MacArthur Bans Narcotic Trade

Occupation Troops In Stamping Out Japanese Narcotics Industry Seize Cache Of Opium Valued at About $50,000,000

By RUSSELL BRINES Tokyo, Oct. 30 (AP)—Occupation troops operating under General MacArthur's directive to stamp out the Japanese narcotics industry, which supplied approximately 90 per cent of the world's illicit traffic, today seized an opium cache worth $50,000,000 at smugglers' prices. The Americans also located tons of other narcotics worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. The supreme commander, meanwhile, in two new directives, ordered the arrest of Genki Abe, one of the organizers of the Japanese thought police, and commanded that the confidential files of the 15 largest Zaibatsu be reported to him. In another major action, MacArthur declined in a personal interview granted Foreign Minister Shigeru Yoshida to modify in the slightest the recent directive diplomatically isolating Japan from the rest of the world. Artillerymen of the 97th Division, commanded by Brig Gen Sherman V. Hasbrouck, made the big narcotics haul in the Nagano district of central Honshu. Capt. John P. Kelly, the division's artillery medical officer, estimated the legal price of the lot at $6,000,000 but said that the four tons of opium alone would bring $50,000,000 in illicit traffic in the United States. Under today's order, the Japanese government was instructed to deliver Abe, who besides his thought police activities was Japanese home minister in Premier Kantaro Suzuki's surrender cabinet, to American officers for incarceration in Omori prison, where a number of other former war lords await war criminal trials. MacArthur's new Zaibatsu directive ordered the 15 companies to prepare within 45 days from Oct. 22 exhaustive reports disclosing complete financial and production records for the war years 1935 through 1944; lists of all foreign nationals who owned any shares in that period; annual lists of capitalization, balance sheets, property holdings, investments, bank deposits, loans and minor stockholdings. Specifically named in the directive were the "big five"—Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Sumitomo, Yasuda and Okura—and Kawasaki, Nissan, Asano holding, Fuji industrial, (formerly Nakajima aircraft), Shibusawa, Nippon nitrochemical fertilizer, Furukawa, Nomura Riken and Nisso companies. MacArthur's refusal to alter in any way his directive ordering all Japanese diplomats everywhere returned home, all embassies and other establishments closed, and all (Continued on Page Four)

FUND REACHES 18 MILLIONS

North Carolina Retirement Fund Shows Increase

By CORA B. STEGALL Raleigh, Oct. 30 (AP)—Baxter Durham, secretary of the Teachers' and State Employees' Retirement System, said today that the North Carolina retirement fund has reached $18,000,000 and is increasing by six or seven million dollars annually. During September, 1,196 checks, totaling $27,657.45 were written by the retirement commission, Durham said. Of these, 907, totaling $23,242.04 went to members of the regular retirement system. The remainder, 289, totaling $4,415.41, were special checks, going in the main to teachers who have attained the age of 65 and are ineligible for membership in the State's regular retirement system because they were not teaching at the time the law was enacted. All these teachers have taught in the State's public school system for at least 20 years, and are not engaged in a "gainful occupation." Durham, who has been secretary to the retirement system since its beginning in 1941, referred to it as "the growth of an idea—a living, lasting thing." "Money paid from the retirement fund should not be looked upon as gratuity," he said. "It is merely a contract between the State and its employe, and at the same time a safeguard to the State." Durham, who has made a thorough study of the retirement system of various states, says there is still room for improvement in the retirement system, but that the State at present has a "good, workable" system. THREE GROUPS OVER THE TOP

Farmville, Fountain And Belvoir Exceed War Fund Quotas

The ending of the third week of the United War Fund Campaign finds three townships on the Honor Roll for having attained 100 per cent or more of their quotas. Farmville township continues to lead Pitt County, in having exceeded its quota by 11 per cent. Greenville township, according to the latest reports, still has not attained 100 per cent of its quota. Greenville Chairman Walter L. Harrington today stated that some workers had not yet been able to complete their solicitation and that he confidently expects that those workers will shortly report additional contributions which would put Greenville on the Honor Roll. Aiden Township Chairman O. C. Stroud, Jr., and Bethel Township Chairman John W. Rook and W. A. House reported that workers in the community were still actively engaged in canvassing the people and that they, too, expected shortly to (Continued on Page Six)

War Department To Ask For Another Secretary

Navy And Air Forces Should Be Placed Under Single Civilian Secretary Of Armed Forces

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—The War Department proposed to Congress today that the army, navy and air forces be placed under a single civilian "secretary of the armed forces." Under the department head, who would be advised by military chiefs of staff and a secretariat of civilian assistants, the army proposed "The air force should include all land-based combat aircraft except those allotted to the army and navy for reconnaissance, spotting of gunfire, command and messenger service. The air should retain its own service forces." "The army would include all combat ground forces other than the Marine Corps and would have its own service forces." "The navy would include the U. S. fleet with its air arm, the Marine Corps and its service forces." Each component apparently would be directed by a military rather than a civilian head, as at present. Lt. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, chief of staff of army ground forces and a veteran of European campaigning, presented the plan to the Senate Military Committee for the War Department. He asserted the army was not proposing to "merge" the services but to "integrate" them with maximum autonomy for each. Collins' statement was the first detailed public discussion of the plan to establish at least three, and possibly four assistant secretaries. A civilian assistant secretary should be provided "to coordinate the military program of scientific research" with the activities of a national civilian research agency set up later and with the great civilian laboratories of the country, he said. "Each of the three armed forces, however, would have its own research group to work out its own special problems. The assistant secretary would coordinate the work of these units with outside agencies to prevent "wasteful duplication" of effort. The army proposed an assistant secretary for procurement and industrial mobilization. Working with that office, but directly under the chief of staff of the armed forces would be another unit, the director of common supply and hospitalization. That officer, said Collins, should be responsible for procuring items needed commonly by all services, such as food and blankets. Collins' statement also suggested a civilian assistant secretary to supervise legislative matters and public information. A bureau of public relations has been directed by military personnel, of general officer rank during time of war. Collins said the joint chiefs of staff—a wartime agency composed of the high commands of the army, navy, air forces and the White House military chief of staff—should be continued. But his recommendation was that it have recommending authority only on military policy, strategy and budget requirements. The plan proposed a rotation system which it said should insure that no one branch of the service (Continued on Page Four)

VENEZUELA IS RECOGNIZED

United States Formally Recognizes Revolutionary Government

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—The United States today officially recognized the revolutionary government of Venezuela after consultations with other American governments. The State Department issued this statement: "The Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, announced this afternoon that the government of the United States has extended full recognition to the government of Venezuela which is now organized under Senor Reomulo Betancourt. "The American ambassador in Caracas is informing the new minister for foreign affairs of Venezuela of this action. "Before making its decision to recognize the new government of Venezuela the government of the United States of America has exchanged views and consulted with the governments of the other American republics." Ambassador Frank C. Corrigan, the American representative at Caracas, has kept this government fully informed of the Venezuela situation. The revolution, which occurred only 10 days ago, overthrew General Isaias Medina An Garita, president of Venezuela. Betancourt is one of a group of young army officers who claim the revolution was to insure more democratic political practices in Venezuela. They contended that Medina had not given the people proper political expression and that the Venezuelan government was in effect in the hands of a self-perpetuating (Continued on Page Six)

Peace Talk Halts Indonesian War

Batavia, Java, Oct. 30 (AP)—President Soekarno of the "Indonesian Republic" returned to Batavia tonight for possible peace talks with the Dutch after his intervention had halted fighting between native nationalists and British Indian troops at Soerabaya. British army headquarters said that, while there had been no new outbreaks at Soerabaya, the situation at the big naval base remained tense. Soekarno and two members of his inner cabinet, Vice President Mohamed Hatta and Minister of Information Aali Sjarifuddin, flew back from Soerabaya in a plane that had been badly shot up. An informant close to the Indonesian foreign office said a meeting of the nationalist leaders with Hubertus J. Can Mook, acting governor general of the Dutch East Indies, likely would be held tonight. The nationalists are seeking freedom from Dutch colonial control. The fighting at Soerabaya had been the bloodiest of the Allied occupation of Java.

Local Masons Will Honor W. J. Bundy

Monday night, November 5, will be "W. J. Bundy night" at Greenville Lodge No. 284, A. F. and A. M., honoring the well known Greenville attorney who is senior grand warden of the Grand Lodge of North Carolina. On October 19 in Washington, D. C., Mr. Bundy along with President Truman, General Arnold, General Jimmie Doolittle, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and a number of other outstanding personages, was awarded the honorary 33rd degree of Scottish Rite Masonry. The degree is bestowed upon Masons for outstanding service. Bob Pugh, superintendent of Craven County schools, will be the principal speaker for the celebration here. Mr. Pugh also received the 33rd degree at the Washington meeting. Mr. Bundy is the first member of the Greenville lodge to ever receive this high honorary degree. A large number of visiting Masons from neighboring towns are expected to attend the special occasion which will include a supper which begins at 6:30 p. m. All master Masons are cordially invited and urged to attend. The meeting following the supper will get under way at 7:30 o'clock.

The WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst The resurgence of bloody strife between armies and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government forces may signal the dread civil war which long has threatened China—a disaster of the first magnitude. A worried world heaved a sigh of relief in mid-October when the Chinese Reds and the generalissimo reached an agreement which ostensibly meant peace at last. However, the ink was scarcely dry on the pact before the clash of arms was resumed and swelled until now heavy fighting is reported in numerous parts of the country, especially the northern section which is the strong hold of the Communists. The trouble is that trying to make a union of the Chinese Communists and General Chiang's Kuomintang dictatorship is like attempting to mix oil and water. The ideas and ideals of the two factions are as far apart as the poles. They just don't mix. Right here it should be pointed out that the Chinese Communists claim there's no relationship between them and the Russian Communists. General Chou En-Lai, one of the Chinese Communist leaders, assured me that there was no link with Moscow and that the Chinese Reds were mainly agrarians who were interested in bettering the state of the farmer.

Today In Congress

By Max Hall Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Congress seemed increasingly concerned today with preventing a "next war" or preparing for it. Less than three months after the most terrible conflict in history, the trend of congressional news was distinctly on the military, diplomatic, and scientific side. U. S. military experts, in a report studied by a Senate committee, belittled any idea that "the next war" can be fought by a few men pushing buttons. They said the atomic bomb is a weapon for use in connection with airplanes, not a substitute for them. Therefore they insisted an air force must keep up a powerful air force in the War, Navy, State, and Commerce departments. The House continues its discussion of a bill to maintain a powerful peacetime navy—of 1,082 ships. And the Senate Military Committee hears testimony from a high Army officer on how to go about merging the Army and Navy. It seems the Army has a detailed plan for doing this. The Senators want to hear it. The Navy doesn't want to be merged at all. Still on the military side, the Senate Military Committee isn't expected to take action on President Truman's request for universal training until Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) returns from Europe on Nov. 15. The House Military Committee is expected to complete its action on the atomic energy bill today. This is the bill that would set up a nine-man commission to control and develop atomic energy. In line with Mr. Truman's determination to do everything possible to make the United Nations organization work, the State Department has laid before Senators a tentative draft of legislation regarding the use of American troops by the World Security Council. The proposal is to give the President—through his delegate on the council—a free hand in deciding when U. S. forces shall be used. He wouldn't need Congressional approval. However, that means only a number of U. S. troops limited by Congress in advance. Along with the military and diplomatic developments, there were, of course, domestic problems knocking around Congress. The House is expected to approve the final form of the tax-cutting bill today, and the Senate on Thursday when it reconvenes after a recess. As rewritten by a Senate-House conference committee, the bill lops $5,920,000,000 off 1946 tax collections. The Treasury still expects to collect nearly $27,000,000,000 in taxes during the year.

Minister Attlee Will Visit The President

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Three-power discussions over the future of atomic energy will begin here about November 11 between President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Britain and Canada's Mackenzie King. The announcement of the forthcoming talks, released in Washington and London simultaneously today, made no mention of Russian participation. The conference is in line with President Truman's previous statements that the three-power parley would come ahead of any meeting with other Allies on atomic energy. Canada, Great Britain and the United States share the secret of the development of the atomic bomb, but United States plants alone have produced it. "Prime Minister Attlee will visit the President in Washington early next month to discuss with him and Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada problems to which the discovery of atomic energy has given rise," the White House said. "The Prime Minister is expected to arrive in Washington so that the discussions can begin about November 11." Attlee was in the United States last April as a member of the British delegation to the United Nations Postwar Security Conference at San Francisco. He and President Truman also met together at the last "Big Three" meeting in Potsdam.

Machinists Walk Out Over Dispute

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK TONIGHT

Truman Will Make Compromise Wage-Hour Proposal

By HAROLD W. WARD Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Authoritative persons said President Truman will propose tonight that industry pay 48 hours wages for 40 hours work without raising prices. They said he will make this request in a broadcast at 10 p. m. (EST) as a compromise with demands by unions that employees be paid for 52 hours while workers get a 20 per cent increase in pay compared with the 30 per cent the unions ask. Exceptions to holding the line on prices would be made in cases which would work a hardship on the employer, persons informed of the plan said. Price rise requests would be handled through the Office of Price Administration and the Office of Economic Stabilization. If the subject comes before the Labor-Management Conference opening on Monday, some enforcement machinery conceivably could be adopted. But industry agreement might be difficult to obtain. The President will discuss wages and prices with as many of the 18 management and 18 labor delegates as he can meet before the conference. Today he invited AFL Secretary-Treasurer George Meany to discuss the issues with him, along with James M. Duffy, of East Liverpool, O., president of the AFL-Future; an alternate delegate, Teamster President Daniel J. Tobin, a power in the AFL, expects to see the President next Sunday. CIO delegates are expected to confer with Mr. Truman on Friday. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, is believed to have been invited Thursday, although there has been no announcement. Both labor and management spokesmen have contended that lack of a government policy has blocked collective bargaining. CIO (Continued on page six)

Shipping Operations Partially Paralyzed In San Francisco Area By Strike Of Machinists; First Major Industrial Disturbance In That Section

By ASSOCIATED PRESS A strike of some 12,000 AFL and CIO machinists over a wage dispute partially paralyzed industrial and shipping operations in the San Francisco Bay area today, the first major industrial disturbance there since before the war. Between 35,000 and 40,000 workers in factories and shipyards not involved in the strike were kept away from their jobs because of the walkout and indications were that the number would gradually increase. Mayor Roger Lapham of San Francisco acted to prevent a threatened milk shortage for the bay area while a federal conciliator called a conference of management and union representatives in an attempt to end the stoppage. The labor strife in the Pacific Coast metropolis pushed up the number idle across the country because of labor disputes to around 277,000. Meanwhile, strike votes involving thousands of workers were listed, while President Truman arranged to confer with as many of the labor delegates as possible before the labor-management conference in Washington next Monday. Authoritative persons in the capital said Mr. Truman will propose in a radio broadcast tonight that industry pay 48 hours wages for 40 hours work without raising prices. This request, he said, will be a compromise with demands by unions that employees be paid for 52 hours while working 48, and if accepted would give workers a 20 per cent boost in pay compared with 30 per cent unions have asked. The stoppage in San Francisco topped the developments along the labor front. The machinists, who struck yesterday after their demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase had been rejected, formed picket lines at shipyards, manufacturing plants, warehouses, machine shops, refineries and foundries. The lines were observed for the most part by members of other crafts. Also on the Pacific coast, there was a flareup in the eight-month-old strike of workers at Hollywood movie studios. Herbert K. Sorrell, head of the AFL conference of studio unions and a leader in the walkout, told Glendale, Calif., police that gunmen fired four shots at him last night as he was driving his car out of his garage. Sorrell reported the shooting shortly after he announced that at least 800 pickets would resume marching at major studios Wednesday unless an agreement is reached tonight in the AFL jurisdictional dispute. In Pittsburgh, a committee of the CIO—electrical, radio and machine workers authorized filing a strike vote petition which would affect 102,000 workers in 34 Westinghouse Electric Corp. plants in 25 cities. He said (Continued on Page Four)

The NATION TODAY

By James Marlow Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Your cost of living—an other things—will be tied into what President Truman says at 10 o'clock tonight when he broadcasts about wage increases and prices. He's trying to keep prices from rising. Right after the Japanese surrender he stated his administration's policy on wages and prices when he said: "A boss could raise a worker's salary as high as he wished if he didn't use that as a reason for raising the price of goods which the worker made. This policy has run straight into a stone wall. Labor—deprived of the overtime pay made in the war years and forced to take lower-paying jobs—has been demanding wage increases. Business has balked. Many businessmen say they cannot grant pay increases without getting permission from the government to raise prices on goods. Mr. Truman could say: 1. Business is able to raise wages without raising prices. 2. Or, business will be allowed to raise prices generally if it increases wages. No. 2 would breach the policy of holding the line against increased living costs. Philip Murray, head of the CIO, said at a luncheon here yesterday that labor is opposed to a combination of wage and price increases. His reason: That would not be a real wage increase at all because rising prices would mean a rise in living costs and therefore wipe out the wage increase. Mr. Truman said last August that price increases could be granted to adjust "inequities" where pay raises were given. But no one in government has explained yet what an "inequity" is. If Mr. Truman takes the position that wages should go up while prices stand still he'll have support from his own economists. A staff of economists of the government's Reconstruction Board recently made a confidential report (allowed to leak to the press) which said: The average factory worker's wages in 1946—although higher in dollars than in 1941 when living costs really started to climb—will actually be lower than in 1941. CIO workers are asking for a 30 per cent wage increase. They'll probably settle for less. But if the President lays down this policy—business generally can raise wages without price boosts—then the jockeying will start between labor and business. Murray has pointed out that since the Japanese surrender there has not been a single successful collective bargaining agreement in a big wage dispute between management and labor. And even if Mr. Truman okay's raising wages there'll be arguments—and probably strikes—for months.

From the many requests for assistance in remodeling and blue prints of house plans we know that many new farm homes will be built in Pitt county and many old homes remodeled during the next two years.

New Club Organized Twenty-four ladies of the Reston-Nobles community met at the home of Mrs. R. H. McLawhorn, Sr., on October 15 and organized the Reston-Nobles Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, president of the Cannons Club and newly elected secretary-treasurer of the County Council, presided at the meeting. She discussed "What Home Demonstration Club Work Can Mean to Rural Women."

The following officers were elected: Mrs. J. Brantley Speight, president; Mrs. Obed Castelleo, vice president; Mrs. Jack Dail, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Verona Lee Joyner, Pitt County Home Agent, gave a talk on "Planning Your Farm Home." Plans were made to meet again on November 6 at the home of Mrs. E. C. Davenport with Mrs. Jack Dail assistant hostess.

Mrs. McLawhorn assisted by Mrs. R. H. McLawhorn, Jr., and Mrs. Obed Castelleo, co-hostesses, served attractive refreshments, consisting of Russian tea, party sandwiches, cookies and nuts.

Four-H Activities Jane Tyson of the Red Oak community 4-H Club was named the first place winner in the sectional district dress review held in Tarboro on Tuesday, October 9th. Five other 4-H girls from five of the northeastern counties entered this style review.

Jane's costume that she wore consisted of a one-piece dress made of green woolen material; a hat, pill box in style made from the scraps of the dress; and a set of undies made of rayon satin and trimmed with hamburger. With this outfit Jane used brown shoes, bag and gloves.

During the past seven years Jane has done outstanding 4-H club work. During the time she has completed

Eighty-six Home Demonstration Club members attended the slip cover demonstration on Wednesday, October 24. Miss Rose Edlow Bryan, State Home Demonstration agent at large, in her most efficient way gave the demonstration. With this large number of women present we can expect the homes of Pitt county to soon be made more beautiful with new slip covers.

Nutrition Training Meeting Verona Lee Joyner, Home Demonstration agent, gave a food demonstration on "How to Use Uncommon Vegetables" on October 24, in the Agriculture building. Thirty-three club women were present, Miss Joyner said. Well planned meals include at least three servings of vegetables a day—a green or yellow vegetable, potatoes, and one other. In addition to giving flavor and color to meals, they furnish minerals, vitamins, and roughage.

During the spring and summer a variety of vegetables is grown in most gardens in North Carolina but in the fall and winter months many gardens provide only collards or turnip greens. Home gardeners are urged to add Chinese cabbage, kale, Swiss chard, broccoli, parsnips, salsify, and others that will stand frost and some freezing. With these, and the canned and stored vegetables, fall and winter meals that are attractive, interesting, and give protection to health can be served.

After a discussion on "How to Cook Vegetables, broccoli, cauliflower, and parsnips were prepared and served on a vegetable platter garnished with parsley and carrot strips. Those present were served the vegetables prepared with tomato juice and crackers.

A similar demonstration will be given at the 19 Home Demonstration Club meetings during the month of November, in Pitt county.

Mr. John Harris, Extension Landscape Specialist, State College, Raleigh, recently worked with the Home Demonstration Agents and landscaped the grounds of the following families: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Jackson.

Better Housing Plan and Have the Kind of House Your Family Needs" was the program at all Home Demonstration club meetings in October. The home agents found all club members eager to make plans to build or remodel their home that it might have all modern conveniences and yet be designed for special activities of farm life. Many farm families today have invested in war bonds money that will be spent for housing.

In several clubs the members and their husbands were so interested in the subject that joint meetings of the men and women were held. Those clubs were: Red Oak, Littlefield, Pactulus, Pierce and Farmville.

The home agents led the discussions by using blue prints of house plans. The proper placement of windows and doors was emphasized in every plan. Plans with adequate storage space were shown and it was pointed out that storage space was essential.

Today's house plans are generally smaller and more compact and rooms are better related to each other.

From the many requests for assistance in remodeling and blue prints of house plans we know that many new farm homes will be built in Pitt county and many old homes remodeled during the next two years.

We would like for every farm family who plans to build to have a copy of the bulletin "Planning Your Farm Home." Come by our office for your copy.

The Curious Clue

Chapter 13
When Seth went back to the hotel for his mail, he saw Suzy just getting into her car at the foot of the driveway. She flashed a quick smile at him.

"I'm not even asking you to go downtown with me," she said, in her sweet husky voice. "I seem to have an awful lot of 'business' these days that doesn't concern anyone but me."

He leaned over the side of the car and his voice shook a little with a swift emotion he struggled to control.

"How much do you love me Gold?" It was more a declaration than a question. Without warning her answer gave him a tingling sensation of happiness that almost wiped out the unhappy hours he had had in Key West since his arrival.

"More than you know, Wise Man from the North."

Seth bent down and kissed her. "You are a darling." It was all he could trust himself to say at the moment. Suzy threw him a kiss, started her motor and swung down Reynolds street, leaving a very happy man behind her.

Bachelors never make the same mistake once. He thought, as he ran up the driveway. Suzy loved him. That was all that mattered. He'd take Ramon—or any one of them now—in his stride.

His mail took only a few minutes. He had left the hotel and his appointment with Gardner was two hours away, so he decided to walk through the town.

Seth suddenly felt a tingle of excitement run along his spine.

Just ahead of him, across the street, he saw Suzy about to enter a shop. It was Cascade Sam's place. He saw her stand for a couple of minutes, looking up and down the street to be sure no one recognized her. Then she appeared to concentrate on the shop's little window. In that window was a jumbled display of goods which tourists always like—shells, cheap jewelry, souvenirs of all kinds. As he watched, Seth saw Suzy give one more nervous look back over crowded Duval street and then disappear into the store's dark interior.

Seth was standing behind a high board which carried motion picture posters. Something about Suzy's nervousness warned him not to intrude on this shopping expedition of hers. She was in the shop 20 minutes. When she came out, she repeated her uneasy survey of Duval Street and then started walking rapidly toward Division Street, where Seth knew she had parked the car. After she had turned the corner, Seth crossed Duval and went over to Cascade Sam's.

The fat Cuban proprietor was putting up the shutters for the night. Inside, as he strode along the counter, he saw the wife of the man standing on the glassed-over counter. There were four cases, all of them containing pistols and firearms of various kinds.

"Nice collection you have here," Seth picked up a .38 Army Colt, with a six inch barrel. "You must make a specialty of officer's side arms."

The woman looked at him. She had been on the point of sliding that cast off the counter into the locked cabinet back of her.

"How much?" he hazarded.

"Have you a permit?" She eyed him suspiciously. He shook his head.

"No. I'm shopping around a bit."

"But if I see what I want, I'll come back with a permit. Is this expensive?" He held the gun toward the light, carefully examining it.

"It has a price mark—on that ticket, read for yourself." The woman was irritable. A shopper who did not intend to buy. She moved the case impatiently. "We never sell guns without permits in Key West."

"Sorry. I did not know." Seth quickly returned the gun to its tray.

He noticed the woman was looking at the door now. "Do you ever make exceptions to that rule?"

"No exceptions. That is the law," she answered, curtly, snapping out two more lights. "Is there anything else you want. It is closing time."

"So I see." Seth walked slowly toward the door. "I'll be back tomorrow."

Tracing the gun Suzy had just bought was so simple, even Cobo couldn't miss!

But why had Suzy bought a gun? What was she afraid of? Why did she think it was necessary when she had the constant protection of a federal agent, Ramon and Seth, not to mention the well-meaning Cobo, and his two able henchmen? Suzy knew more than any of them about the events leading up to Dolores' death Saturday night—and Suzy was afraid.

It was twilight when Seth finished his few purchases. He took a taxi back to the Casa Linda and immediately went out on the beach to watch the sunset over the Atlantic. These sunsets he had discovered were one of the unheralded glories of Key West.

Suddenly Seth stooped over to examine a long, black object floating in a pool of water under piled-up rocks at the end of Casa Linda's beach.

He picked it up. It was a two-tined barbed spear fixed to the end of a strong fifteen-foot pole. On an impulse he carried it back to the hotel with him. Luke Hale immediately recognized it.

"That is a pole fishermen around here use for spearing crawfish in the day time. At night they catch them with a bully net and a lantern."

"It is a good strong pole. Some fellow will be sorry to lose it."

"Oh, the conk that owns it hasn't lost it," Luke Hale laughed. "Our lives down here are simple affairs. He parked that pole under the rocks for future use. He'll be over in the morning at dawn, to get it for his day's fishing."

"Back it goes then, where I found it. Just my taking ways. Some day I'll get over this everlasting curiosity of mine. I always want to know why, where and what for."

"An excellent characteristic for an inventor," Luke Hale laughed. "But down here it might get you into trouble."

Chapter 14
Gardner's dinner with Seth that evening was brief.

"I had a talk with Ramon before I came back here," he told Seth as he started for his room after dinner. "He's hitting low again as far as you are concerned. But he did give me a new slant on Potter. He thinks Potter made a deal with Dolores. He says the girl was always trying to get money and was never too scrupulous, as to the means she employed in getting it."

"Does he think Dolores stole the dossier for money paid her by some one who wanted it?"

"That's it. The logical conclusion there would be, of course, that the person who would use her for this job would be Potter. He is in a rival aviation company—he'd been hanging around this place for an unknown reason, and he disappeared a few hours after the dossier was stolen. That all fits together."

"The only trouble is, it's purely speculative. We haven't any facts."

Gardner nodded. "But Potter had several aliases. He was not a regular business man—in your sense of the word—and it may be he was commissioned by the company he represents to get those plans of yours at any cost."

"I never thought of that." Seth replied slowly. "Although I do know Potter tried to pull a fast one on the last deal. I saw him working on I'll wager when we find him, we'll discover he knows who killed Dolores."

"All of which makes speed the essence of my contract!" Gardner's voice vibrated with suppressed excitement. "Potter is still on this island, I think. But he won't be many more hours. Cobo's got a tight hold of things now and if he is hiding somewhere, he'll have a hard time getting out to the mainland. No one leaves the island tonight. The one exception was made for Delgado. He is going to Miami after the dancing in the patio this evening for another orchestra to wind up the season here."

Gardner smiled as he rane for the elevator. "I wish you could have heard Cobo give Ramon the old one-two about when he was leaving this evening, what car he was driving, how much gas he had, and who gave him the gas coupons, etcetera, etcetera!"

It was nearly midnight when Gardner started for Rest Beach in his new bathing suit. He had laid his plans carefully and had waited until he could leave the hotel practically unnoticed. The lobby was deserted when he went through on his way to the street. He passed no one as he walked along Flagler Avenue in his dressing gown, his feet flapping in new beach sandals.

At the corner of Flagler and White street, he turned toward the sea and came down to the water's edge at the little public beach known in Key West as Rest Beach. When he reached the beach, he folded up his dressing gown and tucked it, with his sandals, under a few rocks. Then he started wading out to sea.

Then, lying on his back, he turned and started slowly swimming parallel to the shore, heading back toward the Casa Linda.

When he was about a thousand feet from the Casa Linda beach, he saw a light move on the old fort.

It was only a tiny flash of light and it came from the flat observation platform which had been used as a lookout for this southernmost tip of the United States during the Civil War. Gardner started swimming slowly on his side as he watched that light. After a few minutes

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

HIGHER THAN MAN'S LAW

The perable of the Good Samaritan sets forth a striking contrast the law of man and the law of God. The priest and the Levite who looked on the stricken wayfarer and passed by on the other side were legally faultless in their procedure. They had not caused the man's suffering and there was no legal reason why they should do anything other than they did.

But the Good Samaritan believed himself to be under the compulsion of a higher law. He had probably never seen the stricken man before. Legally, his hands would have been clean if he had gone about his business and left the victim of robbery lying as he found him. But probably without knowing why, the Samaritan immediately felt himself involved in the situation and responsible for the man's welfare. If he had been questioned as to his motives, he might have said something about a fellow human being and a child of God. But he took little time out to philosophize. He picked up the man, put him on his own beast, took him to an inn, watched over him during the night, and before he left the next day made financial provision for his care.

Life can never be lived in a satisfactory fashion on the legal basis alone. There is a higher law than man's law. It is only partly written in books. It is wholly written in the hearts of merciful men. There is always a final and divine authority to which the true humanitarian appeals.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STUNNETT

Washington—President Truman's policy of genially back-slapping Congress so far hasn't gotten his legislative program a good nod.

It is well over a month since the President sent his famous 21-point message to Congress setting forth in more words than any President, but one ever before had used in a message, just what legislation he felt this country needed.

Since that time—especially since Congress was just back from a vacation and should have been fresh and eager to make the legislative fur fly—the boys on the Hill haven't passed one piece of major legislation that the President asked for.

Not only that, but the two top drawer measures on the administration and the reconversion unemployment program—the full employment pay bill—are either bogged down completely or threatened with amendments and riders that would leave much to be desired by the administration should they become public laws.

It is a fact that the White House is showing no visible signs of concern over the matter yet, but if Congress continues to let the whole administration program sink out of sight in a legislative bog, Mr. Truman will have to try some other method than hand-holding.

Therein lies the speculation that almost every one here who has anything to do with government is indulging in these autumn days.

President Roosevelt, who for most of his 12 years, was at odds with Congress and had to fight for almost every major issue until the war and the laws pertaining to the winning of it came along, had one club he wielded for all it was worth—public opinion.

President Roosevelt's "fireside chats" were far more than a report to the nation. They were an appeal for support of his legislative program—a presentation of his case—a stirring of the public mind.

President Roosevelt wasn't always successful, of course, but the number of reform measures that were put through Congress over strong opposition by this method were impressive, even if the survey is confined only to one of his terms.

President Truman tossed the Roosevelt technique out the window. New Presidents and their Congresses nearly always traipse off on a honeymoon but the Truman-1945 Congress honeymoon was one that will be long remembered. From little informal luncheons to big Democratic picnics, sweetness and light was all over the place.

It still is. Congress apparently enjoys being wooed as much as the President does woeing it. But there the honeymoon ends. When it comes to arranging the furniture the way the President wants it, Congress is just smiling dutifully and going about its other business.

On one thing the government sidewalk superintendents are agreed: the next move is up to President Truman.

A company official said, granting the demands would cost the company $135,000,000 a year. The strike vote, union officials said, would involve employees in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Maryland, West Virginia, Michigan, Illinois and California.

The Galveston (Tex.) waterfront was closed down today and an estimated 4,000 ship repair workers were made idle because of picketing by striking AFL clerks and checkers of the International Longshoremen's Association. Stiffs of some 60,000 AFL lumbermen in Portland, Ore., will result in the virtual shutdown within 10 days of home and commercial construction in the fourth Northwest lumber producing states. The union held firm in its demands for a $1.10 hourly minimum for the industry.

Thomas A. Edison, Inc. plants in on the percentage of salary and number of years worked. Durham says the amount of retirement checks varies greatly—anywhere from $1 a month to $1,900 a year.

The 1943 Legislature enacted another system known as the local government retirement system. Under this system any county, city or town may bring its employees under the state retirement system.

Durham said that 15 local government units had already participated in the State's program, and that he expects around 50 additional units within the next fiscal year.

Units now participating include the North Carolina League of Municipalities; Greenville Utilities Commission; Cities of Charlotte, Durham, Greenville, Hickory and Winston.

Counties participating are Cabarrus, Carteret, Edgecombe, Guilford, Martin, Pender, Pitt and Rockingham.

The law is the controlling factor in the retirement system, but the general administration and operation is vested in a board of trustees.

Spear Award Goes To Miss McKenzie

The Fenly Spear Memorial Award, a sum of $50 given by Mrs. Nell C. Spear of Chapel Hill in honor of her son Lt. Fenly Spear, was given to Sarah McKenzie of Durham at student assembly at East Carolina Teachers College this morning. The award, to be made annually, goes to a senior science major who has an outstanding record in scholarship, leadership and citizenship.

Lt. Spear attended East Carolina Teachers College for several terms and was a popular student on the campus. He completed his training here on the Civilian Pilot Training program. Later he entered the air corps and became a navigator. His plane, a B-17, crashed in the North Sea while he was returning from a mission over Madagascar, Germany, on June 20, 1944. This was his twelfth mission. He received posthumously the Air Medal and the Purple Heart.

At the college young Spear was a science major. He worked during his student days as a photographer and electrician with the Chi Pi Players, college dramatic club, and was also a contributor to college publications. Mrs. Nell C. Spear was at one time dietitian at the college.

Miss McKenzie, receiver of the award, is president of the Y. W. C. A. Last summer she was sent by the organization for a term's work at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary.

LOCAL LEAGUE REORGANIZED

Fayetteville Gets Williamston's Berth; Play D Ball

New Bern, Oct. 30—(AP)—Another baseball casualty of World War II underwent reconversion here last night with the reorganization of the Coastal Plains League, a class D eight-club loop headed by Ray Goodman of Williamston, as president. It last operated in 1941.

The reactivated league set May 2 as a tentative opening date with a 126-game schedule to end Sept. 3. Admission of Fayetteville to the loop last night at a meeting of league directors here completed the roster, which also includes New Bern, Kingston, Goldsboro, Tarboro, Wilson, Rocky Mount and Greenville.

Of the eight clubs, only Fayetteville has a major league working agreement, this being with the Chicago Cubs. Wilmington and Jacksonville put in bids for membership, but they were turned down with the acceptance of the Fayetteville application filling the loop.

President Goodman announced that the matter of class C ball had been considered, but had been discarded due to the fact that the population of the cities in the league would not permit.

The directors voted to send President Goodman to the Minor League Convention in Columbus, Ohio, in December, and elected J. Gaskill McDaniel of New Bern, league statistician.

The annual meeting of the league was set for Jan. 16 at Fayetteville, at which time the eight clubs will deposit their $750 franchise guarantees.

LOCAL LEAGUE REORGANIZED

Fayetteville Gets Williamston's Berth; Play D Ball

New Bern, Oct. 30—(AP)—Another baseball casualty of World War II underwent reconversion here last night with the reorganization of the Coastal Plains League, a class D eight-club loop headed by Ray Goodman of Williamston, as president. It last operated in 1941.

The reactivated league set May 2 as a tentative opening date with a 126-game schedule to end Sept. 3. Admission of Fayetteville to the loop last night at a meeting of league directors here completed the roster, which also includes New Bern, Kingston, Goldsboro, Tarboro, Wilson, Rocky Mount and Greenville.

Of the eight clubs, only Fayetteville has a major league working agreement, this being with the Chicago Cubs. Wilmington and Jacksonville put in bids for membership, but they were turned down with the acceptance of the Fayetteville application filling the loop.

President Goodman announced that the matter of class C ball had been considered, but had been discarded due to the fact that the population of the cities in the league would not permit.

The directors voted to send President Goodman to the Minor League Convention in Columbus, Ohio, in December, and elected J. Gaskill McDaniel of New Bern, league statistician.

The annual meeting of the league was set for Jan. 16 at Fayetteville, at which time the eight clubs will deposit their $750 franchise guarantees.

Football

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Oct. 30—(AP)—Army, Notre Dame and Navy retained the first three places among the country's top ten football teams as determined by the weekly Associated Press poll today but the remainder of the elite group underwent a thorough shake up.

Three new clubs were admitted to membership, three others grabbed new places and only beaten Pennsylvania kept its position.

Army, playing what the Cadet coaches said was the team's best game of the season, defeated Duke 48 to 13 Saturday and today did one of its best vote-getting jobs by snaring 91 first places on the 106 ballots cast. Ten critics placed the team second and five rated it no better than third.

Notre Dame's unbeaten string and its 55 to 0 conquest of Iowa induced six voters to place the Irish first and Navy was the choice of

Japanese Crimes Related In Court

Manila, Oct. 30—(AP)—Maj Gen. Basilio J. Valdes, Philippine chief of staff, today told a military commission trying Japanese Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita on war crime charges that he found the half-cremated bodies of his older brother and a nephew in a pit filled with decomposing flesh.

Earlier, the general's sister-in-law, Mrs. Agela Lopez De Valdes, and Mrs. Justa Guido, described how their husbands—Lt. Col. Alejo Valdes and Jose Guido—were tied up by Japanese soldiers under Yamashita's command and taken away, never to be seen alive again.

Head Cold Sufferers Warned Against Hard Blowing

Serious Ear Infection May Result, Authorities Say

Medical authorities warn that hard blowing of the nose during a head-cold period not only aggravates nasal soreness but by a backing-up process may lead to serious ear infection. When nostrils are clogged, the application of a medicated nasal-unguent offers quicker and safer relief. Mentholatum sniffed back helps thin out thick mucus and makes breathing easier. Sniffing Mentholatum has been clinically tested and found effective by a group of nose and throat specialists. Jars, tubes, 30c.

three. Alabama garnered four first place votes and St. Mary's of California received two.

The Cadets, who have been on top since a year ago this week when Notre Dame relinquished the throne, gathered 1,040 points.

Alabama, which battered Georgia by a 28 to 14 score Saturday, hopped from sixth to fourth and was followed, in order, by Indiana, Ohio State, Pennsylvania, St. Mary's of California, Oklahoma A & M, and Michigan.

Ohio State, Oklahoma A & M, and Michigan are the new members of the top ten although it is a return appearance for both of the big ten clubs. Defeats suffered last Saturday by Purdue, Minnesota and Texas sent that trio out of the major ranking.

The leading ten teams determined on a basis of 10 points for each first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc. (first place votes in parentheses):

Notre Dame (6)	890
Navy (3)	798

ART EXHIBIT AT LIBRARY

William C. Fields To Present His Portrait Paintings Here

By CHESTER WALSH

Art lovers of Greenville will have opportunity to inspect the fine portrait work of a talented and widely known North Carolina portrait painter when William C. Fields of Fayetteville exhibits about 20 of his pictures in the Art Room of the Third Memorial Library on Evans Street. Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale, president of the Greenville Community Art Center, said today. The exhibition, sponsored by the local art colony, opens at the library Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. Fields will speak about his work at 4 o'clock. Art lovers are invited to hear him.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, chairman of the Sponsoring Board of the Greenville Community Art Center, an enthusiastic worker for the advancement of art, describing the artist's talents and exceptionally fine portrait painting, said Mr. Fields received his A. B. degree at the University of North Carolina. He was director of the Art Gallery in Raleigh three years. He then studied painting at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Since then he has painted portraits in Boston, New York and North Carolina. Mr. Fields' paintings, brought here from the State Art Society Galleries in Raleigh, proved the most popular one-artist exhibit and one of the most popular exhibits at the galleries. He lives the spirit of his handicraft, possesses an almost unlimited store of the lore of art and enjoys discussing it. He has a magnetic personality, loves nature and young people—and to paint. All young people in college and schools here who are interested in art will receive wonderful inspiration from the talented and gracious North Carolina artist.

The public is invited to attend the exhibition at the library in the afternoons. Announcement of evening hours will be made later. The exhibits will be here two weeks.

Social Security

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT SOCIAL SECURITY?

The Social Security Act affects every wage and salary earner in private industry and business. It affects every covered worker's family. Do you know your rights under this law?

If not, get the facts from the local Social Security Board office. There you will be given answers to such questions as:

When do I get retirement benefits? How much will my monthly benefits be when I grow old? What would my family get if I should die? What is a social security card for? How will it affect my social security account if I have more than one account number? What jobs are "covered" by the law? What will happen to my social security if I should leave a job in private industry or business and go to work in a job that is not covered by the law?

"These and other questions will be answered, gladly, at any office of the Social Security Board," said Mrs. Ruth G. Duffy, manager of the Rocky Mount field office. "All information and services are free. The answers to many questions are to be found in a little pamphlet called 'Old-Age and Survivors Insurance for Workers and Their Families.' This publication is available upon request—without cost—at the office of the Social Security Board.

Farmers Urged To Conserve Materials

With the end of the 1945 Program Year just two months off, J. V. Taylor, chairman Pitt County AAA Conservation Committee, urges all farmers who have obtained conservation materials under the 1945 program to exercise every possible effort to use these materials in accordance with good farming practices before the deadline, December 31.

Upon using all materials, a report should be made at the Pitt County AAA Office by the farm operator. If all the farm allowance has not been taken up in conserve eligible to receive payments, applications for payment may be signed at the same time," he explained.

The AAA chairman also urged producers having 1944 conservation materials transferred to the 1945 program to make proper use of it in order to obtain full credit and avoid a double deduction of the value of the materials.

President To...

President Philip Murray said at a luncheon yesterday that industry was engaged in a sit-down and not a single labor agreement had been negotiated since V-J Day.

C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, declared at a recent news conference that "what you might call the wage-price policy or the economic policy of the country for peace time has not been too well worked out."

Walter Reuther, vice-president of the CIO-Auto Workers, had arranged to fly to Washington today to confer with Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach, but postponed the trip until later in the week. General Motors has not rejected the union's request for 30 per cent pay raise. Wilson proposed instead the workers go on a 45-hour week.

The while wage-price issue revolves about the fact union labor generally worked a wartime 48-hour week, getting time and a half for the extra eight hours. This meant 52 hours pay for 48 hours work.

What the unions have wanted is to get the same pay as in wartime in changing back from the 48-hour to the regular 40-hour week. Under Mr. Truman's reported proposal they would get a little less pay than in wartime but work eight hours less.

Visiting Officers Get Warm Greeting

By CHESTER WALSH

Major Russell L. Janson (Illinois) and Capt. William K. Glenn (New York), members of Major W. E. Gregory's Marine Squadron 343, the first Marine flight unit to come to Greenville after the airfield was built, were in Greenville yesterday and received a warm welcome. Officers and enlisted men of this squadron contributed much to the community life here. Many here will remember Chaplain Calhoun and Lieut. Bill Witt, one of the best drill masters in the armed forces. Major Janson and Capt. Glenn went with the squadron to the Pacific Coast in July, 1943, and then were stationed on Wake Island when the Japanese surrendered. Incidentally, Major Gregory, whose father was an army officer, is now in Washington, D. C., taking some special course. Lieut. McGeowan is on the Pacific Coast now.

Cancel Engagement

Atlanta, Oct. 30—(AP)—An engagement to address the Young Democrats of Georgia at a statewide meeting here December 3 and 4 has been cancelled by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt to avoid "any embarrassment."

The former first lady telegraphed her cancellations to Gov. Ellis Arnall yesterday in the wake of resignations by two members of the group's executive committee who voiced objections to her racial views.

London, Oct. 29—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee told Commons today that the Labor government would establish a research and experimental office to handle "all aspects of the use of atomic energy." In response to a question, Attlee said "The British government are fully informed as to German research into the atomic bomb."

"City Guys"

Lees Summit, Mo., Oct. 29—(AP)—Some 300 men went on a wolf hunt but only one wolf was killed. Eight others escaped.

The farmers who organized the hunt blamed its success on inexperienced city hunters. "Those city guys all wanted the first shot. They bunched up and kept running ahead of the lines," one farmer commented.

"If wolves can laugh, they'll knock themselves out, now."

Oklahoma City, Oct. 29—(AP)—Scott Wasson, Pine Bluff, Ark., can appreciate a discharged soldier wanting to get back into civilian clothes as quickly as possible, but he doesn't believe he should furnish the clothes.

While visiting his brother, someone broke the door on his automobile, taking only a suit of clothes. A GI uniform was found nearby.

Declares Hope

Quebec, Oct. 29—(AP)—A commission of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization declared today that hopes of eliminating much of the world's hunger within a few years is "no longer utopian but is practicable."

The world, it said, has the knowledge to go far in wiping out malnutrition and its physical and social diseases. All it needs to do, the commission explained, is to put that knowledge to use.
