Indications From Yesterday's Voting By Automobile Workers In More Than 20 Chrysler Corporation Plants Show An Overwhelming Majority For Work Stoppage

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Automobile workers in 22 Chrysler plants mailed strike ballots today as an early count of votes among some of the 350,000 General Motors employees in a similar poll yesterday indicated an overwhelming majority in favor of a work stoppage.

Final results of yesterday's vote on the strike issue, which is part of the CIO Automobile Workers campaign to obtain 30 per cent wage rate increase for a half million motor industry employees, were expected to be announced later today. The union's third vote will be held for Ford Motor Company workers on November 7.

A union spokesman in Detroit estimated about 100,000 voted, including about 50,000 in the Detroit area. First tabulations showed the workers favored a strike by a majority of more than 8 to 1, with more than 20-1 landslide reported at the big corporation's plants in St. Louis, Atlanta and Memphis.

The ending of the eight months old strike of motion picture workers in Hollywood—which union leaders estimated cost workers $15,000,000 in wages—afforded the other major news along the nation's labor front in the last 24 hours. The number idle over labor disputes remained virtually unchanged at around 225,000.

In Detroit, General Motors Corporation officials, as well as CIO-UAW leaders, "although still very far from agreement in their wage dispute, expressed hope that no strike would be called."

"We will exercise the patience of Job in an effort to settle this thing," said Walter P. Reuther, union vice president who earlier said that a walkout would not necessarily follow an affirmative strike vote.

Vice-President H. W. Anderson of General Motors after yesterday's negotiations said he hoped "arrangements can be made without a work disruption." He denied that the corporation was "trying to provoke a strike," as charged by Reuther. A strike, he said, "wouldn't do us, our customers or our workers any good. It would upset the whole organization."

The AFL Executive Council in Cincinnati called off the movie workers' strike yesterday, but about 400 pickets appeared this morning at the Warner Brothers Burbank, Calif., studio.

Herbert K. Sorrell, strike leader, said Warners was not classed with other producers "because they used tear gas and water," he added, "that we are asking Warners to indemnify every person hurt on this picket line."

Sorrell said about 300 persons would have claims, a few for as much as $500 each, and "nobody wants to go to work for Warners Brothers until they pay up."

REDUCTION IN POINT VALUES

OPA Announces Certain Point Reductions Effective Sunday

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The OPA announced today that ration values on butter, margarine, lard, shortening and oils will be cut four points a pound next Sunday.

For all of these products the new value, effective through December 1, will be eight points a pound.

Current point costs will be maintained during the new period for all prime cuts of beef, veal and lamb and for lean cuts of pork. Lower grades of beef, veal and lamb will continue ration-free.

The only meat changes are reductions of two to four points a pound for six fatty pork cuts and for barbecued pork.

The point reductions on butter, margarine and other fats and oils are possible because of a much improved supply situation, said OPA Administrator Chester Bowles.

Over all meat supplies next month will be about one half of one per cent less than in October and "therefore do not permit the end of rationing," the OPA chief said.

On a carcass weight basis, the November beef supply will be about 13 per cent less than this month, veal will drop off about 19 per cent and lamb and mutton around 22 per cent, according to Agriculture Department estimates.

The seasonal run of hogs to market is expected to boost the pork supply about 41 per cent to counterbalance declines in other kinds of meat.

The domestic supply of beef, veal and lamb will be down because of foreign requirements, said an Agriculture Department official.

He said foreign allocations had not been met in full this month, and for this reason it would be necessary to dip deeper into the November meat supply. Meat shortages were re-instated recently to assure fulfillment of foreign commitments.

The fat cuts of pork assigned lower point values include backs, plates, jowls and bacon plates and jowls. Regular bacon remains at six points a pound.

Five more stamps in ration book 4 will become valid November 1 for buying meats and fats. These include the last four red stamps. (Continued on page four)

Legislation Near Concerning Dead

Washington, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Legislation directing the War Department to return to this country for burial the bodies of service men who died abroad was approved today by the House Military Committee.

It applies also to civilian War Department employees who died on foreign soil since December 7, 1941. Bodies would be returned upon application of the next of kin of the deceased.

Repulse has charged that the British are "supporting and butressing the Dutch."

However, Soekarno is quoted as saying that "it may assist a peaceful settlement if the United States of America is willing to intervene—the more if Russia and China also took part in this settlement of the Indonesian problem." Well, the United States government has said that it is ready to mediate if asked to do so. We are waiting for the invitation.

Secretary of State Byrnes yesterday also made it emphatically clear during a press conference that Washington objects to the use of lend-lease arms for political purposes as they have been employed by British and Dutch forces in the Far East. Washington requested the British and Dutch to remove American emblems from lend-lease equipment used against the insurgents, and this brought prompt word from a foreign office spokesman in London that the British commander in Java had been instructed to comply.

The American attitude was further punctuated last week when Washington sharply reminded the powers concerned in the Oriental disturbances that they should (Continued on page four)

Memorial Baptists Raising Funds For Educational Building

42-CHURCH PLANS

By CHESTER WALSH
Men of Memorial Baptist Church at a turkey dinner last night at the Rotary building spent an hour in feasting and fellowship and a "very short time" in raising $10,000 in cash for the new three-story educational building to be erected adjoining the church at Fourth and Greene streets.

The Building Fund Committee was host to the men. Chairman Claude Ward presided. He stated that $15,000 had already been subscribed, making the total now available $25,000. The new building, a three-story structure, with modern equipment, will cost $60,000. Frank Benton, Wilson architect, had made sketches of the building and now is making the blueprints.

The meeting was enthusiastically harmonious. The men knew what they were there for and attended to business in short order.

Rev. Richard E. Hardaway, pastor of the church, paid fine tribute to the men for their interest in the church's progress and thanked the women for their part in inspiring the men and then "everybody working together." The results of the meeting were gratifying, the pastor, church officials and others said.

Last night's meeting, which brought the building fund up to $25,000 on hand, laid the foundation for getting busy on the campaign to procure the balance of the necessary $60,000. Church officials expressed a belief that all of the money will be in hand in cash before construction of the building is started in the near future.

Members of the church who did not attend the meeting and who had not been solicited today were indicating their intention to donate generously to the building fund.

With sales of approximately 800,000 pounds of tobacco on the Greenville market today, prices continued their upward climb to maintain a market average of over $46 per hundred despite the falling off in the quality of the offerings.

With a full day's sale expected for tomorrow, the market will probably reach the 55 million pounds mark for the season's total to the end of this week.

Tax Reduction Measure
Heads For Conference

Senate Cuts House Bill By Additional 155 Millions In Seven Hour Session Yesterday

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Washington, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Senate's $5,788,000,000 tax reduction bill, fundamentally different from the $5,350,000,000 measure passed by the H. use, headed today for a conference committee which will adjust the variations.

The Senate took a seven-hour look yesterday at its finance committee's handiwork, added another $155,000,000 of relief, then passed the bill by a voice vote.

The Senate bill proposed to relieve individual incometaxpayers by $2,644,000,000 next year, corporations by $2,934,000,000, and owners of automobiles and boats by $140,000,000 through repeal of the use tax.

In addition, it would repeal $70,000,000 in excise taxes, on such articles as stoves, cameras and sporting goods, imposed in 1941 to discourage the use of scarce materials.

The House bill called for cutting taxes of individuals by $2,627,000,000, corporations $1,888,000,000, and car and boat owners $140,000,000, and excise taxes $695,000,000, through repeal of the wartime levies on luxury and semi-luxury products and through refund of the tax on floor stocks of liquor and light bulbs.

After the House goes through the formality of rejecting the Senate changes, the House and Senate Conference Committee will get to work, probably Friday—to work out the final form of the legislation.

House and Senate versions vary so widely in so many particulars that the Conference Committee is expected virtually to rewrite the measure.

Finance officials would like to know the final form of the bill by November 1 so they can prepare and send out revised withholding tables and tax blanks to offices all over the country.

The tax cut would apply to next year's income; the tax bill on this year's income will be figured on the present law.

In effect, though not in method, the two houses were not far apart on the individual income tax cuts. The Senate bill is estimated to reduce the burden $2,644,000,000, the House bill $2,627,000,000.

Both start in by allowing payers of the 3 per cent normal tax the exemptions granted surtax payers. A married man who earned $2,500 and had two dependents would pay $95 tax under either version, compared with $160 under the current law.

The two chambers were a good deal further apart on corporate taxes.

The House voted to reduce the rate of the excess profits tax from 65.5 per cent to 60 per cent next year and to repeal it on January 1, 1947.

It also voted to repeal the capital stock tax and the declared value excess profits tax, and to cut the combined normal and surtax rate on corporations from 40 per cent to 36 per cent.

The total corporate reductions under the House bill would amount to $1,888,000,000.

The Senate accepted corporate cuts totalling $2,934,000,000. It voted to repeal the excess profits levy outright next January 1, meanwhile giving smaller corporations some relief on their 1945 incomes by stipulating that each should have combined credits and exemptions against the tax of not less than $25,000.

They say even if the merger idea fails Congress will give air power equal status with land and sea forces. All three branches under the merger would be under a single government department. But air would be distinct from Army and Navy.

Housing—The OPA boss, Chester Bowles, wants Congress to get some agency to fix a sale price on every home. Else the real estate boom will ride merrily on an inflation spiral, he's warned Congress.

But Republican Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska disputes the Bowles plan. Bowles wants the government to say: the next time a house is sold that's its top price for the future. Wherry said this wouldn't work, that people would pay extra on the side.

Bowles, undaunted, headed into a third straight day of arguing before Senate committees.

MOORING POST
FOR THE REST

Lansing Suggests Change In Present Fiscal Policy

Lawrence, Kans., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Criticizing the administration's foreign policy, Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, said today that if Russia refuses the "proffered hand of peace-seeking nations, we must not shrink from the tragic fact that a new aggressor is on the prowl."

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Kiwanis Club, Landon outlined a six-point program which he suggested as the U. S. Foundation for world security.

The former Kansas governor's proposed program:

1. Make the U. S. a sound financial mooring post "for the rest of the world to tie to by reversing our present unsound fiscal policies of borrowing and spending unlimited."

2. Reverse the German policies for which the U. S. is largely responsible. Put Germany on an economic, self-sustaining basis.
3. All nations abandon extra-territorial practices. "The U. S. should stand in the Far East as advocating in substance what we did in the Philippines where we set the model for colonial treatment and development of self-governing communities."

4. Insist on "honest and intelligent, reasonable" application of the principles of the Atlantic Charter before we make any gifts. Follow for the most part Woodrow Wilson's 14 principles for peace.
5. Seriously and thoroughly consider internationalization of the atomic bomb and of the few hitherto key spots in the world.

6. If Russia refuses the "proffered hand of the peace-seeking nations, we must not shrink from the tragic fact that a new aggressor is on the prowl."

"Why discuss the policy of the appeasement or non-appeasement of Russia?" Landon asked. "Either, on the course we have been pursuing, simply means more friction."

"In addition to the piddling policy of making loans, we are to have the greatest navy, the greatest army, the newest, greatest weapon for a while. All history proves the futility of that policy."

"We are seeking strategic bases in a speak-easy sort of way and then wonder why the world should look at us with cynicism and suspicion."

"The race between Russia and the U. S. to obtain strategic bases is fooling no one but the American people—who are still being doped with soothing syrup that differences in foreign affairs."

Criticizing treatment of Germany, Landon said, "we will not stabilize (Continued on page four)"

Electric Irons
Detroit, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co. today announced it was starting production of electric irons that require no dangling cords.

H. W. Burkitt, Eureka president, explained that the new iron operates from a thermostat-controlled safety base from which it obtains instant heat after brief electric contact. The thermostat control, he said, automatically switches current on and off.

Nations' Committee
Recommends A Plan

London, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The United Nations Executive Committee recommended today that a general committee of 14 be established to direct the work of the General Assembly.

The decision was reached following a five-hour wrangle in which Russia insisted on a smaller committee, giving the Big Five powers greater weight.

The vote was nine to three, with Russia, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia opposing and France and China abstaining.

Delegates said the general committee would have wider power over conduct of the business of the general assembly of the world peace organizations.

Military Training
Will Be Discussed

Washington, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Chairman May (D-Ky.) announced today the House Military Committee will start public hearings Nov. 8 on President Truman's request for universal military training.

The committee already has a bill introduced by May early this year calling for one year of training for every able-bodied youth as soon as he becomes 18, or shortly thereafter. It follows generally the President's recommendations.

Indonesian Government Desires Peace Talk With Dutch

By RALPH MORTON
Batavia, Java, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Amie Sjarifuddin, minister of information in the unrecognized Soekarno Government, announced tonight the formula under which Indonesians will open informal talks with the Dutch in an attempt to bring a peaceful settlement to the Dutch East Indies.

The information minister declared the talks will be held in the presence of a third party, presumably a representative of the United States, and that the "right of self-determination of the Indonesian people is acknowledged."

Oslo, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A day after the execution of Vidkun Quisling the only interest Norwegian civilians showed in the death of the arch traitor was to express regret that more details of his last moments were not made public.

Norwegian newspapers carried only a one-sentence announcement that the execution of the ex-dictator had been carried out.

Mrs. Quisling, loyal to her husband until the last, is expected to receive his body. She is in seclusion and police refuse to disclose her address. They will not permit her to be interviewed without her permission, and she remains under constant police surveillance.

The NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

By JACKSON S. ELLIOTT
(Substituting for James Marlow)
Washington, Oct. 25.—(AP)—One of the world's best-kept secrets hid for more than three years under a small-type, three-letter abbreviation—"etc."

The secret was the atomic bomb. The careful job of accounting to the public for the Treasury's outlay on it while hiding its existence was performed artfully but honestly each day in the daily "condition" statement of the Treasury Department.

In 1942, the war had drained the country of many important electrical-use metals. The Treasury had a store of silver which wasn't being used.

So the War Department borrowed 400,000,000 troy ounces for the Manhattan engineer district, the Department's term for the atomic bomb project.

The silver was needed for "busbars"—giant current carriers for the atom bomb plant.

Some idle silver had been leased to the office of defense plants. This was noted in the Treasury statement. There was no secret about that—the silver was replacing scarce copper in busbars.

But the Army plan to borrow silver for the atom project posed a real problem.

The analysts, statisticians, printers and other Treasury employees "praised" the word "etc." as the daily statement's "honesty."

"We don't like any phony language, any deception," says one of them.

"We want the Treasury statement to tell the facts—just how much the government has coming in, how much is going out and how much it has on hand."

Then one of the experts happened to look over the various items. He found "unclassified—collections, etc." "unclassified—collections, etc." and "trust accounts, etc."

So every day since August 27, 1942, there has appeared a notation about leased silver reading (no many) "ounces of these items of silver are held by the office of defense plants for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, etc."

The "etc." stands for the Manhattan engineer district's silver loans. And happily for the Treasury men with the consciences no one ever asked them the meaning of the "etc."

An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

It is a pity the United Nations Security Organization isn't yet functioning, for it might prevent a catastrophe by friendly intervention in the Japanese rebellion against Dutch rule and the similar revolt against France in neighboring French Indo-China.

Perhaps there still is time, if the organization—which came into formal existence yesterday—gets into action soon. That is, there may be time if meanwhile some disinterested mediator can persuade the combatants to declare a truce and maintain the status quo until the United Nations can get to work.

Certainly there's plenty of ground for intervention, since these upheavals already are inflaming other parts of the Orient and thus are endangering general peace. They can't be considered as local "family affairs."

Britain's General Sir Philip Christison, commander of the Allied occupation forces in Java, already has put out feelers with the idea of effecting a compromise between the Dutch and the Japanese nationalists. His position must be difficult, however, because President Soekarno of the so-called "Indonesian Republic" has charged that the British are "supporting and butressing the Dutch."

However, Soekarno is quoted as saying that "it may assist a peaceful settlement if the United States of America is willing to intervene—the more if Russia and China also took part in this settlement of the Indonesian problem." Well, the United States government has said that it is ready to mediate if asked to do so. We are waiting for the invitation.

Brooks.

After the social period and a brief business session, conducted by Mrs. Agnes Settle, president of the group the meeting was turned over to the program committee.

The speaker for the afternoon was Miss Mary Greene, member of the college English department, who spoke on the detective story as a form of literature. Miss Greene, an avowed devotee of "who done it" fiction, brought out the merits of this particular type of writing for which the reader might unashamedly admit a liking.

In the detective story, elements of the exciting and sensational, as represented by the gory corpse or the fiendish murderer, are subordinated to the realm of the analytical, from which the story flows and through his alert observation and persistent analysis succeeds in determining "who done it."

In her talk Miss Greene defined the detective story, gave a brief review of its development, with emphasis on the English and American writers, and explained its necessary structural elements. In her final analysis, she noted that the detective story has flourished for the most part in the democratic countries and thus might be viewed as one of the many possible expressions of the democratic ideal, with its desire for justice and order by consent of the people.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Paul Murray, and Miss Audrey Dempsey. Mrs. Dan Vornholt was welcomed to the group as a new member.—Reported.

International Relations Club
At the first meeting of the fall term of the International Relations Club of East Carolina Teachers College, about sixty students and faculty members heard James L. Fleming talk Tuesday evening on World Federation as a Cure for the Evils Which Threaten Modern Civilization.

Using "A Rendezvous With Destiny" as the title of his speech, Mr. Fleming, chairman of the Foreign Languages Department of the college here, pointed out the dangers to a modern state which science has devised. The only defense, he said, lies in a new world order, a federation of nations.

He praised the East Carolina Teachers College faculty and the legislature of North Carolina for being the first bodies of their kind to favor Congressional action toward the formation of such a federation. By trying to understand others, sponsoring an international exchange of students and faculty members, and studying world problems, he pointed out, students can help bring about a new peace and harmony.

Mr. Fleming, who lived abroad for about eight years, has lectured both in this country and in England. In 1940-1941 he was a volunteer lecturer for world federation.

Mrs. Bloxton in New York
Mrs. Adelaide Bloxton, chairman of the Home Economics Department of the college, left today for New York. During the ceremony Mrs.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatism, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent urination shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives kidney relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Curious Clue

like invisible fingers, was on his windows, when Seth the next morning. The sense of disaster he had night before came back to him as he sat smoking an hour later, waiting for the mail to come.

A growing concern about twenty-four hours had passed had seen her. He had left messages, but she had not in all of Sunday. She and becoming very apparent that she was spending far more time with Ramon these days than she was with Seth, and there was a double kick to that.

He had been reading for about ten minutes when he looked up and saw Potter walking very rapidly down the lobby.

"Hi, Potter. How's the headache this morning?"

"Oh, it's you, Peabody." The man's voice showed he was startled. He was also annoyed. His annoyance was so evident, Seth's curiosity got the better of him, and he decided to detain him for a minute or two. He had more than a passing interest in where he was going in such a hurry.

Potter was panting a little as he stood in front of Seth. He could see the man was making an effort to be pleasant.

"Headache's better, thanks. But I was sure burnt up with the General last night. Cripes! Here was I, trying to do my Boy Scout good deed for the day, taking some groceries to an aunt on Craven Key who phoned me she was all out of ration points—when that big stiff comes along and starts playing cops and robbers. If he hadn't been a General, I think I'd have punched his nose."

"That's a fast one," Seth thought as he lighted another cigarette. "He's lying and hasn't very good at it."

"Better sit down and take the weight off your feet," Seth replied amiably. "Nothing to do this morning but wait for the mail. Fog's getting worse."

"Yeah, that's a fact," Potter slid into a chair beside Seth, his bulk completely filling it. "This looks like an all-day rain. It's a damned nuisance, sticking around like this for the inquest."

"That'll soon be over," Seth noticed the way Potter watched both entrances. Suddenly it occurred to him that Jesus or Faustus should be in the lobby, watching this man. Cobo was careless. If he wasn't careful, Potter would get away again, and he knew if he did, this time they wouldn't catch up with him. Seth signalled the bell captain.

"Jim, get this number for me on the telephone, will you?" He tore off a corner of his newspaper and hastily scribbled the General's telephone number on it. "Call me when the party answers."

"Yes, sir. Here's your mail, sir."

"Thank you. Hurry, please."

As the bell captain went off, Potter said, "God, it's dull down here when it rains. Nothing to do. Guess I'll get Wallis and go down to the club. We might stay there for lunch."

"Nice girl," Seth volunteered, hoping he could keep Potter in the lobby until Cobo or one of his men showed up.

"Yes, but as far as I can see, just the bungalow type. All modern conveniences, but no heat. Nice enough," Potter heaved himself up out of his chair. "There's your call, I guess I'll blow. See you later."

By the time Seth reached the telephone booth, Potter had disappeared from the lobby.

The General's secretary answered his call. She said the General was on his way over to the hotel with a man from the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Seth waited in the lobby for half an hour before he saw the men coming through the driveway entrance.

The General's introduction was brief. As the two men shook hands, he said briefly, "Gardner, don't let Seth Peabody out of your sight. The situation here is serious. Unless we all have a determined control of events within the next 24 hours, I'm afraid there will be another murder."

After the social period and a brief business session, conducted by Mrs. Agnes Settle, president of the group, the meeting was turned over to the program committee.

The speaker for the afternoon was Miss Mary Greene, member of the college English department, who spoke on the detective story as a form of literature. Miss Greene, an avowed devotee of "who done it" fiction, brought out the merits of the particular type of writing for which the reader might unashamedly admit a liking.
In the detective story, elements of the exciting and sensational, as represented by the gory corpse or the fiendish murderer, are subordinated to the realm of the analytical, from which our hero, the reasoning detective, searches forth and through his alert observation and persistent analysis succeeds in determining "who done it."

In her talk Miss Greene defined the detective story, gave a brief review of its development, with emphasis on the English and American writers, and explained its necessary structural elements. In her final analysis, she noted that the detective story has flourished for the most part in the democratic countries and thus might be viewed as one of the many possible expressions of the democratic ideal, with its desire for justice and order by consent of the people.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Paul Murray, and Miss Audrey Dempsey. Mrs. Dan Verhulst was welcomed to the group as a new member.—Reported.

International Relations Club
At the first meeting of the fall term of the International Relations Club of East Carolina Teachers College, about sixty students and faculty members heard James L. Fleming talk Tuesday evening on World Federation as a Cure for the Evils Which Threaten Modern Civilization.

Using "A Rendezvous With Destiny" as the title of his speech, Mr. Fleming, chairman of the Foreign Languages Department of the college here, pointed out the dangers to a modern state which science has devised. The only defense, he said, lies in a new world order, a federation of nations.

He praised the East Carolina Teachers College faculty and the legislature of North Carolina for being the first bodies of their kind to favor Congressional action toward the formation of such a federation. By trying to understand others, sponsoring an international exchange of students and faculty members, and studying world problems, he pointed out, students can help bring about a new peace and harmony.

Mr. Fleming, who lived abroad for about eight years, has lectured both in this country and in England. In 1940-1941 he was a volunteer lecturer for world federation.

The Curious Clue

BY RUFUS HEED

Chapter 10
Rain, like invisible fingers, was tapping on his windows, when Seth awakened the next morning. The persistent sense of disaster he had felt the night before came back to him as he sat smoking an hour later in the lobby, waiting for the mail to be distributed.

He had a growing concern about Suzy. Twenty-four hours had passed since he had seen her. He had left telephone messages, but she had evaded him all of Sunday. She and becoming very apparent that she was spending far more time with Ramon these days than she was with Seth, and there was a double kick to that.

He had been reading for about ten minutes when he looked up and saw Potter walking very rapidly down the lobby.

"Hi, Potter. How's the headache this morning?"

"Oh, it's you, Peabody. The man's voice showed he was startled. He was also annoyed. His annoyance was so evident, Seth's curiosity got the better of him, and he decided to detain him for a minute or two. He had more than a passing interest in where he was going in such a hurry.

Potter was panting a little as he stood in front of Seth. He could see the man was making an effort to be pleasant.

"Headache's better, thanks. But I was sure burnt up with the General last night. Cripes! Here was I, trying to do my Boy Scout good deed for the day, taking some groceries to an aunt on Crawl Key who phoned me she was all out of ration points—when that big stiff comes along and starts playing cops and robbers. If he hadn't been a General, I think I'd have punched his nose."

"That's a fast one," Seth thought as he lighted another cigarette. "He's lying and he isn't very good at it."

"Better sit down and take the weight off your feet," Seth replied amiably. "Nothing to do this morning but wait for the mail. Fog's getting worse."

"Yeah, that's a fact," Potter slid into a chair beside Seth, his bulk completely filling it. "This looks like an all-day rain. It's a damned nuisance, sticking around like this for the inquest."

"That'll soon be over," Seth noticed the way Potter watched both entrances. Suddenly it occurred to him that Jesus or Faustius should be in the lobby, watching this man. Cobo was careless. If he wasn't careful, Potter would get away again, and he knew if he did, this time they wouldn't catch up with him. Seth signalled the bell captain.

"Jim, get this number for me on the telephone, will you?" He tore off a corner of his newspaper and hastily scribbled the General's telephone number on it. "Call me when the party answers."

"Yes, sir. Here's your mail, sir."

"Thank you. Hurry, please."

As the bell captain went off, Potter said, "God, it's dull down here when it rains. Nothing to do. Guess I'll get Wallis and go down to the club. We might stay there for lunch."

"Nice girl," Seth volunteered, hoping he could keep Potter in the lobby until Cobo or one of his men showed up.

"Yes, but as far as I can see, just the bungalow type. All modern conveniences, but no heat. Nice enough," Potter heaved himself up out of his chair. "There's your call. I guess I'll blow. See you later."

By the time Seth reached the telephone booth, Potter had disappeared from the lobby.

The General's secretary answered his call. She said the General was on his way over to the hotel with a man from the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Seth waited in the lobby for half an hour before he saw the men coming through the driveway entrance.

The General's introduction was brief. As the two men shook hands, he said briefly, "Gardner, don't let Seth Peabody out of your sight. The situation here is serious. Unless we all have a determined control of events within the next 24 hours, I'm afraid there will be another murder."

Seth looked at him in amazement. "You don't really mean that, General!"

"Never was more serious in my life. And you're worried too. I can see it in your face."

"Well, you're right," Seth admitted quickly. His eyes on the garden entrance where Potter had disappeared. "I've been waiting in this lobby for Jesus or Faustius to show up. They should trail Potter every minute."

There was a sudden commotion down at the end of the lobby and the three men turned simultaneously to see Jesus running toward them.

"Here comes the bad news now," Seth exclaimed in a low voice.

"Henry Potter—he's gone," Jesus gasped. He was frightened and showed it.

General Howard clutched his shoulder. "Gone, you idiot!" he roared. "He should never have been out of your sight."

"Yes, sir. I ran. Faustius ran. But Potter ran in garden back of hedge. Fog very thick. We look and look. Faustius find clothes?"

"What do you mean — find clothes?"

"On fishing pier—pants and coat. He gone in sea."

"Is the man a good swimmer?" Gardner asked.

"Better than average, I believe," Seth answered quickly. "He's probably making for a boat anchored off the beach, and if he's lucky and has a sense of direction, he'll make it. He's gone for good this time."

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

LIFE'S PROBLEMS ARE SPIRITUAL

We read in Acts 12, which describes Peter's deliverance from prison, that when he came to the iron gate of the prison, it swung open apparently of its own accord, allowing him to walk to freedom.

This circumstance is striking not because it is any more miraculous than a number of other things which happened on that eventful night but because that iron gate is like the iron gates in your life and mine which, unless the Lord opens them, will never be opened. Peter might have beaten his chained hands against that door for the rest of his life, and it would never have opened. But on that night it swung open under a power too high for Peter or anyone else to comprehend.

Only God can open the iron gates of our lives. There are certain deliverances in the lives of us all which can be made only as the result of our faith. Our temperaments, our tempers, our besetting sins, our sorrows, our disappointments—these are iron gates against which a man throughout his life may cast himself in vain. As we stand before such circumstances, we have to put our trust in a Power higher than our own. That Power alone can swing open such a gate and let us go out into freedom and peace of mind.

The solution to life's problems must always in the last analysis be a spiritual solution. The answer comes from God Himself. The Power which makes us free is not our own will or our own efforts but the merciful hand of the Almighty.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

By ERNEST E. VACCARO
(Substitute for Jack Stinnett)
Washington, D. C. has been the scene of a blow to artists at the sport, but President Truman is strictly a "Missouri barnyard" horsehoe pitcher.

His recent participation in the horsehoe pitching at a Democratic rally at the Jefferson Islands club near Annapolis, Md., stirred up a welter of speculation among devotees of the old game.

Their questions told volumes about the progress of the game since the days when the young Harry Truman went behind the barn at Grandview, Mo., to toss shoes with fellow farmers.

Eagerly they asked whether the President uses (a) a one-and-a-quarter, (b) a one-and-three-quarters or (c) an end-over-end pitch.

I put the question bluntly to the President through his press secretary, Charles G. Ross.

The matter-of-fact Missourian puzzled a bit over such fancy names and sent back the reply:

"Tell Tony (Vaccaro) I use the Missouri barnyard style of pitching."

Inquiry among some of those who pitched with the President at the Jefferson Islands club threw little more light on the matter.

Like the President, most of them just pick up a shoe and let fly.

Sen. Tydings (D-Md.) confessed he wouldn't know a "one-and-a-quarter" pitch if he saw one.

"We use a free style, he confided. 'We just pick up and let go.'"

The President, he said, showed lots of southpaw form, but Tydings admitted, "he can improve."

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) teamed with Tydings to beat the President and Sen. Taylor (D-Idaho). 21 to 20, but he didn't help the research a great deal.

"All I know is that it is not a sissy game," Fulbright volunteered. "My legs still ache."

My painstaking inquiry finally led to Carter T. Barron, a Washington theater official and a Democrat with much party enthusiasm, was cited by all participants as the champion pitcher of Jefferson Islands.

It's An Ill Wind That Blows Nobody Good strong arm and a deadly eye.

"If you tell me what those styles mean," he said, "I'll tell you what kind the President used."

"I have my own style, but I don't know what you'd call it."

"The President is a southpaw, of course. He throws out the shoe so it falls flat. I think he might be called a slider, sliding the shoe toward the stake."

The President, Barron said, has it in him to become something of a champion himself.

"He's got a good aim," Barron asserted. "All he needs is a little practice. He's much better than average."

A few new stoppages were reported during the last 24 hours and a four-day strike that kept 5,000 workers away from work at the Republic Steel Corporation works in Canton, O., ended. Also ended was a strike of 1,200 CIO United Rubber Workers at the Thermoid Company in Trenton, N. J. They struck on September 11 over a wage dispute.

The Wilmering plant of Westinghouse Air Brake Company in Pittsburgh and the Swissvale plant of a subsidiary, the Union Switch & Signal Company, closed after a walkout of 6,000 production workers. Disciplinary action taken against a union steward was said by some workers to be the reason for the walkout.

Sen. Tydings (D-Md.) confessed he wouldn't know a "one-and-a-quarter" pitch if he saw one.

CONFERENCE IS REORGANIZED

Eastern North Carolina Athletic Association Reformed At Meeting Here

(By T-BONE WILLIAMS)
The first meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Athletic Association was held at Respass' Barbecue Stand last night to reorganize the Eastern Conference. The meeting was attended by superintendents, principals, and coaches of eight high schools in Eastern North Carolina. The cities represented were Goldsboro, Greenville, Kinston, New Bern, Tarboro, Washington, Elizabeth City and Roanoke Rapids.

All present were eager to reorganize the conference as soon as possible. The conference was disbanded in the winter of 1942 because of the rationing during the emergency and ODT's request to have intramural basketball only.

Every one attending the meeting voted unanimously to elect officers for the E. N. C. A. C. for 1945-46. The officers elected were J. P. Booth, superintendent of the Kinston school, president; J. B. McDuffie, principal of Elizabeth City High School, vice-president; and Joe Talley, principal of Roanoke Rapids High School, secretary and treasurer.

A committee was elected to study and revise the conference constitution. Serving on this committee are O. E. Dowd, principal of Greenville High School, chairman; J. P. Booth, superintendent of Kinston schools, and M. M. Wetzel, principal of Tarboro High School.

Conference regulations govern eligibility of players pertaining to attendance and scholarship were waived this season in order to permit ex-servicemen to participate provided that they are not over 20 years old or they have not graduated from school.

A committee appointed by President Booth to schedule basketball games for the 1945-46 season consists of Boley Farley, director of athletics in Greenville High School, Joe Talley, principal of Roanoke Rapids High School, and Danny Kafer, coach of New Bern High School. This committee immediately went to work and schedules will be sent to schools which are in the conference in the near future.

Guest speaker was C. E. Macintosh of Chapel Hill, secretary of the State High School Athletic Association. Mr. Macintosh discussed high school athletics in A-B-C conferences. The group appreciated his presence at the meeting and his offer to assist the E. N. C. A. C. The group voted unanimously to retain a status as an independent conference.

The conference for the coming year is composed of seven former members who were active in the conference prior to 1942. Goldsboro is now a member of the State A Conference and will continue to participate in this organization. E. N. C. A. C. will operate with seven teams for the remainder of the 1945-46 school year.

Every representative present was very enthusiastic for the organization and expressed the value of the athletic program being under conference regulation. The E. N. C. A. C. has been in operation for some 20 years and has made a lasting impression upon high school boys and has earned a place of admiration and respect among the conferences of the state.

LOCALS READY FOR TARBORO

Phantoms Hoping For Another Victory Friday Night

(By JIMMY FUTRELL)
Coach Bo Farley's colorful Green Phantoms hope to mark the Tarboro Tigers up in their book of beaten grid victims when they meet the Tigers at eight tomorrow night in the Tarboro stadium.

These two rivals of the gridiron have met once before—the Farley-men coming out on the larger end of a 32-0 score in an engagement on October 5.

The G-Men will be fully prepared for the Edgecombe County club after a week's rest from the Kinston game.

Luckily, no injuries were sustained against the Devils and the return of Bud Whitehurst and Lewis Lawrence, regulars up front, will strengthen the forward wall of the G-Men tomorrow night. L. L. Kittrell, the boy who filled Lawrence's shoes last Friday will no doubt see plenty of service tomorrow night because of his brilliant showing against the Kinstonians. Kittrell is responsible for blocking one of those Kinston punts last week.

Tarboro has one of the hardest hitting and best tackling teams the Green and White play this year and the contest tomorrow night is not expected to be a run away affair by any means. Coach Farley has warned the team against overconfidence, and he stated that the Tarboro eleven will really be out to settle the score for the 32-0 trouncing several weeks back.

Expected to lead the way for the Phantom ball carriers tomorrow night will be Jimmy Ward and Julian White, ends; Lewis Lawrence and Bud Whitehurst, tackles; Bobby Clark and Jack Whichard, guards; Jimmy Williams, center.

In the backfield are Billy Harrington, fullback; Jimmy Futrell, fullback; Mac Batchelor, blocking back and "Spooky" Morgan, wing-back.

The Phantoms' record to date shows four wins against three losses which is a pretty fair average. However, it may not be going out on a limb to bet that the G-Men will win the remaining four contests.

Football

Richmond, Va., Oct. 25—(AP)—The Southern Conference, with only one league game scheduled this week, furnishes one-half of the opposition for the standard game of the East—and perhaps the entire nation—once-beaten Duke meeting unbeaten and untied Army in the Polo Grounds, New York, Saturday.

For the Blue Devils, it is their supreme test this season, and a climax to its tussle with the Navy, the No. 2 ranking team of the nation, before which Duke bowed, 21-0.

For the first time in several weeks, Duke will be in fairly good shape, according to reports from Durham, N. C., the Blue Devils will run through a light workout and then board a train for New York today.

The conference spotlight will center on the clash tomorrow night at Fireman's Field, Norfolk, Va., between William and Mary, unbeaten so far this season, and North Carolina State, which has bowed before Virginia and Virginia Military Institute in five starts.

Virginia Tech, which last week startled all the experts by defeating Maryland, takes the University of Virginia Saturday. The game will be played at Roanoke.

Three other games are carded in which Southern Conference teams will play.

Maryland moves to Charleston, W. Va., to meet West Virginia. Richmond goes to Salisbury, N. C., to tackle the Catawba Indian squad, while Clemson and South Carolina tie up at Columbia, S. C., in the annual classic between those two schools.

Indonesia Will . . .

The political situation brightened considerably as H. J. Van Mook, acting governor, invited the Soekarno cabinet to meet with him.

(Aneta, Netherlands news agency, reported in a dispatch from Amsterdam that 11 newspapers have addressed a united appeal to the government to remove the tensions between Holland and Indonesia through democratic means and without the use of force.)

Aneta reported a "chaotic and grave" situation at Soerabaja, Java naval base, however, where Allied troops were due to land today.

Allied units engaged in the recovery of Allied prisoners of war and internees were said to have been thrown into jail by Nationalist extremists.

"Seventeen Europeans and Eurasians have died as the result of beatings they received in the jails," Aneta said. "There are street fights every day."

President Soekarno appealed to the United States in a short wave radio address last night to act as mediator.

Soekarno spoke over the British-controlled Malabar broadcasting station at Bandong.

His use of the station was not immediately explained. When the British first took over Bandong, however, they stopped the nationalists from using the station, and some observers interpreted the lifting of the ban as an indication of an important change in British policy.

Soekarno's address came amid growing hope for an early meeting between the Indonesian Nationalist leader and H. J. Van Mook, acting governor of the Netherlands East Indies.

Soekarno declared that "no power on earth" could halt the Indonesian independence movement, but added:

"We don't have to throw the Dutch into the sea. They can maintain their financial holdings here. These things can be arranged by a treaty with the Dutch."

MacArthur Orders . . .

with relinquishment of his title, would accept full responsibility for his part in Japan's war period.

Conferences with Japanese Christian leaders will be sought by a delegation of American Protestant churchmen who have arrived in Tokyo on a goodwill mission.

The delegation included Dr. Douglas Horton, New York, chairman of the American committee for the World Council of Churches; Bishop James C. Baker, Los Angeles, chairman of the International Missionary Council; Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk, New York, executive secretary, Department of International Justice and Good Will of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; and Dr. Lyman J. Shafer, New York, chairman, Japan committee of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America.

"We were sent to Japan by the churches of our country, not by the government," Dr. Van Kirk explained. "It is to the churches we shall report following our return to the United States."

Domei today quoted Sankuro Ogasawara, Japan's minister of commerce and industry, as saying the government plans to introduce an anti-trust bill, comparable to the Clayton Act in the United States, at the next session of the Diet.

Ogasawara said the proposed bill would be part of a program to achieve dissolution of the Zaibatsu (giant family owned monopolies).

Voluntary moves toward at least partial dissolution already have been made by the Mitsui and Mitsubishi interests.

Police Give Warning Speeding Motorists

By CHESTER WALSH

Strong pressure is being brought on the police department to enforce the city ordinance against speeding of motor vehicles in the city. Attention was called to three Indianapolis speedways where cars and trucks regularly travel at speeds ranging from 50 to 65 miles an hour. Two of the racing thoroughfares are Fourth and Fifth Streets, east of Evans. Speeding vehicles have to pass two schools on Fifth Street—the Training School at the college and the High School at 4th and Reade Streets; the other is the High School on Fifth Street.

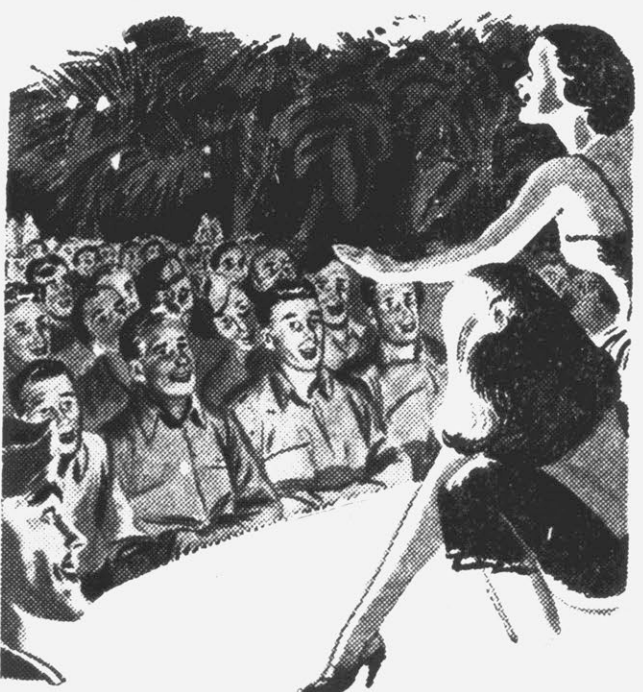

A state highway patrolman some time ago testified in court that a motorist he arrested for speeding just west of the city resented being pulled for going too fast outside of town, when the police in Greenville seldom arrest a speeder unless there is a collision or wreck.

Incidentally orders are going to be issued to police to apprehend speeders in town, Chief Tanner said today.
