Yanks Come Home On Former German Vessel

Some of the 4,500 Americans returning home from Europe line the decks of the former German liner Europa as she enters New York harbor. The Europa, world's third largest ship, was formerly seized by the United States just after she docked in New York as a "prize of war." She was captured by American forces at Bremerhaven, Germany, last June. (AP Wirephoto.)

USO CENTER TO CONTINUE

Statistics Reveal The Facilities Here Still Needed

Washington, Sept. 27.—(AP)—President Truman turned the heat on Congress today. He wants more money for people out of work. He said so in plain, vigorous words to Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee. With congressional tempers rising, the Senate plunged ahead in one of its loudest quarrels in years—over future depressions and what the government can do to stop them.

In the 25 days of September, 1,311 service men have registered at the Club; many who do not register. The registration of Junior hostesses for the same period totals 623. Registration of service men last Saturday and Sunday was 299, with many who did not register.

No statistical record was kept of the number of hats, bags, and packages checked during the week-end at the Club checking room, nor of the number of men who used the shaving, shower, letter-writing, telephone, radio, record-player, and Arts and Crafts room equipment.

At least the house and the military committees took a stand against it. The view of Representatives May (D-Ky.) of the military and Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the naval committee means that congress, or at least the house, won't even consider the subject for some time.

The only house group that has studied the proposal, the post-war military policy committee, took no stand after lengthy hearings. May and Vinson made their positions known in interviews as reports spread on Capitol Hill that President Truman may send a special message to congress soon recommending a merger.

Numerous proposals along this line have been introduced. Most of them provide for creation of a single department of national defense, combining the army, the navy, the marine corps and the air forces—headed by a single cabinet officer.

Currently, these bills are gathering dust in committee pigeon holes. face towards the emperor, and bows the great personage out to the sidewalk.

And then we see the Mikado, silk hat in hand, brought before MacArthur. It's easy to believe that this may do much to shock medieval Japan out of its trance. Certainly it may be possible abdication by the Mikado, or at least his abandonment of temporal power to make way for the inauguration of a popular form of government.

Deadlock In Oil Dispute

Chicago Negotiations May Be Moved To Washington At Invitation Of Secretary Of Labor; Nearly Two Million Persons Off Their Jobs As Result Of Strikes

Chicago, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The U. S. Conciliation Service's new chief, Edgar L. Warren, personally entered the oil strike conferences today and invited delegates to move their sessions to Washington immediately.

Warren, who made a surprise appearance at the deadlocked meeting of labor and oil industry representatives, said the invitation was issued at the request of Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach.

Warren added "it was felt that perhaps more progress toward settlement could be made in Washington."

Both sides in the 12-day dispute that involves 35,000 CIO unionists at present and threatens to extend to 250,000 workers adjourned until 2:30 p. m. EWT, when they are to notify Warren whether they will accept the invitation.

Daniel T. Price, assistant to the secretary of the Sinclair Refining Company, told reporters "industry will go to Washington." Spokesmen were in conference and declined comment.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS Tension mounted over the Nation's spreading labor strife today as the army of idle workers over labor disputes skyrocketed to near the two million mark.

The over-all labor picture was the worst in months. The strike list, below the 100,000 mark most of the year preceding V-J day, bulged as hundreds of thousands of workers were forced off their jobs by disputes, some of them fresh outbreaks.

A quick survey along the trouble spots showed: More than 1,850,000 workers off their jobs, some 370,000 idle by strikes, the others hit indirectly by the stoppages.

An apparent deadlock appeared in the Chicago conference of oil industry and CIO union leaders with federal conciliators amidst threats of a nation-wide strike of oil workers which would add 250,000 more to the strike lines. Some 35,000 workers are on strike in seven states, demanding a 30 per cent wage increase.

CONSIDER AID FOR BRITAIN

Officials Favor Extending Five Billion Dollar Loan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER Washington, Sept. 27.—(AP)—American officials working out plans to help Britain were reported today to favor a loan of $5,000,000,000. It would be at a very low interest rate and without strings on where the money could be spent.

Whether a plan along this line finally is presented to Congress will depend on further Anglo-American negotiations and formal acceptance of the idea by the London and Washington governments.

Trade talks that have been underway here several weeks still are in the stage of exploring just what Britain's financial troubles are and exactly what help may be needed.

On the word of fully-informed authorities it is possible to report that the situation today stands as follows: The essence of Britain's trouble is that she has to exist for the next three years or more while reconverts to profitable peacetime trade.

American officials accept the British contention that if financial aid can be obtained in this country it would be possible for the new era of trade to be developed along free, competitive lines. Otherwise the British empire will have to go in for a kind of economic isolationism in order to survive the crisis.

The Americans do not accept the British thesis that the aid must be practically a free grant of from $3,000,000,000 to $6,000,000,000—the range the British are talking.

Instead, the United States view is that the British must cut their overseas sterling debt of $16,000,000,000 by possibly 40 or 50 per cent.

Before the trade talks started the United States was thinking in terms of a $3,000,000,000 loan. As the discussions developed, however, the conviction has grown among American officials that a $5,000,000,000 loan would be much better.

The reason for this is that with the greater financial backing the British would: 1. Be able to make better bargains (Continued on Page Six)

Opposition To Single Command

Washington, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Plans for consolidation of the army and the navy struck a snag today. Chairman of both the house naval and military committees took a stand against it.

The view of Representatives May (D-Ky.) of the military and Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the naval committee means that congress, or at least the house, won't even consider the subject for some time.

The only house group that has studied the proposal, the post-war military policy committee, took no stand after lengthy hearings.

May and Vinson made their positions known in interviews as reports spread on Capitol Hill that President Truman may send a special message to congress soon recommending a merger.

The WORLD TODAY An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Writer Emperor Hirohito's descent from his throne to present himself before Supreme Commander MacArthur—in effect an act of submission by a defeated head of state to his conqueror—ranks among the major events which are ushering in the new world era.

This unprecedented development may well serve to break the spell of imperial mysticism and omnipotence under which the Japanese have been ruled for 2,000 years by Mikados to whom they have attributed divinity. It may herald the advent of rule by the people.

Describes Use Of Atomic Power

Los Angeles, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Gerald Wendt, New York research chemist and science writer, describes a method by which he says an airplane can be powered with atomic energy.

"Atomic fuel could be supplied in the form of a fine wire of atomic explosive on a spool which can be fed into the nozzle of a jet engine," he said in addressing a regional conference of the committee for economic development yesterday.

Today In Congress

By Max Hall

Washington, Sept. 27.—(AP)—President Truman turned the heat on Congress today. He wants more money for people out of work. He said so in plain, vigorous words to Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee.

With congressional tempers rising, the Senate plunged ahead in one of its loudest quarrels in years—over future depressions and what the government can do to stop them.

The House Naval Committee agreed—unanimously—that the peacetime fleet should have at least 1,079 fighting ships.

That's exactly what the Navy wants. Next week the House will have a chance to vote on this question.

At the White House, Mr. Truman told Ways and Means members he is holding out for giving states enough federal cash to pay their unemployed up to $25 a week for 26 weeks.

Said Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross: "He said the Senate let him down and he expected the House not to do so."

It wasn't clear when the committee Democrats went back to the Capitol for a huddle whether presidential persuasion had worked.

WILL RELEASE MEAT SUNDAY

Third Of Nation's Meat Supply To Be Ration-Free

Washington, Sept. 27.—(AP)—One third of the increasing meat supply will be ration-free beginning Sunday.

The OPA formally announced today that from Sunday through October 27 no points will be required for lower grades of beef, veal and lamb.

Also ration-free will be hamburger, lamb and veal patties and all cheaper cuts of all grades of meat. These include such cuts as short ribs and brisket of beef, breast flank of lamb and shank of veal.

Points are being eliminated, too, on all canned meats, sausage frankfurters, luncheon varieties and all other products made from lower grades of meat. These grades are utility, canner and cutter beef, and utility and cut veal and lamb.

This will leave on the ration list at current point values all pork cuts, bacon and other cured meats, the choice cuts of beef, veal and lamb of top grades—such as steaks, roasts and chops—and butter, margarine and other fats and oils.

Points on canned fish are being trimmed two to three points a pound.

The Agriculture Department estimated that the average annual civilian rate in October will be from 147 to 150 pounds per capita. A few months ago the yearly rate was about 115 pounds. However, to meet full demand the rate would have to be close to 165 pounds, it was stated.

OPA Administrator Chester Bowles said the seasonal increase in marketing of range-fed cattle is the principal reason one-third of the meat supply can be made ration-free.

According to the Agriculture Department, civilians during October will have a total of 1,502,700,000 pounds of meat, as compared with 1,352,000,000 pounds this month. This is an increase of 11.15 per cent.

OPA said that supplies of butter, margarine, lard and cooking and salad oils have improved, but not enough to warrant a cut in point values. The agency noted, however, that because a number of meat cuts will be ration-free, housewives will have more points for fats and oils.

WILL PROLONG BIG FIVE MEET

Molotov Awaiting Word Regarding Balkans

By FLORE LEWIS London, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and Soviet Russia planned a series of informal talks today amid unconfirmed reports that Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov was waiting word from Moscow which might clear the way toward a solution of the Balkan peace issue.

The full council of big five foreign ministers skipped the regular morning conference, and in the afternoon was to take up again French proposals for internationalization of the Ruhr and Rhineland.

In the interim the foreign secretaries of the big three powers were reported reliably to be discussing renewed Soviet demands to exclude France and China from participation.

The emperor's automobile drove up to the main entrance. The back curtain was drawn. Hirohito was sitting bolt upright in the seat. His grand chamberlain, Admiral Fujita, who previously met MacArthur to arrange the meeting, was sitting facing the emperor.

An attendant jumped out of the car, opened the door and bowed. The chamberlain backed out of the car, keeping his face to the emperor, and bowed as Hirohito got out.

The emperor found Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers, MacArthur's aide, and Maj. Scablon Bower, an interpreter, awaiting them. Hirohito, in formal diplomatic clothes, took off his silk hat, bowed, and shook hands with Fellers, probably an unprecedented thing.

Delay Action On Tobacco Support

Wilson, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Commodity Credit Corporation withheld action today upon a request that it enter the tobacco market to boost recently dropping prices.

Pointing to a decided strengthening of the market yesterday, Herbert Jackson, Richmond, Va., chairman of the CCC Price Stabilization Committee, told a North Carolina Farm Bureau group here last night.

"We shall wait until Saturday until we do anything," Jackson predicted that the Eastern Carolina tobacco average would equal the government's 441-2-cent ceiling price when the final price average is calculated.

The request for stabilization action was presented by the Farm Bureau Tobacco Committee, headed by C. T. Hicks of Walstonburg. The two groups held lengthy conferences here last night.

Reduction In Casualty List

Washington, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The return of men on the "missing" list and shifts in other categories pared down today the nation's war casualty toll by 594.

The combined total for the armed forces now stands at 1,070,672, including 922,339 for the Army and 148,333 for the Navy.

The Army figures for this and for last week follow: killed 205,918 and 205,569; wounded 571,720 and 571,698; missing 23,271 and 24,131; prisoners 121,430 and 120,988.

The Navy figures: killed 54,468 and 54,068; wounded 80,244 and 80,236; missing 10,779 and 11,197; prisoners 2,842 and 3,379.

Tarboro Newspaper Man Pictures Japan's Plight

Chapter 27

Mark Sheridan left for Washington Wednesday evening. At his rest home and Evelyn accompanied Eleanor and her husband to depot.

"I detest farewells," Jane protested. "I detest waiting for all aboards, trying to fill in those last endless minutes with foolish questions and answers. I don't want to go."

But she went, and the going away was more trying than she'd anticipated. In the first place, the train was late, and it shouldn't have been, for weren't the trains made up right there a few miles from the Sixteenth Street depot?

And in the second, there was Mark Sheridan, at the cane stage now and looking very cosmopolitan—at first.

Jane noticed the change, the sudden upward movement of his hand toward his hair. He must have remembered he had worn a hat on the draughty El, because his hand stopped at his pocket.

"Eleanor," he said to his sister, "please find out what she is doing here."

Involuntarily all three girls turned to look down the track, and there, beside a neatly stacked pile of hand luggage, stood Carla Hansen.

Jane couldn't quite fathom the feeling that swept over her, a sinking, nauseating sensation. Surely she couldn't lower herself to hate anyone like Carla Hansen. But that feeling she'd had it once before, in a plane, she remembered now, just off the coast of England, when the co-pilot had come in and told the passengers to prepare for a crash landing.

Sheridan's hat was off, the beautiful part in his hair a thing of the past. One hand had reached through. Here was Eleanor.

"Allow me to be the first to congratulate you," she offered sardonically. "Carla is en route to Washington. She's accepted a position in your very own department. And you pretending you didn't know?" she concluded angrily.

The train pulled in. The train also pulled out.

She felt numb. Evelyn had to tug at her sleeve twice before she realized Eleanor was speaking to her. "You will come, won't you? It's not a bad place, and the food is excellent."

"Of course," agreed Jane, through cold lips.

"Then follow our car."

"Oh, Jane, you do," she murmured as they neared the car.

"Do what?" asked Jane. But Evelyn wouldn't answer, and Jane preferred it that way. "Why don't you drive?" she suggested.

Jane sat up alert. "Evelyn, I deserve anything that comes to me, to think that I could have been idly watching that—that whatever it is—without realizing what was going on."

"I—I don't follow you."

"Carter had called to congratulate Sheridan almost before Sheridan had received word. That means Carter has a friend at the capital who is keeping him in touch with developments, doesn't it?"

"Why, yes, of course."

"And what would be easier than than for Carter to arrange for Carla to go to work in an office where she would be able to keep tabs on Sheridan? You know how badly they need stenographers in Washington now."

"So, first Carla attempts to make peace with Mr. Sheridan, put herself back on speaking terms with him. We know she couldn't afford that train trip without someone backing her. So Carter, with visions of the boredom of thousands of miles of travel weakening Sheridan's defenses, arranges for them to go together."

"And of course, once there, friends again, and two lonely people in a busy city, they'll be thrown together, grow confidential, and little Carla will earn her luxury money by reporting back to Carter what Sheridan is supposed to confide in her."

Evelyn pulled up to the curb behind the Gresham car. "There's only one thing wrong with that," she said thoughtfully.

"What?" demanded Jane.

"Mr. Carter is judging Mr. Sheridan by himself. That old lady killer couldn't ride from here to Sacramento without making up to every pretty girl on the train. Mr. Sheridan has been making transcontinental trips often, and from what I've heard of him, that is when he takes his rest and reads. He even has his meals served in his compartment so he won't have to talk even to strange men."

Jane laughed a little. "Don't tell me there's a porter anywhere in these United States who wouldn't give Carla a key to Sheridan's compartment if her smile was as big as her tip."

"I'm not counting on bribable porters," insisted Evelyn. "I'm counting on Mark Sheridan, and I do know him better than you do even though I'm not in—Oh, hello, Eleanor. We managed to stay together quite well, didn't we?"

"Mother," Eleanor confided as they reached the final course, "is as determined to marry Mark to Carla as she was once determined to keep such a dreadful messianism from occurring. Mother Sheridan prefers in-laws she can handle; one outlaw is enough."

"Now what," demanded Jane as they drove off, "did Eleanor Gresham mean by that last remark?"

"Honestly, Jane," cried Evelyn, "for a girl as brilliant as you give every indication of being, you're as blind and as dense as Mark Sheridan is—about some things."

troops in the early morning hours of August 30 at Atsugi Air Field, and for days we expected something to happen on any side. Now, with the flag flying, with soldiers pouring into the cities from all sides, with the Japanese people bowing this way and that, and apparently taking little notice of us but we knew inwardly resented our every footstep on their land, we knew we were here to stay until this nation could be reduced to a peacetime country.

Another day, a visit to Hiroshima where the B-29 dropped the lone atomic bomb that played such havoc. A trip by plane to Kubi, on the Inland Sea, where we called on the Japanese admiral for the naval base there, saw the remnants of his navy tied up in the harbor, saw others all over the Inland Sea, sunk, capsized or riddled, a complete job efficiently done by the task force planes and the B-29's. I saw cities burned beyond recognition with the fire bombs, saw transportation chipped because of bombings, saw a little people with a big dream crawling out of their temporary shelter constructed homes in the ruins of where their homes had been; saw filth and disease and destruction riding in a land of little people, who once envisioned they would be the conquerors of the world.

What a dream for anyone, especially for people who still work the oxen, live very primitively, eat very sparingly of only basic foods. So to Kubi where we interviewed the Japanese admiral and commandant of the naval base, who told of the Japanese war from the navy angle. He was disturbed as to what happened to his submarines, and being the only navy man present he insisted that I sit on his left where he could pay me proper respect. For his respect of the striking force of the U. S. Navy was very real, though not sincere. He admired those who could do a job so thoroughly on his navy, when they could not retaliate.

This same Japanese admiral, speaking a better English than he admitted, had been in the United States "fine country" and also had been the naval commandant at Rabaul for 10 months. He smiled when we asked him about the war, that slow Oriental smile which we have watched so often since being here, then the cackle of a laugh, then the flap changes his sitting position, thinking of an evasive answer. It always comes. Some remark which has no answer to the question. They are past masters at that.

Anyway, we went on to Hiroshima, and I am also at a loss to adequately describe it. I think the best way would be to say that some giant hand had reached down from the sky, grabbed the heart of Hiroshima in his fist and lifted it bodily to a great height and then like an expanding rubber band, released his hold for the pieces to fall where they may. It looks like that, of buildings of every description are dust, just a lot of sand and rock; bridges are buckled up, so are railway ties; there are no trees, nor wood, yet they do not seem to have burned, but suddenly decayed into dust; the streets are like the second floor of Hotel Tarboro, a pattern of rising and falling little hills; the water in the canal looks like it has been subjected to terrific heat and looks polluted; a few posts remain in fact; street car tracks are still on the bumpy street, a lone car loaded with these little people ride at a snail's pace down the street, in their bewildered start not believing what they see; for blocks and blocks, hundreds of them there is nothing but desolation, a ghost city of what was 260,000 people.

We went to the police station and found the assistant police chief for Hiroshima, a big burly Jap, who had lived through the bombing. He described what he knew. Saying he was on duty that morning at the station, when the air raid alarm sounded, and four B-29 planes circled over the city, dropped nothing and went away. The all clear was sounded and shortly afterwards a lone B-29 came over the city, and since they did not have an alarm for lone planes, because they were so often, no alarm was sounded.

At 8:10 there was a terrific blast, and although he was in a granite building, he and the walls were blown 150 feet into the street beyond. Following the blast of fire there followed about 15 minutes of complete and utter darkness, so dark he could not see his hand in front of him, after which came the grey dust which lasted for days. He picked himself up in the street, found his arm had been cut and treated it as best he could. Around him was nothing.

What had been an active city, with street cars, autos, buses and trucks running five minutes before in all the noise of a downtown big city, was now like a cemetery for quietness. It was an unbelievable transition in a very short time.

We visited the hospital and saw shattered buildings on the outskirts of Hiroshima treating the victims of the bombing, which the officials estimated were 260,000 injured and 60,000 dead. One official said that no one escaped injury of one kind or another, of the entire population they were either dead or injured, many seriously, many dying daily.

The lieutenant general for Hiroshima was killed, his wife sustained a small cut on her hand, and from radio activity enlarged the wound and she and others like her are dying. Scientists do not know how long the injured will survive. I saw some of these atomic bomb wounded, and the best way I can describe it is that their wounds are like burst watermelons in the hot sun. Their wounds are not cuts as we know them but seared burns, deep and jagged; their heads and arms appear to have burst as if some great pressure from inside of their bodies had burst at the weakest point; heads look like they had been split open. It was a terrifying sight.

The hospitals were jammed with the patients, well covered with greenish flies; the stench was nauseating; the facilities inadequate, the nurses, all Japanese, young girls as volunteers. This was Hiroshima, a city that had not been really bombed during the war, but the one held for the final atomic payoff!

I don't know what history will write as the real reason for the end of the war at the wish of the Emperor, but I'll stake my bet on Hiroshima and the atomic bomb. No ruler or military might could look at this knowing one bomb did the damage and not have a feeling of real pain. The B-29 fire raids on Tokyo, Yokohama, Osaka, Nagoya, Kobe and others leave the nation's cities gutted, but life does go on, but at Hiroshima, there is neither town nor life nor hope of future. Only one thing I noted, green grass is springing up in the streets but the trees are skeletons of days that were.

Thank God we beat Germany and Japan to the atomic bomb, for where we used it for peace, they would have used it for annihilation of the white race!

TB Field Worker Visits County

Mrs. Ruth R. Pretlow, field secretary of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association, arrived in Greenville yesterday to confer with Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, county chairman of the Tuberculosis Seal Sale and to instruct Mrs. Eva Eberhart, recently appointed tuberculosis worker for Pitt county. Mrs. Eberhart is an employee of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association.

Plans are being laid for an energetic seal sale campaign which opens November 19.

J. Herbert Waldrop is president of the association and Dr. Ennett is secretary.

Schedule For World Series

Chicago, Sept. 27—(AP)—The office of Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler announced today a complete schedule and playing conditions for the 1945 world series between the American and National League champions still to be determined.

Here's the schedule: If the series is between Detroit of the American league and the Chicago Cubs or St. Louis Cardinals of the National League—games 1, 2 and 3 at Detroit October 3, 4, and 5; games 4, 5, 6 and 7 at Chicago or St. Louis October 6, 7, 8 and 10.

If it's between Washington and Chicago or St. Louis—games 1, 2, 3 and 4 at Washington October 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 at Chicago or St. Louis October 7, 8, 9, and 11.

Thus if it's Detroit no travel day will be allowed after the third game but if it's Washington one travel day will be permitted, and in any event a day's rest will be given the sixth game if the series goes that far.

Play will begin at 1:30 p. m. eastern time at Detroit or Washington and central time at Chicago or St. Louis. The nation will return from war time to standard time September 30 but Chicago will continue thereafter on daylight saving time throughout October unless the city council changes the existing ordinance.

Washington, Sept. 27—(AP)—The Navy Cross, highest naval decoration, was awarded today to Lt. Col. James P. S. Devereux, Marine hero of Wake Island.

The presentation was made by Undersecretary Artemus L. Gates. The citation, signed by the late Secretary Frank Knox, read simply: "For distinguished and heroic conduct in the line of his profession in the defense of Wake Island, December 7, to 22, 1941."

Col. Devereux said he found it impossible truly to hate the Japanese because to do so "one would have to admit them to equality. I don't think the Japanese people are equal to us in any way whatsoever."

He said he considered them completely treacherous.

NOTICE ORDER AND NOTICE OF ELECTION OF A DRAINAGE COMMISSIONER

In the Superior Court Before the Clerk North Carolina, Edgecombe County. In the Matter of Edgecombe County

Having been informed by the Board of Drainage Commissioners of the Edgecombe County Drainage District No. 2 that the term of office of one of its members, viz: Commissioner Paul E. Whitehurst, expires on the 30th day of September, 1945, and the law providing for the clerk to provide for an election of his successor:

It is hereby ordered that an election be held in the courtroom of the Edgecombe County Court House in Tarboro, North Carolina, at 11 o'clock A. M., on Saturday, the 8th day of October, 1945, to vote for a drainage commissioner to succeed Commissioner Whitehurst. Each individual landowner within the said district will be qualified to vote at this election and shall be entitled to cast the number of votes equalling the number of acres of land owned by him included in the boundaries of the said District. The Court will appoint as the drainage commissioner to succeed Commissioner Whitehurst the one receiving a majority of votes at said election, or if no one receives the vote of a majority of such landowners, the Court will appoint said commissioner from those receiving the highest number of votes cast.

It is further ordered that a copy of this notice be posted at the court house door of the Edgecombe County Court House in Tarboro, at the court house door of the Pitt County Court House in Greenville, and at five conspicuous public places within the said Edgecombe County Drainage District No. 2, and that it be published in the Tarboro Southerner, a newspaper of general circulation within Edgecombe County, and in the Daily Reflector, a newspaper of general circulation within Pitt County, for two publications prior to the date set for said election.

This the 10th day of September, 1945. A. T. WALSTON, Clerk Superior Court, Edgecombe County. Sept. 20-Sept 27-2ts.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

NATURE OF LIBERTY

People have many mistaken ideas about liberty, but the greatest mistake they make is in identifying liberty with license. Unthinking people assume that liberty means the opportunity to do what one wants to do. The truth is that liberty means the freeing of one's powers from external restraint so that one is able to follow the best promptings of his own heart and mind.

James Madison once declared that liberty may be endangered by the abuse of liberty as well as by the abuse of power. Liberty consists in the power of doing that which is allowed by law. We do not exercise our liberty when we break a law. What we do is to reveal to the world our pathetic lack of self-control and character. The freest people in the world are not the libertines but the truly saintly. The former abuse their liberty; the latter use it to their own happiness and to the glory of God.

This thing which we call democracy is the outgrowth of religious faith. The highest ideals of liberty which the mind of man cherishes today came out of the Bible. As Horace Greeley once said, "Liberty cannot be established without morality, nor morality without faith." The prerequisite of all true freedom is renunciation.

We have just had a war over the issue of liberty. Do we understand the meaning of liberty? Tomorrow's destiny, like the sword of Damocles, hangs perilously over our heads, suspended by a hair.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

(Second of Four Articles)
Washington—His name might be Ivan, Jose or Wang. He is one of a group of young men who already has made a mark in his own country and has been chosen by the International Training Administration selection committee to go to America and learn by two years of working in his particular field.

Having been met at the boat by an ITA representative, he is escorted to Washington. For the next few weeks he learns such things as how to negotiate revolving doors, trolleys, cafeteria lines. He is schooled in making change in American money, riding trains and buses, and introduced to a hundred or so other little things which range to the customs of his own land. He may spend a week or so brushing up on his English.

In the meantime, International Training Administration, Inc., is busy clearing him with the state department, immigration, selective service, the treasury (so he won't have to pay income tax), the labor union, if he is going to work where labor is organized. His program for the next two years also is being worked out. No travel agency gives more complete service than ITA's staff in making all arrangements for his protracted stay in the city, town or village where he is to work.

Comes the day when Ivan, Jose or Wang is to leave Washington. He may go to the west coast, to the oil fields in Louisiana, to Detroit or almost any place in the land. Wherever it is, it will be his home for the next two years and there he will learn by working, watching, studying and being shown all those intricacies which go to make up the "know-how" of American business.

Each week he writes a report to ITA on what he has learned. At intervals he receives calls from an ITA field representative who queries him and his "employers" on what he has learned. And at intervals, also, reports are made to his government or to the business or organization which may be sponsoring this post-graduate course in American technique.

The chances are that he is living in an American home, attending civic club luncheons where he may be a speaker, and spending what very little leisure he has in social activities. Each month he receives approximately $150 to cover his living expenses. Any other money he spends must come from his own pocket.

When his two years are up, Ivan or Jose or Wang takes leave of his American friends and returns to his homeland to introduce there American methods, to keep turning the wheels of American machines, perhaps to become foreign representative or agent or service director for the firm in which he has been tutored.

And Elliott S. Hanson, friendly, enthusiastic president of the non-profit, cooperative ITA, Inc., one-time government agency which American business took over, will mark up one more contribution to the United States' foreign trade, to the spread of American culture, and to the policy of "good neighbor to the world."

(Tomorrow: Some Specific Cases)

The World Today

are being given too soft a peace. The developments in both cases are aimed at speeding up attainment of the chief Allied war aims. These were to render the enemy utterly impotent militarily, and at the same time to destroy the militaristic mentality which, in the case of Germany, encompassed Hitlerism. The physical defeat has been achieved, but the more difficult moral reform cannot be carried out until the two peoples have been made to understand that their countries have been smashed.

It isn't stated whether the moves in Japan and Germany are due to Allied public opinion or are normal developments of the occupation program. In any event it is safe to assume that they represent the desire of the general public that we bring down on the Axis hard enough to achieve lasting peace. And in passing it may be remarked that the very natural desire of the folk at home to get our soldier boys back doesn't contemplate the impairment of the government's ability to carry out the occupation essentials.

Eisenhower has acted quickly to eliminate Nazi influence in Bavaria where Nazis are said to be still holding public offices. At the same time he summoned General George S. Patton from Bavaria to make a report on this matter which is so vital to Eisenhower's policy of complete denazification of Germany's political, educational and economic life, as ruthlessly as required. The Allied Control Council also has moved to complete the destruction of Nazism and militarism by sweeping edicts which include the outlawing of the Nazi party.

And in Japan, MacArthur has made a reorganization which has a similar objective. He has pulled the last props out from under the old Jap governmental influence and thus has placed himself in closer contact with the Japanese public.

Hirohito

emperor, who for the first time in the history of the Japanese empire was calling upon a representative of a foreign country.

The Mikado's route along the embassy drive was through a cordon of guards.

There was none of the fanfare or excitement one would expect at such an historic event.

Without warning, a five-car convoy arrived suddenly in the area of the American embassy, whipped up a hill to the gateway to the official residence, and disappeared into the wall surrounding the embassy grounds.

Correspondents dashed up a hill after the convoy, American guards had orders not to allow anyone within two blocks of the meeting.

Sgt. James C. Pickett, Dallas, Texas, sergeant of the guards, said general orders were effective at all times not to allow loitering in the vicinity of the embassy gates. However, correspondents and photographers numbering more than 50 were allowed to remain.

The emperor tipped his hat to a couplet of soldiers with green helmets and bayonets.

He was riding in a big limousine which was the second in a line of five that arrived a few seconds before 10 a. m. (9 p. m., Wednesday, EWT).

Japanese police lined the emperor's route to the embassy. A spokesman said American police took no special precautionary measures. The first and last cars in the Mikado's convoy contained imperial guards, whom MacArthur has permitted to continue in service.

The whole show was over so quickly that correspondents got only a brief glimpse of the little ruler.

The emperor's car left the embassy at 10:37 a. m. Correspondents and photographers were taken almost by surprise as the entourage sped out of the gates, made a brisk left turn and headed for the palace. It was followed speedily by an array of jeeps, command cars and other vehicles with newsmen filling the interiors and hanging onto fenders.

It probably was not through awe of the emperor, but none of the army drivers ventured to pull along side the imperial car, although they were urged to do so by reporters.

Hirohito passed unnoticed by his subjects as he returned to the palace. Sitting bolt upright in his limousine, he raised his gleaming top hat once as his car drove rapidly from the embassy grounds.

President Truman supports the bill, which would make it a federal responsibility to assure jobs for all. If private enterprise can't do it, but the fiercest defenders of the bill, yesterday were two New England Republicans, Senators Tobey of New Hampshire and Alton of Vermont. They argued hotly against Senators Taft (R-Ohio), Radcliffe (D-Md.), Millikin (R-Colo.), and Ball (R-Minn.).
So far, the big noise is over a section of the bill which says that whenever full employment cannot be otherwise assured, the federal government shall make whatever "expenditure and investment" needed to assure it.
Taft and Radcliffe offered an amendment to change this. They don't want it to sound as though the government is "guaranteeing" jobs. They want the bill to say in effect that such spending shall not be unlimited, but shall be made with due consideration for other obligations of the government. That is, they don't think assuring jobs should be paramount over all other purposes.
Today, Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) planned to ask approval of the bill on the ground that it is a preliminary measure. No specific actions could be taken to create jobs unless Congress passes further laws.
The situation on Army-Navy volunteers is this:
Yesterday the Senate passed a bill making military service more attractive, with more liberal leaves, bonuses, and the like. Especially for men now in uniform who re-enlist. The House had already passed it.
The Senate made a few small changes, however, and the House will be asked to approve them, maybe today, maybe tomorrow.
The Senate, before acting, defeated a proposal for a $25-a-month pay raise to all soldiers and sailors.
Senator Johnson of Colorado thinks it's a good bill and will bring in so many volunteers that the draft can be stopped. Congress will wait and see.

on the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase for the company's 80,000 workers.

One dispute in Detroit ended, 3-100 Murray Corp. workers going back to work after being idle for more than two weeks. The majority idle in the Detroit area were from automotive plants. CIO-UAW officials renewed efforts to end the 35-day strike at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co., a walkout which forced the shutdown of the Ford Motor Company plants, idling more than 50,000.

There were 15 separate strikes in Chicago. None, however, involved large groups of workers. About 7,000 were off their jobs slowing production of civilian goods.

There were no indications of an immediate settlement of the strike in New York City, which topped the country's other disputes insofar as affecting the largest number of persons. The city's billion dollar fur and garment industry was virtually closed down as the hundreds of thousands of workers refused to cross picket lines or climb long flights of steps to skyscraper lofts. The strike, stemming from a wage-hour dispute, has cost the garment industry $15,000,000 in winter orders and $3,500,000 in wages, said an industry spokesman.

Approximately 121 million pounds or 60,500 tons of vegetables were produced from the 226,000 wartime gardens of Canada in 1944.

No Changes in Milk Deliveries

Raleigh, Sept. 27 — (AP) — There won't be any daily deliveries of milk like in prewar days and for the time being at least, milk will continue to be sold in round bottles.
The North Carolina Dairy Products Association has voted not to return to daily deliveries, asserting that such deliveries might cause the cost of milk to go up. Milk now is being generally delivered every other day.

For several months, the Agriculture Department, including the Weights and Measures Division, has been considering the authorization of square milk bottles. Square bottles take up less room in refrigerators.

The Weights and Measure Division insists that lettering on the square bottles must be prominently displayed and bottle manufacturers are trying to work that out.

8-1, and Pittsburgh splitting a pair with Cincinnati. After the Reds had taken the opener, 5-2, the Pirates evened matters, 2-1.
The Dodgers clinched at least a tie for third by their triumph over the Giants, engineered by the fourth-hit pitching of Ralph Branca, and the Pirates kept alive their dim hopes of catching the Brooks. Other clubs were idle.

Yesterday's results:
American League
Detroit 11-2, Cleveland 0-3.
Chicago at St. Louis, cancelled, rain.

Only games scheduled.
National League
Brooklyn 8, New York 1.
Cincinnati 5-1, Pittsburgh 2-2.
St. Louis 11, Chicago 6.
Only games scheduled.
Carolina League Playoff
Danville 5, Raleigh 1 (Danville leads 3-1).
International League Playoff
Newark 7, Montreal 2 (Newark leads 1-0).
American Association Playoff
Louisville at St. Paul, p.p.d., rain.
Southern Association Playoff
Mobile 3, New Orleans 1 (Mobile wins 4-1).

Baseball

By JACK HAND (AP Sports Writer)
Cincinnati's forlorn Reds, a seventh-place ball club that never was a factor in the National League race, probably will decide the pennant duel between the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals.

Two games with the Rhinelanders today mean the difference between an early clinching or a lout day finish for Charley Grimm's Bruins. Three Saturday and Sunday dates with the pesky Reds hold the key to Billy Southworth's hopes for a fourth straight St. Louis flag. The puncheon Redlegs have been a pushover for the Cubs all season long, dropping 19 of 20 meetings, to rank as one of the main reasons Chicago has been able to stay out front while losing 16 of 22 to the defending world champs.

If the Bruins can maintain their spell and knock off the Reds twice today, they would need only one more victory to be sure of a tie even if St. Louis downs Pittsburgh tonight and sweeps its final three from the Reds.

But if the Cubs are flattened twice while the Cards whip the Buccos, Chicago's 1-2 game lead would melt into an all-even tie. Grimm has protested yesterday's 11-6 loss to St. Louis on the grounds that one umpire, Babe Pinelli, wasn't looking and another (Butch Henline) said he refused to change his mind despite an official reversal by Umpire-in-Chief Dusty Boggs, changing a double play into a St. Louis base hit.

After Whitey Kurowski opened the seventh inning with a single, Ray Sanders drove a long fly deep into right field that Bill Nicholson apparently caught as he hit the wall, dropped and caught again on the rebound. Kurowski had waited halfway to second, to see whether the ball would be caught and then sped to second, waiting Sanders back to first. Nicholson whipped the ball to second base.

An original decision ruled a double play, prompting a Cardinal protest, and a reversal gave Sanders a hit and placed both men on base, resulting in a long argument climaxed by Grimm's official protest. St. Louis went on from there to cement a 6-5 lead with five more runs as the Cubs fell apart.

Detroit polished off its home business for the year by splitting a pair with Cleveland, winning 11-0 behind Hal Newhouser, and losing 3-2 to Steve Gromek, an old Detroit boy.

The results assured the Tigers of a tie for first, even if they lose their final two at St. Louis Saturday and Sunday. Meanwhile, Washington continues to practice for a phantom foe, its only hope a double Brownie victory forcing a playoff Monday or Tuesday.

That was the only business in the American League as rain cancelled a date between Chicago and St. Louis and the other clubs were not scheduled.

National League tilts have nothing to do with the flag race but directly concerned with third place found Brooklyn downing New York.

Football

By SCOTTY MINSHULL (Richmond, Va., Sept. 26—(AP)—Two standout games carded for the coming week-end in which Southern Conference teams will participate undoubtedly are the University of North Carolina and Georgia Tech at Chapel Hill, N. C., and Clemson and the University of Georgia at Athens, Ga.

Another high on the list of Saturday's attractions is North Carolina State's clash with the University of Virginia at Norfolk. The Cavaliers are not members of the conference but count many conference teams among their opponents this season.

The Tar Heel-Tech clash probably is the No. 1 tussle in the South. While the Jackets from Atlanta's flanks may have an edge on the Carolinians in the line, the Tar Heels have an excellent aerial attack, and it may be on this that Coach Carl Snavely will rely to set the Engineers down. Tommy Gorman, rancy chunker, Charlie Ellis and Bill Pritchard, ends, are counted on for aerial support.

Mid-season importance is attached to the early meeting of the Tigers and Bulldogs. Clemson crushed Presbyterian in its opener, 76-0, while Georgia handed Murray Teachers a 49-0 shellacking.

State's Wolfpack whipped the Virginia Cavaliers last year, 13-0, at Norfolk, largely because of the latter's fumbles, but the Norfolk field proved lucky for the Raleigh team that season.

Offensive drills and a dummy scrimmage constituted William and

Mary's preparations yesterday for its opener at Williamsburg, Va. Saturday with Catawba. Nick Forkvitch, who looks like one of the best blocking back prospects in the Southern Conference, is being relied upon to pull the victory out of the bag for the Virginia Indians. Coach Rube McCray will probably miss the services of Chet MacKie-wiza, veteran back, who, although out for practice yesterday, is still recuperating from injuries.

Night football will open the season for the University of Richmond, which meets VMI at Richmond. Coach George Hope, of the Indiana, is relying on punting to offset the strength of the Cadets.

High School Phantoms To Play Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets Here

By JIMMY FUTRELL.
The Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets hope to upset the Phantom apple cart tomorrow night when they tangle with the local high eleven at 8:15 in Guy Smith Stadium.

By virtue of the fact that five lettermen who were unable to play last week are back in harness again the hopes of a Phantom victory tomorrow night are much brighter. Elizabeth City is an old rival of the G-Men—always tough, the Jackets are generally the stiffest opponent on the Phantom schedule year in and year out. Last year the Jackets had a big team, larger than the G-Men; and chances are they will outweigh the local eleven as did the New Bern

Bears last week.
The Phantoms, toughened by three days of practice consisting mainly of blocking and tackling, will, without doubt, be better prepared to meet the Jackets. A few changes have been made plus the addition of several new plays.

USO Center . . .

and Sunday the Club Snack Bar sold 357 soft drinks, 104 glasses of milk, 180 ham-and-roll sandwiches, 115 cakes, 86 slices of pie, 61 ice cream cups, 67 packs of cigarettes, 10 glasses of tomato and fruit juice—and on Sunday gave away nobody knows how many cups of coffee and 80 Sunday night suppers. All this and the punch table, too—with the punch and sandwiches and cookies given and served by a Church group. And these figures are undoubtedly not all they would have been had not the Snack Bar sold out except for soft drinks, coffee and cigarettes by about 9:30 Sunday night, with an hour and a half still to go. It was statistics like these, along with general observation, that led the local USO executive committee in a recent meeting to decide that the Club should be kept open full time as usual throughout the remaining months of this year, with whatever adjustments in program seem indicated as the days go on. Then with the new year, decision can again be made as to what the need at that time is, and how it can be met.

It will be 4 years in January since a group of thoughtful, concerned people formed the local Organization for Service Men, leased the Woman's Club building for week-ends, and opened a Recreation Center for Service Men there, maintained and supported by local gifts and volunteers. It will be 2 years in October since the need arose for a full-time Club and the USO came in to assume the major portion of the support. During these four years, thousands of men in uniform have gone in and out at this Club. Many of them have carried away with them sustaining and treasured memories that will be with them as long as they live. Many of them lie now among the silent white crosses planted by War over lonely graves on far-off Pacific islands or on other battlefields. Some are returning now; each week there are some who come back to the Club after absence overseas. They look around eagerly to see if the place is "just the same" or if the people they remember are still there. Many among those who come now are troubled and uncertain about what lies ahead for them in getting started again in normal civilian life. Some are out of hospitals on brief leaves, carrying slowly-healing wounds of body and spirit. Many are terribly tired of military existence yet faced with a long stretch of it still to be carried on, with all the strong and steading incentives of immediate need for such training suddenly gone.

It was such considerations as these—along with the statistical figures—that led the local USO committee to its conclusion that the maintenance of a USO Club in this community is at present an unfinished job, and one that the thoughtful and concerned people in this city will want to see carried to its completion in the same spirit with which it was begun. Present for the executive committee meeting were Mrs. J. H. Blount, Willard Kyzer, James R. Worsey, Mrs. J. C. Waldrop, James T. Little, Rev. H. G. Haney, Mrs. Luther Bowling, Mrs. J. Key Brown, and Lucy Cherry Crisp, director of the Club. Absent were Mrs. J. H. B. Moore and Mrs. R. J. Slay, both of whom were out of town.

ing in the discussion of Balkan treaties.
There were indications that unless U. S. Secretary of State Secretary Byrnes, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Molotov were convinced an absolute deadlock had been reached, they would keep the council in session until this obstacle to the Romanian, Bulgarian and Hungarian treaties was removed.
The fact that sessions would continue for at least a day or two more led informed observers here to believe that some sort of agreement on the problem was on the way.
Some observers expected the conferees might take some action on the question of the Austrian government which thus far operates only in the Soviet occupation zone.
With regard to Austria the long-range problem of food supplies also remains. The western powers have held that the nation should be fed from the Balkan granary. Should the other powers accede to Moscow's wishes with respect to the Karl Renner government, Russia might be amenable to that plan for feeding Austria.

Moscow, Sept. 27—(AP)—Government newspaper Izvestia said today the spotlight at the big five foreign ministers' meeting in London has been focused on the governments of Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary in "an unquestioned effort to detract public attention from such countries as Greece, where the will of majority is being trampled upon."
The Roman Catholic faith was brought to the Netherlands East Indies hundreds of years ago by the Portuguese, and Protestantism later by the Dutch.

POLICE HOSTS SUPPER MEET

Greenville Department Entertains Law Enforcement Men

By CHESTER WALSH
Greenville policemen were hosts at a barbecue supper and fellowship meeting in the recreation room of the City Hall last night. Chief James E. Tanner was toastmaster. Mayor Jack Boyd and the aldermen were present. The mayor and Aldermen Dr. M. B. Massey, Rufus V. Keel and Berry Bostic spoke briefly, congratulating the department on improvements being made and pledging fullest support.
It was announced that the police department will go on an eight-hour workday shift shortly and that it will not be long now before police cars are equipped with two-way radio sets.

Rev. Robert W. Bradshaw had a good word to say about the police. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson expressed appreciation for the cooperation between the two departments.
Lieut. Lester Jones, head of the State Highway Patrol in 27 northern eastern counties, made an encouraging and impressive talk in which he lauded the city administration for renewed support of the police and bringing Chief Tanner to Greenville. He expressed pride in the cooperation of the police, sheriff's office and the highway patrol, and said, "We will be getting somewhere when we begin to bear down on crime prevention, rather than apprehension of criminals." He said the highway patrol made more arrests the 26 days of this month than during the entire month of August. He advised that local and other law enforcement agencies, now that the war is over, will have to increase their forces and procure new and better equipment.

Capt. W. L. Brewer, a veteran policeman, made some cheering remarks. J. L. Taylor, ABC enforcement officer, spoke encouragingly. Marine M. P. Sgt. G. W. Baskin of Cherry Point and a newspaperman spoke briefly.

FBI Agent W. H. Gibson of Kinston, who came here to arrange for the FBI school Wednesday, made an interesting talk in which he advised the Mayor and aldermen that they can send a police officer to the FBI school in Washington in January without cost, except his transportation and board. "The man you send will come back a better officer and will be valuable to your department," the FBI agent said.

Judge J. W. H. Roberts of City Recorder's Court complimented the police and said that his labors and effective work that his labors and the work of the city administration in recognizing and improving the police department, expressed appreciation for cooperation from the sheriff, highway patrol, FBI, the ABC officers and others. He said the "get-together" meeting will be fruitful.

Chief Tanner, the last impromptu speaker on the program, said some fine things about Greenville and the people here, pledged his best efforts to the city administration in recognizing and improving the police department, expressed appreciation for cooperation from the sheriff, highway patrol, FBI, the ABC officers and others. He said the "get-together" meeting will be fruitful.

Sweet Potato Demonstration

Police Rescue Negro Prowler

P. F. Hendrix, county farm agent, announced today that there will be a sweet potato digging, grading and storage demonstration on the farm of Blagay Sumrell, two miles west of Ayden on the Snow Hill highway, on Monday afternoon, October 1, at 3 p. m. This demonstration will show the latest in plows, vine cutters and other equipment, insulating materials, etc., to produce the best quality sweet potatoes and to conserve labor.
Mr. Hendrix stated that this demonstration is being held early in order to permit farmers who have sweet potatoes to take advantage of any of the labor saving equipment in this year's crop, since all equipment can be purchased or made locally.

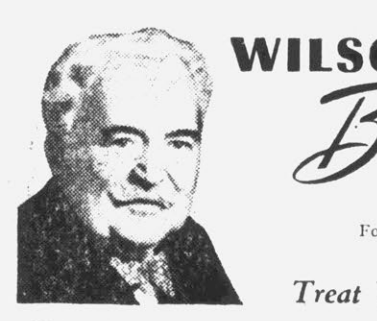

The demonstration will be conducted by J. Y. Lassiter, Extension Horticultural Specialist and H. M. Ellis, Extension Agricultural Engineer. All farmers who have as much as one acre of sweet potatoes, or plan to go into sweet potato production, should attend this demonstration and take advantage of all the labor saving suggestions that this demonstration will offer. Blue prints of the equipment used will be available for inspection and distribution.

Reynolds Heads Science Dept.

Dr. Charles W. Reynolds has been appointed acting head of the Science Department at East Carolina Teachers College. He takes the place of Dr. Ronald J. Slay, who began his duties as Dean of the College at the beginning of the fall term.
Dr. Reynolds, a native of West Virginia, came to the college in 1938 and has been connected with the Science Department since that time except for a period of 30 months when he served in the Navy and was on leave from the college.
Dr. Reynolds held the rank of lieutenant in the Navy. He was stationed in Washington, D. C., where he did important work in Communications. He was discharged in June, 1945, and took up his work at the college at that time.
An interesting career as an educator qualifies Dr. Reynolds for his new position. He received the A.B. Degree from Kentucky Wesleyan College and the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Peabody. He has done special work in physics and science education. Before coming to Greenville, he served as superintendent of schools in London, Kentucky, and as professor of science in Eastern State Teachers College in Kentucky. Among his recent publications are articles in the "Peabody Journal of Education," "Education," and

Treat Your Family to a Pot Roast
Being able to serve a delicious pot roast once again without having to think about meat points will be a great satisfaction to the busy homemaker. And what a hit a good pot roast makes with the family! It's truly a case of "you never miss the water 'til the well runs dry."

Delicious Beef Chuck Roast . . . rich in flavor

Braise Shoulder Cuts
Whether you select an arm-bone pot roast as shown above (note the round bone and the ends of the two ribs as identifying marks) or any other chuck or shoulder roast, the method of cooking is exactly the same; that is, braising.
To braise, brown both sides of the beef well in two tablespoons of hot fat . . . preferably in a heavy skillet or Dutch oven, so it will brown evenly without burning. Add about 1/2 cup hot water, salt and pepper the top side, cover, reduce heat to low and let meat simmer lazily until very tender, adding more water in small amounts as needed. Turn meat once and season second side. The time required depends on the thickness of the meat and its original tenderness. Allow 2 1/2 to 3 hours for a pot roast 2 inches thick.

Oven in Use?
If so and the temperature is low, around 325° F., put the pot roast in the oven after it is well browned. Be sure to remove the handle from the skillet to prevent it from burning.
To make luscious browned potatoes place potatoes in the skillet around

Use fat, waste paper and tin cans are still urgently needed. Turn yours in as they collect.

Police Rescue Negro Prowler

By CHESTER WALSH
Simon Moore, 34-year-old Negro, charged with being a "Peeping Tom" at a Negro home on Mills street last night had a narrow escape from serious injury or possibly death at the hands of a large crowd of Negro neighbors who resented his intrusion on the privacy of a home.
Patrolmen Crawford, Clark and Harris, who arrested Moore, said the crowd chased the man some distance through town.
When he saw his pursuers were gaining on him, Moore ran into the home of Preston Fields, white, 1305 Chestnut street, and asked for protection. Fields called police. The officers arrived just in time to save Moore from rough treatment. They locked him up on a charge of disorderly conduct, pending further investigation.

Police said Moore was prowling about the home at Mill street. When neighbors sought to capture him, Moore led them in a marathon race that ended on Chestnut street. Witnesses summoned to appear against Moore are Odell Baker and Richard Hardee, 207 Mill street, and Barker T. Ragmon, 1218 Clark street. "Who Lost Truck Wheel?"
Cecil Jones, employee of the City Street Department, found a motor truck wheel and Firestone tire (size 7.50x20) on a street here today. The owner may recover the property by applying at the street Department, on Third Street, and identifying the property, Patrolman Johnny Mobley reported this morning.
