Ships And Planes Continuing Attack On Japan Today REDS SCORE SENSATIONAL ADVANCES

Russian Troops Invade Korea And Southern Half Of Sakhalin Island, 40 Miles From Jap Homeland; Gains of 14 To 33 Miles Scored In Multi-Pronged Drive In Manchuria

(By The Associated Press) The Red army has smashed more than 100 miles into Manchuria from the northwest, the Soviet communique disclosed today.

The Red Army's Stalin tanks, infantry and massed cavalry rolled through numerous gates in Manchuria's defenses with sensational advances today, Moscow dispatches reported, and Tokyo announced the broadening of the Soviet attacks to Korea and Sakhalin Island.

Soviet correspondents said units of the Soviet Pacific fleet had gone into action.

The Moscow radio announced that outer Mongolia, a protectorate of Russia's adjoining Manchuria and Inner Mongolia on the west, had declared war on Japan.

Moving toward the heart of Manchuria along three main routes of invasion, the former Chinese eastern railway from Tulin Manchuria in the northwest, the Mongolian caravan trail from Lake Bor in the west, and the Sunari River valley from Khabarovsk in the northeast, the Russians had opened up "numerous gates" in the enemy's carefully prepared defenses and apparently were bent on a non-stop offensive, Moscow dispatches said. These advances declared gains up to 33 miles yesterday were being enlarged sensationally today.

The first Soviet blow was so well prepared along the pattern of the Red Army's European offensives that the Japanese were unable to hold a single defensive line along the frontier, one Soviet dispatch reported.

The western and northwestern vanguards were driving hard for the city of Hulun (Hallar), Japanese forward base on the Chinese eastern railway, 90 miles distant. Ahead was the difficult Takhangin Shan Range which cups the Manchurian plain to the east and runs south toward Peiping in China.

In the northeastern sector, where the Russians struck from the maritime provinces to protect their important naval and air base of Vladivostok, the Russians also were making steady progress from Khabarovsk and captured Pu Yuan toward Harbin, rail heart of Manchuria 400 miles distant.

Moscow dispatches said the weight of the Russian attack in the east apparently had not been fully developed, and this offensive from Khabarovsk appeared to be only the forerunner of strong blows anywhere to the south between Khabarovsk and Vladivostok.

This indicated that Tokyo's re-

State To Establish Blind School Here

Lions Club-Sponsored Project To Occupy Part Of Lacol NYA Center

Greenville Schools have voted to allow the State Blind Commission to operate a school for the blind in Greenville at the former NYA Center. This was decided at a meeting held yesterday following a request by the Greenville Lions Club and Dr. Roma Cheek of the State Blind Commission of Raleigh. Four dormitories, mess hall, administration building, infirmary, and one shop of the Greenville School property will be used by the blind commission for this school. This will in no wise effect the technical high school program of the Greenville High School. (Continued on Page Six)

The WAR TODAY

An Analysis Of The News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Whatever the status of the Emperor, Japan is folding up—may already have folded.

The Tokyo announcement this morning is a confession of inability to continue the war, and the Japanese are welcome to whatever face-saving they hope to attain through inclusion of an "if" regarding the Mikado's prerogatives.

As a matter of fact, they are going to have to take the situation as it stands. Whether it comes today or within a few days, or whether they will stall around for some time, makes little difference.

Their only guides as to what may happen to the Emperor lie in recent American policy and in the Potsdam ultimatum. The United States has preserved freedom of action with regard to the Emperor by never listing him definitely among those who, as the Potsdam pronouncement put it, "have deceived and misled the people of Japan into embarking on world conquest."

The ruling school of thought on the subject has held that the Emperor actually has been a puppet of the military clique and, while his

Carrier Planes Destroy Remnants Of Jap Air Force; Superforts Drop 2,000 Tons On Tokyo Arsenal; Airmen 250 Miles Away Saw Flash From Atomic Bombing Of Nagasaki

By MURLIN SPENCER Guam, Aug. 10.—(AP)—American and British carrier pilots—following Japan's grounded airforce from its camouflaged hideouts—destroyed or damaged 259 Japanese aircraft and gliders on Northern Honshu Island yesterday, a preliminary report from Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet disclosed today.

The base, scored both on ground craft and in the air, was the greatest yet reported for initial waves of a carrier strike by Halsey, greater even than the damage reported for the same period of the destructive attacks of July 10 and 28.

Eleven enemy aircraft of a small coordinated kamikaze attack on the fleet were shot down. One of the suicide pilots managed to crash into a light fleet unit, possibly a light cruiser or a destroyer, which is retiring under its own power. Two enemy aircraft were shot down in the vicinity of the fleet the preceding day.

The American and British pilots swept from Misawa airfield on the northern tip of Honshu to Matsushima airfield, 160 miles southward, in raids backing up Halsey's promise to support the Russian entry in the war by pinning down Japanese aircraft.

Japanese gliders were mentioned for the first time in the announcement that British carrier pilots destroyed 24 of the troop carriers. Both British and American fliers sank several small Japanese ships and damaged others.

The communique covered only the initial attack yesterday. Strikes Thursday afternoon, and damage caused by the 1,500 carrier planes which returned to the attack today, were not included.

Meanwhile, the northern Honshu steel city of Kamaishi still smoldered from the heavy shelling it was given Thursday by the Third Fleet. Adding to the damage toll being exacted from Japanese Fleet Air Wing 1 reported today that in the four months from March 26 to July 29, while operating from the Ryukyu Islands, its Privateers, Corsairs and Liberators sank 212 Japanese ships, aggregating 166,660 tons, damaged 246, totaling 153,855 tons, and destroyed 45 enemy aircraft.

During its operations the air wing rescued 230 United States service personnel, presumably fliers who had been forced down at sea.

PRES. TRUMAN GIVES REPORT

Explains Potsdam Agreements; Warns Japan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Word from Tokyo today that the Japanese want to surrender provided they can save their emperor follows fast on a warning by President Truman to Nippon's people to quit their doomed cities and flee for their lives. The President promised an atomic bomb campaign to wipe out Japanese war industry, city by city.

Barring surrender, Japanese industries are to be destroyed "to shorten the agony of war" and to save untold American lives, Mr. Truman said.

With this, Mr. Truman coupled assurances to the American people that he realizes fully the terrible dangers the atomic weapon holds for the world future, that he is taking steps to safeguard its use, and that the great objective of his administration is that "there shall

REACTION TO NIPPON OFFER

Officials Stand By 'Unconditional Surrender'; Many Places Celebrate

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Congressional reaction to the Japanese surrender offer today—based on retention of the emperor—was sharply diverse.

Senator Stewart (D-Tenn.) said: "I wouldn't give them an inch. Damn the emperor—he's a war criminal and I'd like to see him hung by his toes. We've got them whipped. If they want to surrender unconditionally that's all right."

Senator Mitchell (D-Wash.) said if the Japanese offer was completely within the terms of the Potsdam ultimatum "it would be well to accept it and get the war ended." He added: "If it isn't, then the war must go on."

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Naval Committee said he saw no objection to the Japanese retaining their emperor "provided the necessary controls are put around him and his authority is restricted."

Other comment: Senator Langer (R-ND): "I'm for unconditional surrender, no terms of any kind. That means the emperor ought to be treated like Hitler."

Senator Tamm (D-De.) said: "I am still in favor of unconditional surrender, regardless of the emperor's rights or pretended rights."

Senator Wiley (R-Wis.): "My judgment is that as the Japs have accepted all terms we have submitted, I see no harm in their retaining the emperor."

Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.): "Unconditional surrender means just that. Unless there is good military justification for accepting the emperor, I hope, for the sake of real liberty and democracy, that the Japs are made to surrender unconditionally."

Senator Burton (R-Ohio): "This marks substantial progress in ending the war. As for the emperor the conference at Berlin left the way open for some such offer. The Potsdam declaration reveals that even if he were allowed to continue

Six Men Jailed For Series Of Robberies In This Section Of State Last Year

By CHESTER WALSH Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson announced today that the mystery of the Bethel ABC store robbery of 21 cases of liquor on the night of July 14, 1944, has been solved.

Four white men of Tarboro have been arrested and will be tried at the fall term of Superior Court. They are Frank Harrell, 25; Johnnie Gold Jones, 21; Willie Rawls, 19, and Woodard Edmundson, 39. They are also charged with the robbery of a Buick car in Wilson the night of the Bethel robbery.

Sheriff Tyson, beginning with an accidental clue, went back to work on the case in cooperation with State Highway Patrol Lieut. Lester Jones, Greenville Police Chief Jim Tanner and sheriff's officers and police and ABC officers of various Eastern Carolina counties and

Today On The Home Front

By James Marlow

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—President Truman has taken a very necessary step for the good of the country.

To get us back on a normal footing as fast as possible, without interfering with the war, Mr. Truman has told the War Production Board:

"Every opportunity must be given to private business to exercise its ingenuity and forcefulness in speeding resumption of civilian production, subject to war needs."

The need for reconversion speed was pointed out 11 days ago by the Senate Committee investigating the war program.

Mr. Truman as a Senator headed the committee. Its present chairman is Senator Mead, New York Democrat.

The committee issued a report July 30—before the atomic bomb and Russia's war declaration made Japan's collapse seem as close as it does now.

This blistering report was enough to sober anyone who thinks Japan's sudden end means quick prosperity for all of us.

Japs Willing To Accept Terms Laid Down In Potsdam Ultimatum If Emperor Is Permitted To Keep His Power; Official Communications Not Yet Received By Allies

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The White House disclosed today that the United States is in communication with its allies on the broadcast Japanese surrender offer.

This statement was made by Press Secretary Charles G. Ross at 3:28 p. m. EWT shortly after President Truman had conferred with his cabinet for an hour.

The statement issued by Ross said: "Our government through the regular diplomatic channels is in communication with great Britain, Soviet Russia and China regarding the Japanese surrender offer."

"That is all that can be said at this time."

Ross later said there would be no further statements today, when asked whether that included tonight, he said it did.

His use of the expression "surrender offer" gave the impression that a formal proposal from the Japanese now had been received officially. Asked whether he still stood by the earlier announcement that no official word had come to this government, Ross said he had "no comment."

However long it might take the machinery of the Allied Nations to function on the peace offer, it was apparent from Ross' statement the consummation of an agreement to end hostilities could not be expected to be a speedy affair.

By the Associated-Press Japan offered today to surrender to Allied might under the Potsdam declaration, on the condition that Emperor Hirohito retain his rights as a sovereign—but the war went on.

Sweden and Switzerland, intermediaries between Japan and the Allies, received an "important communication," apparently the official surrender offer, from Japanese envoys late today and forwarded it to Washington, London, Moscow and Chungking through diplomatic channels.

The Swiss and Swedish actions came between 1 and 2 p. m. EWT—little more than five hours after Tokyo first announced the surrender offer in a broadcast by Japan's official Domei Agency.

President Truman called his cabinet into session at 2 p. m. Earlier the White House said the Japanese offer had not been received officially and that the war was continuing. Britain announced officially she was in communication with

Babson Discusses Churchill's Defeat

Babson, Park, Mass., August 10.—When Churchill's defeat was announced by radio, the stock market started to crumble. When, however, investors began to realize that it would take years for England to get its socialist plans into action and perhaps then would fail to succeed, these same people began to buy back securities. The market has since returned to normal. There are several reasons for this.

England Sure to Inflation I have long thought that inflation is inevitable; in fact it is going on every day. Nothing can stop it except a great spiritual awakening which will cause us to put the good of all before our own selfishness. I, however, now see no sign of this. Hence, the United States is headed for higher prices, higher wages, higher rents and higher stock values. The people of the world are "on the march" demanding inflation.

I am more sure of this than ever since the Labor Government of England won by such a large majority. This will enable them to take over the Bank of England and issue all the money they need for their socialist experiments. Whether or not these will be a success, no one now knows. Russia is still in the test tube, notwithstanding what her friends say. But for the next few years, while the experiment is being tried, jobs should be plentiful and money should flow like water. Stocks should sell higher, not only because of their intrinsic merit, but because Englishmen will shift from their English stocks to American stocks.

Eighth Street Christian Church Across the ages God has made his covenants with his children. He would still make them with us. What are the covenants that God would have us seal in this generation? These are thoughts that will be in the message at the Eighth Street Christian Church on Sunday morning at the communion hour when the pastor, Dr. H. G. Henry, speaks on the theme: "God's Covenants With Man—Ancient and Modern."

The year 1945 bids fair to be one of the most significant years in human history. The close of a peaceful war, the signing of a peace pact by the nations of civilized men, the development of a force sufficiently potent to destroy the total human race and all its possessions, the last round-up of the Pacific phase of the war, what an hour in which to live! Surely the people of God around the world have much for which to be thankful and they must know now that there are still unsolved problems requiring cooperation of all righteous people the world around as well as an humble dependence upon the Lord God Almighty. May the peoples of America and the world return to God, worship in their various churches, and bless themselves in some degree of the God who guides them, and alert to the significant trends of world developments.

The sales on the tobacco market today were the largest of any day since the market opened. There was fully 150,000 pounds on the warehouse floors and it was getting late afternoon before the sales were completed.

With Greenville, Winterville and Ayden all having electric plants, why not predict that these towns will ere long be connected by a trolley road.

Reactions To . . .

Senator Chavez (D-NM): "I do hope the administration and those handling the matter will be able to work out some kind of surrender so we can have peace."

New York, Aug. 10—(AP)—Cheers and shouts of joy echoed over Staten Island's waterfront area today when 1,454 returning GI's on four troop transports learned of the Japanese Domei news agency broadcast that Japan was ready to surrender.

Many of the troops, including personnel of the Ninth Air Force, were scheduled for redeployment to the Pacific. They marched jubilantly down the gangplanks, singing as they came.

Col. Walter I. Black, of Glendale, Calif., a troop commander aboard one of the ships, was telling a reporter that his troops were to be redeployed when the ship's loudspeaker system blared out the news of the surrender offer.

"Scratch that line out about redeployment. Make it read, 'We have been reprieved,'" Black exclaimed. "The enthusiasm of the troops was communicated to stevedores, civilian guards, customs and immigration officers on the docks who grinned and slapped one another on the back."

In Times Square crowds emerging from the subway entrances wore wide smiles. Most commuters pouring into Grand Central Station had heard the news on their radios before leaving home. Those who hadn't were soon brought up to date.

A be-ribboned naval captain at Pennsylvania Station murmured, "I hope to God it's true." A Chinese naval lieutenant remarked: "I'm now awaiting orders which may not come."

A frequently-heard phrase was: "Let's see whether they accept it before we celebrate."

Meanwhile the police department announced it was standing by with its plans to keep within bounds a V-J Day celebration. The Associated Press received an excited call from a woman who asked: "Is there anything to it?"

"It's merely a report by Domei," she was told. "Oh," she said, and after a moment's silence, added: "Can I have Domei's telephone number?"

By ROBBIN COONS Okinawa, Aug. 10—(AP)—This American-held island, only 325 miles from the Japanese homeland, kicked over the traces of war in a wild fireworks celebration as first unit official word spread that the Japanese are ready to quit.

Soldiers who only three nights ago shot flak upward against enemy raiders let loose their guns in celebration. The island and naval anchorage rocked with gunfire, cheers and the roar of rockets. The air raid sirens wailed a prolonged "all clear" signal.

One outdoor movie, showing "Captain Eddie" the story of the life of Eddie Riokenbacker, had reached a sequence where the hero, just back from the first World War, tells his bride he bets millions of other former soldiers are going fishing. At that moment distant cries and cheers echoed above the soundtracks and the GIs, on edge since the first atomic bomb dropped and Russia entered the war, yelled for word.

It came. The operator announced: "Japan has asked for terms of surrender."

The film was forgotten in the roaring celebration which followed. Only today supply depots received calls for gas masks as conjecture spread Japan might try a last desperate effort to attack this island.

London, Aug. 10—(AP)—American soldiers and Londoners seethed in the streets of the British capital today amid showers of torn paper and ticker tape in an end-of-the-war celebration that far exceeded London's V-E Day demonstrations.

The happy people did not wait for any official announcement. Big headlines shouting "Japan Surrenders" and "Japan Offers To Surrender" were enough to touch off wild parades which were led by Americans and Australians. A dozen American soldiers in Piccadilly Circus grabbed at the first extras, scanned the headlines and promptly began kissing English girls available.

"Within five minutes the square was filled with American soldiers, blocking traffic, cheering, hugging and posing for V-J Day pictures. It took a while for the big news to sink in but, as the press and radio reported developments, emotions pent up through nearly six years of warfare burst to the surface.

By ARTHUR L. EDSON

Washington, Aug. 10—(AP)—Washington's unofficial initial reaction today to Japan's offer to surrender ranged all the way from a tear-choked gasp of relief from a man whose son is in the Pacific to this comment by a bus driver: "It doesn't mean a thing. So the emperor wants to keep his job? Nuts! My answer to that would be to drop an atomic bomb right where he's sitting."

But the man whose son is in the Pacific saw it differently. Juggling the dial of his car radio, searching for the latest news as he drove to work, he told his passengers: "What do we care about their emperor? It's part of their religion. Let them keep him."

Officially, those whose decisions counted in Washington—amid therefore in the world—were busy putting their noggin together in an effort to work out some conclusions. But on the street, in the stores and around the government buildings life droned on as usual. The sidewalk directly in front of the White House was blocked off. "Just for today," said the MP.

C. HEBER FORBES

In a six-chair barber shop only one barber was talking. He was lecturing on the Washington Senators, the town's presently red-hot baseball team. An elderly man dug around in a trash basket and pulled out a newspaper—and then turned immediately to the comics. The extras were sold, but there was no mad rush for them. Some came up, read the headlines and then moved on without buying. And yet despite all this there was an electric quality in the air that belied description. Grim faced people looked a little grimmer. Smiling people beamed a little wider. Outwardly the signs were few; inwardly doubtless everyone was saying to himself, "This may be it—or the next thing to it." The lid was still on—but the pot was beginning to bubble. Chungking, Aug. 10—(AP)—Jubilant sweeps this capital of war-torn China tonight with reports that Japan had accepted terms of the Potsdam pact. Its people refused to wait for an official pronouncement of surrender. Instead, they ran through the narrow streets and alleys, shouting, clapping, throwing firecrackers, laughing and crying. Jeeps and trucks carrying American GIs received thunderous acclamations. Reports of similar celebrations came from all parts of Free China.

Chapter 22
When Dr. Fred Bliss arrived at Winston Manor that evening John met him at the front door.
"Fred! Fred!" he cried, all a-jitter. "Come into the den; I want to have a little talk with you before Madge joins us."
"A good idea," said the doctor, as he placed his medical bag on one of the hall's massive chairs.
"I hoped we'd have this chance," said John, as he quickly closed the door. Despite his worried countenance he looked particularly handsome in his dinner clothes. The doctor, as was to be expected of him, wore his usual business suit. He noticed, with professional eye, how John's hands trembled as he lit a cigarette.
"John," he said quietly, "I told you were in for a shock when you saw Madge, but don't let it tear you to pieces."
"I can't help it, Fred," said John. "You put it mildly when you said 'shock.' It's more than that. It's a terrible catastrophe!"
The doctor patted his shoulder sympathetically and asked gently, "You're still in love with Madge, aren't you, John?"
"More than I knew." Then John said angrily, "But I must be pretty dumb if it's taken all this to make me realize it!"
"Then I take it for granted," the doctor reflected delicately, "that Miss Drew is out of the picture?"
"Completely!" said John.
"John," asked the doctor seriously, "may I make a very personal suggestion?"
"I'm wide open and you know it."
"When Madge snaps out of this," he said in a soft tone of voice, "why don't you suggest adopting a child?"
"That's what we should have done years ago," said John thoughtfully, "then this would never have happened."
"A child would insure your future and brighten the atmosphere of Winston Manor."
"You're right, Fred." Then John said aloud to himself: "I'd certainly rather adopt a baby with Madge."
"——" he winced as he recalled what Madge had said that very morning, "than have Winston Manor over-run with sweet, stunning little Winstones."
The doctor gathered what John meant by his odd remark and remained silent.
John rose to his feet and slowly crossed to the den's large window and looked out; when he spoke his voice was deep with emotion.
"Thanks, Fred, for the suggestion."
"Mario stood preening herself in the one and only long mirror in Madge's bedroom. It was surprising how much her shimmering white satin nightgown resembled an evening gown, except for the telltale evidence of two daring splits up each side of the flowing skirt, which revealed, at her every move, Madge's well-shaped, trim legs. Mario had not only doused Madge with her potent Lotus Petals perfume, but had the time of her life plastering her face with make-up. Madge, for the time in her life, which of course, she didn't know, looked glamorous but cheap. Mario, who didn't live up to "do unto others as you would have them do unto you," had done a complete job of snooping through every nook and crevice in Madge's bedroom; during her exploring spree she found hidden in one of the drawers a small leather

RETONGA FAR AHEAD STATES MR. SCIFERS

MR. W. M. SCIFERS
Pains In Legs and Sluggish Elimination Promptly Relieved, And He Sleeps So Well Now He Feels Fine Every Morning, He States. Enjoys His Meals Again.

"Retonga gave me such prompt and wonderful relief I wish I could tell everyone suffering as I did about it," happily declares Mr. W. M. Scifers, well known president of 826-Stewart Ave., Atlanta, Ga., in adding his name to the thousands praising this noted medicine. Discussing his case Mr. Scifers gratefully continued:

"I felt like I was chock full of toxic poisons from sluggish elimination and I was forced to use a powerful laxative every day. I had such severe pains in my hips and knees at times I was worried for fear I would become a cripple. I could sleep only a few hours at night. My appetite was so poor that I rarely ever craved any kind of food and I felt rundown almost to the point of exhaustion.

"Retonga gave me such remarkable relief that I now eat with a fine appetite. I sleep so well that I feel fine in the morning. Even the sluggish elimination is relieved. My wife says she never expected to see me feeling so good again. Retonga is far ahead of anything in my experience.

"Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

"JOHNNY APFLESEED"

That almost mythical character "Johnny Applesseed" had one of the most singular careers in history. Generations ago, with two canoes lashed together, he started down a stream in western Pennsylvania carrying thousands of apple seeds collected from his own orchard and from nearby cider mills.

Into all parts of the country this strange character paddled his canoes. He made it a point to stop every day at some point, clear out a few trees with his ax, plant some apple seeds, and then enclose the clearing with a brush fence. The trees that he planted were the forerunners of numerous orchards which later had real commercial value. Also he sowed the Word of Life. He found families in wilderness cabins possessing no Bible, so he read to them from the Scriptures. Where he could not spare a whole copy of the Bible, he tore out a few pages and left them with these destitute folk. All over the country in recent years memorials have been erected to this strange human benefactor who died more than a century ago and was buried near Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Who would ever plan to live such a life as "Johnny Applesseed" lived? To how many people would it ever occur that human life would be benefited by such tireless service as he gave his generation?

Every man to his taste in human service as well as in anything else. Only let us make sure that we do something to make the world better—that we plant some sort of seed.

AMERICA IN WARTIME

By JACK STUNNETT

By W. F. ARBOGAST
Jack Stunnett Is On Vacation
Washington—One of the scarest and most valuable publications on Capitol Hill these days is a little seven-volume report of the late Dies Committee on un-American Activities.

Containing 2,166 pages and known only as the Congressional Record's "Appendix—Part IX," it never was fully circulated among the membership of the House.

A thousand copies were printed by the Government Printing Office and distributed among a few Congressmen, the State Department, the War and Navy Departments, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Civil Service Commission.

The Permanent House Committee on un-American Activities, successor to the old Dies group has access to the report. Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.), ranking majority member, has described it as "a good document and a good starting point."

Virtually every individual suspected of having associated, either directly or indirectly, with any organization which the Dies Committee believed was a "front" is listed in the voluminous index. Names of more than 23,000 individuals fill the 470 pages of the index alone. Among them are several House members.

Not all of them belong there according to Rankin.

The publication purports to be a compendium of all Communist Front Organizations, with special reference to The National Citizens Political Action Committee.

The new committee's investigation of Hollywood activities, incidentally isn't expected to get far under the direction of Rep. Wood (D-Ga.), who recently succeeded Rep. Hart (D-N.J.) as committee chairman.

Nothing will be done at least until after the current Congressional holiday ends in October. If Wood has his way, his friends don't expect much to be done even then.

The Hollywood inquiry was ordered by a handful of members at Rankin's suggestion. Hart was opposed to the investigation, which was ordered at a meeting he did not attend.

Wood's colleagues predict the new chairman will follow generally the policies of Hart and will "sit on the lid" insofar as committee activities are concerned.

Oo-So Astounding

well-managed real estate. These are the groups in which I am investing my own money.

Billions Awaiting Investment
Fifty years ago there were only about one or two billions of "loose change" in pockets and cash drawers. It took about fifty years to build this up to seven billions. During the past five years this loose change has jumped from seven billions to twenty-eight billions! This means it has quadrupled in five years. During this same five years bank deposits have doubled and are now over $100,000,000,000.

This nearly equals the assessed values of every acre of land and every building of every kind in the entire United States. When one considers that there are no more securities available for purchase than there were five years ago, it seems as if higher prices for stocks and land are inevitable. Sooner or later this loose change is going to seek investment. Churchill's defeat should hasten the day.

Low Interest Rates
Let us consider interest rates. It was not long ago that government bonds paid over 4 1/2 per cent; savings bank accounts paid 3 1/2 per cent; while we got 2 per cent on our checking accounts. Today these interest rates are down to 2 per cent, 1 per cent and zero—lower than ever before in the history of the world.

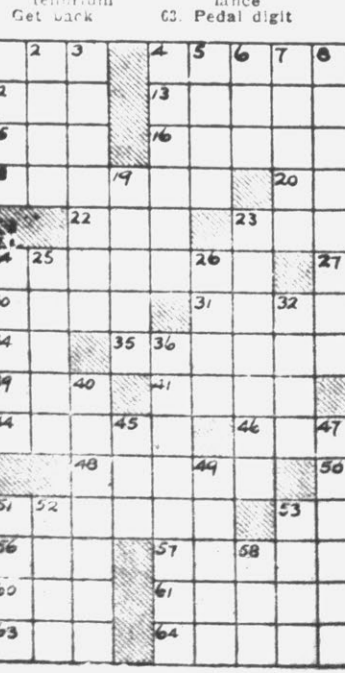

Yet anyone can buy today good corporation bonds to yield 3 1/2 per cent and good stocks to yield more. People should stop get tired of leaving their money idle in the banks at 1 per cent or at no interest when they can get so much more from good securities. When the public realizes this, the demand for good dividend paying stocks should greatly increase.

Advice to Young People

Let us consider interest rates. It was not long ago that government bonds paid over 4 1/2 per cent; savings bank accounts paid 3 1/2 per cent; while we got 2 per cent on our checking accounts. Today these interest rates are down to 2 per cent, 1 per cent and zero—lower than ever before in the history of the world.

One thing which I must mention in closing is this: The British elections will cause most of Europe to follow with socialistic experiments. The movement will temporarily cast its shadow on the United States. This means that every family should own a little fertile land and every young person should become an expert in some profession, art or trade.

Fliers in the nearest plane reported a smoke column whirled 20,000 feet into the air. A crew member of a plane 250 miles away said he saw a fiery yellow orange ball shot into the sky for 8,000 feet, followed by a column of smoke which rose to at least 20,000 feet.
The results of the atomic bombing of Nagasaki were described as "good" by General Spaatz, chief of the U. S. Army strategic Air Forces, but he said that three and a half hours after the devastating weapon was dropped at noon yesterday, smoke still obscured the damage from a photo reconnaissance plane.

First reports from Hiroshima, which was shown to be 60 per cent destroyed, also were merely that the military city of 343,000 was blanketed by smoke and dust. The world's first atomic bomb smashed 4.1 of Hiroshima's 6.9 square miles Monday. Radio Tokyo added that "practically every living thing there was destroyed."

Spaatz Superforts carried their devastating blows against Japan into the fifth consecutive day with a 70-plane strike that poured 2,000-pound demolition bombs onto the Tokyo arsenal area.

Crewmen's radioed reports said results were excellent.
More than 50 Mustangs and Thunderbolts from two accompanied the B-29s, which bombed both visually and with precision instruments at targets hit only two days before by 67 Superforts. Many vital military and industrial plants were destroyed.

The target looked like a giant torch. Heavy clouds of smoke billowed up 20,000 feet, said Lt. E. A. Berris, Waltham, Mass.

Although some planes encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire, all of the B-29s returned.

Although Radio Tokyo was silent regarding the A-bombing of Nagasaki, millions of American pamphlets, "dropped by B-29s," warned that "the awful fact of the atomic bomb" is one for you to ponder over and we solemnly assure you it is grimly accurate.
Ninety Superforts early today created explosions at Amagasaki that illuminated the whole area. Nippon oil refinery, once the chief source of Japan's aviation fuel, was the prime target.

The target looked like a giant torch. Heavy clouds of smoke billowed up 20,000 feet, said Lt. E. A. Berris, Waltham, Mass.

port of an invasion of Korea on a "broad front" was likely to be confirmed by Moscow shortly. The Korean frontier at Changkufeng, scene of a long and bloody Soviet-Japan clash in 1938, is 90 miles southwest of Vladivostok.

Meanwhile, in China, Tokyo said the highest Japanese military and civilian authorities had warned their soldiers to maintain strict order in case the Chinese became "agitated" over the Russian entry into the war.

A Chinese army spokesman in Chungking declared the Japanese were preparing to move five divisions back to Manchuria from north China. He estimated Japanese strength in Manchuria at 600,000 men, plus 320,000 unreliable puppet troops.

American airforces in China, meanwhile, were being deployed for close coordination with the Russians in the north.

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, quoted in a Chungking dispatch, said the U. S. 10th and 14th Air Forces already were being deployed to meet the tactical situations created by the new Russian front, and would "reach out deep into enemy territory everywhere."
Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, S. commander in the China theater, said Red Army forces operating against Japanese would remain under Russian command but that coordination and interchange of information already had been pe-ected.

As waves of Russian infantry, tanks and cavalry, backed by massed artillery, battered into Manchuria from the east, west and north in a huge pincer operation against the Japanese Kwantung army, Moscow reported swift initial gains.
The Russians plunged 14 miles into the stolen province from the east and 33 miles from the west; Moscow reported the capture of Jin-Jin Sume, which maps show to be an airport town 33 miles from the border of Outer Mongolia.

be no next war."
"It is an awful responsibility which has come to us," he said.

The President's warning to the Japanese people was made last night in a 30-minute radio report on the accomplishments of the Berlin Big Three meeting and on the progress of efforts to force Japanese surrender.

The Chief Executive described the Berlin political decisions he reached with Prime Minister Attlee and Generalissimo Stalin as measures to build a secure foundation for peace in Europe and the world. He made no direct references to future organization of peace in the Pacific and Asia, but he did make clear that this country intends to build up United States bases on captured Pacific islands.

The United States, he said, wants no territory or selfish advantage, but "we are going to maintain the military bases necessary for the complete protection of our interests and of world peace."
Last night the Chief Executive reiterated that there were no secret agreements or commitments made at Berlin "apart from current military arrangements."

One of those secret arrangements, he added, was for Russia's war declaration on Japan. It was made, Mr. Truman said, before Stalin was told of the atomic bomb.
"The Japs will soon learn some of the other military secrets agreed upon at Berlin," Mr. Truman said.

Mr. Truman said Hiroshima was chosen as the initial target for the atomic bomb because it was a military base and "we wished in this first attack to avoid, insofar as possible, the killing of civilians."
"I urge Japanese civilians to leave industrial cities immediately, and save themselves from destruction," he said.

Realizing the "tragic significance" of the atomic bomb, Mr. Truman said it had to be developed because enemy nations were after it also. Now it is being used to shorten the war "in order to save the lives of thousands and thousands of young Americans."

"We shall continue to use it until we completely destroy Japan's power to make war," he asserted. "Only a Japanese surrender will stop us."

The bomb is "too dangerous to be let loose in a lawless world," Mr. Truman went on, and the United States, Britain and Canada intend to retain the secret of its production until means have been found "to protect ourselves and the rest of the world from the danger of total destruction."

"We must constitute ourselves trustees of this new force," he declared, "to prevent its misuse, and to turn it into the channels of service to mankind."

In reviewing the results of the Berlin conference, he hit these high points of political settlements for Europe:

1. The Big Five council of foreign ministers (United States, Russia, Britain, France and China) was set up in the belief that adequate study now may avoid the planting of the seeds of future wars.

2. This council will draft a peace treaty for Germany but it cannot be made effective until "Germany has developed a government." Meanwhile Germany will be rid of Naziism, armaments, war industries, its general staff "and all its military tradition" and the Allies will seek to make it over into a "decent nation."

3. The basis of reparations is that Russia and Poland should get half of what is taken from Germany and the rest of the Allies the other half.

The purpose of reparations are first, to strip Germany of all machinery and other things with which she might prepare for another war, and second, to help repair the countries the Germans devastated.

4. In carving out of Germany 40,000 square miles for the new Poland, the Big Three at Berlin determined that only about 1,500,000 Germans will have to be moved from that territory into Germany, while Poland has to absorb 3,000,000 Poles from Russia. The settlement of Polish boundaries is a "compromise."

5. The decision to give Russia the northern third of East Prussia, with an ice-free port at Koenigsberg, actually was secretly agreed upon at Yalta by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Stalin, and therefore was binding on the Berlin conference.

6. Eastern European countries

"are not to be a sphere of influence of any one power." The Allied control commissions for Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria "have not been functioning completely to our satisfaction, but improved procedures were agreed upon at Yalta."
7. The Big Three also agreed that in those countries, plus Poland and Poland, "the Allied press would enjoy full freedom from now on to report to the world on all developments."

8. The United States submitted at Berlin a plan for free use of the great waterways of Europe — the Danube, the Black Sea Straits, the Rhine, the Kiel Canal and others.

Europe is hungry today, he said, and it faces a terrible winter. "If we let Europe go cold and hungry," he declared, "we may lose some of the foundations of order on which the hope for worldwide peace must rest."

Japan Asking... with her Allies—presumably over whether to accept the condition that Emperor Hirohito must remain in the saddle.

The Red Army meantime continued its advances in Manchuria, gaining miles, the Soviet high command announced.

The Japanese surrender offer was transmitted by the official Domei Agency at 7:30 a. m. EWT, and was picked up in the United States by the Associated Press and government monitors.

Japan, through her official news agency, said the offer was being transmitted via Sweden and Switzerland, and the Moscow radio said Russia's ambassador in Tokyo had been officially informed by Japan's Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo.

Once the offer is transmitted through official channels, the condition imposed by Japan—that Hirohito remain in power—may prove a stumbling block to immediate acceptance by all the Potsdam signatories—the United States, Britain, Russia and China. The Potsdam declaration itself did not mention the emperor's status, but broadcasts of the U. S. Office of War Information have refrained from attacking Hirohito. Capt. E. M. Zacharias, in an official U. S. broadcast last month, told the Japanese they would be able to form their own government under the Atlantic charter, once the Allies terms of unconditional surrender were met.

FCC monitors said the Japanese offer was transmitted only overseas, and not carried on the Japanese home radio.

The Domei Agency broadcast that this offer had been communicated to the Allies through neutral intermediaries and expressed hope that an answer will be "speedily forthcoming," thus ending the Allies' wrath which has unloosed upon Japan the atomic bomb and the combined forces of the United States, Britain, China and Russia.

President Truman conferred hurriedly with part of his cabinet less than 200 hours after the original Domei broadcast at 7:30 a. m. EWT. Secretary Byrnes said nothing official had been received from Japan. Secretary Forrestal expressed hope that the offer was genuine and said he expected a decision soon.

Britain got ready to celebrate. Prime Minister Attlee's office said he had received unofficial word of the offer, but had no further comment. Moscow broadcast the Tokyo offer on an "authoritatively learned" basis.

Japanese acceptance of the Potsdam ultimatum would mean that the nation surrender unconditionally, disarm and give up her conquests, returning Manchuria and the way to an independent Korea. She would withdraw from Malaya, the Netherlands East Indies and China.

Japan had rejected the Potsdam declaration July 27, the day after it was issued. Use of the atomic bomb and the entry of Soviet Russia into the war came after that.

Authoritative quarters in London said the petition "looks like the end of the war" and a British Foreign Office commentator said "it sounds authentic."

There was general belief among London diplomats that the situation to retain the emperor would not prevent the British government from accepting, but some quarters suggested Russia might balk on this score.

Presumably a consultation of the United States, Britain, China and Russia would be necessary. London observers said. These nations are the signatories of the Potsdam declaration. Such a consultation would take some time.

Domei said the Japanese Government acted in obedience to Hirohito, who, it said, "desired earnestly to bring about an early termination of hostilities."

This Domei broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press from an English-language wireless transmission to the United States. The broadcast came shortly after Domei announced that Japan was protesting through diplomatic channels the United States' use of atomic bombs, and coincided with new Tokyo reports of Russian advances in Manchuria, Korea and on Sakhalin Island.

The Japanese wireless transmitter went off the air in the middle of a sentence after transmitting 200 words of the announcement of the "desire" to bring about an end of hostilities.

FCC monitors said the transmission ended: "The Japanese government hope sincerely that this..."

Domei waited a moment. FCC monitors said, and then said "Stand by."

If the Domei report is borne out by official communications to the United States and Allied governments, it means that the third member of the Tokyo-Berlin-Rome Axis has surrendered three months and one day after the capitulation of Hitler's Germany.

It would mean the end of hostilities that started Sept. 18, 1931, with Japan's attack in Manchuria, which was succeeded by the capture of much of China and culminated in the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

The main question posed by the Domei declaration, was the condition with respect to the status of the emperor. The Potsdam declaration was silent about him, giving no indication whether the Allies intended to allow him to continue in power.

American leaflets addressed to Japan had called upon the Japanese people to appeal to Hirohito to end the war. For many months, the U. S. Office of War Information refrained, particularly from attacks upon Hirohito in its broadcasts to the Pacific.

FCC monitors said another Domei transmission reported: "It is authoritatively learned that the Japanese government decided to accept the three-power proclamation of Potsdam as described by the Soviet Union."

The text of the transmission: The Japanese government today addressed the following communications to the Swiss and Swedish governments, respectively, for transmission to the United States, Great Britain, China and the Soviet Union:

In obedience to the gracious command of his majesty the emperor, who ever anxious to enhance the cause of world peace, desires earnestly to bring about an early termination of hostilities with a view to saving mankind from the calamities to be imposed upon them by further continuation of the war, the Japanese government has decided to accept the Potsdam ultimatum contained in the Potsdam declaration which was issued at Potsdam on July 26, 1945, by the heads of the governments of the United States, Great Britain and China and later subscribed to the Soviet government with the understanding that the said declaration does not compromise any demand which prejudices the prerogatives of his majesty as a sovereign ruler.

The Japanese government is ready to accept the terms enumerated in the joint declaration which was issued at Potsdam on July 26, 1945, by the heads of the governments of the United States, Great Britain and China and later subscribed to the Soviet government with the understanding that the said declaration does not compromise any demand which prejudices the prerogatives of his majesty as a sovereign ruler.

TRAIN WRECK KILLS SCORE

Seventeen Bodies Recovered; Over 50 Injured

Michigan, N. D., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Seventeen bodies were recovered today from the tangled steel wreckage of an observation car, into which a locomotive plowed as the two sections of the Empire Builder, Great Northern transcontinental train, collided here Thursday night, killing an estimated score and injuring 50 more, 15 of them seriously.

John Cameron, Dakota division superintendent, said the bodies recovered, all unidentified as yet, included those of six women, 16 members of the armed services and one of a Negro porter.

Cameron said he had personally seen in the wreckage the bodies of three more women, four men and a child yet to be released, which would establish the death toll at 25.

With a crash which shook every house in this community of less than 500 population, the speeding second coach section plowed into the leading Pullman section which had been halted here unexpectedly by a hot box on the locomotive tender shortly before 7 p. m.

The rear car of the standing train, a combination sleeper and observation car, was telescoped, its furnishings and berths jammed into a compact mass at its front while the car's steel shell remained superimposed on the locomotive of the following train.

Train attendants estimated 27 persons occupied the car's two portions.

Definite check of the number of injured was difficult as they were scattered among a half dozen neighboring communities which have hospital facilities, completely lacking here. Michigan has no doctor.

John Burnham, a staff correspondent for the Fargo, N. D. Forum, who was at the scene, said only two men among the passengers on the ill-fated car escaped. These were an unidentified sailor and soldier who saw the second section bearing down on them and jumped, the soldier suffering severe cuts in going through a window.

Coroner Graham said an inquest would be held today.

R. E. Nelson, Grand Forks, N. D., the engineer, although suffering from shock, was pulled otherwise unharmed from his cab which was beneath the steel observation car shell. The firemen, George Harris, also from Grand Forks, saw the crash coming and leaped from the cab.

OPA CONTROLS TO CONTINUE

Bowles Stands By Low-Cost Clothing Program

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—With tacit White House backing, Price Administrator Chester Bowles today bluntly rejected industry demands for abandonment of the government's low cost clothing program.

OPA's part of the program, Bowles said, is here to stay "unless we find something better" or until there is "an ample supply of goods." Bowles made public a sharply-worded letter to an outspoken industry critic of the program after President Truman yesterday told WPB Chairman J. A. Krug that agency must take cognizance of the effect of its act on price stabilization.

Some WPB officials favored replacing its drastic clothing order, officially M-338, with a more lenient program keyed to a brighter fabric supply outlook.

M-338, worked out early this year by WPB and OPA, was intended to channel 75 per cent of civilian fabrics into low and medium-priced clothing. Companion OPA orders sought to roll back prices six to seven per cent to 1943 averages.

Bowles, in a letter to Curt Forstmann, a member of the OPA Woolen and Worsted Industry Advisory Committee, said that if Forstmann and "some other members of your industry" spent the same amount of time and effort in making the textile and clothing program work "as you have in trying to compel its abandonment... you would be making a much greater contribution to the national welfare."

Forstmann had demanded repeal of the woolen "map," or maximum average price regulation, on the ground that it is unnecessary, and that relaxations already made it "meaningless."

"Frankly," Bowles wrote, "in view of the current situation with respect to woolen and worsted fabric prices, the suggestion that the order be revoked is not the sort of advice that we expect to receive or that we can follow consistently with our responsibilities, especially where you neglect, at the same time, to give us an idea for a better kind of regulation."

Bowles told Forstmann he was "reluctantly driven" to the conclusion that some members of the industry have "failed to comprehend the importance of stabilizing prices, particularly clothing prices which at this time represent the greatest threat to the entire stabilization program."

which program will be carried on in the other three shops. Supt. J. H. Rose reported today that the state of North Carolina which will operate this school will expend $15,000 on new equipment adapted to the needs of the blind people. There will be a staff of approximately fifteen and from seventy-five to eighty blind people of eastern North Carolina in this school. The purpose of the school is to train these blind people to become self-supporting. Work will start immediately and it is planned to have the place ready for occupancy when school is started the latter part of September.

In addition to Dr. Cheek, head of the State Blind Commission were Mayor Boyd, J. H. Rose, Supt. of Schools, Mrs. Rayburn of the State Blind Commission, Rev. Hartwell Campbell, president of the Greenville Lions Club, Frank Brown, chairman of the committee of the Lions Club which with the Pitt County Association for the Blind is sponsoring the project and the following members of the committee, Paul Scott, O. E. Dowd.

The Lions Club of Greenville has rendered and is rendering a very fine service to the blind of Pitt County. The club has spent thousands of dollars on this great work. When the war is over, a school of this sort will be built somewhere in eastern North Carolina. Buildings will be of a permanent type and Supt. Rose expressed the hope that it might be possible to get this school located permanently in or near Greenville.

Officers Arrest ...

They rounded up a ring of alleged automobile and store robbers that had been carrying on a campaign of larceny that shocked numerous communities. Two others arrested on other charges were Frank Beech, 32, and Tom Dew, 18, alleged to be members of the ring.

In addition to arresting the four men alleged to have robbed the Bethel liquor store, the officers learned that the liquor was sold in Norfolk, Va., and that the stolen car was burned in woods in Virginia.

The officers at police headquarters last night revealed a kaleidoscopic panorama of robberies and their solution, the accomplishment of which would be a credit to the FBI. In arresting the six men they solved the robbery of five automobiles and a pickup truck during the past year. They also gathered some evidence which may lead to other arrests. Two of the men in custody are serving terms in the State penitentiary. "Solution of these robberies shows how much can be accomplished when law enforcement officers harmoniously cooperate," an official said today.

Here's the story of some of the best police work done in the State in many years. In addition to the Bethel robbery, the following other arrests were made:

Beech, Harrell and Edmondson are charged with the larceny of a Pontiac sedan in Rocky Mount the night of July 28, 1944. The car was later found abandoned near the State Prison Camp at Tarboro.

Edmondson, Harrell, Beech, Jones and Rawls are charged with the larceny of a Buick car in Scotland Neck the night of July 7, 1944. The car was found abandoned near Kill Quick in Edgecombe County.

Beech, Harrell and Jones are charged with the larceny of a pickup truck in Bethel the night of July 10, 1944. Sheriff Tyson said they failed to break into the ABC stores at Bethel and Roxabel and abandoned the truck in a swamp in Martin County.

five to seven years each in the penitentiary for larceny.

Rawls, who was arrested by a highway patrolman in Goldsboro, is being held by federal authorities in Charlotte in connection with counterfeit gasoline and sugar ration coupons. Dew is in jail at Williamston.

Police and sheriff's officers from numerous places were here yesterday when the prisoners were being questioned.

Jones and Beech were brought to Greenville from State Prison and later returned there.

Dew was brought from Williamston and later taken back there.

Rawls, in jail in Charlotte, was not brought here for questioning. Harrell and Edmondson are in jail here.

More State ...

wise said that although a member of the board since 1925 he had no knowledge that Meadows was handling any Ricks tours or other college or student funds or keeping them in his personal bank account.

T. L. Matlock, certified public accountant, testified that he had been in charge of auditing the John Flanagan Buggy Company books since 1933 and that following the death of the late E. G. Flanagan he audited all Flanagan's personal books and records for purposes of settlement of the estate. He declared that nowhere did he find any records or notations of the handling of any college funds by Mr. Flanagan nor of advances by Flanagan for acquisition of any materials for the college.

A. H. Howell, of the State Auditing Department, testified that he came here early in 1938 to audit the college books following the death of the late J. B. Spillman. He said Dr. Meadows pointed out the college ledgers to him and that he and Mr. Duncan, the newly appointed college treasurer, went over the records that he had no instructions at the college the matter of auditing the student loan funds was brought to his attention and he records to him and that he and about them and could not touch them unless ordered to do so by his department. He said he went before a meeting of the board of trustees and explained the procedure and that the board passed a resolution asking that the State have the student loan funds audited. The minutes of the same meeting reveal that a further resolution proposed by A. B. Andrews and seconded by Mr. Flanagan requested that the State audit all funds handled by all bonded officers and any and all other activity funds. The prosecution has presented a letter written by Dr. Meadows to the late Baxter Durham, in 1936, advising him of the board's request that the State audit the student loan funds but the letter made no mention of the second resolution, passed at the same meeting, requesting that other funds (including those handled by Meadows) be audited. The State has contended that by its failure to mention the second resolution Meadows covered up the fact that he was handling such funds and that for that reason they were never audited by the State until the investigation was begun.

R. G. Deyton, of the State Budget Commission, was expected to remain on the stand throughout the afternoon.
