MORE ATOMIC BOMBS BLAST JAPAN

Nagasaki Target Of Today's Raid

More Than One Of New Bombs May Have Been Used; Meanwhile Superfortresses Strike At Tokyo And Other Areas Including Aviation Gasoline Center

By MURLIN SPENCER
Guam, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The world's most destructive force—the atomic bomb—was used for the second time against Japan today, striking the important Kyushu Island city of Nagasaki with observed "good results."

More than one bomb may have been dropped in this second attack and it might have been of a different size than the first one which destroyed 60 per cent of Hiroshima. The carefully worded communique said only that the second use of the atomic bomb had occurred, leaving to speculation all other details.

A force of 80 Superfortresses attacked Japan's chief refinery of aviation gasoline at Amagasaki, Osaka, tonight. The plane dropped nearly 500 tons of demolition bombs. It was the fourth consecutive day of B-29 strikes at Nippon cities and industrial plants.

The atomic bombing was followed with an attack by "about 100 B-29s" on the Tokyo area targets. Tokyo radio reported in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission. The bombers struck at Oji, Shima, Ogikubo and Tamachi, described as industrial areas, and at Senju at 4:50 p. m. Japan time, the broadcast added.

The atomic bomb was dropped at noon, Japanese time — about nine hours after Tokyo radio reported Red Army troops supported Russia's declaration of war on Japan by attacking enemy forces in eastern Manchukuo both by land and by air, and while four other Japanese cities still burned from round-the-clock B-29 incendiary and demolition attacks.

Nagasaki, western Kyushu seaport and railroad terminal with an estimated 255,000 population in its 12 square miles, was a far more important military target than Hiroshima, first atomic bomb target.

SHIPS, PLANES STRIKE AGAIN

Halsey's Fleet Returns To Assault Upon Jap Homeland; 1,200 Carrier Planes Pound Northern Honshu

By MORRIS LANSBERG
Guam, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Admiral Halsey's mighty Third Fleet attacked Japan anew today with more than 1,200 carrier planes and brushed aside enemy air opposition, the first encountered since it began pounding Nippon's homeland more than a month ago.

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopking, with the fleet, said the armada's anti-aircraft guns thundered as the Japanese planes appeared and that he saw two shot down. No ship reported damage.

Returned carrier pilots, who began their attacks before dawn against Northern Honshu, reported many Japanese planes set afire on the ground, two ships sunk and at least six others damaged.

The return of Admiral Halsey's massive fleet to waters off North Honshu—the same sector where it began its "Red July" scourge of the enemy fleet air force and coastal industries—came as Admiral Nimitz pledged Russia the assistance of the navy.

The Tokyo radio reported that in addition to the heavy carrier plane attacks, surface units of the Third Fleet were shelling the northeastern Honshu steel city of Kamashi.

"The attacks are now continuing," Nimitz said, suggesting the same day-long types of raids which last month destroyed or damaged more than 1,000 enemy vessels and more than 1,300 plants.

Al Dopking, aboard a warship of the fleet, said the fliers swarmed to the attack elated by the news of the devastating effect of America's new atomic bomb and of Russian entry into the Pacific war.

The navy had called its shot only yesterday, warning Japan in a broadcast that Halsey was moving.

LABOR FRONT IS BRIGHTER

Several Strikes In Process Of Settlement

By the Associated Press
A cut in the nation's strike total from the current 46,000 appeared likely today in view of probable settlement of three major work stoppages in Detroit involving some 15,000 persons.

The settlement, if effected would shave the total number of workers idled by strikes and walkouts over the country to around 31,000, which would be the lowest figure in the past several weeks.

Negotiations resumed today between the Detroit Retail Lumber Dealers' Association and AFL officials over the dispute which has closed about 200 lumber yards and idled approximately 12,000 workers. An early ending of the walkout was indicated after yesterday's meeting.

Closing of the yards in the Detroit area by management resulted from a strike last month in 12 yards. The AFL Carpenters District Council had demanded wage increases and a closed shop.

A special "investigative hearing" was called today in Detroit by the Regional War Labor Board in the shutdown of two Detroit Steel Products.

Labor Relations Bill Faces Fight

Chicago, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The AFL Executive Council, continuing its leadership another year in the absence of its usual convention, determined today to work for the defeat of the Ball-Burton-Hatch labor relations bill.

William Green, 72-year-old head of the American Federation of Labor since 1924, was automatically continued in office.

The council, in a statement, said the bill would destroy the fundamental freedoms of the nation's workers in the postwar period and prevent the progress of labor toward its goals of the future.

"Regardless of what its sponsors claim or profess, this bill constitutes one of the most dangerous anti-labor measures ever introduced in Congress."

The council said the measure would seek to establish compulsory arbitration, "which labor has successfully resisted in the past."

President Will Likely Discuss Jap Situation In Radio Talk Tonight

Japan Faces Choice Of Early Surrender Or Being Blown To Destruction By Combined Allied Forces

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—President Truman reports to the Nation tonight on the war situation. His half-hour address over all radio networks will begin at 10 o'clock, Eastern War Time.

When the address first was scheduled it was expected to be chiefly a report on the Potsdam meeting of the Big Three, with some mention of the new atomic bomb. Now Mr. Truman is expected to discuss also Russia's declaration of war on Japan.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The mightiest armed forces of all history completely encircled the sear and uttering empire of Japan today. Ready to smash it into oblivion if the Japanese do not surrender within a few hours.

Russia's entry into the conflict, reuniting the powers that blotted out Nazi Germany, robs the Tokyo government of its last hope for a holdout stand on the Asian continent. It thus shortens the war.

Russia Gains By Entry Into Pacific Conflict

Declaration Of War Against Japan Assures Russia Of Seat At Pacific Peace Table

By JACK BELL
Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Russia has gained a seat at the Pacific peace table, and her presence there may have far-reaching diplomatic and territorial implications.

By her declaration of war against Japan, the Soviet Union became a partner with the United States, Great Britain and China in settlements that will determine, among other things, which strategic islands and American forces are to hold after the fighting ends.

The disposition of these islands such as Iwo Jima and Okinawa, were unmentioned in the master plan for dismembering Japan agreed upon at Cairo in November 1943, by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The assumption in diplomatic quarters here is that when the Soviets finally agreed to enter the conflict against Japan, they automatically accepted the terms of the Cairo agreement, in which they did not participate.

Congress May Be Called Back Into Session Soon

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The question of reconvening Congress appeared today to depend upon the speed with which Russia's entry into the war can force a Japanese surrender.

The few lawmakers remaining on Capitol Hill seemed agreed that there would be little point in re-assembling the scheduled October 8 date unless the war ends, or there is unmistakable evidence of a Japanese collapse.

There are four ways in which the lawmakers could be recalled. Three were provided for in the resolution under which the House recessed July 21 and the Senate August 1.

The President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House could call members back "whenever in their opinion legislative expediency shall warrant it."

In addition, majority leaders of both houses, or the minority leaders, could accomplish the same result under the resolution. Members would be given three days' notice.

CHINA POSES NEW PROBLEM

Russia May Be Threat To Kai-Shek Government

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
(Former Chief of the AP Bureau At Shanghai)

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Among the imponderables spotlighted by Russia's entry into the war is the question, what will become of the Chiang Kai-Shek-Chinese Communist deadlock in China?

Russian influence on the impasse seems certain to assume a major role when Moscow's armies begin to move in force against Japan. Almost instantly they will come in contact with Chinese Red forces along China's northern boundaries.

The big questions seem to be: Will Moscow undertake all out cooperation with the Reds in China, to the detriment of Chiang Kai-Shek and his Chungking government? Or will the Soviets, now an ally of Chungking in the war against Japan, demand that China's war efforts be heightened by Chinese Red allegiance to Chungking? Or will Stalin demand a Chinese coalition government composed of recognized Chungking and Chinese Communist elements?

Washington officials today said they do not know the answers. Admittedly, however, American (Continued on page four)

More Testimony In Meadows Trial

Three more witnesses took the stand today as the state continued its rebuttal testimony in the trial of Dr. Leon R. Meadows on charges of false pretense and embezzlement.

M. L. Wright, ousted faculty member of East Carolina Teachers College, said that much of the shrubbery on the campus was planted during the presidency of the late Dr. R. H. Wright, and that some of the cement was laid during that administration. The witness was in charge of campus beautification before Dr. Meadows became president.

Hubert Moore corroborated the testimony of Roy House, former superintendent of buildings and grounds, who said that he had worked on Dr. Meadows' private property.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) hazarded an opinion that Japan cannot stand up 30 days more, regardless of Russia's participation.

Senator Kilgore (D-Va.), saying he thought the law-makers should not have taken their recess, added that unless Congress were on hand to meet the problems arising on Japan's surrender, it probably would be necessary for Mr. Truman to handle some of them by executive order.

RECONVERSION PLAN OFFERED

President Truman Presents Five-Point Program

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—President Truman today laid down a five-point plan designed to speed reconversion of industry to peacetime production and recommended the lifting of controls as soon as possible.

The President said in a letter to WPB Chief J. A. Krug that he hopes the WPB staff "will stay on the job" because their work is not yet done.

The War Production Board, Mr. Truman said, can and should "play an important role in reconversion." He asked Krug to take these steps:

1. A vigorous drive to expand production of materials which are in short supply "not only because of military demands but to meet civilian demands as well."

2. A limitation on the manufacture of products which would require materials that are in short supply.

3. A broad and effective control of inventories "to avoid speculative hoarding."

4. Granting of priority assistance "to break bottlenecks which may impede the reconversion process."

5. Allocation of scarce materials for the production of low-priced items "essential to the continued success of the stabilization program."

The five-point plan was announced after the President had conferred with Krug and Price Administrator Chester Bowles, who have disagreed over fundamental reconversion policy.

Krug has been represented as wanting controls removed as soon as materials become abundant again. Bowles contends they should be retained until the dangers of higher living costs are ended.

The issue previously had been submitted to War Mobilizer John W. Snyder and Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis, but it was so tied up with administration policy (Continued on page four)

Russians Slashed Across Both Borders Of Manchuria Shortly After Declaration Of War Became Effective; Jap Kwantung Army Threatened From Two Sides

By The Associated Press
Russia's Siberian troops were reported invading puppet Manchuria at many points along the 2,000-mile frontier today as American air forces in China hammered at Japanese withdrawal routes toward the new "second front" in the Pacific war.

Chinese parachute troops also were disclosed to have gone into action against the Japanese in an effort to block any withdrawal northward.

The Tokyo radio said Red army troops slashed across the long-disputed Manchurian border both on the east and west early this morning shortly after the Soviet declaration of war became effective at midnight.

Disclosure that American air forces had gone into action in close coordination with the Russians was made by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in China, who said U. S. bombers had been pounding Japanese troop movement routes northward for a month with advance knowledge that Russia was to join the war.

Wedemeyer also announced that American-trained Chinese parachute troops were interfering with Japanese movements. A recent parachute troop drop between Kweilin and Hengyang caused the great casualties among the Japanese, it was said.

It was expected that the Japanese would try to concentrate their forces in China north of the Yellow river in order to meet the new threat of Russia's entry into the war.

Moscow had not yet confirmed Tokyo broadcasts that Russian troops had gone into action and that fierce fighting was taking place along the Manchurian border.

But a Moscow broadcast said Red army soldiers declared "our troops already are marching against the enemy."

Today On The Home Front

By James Marlow

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Japan is caught in a double crunch: the atomic bomb and war with Russia. Japan may have to quit, soon. Then what?

A sudden end—say in a week, two weeks, a month—will mean a painful wrench on the American home front from a war to a peace economy.

An end six months from now would make the change-over easier. By that time more and more war plants would have eased over into peacetime work.

But a sudden end to the war will mean: Wholesale cancellation of war contracts.

Millions thrown out of jobs, some to seek jobs elsewhere because their plants can't convert, some to hang around until their plants do convert.

Millions of men from the armed services will start pouring back into civilian life, also looking for jobs.

Congress almost certainly will have to cancel its vacation—from August 1 to October 8—to tackle the problems of peace.

Millions of workers, going back to their reconverted plants, will find their take-home pay reduced since their overtime work won't be so badly needed.

The WAR TODAY

An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Japan's entry into the war, coming on top of the advent of the atomic bomb with its awful powers of annihilation, place Nippon in a position where she must surrender quickly or suffer destruction. The Oriental mind is inscrutable to the western world, but even so one would expect the Japanese warlords to surrender forthwith if they possess even a modicum of sense.

Moscow's declaration of war represents a masterly psychological coup. First came the atomic bomb on Hiroshima, destroying that great city and, as the Japs themselves say, killing every living thing. There followed the Soviet block-buster in the form of war which today is tearing into both sides of Japan's Manchurian stronghold. And finally, we have today's successful atomic bomb attack against the great port of Nagasaki.

There's nothing for Japan to do but surrender—or commit national hara-kiri. Now that we have the facts before us, it is clear that these events are the result of careful and astute planning over a considerable period. The Big Three apparently put the finishing touches on it at Potsdam. No wonder President Truman was anxious to hurry back home and cancelled plans for a European visit.

Of course Japan was well on the way to defeat before the atomic bomb was brought into action. It was only a question of how much time it would take to finish the job.

Russia's Entry ...

can Embassy there and also the Russian Embassy and State Department here.

At 3 p. m. the doors of his office were opened to newsmen who had been summoned to stand by a few minutes before.

"I have only a simple announcement to make," he said. "I can't hold a regular press conference today but this announcement is so important I thought I would call you in. Russia has declared war on Japan. That is all."

At 5:45 p. m., Byrnes, who was with the President at Potsdam, told reporters at the State Department what the President had done there. Mr. Truman presented Stalin with a memorandum setting forth his arguments why Russia should join the nations that are fighting Japan to restore world peace.

"It seems to me," the President told Stalin, "that under terms of the Moscow declaration and the provisions of the charter, above referred to, it would be proper for the Soviet Union to indicate its willingness to consult and cooperate with other great powers now at war with Japan with a view to joint action on behalf of the community of nations to maintain peace and security."

With this argument and with the contention that Japan had failed to save herself when she rejected the Potsdam surrender ultimatum two weeks ago, the Russian declaration, as explained by Foreign Commissar Molotov in Moscow, showed agreement.

As soon as the President made his announcement the Office of War Information reported that stories of the Russian declaration and the atomic bomb were being poured into Japan with every resource at its command.

On distant Pacific bases great B-29 bombers stood ready to back up these fresh warnings with even more atomic bombs. Along the frontiers of Siberia the Red Army was believed to have a million or more men deployed for action.

Air bases in Russia, around Vladivostok and possibly on the island of Sakhalin, allow the Allies to complete the sea and air blockade of the Japanese homeland islands—severing all their connections with their armies, factories and rich raw material sources in North China, Manchuria and Korea.

Chapter 21
Atop the Chateau Argyle, in Mario's swanky penthouse, Madge felt like a lost sheep as she roamed about aimlessly in the strange lair, waiting for the lazy hands to climb up and down on the way around the face of the clock on the mantelpiece. She wanted to wait until dinner was being served before she called up Uncle Louie at Winston Manor, for then there would be less chance of someone's overhearing their conversation. But Madge's impatience and anxiety got the better of her; she shut herself in Mario's bedroom and placed her call. A disappointed expression came over her face as she heard the operator say:

"Line is busy; I will call you back."
"No, please don't bother," said Madge, thinking Sophie might answer in the kitchen. "I'll try again later."
When she replaced the receiver, she couldn't help but wonder who was using the telephone at Winston Manor. Had she been able to listen in she would have heard a very odd conversation between John and Dr. Fred Ellis.

"I tell you, Fred," said John, who had put through his S O S call. "Madge doesn't even know who she is, and what's more, she acts as though she's never seen Winston Manor before."
"Hold on to yourself, John," urged the doctor.
"I'm afraid I'm slipping," said John weakly. "Fred, you just have to come over and give me your moral support."

"All right, John, what time?"
"Make it for dinner," then John added, hesitatingly. "Fred, don't be shocked if Madge comes to dinner dressed in—in a nightgown."
"A nightgown?" repeated the flabbergasted doctor.
"Yes," said John, miserably; "but I guess that's better than wearing nothing at all. See you later." And he hung up.

Magnolia, who had been standing by anxiously listening, rolled her eyes heavenward and sang out, "Thank de Lord, de doctor am comin'!"
"If Madge just wouldn't wear that damned nightgown!" cried John.
"All we can do, Master John," said Magnolia, "is hope our poor baby don't catch her death of cold."

"Yes, that and a couple of other million hopes," he said, as he strode heavily out of the den to dress for dinner.
Magnolia mumbled angrily, "Dat Uncle Louie done put mah baby up to dis nightgown mischief and he sure am teachin' her bad words." She was interrupted by the ringing of the telephone and trudged back to answer it.

"Who's all callin', please?" she asked.
"Hello, Magnolia," said Madge in Mario's voice, which, of course, Magnolia had never heard before. Magnolia's eyes dilated as she heard the stranger's voice request, "Will you please call Uncle Louie to the telephone?"

Magnolia's voice dropped to a hoarse, terrified whisper as she said, "Say dat agin."
"Please call Uncle Louie to the telephone," repeated the voice.
Magnolia stared at the receiver wide-eyed, and then, as though it were a poisonous snake, she laid it down on the table and started backing away.

"When spook calls spook, dat lets me out!" Then she whirled around and flew out of the den.
After Magnolia's record-breaking dash back to her kitchen, the hall became momentarily quiet except for the loud ticking of the stately clock. Slowly the basement door creaked open and Uncle Louie peeked out to see if the coast was clear. Seeing no one, he emerged.

As he passed the open door to the den, he looked in, hoping to find Mario, but, instead, he noticed the receiver off the hook, and thinking someone had forgotten to replace it, decided to do his one good deed for the day. But before he put the receiver back in its proper place, curiously made him lift it to his ear and say:

"Hello?"
"Uncle Louie!" came a voice over the wire. It startled him.
"Well, gracious me," he chuckled in surprise, "what a coincidence."
"Uncle Louie," said Madge excitedly in Mario's voice, "a dreadful thing has happened! When Mario Drew left here she took the antidote with her!"

"Oh, my goodness!" exclaimed Uncle Louie.
"I forgot," she said, "to take the tiny vial out of my purse before we exchanged bodies!"
"Oh, my goodness!" said Uncle Louie again.
"What shall I do?" she cried.
"How can I get it back?"
"It's very simple, my dear. All you have to do is come out here and get it."

"Come out to Winston Manor?" she asked in amazement. "But won't they see me?"
"Not if you come out late," he smiled impishly. "I shall see to it personally that the main light switch will be turned off."
"You are a genius!" said Madge. Then she said, "But don't you think it would be better if you tried getting the vial yourself?"
"My dear," said Uncle Louie, "just the thought of entering a lady's boudoir frustrates me. Besides, should they catch me, it would be most embarrassing and bring an end to our plan."
"But how can I get into the house?" she asked. "Mario Drew has the house keys in my purse?"
"Just toss a pebble at my laboratory window, my dear," he suggested. "I shall be down there working on my new formula."

Uncle Louie very gently and carefully placed the receiver in its proper place. Then he left the room and continued on his way up the long, winding staircase to his room. When he reached his bedroom door he was surprised to find it locked. John had locked it all right, but he hadn't bargained on one thing, Uncle Louie's skeleton key!

B-V Stuffed Peppers . . . are summer point stretchers

Brown 1/2 lb. ground beef
Add 2 tbs. fat
1 1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 1/2 cups sliced tomatoes
1 1/2 cups cooked rice
1 tbs. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 tbs. dash of nutmeg or mace
1/2 bay leaf
3 whole cloves
sprig of parsley
3 tbs. WILSON'S B-V dissolved in a small amount of hot liquid.
Sprinkle 2 tbs. flour over the top.

Stretch Meat Flavor
A little meat goes a long way to point up the flavor of any stuffing for green peppers when you use Wilson's B-V to add meat flavor to the rice, bread crumbs or what have you.
With stuffed peppers as the main dish, you'll like Harvard beets, a green salad, crisp rolls and a fresh peach cobbler for dessert.
Even though there is no meat for making gravy, you can still cater to your family's taste for good rich brown gravy by keeping B-V on your pantry shelf.

Bring to a boil, cover and simmer 15 min., stirring occasionally. Remove cloves and bay leaf.
Wash 6 green peppers, cut off tops, remove seeds, drop into boiling water and boil one minute.
Drain peppers, stuff with cooked mixture and top with mixture of 4 tbs. bread crumbs
2 tbs. CERTIFIED MARGARINE
4 tbs. grated CERTIFIED CHEESE (optional)
Bake 1 1/2 hr. or until browned in a moderately hot oven, 375° F. Serves 6.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

FROST AND SHOWERS

As summer storms break over our heads, we imagine that they are doing a tremendous damage and causing a great change to occur in the world round about us. As a matter of fact, the slow action of frost and the persistent effect of showers cause much more change to take place in the earth's surface and in the physical world round about us than do the storms. The irresistible power of natural processes is constantly pressing upon us, and, over a long period of time, brings about prodigious results.

So it is with our lives. It may appear that we have been most fundamentally affected by certain great events which have taken place in our careers. It is true that we can point to crises in our lives which seem to make a great difference.

But the greatest difference was made not by the storms of life but by the frost and showers—that is, by the little influences constantly working and changing our natures every day. The influence of friends, the mental habits we form, the transforming effect which family life has upon us all, the kind of person we become as the result of the grind of the everyday work—these are the things which make us the people we eventually become.

Not storms, but frost and showers did the job. Not some cataclysmic event, but the slow change wrought by life's passing circumstances.

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

By HAL E. COOPER
(Jack Stinnett Is On Vacation)
Washington—When I noticed the other day they had built the last B-17 Flying Fortress all I thought was "Good! Now they can put that material into B-29's."

That's a fine way to talk about the flying machine that brought me back safely from 51 bombing missions against German targets. (Cooper, recently discharged and back on the job with The Associated Press, was an aerial gunner.)

Nevertheless I can't help knowing that if we had Superforts in the Eighth Air Force, instead of B-17's and B-24 Liberators, V-E Day might well have come a lot sooner.

Even the sight of a British Mosquito used to make some of us want to run out and kick a Fort in the pants. Three of those little two-engine Mosquitos, manned by a total of six men, could whisk 12,000 pounds of bombs from England to Berlin.

It took two Forts manned by a total of 20 men—18 when they reduced the crew by one in 1944—to do the same job. The plywood Mosquito got there and back a lot faster and burned up less gasoline.

The day of the Fortress, of course, was 1942 and 1943, when the daylight bombers went in without fighter escort. Ruggedness and defensive firepower had to come ahead of bomb-carrying capacity in those days.

Take the time in June, 1943, when the Third Division of the Eighth Air Force hit the coast of Germany en route to Kiel with 52 B-17's. It encountered what looked like the whole Luftwaffe. A couple of hours later 26 of them staggered out of Germany.

Behind us, shot down, were the other half of the division plus 104 German fighters.

It took a sturdy airplane to handle assignments like that. But if we had Superforts, with their tremendous firepower and speed, that day we wouldn't have lost 26. The Luftwaffe would have taken a worse licking. What's more, bombs on the target would have weighed perhaps three times as much.

With the development of the long-range escort fighters, P-47's and P-51's, the B-17 was on its way out.

Its comparatively puny bomb load did not justify its gasoline consumption and the size of the crew.

Many a gunner—each plane had five—sat out 35 missions in 1944 and 1945 without even seeing an enemy interceptor.

I did 25 in a row in which the only trace of aerial opposition was an ME-109 jet fighter five miles away. He was hastening homeward with a pack of P-51's on his tail like wolves.

All this time, of course, the same company (Boeing) which gave the Air Force the Fort was developing the Superfort into the best bomber the world has seen.

That's what Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay called it. He ought to know. Before he commanded the Superforts of the 20th Air Force in the Pacific he was boss of the Eighth's Third Division. Before that, he flew a tour in B-17's as a division group commander.

Now Jimmy Doolittle has taken the Eighth to the Pacific, freshly equipped with B-29's. The boys ought to have a picnic.

With Russia in the war, Japan now is surrounded, creating a position of which General MacArthur says:

"This will make possible a great pincer movement which cannot fail to end in the destruction of the enemy."

There is the even brighter view that Tokyo will make a quick surrender. And one wonders whether it will be tendered to all the Allies or to Russia.

major role in the reconversion period. Mr. Truman said in his letter to Krug:

"Every opportunity must be given to private business to exercise its ingenuity and resourcefulness in speeding the resumption of civilian production, subject to war needs."

You and I have agreed that the War Production Board can and should play an important role in reconversion. In order to help industry to obtain unprecedented civilian production it is necessary, as you have suggested, for the War Production Board to continue for the present some of the effective measures it adopted to achieve our unprecedented war production. These controls however should be lifted as soon as they are no longer needed."

That viewpoint has almost solid congressional backing. It figured heavily in the consultations when Comdr. Harold E. Stassen and his colleagues worked out a trusteeship system at San Francisco for the proposed United Nations organization.

As Stassen explained the system devised there, possession of the islands in question would be determined among the victors at the peace table. The nations thus charged with responsibility for specific islands could submit them for trusteeship or not, as they chose.

Some senators have said privately they feared Russia might not want strong American military installations perched across the northern-south lifeline of the Pacific.

A Japanese imperial headquarters communique said the Russians struck across both the eastern and western frontiers, beginning shortly after midnight. This suggested a vast pincer movement against the crack Kwantung army, pride of Emperor Hirohito's forces, believed massed in Manchuria.

Senior members of "Dai Nippon Seijaku," most influential political party in Japan, held an emergency meeting at the diet building in Tokyo to discuss counter measures "capable of meeting the sudden development in the war situation following the Soviet Union's declaration of war against Japan," another Tokyo broadcast said.

"It is understood the meeting will be held again tomorrow to decide the party's policy to be presented to the government as well as the high command," the broadcast added.

The Soviet radio at Khabarovsk directed the Red army to "settle an old score" with Japan and to bend all efforts to smash Japanese imperialism "so that mankind can breathe freely after getting rid of aggression."

The special broadcast, recorded by PCC, called the Japanese "the worst enemies of our people and all the Ussuri river, where units of the Kwantung army, flower of the emperor's forces have been massed."

The Russians may be planning a huge pincer movement from the east and west against the Kwantung army.

If the Japanese make a determined stand here, the fighting may well be bloody. The best trained and best equipped units of Hirohito's forces are believed to have been held in Manchuria all through the war against just such an eventuality.

The Kwantung army has been deployed along the winding frontier formed by the Ussuri and the Amur rivers.

At the nearest point the eastern border of the Japanese puppet territory, which Tokyo named Manchukuo, lies within some 30 miles of the great Soviet Pacific base of Vladivostok. The eastern border area also includes the Chankung area near the northern tip of Korea where the Kwantung army was defeated in an undeclared war with Soviet Far Eastern forces before the European war.

London reports estimated that the Japanese had some 2,000,000 men in China and Manchuria. There was no accurate estimate of Soviet strength in the area. At last reports, the Office of War Information said, Gen. Maxim Purkayev was in command of the Soviet Far eastern army, succeeding Gen. G. M. Stern, who is listed as a member of the high command.

From This Tennessee Town Came The Atomic

Deep in the Tennessee hills, about 18 miles west of Knoxville, nestles the town of Oak Ridge which sprang up around the government's factory that produced the atomic bomb, most powerful destructive force ever developed. The first bomb has just been released against the Japanese city of Hiroshima. In the foreground is Jackson Square, heart of Oak Ridge's business section. At upper left is the town's high school, and at upper right is the athletic field. (AP Photo).

Jimmy Dykes must have tired of hearing folks croon town rave about the pennant-bound Chicago Cubs and decided to go looking for a piece of that World Series cash for his White Sox.

Facing the two toughest clubs in the league, Detroit and Washington, at the home lot, the Sox have knocked them out six of seven and pulled to within a half game of the third place New York Yankees. They are only 4 1-2 lengths back of the front-running Tigers.

Only the Philadelphia A's, 21 games behind, are entirely out of the American League race so it's quite possible for Chicago to be an important factor in the closing weeks.

Nobody gave Dykes' lads a tumble in the spring but they hopped away to a running start and were out front until they ran into a bad case of the hitters in the Yankee Stadium in late May.

Everybody figured the Sox had shot their bolt and would be content to graze in their usual lower class stall. But they have managed to hover close to the first division and now threaten again.

Since returning to Comiskey Park after a month-long road trip, the giant-killing Sox have hit 333 as a club while taking five of six from Detroit and the series opener from Washington. Until last night, there was only one 300 hitter in the bunch, Tony Cuccinello, who's not playing. The Sox newcomer to the 300 select circle is Oris Hockett, currently in a dizzy hitting streak. Earl Caldwell, a 40-year-old added starter, is one big reason for the Sox's rise. Although the Texan has won only five games, he has copped all of them at night. Last night he stopped Washington, 7-3, just when the Senators had a chance to tie for the lead.

With Oris Hockett banging out five hits for a perfect night, the Sox swatted Marino Pieretti and Wally Holborow for 18 safeties to ease Caldwell home, an easy winner after a rocky start. A banner crowd of 34,847 watched the contest. Detroit left the door open for Washington to pull up even when they split an afternoon double-header with Boston. After Stubby Overmire had handed Dave Ferriss his fifth setback in the opener, the Red Sox scored four in the 12th to trim the Bengals, 7-4.

News that Manager Joe McCarthy will rejoin his Yanks today failed to help the New Yorkers in Cleveland where they were shut out, 1-0, by Al Smith who also batted in the only run off Ernie Bonham. Season's best crowd, 27,199, was on hand.

Rookie Hal Peck's third homer of the season in the 10th inning gave the Athletics a 5-4 nod over St. Louis' Tex Shirley.

The Chicago Cubs opened an eastern tour as though they meant to clinch things in a hurry by whipping Boston twice, 5-2 and 3-2. St. Louis and Brooklyn both won but lost a half game to the Braves. The Cardinals blanked the New York Giants 3-0, behind Lefty George Dockins and the Dodgers shut out Cincinnati, 1-0, on Dixie Walker's home run that stuck in the right field screen. Hal Grigg stopped the Reds with five safeties and the Brooks had only four off Vern Kennedy.

PUBLIC ASKS STORE LINES

Housekeepers And Others Say Managers Can Avoid Crowding

By CHESTER WALSH
A heavily loaded sugar truck parked at one of the large grocery stores before it opened for business this morning drew a big crowd that lingered in the store and outside several hours. The store manager did not put the "sweetening" on sale right away, but the crowd remained some time, hoping to get a supply of sugar for preserving.

A crowd of people in need of any kind of foodstuff is not a good natured group, and this, especially during the wartime tension, is sufficient reason for storekeepers to require that customers form a line, and thus permit "first come to be first served."

One thing that appears to irritate prospective food buyers is their inability to move about in stores to select their food requirements and shop in an orderly way, a city official observing the present situation, said today. The crowding problem was solved at banks, the postoffice, the ABC stores and in voting at elections. An orderly lineup for service prevents friction and it's up to the storekeepers to maintain lines during the crowded buying hours, the observing official said.

When stores put up signs requiring customers to keep in line, the purchase of food, especially, rationed foods, retail buying will become an easier task, instead of a laborious and irritating experience, a member of a civic organization said.

Public expressions today indicated that the tension prevails that it is entirely up to store managers to maintain pleasant and courteous relations with the public. Managers of most of the grocery stores have demonstrated the wisdom of the orderly buying procedure and reveal buying and selling processes at these stores in a satisfactory manner, without the irritating crowding reported at some places.

Whenever a supply of meat, fresh or salted, or sugar, or some of the other rationed foods arrives in trucks, the "grapevine telegraph" spreads the news and people "gang up" to get their share. This is human, a tobaccoist said, and then he called attention to the precision and efficiency of banking service when the financial institutions are crowded with farmers with their tobacco checks. This man agreed with many others that standing in line and serving customers in the order in which they arrived will avoid crowded conditions in some stores which now borders on near-panic. The majority of stores do not have this trouble, a rambling reporter learned today after visiting a score or more of retail food stores and markets.

Smaller Harvest.
London, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The combined food board of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration said today that the European harvest this year likely would be from 10 to 15 per cent less than in 1944.

In a report to the Third Conference of UNRRA the board said the outlook for the 1945-46 crop year "can only be viewed with grave misgivings."

Offers To Replace Jap Relief Ship

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The State Department has offered the Japanese an 11,758-ton vessel to replace the relief ship Awa Maru, sunk by mistake by an American submarine.

As part of the deal, however, the Japanese would have to agree to meet at a transfer point in the Pacific for an exchange of enemy and Allied civilians, ill and seriously wounded prisoners of war, "surplus protected personnel" and mail and supplies for prisoners held by both sides.

The department specified that transfer of the ship to the enemy would not be indemnification. It proposes to discuss that when the war is over.

The sinking occurred several months ago while the Awa Maru was returning from a voyage to Hong Kong and Singapore on which it carried relief supplies, furnished by Allied governments, for Allied war prisoners and civilians held by the Japanese.

The ship which the Japanese may receive carries 2,500 passengers and has a speed of 17 knots.

land Army Field at Waco, Tex., where the Foster Field baseball team played last night.

German Spies Help America

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The FBI said today that five German spies sent to the United States after 1939 to learn of atomic bomb developments were persuaded to double cross the Nazis and work as counter espionage agents.

"Several" of the spies were intercepted in Europe and South America en route to this country and made "double agents" before they launched any espionage activities for the Nazis, an FBI spokesman said. He would not disclose their names.

MacArthur Delighted

Manila, Aug. 9.—(AP)—General MacArthur said today he was "delighted at the Russian declaration of war against Japan."

"This will make possible a great pincer movement which cannot fail to end in the destruction of the enemy," he said. "In Europe, Russia was on the eastern front and the Allies on the west. Now the Allies are on the east and Russia on the west—but the result will be the same."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
