Final Details Of Surrender Arrangements Announced By MacArthur. Thousands Of Japanese Already Laying Down Their Arms; Occupation Of Japan To Begin Tuesday

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
Manila, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Conquering Japan and the conquering Allies will formally end the war on August 31 by signing the surrender document on the battleship Missouri, which only a month ago was hurling 16-inch shells into the Japanese mainland.

General MacArthur announced these final details today, while his headquarters disclosed actual capitulation in the field is proceeding in advance of the official ceremony.

Surrender of several thousand Japanese in Northern Luzon was arranged yesterday despite "adamant" opposition of their commander, and similar negotiations were moving ahead on Mindanao and Ilo.

Japan meanwhile appealed for permission to send ships to ill and starving garrisons on Marcus Islands and "various isolated islands in the south," adding that food on Marcus, 1,200 miles southeast of Tokyo, would be exhausted in two more days.

Tokyo also messaged MacArthur's headquarters that Japanese Red Cross workers aided by Swiss and Swedish legations are preparing to visit Japan's seven major prisoners of war camps Friday to assist in evacuating prisoners and civil internees to embarkation points. Whether the missions actually will transport prisoners to the ports or merely plan their later transportation was not clear.

MacArthur himself will land at Tokyo's Atsugi airport Tuesday, weather permitting, along with thousands of airborne occupation troops. On the same day, Marines and sailors will occupy the great Yokosuka naval base in Tokyo Bay. Later—the wife was not designated—thousands of troops will land in the Sagami Bay occupation zone.

The Japanese have been ordered, meantime, to evacuate all key occupation areas, to disarm their ships, all coastal guns and other defenses in the initial occupation zone, and to surrender all ships and submarines at sea to Allied ports.

Admirals Nimitz and Sir Bruce Fraser, whose combined U. S. and British Pacific fleets helped shorten the war with their repeated unrelenting bombing and bombardment of the Japanese homeland from July 10 until the August 14 truce, will sign the surrender document for the United States and for the United Kingdom. It is presumed that the Missouri, named for President Truman's home state, will be Nimitz's flagship.

La. Gen. Kuzma Nikolaevich Derzhavsky will sign for Russia and Gen. Hsu Yung-Chang for China. Signing for other Allies will be Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey for Australia; Lt. Gen. L. H. Van Oyen for the Netherlands East Indies, and Gen. Jacques Le Clerc for France, Canada and New Zealand are to sign.

BRITAIN WILL BACK CHARTER

International Control Of Atomic Bomb Urged

London, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Early and possibly unanimous ratification of the United Nations charter was forecast early today as Parliament prepared to resume at 2:15 p. m. (9:15 a. m. EWT) a debate punctuated with solemn warnings of the vast potentialities of the atomic bomb.

Some members advocated international control of the weapon during yesterday's discussion.

They included Laborite H. L. Austin and Sir Arthur Salter Independent. The former expressed anxiety about its possession by the United States because "it might eventually come to be invested in Wall Street and not in the people of America."

Salter said the military provisions of the charter would seem obsolete in the light of the new weapon unless it is controlled.

In the House of Lords, Lord Jowitt, the Lord Chancellor, said the secret of the bomb could not be kept indefinitely, and that an attempt to keep it would only encourage research in methods of destruction by every nation.

Former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, now a member of the opposition in Commons, said that if controversies could be solved amicably among nations through a world league, "perhaps we need not worry about the atomic bomb."

Even the few speakers who criticized the world security league plan drawn up at San Francisco gave no indication of an intention to vote against it.

The Daily Herald predicted that "there is every prospect that ratification will be unanimous."

Britain is the last of the Big Five powers to take up ratification. Approval already has been given by the United States, Soviet Russia, China and France, as well as by more than a half dozen smaller nations.

Davenport Trial To Be Postponed

Trial of Roderick Davenport and four associates charged with conspiracy to defraud and violate the state banking laws has been continued to the October term of Pitt Superior Court, Solicitor Dave M. Clark said today.

Davenport, who operated a loan business in several eastern North Carolina towns was scheduled to go on trial Monday. He and his associates, now free under bond are under indictment on the same charges in Craven County.

Clark said the trial was continued because of the unprecedented length of the trial of Dr. Leon R. Meadows. Davenport was indicted in Pitt and Craven counties after State Bureau of Investigation agents alleged he accepted deposits and made loans totalling several hundred thousands dollars, charging exorbitant rates of interest on the money he loaned.

There are a lot of Allied folk who believe we should be outraging our own ideals if we struck down the head of a religion. One of the reasons which impelled our American forefathers to come here from Europe was to secure freedom of worship. The second of the late President Roosevelt's four freedoms is "Freedom of every person to worship God in his own way—everywhere in the world."

Sure, I know that opens up the question of worshipping false gods—but let's not go into that here. If the people of Japan want to continue the Shinto religion we can't stop them by force. We can't stop them by removing their emperor, because Shinto is bigger than he is.

The late Turkish dictator, the great Kemal Ataturk, abolished the Caliphate in 1924 and kicked the Caliph out. But that didn't halt Mohammedanism. Ataturk even abolished the Fez, which was essential to the Mohammedan in worship because it had no brim and he could prostrate himself till his forehead touched the ground.

WOULD RETAIN WAR CONTROLS

Britain Asks To Keep Measures Five Years

London, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Britain's new Labor government introduced legislation today seeking broad authority to retain for at least five years many of its wartime emergency controls, including the right to peg prices and regulate services and supplies.

Majority Leader Herbert Morrison, Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton and Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, presented the measure to Commons. All are top ranking officials of Prime Minister Attlee's cabinet.

The purposes of the measure were described as: "To secure at fair prices a sufficient and equitable distribution of those (supplies and services) essential to the well being of the community."

"To facilitate the readjustment of industry and commerce to the requirements of the community in time of peace."

"To assist in the relief of suffering and the restoration and distribution of essential supplies and services in any part of His Majesty's Kingdom."

Collect Waste Paper On Sunday

Even though peace has come, the need for waste paper is still very urgent. There are now millions of American men and women on foreign soil. Many millions more will be added to the occupation forces in the very near future. These American GIs have to be fed, equipped, and clothed from America. Paper plays an important part in the shipment of these supplies to our forces. Every item that is shipped overseas is either wrapped or packed in paper or cardboard containers. So waste paper is just as important in winning the peace as it is in winning the war.

Reconversion on the homefront increases the need for paper and paper products also. Wrapping paper, cartons, newsprint and thousands of other paper products will be needed here at home.

Throughout the war, the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce has done an outstanding job in collecting waste paper. And now that the demands for paper in peace are just as urgent, this organization will continue to do its part in eliminating the shortage.

Chairman Alton Barrett of the City Salvage Committee stated today that the Greenville Jaycees would hold their first peace waste paper drive this Sunday afternoon between the hours of two and six p. m.

England To Resume Control Hong Kong

Will Reestablish Crown Colony Immediately After Surrender; France To Take Over Indo-China

London, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee, under the prompting of Winston Churchill, told Commons today that plans for reestablishing British administration in the crown colony of Hong Kong "are fully prepared."

"As stated by the foreign secretary on Monday," said Attlee, "arrangements are being made for the Japanese surrender in Hong Kong to be accepted by a British force commander."

The House cheered. Churchill had inquired whether the government was taking action "to restore the British administration in Hong Kong as soon as they receive the Japanese surrender in the colony."

"May I presume," Churchill continued, "that you recall that on numerous occasions, and particularly at the Cairo conference in 1943, the government have made it plain that they did not contemplate any modification in sovereignty of his majesty's territories in the Far East?"

"Yes sir," Attlee replied. "I have very full recollections of these statements and I will bear them in mind."

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek participated in the Cairo conference with Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Chinese instructions to Japanese surrender envoys in China Tuesday stipulated that the surrender at Hong Kong would be to the Chinese commander.

Earlier a foreign office commentator declared occupation of Hong Kong "will be our responsibility in that it is British territory."

He told a press conference that the British government—prior to the announcement of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes—had no previous knowledge that the future status of Hong Kong would be one of the subjects coming up at the five power council of foreign ministers, now set for September 10.

The British foreign office commentator said no agreement had been reached for the Chinese to occupy Hong Kong. Replying to a question, he acknowledged that the report was in the Chinese zone of occupation, and said "we should be very happy to have the Chinese associated in the occupation."

Paris, Aug. 23.—(AP)—France is planning to take over French Indo-China when it is liberated from the Japanese and British occupation.

"We are definitely taking over," an attaché at Gen. De Gaulle's office said last night.

Admiral Thierry Dargeniou, recently appointed governor general of Indo-China, is leaving Paris in three or four days and already has sent Maj. Gen. Jacques LeClerc (Continued on Page Four)

Sugar Rations To Remain Same

Washington, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The current ration of five pounds of sugar every four months will be continued for the remainder of the year.

OPA, announcing this formally today, said sugar stamp 38 in ration book 4, good for five pounds, will be validated September 1, and remain good through December 31. The current stamp, 36, will not be good after August 31.

Stamp 37 is not being validated, OPA said, because many persons by mistake last year mailed 37 to local boards to obtain special rationing allowances.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles described sugar supplies as "very tight," with no prospect for improvement this year.

However a Senate subcommittee held out the hope today of cutting exports as a means of alleviating the shortage.

Final Bond Drive To Start Oct. 29

Washington, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Starting date of the eighth and last war loan drive is October 29. This will be a "victory loan" of $11,000,000,000, of which the government wants four billions to come from individuals, half in "E" bonds.

Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, in announcing the loan last night, said:

"The cost of contract settlements, bringing our forces home, their mustering-out pay, hospitalization, care and rehabilitation will be great and will require large sums for which we must plan now."

Washington, Aug. 23.—(AP)—President Truman bestowed the Congressional Medal of Honor on 28 Army heroes today in the largest mass ceremony of its kind.

Before a large audience of high ranking military and civilian officials and families of those honored, the President tied the highest award of the nation on each of the officers and men after citations for their individual deeds of heroism were read by Maj. Gen. Edward F. Wittsell, acting Adjutant General.

An orchestra from the Army band played before the ceremony in a lobby outside the historic East Room, which is reserved for memorable occasions.

Two of the heroes were in wheel chairs. Another was totally blind. Applause followed each medal bestowed.

The awards brought to 156 the number of Medals of Honor given to Army personnel in World War Two. The heroes came from 19 states, with one from Canada. In the group were one lieutenant colonel, three captains, four lieutenants, 16 sergeants, and four privates.

Aboard Astoria
Aboard the USS Astoria in the Pacific—(Delayed)—John L. Watson, pharmacist's mate, first class, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Watson, of Bethel, has helped this light cruiser avenge her namesake—a heavy cruiser which was sunk by the Japs off Guadalcanal in 1942.

Since she entered Jap waters eight months ago, this ship has been in the thick of action at two Jima and Okinawa in the North China Sea and off the coast of Tokyo itself. Operating with a fast carrier task force under Admiral William H. Halsey, Jr., she has succeeded in knocking 13 Jap planes out of the air and hitting numerous others.

Aboard the U. S. S. English in the Pacific—Abner B. Wingate, 20, seaman, first class, USNR, son of Mrs. W. A. Wingate, Greenville, and John Earl Vanderburg, seaman first class, U. S. N. R., whose wife lives in Greenville fought flames, smoke and crazily exploding shells for three dramatic hours when this destroyer went to the aid of the fire-ridden carrier USS Bunker Hill, smashed by Jap suicide pilots last May 11.

Wary of two long sessions at their battle stations earlier in the day, the English crew had finally succumbed at 10 a. m. Four minutes later, answering a general quarters call, they saw the stricken carrier off the port bow.

Threading her careful way through seas dotted with Bunker Hill men who had been blasted offboard or had jumped to escape flames, and who were being picked up by other ships, the English reached the blazing flat-top and began pouring water on the fires. The cruiser U. S. S. Wilkes Barre and another destroyer, the U. S. S. Charles S. Sperry, came in close to help and the English moved to a new position. Just before she pulled away, three men crouching in the carrier's gun tubs to escape flames dropped unscathed to this ship's deck.

Creeping in close to the carrier's fantail, where 30 or 40 men were trapped, the English poured tons of water across the narrow gap separating the two ships. Breathing apparatus and fire fighting equipment were sent across.

Shortly after 1 p. m., the fires were brought under control. Then the English crew members sent over buckets of steaming coffee to the grim-eyed, exhausted carrier men. Later in the afternoon Admiral Marc A. Mitscher and his staff were transported to a new flagship by the English.

Judson Eric Whichard, who served with the Quartermaster Corps of the 103rd (Cactus) Division in the Seventh Army, saying he had reached Camp St. Louis, Rheims, France, on his way to Le Havre to sail for the States. In a letter written earlier following V-E day he told of some of his experiences.

He sailed from New York October 6th on the ship Santa Maria, reaching Marseille, France on the 20th. With more on his back than he could hardly stand up with he biked eighteen miles to a place where he got transportation to the staging area, leaving there in a few days for the front where he helped keep supplies on and beyond the line for 136 days without rest. The main supply point being Epinal near

The first bale of cotton of this year's crop to come to the Greenville market was brought in Wednesday by a tenant on the farm of Mrs. Nana Brown. The bale graded middling and was purchased by Speight and Co., at 11¢ cents. Tobacco sales running around 100,000 pounds a day and prices good, shows what the Greenville market is doing.

Strasburg. In order to see more of the country he asked to be put in the truck platoon and was issued a truck in his number. Going over bad roads and steep mountains he carried all kinds of supplies including gasoline to the front and brought back prisoners. Having no lights made the job more difficult and dangerous. The prisoners with sore feet and hands and thin clothing were always glad to ride and be taken prisoner. During the enemy break through at Strasburg he hauled supplies and prisoners for eight days and nights without hardly getting out of his truck and getting very little food or sleep, during this time being caught in shell fire several times. He didn't mention getting hurt but told of having lots of trouble keeping glasses in his truck.

His division had a three weeks rest just before crossing the Rhine then went on the line and stayed until May 5th when the enemy 19th army surrendered to them in Innsbruck, Austria. It was then he learned that he had been hauling supplies through a town where the enemy was still killing civilians in large numbers, the most of them being children. His division was the first to go down in Italy and meet the Fifth Army. They went through Hitler's southern fortress and the Brenner Pass where he thought no one could go. They celebrated D-day by visiting Hitler's home and doing a good job to one of the few windows left in the main building. They also had three day leaves to Brussels, Paris and the Death Camp Dachau in northern Germany.

When Eric thought of weighing he found his weight to be 165 instead of the 193 as when he left the States. Soon after V-E day this division was split with the boys being sent in different directions leaving Eric and three others with the 45th Division. That was one of their bluest days. On the 3rd of July they started driving their trucks from their camp near Innsbruck toward the western coast, stopping at two camps for inspections and rest. He has two or three battle stars.

Eric graduated from Stokes High School in the spring of 1938 just three days after he celebrated his 16th birthday. He graduated from the Greenville High School (12th grade) the spring of 1939, received his diploma, including the certificate of penmanship from Kings Business College of Raleigh in the spring of 1940 and in the summer of 1942 he received a certificate from the Carolina Welding and Grades School, Inc., of Raleigh. During the seasons of 1941 and 1942 he was employed by the Imperial Tobacco Company until entering the service in November, 1942.

Explosion Kills One, Injures 42

Portland, Ore., Aug. 23—(AP)—An explosion, so intense that houses 50 blocks away were knocked to the floor, killed an inspector and injured 42 workmen at Iron Fireman Manufacturing Company today.

Michael Keck was killed. Eighteen persons, including two women, were taken to hospitals; the rest were given first aid on the scene.

A woman metal worker was reported in serious condition at one hospital, and several other workmen were seriously injured. The explosion, which shattered windows a block away and sent a ball of flame through the top of a car parked nearby, occurred while 300 workers were on duty. Huge clouds of black smoke poured from burning oil, but firemen said the blaze was being controlled.

Christianity for Japan was first introduced on Kyushu by Pesito who accompanied the 16th century Portuguese adventurers.

Ship Survives Suicide Attack

Seattle, Wash. (By Mail)—The U.S.S. Spectacle, a hard-hulled minesweeper, has joined the growing list of Seattle-built ships returning here for repairs and refitting.

She has also joined the expanding ranks of "unsinkable" American ships, the Thirteenth Naval District said today.

The "Spec" (as her men and officers affectionately call her) took a direct Kamikaze hit off Okinawa last May. Resulting fires and damage were controlled so swiftly that she lived through it, although 29 of her heroic crew did not.

Her casualty toll included six wounded in addition to the 29 dead. Eight of the Spectacle's men have been recommended for decorations. The skipper, Lieutenant Gordon B. Williams, USNR, of 710 Ward Street, Greenville, N. C., said, "It's hard to single out any of the men for recommendation. Every one of them did their job, and did it well."

Lieutenant Williams was formerly from Crystal City, Texas. His wife is the former Miss Star May Hearne of Greenville. When the "Spec" was warped into a repair basin at the Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging Company, the terrible damage inflicted by the Jap suicide was still evident. Deck and bulkhead plates were ripped and twisted like the jagged top of an open tin can.

Numerous shrapnel holes were visible. Burned and blistered wiring and bulkheads gave some indication of the terrific heat of Kamikaze flames. Crew members were sweating and shivering in a jumpy "hot-cold" reaction. Their regular lavatory facilities had been destroyed by the Jap crash.

Still, evidence that the fight had been one-sided (for our side) was painted on the "Spec's" scoreboard. The official tally credits her with the destruction of four suicide boats, eight small enemy surface craft, one twin-engine Jap bomber and one Jap fighter. The "box-score" is in addition to her regular minesweeping operations.

"At Two Jima," crew members said, "we sprouted wheels, we were sweeping that close to the beach, and joining in the pre-invasion bombardment without any extra charge."

Takes Children To Army Camp

Camp Lee, Va., Aug. 23—(AP)—Three personal problems of a Philadelphia private who had to take his domestic life to camp with him have been solved by the army temporarily.

The "problems"—three smudge-faced little girls including twins—arrived here late yesterday after a train ride and a hitch hike from their home with their father, Pvt. Louis Price, 30.

The private, who was due back at camp this morning, explained to army officials that he had been unable to find any social agency that would care for his daughters while their mother was hospitalized, but that his corporal told him by telephone to "come here anyway and bring the kids with you."

After a train ride from Philadelphia to Richmond and a 25-mile hitch-hike ride to the camp, the three children, Marion, 9, and Sheila and Dinah, three-year-old twins, made themselves at home in their father's orderly room where they were greeted by Brig. Gen. George A. Horkan, camp commander and entertained by Price's buddies. The general told Private Price that Camp Lee "always takes care of its own. We are particularly sympathetic to your case and will take care of your children until other provisions can be made."

Food and beds were prepared for the children by WAC technicians and grey ladies of the Red Cross at the order of the commander and shortly after retreat the three tired little girls, scrubbed and fed, were sound asleep in army beds at the camp hospital, only a block from their father's basic training company.

Dining Car Racket Uncovered By FBI

New York, Aug. 23—(AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced today 118 men throughout the country had been arrested in connection with a dining car racket which cost two railroads more than $100,000 over a period of a year.

All of the men apprehended, E. E. Conroy, special agent in charge of the New York FBI Office, said, were stewards, waiters or cooks employed by the New York Central and Erie railroads on several of their best trains.

The scheme, based on manipulation of food and liquor checks, cost the railroads as much as $800 on a single trip, Conroy said, adding that the victims were servicemen, elderly women and persons unfamiliar with dining car routine.

SAY UNCLE

Chapter 38
Madge looked thoughtfully after her. "It's funny, Uncle Louie, but I actually like Mario Drew."
"So do I," he chuckled. Then he turned businesslike as he took Madge's empty glass out of her hand, rinsed it, and carefully, even so carefully, emptied into it the contents of the two vials. His eyes twinkled as he handed the glass back to her. "With my compliments."
Madge looked at the glass as she raised the glass to her lips; even Uncle Louie looked at the glass as he watched her drain the glass of its last precious drop.
Madge was surprised. "It has a delightful flavor!"
"And why shouldn't it?" he asked tenderly. "When it is made out of nothing but, hopes and dreams?"
"I want to know," cried Madge softly. "I want to go home to John!"
Madge and Uncle Louie, tipped into Winston Manor's great hall, "I want to freshen up a bit before I see John," whispered Madge.
"And T," whispered Uncle Louie, "am very anxious to get started on my new formula."
Madge started at him in amazement. "What, another?" she asked. "And this one, my dear," he whispered confidentially, "is going to prove, by far, more startling and revolutionizing."
"Uncle Louie," she said, as he was leaving, "thank you again for all you have done." Then she kissed him on his forehead.
Madge felt suddenly weary as she sat down. And when she entered the room, she found the door to her bedroom, her bed became too tempting. I'll be down for just a few minutes, she thought, it will refresh me, and then I'll find John and tell him the wonderful news. The moment Madge's golden hair touched the pillow she was sound asleep. The eventful, exciting day had proven too exhausting.
Madge was shocked out of her sleep by a terrific explosion. She sat up, bolt-like, screaming.
"Uncle Louie! Uncle Louie!" She became more excited when she saw, in the semi-lighted room, two figures standing by her bed.
"Thank God, Fred," she heard John say to the doctor, "she's snapped out of it!"
"I have to help Uncle Louie!" she said, as she started to arise from the bed; but the gentle hand of the doctor restrained her.
"Take it easy, Madge," he said.
"But, darling," said John, "Uncle Louie has been dead for over forty years!"
"Madge," said the doctor quietly, "I've been dreaming. That explosion was a clap of thunder. Then, as though the electrical storm which raged outside wanted to prove the doctor's point, there was another terrifying clap of thunder which shook the very foundation of the house."
"Oh," wept Madge, as though her heart would break, "poor, darling Uncle Louie has been blown back into the family closet!"
Madge was living too much in her dream to notice that she was still

On each Saturday during said registration period said books shall remain open at the polling place.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights
Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

The polling place and the names of the election officers, subject to change as provided by law, are as follows:
Polling Place—Pactolus School.
Registrar—J. B. Barnhill.

Judges—John Overton and Wesley Johnson.
By order of the Board of Commissioners for the County of Pitt.

Tempt Summer Appetites

The flavor of this delicious noodle casserole will please the family... its easy preparation will please the cook. Yes, it's the kind of dish that can be prepared in the cool of the morning and slipped into the refrigerator all ready for baking when the time arrives. Allows you to come to the table cool as a cucumber.

MOR Noodle Casserole...to tempt summer appetites

Cut 1 can MOR into 12 slices (serve 6 slices for top, dice remainder).
Boil 3 1/2 cups noodles (broken) in 7 cups salted water (2 tsp. salt) until tender (15 to 20 min.). Drain and rinse.
Add a white sauce made of 4 tbsp. CERTIFIED MAR-GARINE, 4 tbsp. flour, 2 cups milk.
Add 1/2 tsp. dry mustard, 1 pimiento, chopped, 1 (2 1/2 oz.) can mushrooms (optional).
Pour into a margined casserole, top with margined crumbs, if desired, arrange slices of MOR on top and bake 35 to 40 min., or until brown, in a moderate oven, 350° F. (or cover and place in refrigerator until time to bake). Serves 6.

A Tasty Combination

A large combination vegetable salad, rolls and a beverage are all that are needed to make a tempting main course with this delicious MOR noodle casserole. Add blueberries and cream for dessert and all is well.

For extra deliciousness, make this Chiffonade Dressing for the salad: Just before serving, add 1 hard cooked Clear Brook Egg, 1 tsp. minced onion and 1 tsp. pimiento (all finely chopped) to 3/4 cup of your favorite French Dressing which has been shaken well. Easy as that but what a lift it gives to any green salad!

Another taste-tempting combination for a hot summer day is a cold plate of MOR potato salad, deviled eggs and tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese. Start the meal with quick R-V French onion soup and

MOR Potato Salad

Combine

1 can MOR, cut in cubes
3 cups diced cooked potatoes
1 cup cooked peas
1 cup sliced celery
2 tbsp. minced onion
1/2 cup sliced radishes
3/4 cup WILSON'S MAYONNAISE mixed with 1/2 cup milk

Mix carefully so vegetables will retain their shape.

Cover and let stand at least 2 hours to allow flavors to mingle. Serve well chilled in crisp lettuce cups.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

GENIUS AND HARD WORK

The great Mozart, as he approached death, threw himself into a round of activities which astonished his friends. The sixth month before his death found him playing twenty concerts in the brief space of thirty days. In one of the last years of his life, he wrote six celebrated quartets dedicated to Haydn. But it was his Requiem upon which to the last moment of his life he lingered with fond devotion. He declared that he was writing it for himself, and it seemed to be both the culmination of his career and the grand piece which he prepared for his own passing. At last, with swollen limbs and burning brow he lay on his death bed surrounded by his wife, a sister, and his friend Susmayer. The score of the Requiem lay open before him, as the last faintest stole over him, he turned to his friend Susmayer and tried with his lips to indicate a peculiar effect which the kettle-drums were supposed to produce at one place in the score. This was the last act of one of the world's greatest musicians. His eyes closed, and he seemed to fall into a deep and tranquil sleep.

Mozart lived only thirty-five years, yet in that brief time he produced music which will live forever. To genius he added hard work, a combination which always produces greatness. His last thought was his work and his last effort an attempt to make it effective.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

(Third of Six Articles)

Washington — Mushroom towns are nothing new to the United States, but the little "Secret Industrial Empires" that the atomic bomb makers created on the desert near Pasco, Wash., and in the hills near Clinton, Tenn., have a history.

It is true the "mushrooms" after the first glow was broken, residential areas centered in Oak Ridge, near Clinton, and Richland Village, near Pasco, still were the subject of worker complaints. Typical was the worker at Pasco who could get no rest because of 24-hour-a-day gambling, drinking, arguing and brawling. He also complained of the sandstorms and the food and finally quit to work in the peace and quiet of a railroad yard.

Yet three months after this John K. Jennings, Indiana WMC director, making a thorough survey of working conditions at the Hanford (Pasco) project, said:

"Everything humanly possible is done for the comfort of employees. Proper housing, schools, libraries, churches, recreation and public safety are provided as well as full banking and railroad and other transportation facilities.

"At the hotel (in Richland Village), I was given an air conditioned room at $1 a day which could not be obtained for less than $4 in any hotel in America. The hotel was neat, clean, well-managed. The bed was excellent. There was a shower bath.

"From this time on, I had an escort over the entire project. I was asked to and did sign a number of forms swearing me to secrecy . . . but I can truthfully say . . . I made no observations that I considered of military value to any one—including Hitler. It's my impression that this would apply also to most of the workmen."

He remarked on the housekeeping and maid service provided in the dormitories and cottages: the $1 meals for 65 cents (10 cents less for 21-meal cards); the 50,000 sandwiches turned out daily for lunches and kept in refrigerators until eating time; the hospitals which would do justice to cities of 100,000; the 24-hour-a-day movies; the dances with name bands on week ends; the recreation halls; and the fact that the bars were open only from 7 p.m. to midnight.

Jennings pointed out that all construction is of a permanent nature — "is evidently built on the theory that it is to serve always and no doubt will be there when Gabriel blows his horn."

Mr. Jennings complained that too many WMC staff members had a wrong, preconceived idea that the Hanford project was a "glorified lumber camp" instead of an established community with most of the facilities of a city of 50,000 and up.

The Hanford project also had what Jennings described as "the largest trailer camp in America," a city in itself of 10,000 trailers, with streets, yards, and its own utilities and garbage collection.

What may be said for the Pasco-Richland-Hanford area could be said for the 75,000-population Oak Ridge-Clinton community between Norris Dam and Knoxville in Tennessee.

head touched the ground. Ataturk introduced western hats with brims, but the faithful found way to beat that. I saw them in an Ankara Mosque wearing American caps, with the visors turned around, the way American baseball catchers wear them.

Then there's another point: If we use the big stick to uproot Shinto, on the ground that it's an improper religion, we are taking in a lot of territory. After that we do deal with Buddhism, with Hinduism and what not?

The best answer to all this probably is that if western ideas and ideals are presented to the Japanese people in the most favorable light, we may win them over to our way of thinking.

These special benefits include allowance for dependents of disabled veterans, federal reimbursement of money paid out to injured veterans from workmen's compensation funds (the DAV claims that fear of increased insurance costs keeps many employers from hiring disabled veterans and full disability pay for hospitalized veterans, no matter what their ailment).

2. A bonus plan similar to the one recommended by the VFW.

The attitude of these service organizations seem to be pretty well summed up by one official who was asked: "But even if you get only a part of what you're asking for, won't it cost a lot of money?" "War," he said, "is always costly."

was on transportation. More controls were coming off.

On November 1, it was ruled, stores, laundries and other businesses may make as many deliveries as their trucks can handle with limited gasoline.

And—in time for Labor Day's vacation rush—the ODT told railroads they could restore regular seasonal "holiday" trains to seashore, mountains and resorts.

The excursion trains have been off the tracks since January. If railroads can spare the cars from military service, they can roll again. ODT said its ban on trains which run less than 35 per cent full. Some 50 trains may thus be put back.

ODT cautioned that some lines simply may not have the cars to Strike . . .

An agreement was worked out, a union member said, to provide for the immediate reinstatement of about 2,000 employees, whose layoff, the union contended, was in violation of the collective bargaining agreement.

The largest contract cancellation reported to the SEC yesterday was $15,335,172 by the American Bosch Corporation, Springfield, Mass. A new regulation requires notification of the SEC within 24 hours following receipt of a cancellation providing it amounts to more than 20 per cent of the previous year's business.

Other terminations were at: Menasco Manufacturing Corporation, Burbank, Calif.; Piper Aircraft Corporation, Lock Haven, Pa.; White Sewing Machine Corporation, Cleveland; Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company, San Francisco and Reno, Nev.; ACF Brill Motors Co., Philadelphia; American Type Foundry, Inc., Elizabeth, N. J.; the Magnavox Company, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Iron Firemen Manufacturing Company, Portland, Ore.

Japan's Domei agency—which has broadcast most of the occupation news hours or days ahead of MacArthur's announcements—said the initial occupation force would be 50,000 to 60,000.

On Okinawa, 750 miles from Tokyo, 2,600 American fliers were prepared for the greatest aerial operation of the war—the landing of thousands of occupation troops on Atsugi's airfield, only 20 miles from Tokyo.

Hundreds of C-54 transports, B-24 Liberators equipped to ferry soldiers, and other large troop carriers were readied for Tuesday's flight. Every C-54 and B-24 urgently needed elsewhere in the American and Australian Red Pacific was sent there for the giant aerial armada.

MacArthur instructed members of the Japanese imperial general staff to be at Atsugi to receive him at 8 a. m. (Occupation Day) 15 p. m. Monday, EWT) and to be prepared to settle immediate occupation problems.

Col. M. H. Marcus, chief of the Recovered Personnel Division, said rescued prisoners of the Japanese would be taken quickly as possible to hospitals in the Philippines. Medical teams will land Tuesday to care for the sick.

MacArthur's occupation surrender instructions to the Japanese, announced to the press at a midnight session, stipulated that:

Effective at 6 p. m. Friday (5 a. m. Friday, EWT) all planes, including civilian, must be grounded except a very few necessary for communications; ships must be maintained in operational order but must not be damaged or moved, except that 100 tonners or smaller may carry supplies in Tokyo Bay; all ships at sea must report their positions, turn on searchlights at night, and make for the nearest Allied port; all submarines must surface, show lights at night and make for the nearest designated port; all prisoner of war camps must be specially marked and all prisoners must be safeguarded.

By 6 p. m. Saturday, Tokyo Bay must be cleared of mines and navigational aids restored; port personnel must remain at their stations; all vessels must be immobilized and disarmed and all coastal defenses must be made inoperative including removing of breech locks from all coastal guns.

By 6 p. m. Sunday, a Japanese pilot boat must meet U. S. Naval forces 20 miles from O (repeat O) Island, at the entrance to Sagami Bay, and escort them into the bay.

By 6 p. m. Monday, Yokosuka naval base must be prepared for occupation and Japanese combat units must be evacuated from occupational zones.

MacArthur further ordered that suitable accommodations were to be prepared for him and his staff, and that the Japanese were to meet his staff with 125 competent interpreters.

A chunky dispatch yesterday said Chinese surrender terms specified that the Chinese would occupy northern Indo-China, which includes its capital of Hanoi.

In London, a British foreign office commentator said yesterday the southern half would be taken over by British troops. He declared France was not "at the moment in a physical position to take over the responsibilities of administering" the colony.

One of the occupation forces' first acts in Japan will be the release of an officially estimated 32,000 prisoners of war, detained in Nippon.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, Aug. 22—(AP)—Brightening hopes for postwar business expansion touched off a substantial rally in today's stock market, with motors leading the sprint followed by rails, steels, mail orders and a wide assortment of durable goods issues.
D-allings were fast during the upswing and plus marks of one to five points widely distributed. The pace subsequently slackened and extreme advances were trimmed here and there near the close. Transfers ran to around 1,200,000 shares against 760,000 the day before.

By JACK HAND
AP Sport Writer

Washington has a decided schedule advantage in the American League race today as the Senators head east only a half game behind

Detroit after completing their final western trip.
Only 14 of the Nationals' 34 remaining contests will be played away from the home lot while the Tigers will be on the road for 29 of their 39 games.
The Senators have copped 27 of 44 starts on their three jaunts to Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis. The Tigers have captured only 11 of 25 tilts on the Atlantic seaboard.
Eleven more games with the New York Yankees bar the path of Ouis Blue's men to the flag but Steve O'Neill's Bengals still have 10 more meetings with Cleveland, now strengthened by the return of Bob Feller. In fact, the Tigers get first hand information on rapid Robert's condition when he faces them tomorrow night.
The Senators ended their western wanderings yesterday by knocking over Cleveland in both ends of a doubleheader, 3-0 and 6-5 in 11 innings.
Washington copped the series six out of seven and ran its latest win streak to five.
Dizzy Trout stopped Philadelphia, 4-1, as the Tigers made it five out of seven over the A's. Connie Mack gambled and lost with a 19-year-old right-hander, Bill Connelly, from Alberta, Va., who was making his first start in organized ball. The youngsters yielded three runs in the first and that was more than enough although Hank Greenberg touched Luther Knauer for his seventh homer in the eighth.
New York's hopes had a relapse in Chicago where the Yankees blew a three-run lead in the last of the ninth and finally lost to the White Sox in the 11th, 5-3.

The St. Louis Browns finished their stand against the eastern rivals with a rancy 14 out of 20 record but failed to gain appreciable on the leaders. After Bob Adair had earned his eighth success in a 14-2 opener, Boston turned around and took a 3-1 evening despite a desperate two-run St. Louis rally in the last of the ninth.
All National League clubs were idle and only two National and one American games are listed for today.

GIVE BACKING TO WORK BILL

Leaders Fear Unemployment Will Bring Depression

Washington, Aug. 22—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson declared today that full industrial and business employment in the post-war period is essential if another agricultural depression is to be averted.

The secretary made the statement in endorsing the proposed full employment act before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

"The farmers of this country," he said, "have a vital interest in the maintenance of full employment. Our agricultural industry is now geared to produce 30 to 35 per cent more than before the war."

"In the years ahead, when we get through the reconversion period of the next 18 to 20 months, one of the major problems facing this country will be that of providing adequate market outlets for the increased volume of agricultural production."

"The maintenance of full employment will be essential if we are to guard against another period of agricultural depression and low farm income."

When urban people have jobs and are making good incomes, they buy more clothes which come from wool and cotton; they eat more fruit, meat and vegetables, drink more milk and even smoke more cigarettes than when they are unemployed or working only part time. The wartime experience of the past few years has given us abundant and convincing proof of this."

Anderson, declaring there is a direct relationship between industrial employment and agricultural prosperity, said:

"When unemployment rose to almost 14,000,000 workers in 1932 and 1933, net farm income dropped to less than three billion dollars, the lowest level since farm income records were begun in 1910. When unemployment fell to less than a million persons in 1943, net farm income climbed to 11 billion dollars, a record high."

Anderson said that under full employment—that is, if unemployment does not exceed a minimum of about two million workers, including those on vacation and in process of changing jobs—agriculture might reasonably expect a net income of about nine billion dollars in 1950.

With seven million workers unemployed, he said, the agricultural situation would become serious, with net farm income dropping to about 6.5 billion dollars and farm prices falling well below parity levels.

The secretary said full employment also is necessary to provide jobs for rural boys and girls not needed in agricultural production.

Expected to be heard later in the third day of hearings on the so-called full employment bill are Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, president of the Federal Council of Churches, and Reconversion Director John W. Snyder.

Adding his endorsement, James

PINWHEEL—The camera-man catches dancer Vera Ellis in the midst of one of her high-speed whirls for a movie scene.

G. Patton, president of the National Farmers Union, advanced two proposals which he said would help the bill:

1. That the President include in his estimates to be sent to Congress one showing the amount of consumer income to be available for purchases of goods and services. This, he said, is as essential as the estimate of the volume of prospective investments.

2. Congress should authorize appropriations of whatever amount is needed to make up any gap between private investments and the amount required to provide full employment.

Noting that the "bill will" not settle all of the perennial headaches of farmers' Patton said his organization felt that detailed agricultural legislation should not be added to the bill but should be provided in a separate measure.

Senators Wagner (D-NY) and Murray (D-Mont), two of the eight sponsors of the legislation, listened yesterday to an urgent demand for its passage from CIO President Philip Murray.

Asserting that Congress has "an enormous opportunity and a solemn responsibility," the labor leader told the banking subcommittee:

"My idea is not merely that work shall be created through appropriation of public funds to keep people from starving on a $55-a-month WPA. We are talking here today about potentials of new wealth even greater than we have ever conceived, created by the application of skill, intelligence and energy in such volume that really substantial fruits of victory will spread on throughout the world."

Basic plan of the bill is a national job budget. If a deficit of jobs was in prospect, the government would step in with a program of useful works, subject to congressional approval.

Tobacco Prices Higher Yesterday

Prices on the Greenville tobacco market were higher yesterday with the day's average running 22 cents per hundred higher than on opening day. Official figures on yesterday's sales made public by supervisor R. C. Rankin were 1,286,234 pounds sold for $561,664.07, an average of $43.67. Mr. Rankin stated that while there was no apparent change in the quality of offerings, prices appeared a shade higher today than yesterday.

Arrivals for tomorrow's sales were dropping off today indicating the sales would be lighter than the few days past.

John Hill Paylor Given Promotion

Raleigh, Aug. 22—John H. Paylor, for over three years associated with the legal department of the Raleigh district office of Price Administration, has been promoted to chief attorney, succeeding Norman C. Shepard, who recently resigned to go to Germany as a legal adviser to the United States occupation forces, Theodore S. Johnson, district director, announced yesterday.

Paylor, who practiced law in Farmville for twenty-one years before coming with OPA, is a native of Laurinburg. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, class of 1920, where he was awarded the LL.B. degree in law. He served a short time in the army during World War I and was in Officers Training School at Camp Gordon, Ga., when the conflict terminated.

Paylor, who is 48, represented Pitt County during the 1935 and 1937 terms of the North Carolina General Assembly, which included two special sessions. He is an Elder in the Presbyterian church with the unusual record of not having missed Sunday School in 37 years.

Crowd Cheers...

(Continued From Page One) British Foreign Office commentators that British and Chinese soldiers would administer French Indo-China immediately after its liberation because France currently was not "in a physical position" to do so, was believed to have boosted the topic on the Truman-De Gaulle agenda.

De Gaulle is expected to ask Mr. Truman to outline the United view on the potentially-troublesome matter.

French officials in Washington, like those in Paris, were deeply disturbed by the statement, attributed to a British Foreign Office commentator. One highly placed Frenchman here, asking not to be identified by name, told a reporter:

"The facts are that we have the forces necessary to occupy and administer Indo-China with Chinese forces. The British commentator said Chinese forces would occupy northern Indo-China and British troops would take over the southern part for the time being."

What inked French officials more than anything else was that the British pronouncement came on the day De Gaulle arrived in Washington for "get-acquainted" talks with Mr. Truman.

The French leader flew into Washington yesterday afternoon and immediately stepped to a microphone in front of a large crowd of dignitaries, soldiers and civilians.

"The first thing I want to say is thank you," the tall, smiling general said.

He then praised the United States war effort; said he was bringing a "friendly salute of my country," and concluded, "Long live the United States of America."

Would Retain...

The measure would give the government power to make "such regulations as appear to be necessary or expedient for controlling prices" to be charged for goods or services of any description.

Parliament would have power to annul any executive order within 40 days of its promulgation.

The new emergency powers bill would prevent the government from exercising its wartime authority to detain persons in the interests of public safety, or for the defense of the realm, and would ban the trial of such persons by special courts.

An automatic SOS alarm for vessels not having a radio operator on constant watch was introduced in 1935.

Meadows Case...

that they were prevented from lawfully assembly, that they could not freely discuss the Meadows issue, and that they could not even buy water coolers with funds they jointly had raised. Broughton issued a public statement that the students had a right to assemble, and indirectly ordered the alleged promoters antagonists to lay off.

Dr. Meadows himself was called to the executive mansion in Raleigh for a discussion. Shortly thereafter, he resigned the presidency and in a few days the Pitt county grand jury, heading the presentations of Solicitor D. M. Clark, returned a true bill charging the former college president with false pretense and embezzlement.

That case went to trial in January, continued for eight weeks and ended in a mistrial when the jury, impaneled from Pitt county, told Judge Clawson Williams it was unable to agree after three days of deliberation.

This second trial began June 4. It originally was expected to be completed in a shorter time than the first, but eight delays and innumerable legal technicalities sent it into a new record.

Dr. Meadows, with his defense battery that numbered some of the cream of the legal profession in Eastern Carolina, went to trial the second time on 10 counts and five bills. Judge Williams had greatly trimmed the counts in the first trial, but Solicitor Clark brought additional counts in the second trial.

The State, throughout, charged that Dr. Meadows had converted the student and special funds to his own use, that he had spent these monies on his personal property, which he himself had described as extensive, not only in this State but elsewhere.

Dr. Meadows, on the other hand, said that he had authority under a 1924 resolution of the board to spend the money as he saw fit, just so it went to the good of the college. Actually, he said, some of his own money was spent for the college.

Not a day passed but that Mrs. Meadows, second wife of the defendant, was by his side. She controlled her emotions throughout, with but one exception. That came when the State indicated it would fight to bring Dr. Meadows' state income tax return records into the court. She sobbed then and buried her head in her hands. Elizabeth, a daughter by Dr. Meadows' first wife, was a constant attendant after she left her duties at Mercer University.

Christian Resigns From ECTC Faculty

W. Kenneth Christian, member of the ECTC English department, has resigned to accept a position in the Department of Written and Spoken English at Michigan State College. Mr. Christian joined the faculty last September and, in addition to teaching duties, has served as director of the college news bureau and supervisor of dramatizations.

En route north to Syracuse, N. Y., where he will join his family, Mr. Christian has speaking engagements in Alexandria, Va., and Washington, D. C., this weekend. On Sunday he will speak on "Two Roads We Face" at the Baha'i Center in Washington.
