Planes Damaged 24 Jap Warships

Battleships, Aircraft Carriers and Cruisers Included in Toll; 624 Enemy Ships and Nearly 800 Planes Put Out of Commission in Past 17 Days

By AL DOPKING
Guam, Friday, July 27.—(AP)—A sky fleet of more than 350 Superfortresses dropped more than 2,300 tons of fire bombs today on three industrial cities scattered over three home islands of Japan. Splitting into three task forces, the Superforts in the early morning darkness roared in at medium altitude and showered their incendiaries on these three prime targets.

Omuta, one of the empire's most important chemical centers on the southernmost island of Kyushu. Matsuyama, important port city on the western shores of the neighboring island of Shikoku. Tokuyama, another chemical center as well as refining city on the main home island of Honshu.

By HAMILTON W. FARON
Guam, July 26.—(AP)—The taunting U. S. Third Fleet which smashed 24 Japanese warships in the 17 days it has made the home waters of Nippon its own, moved menacingly off the Mikado's islands today, deploying for its next blows at the enemy's stunned cities and shattered ships.

As Admiral Halsey pulled back to sea for a breather, there was no indication that he intended to let up in his steady pounding of war plants, coastal defenses, airfields and the remnants of the Japanese fleet.

Japan still was harassed constantly. Five B-29s mined Osaka Bay, off the southeastern coast of the main home island on Honshu. The bag of enemy vessels was on the west, radio Tokyo said in a broadcast heard by the Federal Communications Commission.

Halsey continued to move his ships about the enemy home waters as he chose, with no resistance on the sea. The Nipponese finally perked up a little in the air, but the few planes they put aloft were almost lost among the Allied hundreds. Nineteen were shot down.

Latest reports on Tuesday's strike indicated that enemy warships caught like sitting ducks at Kure naval base probably would be on the repair list for long periods.

Listed as hit by torpedoes, bombs and bullets from 1,200 carrier-based planes that damaged them from "heavily" to "slightly" were 20 warships, including six aircraft carriers, three battleships and five cruisers.

British planes probably sank an escort carrier of the Kobe class and damaged an old destroyer.

The bag of enemy vessels was pushed to 24 by the four hit Third Fleet planes at the Yokosuka naval base July 18. The superstructure of the 32,700-ton battleship Nagato was heavily damaged. Two other vessels were damaged and a destroyer sunk.

Of equal importance in speeding the end of the war were heavy new (Continued on Page Four)

UP TO JAPS

Potsdam, July 26.—(AP)—The United States, Britain and China tonight issued a joint proclamation to Japan to cease resistance or see its homeland utterly destroyed.

(BBC said that President Truman, Premier Churchill and President Chiang Kai-shek had conferred and agreed that Japan shall be given an opportunity to end this war. The broadcast said the leaders of the three powers had issued an eight-point declaration to the Japanese people to desert their leaders and fight against the "predigious power" now arrayed against Japan. One point of the proclamation, the radio account said, demanded that "Japan must accept unconditional surrender now."

(The proclamation warned the Japanese that the three Allies were "poised to strike the final blow at Japan" with great military power and were "determined to prosecute the war until Japan ceases to resist.")

EARTHQUAKE FELT TODAY

Tremors Did Slight Damage In South Carolina

By the Associated Press
A slight but well-defined earth tremor shook thousands of Carolinians into an early awakening today but did no damage of consequence. Dishes danced on their shelves, the walls of buildings rattled, and a few chimneys were reported cracked as the earth swayed to the accompaniment of a rumbling sound for about a minute at about 6:30 a. m.

Newspapers were swamped with telephone calls seeking information from residents who were jarred out of their slumbers.

The shock was reported generally from points in upper South Carolina, and extended into the fringes of Georgia and North Carolina.

Reports from various points:

Greenville, S. C.: Shocks lasting about 10 seconds felt at 6:30, well-defined and accompanied by rumbling sound. No tangible damage.

Spartanburg: Windows rattled, men's houses aroused.

Anderson: Buildings jarred, inmates awakened, pictures shaken from walls.

Columbia: Buildings shaken, chimney reported to have fallen.

Camden: Dishes danced and rattled; some chimneys reported cracked.

DEFENSE STILL HAS THE STAND

Dozen More Witnesses Heard In Meadows Case

More witnesses testified today that extensive improvements were made at East Carolina Teachers College during the 10 years Dr. Leon R. Meadows was president. He is charged with false pretense and embezzlement of more than $14,000 in special and student funds.

Mrs. Agnes Bassett, presidential secretary, and Mrs. Charlie M. Johnson of Raleigh, a trustee, told of the improvements and Mrs. Barrett testified that Kelly Smith and others had done work at the college.

W. W. Smiley, college librarian, read from the files of the Teco-echo college newspaper, of work at the college.

J. W. Clark, former Greenville contractor now living in Florida, testified that Dr. Meadows had paid him about $5,000 for paving on the campus. The state contends that he obtained his figures from Dr. Meadows after the investigation started, and that although he dated two letters Cocoa, Fla., they actually were written in Greenville.

Each of the witnesses heard yesterday credited the former educator with certain college improvements in the way of repair and construction jobs but none could vouch for the source of funds used in the improvements, among those witnesses were college professors, matrons, carpenters and clerical personnel of the college.

Questioned by the state if any one had ever seen Meadows use a typewriter, each witness replied in the negative. The state has attempted to show that certain invoices in the Baker-Davis Hardware Company cement deals were typewritten by Meadows in the hardware office.

The second trial of Dr. Meadows, now in its eighth week, is expected to run throughout August.

British Election May Affect Potsdam Parley

How Attlee's Policies Will Fit In With Moscow And Washington Poses Big Question

Potsdam, July 27.—(AP)—News of the British labor party's election triumph produced the political sensation of the year among delegations of the three great Allied powers in Potsdam today.

Defeat of Prime Minister Churchill's government apparently marks the second break in the original "big three" and leaves Premier Stalin as the only member of that triumvirate.

The first break was the death April 12 of President Roosevelt, whose place was filled by President Truman.

Clement R. Attlee has been attending the Potsdam conference with Churchill and thus is fully informed on the discussions.

The fact that Attlee's party received a parliamentary majority government for the first time since the 1920s raised these questions here:

Who will share with Attlee the responsibility for directing Britain's foreign affairs?

How soon can the chiefs of the new government return to Potsdam to conclude the deliberations on which the big three have already spent nine days of heavy labor?

How many of Britain's commitments were made by Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden from Tehran through Yalta to Potsdam will be shouldered by the shrewd, bald Laborite who sat here as an "observer"?

The first impression here this afternoon was that Attlee would extend Churchill the courtesy of an invitation to return to Potsdam as a member of his delegation. But it was only a guess and few appeared to believe that Churchill would accept, in view of the British voter's verdict.

There was no authoritative information at once available to clarify the question as to how soon Attlee himself might be able to come back but in most quarters it was believed that this would be within two or three days at most, or the conference recess would become a formal adjournment.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, July 26.—(AP)—Defeat of Britain's Churchill government in favor of a labor party administration appeared certain in this capital today to produce moderate changes in British foreign policy. These may tighten, rather than weaken, cooperation between the United Kingdom and the United States in some international spheres.

The chief changes are expected to concern the liberated countries of Europe—notably Belgium and Greece. Churchill had consistently supported right wing governments in such places and this had been a point of friction between London and Washington. The expressed American policy being to let the people have any government they wanted.

If, as predicted, Clement Attlee replaces Churchill as Prime Minister, he is expected to adopt a policy much nearer that followed by President Roosevelt and President Truman. British and American concern would then be to see that the people of eastern and western Europe alike have full chance—guaranteed (Continued on Page Two)

"Poor Winnie"

London, July 26.—(AP)—The general election of London's mayor-in-the-pub to the election returns today was approval of the Labor victory, but regret at the blow to Prime Minister Churchill.

"We Old Winnie is out and that's a shame that is," summed up the expression of many. "But we'll get along all right."

A tall man in a black derby said Churchill, whose oratory and two-fingered "V" sign were a whiplash and symbol of the British war effort, "should have just put on his hat and walked out on V-E Day."

"He'd done his job well and could have gotten out gracefully," the tall man commented.

A pole barnyard came up to draw another pint of bitter for a fat man on the other side of the room who was loudly celebrating the Labor party victory.

"We showed the blasted Tories," he said.

"Yes, you showed them," retorted the barnyard. "After poor Mr. Churchill took us all through the war, you showed him, too."

Another worker added: "Poor Old Winnie, I bet he could stand a double Scotch right now."

Labor Party Wins Over Two To One Victory For Seats In Parliament; Clement Attlee Will Be New Prime Minister; Churchill Wins Parliament Seat

By the Associated Press
London, July 26.—King George VI tonight commissioned Clement R. Attlee to form a new Labor Government.

London, July 26.—(AP)—Winston Churchill resigned tonight as prime minister in the wake of a voting tabulation which showed the strongly socialist Labor Party had won a 2 to 1 landslide over Churchill's Conservatives in the July 5 election.

Clement R. Attlee, who spearheaded the Labor Party triumph in the last general election, Britain has had in 10 years, was due to succeed Churchill.

The count showed the Laborites had won 381 seats in the 640-seat House of Commons, to the Conservative 193, as the wartime leader presented his resignation at Buckingham Palace.

King George VI immediately accepted the resignation of the 70-year-old statesman.

Churchill went to Buckingham Palace at 7 p. m. 1/2 p. m., Eastern War Time.

Churchill gave his last V-sign as premier when he drove through the palace gate, sitting alone in the back seat of his automobile. His grave face was broken by a brief smile for a little crowd which had greeted him as the sentries saluted.

Attlee faces twin tasks of leading Britain's part of the war on Japan and reconstructing this war torn nation under a program that calls for nationalization of much of its industry.

Britons had their first chance in 10 years to vote in a general election July 5 and they voted very strongly to the left, defeating 27 members of Churchill's "caretaker" government but electing Mr. Churchill himself and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to their own constituencies. While Eden will no longer be foreign minister, few changes in Britain's foreign policy are expected. Attlee has been attending the Potsdam conference and probably will return there tomorrow.

PROGRESS IN PETAIN TRIAL

More Witnesses Say Marshal Blocked French Effort

By LOUIS NEVIN
Paris, July 25.—(AP)—Justice Jeanneney, former president of the French Senate, told a high court of justice today that the machinations of Pierre Laval made Marshal Petain dictator when France collapsed in 1940 and that the two men "made common cause together."

The white-haired witness appeared at this fourth day of Petain's trial on charges of betraying France.

Jeanneney, president of the Senate in 1940, described an extraordinary session of Parliament in which Laval, Vichy chief of government, suppressed debate and rammed through three "constitutional acts" abrogating the Constitution and giving the marshal virtually unlimited powers.

He said Petain showed "deplorable weakness" when he succeeded Paul Reynaud as premier at Bordeaux in June, 1940.

"Let us admit that we had no other choice," Jeanneney said.

As the witness left the courtroom the 80-year-old marshal, who had been maintaining an aloof air, made the extraordinary gesture of bowing to the witness. Jeanneney bowed in return.

Louis Marin, former minister of state, then testified.

Marin, like Jeanneney, said Petain (Continued on Page Six)

The WAR TODAY

AN ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
Labor's victory over Winston Churchill's Conservatives in the English elections means a strong swing to the left, but we shouldn't mistake it as representing the long-haired brand of intellectual socialism.

It isn't a revolutionary upheaval but an evolutionary change arising from the desire of labor for a bigger place in the sun—for a new way of life. We may expect a big change in England's social policies under the new government. There will be considerable nationalization of industry. There will be an even greater redistribution of incomes—a leveling off. The big estates of the landed aristocracy will continue to disappear with increasing rapidity.

However, this change relates to domestic conditions, and there is no reason to anticipate any major alteration in foreign policy, especially since British labor is internationalist. John Bull works on a long-term foreign policy and therefore we may expect him to carry on along his old lines in the war against Japan and in the rehabilitation of the world.

For some three weeks Tokyo has been nervously forecasting a British attack on the mammoth naval base of Singapore which for nearly three and a half years has been one of Japan's key positions for offense and defense.

Frequently when the Mikado's spokesmen broadcast prophesies like that they are fishing for information from the Allies—hoping that we shall be foolish enough to make a retort that will divulge our plans. In this case, however, the Japs undoubtedly are sincere, as witness that they have been evacuating civilians from the island to the Malay mainland and are preparing for attack.

Well, they may be right. My information from good sources is that Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, commander-in-chief in the South-east Pacific, has been getting a lot of ships and materiel from Europe and is fairly well set for major action. It's worth noting, too, that Mountbatten attended the Big Three conference at Potsdam yesterday. Certainly it's a position for us to watch.

It is true that the monsoon season, with its fierce winds and rains, is now in full blast over the Indian Ocean. But this wouldn't necessarily prevent an operation against Singapore, since the lower Malay Peninsula is outside the monsoon belt. As I see it, the British could make an amphibious invasion of the narrow part of the peninsula, establish a base through which to funnel reinforcements and supplies, and then fight their way down to Singapore, which lies just off the tip.

Recapture of Singapore would be one of the big victories of the war, for it would permit the Allies to reopen the narrow Strait of Malacca between the Malay Peninsula and Sumatra. Through this strait, which is a short-cut between the Indian (Continued on Page Four)

Hold County Court City Hall July 31

Judge Dink James will preside over a session of Pitt County Court at the City Hall next Tuesday, July 31, he announced today. There are nearly 50 cases on the docket for trial. The session of court was transferred from the courthouse on account of the Meadows trial.

County Court took a recess on August 3 in order not to interfere with harvesting the tobacco crop.

Alert Police Stop Robbery At Hotel

The Greenville Hotel on Dickinson Avenue, not far from the City Hall, has its cash register and contents back today as a result of the diligence of the police. Policemen Gladson and Clark, cruising slowly over the city about 2:30 this morning, saw two Marines carrying the hotel cash register out of the door. When the officers slowed up the servicemen dropped the register and ran. It was locked. The robbers had escaped when the policemen got out of the car. They disappeared through a vacant lot.

The officers, however, have a good description of the fugitives. Police Chief James Tanner said.

The hotel clerk, Bud Venters, was asleep in a chair when the robbery was committed, police understood.

Japan Shows Signs Of Being Ready To Quit

(Editor's Note: James D. White has been studying the Japanese military mind since he covered the beginning of the war in China eight years ago. He was a technical prisoner in Shanghai after Pearl Harbor 1942. After three years in the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press he is on San Francisco's Pacific cable desk, and next week he takes over Kirke L. Simpson's column, "Interpreting the War News.") in China and elsewhere.

So much so that earlier today Tokyo radio agreed with Admiral Halsey that American sea and air power indeed had opened the pre-invasion phase of warfare against the Japanese homeland.

The Japanese peace feeler said "here really are no 'problems' between a 'liberal America' and Japan," and claimed that a "liberal America has never given occasion for Japanese militarists to rise, but America now talks of unconditional surrender."

The implication is that America is not now "liberal" and that the unconditional surrender formula is an outgrowth of the lack of what the Japanese consider liberality.

"In short, the (American officials) intend to mete out such a hard retribution that the Japanese people are more determined than ever to unite and resist as a united mass of 100 million souls and will so continue as long as American minds remain dictatorial and oppressive," declared the Japanese commentator.

"Should America show any sincerity of putting into practice what she preaches, as for instance in the Atlantic Charter, excepting its punitive clause, the Japanese nation, in fact the Japanese military, would automatically, if not willingly (several words missing) follow in the stopping of the conflict and then and then only will sabers cease to rattle both in the east and in the west, he continued."

The spokesman's reference to the Atlantic Charter suggested that he might be replying to an American broadcast made to Japan last Saturday.

Report Landing Malay Peninsula

July 26.—(AP)—An unconfirmed Japanese broadcast reported today an American reconnaissance force landed on Puket Island, off the west coast but was driven "back to the sea" by the Japanese garrison.

Puket is in the Bay of Bengal 625 miles north of Singapore. This is in the British area of operations but the Japanese Domei news agency disatch said the landing force was "identified as American."

The broadcast, intercepted by the Federal Communication Commission, said two cruisers began shelling the island about 8 a. m. Wednesday. Behind this bombardment six transports disgorged 500 troops.

No Change Toward Jap Capitulation

Washington, July 26.—(AP)—Acting Secretary of State Grew declared today that the policy of this government toward ending the war with Japan remains unconditional surrender—regardless of the latest enemy peace-feelers.

Grew was asked for comment on the enemy broadcast last night in which the Japanese in effect begged for more lenient terms of surrender.

Through his press officer, Grew replied he had no comment to make directly on the broadcast but that his July 10 statement reiterating the United States government's position still stands.

In that statement he repeated previous warnings against what he called "a compromise peace with Japan, no matter how alluring such a peace may be or how desirous we may become of ending this terrible conflict."

To this he added that such a policy does not mean "destruction or enslavement of the Japanese people."

Today On The Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, July 26.—(AP)—The present Senate fight over the United Nations charter is really not a fight over the charter. The Senate will approve that.

The real fight seems sure to come months from now. That's when we decide, in a separate agreement, how the United Nations will use American troops.

Under our Constitution, the Senate—not the House—approves treaties. Two-thirds of the senators present at voting time have to vote "yes" to approve.

Getting two-thirds of the Senate to vote "yes" is lots tougher than getting only a simple majority of them to vote that way.

Because it's so hard, efforts have been made to get around this two-thirds rule of the Senate.

Instead of submitting treaties to the Senate, some presidents have entered into what is called "executive agreements" with foreign governments.

These agreements, having the effect of treaties, don't have to run the Senate gauntlet. There they might be killed, if offered as treaties.

President Roosevelt by executive agreement in 1940—swapped 50 over-age destroyers with Britain for leases on British Western Hemisphere bases for the United States.)

And some agreements with foreign nations—also having the effect of treaties—have been put through the whole Congress in the form of resolutions or bills.

At any rate, we'll have to work all that out in the form of a resolution or bill needs the approval of both House and Senate, but only by a simple majority vote in both. Thus the two-thirds Senate bugaboo is avoided.

(The Senate and House recently approved by majority vote both a resolution and a bill which were international agreements.)

(The bill was the Bretton Woods agreement on a world monetary fund and bank. The resolution was one which made us a member of the United Nations food and agriculture organization.)

So much for the background. The United Nations charter has come to us in the form of a treaty. So the Senate's working on it. When it's approved we'll be a member of the United Nations to keep peace in the world.

Even isolationist senators can vote for the charter. But here's where they may put up a fight!

Maybe a year from now, when the United Nations organization is operating, we'll have to decide how many troops and ships and planes we'll put at the disposal of the United Nations to keep peace.

We'll also have to decide whether or those armed forces can be called into action by the United Nations to suppress aggression anywhere—or just where we'll let them be used.

If we put drastic limits on the size of our armed forces (for United Nations use) and limits on where they'll be used, we may destroy the United Nations.

At any rate, we'll have to work all that out in the form of a resolution or bill needs the approval of both House and Senate, but only by a simple majority vote in both. Thus the two-thirds Senate bugaboo is avoided.

So much for the background. The United Nations charter has come to us in the form of a treaty. So the Senate's working on it. When it's approved we'll be a member of the United Nations to keep peace in the world.

Even isolationist senators can vote for the charter. But here's where they may put up a fight!

Maybe a year from now, when the United Nations organization is operating, we'll have to decide how many troops and ships and planes we'll put at the disposal of the United Nations to keep peace.

We'll also have to decide whether or those armed forces can be called into action by the United Nations to suppress aggression anywhere—or just where we'll let them be used.

If we put drastic limits on the size of our armed forces (for United Nations use) and limits on where they'll be used, we may destroy the United Nations.

At any rate, we'll have to work all that out in the form of a resolution or bill needs the approval of both House and Senate, but only by a simple majority vote in both. Thus the two-thirds Senate bugaboo is avoided.

(The Senate and House recently approved by majority vote both a resolution and a bill which were international agreements.)

(The bill was the Bretton Woods agreement on a world monetary fund and bank. The resolution was one which made us a member of the United Nations food and agriculture organization.)

Red Oak News

In spite of extra hard work on the farm rainy days and hot weather a goodly number of men, women and children attended Sunday school at Red Oak last Sunday morning and most of them were present on time. The first fifteen minutes is always given over to the song leader and good community singing of the old favorite hymns and special singing by different groups is enjoyed. We have tried mightily hard to reach a goal set for us of one-hundred present for the past month, but so far, try as hard as we could, we have missed it. Last Sunday about fifty people raised their hands and said they would do all they could to have one hundred present next Sunday, July 29, at 10 o'clock. Are you a member of Sunday school anywhere? If not why not come to Red Oak. There is a class for all ages and sizes. Mrs. Amos Evans and Mrs. Thurman Paiké have the beginners and primary classes and no better or more conscientious teachers will be found anywhere. It will really mean a lot to your child in later life for him to be taught by these two fine young mothers.

Mr. Amos Evans and Mrs. Heber Allen have charge of the next two classes of boys and girls. They have a large number attending but they would like to have more. Your children would enjoy being with this group and would derive a great deal of good from having Mr. Evans and Mrs. Allen as teachers.

The Sunshine class which was organized and named over 20 years ago has its original teacher, Mrs. B. L. Tyson. It is from this class that our Sunday school has lost so many of its members. We have about 45 stars on our service flag, among which is a gold star, and most of these at one time or another have been members of this class. A large number of our girls are away also in defense work. We miss them, oh, so much, but we are trying to keep our candle burning so that when our loved ones return to their homes and their communities they will find an even better Sunday school and church at Red Oak than when they left. In a letter from a member of the Sunshine class, he wrote, "The people in America should be very grateful that they are allowed to go to church and Sunday school and to worship God as they please."

Poiks of the Red Oak Community are you grateful for that privilege? If so, why not attend Sunday school at the church of your choice next Sunday?

If you are an adult, then you will enjoy the class which Mrs. James Allen has taught for the past several years. When the grown folks in a community attend Sunday school, they set a good example for their children to follow.

Mrs. L. W. Edwards and children, Alice Lee and Bobbie, are spending a month with Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tyson, while Mr. Edwards is in the Georgia tobacco market.

teed by the big powers when necessary—to choose their own governments.

In basic issues of cooperation among the big three powers—in British prosecution of the war against Japan—in British adherence to the United Nations charter, Bretton Woods agreements and the like the incoming of a labor government is expected to make no significant difference.

One place at which some differences of operation may be noted is the big three meetings, including the current one at Potsdam. Prior to Russia's entrance into the war with Germany, Churchill had a long anti-Communist record. As British Prime Minister he proved himself able to work with Generalissimo Stalin despite the fact that the belief has always persisted here that while Stalin accepted Churchill's war aims entirely, he would be somewhat suspicious of his long-

DOROTHY BURGESS

Chapter 10

"Not until I'm finished," Ben said stolidly. "What's going to happen when this Winston guy catches up with your background and the lies you've been feedin' him write a biography about your life?"

"What can he do about it, once we're married? Besides, you seem to forget that I am a great actress!"

Mario laughed affectively and resumed her "ritzy" diction. "Before very long you'll see my name in the Blue Book; and as soon as I get Winston Manor running the way I want it, I'll invite you to one of my outstanding social functions."

"No, thanks."

"And why not, may I ask?"

Ben answered quietly and pointedly. "Because, my dear young lady, I happen to be smart enough to stay on my own side of the fence." With that remark, Ben leaned over, picked up the manuscript, and as he did so sensed a decided change in Mario's mood.

"Ben-nee?" she cooed.

"Yes?" he said, tucking the manuscript under his arm and picking up his hat.

"I suppose you'll have to put Crimson Angel on ice?" she said.

"What makes you think that?"

"Well, after all, the play was written for me, wasn't it?"

"That's right," he answered, while on his way to the glass door.

"Ben!" She stopped him. He turned. "You haven't answered my question!"

"I'm going to sign your rival, Lilly Day!"

"Lilly Day!" she screamed. "That mildewed, peroxide blonde! The amateur ham!"

Mario was speechless with anger. An amused smile spread over Ben's round face. Then he said pointedly "I'll be seein' you, Aggie!" And he lodged just in time as an onyx cigarette box whizzed past his head.

Madge looked refreshingly attractive in her powder-blue gabardine suite with chocolate brown accessories. The wind, as she drove blew her golden hair into a halo effect around her tight-fitting skull cap. Her sable neckpiece waved gaily at the passing scenery. The contrast between Madge's smart ensemble and Uncle Louie's antiquated outfit was not only startling but ludicrous. Uncle Louie was all eyes as he sat holding Sunshine on his lap.

Madge never failed to wave and sometimes stop to chat with Mike the handsome Irish motorcycle officer, who had been stationed at the same intersection between Mamaroneck and New York City for five and moaned, "Oh, my God!"

John looked up at him, his voice deep with emotion. "She's always hated that house, Fred, and I made her live in it." Then he stood up. "I'll see to it that she moves out of there today."

"I wouldn't suggest such a move, it might be dangerous."

"Dangerous?"

"You see, John, Madge's apparition of Uncle Louie is undoubtedly connected with the old house, and we must let her illusions run their full course and automatically disappear. Once that happens she will be herself again. But in the meantime, we must play along with her and pretend to accept this Uncle Louie as if he were very much alive and kicking. And above all, John, don't argue with her, or ridicule her hallucinations; if you do, it might bring on tragic results."

"Tragic?" John gulped.

"She might become obstinate and keep this Uncle Louie alive in her mind indefinitely. We can't take that chance."

"No, we can't," he answered brokenly, and the doctor felt sorry for him.

"Buck up—who knows," he said encouragingly.

Make the Most of Meat Points

In these days of strict meat rationing, we should plan to spend our points to get the greatest possible amount of good lean meat, for two reasons: (1) to satisfy our meat appetite and (2) to supply our protein needs. Mor, a high quality canned luncheon meat, is a good point value because it contains no bone and is high in top quality protein and B vitamins... to say nothing of its delicious flavor.

MOR Risotto—A pleasant way to stretch meat points

Melt 4 tbsp. Advance Shortening
Add 1 cup sliced onions
1 cup rice, washed and dried
Cook over moderate heat about 10 min., stirring as needed.
Add 4 cups hot water
4 tsp. Wilson's B-V dissolved

Clip Recipe Here

Stretch the Meat Flavor

It's rice and Wilson's B-V we use this time to extend the precious meat flavor—the rice to add volume, the B-V to add good rich meat flavor. That, plus the good flavor of Mor added in bite-sized pieces, makes this Mor Risotto something to really talk about. And it's easy to eat, too, believe me!

Serve Mor Risotto with new peas in cream, a crisp vegetable salad from your Victory Garden with fresh blueberries for dessert and you will please your family no end. And yourself, too, because it's prepared so quickly.

Use What You Have

If you have bacon drippings (Certified Bacon drippings are really delicious), you may use them in the place of Advance Shortening in making the Mor Risotto. They'll add a bit more good meat flavor... and every bit counts these days.

If it's left-over cooked rice you have on hand, use 4 cups cooked rice in the place of one cup of uncooked rice and reduce the cooking time (after adding water) to about 5 min.

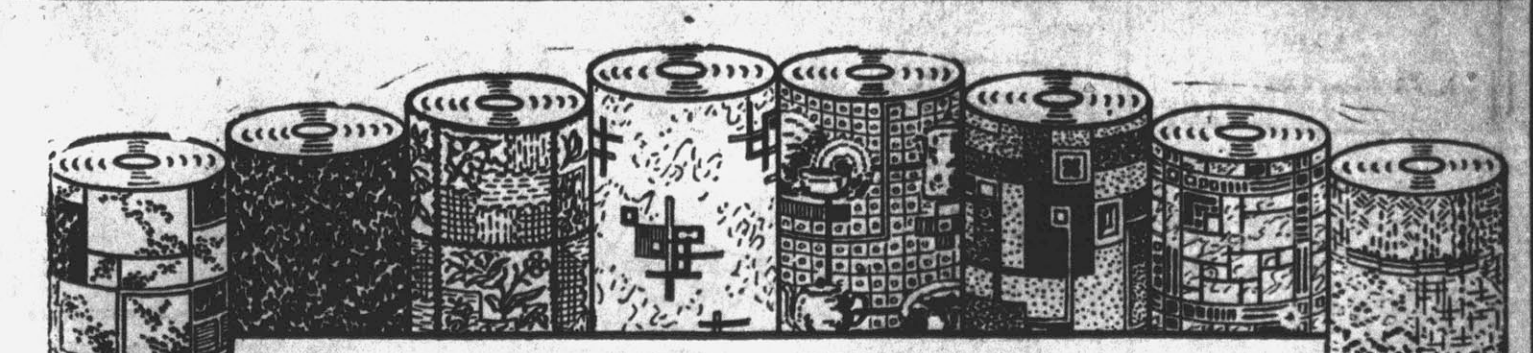

Summer Garden Salad

Shred cabbage finely, add finely minced onion, grated carrot and chopped parsley and mix all with just enough Wilson's Mayonnaise to moisten thoroughly. And why not a garnish of hard cooked Certified Eggs cut in wedges? Delicious!

Sincerely, George Rector

Strength FOR THE DAY
 By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WHAT IS HERESY?
 The heresy of one age becomes the orthodoxy of the next. In the early Roman Empire, the Christians were called "haters of mankind." They were the heretics of their time. They defied the State religion and challenged the conduct of their neighbors. With every device of torture, the rulers of Rome for 250 years attempted to suppress and stamp out the Christian religion, which they claimed to believe was a monstrous superstition. But Christianity, like last conqueror of the empire, the Christians became orthodox and in turn persecuted heresy. In almost every age earnest men have considered it their duty to punish violently the disposition of certain of their fellows to believe strange and unaccepted truths. No group of men has been more cruelly persecuted than the scientists. Sometimes this persecution was carried on by religious fanatics, but at other times it was carried on by fellow scientists. Pasteur hesitated to try his treatment for rabies on a human being because he knew that hundreds of his fellow scientists stood ready to persecute him and drive him to his death if the cure should fail. Sabatier, the French philosopher, has written: "There are hours when the heresy which suffers, which seeks and pays, is much nearer the source of life than the intellectual obstinacy incapable, as it would seem, of comprehending the dogmas that it keeps embalmed."

AMERICA IN WARTIME
 By JACK STENNETT

Washington—While the commercial aviation emphasis these days is all on the international airways and who is going to fly them, a movement has started in Congress to speed airline service to small communities over the nation from Saco, Me., to San Juan Capistrano, if you know where.

While we like to think of the United States as a country well blanketed by the airlines, the blanket doesn't cover much more than our knees.

There are 360 cities and towns now on main, trunk or feeder lines of commercial companies. It sounds fine. But they serve only about a third of our total population. There are 2,500 other communities which have applications before the Civil Aeronautics Board, and are eager to take off the minute CAB flashes the green light.

To hurry this along, Rep. Jennings Randolph, the West Virginian who is about the best friend commercial aviation has in Congress, has introduced a resolution in the House requesting CAB to open the throttle in granting these applications.

The resolution actually is only a declaration of intent—a "vote of confidence"—but it is believed that by going on record as favoring the quickest possible action on the applications, Congress can provide the stimulus that will prod CAB along.

If CAB is lagging, it isn't because they want to hold up service to the smaller communities, said Josh Lee, former senator from Oklahoma and now a member of the board, when I asked him about it.

There are three things that have tended to slow up the board down:

(1) It has had to drop almost everything to act on granting international routes or else see the United States take a back seat in world aviation. (2) The law requires that open hearings must be held before action can be taken on any application—and open hearings require time. (3) The board has to proceed cautiously for fear of binding the treasury to airmail commitments beyond what the law allows—in other words, every community served has to be surveyed.

The CAB would like to see some additional legislation protecting it in the grant of charters to new lines or the extension of existing ones. Rep. Randolph doesn't think any necessary, but will whip up some if his present resolution doesn't get the job done.

Since every one of the 48 states and 315 of the nation's 435 congressional districts are represented in the applications on file, there isn't any doubt about passage of the Randolph resolution.

It was Rep. Randolph who seven years ago was a House leader in the fight to get the experimental airmail pick-up bill through. Serving small communities by the pick-up and drop system has been paying the Post Office dividends ever since.

The Congressman thinks the same will prove true when the towns, villages and crossroads are given a chance to support scheduled commercial flights.

The War Today ...

Ocean and the South China Sea, the British East India fleet could pour for operations against the China coast and Japan proper.

It will be a great moment for John Bull when he starts his assault to avenge the disaster which the Japs inflicted on him at the beginning of '42. "Invincible" Singapore fell on February 15 at one of the blackest periods of the world war for the Allies. The Mikado's forces had assaulted Pearl Harbor on December 7, Wake Island fell on Christmas Day and the enemy had occupied Manila on January 2. Hitler already was counting his chickens—and why not!

Singapore was the most powerful naval base in all that part of the globe. It had taken $80,000,000 to build it, at a cost of $80,000,000, and it was one of the wonders of the world.

It's 22 square miles of deep sea anchorage could accommodate the entire British fleet. It had a floating dock capable of handling a 45,000-ton battleship, a graving dock able to take care of the vast liner Queen Mary and great underground depots. It was guarded by huge coastal guns.

Nobody—barring the Japanese—had dreamed that this Gibraltar of the Orient could be captured or even harmed. Thus it was one of the greatest shocks of the whole war when the Nipponese fought their way down through the streaming jungles of the Malay Peninsula and swarmed over onto this 217 square miles with its population of some 600,000.

It can be assumed that the Japanese have kept the base up to par. What they may do in the way of destruction when their day of doom approaches remains to be seen. The latest information available is that they have some 75,000 troops on Singapore and the Malay Peninsula. If the British should land on the peninsula, it's probable that the Japs would fight a retiring action towards Singapore, and finally make a suicide stand on the island.

Tokyo believes that a preliminary assault against Malaya will be British occupation of the Nicobar Islands, off the northwest tip of Sumatra. That seems like another good news on their part. Keep an eye on it!

Japan Shows ...

urday by Capt. E. C. Zacharias, USN, who told Japanese leaders they had a fast-fading choice of two opportunities at present:

1. Virtual destruction of Japan followed by a dictated peace.
 2. Unconditional surrender with attendant benefits as laid down by the Atlantic Charter.

Two other factors may be involved:

There have been persistent reports that the Big Three conference in Potsdam has discussed and reached agreement on Far Eastern questions. The general assumption is that the result bodes no good for Japan and that Japan knows it.

Much interest also had been attached to a statement made in Chungking by China's premier, T. V. Soong, just back from several personal conferences with Marshal Stalin in Moscow. Soong made it plain that he had made good enough progress with the Russians regarding mutual problems that he was willing to be optimistic in public and predict the war would end this year or early in 1946.

Still another sign of political defeat for Japan came from Chungking. The Central Chinese government admitted that its troops had clashed with Chinese Communist forces in the north. While both sides blamed the other for starting the fight, the attitude of each was significantly different.

Chungking shrugged it off with an air of confidence, as much as to ask the Communists what they intended to make of it.

The Reds, on the other hand, said they were "very indignant." Communist irritation might have stemmed, it was considered here, from a fear that Moscow had no intention of cold-shouldering the Chungking government and actively supporting the Chinese Red regime in Yenan. Such a Moscow decision, if actually taken, would be almost certainly an outgrowth of Soong's talks with Stalin.

So this is the question: Will that agreement be in the form of a treaty, of a bill, or of a resolution?

If it comes to the Senate in the form of a treaty a year from now, a great many senators who are now willing to vote for the charter might not be willing to vote for that other treaty, or at least they might try to hamstring it.

The charter says simply that the agreements on the size of the armed forces each nation promises for use of the United Nations "shall be subject to ratification by the signatory states in accordance with their respective constitutional processes."

Some senators now, fearing that a year from now two-thirds of the senators might not vote for the treaty on our armed forces, are blows on the enemy merchant fleet, already reduced to such an extent it could not move sufficient supplies for the homeland or fighting fronts.

Planes Damaged ...

One oiler was sunk from the almost depleted fleet of tankers: nine cargo ships went down and 18 cargo vessels were damaged. Dozens of small coastal craft, such as luggers and junks, were sunk or damaged by strafing planes.

In all, 32 enemy merchant ships and 53 small craft were sunk or damaged.

With the Japanese finally offering token resistance in the air, 19 enemy planes were shot down. Together American and British airmen destroyed or damaged 190 other Japanese aircraft Tuesday and on Wednesday morning.

Bad weather interrupted yesterday's renewed carrier plane attacks after the early morning flights returned, but the assault was resumed in the afternoon and there was no reason to believe Halsey's fleet had left Japanese waters.

Through Tuesday, 620 Japanese ships had been knocked out and 778 airplanes destroyed or damaged in 15 days of strikes by units under Nimitz' command. Most of this damage was inflicted by Halsey's force.

Keeping the enemy homeland under almost constant alert, nearly 100 B-29s struck three big oil targets in the Tokyo area last mid-night with demolition bombs. Pilots said they created large fires in each of the targets, the Mitsubishi, Hitama and Asahi plants at Kawasaki. One B-29 was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

B-29 headquarters said the Superforts had destroyed a total of 143 square miles of urban industrial areas in 39 Japanese homeland cities.

Marine Corsairs hit Kyushu, southernmost of the home islands, and 11th AAF Liberators bombed Kure airfield on Paramushiro in the Kuriles.

Far East Air Force planes struck targets from Malaya and Java to Shanghai and Kyushu, concentrating chiefly on military targets.

Nimitz' announcement of Tuesday's results included damage listed in his preliminary report yesterday. It added the well known—and once-feared—battleship Haruna and six aircraft carriers to the list of major warships damaged.

The Haruna erroneously was reported sunk early in the war—but has been damaged at least twice since the Army Air Force's Capt. Colin Kelly posthumously was given the Congressional Medal of Honor for crashing his burning plane into her. She was damaged in the battle for Leyte Gulf last October and fled, with other imperial fleet survivors, to port.

The other battleship damaged were the Myuga, heavily, and the Ise, moderately. Both had been equipped with small flight decks aft for carrying and estapulating planes.

The large aircraft carrier Amagi was heavily damaged and the Katsuragi moderately. Slightly damaged were the large aircraft carrier Aso, light carrier Hoshio and the escort carrier Kalyo.

Three of the five cruisers hit were heavy. Other warships knocked out by American bombs or torpedoes were three destroyers, a midget submarine and a gunboat.

American pilots, attacking Kure naval base, Japan's largest, found the bulk of the warships Tuesday and were searching for them under their heavy camouflage again yesterday when bad weather intervened.

The British attacked to the east, in the east Shikoku-Oyayama-Pukuyama area of the Inland Sea.

The British and Americans fared about equally well in their toll of merchant shipping and found time also to destroy or damage 14 locomotives, a small factory and two stations near Hamamatsu, warehouses, a power plant, a round house, an oil farm, hangars, storage buildings, shop buildings, other factories and radar stations, an aircraft factory and numerous airfield installations.

Nimitz said report of American losses were not yet available. Eight British planes were lost with 12 pilots and air crewmen.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, July 26 - (AP) - A relatively fast retreat was negotiated by most stock market leaders today as bearish implications were placed on the sharp swing to the left in the British elections and the surprising decisive overthrow of the Churchill government.
Wall Street seemed to feel that "if it can happen there it can happen here." Share owners, consequently decided that safety-first was the wisest policy and commitments were trimmed accordingly. Thoughts of possible Far Eastern war developments also tended to accentuate investment caution.
Dealings picked up moderately in the first hour, slowed at intervals, and expanded again in the final period as offerings became more insistent. Losses of 1 to 3 points were widespread near the close. Transfers ran to around 1,500,000 shares, largest in more than a week.

Baseball

By JACK HANB
AP Sports Writer
Prize sleeper play of the baseball season appears to be the slight-of-hand trick by which Cincinnati acquired Joe Bowman from the Boston Red Sox for the nominal $7,500 waiver fee.

Stories about the Mort Cooper-Charley Barrett, Buddy Rosar-Frankie Hayes and Joe Medwick-Clyde Klutz deals have hit the headlines but Bowman's moving day was buried with the pony league scores and the British football results.

The 35-year-old righthander has been pitching since 1929 and has seen action with both Philadelphia clubs and the New York Giants and Pittsburgh before the Red Sox brought him back from the minors last year. This spring in Boston he was knocked out three times running, losing two decisions before Manager Joe Cronin and the other skippers waived him out of the circuit May 29.

Once Bowman arrived in Cincinnati, whether it was the handling of wily Bill McKechnie or the change of scenery in a new league, he became a ball of fire. Nobody beat him in five outings until the Phillies did the trick July 1. In 10 starting appearances to date, the veteran has won 8, lost 2 and gone the route eight times, making more than one fan wonder how he was snatched out of the American League.

As some of the majors went back to work today after a one-day vacation on which no games were scheduled, the files were still incomplete on the Cooper-Barrett swap that caused so much talk. Brother Mort, still troubled by a sore arm, has started only once in a month for Boston and was on record as saying he would be able to take only short turns the rest of the season pending a winter operation. Barrett was knocked out of the box two times running by Brooklyn but he has compiled a 10-4 record in St. Louis and 12-7 for the year.

Neither Hayes nor Rosar were exciting any commotion in the junior circuit race although Frankie still was in there every day for Cleveland setting records and Rosar was in and out of the A's lineup and below .300 in the batting derby.

Roy Cullenbine had hit eight homers for Detroit since Cleveland traded him for Dutch Meyer and Don Ross, who have been holding down regular infield jobs and hitting him in the 270s.

Medwick has been riding the bench in Boston after starting a few games, and Klutz has been doing considerable catching for the Giants.

Vince DiMaggio has proved more helpful to the Phillies than Al Gerhauser to Pittsburgh. DiMaggio has hit 14 into the stands and Gerhauser has won only two while dropping eight for the Bucs.

There is no debate about the swap that worked out best for one of the principals involved. That's the one that sent Ben Chapman from Brooklyn to the Phillies for Catcher Johnny Peacock. Ben wound up becoming manager of the Phillies when Freddy Fitzsimmons resigned.

Injured Marine Is Slightly Improved

By CHESTER WALSH
 Pvt. Robert Minton, Marine from the Greenville air station, who was found on Greene Street near the river early Tuesday with serious head injuries and in a dazed condition, was slightly improved at the Camp Lejeune Marine hospital today. Police Chief James Tanner said the injured Marine had been unable to tell what happened to him. Police and Marine authorities are investigating the case.

A Marine sergeant on the way to the air station across the river found Minton bleeding from head injuries, and his clothes soaking wet, as though he had been in the river. He was so dazed he could not tell his rescuers what happened to him. He was taken in an ambulance to the local Marine base. His condition was so serious he was sent to Cherry Point and later transferred to the Camp Lejeune hospital.

The incident was not reported to Greenville police. The department accidentally learned of the near-tragedy, Chief Tanner said. Authorities today would not give any information on clues they are working on, but it is believed that Minton was attacked somewhere else and put out of a car near the river.

Kiwansians To Hear Talk On Aviation

By CHESTER WALSH
 Maj. J. D. Winstead of Rocky Mount, group commander of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP), North Carolina Wing, will be the speaker at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting Friday night at 6:30. Willard T. Kyzer, secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, will give some interesting statistics about the Greenville airfield. Lieut. Ray McKenzie, commander of the local CAP squadron, will have charge of the program. Dr. J. M. Barrett, the president, will preside.

Secretary Dave Moore, Jr. today announced that the Greenville club will send a large delegation to the "charter night" banquet of the Swansboro Kiwanis Club on Friday, August 3, at 7 o'clock. The Jacksonville club, sponsoring the newly organized Swansboro club, is making arrangements for the affair. The secretary of the Jacksonville club wants to know how many Greenville Kiwanians plan to attend and how many of them want to make arrangements to spend the night and go on a deep sea fishing trip Saturday and Sunday. The Swansboro Kiwanis Club is the third one organized in the seventh division of Carolinas Kiwanis District this year. Greenville sponsored the new Farmville Club, and co-sponsored the new Kinston club. Jacksonville is sponsoring the Swansboro club.

Progress In . . .

 Laval blocked the French Government from moving to Africa when the Germans overran the country. He recalled a law of 1893 fixing the death penalty for anyone dealing with the enemy while any part of France is occupied.

When the trial opened, Defense Attorney Jean Lemaire read a short statement from Petain denying that Petain ever sent a telegram to Hitler.

"The prosecution alleged that Petain congratulated the Germans on having repelled the Canadian attack at Dieppe, and requested that France be allowed to participate in the fight against Allied invasion," Lemaire said. "I have this statement from Petain, 'I am certain I never gave any order to send such a cable. I cannot believe that any authority other than the foreign office would have been entrusted with such a message.'"

Jeanneney said the Renaud cabinet considered moving both to England and North Africa in the last days before Petain became premier and that the marshal flatly refused to leave France.

Shortly after the armistice was signed, Jeanneney said Laval came to him and asked him to convoke the Senate.

"I curtly refused," Jeanneney said, "but next day, two decrees were promulgated ending the regular session of Parliament and conconvoking it as an extraordinary session on July 9."

Jeanneney said he learned that members of both of the National Assembly had agreed to forego all debate "so there was nothing to do but vote on the resolution to give Petain full power and to draw a new Constitution for France."

"When certain members attempted to explain their views, Laval told it was a violation of all our constitutional procedure."

The first three days of the trial of the 89-year-old former chief of the Vichy French State, who is charged with intelligence with the enemy and of plotting against the security of France, progressed so slowly that on several occasions members of the special 24-man jury exclaimed, "Let's get on with it."

May Vote Saturday

Washington, July 26—(AP)—Senate leaders pointed today toward ratification of the United Nations charter by Saturday, or Monday at the latest.

If there are indications tomorrow that the roll-call can be reached, shortly, Majority Leader Barkley is prepared to call a Saturday session. Otherwise, the Senate will recess over the weekend.

Prison Camp Hit
 San Francisco, July 26—(AP)—The Japanese Domei agency claimed today that a prisoner-of-war camp in Kawasaki, midway between Tokyo and Yokohama, was hit by B-29 bombs during a raid last night.
