Truman Asks Cancellation Of All Lend-Lease Debts

President Says America Received Things Of Far Greater Importance Than The 42 Billion Dollars Dealt To Our Allies Under Lend-Lease

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER—Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—President Truman notified Congress today that the more than $42,000,000,000 this country spent on Lend-Lease to its Allies should in the main, be written off the books.

The reason—made clear in a long report Mr. Truman sent to Capitol Hill—is that the administration believes the United States received three things more important than a dollar basis settlement. They are: 1. Victory over Germany and Japan.

2. More than $5,600,000,000 through last March in reverse Lend-Lease.

3. A commitment from all nations receiving Lend-Lease to join in organizing the postwar international trade on the basis of lowering barriers.

In a letter accompanying the report, Mr. Truman told the lawmakers: "With the defeat of the Axis powers, whose ruthless plan for world conquest and enslavement came so close to succeeding, the United States has realized the major objectives for which Lend-Lease aid has been extended.

The President has ordered Lend-Lease operations halted, effective V-J Day, and already has cut off requisitions for supplies. Meanwhile, arrangements are being worked out with Lend-Lease countries to switch their commerce over to a peacetime basis.

Summing up the gigantic program, Mr. Truman said: "Each of our principal fighting partners has contributed to the pool of armed might in accordance with its full abilities and capacities."

Now, he added, the Lend-Lease arrangements are being wound up in an "expeditious and orderly manner, subject to military needs for the movement of troops or for occupation purposes."

The report itself was even more specific on the question of final settlement. "The overwhelming portion of Lend-Lease aid which now totals over $42,000,000,000," it said, "has been correctly consumed by our Allies in the war."

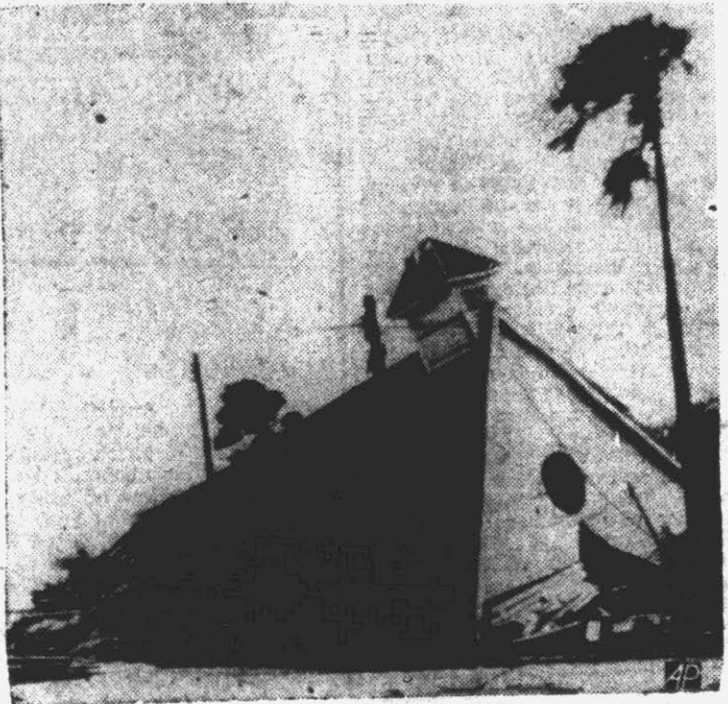

It added that if so huge a debt were to be added to the enormous financial obligations already incurred by foreign governments "it would have a disastrous effect upon our trade with the United Nations and hence among production and employment at home."

For years there has been talk of repayment "in kind." That meant that if the United States Lend-Leased tanks, trucks or machine tools to a country which had some left over after the war, the return of these left-over articles could be requested.

However, top officials said today there was no thought of any sizeable requests along this line.

One point over which there once was considerable controversy—about $2,000,000,000 worth of machine tools obtained by Britain—was cleared up several months ago. At that time a deal was made under (Continued on Page Four)

Byrnes Would Hear Former Nazi Allies

SEEK MERGER ARMED FORCES

President Truman Announces Support Of Plan

Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—President Truman threw his support today to a renewed drive for merger of the armed forces.

As the Pearl Harbor report sparked a new unification drive in Congress, the President told his news conference: "He always has favored unity of command for the Army and Navy. He said he did not want to amplify his views now."

Congressional supporters of the movement, termed the Pearl Harbor report "convincing evidence" that a lack of coordination existed between the Army and Navy when the Japanese attacked.

They said the situation would not have existed had the Army and Navy been working together under one head both in Hawaii and Washington.

Likewise, they added, a recurrence can be prevented only by creation of a national department of defense.

Merger advocates said they had planned a campaign this fall but had not hoped to have "such strong ammunition."

Now, they asserted, they will press for early action by the House Post-Office Committee. (Continued on Page Six)

Would Give Satellites Chance To Discuss Peace Proposals

By GRAHAM HOVEY—Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Countries formerly allied with Nazi Germany may get a chance to plead their own cases before the Big Five foreign ministers in London next month.

Similarly, it was learned today nations involved in territorial disputes may be summoned to present their views when the council convenes for the first time September 10. The council is a creation of the recent Potsdam Big Three conference.

Secretary of State Byrnes is expected to propose full hearings in order to bring out all facts related to any controversial matters he fears might menace the peace of Europe.

Byrnes also is understood to have several other suggestions designed to speed up the work of the council. It has been assigned the task of drawing up proposed peace treaties for Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland, in addition to recommending solutions for the territorial disputes.

One proposal Byrnes may make would establish committees of experts to deal with the major specialized problems. For example, a committee of experts on Italy could be created to draw up a report on proposed terms of the Allied-Italian peace treaty.

When the report on Italy was ready, the foreign ministers themselves would consider it, then give Italian government officials an opportunity to present their views.

Then, the council itself finally would formulate a finished proposal for presentation to the United Nations.

Similar groups would deliberate other treaties and such ticklish territorial questions as Trieste, Aosta, and the Greek-Yugoslav boundary.

How Byrnes' four colleagues—Beverly S. Miles, Britain's Bev. Francis Biddle and China's Wang Shai-Tse—will react to his recommendations is not known.

Neither is their attitude on Byrnes' frequently expressed conviction that at such meetings as much information as possible should be given to Allied press and radio reporters during the deliberations.

The only recent comparable conference was the Dumbarton Oaks meeting on world organization at Washington last year. At that time very little information was made public during the sessions.

Dumbarton Oaks started out as an "exploratory" fact-finding conference, but finished up with a plan for world organization largely adopted. (Continued on page three)

Relations With Finland Resumed

Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The State Department today announced resumption of relations with Finland, effective at midnight tonight.

The decision was taken because the U. S. Government considers the present government "broadly representative of all democratic elements in Finnish political life."

Relations with the tiny Scandinavian country, which has a long history of friendship with the United States, were broken off June 30, 1944, after failure of all efforts of President Roosevelt to bring about peace between Finland and Russia.

SAYS NATION TO BLAME FOR PEARL HARBOR

Truman Says Roosevelt Preparedness Efforts Stifled; Army And Navy Consider Matter Closed but Congressmen Demand Courts Martial And Further Information

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS—Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—President Truman announced today that he will not order courts martial in the Pearl Harbor disaster. He said the entire country shares in the blame.

As some congressmen set up a clamor for military trials to shed more light on America's greatest defeat in arms, the President told his news conference: "I think the country is as much to blame as any individual in this final situation that developed at Pearl Harbor."

That was his analysis to a news conference today after studying the official documents on investigations of the setback which this country suffered when the Japanese struck Hawaii December 7, 1941. Mr. Truman authorized this quotation:

"I came to the conclusion that the whole thing is the result of the policy which the country itself pursued. The country was not ready for preparedness."

"Every time the President (Franklin D. Roosevelt) made an effort to get a preparedness program through Congress, it was stifled. Whenever the President made a statement about the necessity of preparedness, he was vilified for doing it."

"I think the country is as much to blame as any individual in this final situation that developed at Pearl Harbor."

The President acknowledged that he had made a statement which was not a statement of fact about Pearl Harbor while he was in the Senate. In a statement earlier this fall, Mr. Truman had said the army and navy commanders at the Pacific bastions were not on speaking terms.

A reporter reminded him of that today. Grinning, Mr. Truman remarked that things come back to haunt you.

Apparently from the now public reports, he said, what he had written. (Continued on Page Six)

Troops In Reich Will Be Reduced

Berlin, Aug. 30.—(AP)—General Eisenhower said today that the 2,500,000 American troops now in Germany would be reduced to a fixed occupation force of about 400,000 well before the end of the winter.

The American commander said the importation of food from the United States to feed Germans was inescapable, but that he did not mean he intended to fatten the Germans.

He said he hoped to have the Germans elect their own officials in city and rural areas this fall.

Eisenhower declined to predict how long the Allied occupation of Germany would last, saying this was a matter of higher government policy, but added that the Americans did not expect to stay forever.

Liberated Fliers Tell Stories Jap Cruelties

Shanghai, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Stories of brutal Japanese captors who beat them with bamboo sticks and metal rods until they were black and blue from knee to hip and could hardly walk, were related here by eight American fliers.

One airman said he had his wrists tied behind him and had been hung by his thumbs in efforts by the Japanese to force him to reveal American plans to invade Nippon.

All are in good condition, and their wounds are healing. They still are held by the Japanese who threatened correspondents with bayonets when they first tried to interview them in the YMCA here. Entrance was gained after a 15-minute delay. The city of Shanghai still awaits its official release.

The prisoners are: 2nd Lt. Harold H. Efler, Chicago pilot of an Army B-24 bomber; 2nd Lt. William R. Martin, Jr., Colorado Springs, Colo., and Sgt. Clyde J. Sellers, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.; Navy fliers Ammie Walker Pallack, Chicago; Ammie Frank Maratea, Chicago; Aom-3e Ted Hauser, North Hollywood, Calif., and Seaman P. J. J. Martinsen, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Richard C. Warner, Dalton, Ga.

Efler and his bomber crew were shot down May 17. The Navy men were on a plane which crashed June 26, following an attack on a Japanese convoy of three destroyer escorts, a picket boat, three cargo transports and two troop transports north of Shanghai.

Pallack said anti-aircraft knocked the bomber out of the sky and it crashed near the coast. When Japanese rescuers picked them up, Pallack said about 1,200 men swimming around from a troop transport that had been sunk by the bombers.

"As the Japs picked up the swimmers each greeted us by slugging us," Pallack related. "We were locked in vegetable bins and beaten every couple of hours."

"The next day on reaching Shanghai we were really beaten up by Jap enlisted men taking turns hitting us. Other tortures included the tying of their hands behind their backs and then being raised with a cord around their necks. "With our hands tied that way they would give us four or five socks," Pallack said. Efler, refusing to provide the Japanese with information, was hung by his thumbs for half an hour. Six released American prisoners of war, survivors of Wake Island, likewise told of Japanese brutalities. They were Edward Cook, San Francisco, and Amos J. White, Rahway, N. J., civilians, and Marines (Continued on page four)

'Miracle' Machine Turns To Peace Task—Displacing an asphalt mixing machine and a whole fleet of trucks, this simple piece of machinery, developed and widely used during the war has been turned to the peace-time job of building a highway to Cape Hatteras on the North Carolina "Banks." Larger Unemployment Pay Plan Endorsed By Snyder

REDUCTION IN POINT VALUES

More Meat, Cheese And Butter Now Available

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS—Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The climb toward better living got a boost today. OPA, starting Sunday, is handing out more meat, more cheese, more butter.

But the War Manpower Commission, in a more sobering announcement, that 2,000,000 war workers have lost their jobs since Japan's fall. Some, however, have been rehired already.

Otherwise the news—from industry and government alike—was good. It ran like this:

1. Within six months, travel by ship across the ocean may be fairly easy. Within a year, regular world cruises will be running.

2. Farmers will give industry a rich market. Surveys show one in four wants a tractor or other machine, one in five a car or truck.

3. Courtesy behind the counter is coming back, say retailers—along with deliveries, easier credit and pre-war store services.

Canned milk becomes ration-free on Sunday. And red points will buy about 28 per cent more meat, 50 per cent more cheese, 25 per cent more butter and margarine, fats and oils were unchanged.

Price Boss Chester Bowles said he couldn't guess when meat rationing would end. (Continued on page four)

Mobilization Director Points To Threat Of Reduced Living Standards

Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Establishment of a national unemployment compensation system, endorsed today by John W. Snyder, director of War Mobilization and reconversion. Snyder told the House Ways and Means committee unemployment during reconversion probably will total six million by the end of the year and eight million by early spring, and that sharp reduction in the living standards of displaced workers is threatened.

"The committee is hearing witnesses on a bill to standardize jobless pay at $25 a week for 26 weeks. "The return to peace is part and parcel of the war," Snyder said in his prepared testimony. "The human as well as the material costs of transition are costs of war. We have recognized this fact in the programs for assistance to business and veterans. We cannot in good conscience adopt another attitude towards displaced war workers."

Present unemployment compensation systems, he continued, cover only some 30 million of the nation's 52 million gainfully employed. Among those excluded are 2,900,000 federal employees, many of them workers in shipyards, arsenals, munitions depots, gun factories and explosives plants; 200,000 in the merchant marine; and 2,000,000 employees of firms hiring fewer than eight workers.

The bill would extend jobless pay to all of these groups. As reasons for increasing maximum benefits Snyder cited these figures:

"The over-all cost of living is up about one-third—and the prices of food, clothing and household goods are now from 45 to 50 per cent higher than in August, 1939.

"An unemployed worker today would need at least $22 to buy as much of these basic necessities as $15 would have purchased in 1939.

"Yet half the states still have maximum rates as low as $15 or $18, and 41 states have a maximum of (Continued on page six)

Some Places Will Close Labor Day

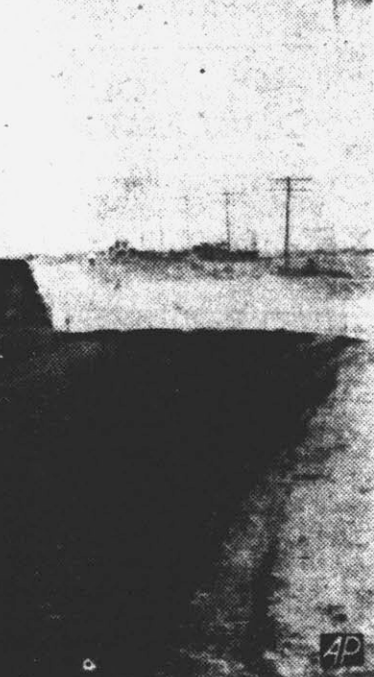

Next Monday, September 3—Labor Day, will be observed as a legal holiday by the banks, postoffice, War Manpower Commission, War Price and Rationing Board offices, the ABC stores and the tobacco market.

The postoffice will make no city or rural deliveries. Parcel post packages will be delivered and there will be a collection of mail from street boxes after 5 p. m. Postmaster Knott Proctor said.

The rationing office, closed on Saturdays heretofore by government order, will be closed Labor Day. For the benefit of those having business at the rationing office, it will close Friday evening and not reopen until Tuesday morning, Manager C. V. Cannon said.

The U. S. Employment office (War Manpower Commission) is continuing on the 44-hour a week basis—eight hours daily through Friday and four hours on Saturday. Mrs. J. B. Spilman, the manager, said.

General MacArthur Landed At Atsugi Airfield Early Today Behind Thousands Of Airborne Troops; Naval Base At Yokosuka Surrenders To Halsey's Aide

Atsugi Airfield, near Tokyo, Aug. 30.—General MacArthur arrived in Japan and set up headquarters in Yokohama as Nippon's military ruler today amidst the first alien armed forces ever to occupy the sacred islands.

Paratroopers and seaborne Marines and sailors swarmed out of the skies and in from the sea in an unbroken stream. They took over Atsugi airfield, 19 miles from Tokyo; ran up the American flag over Yokosuka naval base, Japan's second largest, robed by Japanese truck into Yokohama port of Tokyo, where the occupation force will establish general headquarters; and began evacuating prisoners of war from "a black hell hole" where "bestial beatings were common."

The occupation is "going splendidly," MacArthur said. Yanks were moving in an orderly fashion "without bloodshed" and he said the Japanese appeared to be acting in good faith.

The occupation by troops in full battle dress and ready for any contingency, was eight hours old when MacArthur stepped onto Atsugi airfield from his shining silver C-54 transport, "Bataan." At 2 p. m. (1 a. m. EDT).

The supreme Allied commander landed amidst cheering paratroopers of the 11th Airborne Division, who began pouring from an unending stream of transports at 6 a. m. (5 p. m., Wednesday, EDT) simultaneous with landings at Yokosuka, led by the Fourth Marine Regiment. The Fourth Marines, rushed to the Philippines from China, were one of the heroic outfits in the fight for Manila Bay and stood to the last on Corregidor. Today's landing was made by a reactivated regiment.

The 11th Airborne Division helped General MacArthur clear 300,000 Japanese out of the Philippines and were victors at Nichols Field where Japan struck its first blow at the islands. Paratroop units drove in Japanese trucks, duly saluted by enemy officers, to occupy Yokohama, five miles closer to Tokyo than Yokosuka. This was the first step toward a juncture between the sea and airborne forces whose original landings were made 18 miles apart on either side of Miura Peninsula.

Both air and sea forces were covered in typical battle fashion by the ready, but silent, guns of an Allied war fleet anchored in Tokyo Bay and swarms of planes ranging from fighters to Superforts.

In a coordinated mercy operation, four ships began evacuating the first of 35,000 prisoners of war in Japan, including 8,000 Americans. Simultaneously, 134 Superforts parachuted 536 tons of supplies to internment camps that won't be reached for days, or possibly weeks, by occupation forces.

Among the first 500 rescued from a prisoner hospital near Yokosuka was Maj. Gregory ("Pappy") Bowington. Marine air hero of the (Continued on Page Four)

America's famed ace, one of the war's first martyrs, didn't sink the Japanese battleship Haruna by tilting his bomber against its stack—but he died a great hero just the same.

At the mention of his name, tears welled into the eyes of Pfc. Robert Altman, 26, of Sanford, Fla., just evacuated from the vile Omori camp in the suburban Tokyo area.

Altman's story was told under dramatic circumstances. This Auxiliary high speed transport and others of the tiny mercy fleet huddled in the bay south of Tokyo bulging with Allied prisoners, deathly sick, ailing and sound, brought out during the night from their hell-hole to relate sickening (Continued on Page Six)

Today On The Home Front

Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—OPA Boss Chester Bowles says his agency has about 8 million price ceilings on things—goods and services—in this country.

That may give an idea of how complex price control is. Those ceilings were set up in wartime to keep living costs down. Many may have to stay on for some time to come.

They'll be taken off when goods are plentiful and storekeepers—again in competition with one another—will begin to cut their own prices to get business.

It's impossible because of the tremendous size of the field under price control to go into many details here. But here is a sample of how complex it is in just one case: OPA tries to control prices on most things you buy from their raw state until they are finished and sold to you in a store.

We can take cotton used in a dress as an example. When cotton is spun into yarn at a mill, the spinner has to sell it at a ceiling price to the weaver who turns the yarn into cloth.

There's a ceiling on the cloth when the weaver sells it to a finisher who may put stripes on it, bleach it, or add some other touches to the cloth.

There's a ceiling on the finished goods when it's sold to a dress manufacturer. There's a ceiling on the dress when it's sold to a wholesaler.

There's a ceiling on what the wholesaler can charge when he sells it to a storekeeper.

And there's a ceiling on the dress which the storekeeper sells to you. As explained, OPA tries to hold that dress to about the price you would have paid for the same kind of dress in 1942.

But there are a couple of ways in which this can be done: The manufacturer—when he starts the dress on its way to the storekeeper—may have to put a price-tag on it, showing the price at which it can be sold to you.

Or—the manufacturer sells to the wholesaler at a ceiling price. The OPA allows the wholesaler a certain margin of profit—called the storekeeper.

In turn the OPA allows the storekeeper a certain mark-up when selling to you. But these devices both act as ceilings or controls on the prices.

But suppose here that all the time we were talking of cotton dress went into a simple blue cotton dress. Now suppose that same piece of cloth, when the finisher got through with it, contained stripes, this was a dress not quite like any the finisher or had made before. OPA would have to establish a special ceiling to fit this case because the stripe finish cost more than just a plain blue dress.

So—there would have to be adjustments. (Continued on Page Four)

The WORLD TODAY

An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign News Analyst)

Uncle Sam's Lt. General Jonathan M. Wainwright, who is now enroute to Japan after his release from a Jap prison camp in Manchuria where he has been buried alive since his surrender of the American force at Corregidor, has become overnight one of the leading personalities in the great drama which is unfolding in Tokyo Bay.

All this is quite unwitting on Wainwright's part. On the contrary it's the last thing he would have expected. Throughout his terrible years of imprisonment he had been tortured with the nightmare of his surrender. He thought he must be in disgrace with the folk back home.

Even now he can hardly understand his elevation to fame. You get that from his humble statements—but more strikingly from the years of hell that show in the eyes of the radioed photo which was taken on his release. That picture haunts one, for it tells the story of a man who thought he had failed in his great stewardship. Read his statement to the press:

"I have had very little direct contact with my country or official agencies thereof or even with my family for over three years, but such contacts here and there as I have had have caused me to believe that the administration, the War Department and the American people have accepted my dire disaster with forbearance and generosity which perhaps are unique in the experience of a defeated commander."

Place beside this apologetic remark Wainwright's comment when arrogant and brutal General Homma made his second demand for American surrender of the hard-pressed American forces. This is related not by Wainwright but by a fellow officer who remains anonymous. Said the American commander:

"I've been to General Staff School and the War College, but they never taught me what to do if I was called upon to surrender. I guess we shall have to continue fighting."

Finally there was nothing left for Wainwright to do but capitulate, or sacrifice the lives of his entire command without reason.

"My gallant troops," he says, "had perhaps made a defense against more overwhelming odds, under more disadvantageous circumstances, than troops of the American Army had ever been confronted with in history."

So it is particularly fitting that General MacArthur should have invited Wainwright, and members of the latter's staff who were in prison with him, to be present at the formal surrender of Japan aboard the battleship Missouri. In replying to MacArthur's message, Wainwright said of his colleagues:

"All this group were with me on (Continued on Page Four)

Our Farm Folks

By VERONA LEE JOYNER Home Demonstration Agent and E. RUTH BIZZELL, Asst. Home Demonstration Agent

The families of the Winterville Home Demonstration Club enjoyed another get-together in the Community building on Tuesday night. A buffet supper was served to over one hundred people. Mrs. Laurie Ellis, president, was in charge of the many games which the old and young played and enjoyed. The film, "The Family Poultry Flock" was shown by P. F. Hendrix, county agent.

One of the largest groups to gather in rural Pitt county for a community recreation night in August was on Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Briley. Over 150 people, families of the Sweet Gum Grove and Stokes Club brought picnic baskets and enjoyed a supper on the lawn of the Briley home. It was the first Home Demonstration club meeting of the kind since the organization of the club over a year ago and everyone was enthusiastic for more such meetings. Mrs. Howard Barnhill, president, welcomed the guests. Mesdames Clarence Barnhill and Wilbur Briley were in charge of outdoor games played. A motion picture concluded the program.

Mrs. Leon S. Hardee, Mrs. Robert Starling and Mrs. Emma Cannon were hostesses at the regular annual August family night on Friday evening, August 24, at "Twin Elms," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon S. Hardee. Due to the unfavorable weather the supper was served in the spacious back porch of the Hardee home rather than on the lawn as was planned.

Mrs. Robert Starling entertained the group following the supper. The entire program for the evening centered around the idea of the airplane. Mrs. Starling led the group through several games that everyone thoroughly enjoyed. Prizes were awarded to the winners. Prizes were awarded to the group or individual named as winners. After the games everyone gathered on the front lawn to enjoy a program given by several performers. The front porch served as a stage. Those appearing on the program were as follows: Frances Tucker, singing "Goldie Starling," vocal solo; Mr. Eli Bloom and Mrs. B. L. Tyson entertained the group with jokes and Jo Ann Bloom rendered songs and dances accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Eli Bloom. To conclude the evening program everyone joined hands and sang, "The More We Get Together."

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell and daughters; Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Hollar; Mr. and Mrs. Eli Bloom and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Dowd; Mrs. June Rose, Mrs. Ruel Tyson and Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Tyson.

Another delicious picnic supper was enjoyed by the members of the Ballards and Farmville Home Demonstration clubs and their families on Thursday night, August 23 at the Farmville swimming pool. Following the supper Mrs. L. E. Jones, president of the Ballards club, welcomed the guests and then introduced Miss Ruth Moore of the Lang's 4-H Community club who gave a Dairy Team Demonstration. Group singing led by Mr. C. F. Baucum and Mr. J. H. Byrum concluded the program.

The Seven Pines Home Demonstration club held its first family night on Friday night, August 24, at the Farmville Swimming Pool. After a picnic supper, Mrs. Ichabod Allen, president, led several games which

To Ask Completion St. Lawrence Seaway

Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—President Truman plans to recommend to Congress soon the completion of the St. Lawrence seaway project long advocated by his predecessor, President Roosevelt.

Asked at his news conference if he planned to make a recommendation for the completion of the project, Mr. Truman said simply, "Yes, I do." "I'll let you know about it when I get it ready," the President asserted.

College Looks For Full Enrollment This Fall

The employment of three new instructors next year has been announced by Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, acting president of East Carolina Teachers College. He said the staff is now almost complete and that the outlook for a large enrollment this fall is excellent. It now seems probable that all dormitory space will be engaged in advance of the opening date of fall quarter, September 25.

In anticipation of the return of a larger number of men students, a coach of major sports will be employed.

In the Music Department, Dan E. Vornholt of Madison, Wis., has been employed in the place of Charles Fisher, who had been with the college for two years. Mr. Vornholt holds the Bachelor's and Master's degrees in music from the School of Music of the University of Wisconsin.

He traveled to Europe as a soloist and assistant director of the University of Wisconsin Glee Club. He is the author of "Music Making in the Rural Community," "Religious Music," and "The Folk Singers." Mr. Vornholt is a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs, the Music Educators National Conference, and of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia.

Another new member of the Music Department is Miss Martha Cammack of Owenton, Ky., who will have charge of teacher training in music. She holds the A. B. and M. A. degrees in music from State Teachers' College, Richmond, Ky.

Miss Cammack has taught music in the training school of the Eastern Kentucky Teachers College and was music supervisor at Fort Knox, Indiana. She directed both adult and junior choirs in the post chapel at Fort Knox, Eastern Kentucky Teachers College is one of the strongest state teachers colleges in the country.

Dr. Louise Greer of Abington, Va., will take the position held last year by Kenneth Christian who is continuing his graduate studies at Michigan State College.

Miss Greer received the Bachelor's degree from Emory and Henry College, Emory, Va., where she was graduated with first honors. She received the Master's and Doctor's degrees from the University of Virginia. She is a member of Sigma Mu fraternity at the University of Virginia, where she held the senior Junior Y Mason fellowship one year and the AAUW fellowship one year. Miss Greer has been successful as a teacher of English and dramatics. She studied under the late Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale and Dr. A. J. Armstrong, director of the Browning Collection at Baylor University.

Dr. McGinnis said the college is now looking for a well qualified man who can coach major college sports and assist in building a broad comprehensive health and physical education program at East Carolina Teachers college. He said an additional instructor is being added to the staff in this department this year.

Chapter 4

A slight diversion occurred a few days later. An ambulance screamed up before the main door, then went slithering around to the rear. Carla came in dramatically and announced that "Our Mr. Sheridan is injured."

"Our Mr. Sheridan," it developed, had been overreaching a new type of impeller being fitted into place, and a new hand had become nervous and dropped his end. The other end had slid out of the helper's grasp, and the heavy wheel had smashed onto Mark Sheridan's foot.

Our Mr. Sheridan, having had a few bones in his foot squashed, reposed in the hospital long enough for treatment, and Jane was given the dubious pleasure of meeting Mr. Haskins.

"He doesn't fit in," she thought, as she watched the board member move around; "doesn't belong. He'd never have enough money to buy stock in this company... perhaps, though, he inherited it. He's a clerk, own a clerk, and can be nothing else."

And Saturday noon he took Carla to lunch.

"Miss Grey," Carla said, before she left, "I want those order sheets done in triplicate and filed before you leave. And no mistakes. Leave the originals on Mr. Sheridan's desk. I'll return in time to get them into the early evening mail." She turned to the others. "You girls may leave now."

They left, all but Evelyn, who had work she wanted to finish, and Jane typed away contentedly. Even "our" work was a pleasure with Carla out of the way.

It was Evelyn who answered the insistent ringing of the telephone on Carla's desk. Jane, free of Carla, was preparing her sheets by pre-fitting carbon between them and heard some of the conversation.

"She didn't say."

"I'm sorry... Oh, but listen, I'm sure Mrs. Grey does. Oh, yes, she can; yes, I'm just sure. What? I don't know, but just a minute—"

"Jane," she called across the room, "you drive, don't you?" And then Jane nodded, laughing, she turned back. "Yes, she does, and I know she'd be glad to. What? All right, she'll be there."

Evelyn replaced the receiver and danced across to Jane. "That was Mark Sheridan. Oh, Jane, now's your chance to get your digs in. There's a big government camp to open east of here, and they're going to need pumps, and Mr. Sheridan just has to get out there to look the place over so's he can put in a bid, and he can't drive with his foot smashed, and he needs someone to do both dictation and—"

"and you'll do my work," cut in Jane, rising. "Thank you, Evelyn. I'll do my best to—as you say—get my digs in."

A goorman was awaiting her at the Athletic Club. A moment later attendants escorted Mark Sheridan down the steps and across the pavement to the car.

Resolutely Jane kept her hands on the wheel. Why must they want to fly to straighten that disreputable, and the color of his topcoat? "Mighty fine of you, Miss—Miss?" "Grey," provided Jane.

Fifteen minutes later she glanced at him again. "You needn't try to rush out the floor boards, Mr. Sheridan. I'm accustomed to driving in New York traffic."

"What? Oh! I'm sorry. You do handle the car like a veteran. Half an hour later he spoke again. "Miss—Miss?"

"Grey," supplied Jane.

"Miss Grey, you drive like a man," he stated. "New York," he added. "Why, say, I thought you came from the hills here—Jackson or some place."

"Miss—Miss Grey," Mark pointed on the name as though it had been about to evaporate before him. "You say your typewriter hasn't arrived?"

"Yellow Valley," she corrected. "I came to the Sheridan Company from there. However, I came back to Yellow Valley from New York. I was with Guffery Foundries there."

They came to the field and a military officer came out to greet them. The two men talked, and occasionally drew the willing Jane into their discussion. Then, their business terminated, Jane and Mark drove away.

"It has; it arrived yesterday."

"Well, Miss—Miss Grey—"

Jane felt as though she were helping him capture that elusive cognomen.

"I intend to Mr. Sheridan," she said, anticipating what he would have asked. "I've nothing to do either this evening or tomorrow. I can probably complete a draft of what you dictated this afternoon by nine o'clock. Would you like me to send it to your club at that time? You could make such corrections as you wish and return it, and I could make a final copy and have it at your club by—say, ten o'clock tomorrow morning."

A relaxed Mark Sheridan grinned at her as she drew the car up before will lose his driver's license. The man was also convicted of assaulting a female and was given three months on the roads, this sentence to run concurrently with driving drunk terms.

Josh Rogers, charged with issuing a worthless check, was called and failed to answer. A capias was issued and the case was continued.

The charge against Leroy (Red) Smith of hit-and-run driving was not pressed.

Roy Lee Tyson, charged with larceny, had his case continued until the October term. He has an action coming up in court in September concerning custody of his four children, now with his divorced wife. He agreed in court to pay $20 weekly beginning September 1 to the county welfare officer for the exclusive support of his children.

The Secretary said he hoped Dulles, an advisor to the United States delegation at San Francisco, also would accompany him to subsequent meetings.

ed at the United Nations conference in San Francisco. According to the Political committee, the foreign ministers council will merely draw up treaty and territorial proposals, which then must be ratified by the United Nations organizations.

It is doubtful, however, that smaller nations would have any better luck changing a major provision of a treaty "proposed" by the Big Five than they did in amending Dumbarton Oaks substantially.

Byrnes yesterday indicated his desire to continue a bi-partisan approach to international affairs when he disclosed that John Foster Dulles, foreign affairs advisor to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the 1944 presidential campaign, would accompany him to London.

COURT DOING GREAT WORK

Superior Court Docket Being Rapidly Reduced

By CHESTER WALSH

In Superior Court yesterday afternoon George Junior Dunn and Charles Kinion, white youths, charged with breaking and entering Duke's Service Station, across the river, and the larceny of merchandise and a small sum of money, submitted a plea of breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny and it was accepted by the court.

Judge C. E. Thompson of Elizabeth City sentenced them to serve from three to five years in State Prison. A torn dollar bill taken from the cash register led to the arrest of the men by Greenville police.

Sheriff Ruel Tyson said Kinion, who was serving time for robbery, escaped from a Caldwell county prison camp. The court ordered that Kinion's sentence begin at the expiration of the old sentence.

George Junior Dunn, who was out on bond on two charges of driving drunk and hit-and-run driving and damaging property, when arrested for the service station robbery, benefited by the mercy of the court when Judge Thompson continued judgment in the hit-and-run and property damage cases.

Two cases against Mrs. Elizabeth Burnett, white woman, charging operation of a house of prostitution in Greenville and having liquor for sale, were postponed until October, at the request of the county health officer and a physician.

James Henry Crisp, convicted of larceny by a jury, was required to give $1,000 bond for his appearance at the October term of court.

Roy German, up on two charges of driving a car while drunk, pleaded guilty of one charge and was convicted on the other. He was given three months on the first charge and nine months on the second, and

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers believe nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When this kidney function permits, pain, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

FIDELITY

When the ruins of Pompeii were unearthed, people were found in a variety of postures. Some had been stricken down and lay prostrate; others were in the act of fleeing; some were crouched in horror at the impending disaster. But there was one figure, a Roman soldier, who was found standing at the city gate where he had been placed by his commanding officer—standing in the posture of a soldier on guard, his spear held firmly in his grasp. The ruinous lava poured down upon the city; and while others fled in terror, the soldier stood as he had been placed, doing his duty to the last.

"Put on the whole armor of God," said St. Paul, "that ye may be able to stand in the evil day, and having done so to stand. Stand, therefore, having your loins girt about with truth and having on the breastplate of righteousness."
In war today many a man has manifested the unquestioning obedience this Roman soldier manifested. And in the things of life we are all called upon to stand fast and stick to duty even when the world shakes about us and the hot lava of trouble gathers at our feet. Then do we have to put our trust in One far greater than the Roman Emperor, and to be faithful in spite of our fears.

More About Saturday Closing Hours

Your article in Tuesday's issue regarding Saturday closing was read with interest. It is my honest opinion that you have the backing of every clerk in town, in bringing this matter out in the open.
The stores of Greenville have been closed at 7:00 p. m. on Saturdays for the past six months and I am sure that everyone has benefited by this action. To go back to the old custom of remaining open until 9:00 o'clock would be like substituting kerosene lamps for electric lights, especially since all the neighboring towns close at 7:00 o'clock on Saturdays.

I have always been loyal to my employer and I will continue to do so, and I do not believe it will be necessary, in these modern times, to fall back to ancient customs in order to give an honest day's work.
I feel sure that I speak for the majority when I say that we should continue to close at 7:00 o'clock on Saturdays. And it is my sincere wish that those stores who contemplate staying open until 9:00 o'clock will first give due consideration to their employees and the employees in the other stores in town because cooperation is essential to make these hours fair for everyone.
Respectfully,
Roy Colman

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — Banking government and reputable loan company officials are waking up to the fact that there's a "sleeper" in the Serviceman's Readjustment Act of 1945.
It's in those sections of the bill, rushed through the House in closing days before recess, which would liberalize the loan provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights.
The new measure, it is believed, would leave the door wide open to abuses which would take the veteran, the government and the taxpayer for an expensive joy-ride.
It was originally designed to cut red tape in the government's 50 per cent ($2,000 maximum) guarantee of loans to veterans—an objective which several groups, including the Veterans Administration and the

Back From The War

American Bankers association, admit is a worthy one.
ABA is back of another bill with the same objective, which has been introduced, but not acted upon. VA has taken no official stand, but is expected to when the present House bill reaches hearings before the Senate Finance Committee early in October.

Specifically, the bill would permit banks, building and loan associations, other established lending agencies and even individuals to make 50-per cent government guaranteed loans to veterans without any federal check whatever on whether the investment is a sound one.
After listing established lending agencies, the act adds "any other lending institution or person approved by the Administrator," but doesn't define what shall constitute "approval."
The act provides for loans to be made for purchase, construction or repair of homes, purchase or improvement of farms and farm equipment, or purchase or improvement of business property.

The "sleeper" lies in the fact that the value of the property, the qualifications of the borrower, the soundness of investment or expansion are determined entirely "by the lender's appraisal." Thus the veteran is laid wide open to unscrupulous lenders who could lead him into uncounted ventures.
Under the existing G. I. Bill of Rights, the Veterans Administration itself is responsible for these appraisals.

In view of the fact that farm and real estate prices are so high and that construction and repair materials and farm and business equipment have been virtually unobtainable, VA officials consider this a pretty heavy indication that veterans intend to avail themselves of their loan privileges.
VA, of course, would like to be relieved of the tremendous burden and responsibility of appraising properties, improvements and the veterans themselves. Qualified and responsible lending agencies would be happier if they had more freedom in making the loans.

Many officials, however, are already expressing doubt that blowing the lid off loan restrictions is the way out. Those I have talked to in the VA, the treasury department, banking circles and on Capitol Hill are agreed that loan benefits should be extended to veterans, but without any invitation to the unscrupulous and with some protection to the taxpayers, a fair share of whom, after all, will be the veterans themselves and their families.

The tragic day when I had to surrender, and I'm especially anxious that they be present when we accept the Japanese surrender."
It is to be hoped that this gesture by MacArthur will help Wainwright to overcome his feelings about that surrender. He isn't the type who ever could look on himself as a hero, but the American people would like him to know that they regard him as a hero. We want him to know that Corregidor was a great moral victory, and that it was a mighty inspiration for the fighting men who went on to victory.
Uncle Sam says "Well done" to a gallant man who will go down in history as having contributed much to the Allied cause.
P.S. — Wainwright was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross in Chungking yesterday for extraordinary heroism in action in the Philippines in 1942.

In spite of the efforts by OPA, the cost of clothing has advanced more than any other item that goes into what the government calls the cost of living.

Cost of clothing has advanced more than 45 per cent since war broke out in Europe in 1939. It has increased more than 19 per cent since OPA slapped on its price controls in May, 1942.
A couple of the factors in the increased cost: disappearance of many of the low-priced lines and more money to spend for clothing, by people who before the war with lower incomes contented themselves with much cheaper clothes.

Marine Lt. Col. J. P. S. Devereux and about 1,100 Wake survivors were transferred to Japan last year; the six told correspondents here.
Among the American prisoners of war freed here was Dr. Charles Boynton, Yale graduate and principal of the American school of Shanghai.

South Pacific, who was shot down over Rabaul nearly 20 months ago. Many of the 500, most of them suffering from malnutrition, open wounds, fractures, concussions and burns, were loaded aboard the hospital ship Benevolence and the transport Reeves. The cruiser San Juan and transport Gosselin were also in the mercy force which was under orders from Rear Adm. Robert C. Carney to "take a couple of thousand prisoners."
Today's initial occupation by 18,150 armed Americans and British will be followed by major occupation forces—the Sixth and Eighth armies, which helped MacArthur to fulfill his pledge to return to Manila.
Steel-helmeted Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Swing led the 11th Division Paratroopers from Okinawa to Atsugi. He was the first to touch Japan as the greatest mass air transport of the Pacific got underway.
MacArthur called the cheers and music which greeted him "the sweetest music I ever heard."
The five-star general, wearing his inevitable dark glasses and smoking a long stemmed pipe, was accompanied by his chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland.
Other ranking officers flying in- to Atsugi included Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, whose Eighth Army will occupy the Tokyo area; General Spaatz, commander of the U. S. Army strategic air forces whose Superforts helped bring the Mikado to his knees; Gen. George C. Kenney, commanding the Far East forces, and Lt. Gen. Ennis Whitehead, commander of the Fifth Air Force.
"From Melbourne to Tokyo was a long road," MacArthur said before leaving for Yokohama to set up his headquarters. "It has been a long hard road. But this looks like the payoff."
The surrender plans are going splendidly and completely according to prearrangement.
The Japs seem to be offering us complete good faith and there is every hope for success in the capitulation and that it will continue without friction and without unnecessary bloodshed."
Admiral Nimitz, who watched the landings in Tokyo Bay from his flagship South Dakota, also noted the peacefulness of the occupation.
"I think," he said, "it was because of the emperor."
First seaborne units to land were men of the Second Battalion of the Fourth Regiment of the Sixth Marine Division. Spearheading the naval occupation by 10,650 men, they hit the beach at Cape Putau, narrow, rock-like fortress across a narrow strait from the Yokosuka naval base, at 5:58 a. m. (4:58 p. m.,

Wednesday, SWI)

They quickly made sure that all of Putau's big guns had been already breeched and offered no hazard to Allied warships lying offshore, including Admiral Halsey's flagship, the battleship Missouri.
British ships sent 450 Marines and jacks to accomplish the same task on two tiny guardian islands.
Main tank-equipped Marine forces quickly moved into the naval base, led by Marine Brig. Gen. William Clements. The American flag was run up over the base at 6:36 a. m. (5:36 p. m., Wednesday, Eastern War Time).

In a brief 10-minute ceremony, Admiral Carney, Halsey's chief of staff and head of the Third Fleet's "Dirty Trick Department," accepted the surrender of Yokosuka at 11:12 a. m. (10:12 p. m., yesterday, Eastern War Time).
At about the same time, the cruiser San Diego, flagship of Rear Admiral Oscar C. Badger's task force 31, docked, the first American warship to do so in Japan since the war began.
Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Bataan and Corregidor, left Chungking today for Manila, en route to Tokyo Bay to be present at the surrender.
Another veteran of the early days of the war, General Stilwell, will accept Japan's surrender of Korea. The southern half of the liberated nation will be occupied by the 24th Corps, part of Stilwell's 10th Army.

Today's report showed that to July 1 total Lend-Lease amounted to $32,928,779,000.
In addition Lend-Lease goods amounting to $786,903,000 was assigned to commanding generals in the field: Thus the real total is somewhere near $43,000,000,000. This includes $20,000,000,000 worth of straight munitions shipments. The rest either was for munitions manufacture or for war-supporting civilian use, such as food.
The cost of Lend-Lease, the report showed, represents approximately 15 per cent of the total United States war effort valued at $280,000,000,000.

Most of the exports went to the United Kingdom. These, exclusive of services, were valued at approximately $13,500,000,000.
Russia was the next heaviest recipient, with $9,000,000,000.
Of Russia the report said: "Many of the munitions which we exported under Lend-Lease to the USSR for the war against Germany were used by the Soviet armies in the war against Japan."
"When V-E Day was proclaimed shipments of Lend-Lease supplies to European Russia, with certain minor exceptions, ended. Lend-Lease aid to the Soviet Far East was continued."

The only jarring ration note: OPA indicated tires might be rationed longer than most people believe.
In its estimate of lay-offs, the War Manpower Commission said the cities hardest hit were Detroit, New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Cleveland and Newark.
This was WMC's first official estimate since the fighting stopped 16 days ago.
The farmer emerged as one of the big potential customers for the nation's businessmen and factory workers.
Twenty to 25 per cent of the men on the land want to buy trucks, automobiles, tractors or other farm machinery in the immediate post-war years, an Agriculture Department survey shows.

Next on the farmers' "want list" are household furnishings and other equipment, electric power and improvements, more land, home improvements, and farm building improvements.
American consumers increased their spending to a record annual rate of $104 billions in the first quarter of 1945.

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

By George Rector
Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

An "As You Like It" Picnic

When you're doubtful that the weather will be appropriate for an out-of-doors picnic, play safe and plan two menus... one for a "cook-your-own" supper, one for a porch spread... both using the same ingredients. Then, when the day dawns, you can proceed according to the dictates of the weather man... as suggested by the illustrations below.

MOR Scrambled Eggs

Dice 1 can MOR Brown slightly in 4 tbsp. fat with 1/4 cup minced onion. Add 12 Clear Brook Eggs after breaking the yolks with a fork and beating only slightly. When set and slightly brown, turn in six sections and finish cooking. Serves 6.

Cater to Weather

If it's rainy and sultry in the morning, better plan to have that picnic on the porch. Make the potato salad in the morning and let it chill all day, long while flavors mingle. Complete the menu with sliced MOR sandwiches, deviled Clear Brook Eggs, assorted relishes and iced watermelon.

He's on Your Side

But if the weather man is on your side and you decide to tie to the woods or back yard to cook your dinner, MOR Scrambled Eggs, baked or hashed brown potatoes and relishes with nature-chilled watermelon (watermelon wrapped in a wet gunny sack and kept moistened) will be an easy menu to prepare.

Picnic Tricks

Ever try roasting Certified Frankfurters in a wire corn popper over a bed of coals? It's as much fun as toasting them on sticks... and much quicker, in case you're hungry.
In the absence of frankfurter buns, slice a loaf of bread lengthwise and cut each slice in quarters thus and it fits the franks just right.
Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash and Fried Clear Brook Eggs are another delicious cook-on-the-spot suggestion. They're handy to keep on the refrigerator, of course, and are quickly prepared once you're ready to eat.

Yours for a good time,
George Rector

Al Benton's form reversal has Detroit fans guessing today with the early-season sensation running a three-game losing streak and the Tigers' lead sliced to a single length.

The ex-savior who started the 1945 campaign with five successive victories hasn't been pitching bad ball but he hasn't won since Aug. 6 and hasn't finished any of his last five starting jobs.

The Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and Washington knocked him off the hill, the Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland shaded him after he had given way to a relief artist and last night the St. Louis Browns beat him, 5-4.

With 33 games to go and the race still open to any one of five clubs, Steve O'Neill once again has to bank heavily on his Hal Newhouse-Dizzy Trout combine. Newhouse has copped 21 and Trout, although way behind in 1944 pace has captured 13 and four of his last five.

Benton's defeat by the Browns came at the hands of Bob Muncief who is just about the hottest thing in the league at the moment. His sore arm almost cost St. Louis the pennant last summer but he has the best win record (10-2) in either league.

Washington fumbled another chance to close in on the Tigers when they split a two-night double-header with the Philadelphia, taking the first, 3-2, but bowing in the finale, 2-1.

Lefty Vic Johnson chilled New York's chances of moving ahead with a 1-0 job on behalf of Boston. A Cleveland at Chicago tilt was postponed because of wet grounds.

Cincinnati's tattered Reds, who had won only four of their last 25 before St. Louis came to town, continued to blast the Cardinals' hopes of repeating by making it two in a row, 3-1.

Chicago stretched its National League advantage to 4-1-2 games by knocking off Pittsburgh, 2-0. After Ray Prim wilted in the 91-degree heat, By Vandenberg came on to complete the whitewash job against Nick Strincevich. With Phil Cavaretta returning home for treatment for his shoulder ailment and Don Johnson injured, Bill Nicholson and Stan Hack again resumed their positions in the Cubs lineup.

Two unearned runs against Philly Dick Barrett enabled Brooklyn to keep his flag hopes alive with a second straight 2-1 verdict behind Curt Davis. Barrett committed a talk, permitting one score and the other resulted from Jimmy Waddell's boot of Dixie Walker's bounce.

New York and Boston again had an open date.

Reorganize County Tuberculosis Group

At a meeting at the health department Tuesday the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association was reorganized, with the following officers: J. Herbert Waldrop, Greenville, president; Dr. M. T. Frizzelle, Ayden; W. Jasper Smith, Bethel, vice president; Mrs. M. T. Matlock, Greenville, treasurer, and Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Greenville, secretary.

June H. Rose was appointed chairman of the committee on Constitution and By-laws, and Ralph M. Garrett, chairman of the Committee to Secure a Local Sanatorium. Other committees, among them a committee to study the necessity for a tuberculosis worker, are to be appointed.

The meeting was addressed by Frank W. Webster, Raleigh, executive secretary, North Carolina Tuberculosis Association. Among other things Mr. Webster called attention to the very high tuberculosis death rate in Pitt county and urged the establishment of a county sanatorium. He commended the local health department for having established free monthly tuberculosis clinics in the county, and he approved the present policy of spending seal sale money for free X-rays to deserving patients. He praised the seal sale workers for the success of the seal sale campaign, stating that Pitt county raised over $4,000 last year for tuberculosis control work.

One or another of the reports pointed accusing fingers at half a dozen men in high position, including Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and former Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

There were no recommendations for courts martial or punishment. And President Truman indicated there would be no military trials. The full story has not yet been told.

Declaring he wouldn't stand for "any whitewash," May said last night in a radio program that "the people are entitled to know the whole truth based on all the facts pertaining to this grave disaster."

The Kentuckian called for a "full fair and open trial" of Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short and Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, the army and navy commanders at Pearl Harbor at the outbreak of the war.

These documents brought sharply into focus a number of points previously unknown or obscured. For example:

- 1. Kimmel was advised by Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, on November 24, 1941, that "a surprise aggressive movement in any direction, including an attack on the Philippines or Guam, is a possibility."
2. A diary of Secretary Edmonson said the late President Roosevelt declared at a White House conference November 25 that Japan might attack by December 1.
3. Secretary Hull gave the Japa-

Marshall did not receive word of this until the following morning. Then he messaged Short by commercial radio saying the Japanese were presenting what amounted to an ultimatum at 1 p. m. Eastern War Time.

The message reached Honolulu 22 minutes before the attack on Pearl Harbor began, but it wasn't decoded and delivered to the adjutant general until 7 hours and 3 minutes after the fighting started.

10. The Japanese began training for the strike in July or August in their home waters.

11. The intelligence officer of the Pacific fleet declared later that had American forces intercepted he believed they would have "taken the licking of their life."

Fleet units at Pearl Harbor, he said, would have been unable to have brought the enemy under gunfire because our battleships were too slow and the remainder of the force probably would have suffered severe damage, if not defeat, because of the superior Japanese air power.

The navy inquiry board said the attack on Pearl Harbor, under circumstances then existing, "was unpreventable and that when it would take place was unpredictable."
