Typhoon Slows Plans For Occupation Arrangements

Japs Report Considerable Damage In Tokyo Area; MacArthur Headquarters Bombed By Jap Requests For Instructions; Kyushu Also To Be Occupied

Manila, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Allied occupation forces will expand their grip on Japan from Tokyo to Kyushu, southernmost home island, on September 1.—Four days after Gen. MacArthur's scheduled landing near the typhoon-crippled capital—the Japanese government and imperial headquarters announced today.

Tokyo informed MacArthur's headquarters that a typhoon howled through the Kanto District early Thursday morning and interfered with preparations for Allied landings there. There was no direct request for a postponement of Tuesday's major Tokyo landings, however. Presumably the storm affected principally the preparations for advance units Japan said would reach Atsugi Field Sunday.

Airborne forces will reach Kyushu's Kanyo Airfield September 1, today's Japanese language communique reported, one day after formal surrender is signed aboard the battleship Missouri in Tokyo Bay. Seaborne forces will follow.

"On September 2," the communique said, "the main strength of the airborne and surface units will land in the vicinity of Takasu on the coast west of Kanoya."

"In order to avoid complications, our armed units will be withdrawn from the areas where the Allies are to land."

There was no immediate Allied confirmation of the Kyushu landing dates.

The Japanese emperor has issued commands for the cessation of all hostilities in Manchuria, Sakhalin and "other areas where Japanese forces are in direct contact with Allied armies, General MacArthur's headquarters was informed by Tokyo radio today.

"Orders have been issued to cease hostilities as soon as local negotiations are concluded, without waiting until the date of cessation prescribed in the imperial command," the message, No. 37, in the series addressed to MacArthur, explained.

It said hostilities ceased in Japan proper Wednesday morning; garrison troops at Chishima have disarmed themselves and "most units" have ceased hostilities; fighting ceased in the northern sector of Southern Sakhalin August 18 and "it has been quiet since."

"In the southern army sector, hostilities have ceased" in general, except in the area of the island of Honshu.

United Nations Charter Approval By Great Britain Indicates Meeting By Late October

London, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Ratification of the United Nations charter by Great Britain raised the possibility today that the first plenary session of world security council members of the executive committee of the United Nations preparatory commission, now sitting in London to prepare for the birth of the new organization, believe enough nations will have approved the charter by that time to permit the calling of the session.

Britain last night became the last of the Big Five powers to ratify. Neither in the House of Commons nor in the House of Lords was it necessary to take a vote, despite British statements in Parliament that the charter was not strong enough to maintain peace so long as the atomic bomb remained a British-American secret.

There was a general feeling here that virtually all the countries will have approved the 50-nation pact by late fall, now that the United States, Britain, France, Soviet Russia and China have ratified.

The next wave of ratification decisions is expected from Latin America.

The process has been retarded in some of the nations formerly occupied by the Germans because of the necessity of reconstituting legislative bodies.

Ratification in Belgium and Norway must await parliamentary elections in the fall. Holland may ratify earlier, since an emergency parliament would have the authority.

Czechoslovakia may be in a position to ratify within two months, when governmental machinery will be operating.

In the Near East, both Lebanon and Syria had been expected to approve the charter promptly, but resignations in the governments of those nations may cause some delay.

The preparatory commission has been striving to set up committees within the next few days to deal with problems which must be settled before the first plenary session. The executive committee is understood to be operating on the assumption that the new organization will come into being in October.

When 28 countries have ratified, the committee will call representatives. (Continued on Page Four)

ATOMIC BOMB TOLL GROWS

Tokyo Says Hiroshima Deaths Have Reached 60,000

(By The Associated Press)
The Tokyo radio said today that radioactivity in Hiroshima, blasted by an atomic bomb, was taking a mounting toll weeks after the day of the attack, and that in the 14 days following the raid the death toll had mounted from 30,000 to 60,000.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said servicemen working in the area on reconstruction a week after the attack were found to have severely diminished numbers of red and white corpuscles.

Investigations in the city showed "radioactivity caused by the fission of uranium used in the atomic bomb is taking a toll of mounting deaths, and moreover is causing persons engaged in reconstruction work in Hiroshima to suffer from various sicknesses and ill health."

Tokyo broadcasts have been referring repeatedly to the atomic bomb raids on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. (Continued on Page Six)

C C Directors Hold Meeting

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting on Thursday night authorized secret efforts to get additional supplies of salt meat and cooking fats released to relieve the situation in this area; print and furnish the police department with courtesy cards carrying parking regulations for visitors cars; offer the services of the Chamber of Commerce to the city and county to assist in assuring full use of the City-County airport when it is released from military service; commend the Lions Club and Pitt County Association for their efforts in the establishment of a vocational blind school here and offer the services of the Chamber in an effort to make this school permanent, and voted to hold the regular monthly meetings of the board on the second Monday night in each month.

The board also received a detailed report of the activities of the organization from the secretary, which includes success in obtaining from the Interstate Commerce Commission suspension of increases in motor freight rates; obtaining from the National Housing Agency a twenty five unit H-2 housing program for Greenville; efforts to obtain the establishment of a Freezer Looker plant; completion of C. E. D. employment survey which shows that industry in Greenville plans to employ 1,433 and commercial and service enterprises 380, more after peace than were employed during the first half of the year; representation of two exhibitors to the Civil Aeronautics Board in support of efforts to obtain complete air transportation service after peace; participation in planning for Religious and Victory celebration and continuation of assistance to newcomers and residents in efforts to find suitable living accommodations.

The Committee on Legislation and National Affairs was requested to make a study of new social security legislation and other important legislation now before Congress and the Transportation Committee was requested to cooperate with the N. C. Utilities Commission in an announced action to obtain a reduction in freight rates on coal.

Reconversion Tides Sweeping Both Ways

More Butter, Cheese And Canned Milk Sighted; Labor Trouble Presents New Difficulties

By MAX HALL
Washington, Aug. 24.—Americans sighted more butter, cheese and canned milk today, but they were jolted by strong action on the labor front.

The government seized a railroad—just as in wartime. President Truman ordered government operation of the Illinois Central in order to prevent a strike. Strangely, the sudden action came at a moment when the President reportedly was preparing to issue an order paving the way for return of other properties seized during the war.

Thus the tides of reconversion rolled in both directions at the same time.

But normal living rolled closer in several ways. It appeared as though the average American soon would:

1. Get evaporated milk without ration points.
2. Get more butter and cheese.
3. Get a seat on a plane without a priority.
4. Turn his clock back one hour to standard time.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said in a radio address last night it should be possible to end rationing of evaporated milk soon. And he predicted an early increase in butter and cheese.

The army is discussing with airline officials a proposal "almost" to eliminate the priority system for air travel.

Mr. Truman gave the word on possible return to standard time. He said he will ask Congress early in September to abolish "war time" and let the states again have exclusive control over the watches and clocks within their borders.

Government Seizes Rail System To Avert Strikes

Chicago, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The 6,600-mile Illinois Central Railroad system was seized by the government today in the face of a strike threat and line officials' reported normal operations.

Under order of President Truman who said a stoppage in the railroad industry at this time is unthinkable, the Office of Defense Transportation assumed control at 12:01 a. m. Central War Time.

As soon as Mr. Truman's order was made known, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen postponed "indefinitely" its strike growing out of a jurisdictional dispute with the Brotherhood of Railroad Employees. The strike was to have started at 12:01.

W. P. Kirk of Chicago, ODT's western director, was named federal manager of the road which serves 14 states in the Middle West and South. Clifford Blackburn, ODT information officer, said there would be no "overt seizure" of the properties, and an I. C. spokesman said he assumed the present management would continue to operate the line, with token ODT representation in the general offices.

The White House order directing seizure did not define the "legal authority" for the action. A spokesman for the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion said, however, it was done under the War Powers Act and the Selective Service Act and the constitutional powers of the President as Commander-in-Chief.

The proposed walkout of 1,800 firemen, hostlers and hostlers' helpers, he said, threatened to interfere with essential war purposes—troop movements and shipment of goods to troops—and the orderly transition to a peacetime economy.

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
More than 35,000 persons were idle today in 27 labor disputes, some of which developed since the Japanese surrender, others of long standing.

In N. C., 6,500 AFL workers have been out since Tuesday after the Union and the Midvale Steel Company posted notice that the employees would be paid for only one of the two holidays last week.

In Edinburg, Pa., 1,800 CIO U. S. Steel workers remained away from their jobs at the General Steel Castings Corporation. The union said the company declined to pay for a two-day holiday and the company contended it was not.

Jury Finds Dr. Meadows Guilty On Two Counts

Britain Stunned By End Of Lend-Lease

Churchill And Attlee Declare Nation Left In Very Grave Financial Situation

By W. W. HERCHER
London, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee told Commons today the sudden end of lend-lease put Britain "in a very serious financial position." and former Prime Minister Churchill said he could not believe that this was the last word of the United States.

Attlee said the British government had hoped that lend-lease would not have ended without prior consultation.

In response, Churchill, now leader of the opposition, declared he could not leave the United States "would proceed in such a rough and harsh manner as to hamper a faithful ally who held the fort while their own American armaments were prepared."

Attlee cautioned members of the House to exercise "utmost restraint" within and without the chamber in commenting on the situation, and Churchill agreed that a debate now might be detrimental to national interests. Churchill called Attlee's statement "very grave and disquieting."

The prime minister disclosed that Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States during the wartime coalition government, had been invited to return to Washington to negotiate the financial arrangement which will succeed lend-lease.

Attlee said President Truman's directive cancelled all outstanding lend-lease contracts and provided that stocks and deliveries procured under it must now be paid either in cash or negotiated credit arrangements.

"We had not anticipated that operations under the lend-lease act would continue for any length of time after the defeat of Japan," he said, "but we had hoped the sudden cessation of this great mutual effort would not have been effected without consultation and orderly change-over from war to peace."

The order was prepared in the office of Reconversion Director J. W. Snyder.

One of Snyder's top lieutenants, talking with a reporter about the seizure, noted that the President's executive order of August 18—mobilizing federal agencies behind reconversion—referred to "this final stage of the war emergency."

This aide said the threatened paralysis of the railroad would have interfered with essential war purposes—hauling troops and hauling freight to troops—and also with an orderly transition to a peacetime economy.

Thus it seems that legally speaking, the war really isn't over. The President's war powers remain. Mr. Truman said at his news conference yesterday that it will be a long time before hostilities are declared officially ended.

This was important for several reasons. For example, taxes on liquor, jewelry, furs, phone calls, amusements and many other things are due to be cut automatically six months after hostilities end legally.

The government now holds about 25 plants which it seized from private owners in wartime. These include Montgomery Ward properties in seven cities; the Toledo, Peoria (Continued on Page Four)

FRANCE SEEKS AID FROM U. S.

DeGaulle Suggests Long Range Economic Program

Washington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—General Charles De Gaulle proposed today that the United States draw up a long-range economic program with France to promote permanent reconstruction of that war-ravaged country.

The president of the French Provisional government said America is furnishing "appreciable help and already a vast total has been reached" with the prospect of 1,000,000 tons monthly of supplies flowing out of this country to France.

But all this, De Gaulle told a news conference, is stuff needed immediately such as food, materials for current industrial operations and some coal tonnage to tide over the coming winter.

"For purposes of reconstruction," the French leader said, "we must get together and draw up a program."

Renders Verdict Of Not Guilty On Nine Other Counts; Former President Of East Carolina Teachers College Appeals From Three Year Prison Sentence

Dr. Leon R. Meadows, former president of East Carolina Teachers College here, was sentenced to three years in State Prison by Judge J. Paul Frizzelle in Superior Court today, marking the end of the longest criminal trial in North Carolina court history.

The sentence came nearly two hours after a Pasquotank jury had returned verdicts of guilty on one count of embezzlement and a charge of false pretense and had exonerated the defendant on nine other counts of embezzlement included in the four bills of indictment.

Immediately after passing of the sentence by Judge Frizzelle, Meadows' attorneys gave notice of appeal to the Supreme Court. Bond was fixed at $5,000 and Meadows was given six months to prepare his appeal.

The counts upon which Meadows was convicted were the Ricks Tours items contained in Memo Book No. 2, totalling $3,040.82, and the false pretense charge covering $705.40.

The false pretense item was built around receipts Meadows was alleged to have obtained from Negro workmen in blank and then filled out for greater amounts than he paid the workmen and later on the basis of these false receipts collected repayment from the college stationery store.

Not guilty verdicts were rendered as to the Baker-Davis item of $678; R. C. Bolling, $503.05; Mayo-Smith, $40; Conway, $40; Honeycutt, $255; Flanagan, $2,800; stationery store, $348; barbecue, $38.05, and Memo Book No. 1, containing items totalling $5,797.32.

The Pasquotank County jury received the case at 3:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon and at 10:00 this morning the foreman knocked on the jury room door and advised Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson that the jury was ready to make its report.

Attorneys, the defendant and the judge were hurriedly summoned to the court room and the jury announced its findings at 10:10 o'clock.

Immediately after he had accepted the verdict Judge Frizzelle thanked the jury for its services to the State and asked the defense counsel if it wished to make any motions or plea before the passing of judgment.

Judge Albion Dunn, chief defense counsel, then moved that the verdicts be set aside and that judgment be arrested. Both motions were denied and the defense then delivered its pleas for leniency.

John G. Dawson, Clay Carter and Judge Dunn all pleaded for leniency on the grounds that the ends of justice would not be served by further punishment of the defendant who had gone through mental torture during the indictment and trial despite his knowledge of innocence. Each pointed to the good job Dr. Meadows had done for the college during his 10 years as president.

Jose A. Jones of Kinston, assistant prosecutor and Solicitor David M. Clark both opposed too much leniency. (Continued on Page Two)

The WORLD TODAY

An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

China's incipient civil war raises the harsh question of whether our conflict-weary world finally is managing to clamber out of the frying pan only to tumble into the fire.

This long-standing and bloody quarrel between the Chinese Communists and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Kuomintang government has suddenly flamed up again into white heat to become one of the great threats to world peace.

Yesterday from Chungking came a grim report that the Communists in North and Central China had gathered their strength for an all-out offensive. We get some evidence today in the statement from official Communist sources in Chungking that Communist leader Mao Tse-tung has accepted Chiang Kai-Shek's invitation to send a representative to the capital to discuss a peaceful settlement of the trouble.

General Chou-En-Lai, a man of great capabilities whom I met in Chungking in 1943, has been selected as the Red representative.

Fratricidal war in that huge nation of some 500,000,000—close to a quarter of the globe's population—would present appalling dangers. So it is encouraging to read Hanson W. Baldwin's Washington dispatch to the New York Times, stating that Britain, Russia and the United States will undertake joint political action to avert this catastrophe.

From today's development one wonders if they haven't already made representations.

Certainly such intervention by the Big Three would be justified in the interests of world peace, especially since the San Francisco security organization isn't yet functioning. The general moral effect of such a move by this mighty trio would be good.

Of course this strife between the Chungking government and the Communists, who demand representation in a coalition government, isn't new. It really began some nineteen years ago, and the genesis of it was this:

Back in 1923 the great revolutionary leader, Dr. Sun Yat Sen, appealed to Russia for help in ousting the Chinese war-lords who had got control of his Nationalist government. This aid was granted and (Continued on page four)

Today On The Home Front

By James Marlow

Passenger Car Quotas Removed

Washington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The War Production Board today removed all quotas on the production of passenger cars, leaving the industry free to make as many as capacity permits.

The new cars now beginning to come off assembly lines cannot be equipped with spare tire, WPB ruled.

Previously, an order prohibited the production of passenger cars except as authorized under a quota system.

Control of the fifth "spare" tire will be handled by the Office of Price Administration. An early decision by that agency is forecast. In the meantime, WPB has continued in effect an order prohibiting the fifth tire and this will remain in effect until OPA acts.

To Feed Viennese

Vienna, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Military representatives of the United States, France and Britain agreed today to aid Russia in feeding 1,500,000 Viennese.

The agreement, reached at the first business meeting of Allied occupation commanders of Austria, provides that the occupation forces contribute from Sept. 1 food supplies proportional to the population of their respective sectors. The action was taken as an interim measure.

Washington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—You'll save yourself from confusion if—in the rushing change-over from war to peace—you remember this:

The change can't happen in a day, week or month.

The government announces it is removing some wartime control on this or that. But when?

It's important for a clear understanding of what is happening, that you repeatedly ask yourself about the relaxation of some control:

When does it go into effect? If you're not careful you're apt to think—every time you hear of a control being lifted—that it takes effect immediately.

This is not always so. For instance:

The Office of Defense Transportation said it was going to lift the limit on the number of deliveries which the butcher, baker and laundryman can make to your house.

Those trips in wartime—in order to save fuel, tires and manpower—were generally limited to two a week.

If you don't examine the ODT announcement carefully, you may get the impression that the limit has been taken off those deliveries now. But ODT didn't say that. It said the limit would be removed Nov. 1.

There is something else to keep in mind: The physical limits on getting new peacetime goods into your hands. Take nylon, for instance. The government announced it was removing the controls on the use of nylon for civilian use.

Immediately a lot of women probably thought it meant: nylon stockings will be right back in the stores tomorrow or next week.

But the government pointed out: nylon stockings may be in the stores by Thanksgiving, or at least by Christmas.

That's three or four months from now. Why the delay, you ask? Manufacturers have to get the factories working on peacetime orders. That takes time.

Then there is the problem of distributing what the factories turn out. There are a lot of stores in this country.

Getting new goods to them is a big job.

So in the beginning even the big stores won't—when they receive their first shipment of nylon hose—have too many stockings for sale. And the smaller stores probably will have less.

The stocks will build up as more and more stockings are turned out and distributed throughout the country.

Every day the government is lifting some controls or it is talking about lifting some. But all wartime controls are not being torn up at once.

Each will be torn up when the government thinks the situation in a particular case no longer requires a control.

Club Members Entertain Families
The Home Demonstration Club members throughout Pitt County have been entertaining their families at picnics during the past week. The Paoletus Club was the first one to have such an occasion. Approximately a hundred citizens gathered on the lawn of the school on Tuesday night for a picnic supper. The members of the Rural Club and their families joined the Home Demonstration Club at this meeting. Following the supper the group went into the auditorium at which time all present joined in a community sing led by Mrs. J. Paul Davenport. Mrs. George Cherry, president of the Paoletus club, welcomed the group. Miss Ruth Bizzell, assistant home demonstration agent, presented Ruth Moore and Frances Jones of the Lang's 4-H Club. They gave a dairy team demonstration on "Desserts Made From Milk." The news of the surrender of Japan came after the crowd gathered and so the meeting adjourned and the group went to the church for a thanksgiving service.

On Wednesday night, August 15 the members of the Bethel Club and their families enjoyed a swim and picnic supper at the Tarboro Swimming pool. Following the supper Mrs. W. W. Bullock, welcomed the group and then presented Mrs. William Andrews, recreational leader, who led games that the old and young enjoyed.

The Bell Arthur Club members and their families held their picnic at the Farmville swimming pool. Again Ruth Moore and Frances Jones gave the dairy team demonstration. The children present enjoyed the play ground equipment after the delicious picnic supper was served.

On Wednesday afternoon the Home Demonstration Club members and their families and the two churches in the community, Red Oak and Piney Grove churches, enjoyed a swimming party at Riverside Park, Washington. After supper games furnished fun for everyone; they were led by Mrs. L. W. Edwards, club president.

The members of the Cannon's and Littlefield Club held a joint meeting at the Farmville swimming pool on Thursday night. After the supper an outdoor movie entitled "Raise Them Right" which was on the production of more and better hogs, was enjoyed by the group.

A bingo party followed the supper at St. John's. Mrs. H. D. Harris, recreational leader, was in charge of the party.

Dairy Foods Demonstration Contest
Frances Jones and Ruth Moore both members of the Lang's Community 4-H Club entered the Dairy Foods Demonstration contest that was held in Kingston on Thursday, August 17. Frances and Ruth were the Pitt county winners in the county contest. The state winners will not be named until ten meetings similar to the one held in Kingston have been held throughout the state. Extension nutritionists from State College must see all of the county winning demonstrations before making the final decision.

The subject of the dairy team demonstration given by the Pitt county demonstrators is "Desserts With Milk." In this demonstration they showed how to make boiled custard and some of the many ways it may be used to make delicious, tempting desserts. They also told why milk is considered our most nearly perfect food and suggested many ways to use milk in our daily diet.

The girls have given this demonstration at several of the August meetings of the Home Demonstration Clubs of Pitt county. By giving this demonstration the girls hope to encourage and promote the use of this important food.

Attend 4-H Camp
A state wide 4-H camp was held in August for 4-H club officers and leaders at Camp Millstone which is located near Rockingham. Each county was allowed to send delegates to represent their county. Delegates were selected on their interest in the club program and their willingness to strive to make a worthwhile contribution to the 4-H club program.

The 4-H officers camp was held during the week of August 6-11. Delegates from Pitt county attending were Allen Parker of the Farmville community 4-H club and Ruth Moore of the Lang's community club.

The 4-H neighborhood leaders camp was held during the week of August 13-18. Leaders from Pitt county attending were Mrs. W. R. Hinson of the Farmville 4-H community club and Miss Reba Whichard of the Sweet Gum Grove community 4-H club.

During this week at camp both officers and leaders were given information, inspiration and new enthusiasm to bring back to their respective counties to help strengthen and enlarge the 4-H club program.

To Collect Waste Paper On Sunday

The Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its first peace time waste paper collection Sunday afternoon between the hours of two and six p. m.

Chairman Alton Barrett pointed out today the urgent need for waste paper even though peace has come. Government agencies have expressed the desire for salvage collections to be continued until the present shortages have been eliminated. All citizens who have waste paper to turn in are asked to bundle all newspapers and magazines and tie each bundle securely. Pack all loose paper in boxes or bags and place them in front of their homes by one thirty Sunday afternoon. A Jaycee pick-up truck will collect all bundles during the afternoon.

Jury Finds...

leniency, declaring that it was not the length but the certainty of punishment that was necessary that the ends of justice might be met. "God be with him," said Jones, "if he even now does not realize that he has committed a wrong."

Solicitor Clark followed through with an accusation that Dr. Meadows had intentionally embezzled monies, belonging to "school children" at the college, that he deceitfully and fraudulently tried to change his records to show otherwise, and that Dr. Meadows, a man with innumerable college degrees, should pay the penalty of his alleged crime.

Judge Frizzelle prefaced the imposition of sentence with his observations on the handling of the trial, with praise to all attorneys concerned, and with the statement that this was one of the most important trials he had presided over in his 15 years on the bench. He expressed his sympathy to the defendant. He then sentenced Dr. Meadows to serve two years on the embezzlement count, and one year on the false pretense count, the sentences to run consecutively.

The first trial of Dr. Meadows, begun last January, ended in a mistrial eight weeks later when a Pitt County jury reported it was hopelessly deadlocked at 10 to 2 for conviction. The total embezzlement charged in the first trial was some over $18,000, but a verdict of not guilty was ordered as to certain items by Judge Clawson L. Williams.

The second trial charging embezzlement of over $14,000 got under way June 4, with Judge J. Paul Frizzelle presiding. A Pasquotank county jury was impaneled the following week, after efforts to procure a jury from Lenoir county had failed.

Following adjournment today of the special term of court, called to try the case, outside rumor was to the effect that the present jury for a while during its deliberations was 10 to 2 for conviction on all counts and that the final decision was a compromise verdict. Just when, if ever, Dr. Meadows might begin to serve his sentence was problematical today even though the Supreme Court might deny him a new trial. It was pointed out that the great volume of copying necessary to procure the record—the court reporter estimated the trial would cover 10,000 pages—would require several months, and that the prosecution was granted a two months' period for its answer after the six months granted the defense for the preparation of its case. In view of these circumstances it was pointed out that the case could not possibly be docketed with the Supreme Court before next spring and probably would not be heard before the fall sitting of the court next year.

New Meat Stamps To Be Good Sept. 1

Washington, Aug. 24—(AP)—These stamps will become good Saturday, Sept. 1. For meats and fats: LI, MI, NI, PI, and QI.

They are being validated for the usual period of four months—Sept. 1 through Dec. 31. Each stamp is worth 10 points, making a total of 50. Invalid after Aug. 31 will be stamps Q2, R2, S2, T2 and U2. What the OPA didn't tell—and won't until next week—is how much meat and stamps will buy in September. All indications, however, point to substantial reductions in point values.

Killed By Lightning
Roxboro, Aug. 24—(AP)—Taking refuge in a tobacco barn from a storm yesterday afternoon, three Person County women were killed by lightning. The tragedy occurred at McGee's Mill, 16 miles from Roxboro. The victims were listed as Mrs. Melvin Snow, Mrs. Willie Snow and their sister-in-law, a Miss Snow. The women had been stringing tobacco prior to the storm.

Declines Assignment
Washington, Aug. 24—(AP)—President Truman is trying to persuade Owen J. Roberts, retired Supreme Court justice, to accept an important international assignment. The President said at his news conference yesterday he and Secretary of State Byrnes offered the assignment and Roberts declined. Mr. Truman added he hoped Roberts would reconsider and that in the meanwhile the nature of the offer would not be made public.

Instead of Him

by PEGGY O'MORE

Chapter 1

"The trouble with you, Miss Grey,"

Jane Grey waited, a pencil-slim figure in a sheer black wool frock with a jade clip at the neckline. A jade comb held her sleek black hair back from her brow and matched her long jade green eyes.

L. T. Guffery of Guffery Foundries drew a deep breath and continued, "You don't understand; there is nothing personal in this. I fully appreciate your knowledge of the maintenance department's operations; however, it would be preposterous to place a girl, a young and attractive girl in even a sub-executive's chair."

Jane turned at the outer door.

"Mr. Guffery! If you think I'm going to hang around here to play wet nurse to a pipsqueak who doesn't know a bar from an ingot, a lame brain who's won the job I've earned merely because he belongs to the so-called superior sex, then you're wrong. I'm through. Good-bye, Mr. Guffery!"

"She'll be back," Guffery prophesied. "Women"—he bit the end from a cigar and spat out the word with the clear end—"are all the same." Which showed how very little he knew about women.

Jane's resolve was further heightened by an air mail special she found waiting on her dressing table from California. It was from Gram.

Gram was short for great-grandmother, the original Mrs. Champ Stanton who'd started life as child housekeeper for her gold rush-bent father, taken pity on the miners who'd begged to buy her bread and cakes, finally married one and become, unwillingly, the wife of that fabulous person Champ Stanton, who had been no more than a reckless prospector at the time of their marriage.

Jane opened a mental picture of the little old woman who'd returned to her beloved Mother Lode country when Champ had finally drunk his fill of an exciting life.

Mrs. Champ Stanton used a pen with a point as blunt as her tongue. Without preamble she began, her message to her favorite great-granddaughter.

"If you don't want me to go back to cooking for miners, you'd better hire yourself out here on the next plane."

"As Champ would say, I put all of my money on the best horse, but they're trying to fix the race. Don't breathe a word of this to any of my issue. Let them enjoy the idea of spending what I'm supposed to leave them when my toes turn up for the last time. Besides, I don't want them crying crocodile tears down my neck one minute and killing the horse the next."

You and I have the only business brains in the entire Stanton outfit. Together we should be able to get our horse in under the line without losing our shirts. I have a plan in mind. It's a dandy. I hope you'll agree."

If you need money for the trip, wire. Wire anyway so I can have a car at Sacramento to meet your ship.

Love, Gram.

Jean Stanton.

By four a. m. the affairs of Jane Grey were in perfect order and she was boarding an auxiliary plane, west-bound with passengers left over from the regular run.

At ten a. m. Guffery cleared his throat three times and put in a call. There was no answer. He tried at intervals throughout the day. "Probably out looking for another job," he told Johnson.

"I wonder," said Johnson.

Jane wasn't wondering. She was in a station wagon, speeding across the floor of the Sacramento valley, then ascending tan hills turning purple with dusk and, finally, crawling carefully up the side of a mountain, scarred with cuts and lighted festively by lamps on the superstructure of two great mines.

"Here y'are," muttered the driver unnecessarily as he pulled up at the foot of a house which sat half on the hill and half on giant logs forty feet high.

"Made good time," observed an abrupt voice from the veranda on top of the logs.

"I liked the carrot you dangled under my nose," Jane tossed up to the shadowy figure.

There was a brief embrace when she had climbed the steep stairway. For a moment she stood looking down on the small figure, then abruptly drew away to walk to the edge of the veranda and breathe deeply of air which seemed sharpened by the diamond dust of the stars.

"I'm hungry," she announced.

"Figured that," her great-grandmother chuckled, "so I did the cooking myself. Come on; we'll talk later. I'd like to feed you into a slotful mood before I start working on you."

When Jane could eat no more the old woman began.

"As you know, mining was at a standstill during the depression years, so when Di Magini offered to purchase my stock in the Yellow Queen, I sold. I had held it for sentiment, hoping some of my children would show some interest in the mine. They hadn't; the Di Maginis had."

"At the time I had a comfortable income from other sources, enough to care for me and cover the taxes and upkeep on the property and the land I'd be passing on to my grandchildren."

"I looked around for some place to invest the mine money. Like the crazy old woman I am, I wanted it to do what Champ's money hadn't done: provide the life blood for some small business, the foundation for some young man."

SHIPS WON'T COLLIDE PLANES WON'T CRASH ... into unseen hazards when warned by RADAR

SAFE OR COLLISION IN FOG? No longer need unseen dangers, lurking in fog or darkness, be the cause of a disaster at sea. Today radar sees through the fog, locates other ships, buoys, icebergs, derelicts, shorelines.

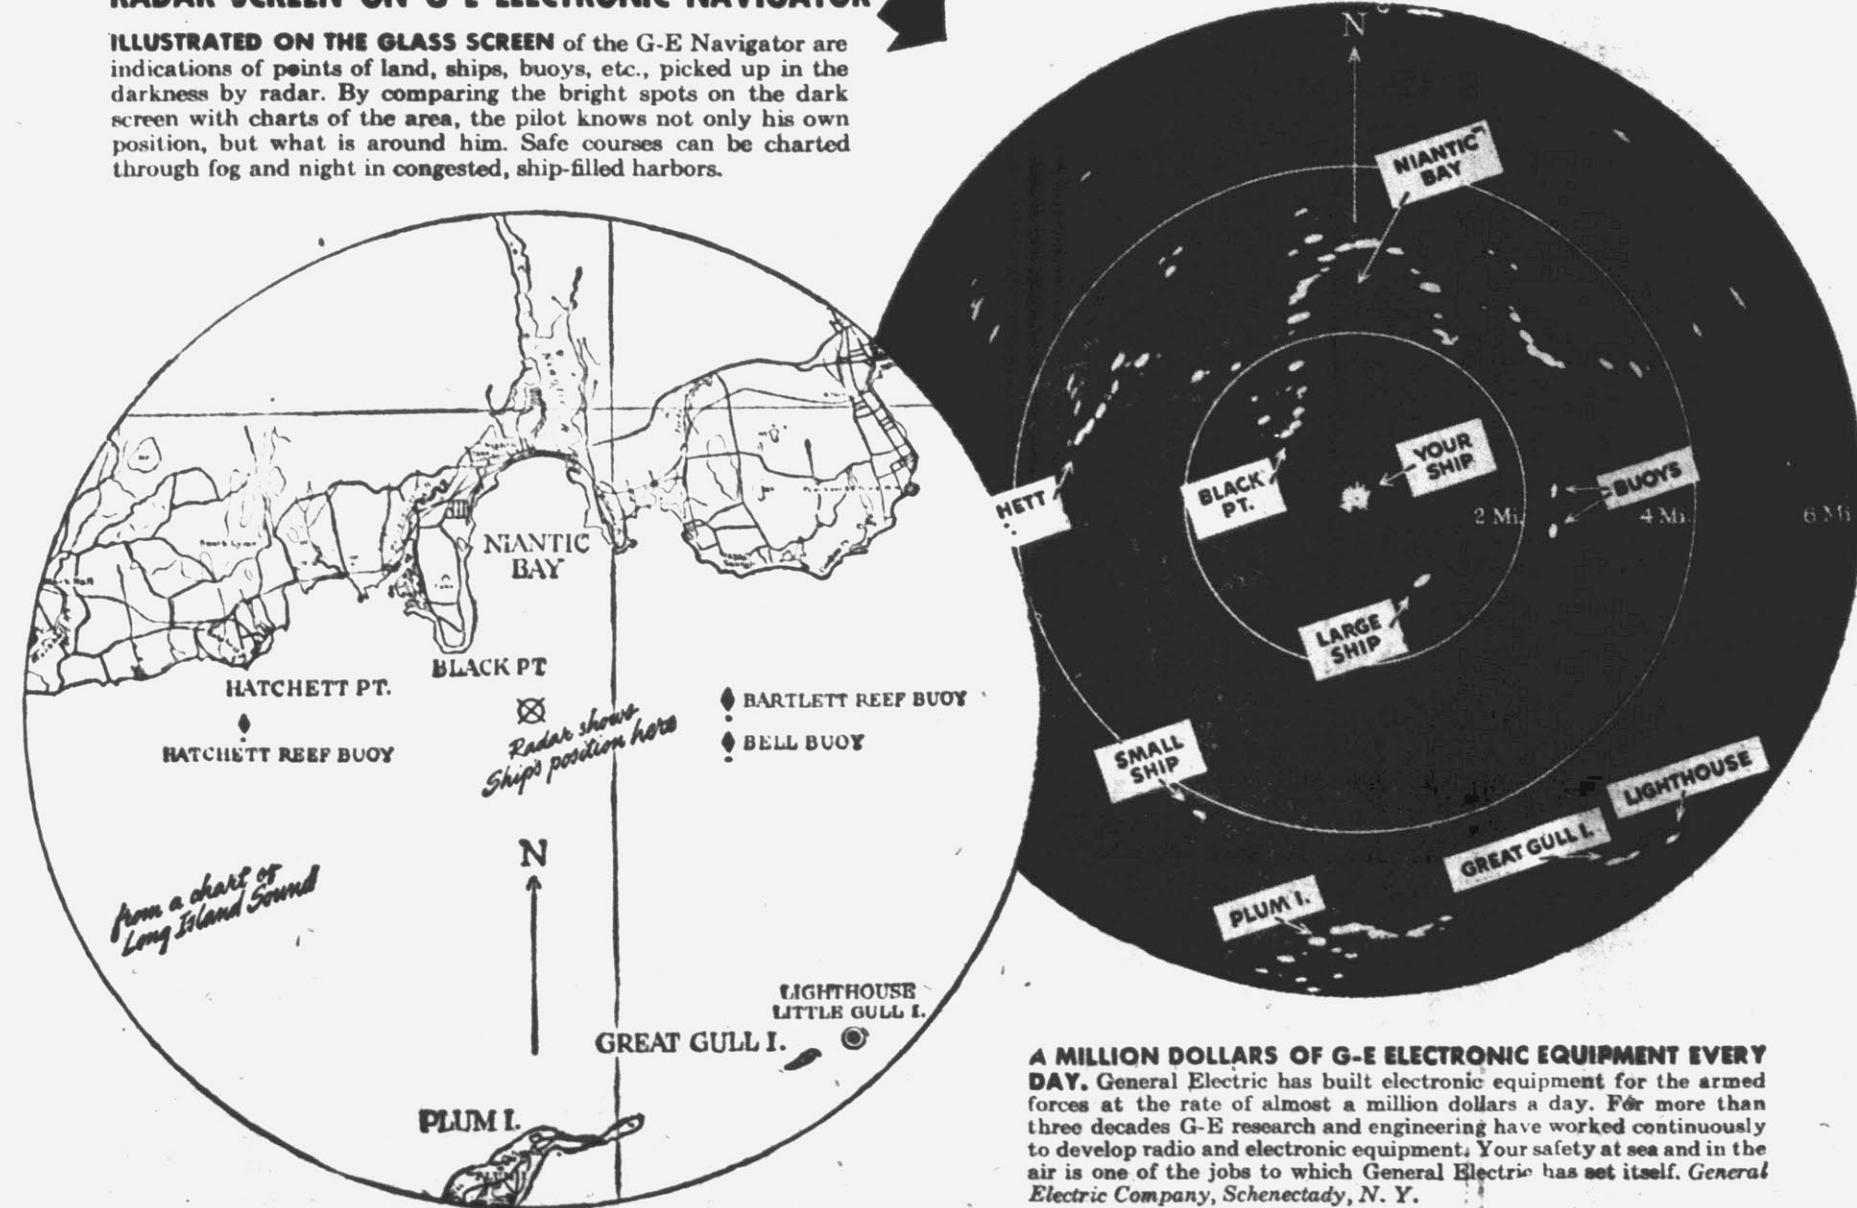

MOUNTAINS OR BUILDINGS AHEAD! Fog and bad weather will lose much of their terror with radar-equipped planes. Radar will warn the pilot of mountains, other planes and city skylines, help him to fly a safe course.

NOW, RADAR FOR COMMERCIAL SHIPS. On the bridge of "American Mariner," U. S. Maritime Service training ship, General Electric's new Electronic Navigator shows how radar can be used to help plot a safe course. This, we believe, is the first peacetime application of radar, demonstrated in the photo below.

ILLUSTRATED ON THE GLASS SCREEN of the G-E Navigator are indications of points of land, ships, buoys, etc., picked up in the darkness by radar. By comparing the bright spots on the dark screen with charts of the area, the pilot knows not only his own position, but what is around him. Safe courses can be charted through fog and night in congested, ship-filled harbors.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

A BIG GIFT TO LITTLE BOYS

One of the great benefactors of the last century was Dr. Bernardo who founded a series of homes for outcast boys in Great Britain.

He discovered, one evening, a neglected little boy asleep on a park bench. After awaking the boy and engaging in conversation with him, the good doctor learned that there were hundreds of such youngsters sleeping in alleys and byways all through the city of London. In fact the little boy he had come upon led him to a coal shed where they found thirteen homeless boys. As he looked upon the shivering youngsters, this young doctor had the vision of a life of great service. It became a passion with him to seek out these boys and put them in homes, for the maintenance of which he begged money all over the British Empire. It is said that in World War I there were almost ten thousand men fighting in the allied armies who had been salvaged in childhood and trained in usefulness in these homes built by this consecrated young surgeon.

The opportunity to serve in such a conspicuous fashion is not the lot of many persons. God seems to be interested, however, not in the quantity of services we give but in their quality. Few people can establish great charities, but all can carry the spirit of charity in their hearts.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

(Fourth of Six Articles)
Washington—When it came to getting the highly skilled craftsmen for the Manhattan (atomic bomb) project, the War Relocation Authority had to go to virtual coercion, kidnapping and other ploys—the very things it was fighting so hard to keep out of war industry. It was legalized, of course—by an executive order from President Roosevelt that gave atomic bomb production the highest labor priorities in the land. That didn't always make it easy.

"Give me an order for 10,000 unskilled laborers any day rather than an order for one man of the highest skills," said one WMC official.

In the first place, the top skilled men were those who might get a peep into Uncle Sam's topmost-drawer war secret. Not only did they have to be citizens, but their parents and grandparents had to be citizens. If they had been abroad any time in recent years before the war they were automatically barred. Being ace men in their profession, they were normally high-salaried, steady, conservative and generally disinclined to fall for offers to go to work in the blind alley which the production of some fantastic weapon of tomorrow might be.

Once convinced and cleared by the FBI, they had to be yanked from under the watchful eyes of their employers without ever telling the latter what the Army was making that was more important than their vital parts for planes, ships, guns and bombs.

This situation came to a climax once when an irate Navy captain in charge of ship repairs at the Mare Island Navy Yard in San Francisco Bay came storming into Washington. He wanted to know just what the hell was going on. WMC, he roared, had pirated 15 of his best electricians.

Later in the day, hoarse but chastened, he called the WMC official on whom he had visited most of his wrath. He was talking from the office of one of the brassiest Navy hats in Washington. He apologized. If he had something that took priority over putting ships back into the battle of the Pacific, it must be the biggest thing in military history, he said.

The same thing happened at the Rock Island (Ill.) arsenal. The commanding officer had to be told off through orders from General Marshall himself before he would quit fighting the pirating of some of his best machinists.

On the whole, private war industry employers were more tractable and cooperative, one WMC official said, and gave up—even if tearfully—their best tool makers, designers, millwrights, pipefitters, etc. without a struggle, once informed there was something bigger in the making than anything they were producing.

Speaking Of Saving Face--

Nevertheless, WMC officials breathed a big sigh of relief when they, along with the rest of the world, were informed that the "Manhattan project" produced the atomic bomb and that these volcanoes on a parachute were the most devastating success in the whole history of wars.

If they had fudged a little on the rule against taking more than 10 per cent of the skilled workers in factories that had more than 10 of such, if they practically Shanghai a few of the nation's finest shoemakers, at least they were justified.

For that reason you'll see a strangely spotty peacetime in these early months of reconversion. Whole squads of controls will have disappeared by—say—Thanksgiving. But others—like price controls on many items—will remain.

We'll jerk along, moving back to normal in one field, staying under controls in another. So don't get too excited every time you hear of the government announcing it intends to lift some ban.

The war-lords were driven out. Sun Yat Sen died in 1925 and a year later the Nationalist government in the present form was established with Chiang Kai-Shek in power. General Chiang dismissed the Russian advisers and tried to break up the Communism which had been established in Northern and Central China.

This warfare has continued ever since and the Communists have centered much of their strength in Shensi Province in the north. One of the sensational episodes of this long struggle came in 1936 when Chiang Kai-Shek went to Shensi to negotiate with the communists for their admission, and was held captive thirteen days. His famous wife rushed to his side, determined to live and die with him, and she was generally credited with persuading the captors to free Chiang.

When the Japanese attacked China a truce was made between the Chinese Communists and Chung-king. They buried the hatchet so as to present a common front to the invaders. The Reds then had several powerful armies in the field, and they recently claimed that their forces totaled over a million.

Despite the truce there were numerous sanguinary clashes between the Red and the government troops. Furthermore the two factions didn't present a unified and efficient fighting force. The other Allies tried to bring them together, but without success.

Now, with the collapse of Japan, the pent-up political passions of China are trying again to break their bonds.

obligated to do so because it was not in war work.

The oldest strike still in progress was that in the Los Angeles motion picture industry, where a jurisdictional dispute between the AFL and the U. M. W. of America is in its fifth month. Producers say 4,000 persons are out; the union says 7,000. At issue is which union shall represent 77 set decorators. Nine studios are affected.

Other disputes involving 1,000 or 4,500 CIO United Automobile workers are included: Workers at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company, Detroit, in protest against a War Labor Board ruling.

1,500 at Chrysler's Dodge Truck plant in Detroit as a result of a prolonged CIO-UAW strike at the Detroit Steel Products Company which supplies Dodge with springs.

1,100 at General Motors corporation's Chevrolet division in Bay City, Mich., where the CIO-UAW protested "speedup practice" and contended the management failed to observe shift preferences of senior employees.

1,900 at the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company, Birmingham, Ala. Four hundred turkeys and by-products employees, members of the United Mine Workers, left their jobs August 18, idling 1,500 others.

The union said the company refused to pay premium rates for "extra" holiday work.

4,100 CIO United Rubber workers at the U. S. Rubber Company's ball brand division in Mishawaka, Ind. They have been idle for two weeks in a dispute over a worker's dismissal and other grievances.

1,400 United Steel workers at the Oliver Iron and Steel Corporation, Pittsburgh, Pa. They have been out since Wednesday over suspension of a shop steward. The company indefinitely suspended the union president for calling the strike.

1,200 at the Monsanto, Ill., Chemical Company, idle since August 10 as a result of a jurisdictional dispute between four AFL unions.

1,200 at the Westcoast Company, Peru, Ill., out since Wednesday when the United Mine Workers, district 30, alleged violation of seniority rights in the company's reconversion program.

atives of the 50 nations into session as the full preparatory commission. This group will set date for the opening assembly meeting.

Meanwhile the executive committee is considering suggestions for a permanent site for headquarters of the organization. It also must dissolve the old League of Nations and establish an international secretariat.

The atom bomb was the focal point of the debate in Parliament yesterday. Some members urged that the secret be shared with Soviet Russia to avoid a race of research in super-weapons.

Lord Strabolgi, a supporter of the charter, said it might have taken a different form had the framers known that the atom's power would be harnessed, and added that eventually it might have to be replaced with something "more powerful, more robust and more secure proof."

"The brutal fact is," Lord Strabolgi said, "that war as an instrument of national policy for one nation to inflict its will on another can now only be waged by one nation—the U. S. A.—because for a time they have the vast and intricate plant to make this new process. Fortunately the American people are pacifists in the best sense of the word, and we are humbly thankful that this is the case."

Other members said the atom bomb rendered the charter inadequate, and hoped it would be developed and improved in time.

Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, in the final speech of the Commons discussion, said the atom bomb must remain a British-American secret until the world security organization is established and "we can see clearly how matters stand."

cept for Japanese units in the Sitang River sector of Burma and in Borneo, with whom "communications have been severed," according to the dispatch.

Generally speaking, the cessation of hostilities is in fair progress everywhere, the message concluded.

Japan earlier had messaged directly to General MacArthur a proposal against sinking of four Japanese ships in Hokkaido waters on Wednesday by a submarine which "presumably belongs to the Soviet Union."

Another message said a "mercy ship" whose voyage to Moscow had been interrupted by the typhoon, arrived Tuesday and returning to Tokyo Saturday of next week—one day after Japan's formal surrender.

The Japanese report of the typhoon said communications and transportation had been snarled in the Tokyo area.

The Japanese government today also asked MacArthur to clarify six specified phrases of "the instrument of surrender."

The Tokyo typhoon, Japan's message said, snarled communications and transportation.

In addition, the storm disrupted radio communications with China and hence was delaying the marking of camps with the letters "PW," the message explained.

The storm—a homeland broadcast listed 291 houses destroyed, 780 partially wrecked and 3,336 flooded—created "some difficulties" in executing MacArthur's directives, Tokyo radioed the supreme Allied commander.

The typhoon report was one of a series of radiograms with which Tokyo bombarded MacArthur today. Another complained that Japanese were being shot, looted and raped "in certain localities" of Manchuria, Inner Mongolia and North Korea and asked permission for Japanese soldiers there to keep their weapons "until Japanese residents have been removed to places of safety."

The British government forbade the Hudson's Bay company to give liquor to the Indians.

Baseball

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)
Bobby Feller returns to the baseball world tonight after a four-year hitch in Uncle Sam's Navy and the odds are all in favor of his picking up where he left off in 1941.

Rapid Robert may not be as razor sharp against the league-leading Detroit Tigers under the Cleveland aces as he was when he won 25 for the Tribe in his last full season, but he has been managing and throwing for a top flight Great Lakes Navy team this season.

At Benton, Red Ruffing, Hank Greenberg, Buddy Lewis, Dave Fenzler and Charley Keller are proving every day that the returning serviceman ball player needs little more than a shave and a haircut to step right back into his big league berth.

Ferriss is the outstanding example of a successful ex-GI with his brilliant 19-6 win record for the Boston Red Sox although he was just a minor league performer before Pearl Harbor. Ruffing has topped four of five for the Yankees and Benton's 11-4 performance is a big reason for the Tigers' success.

Lewis is hitting .342 for a Washington club that has become a definite flag threat since his return from the Army Air Force. Greenberg, after a faltering start, has leveled off at .324, with 15 doubles and 7 homers to top the Detroit hitters.

Lesser lights such as Harry Lowrey, Paul Gillespie and Mickey Livingston of the Chicago Cubs, and Rookies Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals and Ken Gable of Pittsburgh haven't found the going too rough.

Jim Tobin assured Feller of a first place target to shoot at when he hurled the Bengals to a 4-3 verdict over Philadelphia yesterday, upping their margin over idle Washington to one full game.

Although the A's banged Tobe's "nothin' ball" for eight hits including two doubles, 10 blows off Don Black enabled Detroit to close a 21-game home stand with its 14th decision over the eastern invaders.

Washington opens a vital four-game set in the Yankee Stadium today while the Tigers joust with the Indians. All other clubs in the American League were idle yesterday.

Brooklyn staged off New York's threat to the Dodgers' third place berth on a four-hit, 4-1 night game triumph by Rookie Ralph Branca.
