceremonies at War Bond exercises preceding the game.

Clark introduced Mr. Woolard as "one of North Carolina's most useful citizens." Woolard, whose bank sponsored the War Bond event for Region 1, welcomed the crowd, briefly urged the purchase of bonds, and then Chairman Clark called on veterans of World War II for brief comments on their experiences in the war. They were Army Airforce Lieutenants Wilbur Brown, R. O. Everett and Edgar Denton, Ensign Carl Pierce of the Navy, and Pfc. Melvin Griffin of Grifiton.

Guy V. Smith, after whom the stadium was named, and president of the Greenville baseball club, was out of the city and the fans missed him.

Bill Lee was in a stellar role when he interviewed some of the big league ball players in the game, including Max Lanier, former St. Louis Cardinals pitcher, Van Harrington, former Cincinnati Reds infielder, stationed at Fort Bragg; Captain Ayers and other Camp Butner players.

The batteries for the game were: Fort Bragg—Cole and Spell; Camp Butner—Brackensake, Vorelle and Ayers. Eric Wall and Clarence Barnhill of Greenville were umpires.

Baseball was revived in Greenville yesterday and War Bond buying picked up after the several thousand fans saw the men in uniform out there doing something extra to encourage the sale of bonds.

The players arrived here shortly after noon. Chairman Woolard, John G. Clark, Bill Lee, Don Conley and Dave Moore Jr., took them in tow and gave the visiting servicemen a good sample of Greenville hospitality. The soldiers were quartered at Proctor Hotel. They liked Greenville and the people here liked them and manifested it in a cordial and friendly way. Many of the servicemen told a Reflector reporter they were treated better in Greenville than at any place they have visited.

At the barbecue feast at Respass Place last night it was "fellowship" night and the soldiers enjoyed it. They were enthusiastic in their expressions of appreciation for their entertainment here.

The Camp Butner players left last night, but they didn't want to go. After breakfast at Proctor Hotel this morning the Fort Bragg players left for Rocky Mount, where they play tonight at 3 o'clock.

"The Fort Bragg and Camp Butner players will be pleasantly remembered a long time here. They're fine fellows," said W. H. Woolard, popular banker, after essaying the Connie Mack managerial role for a day.

CHINA READY DO HER SHARE

Kai-Shek Says Japs Might Be Crushed In A Year

Shungking, June 28—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said today the Allies are getting their forces ready to deal Japan its final blow.

If the Americans land on the Japanese home islands and defeat the enemy there, the Chinese will find it simple to deal with the Japanese on the Asiatic mainland, the generalissimo asserted.

He praised his chief of staff, the commander of American forces in China, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, for his "distinct contribution" to Chinese-American military cooperation. He lauded Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, U. S. ambassador, for "his considerable help" in bettering Chinese-American diplomatic relations.

He expressed hope that China would receive the same degree of cooperation in economic matters. He said that unless adequate attention is given to China's economic difficulties, the full utilization and military training of Chinese forces would be hampered.

Chiang's statements were made in the first general foreign press conference he has granted since 1941.

A Chinese-speaking American who attended said the full implication of the generalissimo's remarks meant that:

1. China is prepared to bear the full brunt of the land battle in China, with the support of American Air Forces and special American ground help, and

2. The generalissimo regarded an American landing on the China coast as necessary to open a port for supplies to Chinese forces.

Asked when he thought America should land on the China coast, he said, "The sooner the better."

Chiang said he believed it would require more than 18 months to collapse Japan completely and predicted that the enemy would fall apart in the same manner as did Germany. He added, however, that if Chinese forces were utilized fully, Japan might be crushed within a year.

gows said, however, that he tried to give House all the work possible because the painter had a family of five and his income ran about $1,000 a year. In fact, Dr. Meadows said, he asked some of his friends in Greenville to give House all the work possible.

An item-by-item explanation of accounts in his memorandum book was made by the defendant. There are about 225 such items included in a report by M. L. Widenhouse, certified public accountant attached to the state auditor's office. A highly contested point of law arose late yesterday and continued nearly an hour today. Judge J. Paul Frizzelle finally ruled for the state but the defense excepted, indicating the issue will be taken to the state supreme court in case the defendant is convicted.

The defense tried to get before the jury the fact that Dr. Meadows was acquitted on a directed verdict in nine counts in the first trial, which ended in March after the jury was unable to agree.

The court ruled, however, that the defendant could not say that he was acquitted on those items. It held that the defense could ask him if those items were included in the

Dunn, even though the ruling had been made, continued to ask Dr. Meadows what the verdict was in those items. In each instance the state objected, was sustained, and Dr. Meadows whispered his answers to the court stenographers. Attorney Jesse Jones, special prosecutor, objected to the whispering on one occasion, charging that Dr. Meadows' answers were heard by the jury. Judge Frizzelle asked the jurors if they heard the answer. One said he did. Judge Frizzelle said he was sure that the defendant had unintentionally allowed his voice to be heard, and asked that he not whisper so loud.
