Strike Of Electricians Threatens Light at Lower Michigan Into Darkness

Electric Power Serving More Than Two Million Persons May Be Cut Off; Coal Miners To Return To Work Monday; Other Trouble Spots Reported

By ASSOCIATED PRESS. A walkout of Michigan utility workers started today threatening to cut off electrical power for more than 2,000,000 residents of industrial lower counties in the state and in hundreds of factories.

Operators of boilers and turbines in the huge Zilwaukee plant near Saginaw, which furnishes power for the rich Saginaw Valley, remained away from their jobs but the company reported the plant still was operating "as best we can" with the men who stayed on duty.

The strike, by members of the CIO's state utility workers council, started at 8 a. m. (EST) after employees threw a picket line around the Zilwaukee plant. The walkout also spread to other Michigan communities and industrial areas, to private homes and industries, as Michigan was shut off at 11 a. m. A union spokesman said, however, service would be restored for hospitals, police and fire departments and other essential users.

The utility workers involved in the dispute are a 30,000 men in power wage increase demand, single power for nearly all of the Michigan's major cities and Detroit, serving communities in 37 of Michigan's 43 counties. The area of factories have indicated continuation of a strike would force them to halt operations.

The dispute of the utility workers was the latest in a controversy on the country's labor front. Across the nation the number of workers away from their jobs by stoppages was around 600,000. This number included the 210,000 soft coal miners who because of labor disputes have been away from some 1,000 jobs in six states for nearly a month but any record were ordered by John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, to return to work Monday.

Another trouble spot on the labor scene was the strike of AFL longshoremen at New York harbor. Tension mounted as leaders of rival factions remained at odds over ending of the 18-day old walkout. Violence flared near several points along the sprawling waterfront yesterday but police kept the disturbances under control. Union leaders said they own plans for a return contract negotiations today as an estimated 8,000 stevedores returned to work serving some of the hundreds of idle ships.

Another new labor dispute involved 8,000 CIO United Steel Workers in the Crane Company plant in Chicago. Five hundred policemen went to the plant yesterday after workers started a sit-down strike but they were sent back to their stations after the workers voluntarily left the building and union representatives met and discussed a settlement. BRITISH WILL AID THE DUTCH

Send Troops To Java; Indonesian Council Rejects Dutch Joint-Rule Offer

By RALPH MORTON. Batavia, Java, Oct. 18.—A British convoy arrived tonight off the Java port of Semarang carrying Indian troops who will be sent after the Dutch proposal for partnership to rescue Red Cross and relief personnel beleaguered by Japanese Nationalists.

Lt. Col. J. A. Melsop announced the arrival at Allied headquarters and said more British troops were embarking in Malaya for Sumatra, another rich Dutch island, where there may be "violent disturbances."

Mohamed Hatta, vice president of the Nationalist Indonesian Council, said the organization had rejected the Dutch proposal for partnership in ruling the Netherlands East Indies. He asserted that many years of bloodshed would result should the Dutch impose armed rule in the colony.

Ghurka troops took over the Indies summer capital of Sandong from the Japanese last night, Col. Melsop said. Moving from Batavia, which remained quiet, the troops encountered numerous roadblocks, some manned by the Nationalists. All were removed. The colonel said the Japanese cooperated perfectly in passing control to the British, charged with occupation of the colony for the Allies as a result of the Japanese surrender.

Parts of Sumatra have always been difficult for Dutch rulers. The Dutch fought battles with natives in North Sumatra until as late as 1904.

Fifty Mile Limit After November 1

Raleigh, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Council of State today raised the state highway speed limit from 35 to 50 miles an hour, effective November 1. The step was recommended by Governor Cherry.

The 35-mile limit was set by ex-Governor Broughton as a wartime measure about two years ago and though the state had no speed limit before the war, high speeds of 60 and above were considered prima facie evidence of reckless driving and speeding.

Earlier, Governor Cherry stated that with the increased limit, motorists would be instructed to closely enforce the law. Since the war, he added, many persons had been traveling faster than 35 miles an hour and patrolmen were not making arrests for speeds of 45 and under.

Historic Hotel Burns At Niagara Falls

The 120-year-old Cataract House, historic hotel at Niagara Falls, N. Y., which had housed U. S. presidents and European royalty, was three-quarters destroyed by fire of undetermined origin which is shown filling the sky with dense smoke. Damage was estimated at $700,000. The hotel stood just above the American cataract of famous Niagara Falls. Owners said it will be rebuilt. (AP Wirephoto).

URGES MERGER ARMED FORCES

Need For World-Wide Spy System Also Stressed

Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall told senators today this country no longer can depend on "coffee cup" intelligence work but must have a world-wide espionage system.

The general of the armies urged maintenance of an over-all intelligence setup as an adjunct to the proposed merger of the army and navy into one military department.

"We should know as much as possible about the intent, as well as the military capabilities, of every country in the world," he testified before the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

Marshall said that before the war this country depended on information that could be obtained by military attaches "over the coffee cups at some dinner. He had a vague recollection, he said with a smile, that Congress discouraged any other kind of intelligence network.

At the same time, the five-star general said, all of the rest of the world was finding out what the U. S. was doing. He insisted that henceforth, this country must put its intelligence on a "business basis."

"We must know the facts for our own defense," he declared.

Marshall, pleading for a united postwar army-navy department, declared today the navy neither consulted nor informed the army when it made its post-war plans.

The chief of staff told the Senate Military Committee it had been exceedingly difficult during the war to get agreement on conflicting notions of army and navy leaders.

That's why he said, a mere continuation of the wartime joint. (Continued on page eight)

Upheaval In Argentina Returns Peron To Power

Newly Formed Cabinet Thrown Out; Industrial And Commercial Activity Halted By Strike

Buenos Aires, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A nationwide strike by 500,000 members of the General Confederation of Workers who supported Col. Juan Peron, former vice president, in a new surge to power, today brought nearly to a stop Argentina's industrial and commercial activity.

At the same time a high seas fleet said the Argentine high seas fleet had moved out of its base at Puerto Belgrano, 300 miles south of Buenos Aires.

Destinations of the fleet was unknown, but Adm. Hector Vermejo Lima, a leader of the movement which ousted Peron on Oct. 9, was in turn thrown out of office yesterday in the political upheaval which saw Peron returned to a position of dominance.

The strong man of the military government forced the formation of a cabinet of his supporters and friends, and hailed a general strike called in his behalf as celebrating "a day of glory for the workers."

President Edelmir Farrell tossed aside a "cabinet of notables" submitted by Juan Alvarez as attorney general, threw out Alvarez himself, reinstated several members of his deposed cabinet, ousted Adm. Hector Vermejo Lima, a leader of the Oct. 9 movement against Peron as navy minister, and before a vast crowd hailed Peron as "a man who knows how to win your hearts."

The newspaper La Prensa said that shortly before midnight the gunboats Independencia and Rosario and the minesweeper Drummond of the Argentine navy left the capital's port. It printed an unconfirmed report that Vermejo Lima and other high navy chiefs were aboard the Drummond.

Still a mystery was the status of Gen. Eduardo Azaola, who led the Campo De Mayo garrison movement which had forced Peron's resignation as vice president, war minister and labor minister. Azaola had taken the post of war minister, and Farrell's announcement listed no successor thus far.

In response to the general strike called by Peron's friends in the General Confederation of Labor, all trains out of Buenos Aires stopped running at one minute past midnight.

But not all unions supported the strike. The Buenos Aires Labor Council, which includes representatives of all unions in the capital, said the strike was "imposed by Nazi elements in the Labor Ministry who pistol in hand are trying to paralyze the country to aid Col. Peron."

Two persons died and six were injured in a crowd which attacked the offices of the newspaper Critica, outspoken critic of Peron and Farrell, during the night. Some employees of the newspaper said bombs and machineguns were used in the attack. The building was fired, but employees extinguished the flames. The office of the newspaper La Prensa also was attacked.

At the height of this violence, a government communique said the demonstration which had flared throughout the day had "dissolved themselves in perfect order" and that both the city and the rest of the country was perfectly calm.

Allies Indict Nazis For Crimes Against Humanity

Millions In Diamonds Recovered From Japs

Large Quantities Of Silver Also Taken; MacArthur Seeks To Put End To Narcotics Trade

Found Slain

In a hood near Pontiac, Mich., wooders found the mutilated body of Mrs. Lydia Thompson (above), Russian-born estranged wife of Louis V. Thompson, wealthy Detroit automobile dealer. Police questioned Thompson and his former secretary, Mrs. Helen Budnik, regarding the slaying but said no charges had been placed against either. (AP Wirephoto).

Tokyo, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Huge, hidden Japanese fortunes in diamonds and precious metals were scooped up today by American occupation forces, who moved at the same time to stamp out one of Japan's great sources of wealth—the illicit narcotics industry.

Allied headquarters froze narcotics stock in Japan and Korea and banned production of narcotics-yielding plants, estimating by that one move to cut off more than 90 per cent of the world's illicit narcotics traffic.

As a precautionary measure—possibly in view of the winter of cold and hunger facing the Japanese—American troops in a four-day house-to-house search confiscated more than 20 truck loads of hidden Japanese arms and ammunitions.

More than $30,000,000 worth of dazzling diamonds—largely government owned and many obtained through deceit of the Japanese people—were discovered today in cheap, tatty thermos bottles in a safety deposit box.

While investigators uncovered the rich find, millions of dollars worth of gold and silver bullion began to move in two and one-half ton U. S. army trucks under armed escort from the bomb-battered government mint to the Bank of Japan.

Allied officers found 103 tons of silver bars, which they valued at about $2,000,000, stacked carefully in a farmer's barn near Kasugai, 85 miles from Tokyo. The farmer, Kashuro Haibara, said the silver was sent to him from Tokyo to save it from loss during American bombings.

Another $1,000,000 worth of silver was found a few days previously, cached in an underground room near a machine shop at Haratsuka, about 100 miles from Tokyo.

Toyoichiro Kagawa, Japanese Christian leader, urged general MacArthur to divert part of the more than $250,000,000 in government valuables already seized to import food.

Addressing MacArthur through a letter to the newspaper Manichi, Kagawa added:

"It goes without saying that the Japanese people will endeavor their best to faithfully carry out reparations but the suffering of our victims actually is greater than one imagines."

The fortune in diamonds, totaling 131,000 karats in weight, was found in the Mitsui Trust Company vaults, deposited in the name of a Japanese government import and export control agency.

Many of the diamonds had been contributed by civilians who were told they were needed for industrial (Continued on page four)

Twenty - Four Top-Ranking Nazis And Membership Of Several Organizations Charged With Brutal Slaughter Of More Than 10 Million Persons

Berlin, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A massive book-size indictment charging German war criminals collectively and individually with crimes against humanity was filed today at the first public session of the International War Crimes Tribunal.

The historic court session at which the 35,000-word document was formally handed up was held in the severe, high-ceilinged room of the Allied control authority building—the same building where some of the participants in the July, 1944, plot against Adolf Hitler were tried.

Under an agreement by the four Allied powers, the text of the indictment was embargoed for publication until 3 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

In the big, ornate chamber which formerly housed the Berlin Superior Court, history's first international military tribunal set to work after a brief opening ceremony conducted in four languages.

Maj. Gen. I. T. Nikitchenko, chief judge for the Soviet Union, presided. After swearing in members of the tribunal, he announced that the court was in session. Then the prosecutors presented the indictment.

Nikitchenko rose, acknowledged acceptance of the indictment, and made a statement for the court which disclosed that in addition to the 24 major individual defendants, the prosecution would seek to convict six Nazi party and military groups as criminal organizations.

The 24 top-ranking Nazis named in the indictment are charged individually and collectively with a multiplicity of crimes costing millions of lives. Their hearings probably will begin in November. The defendants were given 30 days in which to prepare their cases.

The leaders named are former key men in Adolf Hitler's government and top generals and admirals of the German high command.

Basically they are accused of a gigantic "plan or conspiracy" dating from 1921, to rule Germany and conquer other lands they wanted.

Their strategy: Treachery and terrorism, first, finally a deliberately aggressive war.

The 35,000-word accusation was drawn for presentation to the four-power war crimes court at Berlin. It is an unprecedented document, it sums up in cold legal form Allied fury over Nazi outrages, and it forces the men accused of responsibility to answer for their acts.

The bulk of the indictment is a recital of horrors.

The Nazis and their high command associates are blamed officially for the brutal slaughter of about 10,000,000 helpless persons, civilians and prisoners of war.

About 4,000,000 were slain at Auschwitz concentration camp alone, the indictment says, and another (Continued on page three)

The WORLD TODAY An Analysis Of The News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

As it becomes increasingly evident that the "secret" of the atomic bomb lies primarily in the ability to construct plants for its production, talk of what to do about it turns more and more on some method to prevent man from poisoning himself with the fruit of his own labors.

The Dublin, N. H., pronouncement by a group interested in world peace that a federation of the world is the only answer is a natural reaction. It is as though they said that man driven by this new fear, must now decide to do at once what he has known for ages that he must do in the end—Alfred Tenmyson, who predicted almost 100 years ago that after the world's "gray navies" had "rained a ghastly dew" there would be accomplished a federation of the world, was not the first to express this dream. It has been repeated so often as to become almost a truism. But it usually is considered something for the ultimate rather than the present.

The Dublin meeting presented an example itself in a way, when Justice Owen Roberts and some of its other leaders felt unable to agree with the majority in its willingness to scrap the United Nations organization. The minority preferred to take the thing step by step, with an initial union of the United States with other nations which already have adopted liberty for individuals.

That apparently would mean so far as major powers are concerned Britain and the United States, and would be mere formalization of a union which already exists in practice.

The inevitable result of such a step now would be a return to pre-war attitudes by Russia, who felt herself forced into a pact with Germany when she decided, rightly or wrongly, that France and England were encouraging Hitler to move east instead of west. Russia's ideological war with capitalism is still a very real internal issue, regardless of how fuzzy the lines between her own system and capitalism have become. She has long felt herself surrounded, and her almost certain reaction to any great formalization of the present Anglo-American alignment would be to back up drop cooperation, perhaps hoping for the best but preparing herself for any possible unfriendly manifestation.

If the nations could not agree at San Francisco to give all nations an equal position before an international control body, there is no indication that anything can be done along that line immediately under the fear of atomic energy.

The Dublin proposal for a world government ruled by the general assembly of nations instead of by a few great powers as under the UNO charter, certainly strikes at San Francisco's great disappointment.

If the atomic bomb were a secret which could be kept there would be the possibility of an Anglo-American "peace ultimatum" under which punishment for starting a war, or for one nation establishing hegemony over another, would be (Continued on page four)

Liquor Sales Show Increase

Raleigh, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Durham County again led the state in liquor sales in September, ringing up $278,828.95.

Sales in the 25 wet counties totaled $2,368,559.50, compared with $2,008,568.60 in August.

Sales by counties: Beaufort $65,913.85; Bertie $57,871.45; Carteret $46,612.15; Chowan $30,855.26; Craven $75,319.20; Cumberland $186,390.90; Dare $11,860.65; Edgecombe $103,663.65; Greene $19,724.55; Halifax $99,329.20; Lenoir $149,558.05; Martin $54,995.65; Moore $66,362.30; Nash $77,439.95; New Hanover $249,176.25; Onslow $68,599.65; Pasquotank $63,061.15; Pitt $129,547.65; Tyrrell $7,346.75; Vance $88,642.45; Wake $221,910.50; Warren $37,097; Washington $21,668.90; and Wilson $156,783.45.

Today In Congress

By Max Hall

Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Congress cracked today with more talk of controlling atomic power, merging the Army and Navy and keeping scientific progress going full tilt.

President Truman got in on some of it directly.

He told a news conference he hoped Congress soon would approve a bill for domestic control of atomic energy—through a special commission.

Up at the Capital, this happened: 1. General George C. Marshall urged unification of the armed forces before a Senate committee. Even during the war, he said, it was difficult to iron out conflicting ideas of the Army and Navy. And he wants a world-wide spy system, no more depending on over-the-coffee-cups intelligence.

2. General H. H. Arnold—boss of the Army Air Forces said present anti-aircraft defenses would be utterly helpless against winged atomic bombs using television. He was testifying before Senators for a National Science Foundation.

3. Scientists who caused the two greatest explosions in history paraded before the House Military Committee—to discuss the bill the President wants. But Dr. Leo Szilard and Dr. H. L. Anderson said they feared the measure was too stringent and would keep young scientists out of the atomic field.

4. The Senate Finance Committee voted to cut individual income taxes $2,085,000,000 a year, stop income taxes for 12,000,000 people and lower business taxes by $2,555,000,000 a year. It still isn't through revis-

Allocations Of Tobacco Jumped

Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department today increased allocations of flue-cured tobacco to dealers and manufacturers by 40,000,000 pounds.

The increase was based on the October crop report indicating record production of flue-cured tobacco this year. Production of flue-cured tobacco now is estimated at 1,201,000,000 pounds.

Flue-cured tobacco is used primarily in the manufacture of cigarettes.

Manufacturers were authorized to buy flue-cured tobacco up to 110 per cent of the quantity used by them for manufacturing purposes from July 11, 1941 to June 31, 1942.

Dealers may purchase 1945-crop flue-cured tobacco at auction, for their own accounts, up to 135 per cent of the basic quantity they were entitled to buy from the 1945 crop.

Butter Prices

Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A jump of five to six cents a pound in the retail cost of butter starting November 8 was announced today by the government.

Stabilization Director John C. Collet said this will result from cancellation on Oct. 31 of a government subsidy of five cents a pound which has been paid to processors.

In a statement issued jointly with Collet's, Price Administrator of Chester B. Wiles, said the increase for butter will not boost the overall cost of living.

The NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER (Substituting for James Marlow) Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Congressional discussion of the atomic bomb has reached the stage of utter confusion.

This state, however, is usual in the early discussions of any great, new and complex question here.

It stems from an effort by all sides to explore every possible angle.

On the atomic bomb this has happened: 1. Scientist after scientist testified there was no defense against the weapon. Then the House Naval Committee hinted strongly that there was a defense. Then it said its information was based on previously published reports and had not come from the navy.

2. Dozens of demands have been voiced for "keeping the secret" of the atomic bomb. But most of the scientists agree there is no real secret, except for bits of mechanical knowledge which any country with know-how, like Russia, can figure out for itself in time.

3. Several congressional committees thought they were best qualified to study atomic bomb development and report on it. Each had a different idea of the job to be done. At such times it is good to stop sniffing around in blind alleys, and get out where the facts are clear. Here are some atomic fundamentals worth keeping in mind as the great debate gradually progresses through the state of confusion:

It is the almost unanimous opinion of the scientists who worked on it or related projects that the A-bomb was a good secret so long as it was a complete secret.

When the first one fell on Hiroshima and was announced at the capital the secret was out. This was and is important for two reasons, even had Washington never spoken another word on the subject.

1. It proved that an atomic bomb could be made. That was incentive to scientists elsewhere to dig in and work hard.

2. It proved that an atomic bomb was even more destructive than had been expected. It therefore became imperative for other powers to discover and produce it.

But the U. S. government, having spent $2,000,000,000 on the project, did not stop with announcing the fact of the bomb. The government also issued a comprehensive report on its development.

Competent physicists say this tells a lot of what an outside scientist would need to know to make a bomb. President Truman dumped the whole problem of domestic control in the lap of Congress and said he was talking with the British and Canadians about international controls. Later he said he would not divulge industrial secrets of the bomb's manufacture.

Those same competent physicists say that will not keep the Russians or any other great nation from making atomic bombs in three to five years.

Now put those points on the table with the rest of the cards. (Continued on page four)

Presbyterian Youth Rally

There will be a youth rally of all the Presbyterian young peoples organizations in the county at the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville at 7 o'clock Friday October 19. Young people will gather from Belvoir, Chicod, Hollywood, Meadowbrook, Greenville, Falkland, Fountain Farmville, Twin Oaks and Ballards in Pitt county and some from Wilson county. Those in the groups over ten years old are urged to attend and to bring their adult advisers. Rev. Sam Zealy of the First Presbyterian Church of Washington, N. C. will be the speaker at the inspirational hour. Two hundred young people are expected for this rally.

To Attend AAUW Meeting

Miss Emma Hooper of the English Department at East Carolina Teachers College will go to High Point, Saturday to attend a meeting of the state board of the American Association of University Women. Miss Hooper will represent the Greenville chapter of the organization. Members from many North Carolina chapters will be present. The meeting will be conducted as a workshop, the main topic of discussion being the work of committees in the organization.

Prolific Apple Tree

There is an unusually prolific apple tree on the W. C. and S. J. Vincent farm, five miles north of Greenville. The tree bore a bountiful crop of cooking apples in July, went into bloom in August and had apples double the size of a walnut. While the second crop of apples were developing the tree went into bloom again, and last Monday night the heavy frost tipped the buds, and now that apple tree is going into hibernation and take a rest until next summer.

W. C. T. U. Visitors

Among those expected to attend the W. C. T. U. district meeting at Immanuel Baptist Church tomorrow of the Greenville Kiwanis Club Friday evening at 6:30. H. Brown Mayo, district Boy Scout executive, will be guest speaker.

Athenum Club

Mrs. Lyman Ormond entertained the Athenum Book Club at her attractive home on Rotary Avenue Tuesday, October 16. The hostess was assisted by Mesdames Walter Harrington and S. M. Crisp in serving a delicious three-course luncheon. Mrs. Walter Harrington, president of the club, turned the meeting over to Mrs. Ormond who introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Sam Underwood, who discussed the book "The Bible for the Common Reader," by Mary Ellen Chase. The book is written from the standpoint of literature and shows the appeal of the Bible stories to every type of person.

After a very brief business session the new club books were distributed to the members.

Guests for this delightful occasion were Mesdames E. G. Flanagan, Sam Underwood, Lee Hannah, Bruce Hovey, Howard Keeler and Mr. Sam Underwood—Reported.

W. C. T. U. Visitors

Among those expected to attend the W. C. T. U. district meeting at Immanuel Baptist Church tomorrow are Mrs. L. E. Brown and Mrs. H. Plemmons of Charlotte, and Mrs. W. H. Causey of Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Brown is president of the North Carolina W. C. T. U. Unselfishly she is giving of her time and talent for the great cause of temperance. In September she attended the executive meeting of the national W. C. T. U. held in Chicago.

Mrs. Causey, promotion secretary visited Greenville a few weeks ago and assisted in organizing the local union. The same week she organized unions in Rocky Mount and Wilson. The past few days she has been working in Lenoir and vicinity.

Mrs. Plemmons is editor of "White Ribbon," W. C. T. U. magazine. A few years ago she was a resident of Greenville when her husband was pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church. At the meeting tomorrow Mrs. Roebuck of Washington, will preside. Rev. Hayes Clark will conduct the morning devotional after which Mrs. J. H. Waldrop will bring a message in song.

The public is invited.

Onan Allen Funeral

Funeral services for Onan Allen, 56, who died at his home Wednesday night, October 10th, at 11:35, were held from the home, 1114 Cotanche street, on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Allen, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Allen was born and spent his entire life in Pitt County. He was engaged in farming until 1941. Due to ill health he then retired and at the time of his death was employed by the Blount-Harvey Company of Greenville.

Officiating minister was the Rev. Howard James of the Red Oak Christian Church and burial followed in the Greenwood cemetery.

Active pallbearers were Amos Evans, R. L. Jordan, Dewey James, Fred Sutton, W. S. May, Alton Barrett, Arden Tucker and Kinsey Smith.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lena Briley Allen, four daughters, Miss Belva Joyce and Edith Greer Allen of the home, Mrs. O. J. Hudson and Mrs. L. P. Edwards, and one son, Ebern Allen, all of Greenville. Eight grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. H. C. Smith of Winterville, one aunt, Mrs. Lib Vanderford of Greenville and several nieces and nephews also survive.

Clio Book Club
The club met with Miss Elizabeth Norman at her home on West 4th street. Upon arrival of the members and guests, Mrs. J. W. Still, Jr., the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. S. B. Starling, served a delicious salad course with coffee. After a short business session the president, Mrs. R. G. Long, turned the program over to Mrs. J. B. Hawes who gave an interesting report on J. Edgar Hoover and the F. B. I.

The F. B. I., as it is called, is a unit of the Department of Justice with jurisdiction in cases involving the violation of certain federal laws. It is not a police force nor a detective agency, although it has the power of arrest and is charged with the tracking down of criminals. It is an organization that will lead to conviction or prove the innocence of an accused person.

J. Edgar Hoover's devotion to duty as against self-interest has made him in official Washington a man apart. This spiritual isolation this utter irreligion to the petty scheming, wire pulling, job grabbing world around has increased immeasurably the prestige of the bureau and the respect with which it is universally regarded. Hoover is kept that first real enemy of the people—corrupt political influence out of the F. B. I., and that insistence has contributed to its long record of achievement both in peace and war. He believes that the only hope for America lies in a resurgence of family life and parental discipline, and he doesn't hesitate, though a bachelor, to say so.

Round Table
Mrs. H. L. Carr was hostess to the Round Table at her home on East Fourth street Tuesday afternoon.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Hunter Fleming of Wilson and Mrs. O. C. Nobles.

The corresponding secretary gave a brief resume of the activities of the Round Table in connection with the sponsorship of the doll collection. A letter, advising the Sheppard Memorial Library of the club's discussion to terminate their sponsorship of the doll collection was read and approved.

The Round Table adopted resolutions memorializing the recently deceased Miss Nellie Denny.

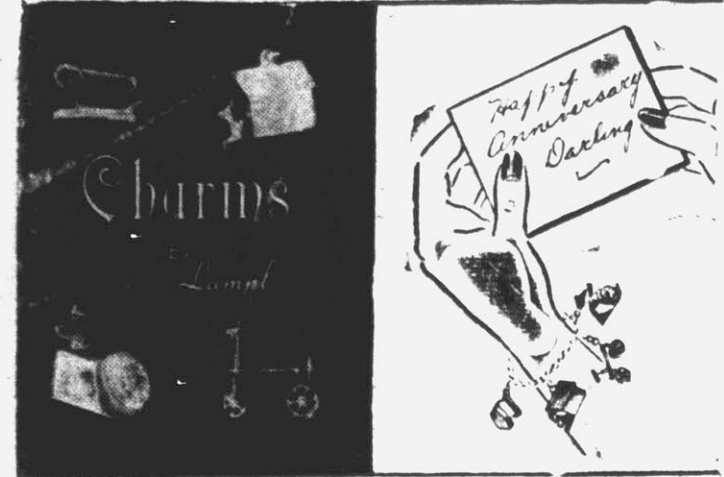

Mrs. W. C. Vincent was appointed custodian of the club records previously held by Miss Denny.

Mrs. E. R. Browning gave a most interesting paper on General Eisenhower. She stated that he was a natural born leader of men and typically American, "as much American as pumpkin pie."

The hostess served a delicious ice cream with after dinner coffee. She was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Hunter Fleming.

FAMOUS BAND TO PLAY HERE

"Chuck" Foster's Orchestra To Play For "25 Club" Dance

By CHESTER WALSH
The "Twenty-Five Club," a group of men interested in the community life of Greenville, formed some months ago, with Dick Stokes III as president, to sponsor an annual "german" and other dances in Greenville, similar to events held in Rocky Mount. It will sponsor a dance here on Thursday night, November 1.

"Chuck" Foster's 14-piece band, with Marilyn Paul, beautiful and talented vocalist, will provide the music. The dance will be semi-formal.

The contract has been signed for the band to come here, committees have been appointed to make arrangements and other details worked out. Present plans indicate that the first dance will be an outstanding event of the winter social season.

Membership in the "Twenty-Five Club" is by invitation and the number will be limited. The membership fee is nominal. It is planned to have several hundred members. Invitations to the dances will be by bid from the members. The present list of members is representative of the community life. Dick Stokes III is president, "Red" Flanagan is vice-president, Bruce Baker is secretary, and Alton Barrett is treasurer. The club's office is at 312 Evans street, Greenville.

At a meeting of the "Twenty-Five Club" at the Old Towne Inn last night the directors said the club expects to make a valuable contribution to the social life of the community. The demand for such a social organization is widespread. The success of the venture is assured. The members of the "Twenty-Five Club" are the men who "really do things in the community." It was stated today, and in the club's personnel are representatives of the social, civic and fraternal groups in Greenville.

Incidentally, "Chuck" Foster's orchestra is nationally known in radio and concert work. Foster gave up a movie career to feature his band on a nation-wide dance and concert circuit.

Check Black Market Women's Nylon Hose

Raleigh, Oct. 17 — The Raleigh District Office of Price Administration revealed today that both the public and dealers in women's hosiery were being made "suckers of" in new "tie-in" sales requirements on nylon hose.

District Director Theodore S. Johnson said that many hosiery dealers were buying hose from manufacturers who required that other kinds of hose be purchased at the same time—and some retailers were being investigated for requiring sales of nylon hosiery only upon condition of the purchase of other goods.

OPA's program, as a protection to both the buying public and the honest retailer, prohibits anyone to require a person to buy one article to get another.

The OPA regulation reads: "On and after October 22, 1942, regardless of any contract or other obligation, no person shall: (1) require a purchaser to buy or agree to buy other hosiery or other article, service, package or wrapper in connection with a sale or delivery of nylon hosiery."

Johnson pointed out that merchants burdened with such requirements should, for their own sake, report any such illegal requirements to OPA.

In addition, ceiling prices for all kinds of hose are set under OPA regulation MPR 95 which spells out dollars-and-cents prices for all sellers and buyers.

OPA is taking action in Eastern North Carolina and in addition to its investigations will welcome reports from dealers and the public who feel that illegal sales and prices are keeping nylon hose from honest sales channels.

Belvoir High School News

Community Sing
There will be a community sing at the Belvoir High School Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All those who like to sing or enjoy hearing good singing will want to present. Mr. June Rose, Superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, will lead the singing. This is not only for all those who live around Belvoir but also for all others that want to come and join in with the singing of old fashioned songs and familiar hymns. A large crowd is expected.

Death Sentences
Wiesbaden, Oct. 16—(AP)—Alfons Klein, former administrative head of the Hadamar insane asylum, and two of his assistants were sentenced to death by an American military tribunal last night for the systematic murder of more than 400 Russian and Polish inmates of the institution.

Long prison terms were imposed on three other men and one woman who were tried jointly with the condemned trio.

Chapter Elects Officers
The Robert H. Wright Chapter of the Future Teachers of America has elected officers for 1945-1946 and begun work for the year at East Carolina Teachers College. The members include 25 students. Miss Emma Hooper of the English Department is sponsor.

The Greenville chapter, organized in 1938, has the oldest charter of any of the organizations now functioning in North Carolina. It was also among the first to be chartered in the United States. A junior branch of the NEA and the NCEA. It has as its purpose acquainting prospective teachers with professional ideas and ideals.

The officers of the Greenville chapter are: Helen Rouse of Warsaw, president; Elizabeth Worthington of Winterville, secretary; Josephine Everette of Robersonville, vice president; Lillian Joyner of Greenville, treasurer; and Frances Turner of Sharpburg, reporter.

Allies Indict . . .
1,500,000 in notorious Maidanek. Of 9,600,000 Jews who came under Nazi domination in and out of Germany, the document asserts, 5,700,000 disappeared. "Most of the deliberately put to death by Nazi conspirators."
The Nazis and their associates are accused also:
Of torturing civilians to obtain information.
Of putting civilians under "productive arrest in the "most inhuman and inhumane conditions."

Of mass murders of defenseless people by gassing and shooting, of incredibly cruel "scientific" experiments on women.
Of drawing the blood of children.
Of shooting hostages, ill treating and murdering war prisoners and of plundering or wiping out by wholesale destruction the cities and towns of lands they occupied.

"American prisoners, officers and men, were murdered in Normandy during the summer of 1944 and in the Ardennes in December, 1944," the official document declares.
"American prisoners were starved, beaten and otherwise mistreated in numerous stalags (prison camps), in Germany and in the occupied nations, particularly in 1943, 1944 and 1945."

The indictment furnished the basis for projected trial of German Nazi and military leaders by the Anglo-American-French-Soviet military tribunal at Nuernberg, Germany. It was drawn up by prosecutors of the four Allied nations, including Justice Robert H. Jackson for the United States. It was released simultaneously in the Allied capitals and in Germany.

The 24 men named as defendants were the highest in Adolf Hitler's Nazi government to be taken alive. Among them are Herman Goering, Rudolf Hess, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Robert Ley, all key Hitler officials, Generals Wilhelm Keitel and Alfred Jodl; Admirals Karl Doenitz and Eric Raeder; industrialist Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen und Halbach; financier Hjalmar Schacht.

Against most of them the indictment makes four sweeping, general accusations: (1) Crimes against peace in starting the war, (2) war crimes in violation of the accepted laws of war, (3) Crimes against humanity which includes the Jewish persecutions, and (4) Conspiring together to commit the crimes.

After these four general counts are laid down with details of supporting evidence, the names of the individuals are listed together with the specific counts on which each is to be tried.

Organizations indicted are Hitler's old Reich Cabinet, the German general staff and high command, the leadership corps of the Nazi Party, the SS organization (a police and military outfit), the Gestapo (dream secret police), and the SA (a police and military training organization).

The previously announced intention of the prosecution is to prove these to be criminal organizations so that any person legally found to be a member would be convicted automatically as a criminal. Thus the prosecutors hope to shorten the trials of hundreds, perhaps thousands, of Germans yet to be indicted.

Today's indictment traces the great Nazi conspiracy from the emergence of Hitler as a political leader in 1921, through his election as chancellor of the German Republic in 1933 and his suppression of all opposition in Germany immediately thereafter. The Nazi Party is described as "the central core" of the conspiracy.

Three aims are attributed to the Nazis:
1. To destroy the treaty of Versailles and its restrictions on German military power.
2. To regain German territories lost in World War I and other European territories occupied by "racial Germans" such as the Sudetenland, and
3. To acquire "living space" in Europe and elsewhere.

"By reason of all the foregoing," the indictment states, "the defendants with divers other persons, are guilty of a common plan or conspiracy to commit crimes against humanity in the course of preparation for war and in the course of prosecution of the war; and of a conspiracy to commit war crimes not only against the armed forces of their enemies but also against non-belligerent civilian populations."

The indictment takes up these war crimes and crimes against humanity country by country, including the pre-war persecutions of Christians, Jews and political opponents of the Nazis in Germany itself. It declares:
"The Nazis murdered amongst others Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria, the Social Democrat (Dr.

Rudolf) Breitschneid and the Communist (Ernst) Thaelmann."
"They (the Nazis) imprisoned in concentration camps numerous political and religious persons, for example, Chancellor Schuschnigg of Austria and Pastor Niemoller of Germany."
"In November, 1938, by orders of the chief of the Gestapo, anti-Jewish demonstrations all over Germany took place. Jewish property was destroyed, 30,000 Jews were arrested and sent to concentration camps and their property confiscated. Among other mass murders of Jews were the following:
"2,000 were shot in an anti-tank ditch at Mineralie Vodl. 4,300 other Jews were shot in the same ditch. 60,000 Jews were shot on an island on the Dvina River near Riga. 20,000 Jews were shot at Kutzka. 32,000 Jews were shot at Sarajev. 60,000 Jews were shot at Kieve and Dneipropetrovsk."

"As the Germans retreated before the Soviet army they exterminated the Jews rather than allow them to be liberated. Many concentration camps and Ghettos were kept in which Jews were incarcerated and tortured, starved, subjected to merciless atrocities and finally exterminated. About 70,000 Jews were exterminated in Yugoslavia.

The fantastic forms of tortures were gathered on barges, taken out to sea and drowned, over 144,000 persons being exterminated in this manner."
"Along with adults," the indictment says, "the Nazi conspirators mercilessly destroyed even children. They killed them with their parents in groups and alone. They killed them in children's homes and hospitals, burying the living in the graves, throwing them into flames, stabbing them with bayonets, poisoning them, conducting experiments upon them, extracting their blood for the use of the German army, throwing them into prisons and Gestapo torture chambers and concentration camps where the children died from hunger, torture and epidemic diseases."

The indictment says the Germans carted off to slave labor many millions of citizens from the occupied countries and forced prisoners of war into work contrary to the provisions of the Geneva Convention. France suffered heavily in this way and the number of Russian citizens deported to slavery was put at about 4,000,000.

France and Russia also lost most heavily—since they were the largest countries wholly or partly occupied—to Nazi plunderers. France lost in plunder 257,020,024 francs ($5,140,400,480) of private wealth, and 55,000,100,000 francs ($1,100,002,000,000) in state owned wealth.

Bad treatment, pseudo-scientific experiments (sterilization) of women at Auschwitz and at Ravensbruck, study of the evolution of cancer of the womb at Auschwitz, of typhus at Buchenwald, anatomical research at Natzweiler, heart injections of Buchenwald, bone grafting and muscular excisions at Ravensbruck, etc., gas chambers, gas wagons and crematory ovens.

In the Gantov camp 200,000 peaceful citizens were exterminated. The most refined methods of cruelty were employed in this extermination, such as disemboweling and freezing of human beings in tubs of water; mass shootings took place to the accompaniment of the music of an orchestra recruited from the persons interned."

In the Ozarichi region of Bielorussia, the indictment says, the Germans set up three concentration camps without shelter and placed in them tens of thousands of persons. Then they added people from typhus hospitals intentionally for the purpose of infecting the other persons interned and for spreading the disease in territories from which the Germans were being driven by the Red army.

Among dozens of other murder centers listed in Russia is mentioned the Crimea where "peaceful citizens were gathered on barges, taken cut to sea and drowned, over 144,000 persons being exterminated in this manner."

Russia's total material loss due to plunder and destruction was put at $79,000,000,000 rubles ($55,500,700,000 at the current diplomatic exchange rate.)

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

KEEPING POWER IN BALANCE

We had carried a clock from one place to another and had taken off the pendulum and carefully wrapped the works in paper so the transportation could be effected without injury to the timepiece. When the paper was removed, the clock started again to run, but because the pendulum was not attached, it went two or three times as fast as it was supposed to go. But after the pendulum was put back in its place, the clock resumed its ticking with slow and measured regularity.

The need of some weight to keep our lives from spinning away with themselves. Nobody likes burdens. We would not assume any such if we could avoid doing so. But there is no doubt that burdens often hold life to a majestic and measured pace and turn life from excited futility to solid purpose. Just as the pendulum tempers the power of the mechanism which moves the hands of the clock, so the weight of certain circumstances often keeps our lives on a steady course.

These weights by which our lives are brought into balance are not always handicaps and troubles. More often they are the duties which people of wholesome mind everywhere seek to assume—the duties of home life, of parenthood, of the duties one owes to country and to church. All such responsibilities have a marvelous way of keeping our lives steady and giving purpose to everything we do.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—In discussions of the world control of atomic bombs, it is surprising that the opinions of the scientists who still are working on the bombs are being given so little attention.

Prof. Walter H. Bratt (R-Minn.) has laid one subject from a group of these scientists before his colleagues but few so far have incorporated any of the conclusions of the laboratory men into their public arguments.

Except for occasional outbursts by some Congressmen and other public officials who declare we should not "steal" the bomb as a U. S. scientific asset, Congress seems willing to wait until the President has the problem squarely before it.

Even then, there probably will be some high-pressure between the legislative and executive branches.

The scientists who created the atomic bomb have had "heavy" silent sleepless nights on the question of what to do with their brain child.

And the scientists themselves reiterate this position, not that they want of the secret, but that they want the development that have been proceeding since the first atomic bomb was dropped over Hiroshima.

The scientists who have tried to remain conscientious in making their reports set forth their conclusions with almost unbearable logic. They state simply that the United States has four alternatives in control of the atomic bomb and then proceed to show what is wrong with each one.

(1) Disregard the atomic bomb altogether in our formation of foreign policy.

Arguments for this one simply that the atomic bomb will not in the long run change the basic nature of war or prevent us from that practically certain development of a general defense against the atom.

To this latter the scientists are unequivocally they can "offer no hope of a realistic defense against the atomic bomb." They point out that neither moral conscience nor fear of retaliation has ever kept a power from using any weapon on the march of conquest. The latter did prevent use of gas in the last war, but for reasons that wouldn't apply to the atomic bomb.

(2) Keep our secret; control raw materials and build bigger and better bombs.

To this, the scientists say simply that any nation can find the secret for itself in two to five years; that the raw materials (especially uranium) are scattered all over the world; and that after a minimum number of bombs are constructed, bigger and better ones are just so much useless surplus.

(3) Conquer the world before anybody else can develop the bombs. This is against everything that the United States has fought and bled for and may be dismissed as unthinkable.

(4) Turn atomic power over to international control. The scientists recognize the difficulties ahead in this policy, especially that in so doing the United States will have to sacrifice some of its national sovereignty. But those are the possibilities in a nutshell. Take your pick, the scientists say.

No one in Washington thinks seriously that the United States is going to have a war with any country in the next five years. The critical period will be after the war has recovered from the war that ended in 1945.

Obviously the greater part of the diamonds never were used for that purpose.

The same government control agency also has 33,000 karats of diamonds in vaults at Osaka, considerable gold and nearly 250 pounds of platinum in various parts of Tokyo.

The discovery came shortly after another fortune in diamonds, belonging to Japanese admirals, was found in a package hidden in a chicken coop atop a mountain 160 miles north of Tokyo.

The movement of the gold from the mint is part of a plan to gather all precious metals Bank of Japan vaults in Tokyo and Osaka, pending instructions from Washington as to the disposition.

Mayo that he would take a brief vacation in a southern province and then return to the capital to "fight shoulder to shoulder with the workers until I am exhausted."

It was Peron's possible candidacy for the presidency in next April's elections which kept Argentina in a state of ferment for months.

Only a short time before Peron addressed the cheering throngs in the packed, torchlit square. Alvarez had submitted a list of five civilian notables for the cabinet. Farrell dismissed them promptly, before they had time to take office. Addressing the crowd, Farrell announced: "As you demanded, the cabinet has been ousted."

From the balcony on which Peron announced he would return to lead the Argentine workers "to further social conquests," an official announced the new cabinet. It included Gen. Humberto Sosa Molina, commander of the Third Corps area, as interior minister. He was identified throughout the war with the group which believed in an Axis victory.

Also in the Farrell cabinet, the official announced, would be Juan C. Cocke, reinstated as foreign minister, a post he held before Peron was ousted. Hortensio Quijano, minister of the interior up to the time of the Campo De Mayo revolt, becomes minister of justice and education. Armando Antille was back at his post as finance minister. Rear Adm. Abelardo Pantin was made navy minister, replacing Venengo Lima. Gen. Juan Pistarini returns as minister of public works, and Lt. Col. Franklin Lucero, secretary to Peron in the war ministry, will be chief of police.

The Curious Clue

BY RUFUS HEED

Chapter 6
After the General had finished his Miami call, he and Seth went into Luke Hale's office. Wallis Warner and Suzy were there, sitting off in a corner, not talking. Luke Hale left his desk and walked across the room toward Seth.

"I understand you have had valuable papers stolen so that this crime involves theft as well as murder," Seth nodded.

"I have telephoned our police department. He'll be right over."

"Bienvenido Cobo is the Department," The General volunteered, dryly. "He has two assistants—Jesus Esquilado, captain of the day police, who's the Chief's better half, and Faustos Gomez, the night man—that's headquarters' lineup."

"Who's your cornerer?" Seth asked.

"We don't have a cornerer. Usually no one ever dies in Key West for anything but old age, but of course," Hale added quickly, "a cornerer will be appointed. The county attorney does that."

"I think we better get Delgado and Potter in here before the Chief comes," the General said abruptly.

"Everyone connected in any way with Dolores must be here to tell what he or she knows about what happened tonight. By the way, where's that doctor?"

"Right here, General," Dr. Blair called out from the doorway. "I thought the medical examiner might have arrived."

"That's Waldo. No he won't be in town until tomorrow night. He's off on a fishing trip." Again it was the General who explained. "So you might give your report to the police, if you don't mind. Doctor. We're rather informal down here. I suppose you can tell us the time of death?"

"Yes, sir. I can. The girl was killed an hour ago. The body is still firm," Seth looked at his watch. It was just seven o'clock.

"My wife asked me the time as the bridal party left the run-way. That was 9:42. I think she was strangled a few minutes before ten o'clock, but ten will be accurate enough for official purposes."

The door of the office opened, and three men came in. Ramon Delgado and two men Luke Hale immediately introduced as Chief of Police Bienvenido Cobo and Jesus Esquilado.

Luke Hale handed a paper to Cobo.

"Here, Chief, are a few facts about the murder which I've written down for you to save you time." The manager waved his hand toward the people in the office. "These people were with Dolores at different times this evening. You'll probably want to interview them."

"Muchas gracias," The little man answered solemnly.

"Ya oigan? Now I ask questions."

Cobo walked over and planted himself in front of the General.

"Where were you at 15 minutes to ten, and at ten o'clock this evening?" he demanded.

"I was at the bar, talking to the bartender. Easy to verify."

"And you, Miss Warner?"

"Walking on the beach, alone."

"Anyone see you?"

"Not that I know of."

"Now you, Mr. Peabody?"

"Walking up and down the lobby of the hotel."

"Anyone see you?"

"No. Not until ten o'clock when I met Miss Van Tyne."

Potter had come into the office just as Cobo started his questioning. He turned to him now. "You were talking at ten o'clock, too?" There was a thin edge of annoyance in the Chief's voice.

Potter grinned. "Yes. How did you know? Peabody can vouch for that. He saw me." Seth stared at him a moment. He did not know Potter and seen him, but that was after the murder.

"Walk, walk, walk. Everybody walk. You walk too, Ramon?"

"Not me. The dancer answered quickly. At 15 minutes before ten, I was in the dressing room with the getting ready for our dance."

"You met Miss Van Tyne at ten and went out immediately. Here don't you?"

"Yes, General."

"Now you, Mr. Peabody?"

"Walking up and down the lobby of the hotel."

"Anyone see you?"

"Yes, General."

Mr. Peabody.
A few minutes after Suzy finished. Cobo said everyone could go for the night. As Seth left the office he had a very definite feeling of disaster closing in on Suzy and himself.

Chapter 7
Seth and the General were standing with Suzy at the end of the Casa Linda beach.
"What a terrible night," Suzy's voice faltered. "I never knew anything like this could happen to us."

The General turned and looked at her and Seth could see he, too, was worried. "Murder is always unreal until it happens to people we know," he said soberly. "All three of us, whether we like it or not, are involved in this tragedy and we'll have to work fast while we still have a chance to recover that dossier."

The General said slowly, "I think the dossier is in the hotel—at this moment. I am convinced that one of the people in Hale's office this evening stole the dossier and strangled Dolores. Now that person—man or woman—has certainly not had a chance to get the dossier out of the hotel—not yet—Cobo has his two police captains watching the place all night so if anyone tries to make a break for it they'll get him."

Seth groaned. "Still in the hotel and I stand out here, doing nothing. It's maddening."

"There is nothing you can do Cobo is searching all of your rooms now. But he won't find anything."

The silence that followed this observation was broken by Suzy, who said wearily, "Well, after the statement I made this evening, my room will be searched first! In that case Cobo should be out of it by this time, and I'm going to bed. I'm desperately tired. Goodnight, children. I'll see you both in the morning."

Seth watched her running up the walk to the hotel, and then turned to the General. "I guess the fat's in the fire now!"

"I'm afraid so, Peabody. Suzy, of course, was just telling the facts as she knew them. But it's always better to let a police officer ask his own questions. When witnesses start volunteering information, they usually talk too much."

"Cobo's not so dumb."

"Cobo's not dumb at all," the General returned quickly. "Don't underestimate him for a minute. He may not be up on the latest police procedure, but he never lets a clue slip by him, and he'll dig on this case like nothing human. It's the most important case he's had since he was made chief of police. The loss of our dossier throws poor little Dolores Carabelle's death into big time—and Cobo knows it."

"Well, Sir, I'm staying on until we recover the dossier. I'll talk with Mr. Van Tyne in the morning."

"When does the F. B. I. take over?"

"Monday morning. We'll need them like the devil. There's going to be a lot more trouble before we find out who stole that dossier."

Seth knew it would be impossible for him to sleep right away, so after the General left, he walked along the beach toward the long fishing pier. Wearily he sank into the first beach chair he saw.

Suddenly Seth sat up straight in his chair. He might have dozed off but he was sure he heard a sound near him, coming from the sea. As he listened, Seth heard the crunch of feet on sand, steadily coming nearer through the mist which was now settling over the beach.

Then out of the mist a white figure appeared, hesitated after a brief delay and came slowly toward him. Then he heard his name spoken in a low voice and Henry Potter came up to his chair.

"Hello," he said quietly. "I see you couldn't sleep either. I was so wide awake I thought I'd take a swim to see if it would help. Ghastly night."

"It certainly has been. Have a cigarette?" Seth held out his case on the instant relieved to have someone to talk to.

"Thanks."

"Rotten shame about Dolores," Potter said. "Poor kid. She never had a chance."

"You mean—the way she went after Miss Van Tyne?"

"Yes. And it was a regular hair pulling affair. Suzy really got mad and I can't say I blame her. Dolores was pretty poisonous. Cobo might be interested in the fact that after that affair, Suzy gave Dolores money to get her out of town. Then last night Dolores changed her mind and said she wouldn't go. But that was after she had taken Suzy's money."

"How do you know that?" Seth asked, a thin line of anger in his voice.

"Dolores told me. She said Suzy had given her $200."

"Listen, Potter," Seth said in a low, level voice. "I don't know you, except by reputation and you don't know or care anything about me. But you do know that Suzy Van Tyne is now Cobo's number one witness. I'd advise you not to go a lot of talking about things that have nothing to do with this case."

"So that's how things are cooking?"

"That's right. And I'm watching the front burners. Don't forget that. Seth started back toward the hotel. Within a few feet he had lost Potter in the fog, but he heard his chuckle as he turned away. Seth looked at the clock as he went through the lobby a few minutes later.

It was three o'clock.

"Damn funny case to be examining," he muttered to himself.

Grain Market
Chicago, Oct. 18—(AP)—Weakness in oats futures, where prices were down more than a cent a bushel most of the time, was an unsettling influence in all grain pits today. Wheat closed 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents lower than the previous finish, December $1.75 1/2, corn was off 1/8 to 2/8 cents, December 64 1/2-1/2, rye was down 3/4 to 2 1/2 cents, December $1.58 1/2-1/2, and barley was 1 1/2 to 2 cents lower, December $1.15 1/2.

New York Cotton
New York, Oct. 18—(AP)—Cotton futures opened unchanged to 3/8 cent a bale higher. Noon prices were 30 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower, December 22.49, March 23.61, and May 23.58. Futures closed 20 to 35 cents a bale lower.

Crumbley of Sylvania, Ga., telegraphed Welch that a Negro farmer, Theodore Lewis of Halcovdale, Ga., had found the shirt, wallet and money and a small address book. Welch immediately instructed the sheriff to give the finder $100 reward and mail the rest to him at Miami.

ODT Goes Out Of Existence Soon

Chicago, Oct. 18—(AP)—Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, disclosed in a speech today that the war agency "will pass out of existence in a few short months." He added that "most of its controls" have already been revoked or relaxed.

However, before the ODT disbanded, Col. Johnson said in a prepared address to the annual meeting of the National Association of Shippers Advisory Boards, the railroads have a "tremendous transportation job still to be done" in moving military personnel.

Louis-Conn Fight Will Be In City That Pays Most Money

By SID FEDER
New York, Oct. 18—(AP)—Mike Jacobs is a New Jersey tulip grower with an ambidextrous ability as a fight promoter.

And today he was busy with both hands. With one, he was shoving a pen into Billy Conn's dainty "duke," trying to get the Pittsburgh pretty boy to forget his "beefs" and sign on the dotted line for a return go with Joe Louis. With the other, Mike was holding an "auction" over the site of the Louis-Conn nose-mashing.

With this left-handed job, Uncle Mike was trying to tell you how the $3,000,000 taffy pull next June would go to the place "We'll get the most money." He carefully explained how Philadelphia and its huge municipal auditorium and Chicago and its wide stretches of Soldier Field were running neck and neck for the big pot, and he was open to all offers. But around Jacobs' beach, the wild waves were saying that the Windy City would have to put up the loop and the City of Brotherly Love would have to give up Billy Penn from off the top of City Hall to get this tussle out of Yankee Stadium, N. Y., when post-time rolls 'round.

The only thing standing in the way, according to the beachcombers, was the 5 per cent "bite" New York State puts on fight movies. Other states, with stiff tariffs, were said to be willing to ease a point here and slice a point there in order to land this juicy slab of apple pie. So it was considered likely Pa Knickerbocker would throw a big pitch to hang onto it, and would not let a comparatively small change "rhubarb" like the movie money stand in the way. "Pa" still remembers the howl that went up when the Dempsey-Tunney doings went to Philly. And Mike still has to do business in this village after the Louis-Conn festivities.

As for getting Conn to sign up for the fuss, Mike had a session lined up today with the legal member of Billy's fistic family, as a follow-up to the hour-long howling party he had with Billy's manager, Johnny Ray, yesterday.

Johnny, making his first New York appearance since Billy was belted out by Joe in the 13th round in June, 1941, told Mike the contract, as far as he was concerned, was about as valuable as watered oil stock. His chief objection was to the clause that said the late Army corporal couldn't have any exhibition or tune-up appearances before the big beak-busting party.

Johnny wants Billy to have three tune-ups in the bushes before he steps out there to try to do what he almost did the last time he said howdy to Joe. And when Mike tried to tell him that Louis signed without asking for any tune-ups, Johnny explained he wasn't managing the bomber, and for Jacobs to take that up with Joe.

That was Johnny's only holler over the contract yesterday, but the chances are his legal "mouthpiece" will give him something new to stew about today before he finally signs, as peaceful as you please. You see, one of Johnny's joys of life is to steam Uncle Mike up very warm for October.

Football

By SCOTTY MINSHULL
AP Sports Writer

Richmond, Va., Oct. 17—(AP)—Virginia Military Institute, which pulled something of a surprise in Southern Conference football last Saturday night by defeating North Carolina State, 21-14 at Raleigh, N. C., may again do the unexpected when it goes against William and Mary in another conference clash at Richmond Saturday afternoon.

The records favor the Cadets, but this year it will take a lot more than a bunch of steady wins and performances to put the VMI squad on front over the old green team from Williamsburg.

Coach Rube McCray exhibited a powerful juggernaut in this year's collection of gridlers wearing the Indian colors last Saturday when the Tribe humbled Virginia Tech, 38-0. In 21 meetings in the past the Cadets have won 15 times, lost five times and tied once.

Coach Pooley Hubert, of the Fighting Squadron, was alerted yesterday by the manner in which the star back, Bob Thompson, of Tech, Ala., executed his passing assignments. It is believed that he will rely to a great extent on the aerial attack to offset the admittedly superior weight possessed by the Tribe in backfield and line. Hubert has a couple of fast men in Bill Barrett and Bill Hawkins, and power in his driving fullback, Fred Chewing, of Richmond, and also any leeway in the matter of backs, the Cadets should make things interesting for the Indians and spectators.

McCray spent yesterday in studying and perfecting his punting. He also gave some time to reviewing a phase which was more or less neglected in the Tech clash.

Another Southern Conference game scheduled for the Old Dominion, which will be watched with interest is Maryland's meeting with Virginia Tech at Blacksburg. The Tribe punts, who have one conference victory under their belt and who have not been defeated this year, are conceded victory over the Cadets—but there are still such things as upsets.

Only one Southern Conference game is scheduled for North Carolina. Wake Forest being slated to meet N. C. State at Raleigh. The Demon Deacons showed considerable power last week against Duke, although whipped by the Blue Devils, 26-19, and should show their old warts in Raleigh.

Coach Peabody Walden met the varsity through a try-out yesterday against State play and the first stringers turned in an impressive performance. Three regulars missed practice, but only Nick Cenovich blocking back is expected to be out of Saturday's game.

The University of Richmond, idle since its defeat by Maryland Oct. 6, resumes play in an inter-league clash with Guilford College at Greensboro, N. C., while the University of North Carolina, held from its inter-league meeting with Duke, resumes a workout at Chapel Hill with the Cherry Point Marine Corps.

Duke, South Carolina and Clemson, three other conference members, will remain idle this week-end.

Short Ribs Are Flavor Favorites

Two favorites of mine... for real honest-to-goodness flavor... are short ribs and ox joints. Both of these lowly meats, browned to perfection and braised in their own juices until the aroma was irresistible, were served with pride to the most discriminating of guests at Rector's. As we return to normal meat supplies, let's remember these flavor favorites.

And our G.I. knows that help that comes from the pockets and hearts of Americans is doing more than we know to bind up the wounds of war, and restore faith in the future. And without this faith there can be no peace—for Europe, or for us.
You give only once a year to all the great causes combined in your Community War Fund, which, in turn, supports all the 21 agencies of the National War Fund. This year, make your gift bigger than ever before.
And the doughboy knows that his fight for peace is not won—while there are everywhere hunger and disease and desperation.
He knows that our government is doing everything possible to send food and other supplies to those who stood with us in the war. But there is much that governments cannot do. Negro Sentenced To Gas Chamber

Kinston, Oct. 18—(AP)—Allgood King, Negro, who went on trial Tuesday, charged with murder in the first degree of Mrs. Raymond P. Hardy of Hugo on Sept. 9, was sentenced yesterday by Judge John J. Burney to die in the state gas chamber Nov. 30.

The defendant stated on the stand that Hardy, the white woman's husband, offered him $500 to kill his wife. Hardy denied this accusation and offered testimony to show he was nowhere in the vicinity when the murder took place.

King said he killed Mrs. Hardy with a knife after smashing a jar of fruit over her head.

The state did not prosecute King on the two additional true bills brought against him charging burglary and rape.

under the illusion that they can thwart the Indonesian desire to remain independent. Hatta said "The reported 40,000 Dutch troops to be used in Indonesia to spread love for the Dutch with sword and fire will definitely not succeed in their efforts."

"Not for a moment will Indonesia," he said, "Why should Indonesia be a colonial status, whatever new garb it assumes or whatever fancy name is given it. War and revolution raging fiercely for years will be the only result."

Hatta restated five demands he said had been made upon Lt. Gen. A. F. Christon, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies. They were:

- (1) End of the Netherlands Indies civil administration.
 - (2) Recognition of Soekarno's administration.
 - (3) No further landings by Dutch troops.
 - (4) Removal of all Dutch troops and
 - (5) Restriction of Allied occupation troops to the job of liberating prisoners of war and internees and disarming the Japanese.
- Hatta spoke in the absence of Soekarno who is toiling the country in an effort to restrain his more extreme followers.
- Hatta's statement as heard in London over the Bandoeng radio station contained any form of suggestion in a commonwealth in which the Dutch had won the Indonesian dog." He charged that pre-war officials in Java were "Nazi-minded."

Adlai Stevenson, American deputy delegate, said he thought a temporary committee would speed the formation of trusteeships under the permanent arrangement.

The temporary committee had been proposed in subcommittee reports as a means of getting around legal knots in the United Nations charter. The charter provides for a permanent council with members who administer international territories and an equal number who would not administer. It has been suggested that it would be impossible to set up a permanent council until trustee areas have been parcelled out.

Gromyko said the charter provisions for setting up the trusteeship should be carried out as soon as possible," but added that the tion's postwar military problems, is expected to get a request from Mr. Truman that every able bodied young man be required to take a year of military training.

The bill, which was introduced by Rep. Charles McNary, of Oregon, and passed by a vote of 377-10, would combine the two agencies into a single War Relocation Authority.

That was the belief today among legislators who have talked with Mr. Truman. They reported he will make the request in a message to Congress Tuesday.

Marshall said this country must have a constant powerful armed force to impress the "political leaders and the professional soldiers of other nations, both friendly and unfriendly, that no act of aggression against the United States, however sudden, could succeed."

"The national security," he said, "is measured by the sum, or rather the combination of the three great arms — the land, air, and naval forces. The urgent need is for an overall not a piecemeal appraisal of what is required to solve the single problem of national security with the greatest economy compatible with requirements."

"Even under the stress of war, agreement has been reached in the joint chiefs of staff at times only by numerous compromises and after long delays, and coordination in material and administrative matters has been forced by circumstances arising out of the war and then only incompletely."

"During the past year the voluntary cooperation of the Army and Navy under the impetus of war has reached a level which it would be extremely difficult, I think impossible to continue in peacetime under any variation of the present two-department organization."

"With the end of the war, there

Expects Chevrolet On Market Shortly

BY CHESTER WALSH
Walter L. Harrington, manager of the White Chevrolet Company here, who has just returned from Charlotte, where he attended a preview showing of the new Chevrolet car, said the new model is a beauty. He was reluctant to discuss the mechanical and style features of the new Chevrolet, but indicated that he expects the formal announcement and public showing of the new car at an early date.
