Post War Labor Troubles Threaten Key Industries

Labor And Management Study Truman's Appeal For Industrial Peace And Prosperity; About 261,000 Persons Now On Strike

By The Associated Press
The nation's postwar labor troubles, which threaten to expand to key industries if approved strike votes scheduled are carried out, kept about 261,000 persons away from their jobs today as labor and management studied President Truman's appeal for industrial peace and prosperity.

Mr. Truman, in his wage-price policy speech last night, approved reasonable wage increases for the nation's workers. He cautioned labor against making too great demands on employers, but said industry generally could stand some pay increases out of profits to make up for loss of wartime earnings.

The President's address came a few hours after the House Military Committee had recommended abolition of government strike vote procedure and urged that unions be penalized for violation no-strike contracts.

Strike votes have been asked or approved in the automobile, steel, electrical and packing industries, with wages the major issue. The CIO United Automobile workers asked a 30 per cent increase in wages for the automotive industry, affecting about a half million workers.

The CIO steel workers also have petitioned for a strike vote after rejection of demands for $2 a day pay raises for some 600,000 employees in mills. A CIO union also has authorized filing a strike petition which would affect 102,000 employees of Westinghouse Electric Corp. plants in 25 cities.

Yesterday the CIO packinghouse workers union asked for a strike vote among 200,000 production workers seeking a 25 cents an hour wage hike. A majority of the current labor disputes are over wages. In the San Francisco Bay area today, the strike of some 10,000 AFL and CIO machinists for the second day kept idle about 40,000 other workers in 200 industrial plants. (Continued on page six)

Allied Powers Share Fleet Of Nipponese

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes announced today that Russia, Britain and China would share equally with the United States in a division of that part of the Japanese fleet which is not destroyed.

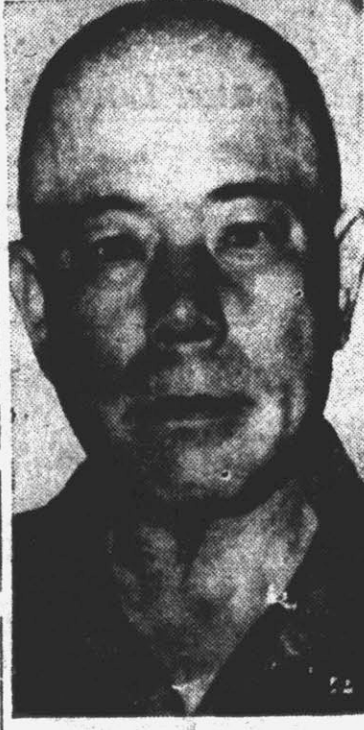

The vessels to be divided include 38 destroyers and an undisclosed number of small, coastal defense ships of 800 to 900 tons.

Those to be destroyed — Byrnes spoke of scuttling them — are a battleship, four aircraft carriers of which three are damaged; four cruisers of which three are damaged; and 51 submarines.

Asked at a news conference whether the methods of scuttling would allow a test to determine the effectiveness of atomic bombs on naval units, Byrnes said that he did not know the method to be employed. However, naval sources have indicated such an experiment might be made.

Byrnes said that the Navy had wanted to destroy most of what was left of the Japanese fleet and put the matter up to the other three powers. They agreed to the arrangements for destroying all the major vessels and dividing the destroyers and lesser ships except for the submarines.

On Trial

Witnesses At Trial Of Yamashita Tell Of Atrocity

Manila, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Witnesses at the war criminal trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita continued through the third day today their recital of atrocity — slaughter and rape — committed by troops commanded by the one-time "Tiger of Malaya" and supreme Japanese commander of the Philippines.

Through the repetition of similar instances of brutal brutality in the trial without precedent, Yamashita is charged with responsibility for crimes he never committed and denies having ordered — the prosecution hopes to establish that the acts of the Japanese followed a set pattern in such numbers that the commander should have known of the acts — and did nothing to stop them.

The defense, following its own pattern, continued to object to all affidavits and depositions offered by the prosecution, examining and questioning all offerings.

Highlight of the third day's recitation was the testimony of Mrs. Rosario Yulo, who told of being in a home last Feb. 7, where more than 100 civilian men, women and children were shot and burned. Mrs. Yulo's daughter, son and husband were among those slain.

Other testimony of Japanese atrocities included:

The killing and burning of 22 patients, all civilians, at the National Psychopathic Hospital on the outskirts of Manila was described by a series of witnesses.

Lucio Mariano, hospital administrative officer, said five or six Japanese officers rushed into the building and started shooting. They ordered everyone outside.

Another patient was given the "hurd" treatment — picked up and hurled head first onto the floor.

Medical officer Toribio Josen testified that he had seen patients hurled over a cliff behind the hospital. (Continued on page six)

BRITISH GIVE AN ULTIMATUM

Indonesian Forces Committing Attacks Will Be Crushed

By RALPH MORTON
Batavia, Java, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in The Netherlands East Indies, issued an ultimatum today threatening to crush with the overpowering force of modern weapons any Indonesian forces which commit unprovoked attacks upon British troops.

Christison acted swiftly after announcing that Brig. A. W. P. Mallaby, commander of the 49th Indian Brigade, had been murdered at Soerabaja last night "while arranging details of a cease fire order in the company of Indonesian leaders."

The British general summoned Soekarno, president of the independent seeking "Indonesian Republic," to his headquarters, acquainted him with the facts of Mallaby's death and read his warning. Earlier, asked whether he held Soekarno responsible for the killing, he replied that "these acts were done in the name of the republic set up by himself."

The murder climaxed a three-day battle which apparently had ended when the new attack broke out in Soerabaja. Christison charged that many Indonesians in the attack wore Japanese uniforms, "and there were indications that some if not all of them, actually were being led and directed by Japanese officers and Germans who were former U-boat captains and crews."

They heavily outnumbered the 1,600 British troops, Christison said, and were armed with weapons secured because of what he described as an unauthorized surrender by a Japanese general, Nakamura, to Dutch Capt. P. J. G. Huyer, in defiance of written British orders. Christison said only China, Russia, Britain and the U. S. were authorized to receive Japanese surrenders.

As the result of that surrender, Christison said, "there were in Soerabaja large quantities of arms, ammunition, armored cars and tanks, which the Japanese had surrendered to Huyer."

"On Oct. 28," the Allied commander told a press conference, "a treacherous and unprovoked attack was made on British and Indian forces at Soerabaja after the occupation had been proceeding there three days in a friendly and cooperative manner."

His warning to the Indonesians said:

"These direct and unprovoked attacks upon British forces cannot in any circumstances be permitted and unless the Indonesians who have committed these acts surrender to my forces, I intend to bring the whole weight of my sea, land and air forces and all the weapons of modern war against them until they are crushed."

Durham's Retirement Discussed By Board

Raleigh, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Teachers' and State Employees' Retirement Board went into executive session with Governor Cherry today, with one problem being the proposed retirement of Baxter Durham as secretary.

Durham's retirement had been rumored here for some time, but some opposition to his leaving the State developed at the last minute.

It was proposed that he be given a lesser assignment and that Nathan Yelton, former comptroller of the State Board of Education, be made secretary.

Before it began its deliberations with the governor, W. G. Pittman of Rockingham was sworn in as a member to succeed L. C. Gifford of Tickory.

Approval Of Increases Announced By Truman

President Truman Approves Reasonable Increases In Post War Wages

By HAROLD W. WARD
Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—President Truman has laid down his postwar wage-price policy, general approval of reasonable pay increases to avoid deflation and unemployment, but of price increases only where necessary.

The President warned labor last night against making too great demands on employers, but he said industry generally could stand some pay increases out of profits.

To those employers wanting higher prices before giving workers more pay for shorter hours — to make up for loss in wartime earnings — Mr. Truman said price increases might be entertained in six months.

And industries essential to conversion could ask price increases now if they must have them to pay better wages to recruit necessary manpower.

In a vigorous broadcast appeal for industrial peace and prosperity, Mr. Truman said labor needs higher pay rates with the change over from a 48 to a 40-hour work week, and industry can afford to go part way in making up this loss.

But he also amended his August 18 order relaxing controls on wage increases to add three classes of pay boosts for which compensating price increases could be approved by the stabilization administrator.

These were:

1. Cases where the percentage increase in average straight time hourly earnings since January, 1941, was more than 10 per cent.

2. Cases where the percentage increase in average straight time hourly earnings since January, 1941, was more than 10 per cent.

3. Cases where the percentage increase in average straight time hourly earnings since January, 1941, was more than 10 per cent.

Hopes Civilian Control For Conquered Germany

CIVIL WAR IN CHINA RAGING

Chiang Kai-Shek Is Charged With Plotting Civil War

Chungking, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Yenien Communists in a formal statement today charged Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek with deliberately plotting a civil war in China.

The Communists added that Chiang not only plotted the war but that he had moved troops for that purpose at the very time the Communist leader Mao Tse-Tung was in Chungking for the purpose of discussing means of averting internal strife and unifying China.

As the talks proceeded, the statement said, Chiang massed eight crack armies against the Communists in Northern Honan Province and along the Peiping-Hankow railroad. Then about 200,000 government, Japanese and puppet troops began attacks, seized eight big towns and more than 100 townships and villages from which the Communists withdrew "to avoid large scale conflict."

But, continued the document, "despite the conciliatory policy" of the Communists, government forces pushed on with a clear intention of fighting their way to Peiping. Nevertheless, all railroad stations between Tzschien, in Southern Hopei, and Shihchiangchiang, and important railroad junctions, are in the hands of the Communists.

"Tatung is in great danger," said Yen.

He said the city was being defended by 10,000 troops under his deputy commander, but he added the defenders had only 10 field guns and no tanks.

"I have ordered the garrison there to fight to the death," he declared. Yen said the attack on Tatung was being led by Ho Lung, whom he described as one of the best Communist generals.

Shansi provincial troops were too far away to help.

Anti-Semite Will Plead His Case

Nuernberg, Germany, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Julius Streicher, the anti-Semite propagandist, will plead in his own defense all points dealing with the Jewish problem when he faces trial Nov. 30 with other major Nazis, his attorney said today.

"It has been made clear to him that under no circumstances will I defend him against anti-Semitic charges," said Dr. Hans Marx, the lawyer. "I will argue only his good points."

The attorney asserted that Streicher's "good points" included the claim that he freed 30 Communists from jail every Christmas. Marx said Streicher apologized to him yesterday at their first conference for having him jailed in 1936 because of free masonry activities.

Important Problem Awaiting Solution

Frankfurt, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower, expressing disappointment over delays in disposing of important problems in Germany, said today it was "evident that only by the spirit of joint accommodation or views can there be any real success for the allied control authority."

In his third monthly report as military governor of the American zone in occupied Germany, Eisenhower said delays during September were caused by the necessity for unanimous four-power consent to all measures under consideration. He declared United States policy has been "to conform wherever possible to decisions on which the other three representatives of the control council and coordinating committee were agreed." He said he hoped this principle "will find greater acceptance."

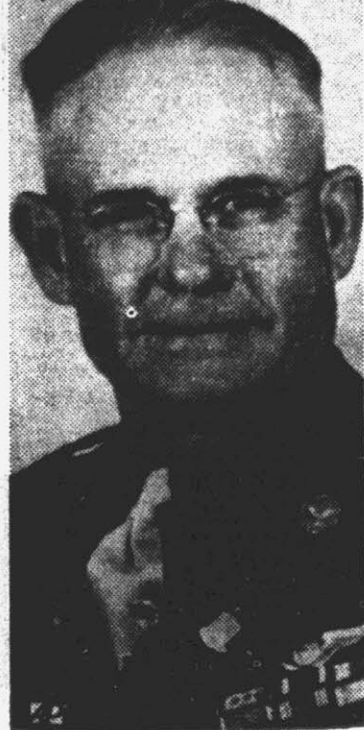

Russia Suggests Reparation Pay

Moscow, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Soviet news agency Tass said today the Russians had suggested that Italy pay $300,000,000 in reparations, provided the United States and Britain seek no share.

This figure, Tass said, was put forward at the recent foreign ministers' conference in London. The agency added that, of the proposed total, $100,000,000 would go to Russia and the rest to Yugoslavia, Greece and Albania.

Britain and the United States already have turned down any claims of their own for Italian reparations and have insisted that Italy is unable to pay reparations beyond what can be taken over from her foreign assets.

ASK INCREASE IN SHOE PRICES

Conference On Prices Announces Shoe Rationing To End

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Higher prices for shoes became a warm issue today as rationing of all footwear ended.

Even as sales without coupons began, shoe manufacturers pressed with OPA officials a contention that rising production costs warranted a price increase.

Producers said costs are going up for two principal reasons:

1. Loss of large military contracts.

2. The end of rationing is expected to cut drastically the demand for types of shoes which did not require ration stamps.

The first session of the conference on prices was in progress when OPA announced yesterday that shoe rationing would end at 12:01 a. m. today.

The agency presented to manufacturers the results of an exhaustive OPA study of shoe industry costs, then adjourned the meeting until today. Both the industry representatives and OPA declined to disclose the survey findings.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles predicted production would be up to 28 or 29 million pairs in November and December, and said this would match pre-war demand.

Rationing of shoes began on Feb. 8, 1943, and at first was on a basis of three pairs a year. By November of last year military demands had cut the ration to a pair every nine months.

Each musette bag, cigar box or paper sack which the OPA dumped on the counter, crammed full of occupation marks, adds to the headache building up for U. S. military authorities.

Most of the occupation marks originate on a Russian printing press. And in Berlin's blackmarkets, the Russians and Germans are paying fantastic prices for American cigarettes, soap and chocolate bars.

All four powers print occupation marks, but the last official report showed the Russians were printing more than the other three combined.

President Disclosed Today Desire That Germany Now In Military Hands Be Turned Over To Allied Civil Authorities By Next June

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—President Truman disclosed today that he hopes the administration of conquered Germany—now in military hands—will be turned over to Allied civil authorities by next June.

He also told a news conference he looks for Russia to soon join in sessions of the Allied Advisory Commission on Japan. The commission met here yesterday, but Russia had no representative on hand.

The June 1 goal for shifting the Allied government in Germany to a civilian status was set, President Truman told newsmen, upon the recommendation of Gen. Eisenhower, chief of American occupation forces in the Reich.

Military occupation by the four Allied powers—Great Britain, Russia, France and the U. S.—would continue as long as necessary under the plan, however.

The weekly news conference also developed this information: Great Britain and Canada, which share the secrets of the atomic bomb with this country, have the "know how" to produce the bomb. The three powers soon will hold a conference on future disposition of atomic energy.

The President, while favoring reasonable wage increases to compensate in part for loss of high wartime pay, believes that the amount of such increases will have to be worked out by collective bargaining in each case. He declined to say by what per cent we thought wages should go up.

So far, he said, he hasn't given any thought to running for the presidency in 1948.

He wants Congress to forego a recess until it has disposed of his legislative program calling for, among other things, liberalized jobless pay and a government commitment on "full employment."

A reporter asked him at his news conference whether he would assent to a congressional recess.

His reply was that Congress, of course, had the authority to quit when it desired, but that he hoped that it would not recess until it had finished with the legislation endorsed by his administration.

Another reporter asked whether Congress doesn't usually ask the President if he has other matters to communicate before taking a recess. (Continued on Page Six)

Soldiers Sending Cash From Abroad

Berlin, Oct. 31.—(AP)—American soldiers in Berlin are sending cash home at the rate of about $250,000 a day in a rush to beat impending restrictions on money transfers, expected about Nov. 10.

An Analysis Of The News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Holland, faced by a serious threat to her wealth in Indonesia, is now caught between the devil and the deep blue sea in her efforts to rehabilitate an economy almost completely disrupted by war.

To the immediate problem of domestic existence has been added the probability that her long-range economy must be adjusted to a steadily diminishing return from the rich colonies, and the possibility that some day she will lose them entirely.

What she can do to offset this is the problem. Already the suggestion has been made that Holland should have part of Germany to offset her war losses, especially the land despoiled by German flooding. Now there is talk of expanding this idea to give her a more self-contained economy.

The Dutch themselves have treated the subject gingerly. Their present border with Germany, for the most part, has stood since the 16th century. It was arbitrary then, but as time passed the peoples on either side became more and more distinct, and the Dutch are wary of a "Sudetenland" which might plague them years from now, even though the example has been set by Poland in Eastern Germany.

In considering a strip of Germany as replacement for flooded Flanders, the discussion has centered principally around an area from 20 to 50 miles wide from Aachen to the sea at Wilhelmshaven.

This presumably would include some coal mines just north of Aachen, some textile and paper manufacturing centers west of the river Rhine, but would skirt the northern edges of the Rhenish-Westphalian industrial concentrations in the Ruhr and along the

End of the Century Club
On Tuesday, October 30, Mrs. Edward Batchelor was hostess to the End of the Century Club. Her home was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and roses. Members and guests were served delicious refreshments as they arrived. Mrs. E. B. Picklen poured coffee.

Following a short business session, Dr. Paul Murray, member of the history department of the College, was presented. He discussed "The International Court and Police Force." His discussion was broken up into component parts by answering the following questions:
How is the court constituted?
Who are parties to suits?
What is the extent of its jurisdiction?
What is the nature of its procedure?
What is the nature of its decisions?
How are its judgments enforced?

After Dr. Murray's thoroughly comprehensive discussion of this topic, the members felt they were much better prepared to understand the development of world security, as is now being formulated and will be perfected in the future. Each member present felt deeply grateful to the speaker.

Mrs. Paul Murray was a guest at this meeting.
Books were exchanged and the club adjourned.—Reported.

After a short business session presided over by Mrs. Spain, the president, the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. N. T. Ennett introduced Capt. V. C. Fleming, Jr., the speaker of the afternoon, who told interesting stories of the places and times he had seen from England to Germany, while spending two years in the European theatre of war. Mrs. J. E. Winslow completed the program with interesting items of news.

The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Lucy, Mrs. Rawl and Mrs. Brooks served a delicious salad course with hot tea. Guests for the afternoon were Capt. and Mrs. V. C. Fleming, Jr., Mrs. E. D. Credle and Mrs. N. C. Brooks.

Dr. DeLoach to Return to College
Dr. Will S. DeLoach has been discharged from the Public Health Service and will arrive in Greenville this week to take up his duties as professor of science at East Carolina Teachers College. He held the rank of lieutenant.

A skilled chemist, Dr. DeLoach has been working since March, 1945, at the Carter Memorial Laboratory in Savannah, Ga., on malaria control and DDT, the wonder insecticide. He was in charge of chemical investigations there and with a group of assistants made a study of the various uses of DDT.

This work is the second research problem for the government in which Dr. DeLoach has recently been engaged. In March, 1944, he went from the college here to Duke University and for about six months conducted experiments on the production of agar-agar from sea weed. At that time the supply had been cut off by Japanese conquest, and the government was seeking a new source. For a time Dr. Christine Wilton of East Carolina Teachers College assisted in the work at Duke.

Dr. DeLoach is a native of Birmingham, Alabama, and is a graduate of Howard College there. He has a doctor's degree from the University of Chicago. He came to East Carolina Teachers College in 1940 and has been a member of the science department since that time.

Sans Souci Book Club

The Sans Souci Club held a delightful meeting on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Key Brown at her lovely home on East Fifth Street. Quantities of chrysanthemums in artistic arrangements throughout the house made a beautiful setting for the meeting. Mrs. R. G. Shackelford of Scotland Neck, Mrs. C. W. Reynolds, Mrs. S. E. Oakley and Mrs. J. B. Spliman were welcomed as guests for the afternoon. Mrs. P. M. Wooten, the president, then presided over a short business session, the books were exchanged and the meeting turned over to the program committee. Mrs. W. L. Hall was introduced as program leader and reviewed one of the new books, "The World, the Flesh and Father Smith" by Bruce Marshall. In her inimitable way, Mrs. Hall gave the club a delightful program, and left each one of her hearers with the determination to read the book for herself. Mrs. Brown then invited members and guests into the dining room where from a beautifully appointed table Mrs. Frank Wooten, Mrs. W. I. Wooten and Mrs. J. H. Waldrop served a delicious salad course with dainty sandwiches and tea.

Christian Science Service

"Probation After Death" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies on Sunday, October 28.

The Golden Text was from Matthew 24:13. "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved."

Among the citations comprising the lesson sermon were the following from the Bible: "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended, but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in anything ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you." (Phil. 3:13-15)

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In proportion to his purity is man perfect; and perfection is the order of celestial being which demonstrates life in Christ, life's spiritual ideal. Being is holiness, harmony, immortality. It is already proved that a knowledge of this, even in small degree, will uplift the physical and moral standard of mortals, will increase longevity, will purify and elevate character. Thus progress will finally destroy all error, and bring immortality to light." (Pages 337, 402).

A. A. U. W. Meets

At the A. A. U. W. meeting Monday night Miss Emma Hooper, member of the English department at the College, was elected to serve as president of the organization this year, and took the chair to preside at the program, at which James L. Fleming, head of the modern language department at the College, spoke to a good group of members and visitors on the difficulty of seeing what the truth is and the need of every human being to try to see it for himself. Mr. Fleming illustrated his idea from the handling of German propaganda in France in the past few years, showing as he talked a number of interesting samples of such propaganda.

Another feature of the business meeting was the announcement of the appointment by the state president of the A. A. U. W. of Miss Mamie Jenkins, also a member of the College English department, as state radio chairman for the organization.

Mr. Fleming led into his central idea in his speech by illustrating in many ways, some of them amusing and all apt, the idea that truth is, after all, a relative matter, and very difficult for anyone to find.

"We see everything," he said, "in the light of what we have already seen."

The world we live in, he pointed out, is a world of change, in which what seems to be truth is continually shifting; but in all this change there is that which is constant, for all the change proceeds according to law. So man must keep continually on the search to find the constant.

If that is true for us, he said, how much more difficult it has been for all the peoples of Europe in the past several years to know the truth, especially in the light of all the propaganda released by their enemies.

The speaker showed samples of German propaganda released in France, pointing out in each the element of truth or seeming truth which helped to confuse the real truth for those who saw it.

The truth is individual, said Mr. Fleming in concluding. Each must find it for himself. To help in knowing truth, he offered four suggestions: Remember that the idea that the atomic bomb is secret is only relative truth, and to get at truth maintain freedom of expression, travel and learn what other nations are really like, and practice democracy in all activities.

At the business meeting, Miss Irene Hester, vice president of the branch, presided. She gave the group a greeting from Mrs. Ethel R. Waters, now head of the home economics department of Furman University, appointed a committee to write a letter of appreciation to Mrs. Waters, and called for the report of the committee appointed earlier to select a nominee for the office of president, left vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Waters. Miss Hooper's name was presented by Mrs. Sam Underwood for the committee and was approved by ac-

Sugar Coupons Expire Nov. 30

Raleigh, Oct. 30—Canning sugar coupons issued last spring for the now waning canning season will be void on December 1 and thereafter, Theodore S. Johnson, Raleigh district OPA director, said yesterday. The announcement was made as a reminder to housewives so that any unused coupons that have not been used for the purpose issued may be used before they become invalid on November 30.

Johnson said that a good many unused coupons were held by housewives who have found that they will not need as much sugar for canning purposes as expected when applications were filed and coupons were issued by local boards. Many housewives, he said, are keeping faith with OPA by returning these unused coupons to their boards to be destroyed.

The Curious Clue

BY RUFUS HEED

Chapter 15

But Gardner was not to talk to Seth that morning as they planned. His telephone started ringing again just as he thought he had fallen asleep. Only this time it was six o'clock instead of two. Dawn was breaking over the island. Seth Peabody was calling him. He wasted no time in explanation.

"They've found Potter," he said ironically. "He's dead. Been shot. Where is he?"

"West Martello Tower. The General called you, but couldn't wake you. He's going right over and so am I. How long will you be?"

"Five minutes. Wait for me in the lobby."

As the two men started running down Flagler Avenue, Gardner told Seth about his midnight swim. "I was sure that was Potter hiding in the fort," he gasped, as he tried valiantly to keep up with Seth's long running stride. "And how I hated to leave him there!"

With a final burst of speed that completely winded Gardner, the two men caught up with the General who at once started for the fort, picking his way over piles of old broken bricks, weeds, and crumbling mortar.

Potter lay on his back near the center of this narrow path. His blank blue eyes stared at the sky. Seth gave a quick gasp of excitement. He saw his dossier clutched tightly in Potter's left hand.

The men scrambled up to the path from the beach and stood looking down at the body at their feet. Potter's left arm was flung at a stiff, sharp angle from his body. The right arm was bent upward and lay on the path with the right hand at a level with the man's shoulder. In this hand there was a pistol, which at first glance seemed to be pointing to the back of the man's head.

"He shot himself," Seth exclaimed as he leaned down to examine the body more closely. But the General shook his head.

"No. I don't think so. We won't touch anything until the medical examiner and Cobo get here, but I don't think Potter had a chance to pull the trigger. Looks to me as if some one surprised him and he had raised his hand to fire when he got it from the back."

"Well, we got the dossier any way—that answers a lot of questions," Gardner was bending over the body with a magnifying glass he had in his pocket.

"This man never shot himself. That bullet entered the base of his brain at an angle that would have made it a self-inflicted wound. But he's been dead some time. Rigor mortis has set in."

"You saw him last night, moving around the fort between midnight and two," Seth said quickly, touching the body gingerly with the toe of his shoes. "That'll tell you when he as shot."

"Oh, but I'd say this man was shot before that. I probably saw the man who bumped him off. I had no way of telling, of course, whom I did see. But I'd say Potter was shot long before midnight."

They heard voices and a few minutes later Cobo and Dr. Waldo began climbing over the mounds of debris. In two or three minutes they came out on the path where the men were waiting for them.

"Ah, now we know who killed Doctor!" Cobo exclaimed in a low voice. "She saw Potter getting dossier from trunk. He killed her. That is all."

"Yeah. But my grief is under perfect control," Gardner said grimly. "You get one murder solved and right away another pops out at you."

"But Potter killed himself," Cobo began, but stopped suddenly as Dr. Waldo said curtly:

"No. He couldn't have fired a bullet at that angle. At the back of the head. Somebody came up behind him as he tried to draw a gun on them."

Gardner nodded. "That's the way I figured it. Doctor. The shot was fired at close range."

"Yes. In a minute or two I'll answer the next question. It always comes first. When was he shot?"

Gardner smiled. "You were already been talking about that, but all we could do was guess. We leave it to you medicos to set the exact hour."

"Can't always do that, but we can come pretty close to the time a person was shot by checking the condition of the body. Now let's see..."

The doctor ran his hands over the body, tried to unfix the fingers holding the gun and the dossier, and looked closely at the wound. Then he stood up and said with a decidedly official note in his voice as if this closed the matter.

"This man was shot about nine hours ago. I should say, between nine and ten o'clock last night. Rigor mortis has definitely set in. You'll have some trouble unbending those fingers."

"Maybe the man I saw was waiting for a boat to come and take him off the island," Gardner said slowly. "He probably knew your men would get him if he tried to leave the fort on the land side. He must have shot Potter."

Cobo's voice vibrated with instant interest.

"You see man here—last night?" he exclaimed.

"Yes. You come on and have breakfast with me, and I'll tell you all about it."

"No breakfast now," Cobo said emphatically. "Too much to do. I meet you in morgue—two hours."

Okay, Cobo. I'll follow through with the General and Peabody but don't let anyone but yourself touch that dossier."

Women in the Church

Lutheran churches of America and Europe have 473 Christian missionaries serving in China today, but that number ought soon to be increased to one thousand, according to Daniel Nelson, representing the Lutheran World Convention in Chungking, West China. Of the total now in service, 296 missionaries are women. 177 are men. The women missionaries are by nationalities: 33 Americans, one Canadian, one Dane, 13 Finns, 161 Germans, two French, one Icelandic, 25 Swedes, 10 Swiss, and 109 Norwegians.

The American school—a secondary school for girls conducted by the woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church in Lovetch, Bulgaria—is again in operation after being closed by the Axis powers in 1942; and it is believed to be the only missionary institution in Bulgaria now in service. Word concerning the school has been received by the Methodist Church from Miss Mellony F. Turner, of Big Flats, N. Y., and Miss Esther Carhart, of Pontiac, Michigan, missionaries in charge. The institution was confiscated by the Nazi-controlled Bulgarian government in 1942; but these women continued to teach there, under government supervision, for a year. Conditions became so bad, however, that they retired from the school and from the city, and it was not until November 1944 that it was reopened under missionary auspices. The registration is now more than 200 girls and there are 14 high school teachers serving. As yet missionaries have not been permitted to leave Bulgaria, and no new ones can en-

ROUNTREE HOMECOMING AND FAMILY REUNION

By Jesse Rountree Moyer

Historic old Rountree's Christian Church in Rountree's Community, four miles from Ayden, celebrated its one hundred and seventeenth annual homecoming on Sunday, October 28.

Divine services began at 11 o'clock with the observance of Holy Communion. The Rountree's pastor, the Reverend G. H. Sullivan of Wilson, celebrant, was assisted by the Reverend Charles C. Ware of Wilson. An inspiring sermon delivered by the Reverend Mr. Ware followed.

Members of the church and a large gathering of their relatives and friends enjoyed a bountiful picnic dinner under the lovely old oaks and pines of the church yard.

At two o'clock a group of descendants of Jesse Rountree, founder of this church in 1827, who was also a young patriot of the American Revolution and a citizen of distinguished public service, assembled for their annual meeting.

Mr. Clarence V. Cannon, president of the association, presided and introduced friends who graciously presented an entertaining program.

The Reverend H. G. Haney, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, Greenville, read from the Scriptures and made an interesting and timely talk.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Stroud, Jr., Mr. Patrick McLawhorn and Miss Melba Jean Gaynor of Ayden as a quartet sang in a most pleasing manner a well-loved old hymn. They were accompanied at the piano by Miss Virginia Bell Cooper.

Mr. Patrick McLawhorn, baritone, beautifully rendered the solo, "Hold Thou My Hand, Dear Lord," by Briggs.

During a business session, it was decided that a plaque of identification be placed on the church in memory of Jesse Rountree, who gave the land and the first church building, which was burned years ago. A committee composed of Mr. B. B. Sugg, Mr. Heber Cannon, and Miss Jessie Rountree Moyer was appointed to select and erect this marker.

It was unanimously approved that Miss Jessie Rountree Moyer and Mr. Jesse Rountree Moyer, II, and his son, Jesse Rountree Moyer, III, honor the memory of their father and grandfather, the late Jesse Rountree Moyer, respectively, with gifts for the church yard of two Rowan trees, a species of the mountain ash of Scotland from which this Scotch-Irish family derives its name. The tree emblems the family coat-of-arms and most charming traditions regarding its beneficial influence encircle it.

A rare and valuable old edition from the library of William Rountree, prominent planter, a son of Jesse Rountree and the great grandfather of Mr. Benjamin Bruce Sugg, Greenville, was exhibited bearing the name of William Rountree and the date 1839, the year in which he acquired it.

After the closing hymn and prayer of benediction, the assembly adjourned to meet again on the afternoon of the fourth Sunday in October, 1946.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

RELIGION OF JOY

The predominance of happiness in the life of a person truly religious is a thing we are very likely to forget.

Usually we are inclined to think of religion in solemn and lugubrious terms. Because it involves sacrifice, we conclude that across the religious life there constantly falls the shadow of denial and secret bitterness. But this is not true. Religion makes people happy. In fact it fills them with a variety of happiness which nothing else can confer.

A great heritage of joy has come down to us in our religion. The Bible from beginning to end bids men rejoice. Words connoting cheerfulness, hopefulness, and joy appear continually in the gospel, and these words are the unmistakable sign and seal of the fact that the first thing that happens to a man's heart when it is blessed into God's hands is to be filled with a new gladness and is filled with satisfactions immeasurably above any satisfaction the world confers.

The picture we get of Jesus in the New Testament is not the picture of a sad and solemn man. Rather it is the picture of a robust figure, vital in all his approaches to life, and above all interested in people and their problems. The religion he founded is a religion of joy. "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes" is its promise.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — As this is being written the last edition of one of the strangest publications born of this war is going to servicemen still on duty cleaning out global war's four corners. It is "Curly Caminita's Capital Roundup."

Curly Caminita is never known by any other handle than "Curly," even around the Petroleum Administration for War, where he is a member of the public relations staff. He is a small chunky fellow, with a round, good-natured face and curly hair as black as a new shoe-shine.

His good humor is exceeded only by his energy and (like a lot of good Americans not so far removed from the old country) by a deep-rooted patriotism, which he never wears on his sleeve.

Even before we got into the shooting part of the world mess, Curly was knocking on the doors of recruiting offices of the Army, Navy and Marines. He got along fine until he got to the doctors. They would have no part of him, in spite of the fact that he looks as husky as a young ox. Curly pleaded, signed waivers and saw a thousand people, but the fighting war went on without him.

Back in 1942, when our first troops were fighting across the plains and hills of North Africa, Curly sat down and wrote a letter. It was nothing more than that—just a long gossipy letter broken up into subheads that gave the news about Washington, politics, the movies, radio and sports, and a few jokes.

Instead of sending the letter to just one fellow he knew, Curly had it mimeographed. He gave some to friends to send to men they knew in the service.

The response was almost instantaneous. With it came a demand for more. Curly piled notes on his desk, pulled up his typewriter and "Curly Caminita's Capital Roundup" was born.

For 136 weeks, despite office duties, becoming a father, and occasional ailments, he never missed a week of getting out the "Roundup." From that little beginning, it grew to 16 (often 18) pages of single-spaced type (about 12 times as long as the place you are reading). Before long 900 copies were being mailed out every week.

How many readers Curly had will never be known. The "Roundup" was handed around until it was worn out. It was placed in 28 did not equal the percentage increase in the cost of living between January, 1941, and September, 1945.

2. Instances where increases were necessary to correct inequities in wage rates among plants in the same industry or locality, with due regard to normal competitive relationships.

3. Situations in which increases were necessary to insure full production in an industry designated by the stabilization administrator as essential to reconversion, and in which existing wage rates are inadequate to attract needed manpower.

The three classes were not expected to affect the bulk of wage earners.

The President made these three points:

1. The labor-management conference convening next Monday is to "recommend machinery for mediating or arbitrating differences whenever collective bargaining happens to fail to work."

2. Recent labor difficulties stand in the way of reconversion and re-employment of veterans and war workers. "We need more of the good sense, the reasonableness, the consideration for the position of the other fellow, the teamwork which we had during the war."

3. Congress has bottled up liberalized unemployment compensation and "full employment" legislation which Mr. Truman regards as vital. To grant industry price relief to match every wage increase would bring on inflation. "While the positions of different industries vary greatly, there is room in the existing price structure for business as a whole to grant increases in wage rates."

Mr. Truman said, "that, unless checked, the annual wage and salary bill in private industry will shrink by over 20 billion dollars. That is not going to do anybody any good—labor, business, agriculture or the general public."

"It is a sure road to wide unemployment."

The Nation Today ...

pany just go ahead and grant the full demand, feeling confident that at the end of six months it would get a fat price increase?

One of the men who is the brains behind the government's wage-price policy said: "No, I don't think so. Industry will try to keep down the wage settlements for its own sake."

On the main point of this story—industry getting price increases at the end of six months to offset profit losses due to wage raises—Mr. Truman said:

"Industry will not be asked by the government to take an unreasonable chance in absorbing x x wage increases."

"After a reasonable test period which, save in exceptional cases, will be six months, if the industry has been unable to produce at a fair profit, the entire wage increase will be taken into account in the government's passing upon applications for price ceiling increases."

Another point Mr. Truman made: Price increases will be permitted in an industry "which is essential to reconversion and in which existing wage rates or salaries are inadequate to the recruitment of needed manpower."

The textile industry, where current wages may not attract workers, might easily be classed as essential to reconversion and therefore get a price increase if it raises wages.

But steel is also essential to reconversion. Steelworkers want more pay. Steel mills have manpower. So would they come under this heading? Perhaps not. But suppose steelworkers struck for more pay.

Would the government then interpret this as meaning the steel industry lacked manpower and therefore could, by raising wages and ending the strike, get higher prices? That remains to be seen.

Onions have been cultivated from time immemorial; they are represented on Egyptian monuments.

Let's talk it over, today.

PHANTOMS TO PLAY JACKETS

Will Play Return Game In Elizabeth City Friday Afternoon

By DAVE CLARK

Coach Bo Farley's Green Phantoms go after their third straight win and their sixth of the season Friday when they travel to Elizabeth City to tangle with the Yellow Jackets of that city in the Phantoms' only daytime tilt of the season. This will be the last out-of-town game for the Greens this year.

In a previous meeting a few weeks back, the Phantoms emerged the victors by a 24-0 count and should be able to do the trick again. However, the game will be played on the Jackets' home field this time and they may be able to give Greenville a stiffer contest. Last year, up in that city, the Jackets beat the Phantoms by a 14-0 score.

Coach Farley held a rather long scrimmage session yesterday and probably will taper off the heavy work today. The squad is in good shape for the game and, barring accidents, should be at almost full strength Friday.

After this game, the Phantoms return home to end the season by meeting Kinston and Goldsboro in that order.

Football

Richmond, Va., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Two of the strongest teams in the Southern Conference, outside of the recognized leader, Duke University, hatched up in a gridiron embroglio Saturday and the result should settle one question which is the strongest among second division clubs?

The participants are the University of Maryland and the College of William and Mary, and the site of the battle will be the Terrapins' home lot at College Park, Md.

Maryland has been whipped once in five games—the surprising 21-13 upset by Virginia Tech—and has one tie on its record. The Indians from Williamsburg have been beaten twice in five starts—by Tennessee, 48-13, and last week by North Carolina State, 20-6.

The other conference, set to finds Virginia Tech taking on the nemesis of Virginia teams, North Carolina State, the game being scheduled for Raleigh, N. C.

Duke's mighty Blue Devils travel to Atlanta for their annual clash with Georgia Tech; Clemson plays Miami there; North Carolina has a 3 p. m. date with Tennessee at Knoxville; Virginia Military Institute is booked in at Charleston, W. Va., against the West Virginia Mountaineers, while the University of Richmond, with no regular date to fill, has arranged a game with Army airmen from the Oceana (Prince Anne County) air base.

Tire Quota Again Cut For District

Raleigh, Oct. 31.—Passenger tire and large size truck tire quotas for the 54 counties comprising the Raleigh district OPA will be 2,064 less than for October, causing a further tightening of the tire situation, Theodore S. Johnson, OPA district director, announced today.

The district quota for November has been set at 27,825 for passenger cars and 1,783 for large trucks. A much larger reduction was made in the allotment of small truck tires, size 7.50 and under, the Raleigh district quota being reduced from 6,050 to 4,354, Johnson said.

The quota for all of North Carolina has been set at 53,555 passenger car tires, 4,910 large truck tires and 8,568 small truck tires. The Charlotte OPA district embraces 46 counties.

The reduction of 1,696 small truck tires for the Raleigh district for replacement uses was forced by a combination of heavy demand for small truck tires to be used as original equipment on new trucks and a smaller increase in production than was anticipated, Johnson said.

The passenger tire shortage continues to remain most acute, with demand far exceeding available supplies.

dispersed, Yen said, to come to the relief of Tatum, "and we must rely on the Central Government for reinforcements."

A communist spokesman said Yen's accusation that tanks manned by men dressed like Outer Mongols were participating in the attack on Tatum was "Kuomintang propaganda trying to imply that we are getting Russian support so that Chiang Kai-Shek can appeal for American help."

The spokesman added that Communist forces were still in the area, pointing out that the Cadets were leading 21 to 0 late in the second quarter before either club chalked up a first down.

"And, do you know," he added, "that in last Sunday's National Football League games Washington was the only winning club to have more first downs than the club it liked? Detroit knocked off the Chicago Bears 16 to 10, but the Bears had 16 first downs and the Lions only four."

MANY CASES BEING TRIED

Superior Court Makes Good Progress With Heavy Docket

By CHESTER WALSH
Considerable progress has been made disposing of an unusually heavy docket at this criminal term of Superior Court. Judge Charles Everett Thompson of Elizabeth City, who is presiding, and Solicitor Dave M. Clark, court officials, law enforcement officers, and members of the bar are doing an outstanding job toward reducing the docket.

The following cases were disposed of Monday:
Lowell A. Byrd, charged with reckless driving and not having driver's license, pleaded guilty to speeding and paid court costs. John T. Bumpas, forgery; John Wilkes, assault with deadly weapon, and William A. Jones, assault with deadly weapon, were called and failed. Capiases were issued. The case against Sam Rogers and Lucella Betty Hill, fornication and adultery, was not pressed with leave. Charley Strong, breaking and entering and larceny, not pressed with leave. William Strickland paid costs for reckless driving. Amos Byrd paid costs for non-support. Josh Rogers, worthless check, not pressed.

A mistrial was ordered in the case of Ike Williams, charged with driving drunk. John Taylor, liquor for sale, six months, suspended on payment of $50 and costs. A. J. Grey, charged with assault with intent to commit rape, called and failed. Capias issued. Romain Frank Daigle, arrested in Greenville some weeks ago on charges of forgery and passing worthless checks, was given three years in State Prison, sentence to begin at expiration of sentences in this county.

George Brown, assault with deadly weapon with intent to kill, one year in jail, suspended on payment of court costs, placed on probation five years and to pay $48 for hospital bill and $77 to Allen and Helen Smith.

Ernest Watson was given five years in State Prison for robbery. A continuance was ordered in the case against Mrs. Frances Ullman, charging breaking and entering and larceny.

Herbert Muse of Farmville, charged with breaking and entering and larceny, was given three years in State Prison. The case against his wife, Mrs. Carman Ugar Muse, was not pressed.

Tuesday's cases:
Absolute judgment was entered Tuesday requiring a bonding company to pay $200 and costs of a capias against Sam Rogers and Lucella Betty Hill, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, after they had been called in court and failed to answer.

In the case against Robert E. Phillips, charging seduction, he pleaded guilty to failure to support an illegitimate child. He was given six months in jail and released on probation for three years, provided he pay court costs now and $350 to the prosecuting witness by January 1, 1946, and give bond to appear in court in January to show that he has carried out the court's order.

Josh King was given two years on the roads for manufacturing liquor. Rudolph Reid, charged with having liquor for sale, was given two years and fined $50 and costs. Jail sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for five years.

James Henry Crisp was given two years on the roads for larceny. Sentence was suspended on payment of costs and he was placed on probation for five years.

In the case against Earl and Windley Jones, charged with breaking and entering and larceny, Windley Jones was convicted of receiving stolen goods. Earl Jones was given three years on the roads on the original charge. Commitment not to issue if he is sent to the Eastern Carolina Training School for Boys and remain of good behavior. If he fails he must serve his sentence, the court ordered.

William Scott was given a year on the roads for assault with intent to commit rape.

Girl Scouts Here Observe Birthday

By CHESTER WALSH
Greenville Girl Scouts are enthusiastically celebrating National Girl Scout Week with interesting programs. Mrs. W. P. Moore, Girl Scout commissioner, expressed gratification over the renewed interest in scouting manifested by troop leaders, the girls and parents. Last Sunday the Girl Scouts and Brownies attended religious services in uniform. On Monday afternoon at Cotanche Street Park they put on a wonderful program which included stunts exemplifying Girl Scout activities, singing of folk songs, games and contests, and topped off the outdoor celebration with refreshments picnic style. Mrs. James T. Uzzie, executive secretary and troop leader, directed the program.

Thursday afternoon Miss Nell Starling and her Girl Scout troop 9 will be on the radio at 5:30 with an interesting skit and Mrs. Moore, the commissioner, will speak briefly.

The Negro Girl Scout troops held a rally at C. M. Epps Negro High School this afternoon during which they put on a program of stunts, songs and games.

Tomorrow is the birthday of Juliette Low of Georgia, founder of Girl Scouts. The year marks the 34th anniversary of Girl Scouting. Greenville stores having Girl Scout window displays are Blount-Harvey, General Insurance Agency, J. C. Penney Co., Efrid's Department Store, and White's Store on Dickinson Avenue.

The President brought a laugh when he said that he hadn't been in the White House long enough to say as to that. When the laughter subsided, he told the reporter he didn't mean to be sarcastic.

Mr. Truman's first major break with the law-making branch appeared to be developing fast today on the issues of more liberal unemployment compensation and the administration's so-called "full employment bill."

The President's sharp criticism of two House committees in his wage-price policy address to the nation last night, based on their failure to act on these two measures, brought signs of resentment in some quarters.

Rep. Doughton (D-NC) (who said he was not resentful) of the President's criticism of the Ways and Means Committee which Doughton heads) told reporters that any time a majority of the committee wants to reconsider the pigeon-holed jobless pay bill he will call the committee for that purpose.

He stressed also that when a majority of the House wants to consider the bill they can do so by signing a petition discharging the committee.

At the time the bill was shelved, Doughton said, the committee felt a sufficient case had not been made for it.
