CAPITAL WILL PAY HONOR TO WAINWRIGHT

Welcome For Hero Of Bataan To Exceed That Given General Eisenhower Last June; General Will Make Full Report To War Department On Jap Cruelties

Washington, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Bataan, returned to the capital today from the trials of Bataan and the horrors of Japanese prisons.

The hero of Bataan arrived at the capital's national airport at 12:26 p. m. (EWT). His wife, "Kitty" was waiting to greet him as he stepped from an army transport command plane at the national airport.

General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, accompanied Mrs. Wainwright.

Other high ranking army officers stood in line to meet the returning hero.

It was their first reunion in over four years.

More than 2,000 people and two bands greeted him at the airport.

They had only a few moments together. "Skinny" Wainwright had to answer the acclaim of a crowded and cheering capital.

To get the couple began an appearance-packed day of parading through flag bedecked streets.

Appearance before Congress and a White House meeting with President Truman.

The army commander who fought the Japanese on Bataan against overwhelming odds until his small force ran out of ammunition was accompanied here by four comrades who shared that ordeal with him.

Wainwright was suffering with toothache, but he was not to be stopped for a treatment. But there was no immediate indication that it would interfere with his reception and round of speech-making.

Wainwright and his party, including his son, Comdr. Jonathan M. Wainwright of the Merchant Marine, left Hamilton Field, Calif., at 8:58 p. m. (EWT) shortly after a three-hour San Francisco parade beneath a flight of P-38s and Superfortresses.

Mrs. Wainwright arrived by plane last night after a motor trip from her home at Skaneateles, N. Y.

"I keep thinking I'm going to wake up and find it all a dream," she said.

Wainwright's plane scheduled one stop, to refuel at Omaha, Neb.

His reception here called for a whirlwind pace until late in the afternoon to be climaxed by a meeting with President Truman at the White House at 3 p. m.

Early on his schedule was a promised report to the War Department on his treatment by the Japanese during 40 months of imprisonment.

Gaunt and plainly showing the effects of abuse, the general previously had declined to comment on reports that he had been slapped by his guards.

Reconversion Congress To Tackle Many Major Issues

HUTSON WILL SPEAK HERE

To Address Farmers Court House Thursday Night

J. B. Hutson, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, will speak at the Pitt County annual Farm Bureau meeting on Thursday night, September 13, at 8:00 p. m. Dr. Mark T. Frizzelle, president of the county organization, announced today. The meeting will be held in the Pitt County court room.

Dr. Frizzelle stated that Mr. Hutson's speech will be of very timely interest to all farmers and businessmen in Pitt County and surrounding counties, especially those interested in tobacco and peanuts. Mr. Hutson will discuss the post-war situation of farm commodities and programs to meet post-war conditions, as well as the reorganization of the Department of Agriculture to meet post-war conditions. Farmers and businessmen should be interested in finding out the effects of the closing of the war on farm commodities and begin making preparations. (Continued on Page Two)

Nominations

Washington, Sept. 10.—(AP)—President Truman sent several nominations to the senate today, including:

David E. Henderson for U. S. attorney for western North Carolina, succeeding Theron Lamar Caudle, resigned.

Large Peacetime Navy And Other Important Matters To Get Attention

Washington, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Congress concerned itself today with the hero of Bataan and the culprit—if any—of Pearl Harbor. It starts the first full week of its "reconversion" session by formally receiving Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and acting on a resolution for a congressional investigation into the military disaster of December 7, 1941.

Otherwise on Capitol Hill there was talk on such diverse subjects as a peacetime navy, surplus property, airports, wages and hours, the atomic bomb and presidential appointments.

General Wainwright, who finally surrendered the Philippines to the Japanese after a valiant fight, was scheduled to make a personal appearance in the Senate and the House.

This was the situation on other matters:

Peacetime Navy: Congress heard today that the navy wants a post-war fleet of 1,079 fighting ships—just 229 less than it has now. The chairman of the Senate and House Naval committees—Senator Walsh (D-Mass.) and Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.)—plan to introduce resolutions to permit this. They added that their committees probably will hold off on a decision until members can study the effect the atomic bomb and robot bombs might have on future warfare at sea.

The navy's idea would be to keep all three of the 42,000-ton aircraft carriers we now have, 24 of 27 of the 27,000-ton carriers, all ten of our 11,000-ton carriers, all 79 of our escort carriers and 18 out of 24 battleships. Of the total postwar fleet, however, only one-third of it would be kept fully manned, another third would be partially manned and the remainder would be held idle as an emergency backlog.

Negro Slays White Woman Near Hugo

Kinston, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Sheriff Sam R. Churchill announced today that Allgood King, 32-year-old farm hand, had confessed the killing of Mrs. Raymond Hardy early Sunday in her home near Hugo, ten miles northeast of Kinston. He had been placed in an undisclosed jail because he was reported to be running high in the Hugo community.

The body of Mrs. Hardy, 32, with the throat slit was found by her husband in her bedroom when he returned about 5 a. m. from a business trip to Kinston.

His three small daughters were along with their dead mother when he arrived. The oldest is seven.

Sheriff Churchill said bloodstains followed a trail from the Hardy home to King's home in nearby Greene County.

King, when questioned, the officer reported, admitted striking Mrs. Hardy on the head with a fruit jar and slashing her throat with a pocket knife but denied criminally assaulting her.

His bloody shirt and trousers were found where he had hidden them, Churchill said.

HOUSE DELAYS VOTE ON PEARL HARBOR PROBE

Favorable Action On The Measure To- morrow Considered A Certainty

Washington, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Final action on legislation calling for a congressional investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster was deferred today by the House until tomorrow.

At the suggestion of Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts the House set aside one hour for debate the proposal tomorrow, with the understanding amendments could be offered freely.

Republicans have served notice they would offer an amendment to give them equal representation on the investigating committee.

As passed unanimously by the Senate last week, the legislation calls for an inquiry by a ten-member committee, three Democrats and two Republicans from each branch. House Republicans want three from each party from each branch.

With the outcome virtually a foregone conclusion, interest in the case was heightened by two other questions:

1. Whether Rear Adm. Husband Kimmel, naval commander at the Pacific bastion when the Japanese struck, will request the court martial the Navy has offered him.

2. Whether still secret Navy documents should be made public against official wishes.

These two questions were raised over the weekend as the result of a letter from Secretary of the Navy Forrestal to Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the Senate Naval Committee. Walsh released portions of the letter.

In it Forrestal disclosed that he had offered Kimmel an open trial in a letter dated August 28, the day before President Truman released the findings of Army and Navy boards set up to investigate the military disaster.

Kimmel, who long ago had demanded a court martial, did not reply immediately, and a second letter was sent last week. There has been no announcement of any response. (Continued on Page Four)

Holding Civil Term Of Superior Court

Judge Charles Everett Thompson of Elizabeth City convened a one-week civil term of Superior Court here today.

Twenty actions for divorce, the majority of them for two years' separation, were on the calendar for trial today.

A number of minor cases are scheduled for hearing Tuesday. Hearings are set Wednesday for the suits of Henry Edwards, Francis Edwards, Mary Edwards and Thomas Edwards against the Seashore Transportation Company.

Declares History May Blame War On America

By MURLIN SPENCER and RUSSELL BRINES

(Copyright 1945 by the AP)

Gen. Hideki Tojo, who as Japan's war-making premier launched the attack on Pearl Harbor, declared in an exclusive interview today that the American victory now could fix responsibility for starting the war but that history might disagree.

The one-time terror of Asia, who now is living quietly on his comfortable farm outside Tokyo, refused flatly to discuss such questions as whether he expected to be tried as a war criminal and what defense he was preparing, but was willing to talk of many things, in moods ranging from steady-eyed impassivity to hearty laughter.

A little earlier, a formerly high-placed Japanese politician had told us that Tojo expected to be tried as a war criminal and hoped to accuse President Roosevelt of being the world's top war criminal, then committing suicide in traditional hara kiri fashion. Of this Tojo himself sharply refused to speak.

His whole attitude he expressed in this statement: "Real soldiers fight to the finish in the field. War ends when peace is declared. Each respects an enemy who fights hard and cleanly and so MacArthur has respect of myself as the Japanese people."

Asked who was responsible for starting the war, the man who was premier and virtual dictator of Japan before Pearl Harbor until the Americans took Saipan, replied: "You are the victors and you are able to name him now. But historians 500 or 1,000 years from now may judge differently."

Tojo's home is new, in the Yoga district about an hour's drive from the Imperial Palace and a half-hour from the Meiji Shrine where the U. S. First Cavalry Division is bivouacked.

When we first saw him, Tojo was lying back in a garden chair, supervising a solitary laborer who was filling in a cellar-like air raid shelter of concrete.

Tojo, consequently, said that he and his family had saved themselves in that shelter in the fire raid which was a small building within five feet of his home and wrecked the surrounding district.

"You burned my three best pine trees," said the man whose armies destroyed most of Asia. "Now I have to replace them with bamboo." (Now I have to replace them with bamboo.)

We were taken to the place by Jiji G. Kasal, a liberal parliamentarian who was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1913 and who acted as interpreter for us. Kasal lost his seat in the Diet in 1942 through pressure brought by Tojo's totalitarian party, the Imperial Rule Assistance Association.

Kasal said he had visited Tojo only ten days ago to pay his respects for the sake of the general's son-in-law, Major Koga, who committed hara kiri upon failure of a conspiracy to prevent the emperor's peace announcement from reaching the public.

Tojo's neat one-story residence is possibly the most discussed house in Asia. It has been built since he fell from power, and the Japanese say it is far more elaborate than any he would permit to be built under his regime.

The house is a strange mixture of western and Japanese architecture. A tan stucco front porch makes it look like an ordinary suburban American home, but the main part is entirely Japanese, with big spacious rooms and glass sliding windows and panels, some of which are still covered with adhesive tape strips, relics of air raid days.

The house, some sources say, was some sort of bribe.

The politician who earlier informed us of Tojo's plan to accuse Roosevelt of war responsibility, insisted that the former premier was roundly hated by the Japanese public. (Continued on Page Four)

Australian Press And Public Show Dis- satisfaction Over Gen- eral MacArthur's "Kid Glove" Policy; Koreans Term Ac- tion "A Slap In The Face"

Sydney, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Australian press and public today showed mounting dissatisfaction over what many derided as General MacArthur's "kid glove" peace policy for Japan.

This reaction included bitter criticism of MacArthur and praise for Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander in chief of the Australian army.

Newspapers used editorials and huge headlines to describe Japanese atrocities and to express displeasure with any easy peace for Japan.

Blunt language was heard on all sides on streets and in public vehicles. The reaction also was revealed in interviews and letters published in newspapers.

(Tokyo, Sept. 10.—(AP)—General MacArthur struck Japanese militarism a death blow today by ordering the Imperial General Headquarters abolished and simultaneously clamped a press and radio censorship on the beaten empire.

As supreme commander he issued a directive that the headquarters must dissolve by Sept. 13. General headquarters was set up in 1940 a few months before Pearl Harbor to coordinate army and navy activity.

While the occupation of Japan moved smoothly, sparks flew in Korea over MacArthur's policy of retaining Japanese officials in office.

Koreans demonstrated in Seoul (Keijo) and termed it "a slap in the face" when Lt. Gen. John H. Hodge, 24th Army Corps commander at Jinju, Saturday, claimed that Japanese administrative officials would continue in office. They had expected quick freedom from the Nipponese.

Hodge, after accepting surrender of southern Korea (the Russians control the northern half), quickly explained that the Japanese government and his staff would remain in office only to carry out American orders and would be allowed no independent action.

Vice Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher and his North Pacific naval forces accepted Japan's surrender of all northern Honshu and the northernmost home island of Hokkaido at Ominato naval base Sunday. Japanese were ordered to disarm and to continue their civil administration.

MacArthur simultaneously issued two statements from his new headquarters in the U. S. embassy in Tokyo. One pledged that Japanese militarism would be eliminated. The other assured his troops they would go home as soon as peace could be made secure.

In his first statement he explained that the Japanese would rule themselves, subject to his orders and with occupation troops ready to enforce his decisions if necessary. He warned his own troops to respect the rights of Japanese: "Looting, pillage, rape . . . would . . . (Continued on page four)

Quisling Is Convicted; Condemned To Death

Execution Of Norwegian Traitor To Be Carried Out Within Three Weeks

London, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The Oslo radio announced today that Vidkun Quisling had been convicted of charges of high treason and condemned to death.

The pronouncing of the sentence by the court that tried Quisling for cooperation with the Germans during the occupation of Norway was broadcast direct from the courtroom.

Under the new law legalizing the death penalty in Norway, the sentence will be executed by a military firing squad composed of 10 soldiers firing 10 bullets.

Under the law Quisling can appeal to the Supreme Court which can commute the sentence but cannot reverse it.

The presiding judge at Quisling's trial, however, was Erik Solem who also is a Supreme Court justice and thus one of the group which would pass on any appeal.

Unless Quisling is held for purposes of giving evidence in other war crimes cases, it is likely the execution will be carried out within three weeks.

Quisling, 58, was a major in Norway's pre-war army and a former defense minister. The prosecution during the three weeks trial accused him of meeting Hitler, Grand Admiral Erich Raeder and other of the high German officials in December, 1939, and urging them to invade Norway.

He was charged with turning over Norwegian offense data to the Germans, and on the day of the invasion, April 9, 1940, it was charged he went to the government offices and personally telephoned certain garrisons and gave instructions not to resist the Nazis. It was through his agency that German troops were introduced into Norway's harbors in the holds of coal and freight ships, the prosecution asserted. (Continued on Page Four)

Middle Belt To Open Tomorrow

Henderson, Sept. 10.—(AP)—North Carolina Middle Belt tobacco markets, which will open tomorrow, will follow the four-sales per week schedule in effect in the state's Eastern and the Carolinas Border belts.

F. S. Royster, president of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association, said an estimated 750,000 pounds of tobacco already are on warehouse floors of the belt, with more than 1,000,000 pounds expected for the start of the season tomorrow.

Grand Bodies To Meet
Charlotte, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The annual convocation of Grand York Rite Masons of North Carolina will be held here Oct. 14-16. Usually held in May, the meeting was postponed last spring because of travel restrictions.

PROGRESS ON MASON HOME

Drive For Additional Funds To Begin Soon

Work of reconstructing the Cobb home, corner West Fifth and Pitt streets, into quarters for the local Masonic bodies is progressing and James W. Brewer, master of Greenville Lodge 284 A.F. and A.M. stated today that he hopes to hold the first meeting there on the third of Monday night in October.

Brewer further stated that about $5,000 is needed for the remodeling work and purchasing of furnishings and that a drive among the members of the fraternity will get under way at once in order that there might be no debt whatever on the lodge when the building is ready for occupancy.

While the building was purchased by and in the name of Greenville Lodge 284 it will be used to house (Continued on Page Six) is worldwide. Keep saving. Tin is especially short. The supply is in the Far East. No one knows how much—or how soon—the U. S. can start buying tin from the Dutch.

De-tinning factories, which salvage the tin from our tin cans, are operating at capacity. If you have not been flattening yours, start at once. And keep saving.

During the war you were urged to go into special lines of work, remember? These were bottlenecked industries; industries which could toss a monkey wrench into the entire war machine if they failed to produce.

But reconversion has bottlenecks, too. Coal is No. 1. Without coal, factories close up. Thirty thousand more coal miners are needed right now.

Lumbering is No. 2. The construction business always produces one of the loudest notes in our industrial harmony.

If it's sour, the whole thing is sour. Thousands of lumberjacks are needed throughout the Northwest and the South.

Forty thousand nurses are needed. The army doesn't need them. It is civilian nurses who are needed.

Schools need students who show they can be turned into doctors, dentists, chemists, engineers. You can't do all of this, of course. But each of you can do a little bit. A little bit multiplied by 130,000,000 is a whole of a lot.

The WORLD TODAY

An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The big five council of foreign ministers, meeting in London tomorrow, will in effect constitute a clinic which will give Europe a drastic overhauling and determine the real state of peace's health.

This council was established at the Potsdam meeting of the big three, the nucleus of course, is America, Russia and Britain—to which France and China were added. The task assigned the council was "to continue the necessary work for the peace settlement." It was specified that the treaty with Italy would be first on the list.

Now the very nature of this assignment means that the foreign ministers are bound to uncover any weakness in the relations of the big five. Of special moment will be the status of the relationship among the big three, upon whom so largely depends the maintenance of world peace. We shall learn whether the divergence of views—which certainly exists in some particulars among this mighty trio—is serious.

This is to say, the affairs of Italy are so complicated that other problems likely will have to be solved before a treaty can be drawn up. The way things look now, the badly tangled skein of Balkan politics will have to be straightened out, and that is one of the hot-spots where Russia, on the one hand, and the Anglo-American Allies, on the other, don't see eye to eye.

Here the highly delicate question of spheres of influence arises. Before the war British influence was dominant in Greece and was strong in Turkey. In the rest of the Balkans and Hungary, Hitler was in control, although both Rumania and Yugoslavia at heart were pro-British. Now with Germany out of the picture, the entire situation has changed.

Russian influence has supplanted that of Germany. Britain still is big brother to Greece, but the latter is torn with a bitter struggle between the extreme right and the Greek Communists, the latter claiming that they are kept from power by British intervention. This situation naturally brings no applause from Moscow. On the other hand Britain and America don't feel that the present governments of Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary are representative of democratic regimes, whereas they are satisfactory to Russia.

This whole argument revolves about the spread of Communism in eastern and southeastern Europe. It will have to be ironed out, and so far as one can see it will fall to the council of foreign ministers to do it, for their clinic not only will diagnose but prescribe.

There is talk that the peace treaties with Finland, Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary may be postponed until governments satisfactory to all the big three have been established. Coupled with this is speculation that Moscow may not see fit to sign an Italian treaty until a settlement has been worked out for all the Axis satellite states.

The Italian treaty involves not only the Axis satellite states but also the war British influence was

COUNTY FAIR OCT. 15-20

Fireworks, Midway, Exhibits To Feature Legion Event

By CHESTER WALSH The 10th annual Pitt County Fair, sponsored by the Farmville and Greenville posts of the American Legion, will be held at the Fair Grounds, opposite the radio station, the week of October 15-20, inclusive.

Manager A. J. Grey, who has successfully directed the fair here for many years, is in Greenville. He announced that the fair offices will be in the armory, where the American Legion has headquarters. Mrs. Grey is expected to arrive here shortly.

The Lawrence Greater Shows will feature the Midway at the fair this year, with many new shows and some original and novel rides. For the first time since the war started there will be a grand display of fireworks nightly.

Manager Grey said $500 has been added to the premium list for exhibits by farm groups, farm women and others. Special premiums will be awarded for tobacco grown in Pitt county. There will be ample space for the exhibits.

Wednesday will be children's day at the fair, when they will be admitted free—they only have to pay a few cents tax. Children's Day will be for white and negro children.

The advance sale of tickets will begin on September 27. Group tickets good for five admissions will be sold for a dollar, plus tax.

The fair will be bigger and better than ever, and everybody is invited to attend, Manager Grey said today.

Jaycees Plan For Expansion Memphis, Sept. 10—(AP)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce is preparing to set up an international organization.

The Jaycees' national executive committee in convention here, laid plans yesterday for a meeting in Panama City, Panama, next February 12 to draft a world charter.

The meeting will be attended by representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and all south and central American countries.

Hal Herman of Chicago, executive vice president of the body, told delegates from 13 states yesterday that the United States Junior Chamber now had 78,000 active members and 85,000 inactive members in the armed forces.

Women IN THE CHURCH by Mary Fowler

Local radio stations throughout the county will cooperate in observance of World Community Day on November 2, when, under United Council of Church Women sponsorship, church women will unite interdenominationally with other community organizations to study "The Price of an Enduring Peace"...

Through the cooperation of the Council's radio chairman, Miss Jane Tiffany Wagner, of the National Broadcasting Company, and Miss Dorothy Lewis, director of Listener Activity of the National Association of Broadcasters, arrangements are made for church women to secure local radio time for one or more broadcasts. Among cities where programs are now scheduled are New York, Indianapolis, Dallas, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Syracuse, N. Y. Others are urged to do so within the near future.

"The cry of mankind today is 'Progress,' while plans for the future are dazzling in their concept; but if the religion of Jesus Christ is left out of those plans, our nation will surely go the way of all godless lands," says Mrs. Grace Neel Crowell, poet and author. "Paradoxically there is only one way to progress, and that is by going back to the teachings of Christ. Make Christ the head of the home and there will be no delinquent children; make him a counselor and there will be no corruption in politics; make him a leader and there will be no limit to our progress as a nation. For years the churches have been knocking at the door of all homes, striving to awaken men to the need of spiritual fitness through religious education. Now is the time to heed that clear, wise call. Let us go forward by going back to the too often neglected teachings of that great educator: Jesus of Nazareth."

"Our lay people are beginning to realize their responsibility if America and the world are to become decent places in which to live," says Mrs. Leslie R. Swain, president of the Northern Baptist Convention, in urging observance of Religious Education Week, September 20 to October 7. "No one factor can be more productive in building the really Christian community for which we all long than the work being carried on in the church schools of the world. Here young and old alike are instructed in the truths which alone can set men free."

Chapter 14

Jane ventured a look at Judge Morgan and relaxed. He was old and wise with age, and he had about an air of assurance one could not find in a younger man.

"Mark"—Mrs. Stanton turned her attention on him—"I hope you don't mind my bursting in on you this morning. I believe Judge Morgan will handle my interests with more ability and, perchance, assist Mr. Sheridan in developing this company to be of some use to our national war effort.

"Now, Judge, I'll return to the house. Mr. Sheridan, if that foot of yours isn't paining you too greatly, appreciate your dining with me and my lady. You and this young lady—was it Miss James? At the Grand, then, at seven? Goodbye."

Miss Carter rose as Mrs. Stanton left, then dropped back to his chair. Jane, turning to leave the office, found him watching her.

"It takes 51 shares," he remarked suddenly.

"Fifty-one shares. Jane sat at her desk, apparently perusing a report, in reality considering Carter's words. Gram had 35 shares, Mark Sheridan 15, or 50 votes for Sheridan's plans. Did that mean Carter controlled the other 50? If so, the Sheridan Pump Company was a stalemate.

She'd have to attend a board meeting. Board meeting? Why, one is scheduled for that very evening. Did Gram forget?

She awaited her opportunity to speak to Mark Sheridan alone. He had insisted upon hobbling out to Judge Morgan's car, and now he was back to him; he probably wasn't Jane reasoned.

"Mr. Sheridan," Jane asked, when he finally rang for her "I wonder if you had a board meeting for tonight?"

Mark Sheridan looked up, smiling. "No, I might be well for you to remember that Mrs. Stanton never forgets anything. The meeting will be held after the dinner; I imagine that was her idea in including you and Miss James. The meetings are always held at the Grand."

Evelyn was excited. In her absence the previous evening, Hazel had surreptitiously moved her personal belongings. They stood stacked in the living room.

"And I haven't a thing to wear," she said.

"Wear what you have on," Jane told her. "I intend to remember, and only being fed so we can work more efficiently later. Oh—"

"Why are you pacing the floor?" she stopped short, then motioned Evelyn to the kitchen. "Have you ever felt the walls have developed a life?" she whispered. "Ridiculous, I do. I want to get in touch with my Highness. She won't dare telephone me, and incoming calls to her will be checked in some way."

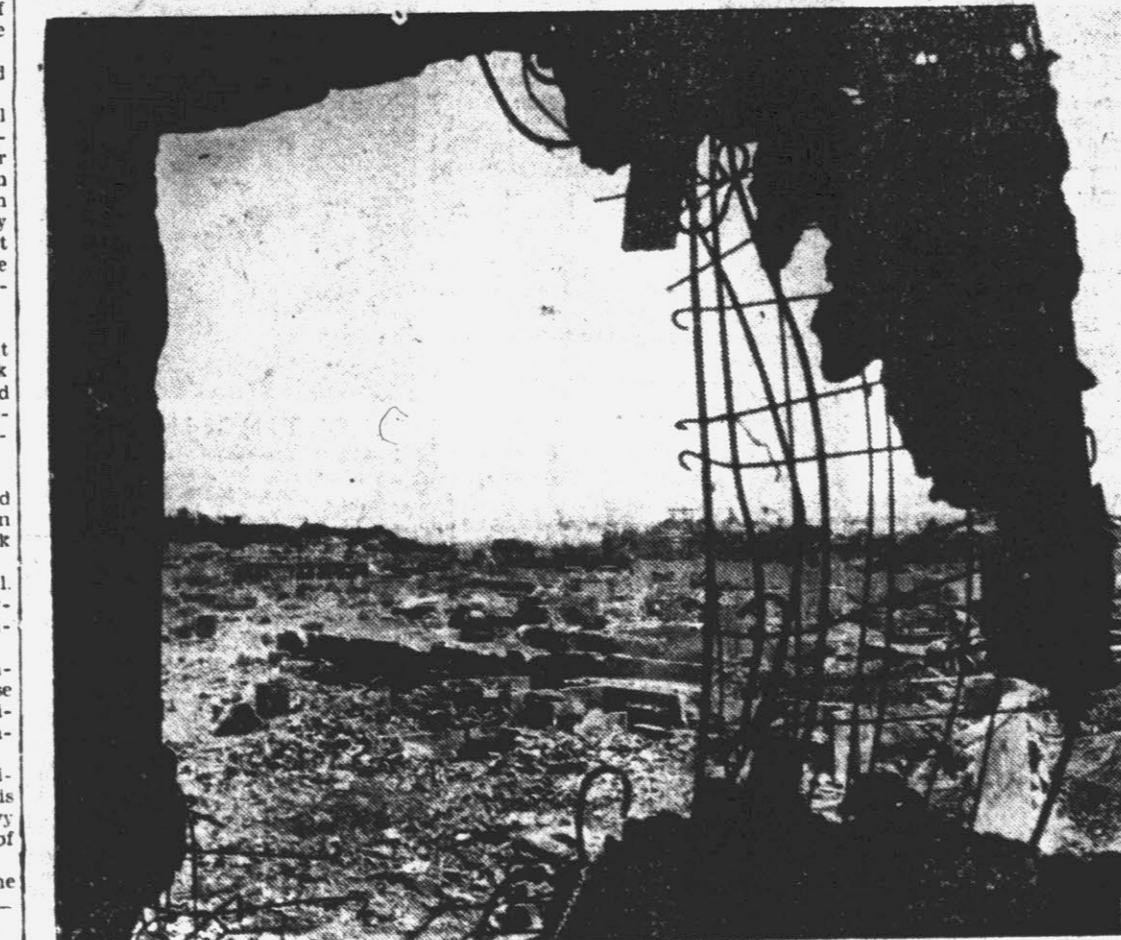

"How about a telegram?"

"To Judge Morgan," agreed Jane, and hurried toward the telephone to turn it into the bedroom and back in soft-soled slippers.

She wrote something on a match pad, handed it to Evelyn and asked her to hold down the receiver while she was purportedly writing it to a telegraph operator, in knicked at the chair so it slid across his foot. That's when Mr. Sheridan taunted.

Mark Sheridan lay on Judge Morgan's hotel room bed, his pain eased by opiates.

The telephone rang, and the Judge started toward it.

"That will probably be someone calling us to the board meeting," said Sheridan. "Tell them we'll be down in a minute."

"You won't," countered Sheridan's doctor, now at his bedside. "Mark, don't you ever know when you've had enough? You're going to the hospital. That fool managed to break what hadn't been smashed before. I'm going to put that pedal of yours in a cast."

"Look here, Doc, if I don't get to that meeting it isn't going to matter whether or not I have a foot."

"It will matter a lot to me, young man," said Mrs. Stanton tartly. "Just remember I have a lot of money tied up in your pumps. Now that I have my eyes open, no one's going to put anything over on me."

"If only 35 votes are represented on one side and fifty on the other, I'll go to the hospital to take it; when it's business you'll go. I took the copy of that wire Mr. Guffery sent you and gave it to him."

And now it was Jane's turn to ask. "And what did he say?"

"I explained Carter had taken a dislike to you and wired Guffery. I told him about your talk with Carter that noon. And I told him Guffery had sent you the copy of his wire, probably to tip you off to how Carter felt about you. He seemed terribly upset."

Jane sat up straight. "Upset? Why?"

"Afraid you'd go back to Guffery because he, Mr. Sheridan, couldn't pay you enough to hold you. Well, if I'm going to be worth anything tomorrow, I'd better get some sleep. Good night."

"Jane," said Evelyn sleepily a few moments later, "awake?"

"Definitely."

"Do you know why Mark Sheridan can remember your name so well now?"

Jane stirred uneasily. It was ridiculous to associate this sudden feeling of exhilaration with the sound of Mark Sheridan's name. "No," she replied blandly, "I hadn't thought of it."

"It means he's not afraid of you. He knows you're not going to make blankets around their shoulders,

If history teaches one lesson with insistence and firmness it is that God Almighty does not intend that any one man or any one nation shall rule the world.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STENNETT

(First of Three Articles)

Washington — When President Truman appointed Edwin W. Pauley Allied reparations commissioner, with the personal rank of ambassador, some commentators observed that the President was paying off a political obligation incurred at the Democratic convention when Pauley backed him strongly for the vice-presidential nomination.

This observation was a laugh then and has become a greater one. There's no doubt that President Truman, the late President Roosevelt, the Democratic party and the war effort have, or should have, Pauley listed among their creditors.

But appointing him reparations commissioner to the Moscow conference was putting the debt deeper in the red.

If he should be appointed, as some now are predicting, our next federal loan administrator, that would be writing with ink of a different color.

The 42-year-old California oil man is just about the administration's top blue ribbon winner of thankless tasks.

In 1936 the Democratic party handed him the job of raising campaign funds in 11 western states.

In 1942 he took over as secretary treasurer of the party and by last year had not only aimed out a $750,000 deficit but, according to National Committee Chairman Frank Walker, put the party on a sounder financial basis than it ever had been.

In the meantime Pauley had performed a big chore for which he has had no public credit.

The story starts back in 1940 when Pauley took a look at the war potentialities in the world petroleum situation and started bombarding President Roosevelt with telegrams expressing his alarm.

only the frontiers of Italy in Europe but Rome's large African possessions in Europe the situation is complicated by the claim of Yugoslavia's leftist government to the Italian port of Trieste. In Africa there are even bigger problems.

For instance, I found when I was in Libya in 1942 that the native Senussi were looking for their independence. They wanted to establish the chief of the Senussi—who is the religious head of his people as king. There were indications, too, that Egypt might demand a slice of eastern Libya. Whatever happens in Africa, Britain certainly will want a big say in the settlement.

The informant begged that he remain anonymous, saying, "If the people knew I visited him they would kill me."

Quoting a friend in the Foreign Office, this informant said Tojo intended to commit suicide as soon as he had made his expected court defense.

Other sources reported that Tojo had amassed a fortune of millions of yen during his tenure of office, most of it coming from the illicit opium trade in China, where his generals acted as couriers to take the drug from North China to Shanghai markets.

Despite his power, Tojo's downfall was a foregone conclusion to the Japanese after the loss of Japan. These sources said that for days after the island was lost, Tojo's telephone rang and anonymous voices asked his wife, "Hasn't Tojo committed hara kiri yet?"

While Tojo's police bodyguard stared, we walked through the gate and to his front door.

A young man in odds and ends of an army uniform was working on a midget car which had a bright blue paint job but lacked one wheel. Our interpreter wrote our names on a card and asked the young man to deliver it to Tojo. He departed with a deep bow, but returned very quickly to say that Tojo would not see us.

Kasai refused to take no for an answer from the man who once could have thrown him readily into secret torture chambers.

Carrying the card, he walked into the garden and motioned us to follow. Tojo, sitting on his chair, had his back to us and was unaware of our approach until we were within a few feet. Kasai then told him the purpose of our visit.

Tojo shook his shaven head vigorously. His face was set and very stern. We stood there.

Finally, with a slight shrug he permitted introductions and held out his hand.

This would be Napoleon of the Orient is only 5 feet, four inches and appears to weigh about 120 pounds.

Nevertheless, he is stocky and appears strong for his 61 years.

Tojo obviously was still highly displeased by our intrusion and curtly declined to discuss the war.

Then he apparently decided to make the best of the situation by employing reparations. Throughout life he has done this, with a mental keenness and ability at subterfuge that won him the army nickname of "Razor Brain."

Although Japanese must obey his orders, issued through their own imperial government, they will be free from "all unwarranted interference with their individual liberty and property rights," he explained.

A light censorship was placed over Japanese newspapers Sunday, but there has been no attempt to control their editorials or propaganda.

Occupation troops will be sent home, MacArthur said, "as speedily and as effectively as the consolidation and securing of peace can be accomplished through orderly occupation of Japan and the demobilization of Japanese armed forces."

The date will depend to a great extent upon how the troops carry out their occupation duties, he added, reminding them that "We fought and won a war to protect the rights of the individual... for all peoples of the world."

Reconversion...

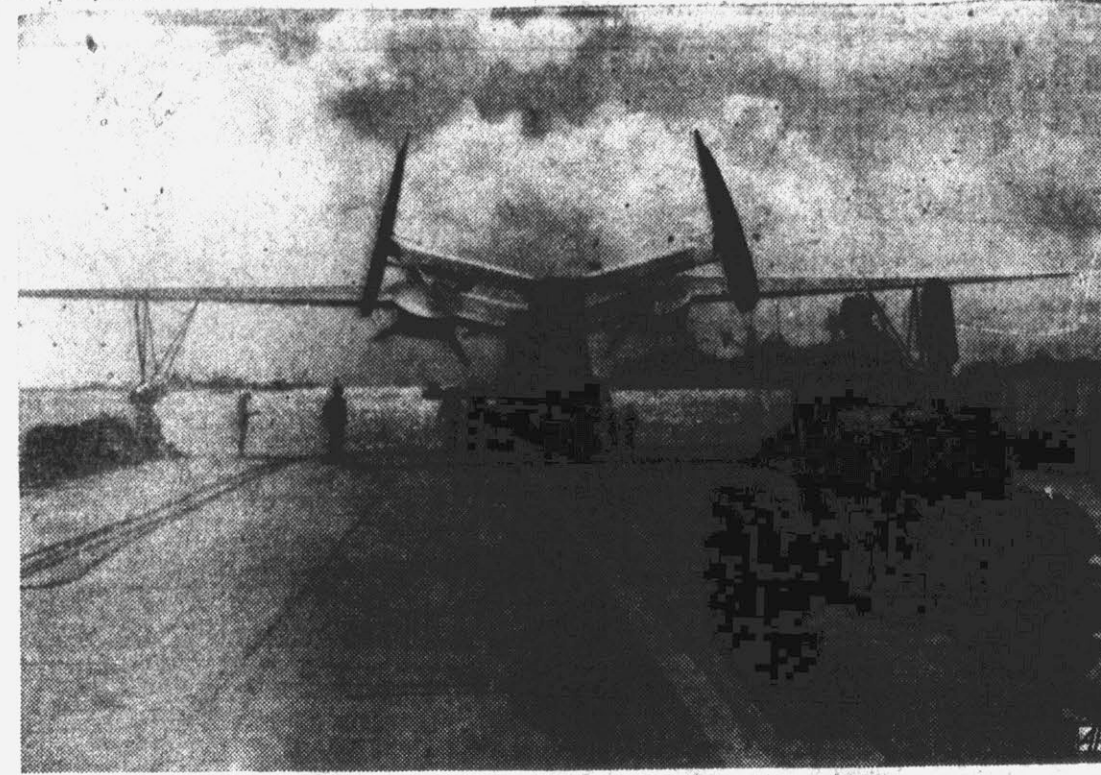

(Continued From Page One) Truman's "must" measures, and approval by the House seems certain. Although the Senate has no "must" bill ready for action, it may be asked to consider a measure designed to spur civilian airport development. The bill, following in general presidential thinking along that line, would authorize the government to spend $500,000,000 in the next five years to build 3,000 new flying fields and repair about 1,500 others. States, cities and counties would have to put up the same amount of money as the government.

Atomic Bomb: Two Texans placed themselves on opposite sides of the fence on what to do with this secret. Chairman Connally of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee says we should keep it to ourselves, but provide the Security Council of the United Nations organization with an airfield capable of using the powerful new weapon against any future aggressor. But Rep. Lyle (D)—a former army major—believes the secret should be given to the Security Council because "it is inevitable that other nations will work out the answer."

Nor has it been disclosed whether the War Department made a similar offer to Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, the Army commander at Pearl Harbor at the time Short said after the Army-Navy findings were released, "My conscience is clear."

Forrestal's letter to Walsh reported that the full record of the Navy's Pearl Harbor inquiry was being sent to Walsh's committee. It added the Navy would abide by the committee's decision whether any unpublished documents should be made public.

While there was little doubt how the House will vote on the subject of a congressional investigation, the question of who will make it was less certain.

The Senate unanimously favored an inquiry by a ten-member group, three Democrats and two Republicans from each branch of Congress. House Republicans, while in accord with the Senate objective, want the evenly, with three Democrats and committee membership divided three Republicans from each branch.

House Democrats are dead-set against equal representation. This is the responsibility for Congress, they contend, and they should be in control of congressional committees.

SAYS JAPS ATE U. S. PRISONERS

Manchuria and Korea. American authorities continued to evacuate American prisoners from Japanese camps and rush them to medical centers.

Progress On . . .

Under the plan of reconstruction, the first floor of the building will contain a large lounge room, banquet hall, ladies' parlor, kitchen and store rooms while the second floor will be used for lodge rooms.

The property was purchased last spring at a cost of $7,500 and was paid for out of contributions by members of the Masonic bodies. The remodeling now in progress is under direction of Fred M. Stokes, chairman of the building committee. The Masonic bodies of Greenville have not had a home of their own since the destruction of the Masonic temple more than 30 years ago and the purchase of the new quarters brings the realization of a long-felt desire by most members of the order.

For the past several years all the local Masonic branches have shown a remarkable growth. The local Blue Lodge has approximately 250 members about of hundred of whom belong to all the York Rite bodies.

Australian Report Charges Japs With Cannibalism

The Australian Government in an official statement declared today that Japanese soldiers ate the flesh of American prisoners of war after they had been used for bayonet practice.

In other parts of the Far East scenes of other brutal Japanese treatment came to light as hundreds of American prisoners arrived at safety and told of their existence in Japanese hell camps.

In a document made public today Australian authorities disclosed that the Japanese had "resorted to cannibalism" against Allied prisoners.

The atrocity report said that Japanese soldiers tied the hands of captured American and Australian soldiers behind them, used the helpless men for bayonet practice and then while they were still alive sliced off their flesh for food. Time and places were not disclosed.

The atrocity report was prepared for submission to the United Nations War Crimes Commission. From authentic evidence it was established that the prisoners were eaten and in some cases, the report said, human flesh was found in Japanese mess kits or over camp fires. The report contained confessions from Japanese soldiers who admitted they cut up and ate Allied prisoners.

Referring to the report, H. V. Ewin, Australian minister for external affairs, said crimes committed by the Japanese forces in the field were "part of a system of terrorism in which all Japanese troops and commanders participated."

The document also told how two Americans were given the Japanese "back bend." Their hands were tied behind their backs and to their ankles with their feet being bent back.

Many Strikers Still Out Today

Eighteen of 56 reported labor disturbances today accounted for almost exactly three-fourths of the approximately 119,000 persons idle, but the picture was brightened somewhat by the recall of 22,000 Ford workers to their jobs.

The eighteen disputes ranged from the 15000 strike by the consolidated Steel Company plant, Orange, Tex., through such firms as Westinghouse Electric (12,000), the H. C. Fryck Coke Co., Pittsburgh (7,000), and the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co., Detroit, (4,500).

Other disturbances involved numbers from 25 upward to 1,500.

The first newspaper in New York state was established in 1784 by William Bradford and called the New York Gazette.

CHOICE SEAT—A wet, bedraggled looking canine resident of Germany picked out a choice seat in a Nuernberg stadium, during a track meet. The officers are unidentified.

Find Baby's Body In Bus Terminal

Gastonia, Sept. 10—(AP)—The body of an unidentified nine-pound baby boy, his head nearly severed by a wide gash in the throat, was found in the rest room of the Gastonia bus terminal today.

City Physician S. M. Patrick said the body, which was wrapped in newspapers and a shopping bag, was still warm at the time it was found. He said the child could not have been dead more than five or six hours.

In addition to the slashed throat, the body bore many bruises, including several on the head.

FSA Office To Close Saturdays

Beginning Saturday, September 15, the County Farm Security Administration office at the City Hall in Greenville will be closed all day on each Saturday. E. N. Barden, County FSA Supervisor, announced today.

The new schedule is in compliance with an administrative order which specifies that effective September 9 the workweek for all FSA employees will be five days of eight hours each, from Monday through Friday. Any changes in the regular administrative workweek must have the prior approval of the administrator.

The office hours Monday through Friday are 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., Mr. Barden said.

Tropical Storm Turns Seaward

Miami, Fla., Sept. 10—(AP)—A tropical disturbance centered about 250 miles northeast of Puerto Rico showed indications today of recurring to the north, away from the United States.

As yet of light to moderate intensity, the disturbance was 1,300 miles east-southeast of Miami at 10 a. m., moving west-north-westward.

"Conditions are good for a recurve to the north," said Storm Forecaster Grady Norton. "Should it keep its present course it will require three or four days to reach land."

Resumes Meat Rationing Ottawa, Sept. 10—(AP)—Canada resumed meat rationing today amid widespread controversy. The Halifax Chronicle reported some meat dealers may halt sales in protest.

After going through six years of war with only nine months of meat rationing, the government announced its resumption for the purpose of providing meat for Great Britain and the liberated countries of Europe.

The first radio photo ever sent across the Atlantic was of Charles Evans Hughes, sent on July 6, 1924, from New York to London.

TOKYO STATION—Japanese residents of Tokyo, looking none too happy over the situation, wait for trains at the city's severely damaged main railroad station. Saturation fire bombings by superforts created the ruin.

To Ask Reduced Rates New York, Sept. 8—(AP)—Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan says he is going to press Congress for reduction of domestic airmail postage from eight to five cents an ounce.

I believe that if many more did use it the resulting increased volume would bring down the unit cost of delivery. The Old Spanish trail is a highway 2,743 miles long that extends from St. Augustine, Fla., to San Diego, Calif.
