Conspirators Attempt To Make Strike Settlement

Federal Government With President Truman's Approval Calls On Top Conspirators In Effort To Effect Settlement In Far Reaching Motor Strike

By STERLING F. GREEN Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The administration prepared today to try its hand again at quelling turbulence on the industrial front.

The action came as General Motors rejected a proposal of the CIO United Automobile Workers Union for arbitration of the UAW demand for a 30 per cent wage increase.

An even greater threat to reconversion was in the offing. The steel industry—which has stated repeatedly that it cannot meet wage increase demands unless steel prices are raised—studied in silence the CPA's refusal to approve higher prices.

Wage negotiations have been stalled exactly one month. Six hundred thousand CIO United Steelworkers members were preparing to hold a strike vote in 766 steel, iron and aluminum plants on next Wednesday to back up their demand for a $2 daily increase in pay.

The union said the next move was up to the industry. A Steelworkers spokesman said that if a strike is authorized he didn't know whether action would be delayed until the New Year, when CPA again will consider the granting of price increases.

Meanwhile, the President's National Labor-Management Conference continued its four-day recess.

Before the delegates knocked off for the long Thanksgiving weekend, conference Secretary George W. Taylor said he saw no prospect that they would produce machinery to settle such disputes as those in steel and autos.

The conference will reconvene on Monday to resume its quest for voluntary methods of minimizing labor strife. So far, conference progress has been slow, while demands have increased in Congress for anti-strike legislation.

Mr. Truman turned his attention anew to the labor scene yesterday. He held a long conference with Secretary of Labor Schwelb from which emerged the decision to call the General Motors management and union leadership to Washington.

The CIO-UAW in Detroit very promptly accepted the proposal. No reply was immediately forthcoming from the company. The plan is for the parties to talk with Edgar L. Warren, chief of the U. S. Conciliation Service.

Mindful that conciliation had failed in the coal and oil walkouts, the first two major postwar tests reporters asked Schwelb whether to whether he was optimistic of settlement. It is too early, to (Continued on page six)

PEARL HARBOR IN LIMELIGHT

Committee Digging Deeper Into 1941 Atlantic Charter Meeting

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Congressional investigators were told today that Winston Churchill urged President Roosevelt a week before Pearl Harbor to send a "secret or public" warning to Japan against further aggression.

Republicans of the Pearl Harbor committee dug deeper today into the 1941 Atlantic Charter meeting of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) told a reporter he is looking specifically for any sign that a military commitment might have been made in the meeting four months before the Japanese attack catapulted this country into war.

Available for questioning on this and other points were former Secretary of State Cordell Hull and his former undersecretary, Sumner Welles.

Both told the committee yesterday they knew nothing about any military agreement.

Both said that Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill had reached an understanding to take parallel action in warning Japan that any further aggression would call for action by the United States and Great Britain to protect their security. Hull and Welles each said there was nothing beyond that, so far as they knew.

But Ferguson said he wanted an explanation of an exhibit in the committee record.

One paragraph of the exhibit, a memorandum prepared for President Roosevelt on November 27, 1941, by Gen. George C. Marshall, then army chief of staff, and Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, said:

"After consultation with each other, United States, British, and Dutch military authorities in the Far East agreed that joint military counteraction against Japan should be undertaken only in case Japan attacks or directly threatens the territory of the United States and Great Britain, or the Netherlands East Indies, or should the Japanese move forces into Thailand west of 100 degrees east or south of 1 degree north, Portuguese Timor, New Caledonia, or the Loyalty Islands."

Hull, 74, and ailing, spent an hour on the stand yesterday answering questions put by Gerhard Fessell, one of the committee counsel. Dressed in a black, pin-stripe suit, he (Continued on Page Six)

Home Of Junkers May Be Divided

Kansas City, Nov. 24 (AP)—A State Department official predicted today that German Prussia, home of the militaristic Junkers, will be partitioned.

Present developments indicate clearly that Prussia is to be broken into a number of autonomous states and that most of the other states will probably survive in modified form as constituent units of a new federal union, said James W. Riddelberger, chief of the division of Central European affairs.

Georgia Train Wreck Kills Two Persons

Dallas, Ga., Nov. 24 (AP)—Justice of the Peace J. R. Lawrence here said at least two persons were killed and an undetermined number injured today in the collision of a passenger train and a freight.

The wreck was on the Seaboard Airline railway near Hanlin, between here and Rockmart. Hanlin is about 35 miles west of Atlanta, on the Atlanta-Birmingham route.

The passenger train was en route to Atlanta and the freight train was going west.

Lawrence said he understood the dead were the engineer and fireman on one of the trains. Some of the passengers were injured, he said.

Warren Declines To Talk On Running

Raleigh, Nov. 24 (AP)—Lindsay Warren, comptroller general of the United States, declines to comment on the likelihood of his running for governor in 1948.

"It's too early to say," Warren said yesterday. But close friends predicted he would seriously consider running.

Today In Congress

By Max Hall

By MAX HALL Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The big noise about Pearl Harbor outcried the other affairs of Congress today, as it has all week.

Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles were invited to come back and be cross-examined.

One of the cross-examiners, Republican Senator Homer Ferguson told a reporter he wants to probe deeper into the Atlantic Charter meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in August, 1941, four months before Pearl Harbor was bombed.

Ferguson said he is looking for any sign that Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill made some kind of agreement for military action in the Pacific. Hull and Welles, the former secretary and undersecretary of state, have testified they know of none. But Ferguson isn't satisfied.

Up until today the Pearl Harbor Committee had heard 28 solid hours of public testimony, and the long parade of witnesses had just begun.

For the last week there hasn't been much news from Congress on the ominous problem of atomic energy.

But this will leap back into prominence next week, when the Senate Atomic Committee will start its public hearings on the subject.

On Monday the United Nations organization again comes under the congressional microscope. The Senate will begin debating a bill hav-

Babson Discusses Business And Atomic Energy

Babson Park Mass., Nov. 23. We probably are headed for two or three years of good business with full employment. Sixty-five years ago only one billion dollars was available for spending or investing. In fifty-eight years this gradually increased from one billion to fifteen billion dollars.

But, during the past seven years, these fifteen billions have soared to seventy-five billions, most of which is waiting to purchase homes, merchandise and securities.

Possibilities of Inflation Nothing will ever happen in this country comparable to what happened in Germany following World War I. On the other hand, further inflation is inevitable. This will be caused by a surplus of money and a scarcity of goods, homes and securities. It will be due to war waste, increased consumption and to the need of other nations for help to get on their feet, which will require continual expenditures. Labor union officials are also unconsciously causing inflation.

Increasing wages and prices will cause the spiral to go upward until people have spent or invested most of the above seventy-five billions when they will go on a buyers' strike. Then the spiral will collapse with the customary decline in production, much unemployment and lower prices. Before that time comes, however, homes, merchandise and securities will probably sell higher than present. Yes, almost everything, except bonds, should continue to go up further in price.

Taxation Problems We plan to collect in 1946 about thirty-five billions in federal taxes. This will probably be accomplished easily; but when the next depression comes it will be very difficult, if not impossible, for the federal government to collect one-half of this amount. This will be accompanied by another government spending spree and a resort to the printing presses. From such, everyone—wage workers, home owners and especially bondholders—could suffer terribly.

It is an old saying, "In time of peace prepare for war. Based on this principle the federal government should immediately reduce government bureaucratic expenditures; encourage the production of goods and homes; and subsidize the unselfish but sane development of foreign trade. The world needs our charity and help now. Helping unfortunate people to raise their standard of living is not only a Christian thing to do, but it will be good business for us.

Atomic Energy Possibilities Were I economic director of the U. S. I would also immediately convene the scientists who worked on the atomic bomb and get them busy applying this new energy to every-day uses. We might still be in the depression of the 1870's, if steam energy had not pulled us out. We might still be in the depression of the 1890's, if electrical energy hadn't been harnessed. We would now be suffering from World War I, if the gasoline engine had not saved the day. Atomic energy may well serve a similar purpose to prevent a collapse around 1950.

I admit that the best authorities tell me that such an atomic development within the next five years is an impossibility. The stakes, namely the avoidance of national bankruptcy—are so high, however, that we should at once make a tremendous effort to show these "authorities" that they are wrong. We must immediately harness this new energy to develop new industries (Continued on Page Four)

JAPS ALLOWED SOME IMPORTS

Permission Allowed Japan To Import Food, Cotton, Petroleum

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (AP)—General MacArthur today granted the Japanese government permission to import food, cotton, petroleum and salt-clearing the way for revival of foreign trade.

An Allied headquarters press release said neither extent nor sources of the imports in 1946 has been determined. Amounts will depend upon availability of shipping and world supplies as well as Japan's ability to pay in commensurate exports.

Sankuro Ogasawara, minister of Commerce, on Nov. 14 revealed the Japanese government had applied for permission to import 3,000,000 tons of food, mostly from North America; 180,000 tons of cotton, and 1,130,000 tons of coal.

Japan already is sending vitally needed exports to Far East ports, headquarters disclosed. Coal is going to Korea and to Hong Kong, and timber is being shipped to China.

Other developments: Kazunobu Kanokogi, fourth on the new 11-man list of Japanese war leaders ordered arrested by MacArthur, surrendered today at Sugamo Prison. Kanokogi, 661, long has been identified with the Black Dragon secret society and nationalist activities, headquarters said.

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (AP)—The premier of American-occupied Japan, consulted General MacArthur today, presumably about next week's Diet session which is scheduled to chart reforms leading away from wartime totalitarianism.

Indicative of the times, Kijuro Shidehara in all probability outlined to MacArthur the Diet speech on government policy he will deliver next Wednesday.

The Diet session, opening Monday, is expected to legislate such reforms as women's suffrage and recognition of labor's right to organize.

A long standing post in Japan's imperial setup was erased today. The imperial household minister announced the formal end of the office of lord keeper of the privy seal, held by Marquis Koichi Kido.

The Japanese people were told today by Kyodo news agency, quoting unofficial circles, that the occupation of the country would cost Nippon 10,000,000,000 (B) yen annually. That would amount to about $667,000,000 Edwin M. Pauley, president Truman's personal representative on the Allied Reparations Commission, already has voiced doubt that Japan can meet the occupation costs.

Will Dedicate Watson Memorial

The Junior Woman's Club will dedicate the Watson Memorial Children's Wing of the Pitt General Hospital at its next regular meeting in the early spring the club selected as a major project the improving of the Children's Wing in the local hospital and the adding of some new equipment. Much work has been done already in the wing. The walls and the cribs have been painted. New equipment includes an electric refrigerator and a bottle sterilizer. Several gifts and donations have been received. A hand-painted copy of Dr. Watson's code of ethics "My Purpose 1920 on So Help Me God" has been hung in the hall of the wing.

Dr. F. B. Haar, Greenville, will be guest speaker. All friends of the late Dr. Watson are invited to this dedication. The services will be held at the Woman's Club building at 8 p. m. on Wednesday night, November 28th.

Maj. Boxer In U. S. Defense Counsel Announces Today That Majority Of 20 Nazi Leaders On Trial Before International Military Tribunal Would Testify In Own Behalf

British Major Charles Boxer (above), liberated prisoner of war who Emily Hahn, the author, named in her book as the father of her daughter, is shown in Los Angeles immediately after his arrival by ship from Hong Kong. He said he intends to marry Miss Hahn, who is in New York, just as soon as I can. (AP Wirephoto).

By DANIEL DE LUCE Nuernberg, Nov. 24 (AP)—Defense counsel announced today that a majority of the 20 Nazi leaders on trial before the international military tribunal would testify in their own behalf and that witnesses would be sought from Britain and the United States.

The outline of plans to combat the war crimes charges developed at a press conference of the defense attorneys. The trial was recessed over the weekend after a protracted preliminary evidence topped by the words of Hitler ordering a war of extermination against the Poles.

Attorneys for Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel said a nephew of Winston Churchill and a cousin of British Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander who were once prisoners of the Germans would be asked to testify in his behalf.

Churchill's nephew was identified as Giles Romilly, a correspondent of the London Daily Express who was captured at Narvik. Field Marshal Alexander's cousin was identified as Capt. Michael Alexander, who was made a prisoner in Italy.

It was indicated that Keitel wished the two to swear to his interest in the welfare of Allied prisoners. Both Romilly and the captain were liberated by the Allies. Romilly broke out of Dachau a few days before American troops reached that horror camp.

Rudolf Hess' attorney is seeking the release of Hamilton, the 50-year-old son of the Duke of Hamilton, who was captured in the Soviet Union. He was seeking when he bailed out of his Messerschmitt on a mysterious flight to Scotland May 10, 1941. The attorney added that Hess, who claims amnesia, "doesn't know anything about the Duke of Hamilton, because he can't remember."

Joachim von Ribbentrop, who was Hitler's foreign minister, wishes to call the Virginia-born Lady Astor and other notables in England, including Lords Londonderry, Beaverbrook and Derby.

Attorneys said that among the defendants who definitely would take the stand were Hans Frank, who was governor-general of Poland; Hjalmar Schacht, former economics minister; Hans Fritzsche, radio propaganda chief; Wilhelm Frick, who headed the Bohemian-Moravia protectorate; Julius Streicher, No. 1 Nazi Jew-baiter; Alfred Rosenberg, party philosopher; Konstantin Von Neurath, former foreign minister; and Field Marshal Keitel.

Schacht's attorney said he was considering subpoenaing a former Berlin banker named Jeldels from the United States to testify that Schacht "was very helpful when he emigrated to New York."

The attorney for Martin Bormann, Hitler's missing aide who is being tried in absentia was asked (Continued on Page Six)

MAN - HUNT ON FOR ESCAPEES

Three Prisoners Made Daring Escape; One Is Captured

By CHESTER WALSH Durward Gupton, one of three prisoners who escaped last night from the Pitt County Prison Camp near Hertford, was captured this morning near Hertford, while the other two were still at large.

Kyle Matthews, state prison inspector, said it was believed the other two prisoners were hiding in woods near Hertford. A widespread manhunt was pressed by highway patrolmen and county officers.

Highway Patrolman W. W. Massengill and C. L. Teague listed the three escapees as James McGowan Greenville, serving a two-year term; Durward Gupton, serving a five-to-seven-year sentence imposed in Henderson; and Bruce Gregory of Elizabeth City, serving a 30-year for second degree murder.

Authorities said the three men who were honor grade prisoners drove away in a highway truck from the county garage where they were working. Near Robertsonville, Massengill said they held up a Negro and robbed him of $150 in cash, and a few minutes later held up Tom Perkins and took his automobile (Continued on Page Six)

The NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

By JAMES MARLOW Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Washington, Nov. 24—Yar after you read about Congress doing something with a bill. But what's a bill and what happens to it?

The administration, a group, an individual or a congressman wants Congress to do something. That proposal is drawn up in the form of a bill.

The proposal is called a bill from the time it is introduced in Congress until it passes both houses and is signed by the President. Then it becomes an "act" or law.

For simplicity, since procedure generally is the same in both houses, this explanation deals with a bill in the House. Always it has to be introduced by a congressman.

He can do that simply by saying he wants to and then placing it in the clerk's box. Or, without saying anything, he can send a messenger to the House to place it in the box. It may be drawn up in several ways.

Take a simple bill. Since a majority of the congressmen are lawyers, he probably knows how to write a bill himself. Sometimes his secretary can do it for him.

Or he may ask the legislative counsel—a five-man staff of lawyers employed by the House and expert in bill-drafting—to write it for him.

Or the President recommends some major legislation. In that case a staff of government experts may whip the recommendation into bill form for some congressman to introduce. If a government department desires something done its own way, the United States seldom gets out of Congress without some changes.

After the bill goes into the clerk's box the speaker of the House gives it a number and refers it to the proper House committee. A bill on two trans. cmfwyppkg veterans, for instance, would go to the Veterans Committee. The committee does the real work on the bill. Most bills die in the committee, either through the committee ignoring or postponing action on them.

When a committee decides to consider a bill, it can do so in several ways: By sending it to government agency officials for comment, if it affects an agency, and by holding public hearings so groups favoring or opposing it can say their say. This is where public pressure comes in.

By the time a committee votes to send a bill up to the full House for debate and action, it usually has been changed from its original version and has been rewritten. During debate on the floor, the bill may be further changed. It is more sound than anything else. Very few bills recommended by a committee are defeated on the floor. A bill can't get to the floor unless (Continued on page six)

The WORLD TODAY

An Analysis Of The News

Editor's Note: Dewitt Mackenzie landed in London today following a flight from the United States. The material in the following column was written before his departure.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP World Traveler

This trip which you and I are taking abroad is far more than a sight-seeing tour or a search for sensations, although we shall be dealing with those phases as well.

One of our chief aims will be to acquire real acquaintance with the peoples of the various countries—especially those nations which have been turned topsy-turvy by war. And by real acquaintance I mean the sort of understanding we establish with our next-door neighbor by garden fence confidences about our flower beds, our babies and our golf.

Lack of acquaintance can be a terribly mischievous thing, even when matters of small consequence are involved. I'll never forget my first few weeks in England as a young newspaperman. I was going about with a chip on my Yankee shoulder because I found the language and mode of life somewhat different from that back home.

It irked me no end to hear people referring to elevators as lifts, or when a salesman was referred to as a "clerk" instead of a "clerk." It made me mad because Englishmen didn't drink water for breakfast and it never was served to me unless I insisted. In short, I thought the English were a very strange and backward people.

Then gradually it dawned on me that "elevator" sounds just as strange to English ears as "lift" does to mine, and that the machine went up and down just the same, no matter what you called it. And it was really illuminating when Philip Gibbs (now Sir Philip), the famous writer, remarked to me over the breakfast table as I quitted my water: "Mac, it makes me positively ill to see you drinking that filthy cold stuff for breakfast."

Small things to get mad about you say, and you're right. But my experience of 30 years in the foreign service of the Associated Press is that it's these little errors in judgment which breed the big ones. It's because individuals don't understand one another that governments fall out.

I've labored this in order to provide the foundation for a more important point. This is that the peace of the world depends on mutual acquaintance of the various peoples. In no other way can we make peace stick.

That's not an original idea with me. I've had it hammered into me persistently for the past quarter of a century by Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press. "KC" believes that as things stand acquaintance best can be achieved through the publication of thorough (Continued on Page Four)

"You were up to some-der. I could almost tell shes of those everlasting spurs. What have you this afternoon?"

"You mean have her dinner served there?"

"That's it."

"Seth was watching him closely. 'Won't you answer any questions at all?'" he asked.

Gardner shook his head and said, "Not now. Later."

"You're getting almost as cryptic as Cobo! Better have a high ball ar I'll look after the ladies."

A few minutes Seth turned from the telephone and Gardner told him of the plan he had just made with Luke Hale. "I'm afraid you'll have to stagger down to his office, too, as soon as we finish dinner," he concluded.

"I can do that all right. I was going down anyway. It's dead, being shut up in this room all day. But I will know what was going on."

"You'll know within a couple of hours."

"That's fine. Then Suzy and I will fly right back to New York. If I never see Key West again, it will be too soon for me."

Gardner went over to the table in front of the window and poured himself another drink.

"Say, Peabody," he said, not turning around. "Was Miss Van Tyne wearing her engagement ring last night?"

Seth leaned forward in bed, his voice keen with sudden interest.

"I'll say she was! Groggy as I was, I saw that ring, too, just before I passed out. I was so happy. I didn't care much who conked me on the head. But how did you happen to notice it?"

"Being things is my business," Gardner turned slowly and walked back to the bed. "Isn't that the first time Miss Van Tyne has worn her ring in this hotel?"

"As far as I know it is."

"I wonder if she was wearing it at dinner last night?"

"I'm sure I don't know. She had dinner with Delgado and I had dinner with Wallis Warner. Why?"

"Oh, nothing special. As I told Hale a few minutes ago, the guessing period in this case is over. Just to make the record clear, later this evening I'll ask the lady herself."

SQUARING PRACTICE WITH BELIEF

Some people seem to have no idea of the relationship which must exist between sound religious faith and sincere religious practice. They behave as if mere assent to sound doctrine is all anyone need bother about. For such people religion is a matter of ideas and emotions and is related to conduct only if such relationship proves convenient.

We are never truly religious until we make our religion square with our daily living in things both great and small. We have to square our Bible with our business, our spiritual conceptions with our speech, our religious emotions with our impulses. Degradative religion is an offense in the sight of God. The Ten Commandments constitute a fundamental moral code binding upon life in all its aspects. The Christian gospel is not just a beautiful philosophy given to us that we might admire its moral symmetry and soundness; it is a way of life, solemnly com- mended to everyone who is serious about the job of daily living.

Most hypocrisy is unconscious. People do not intend to profess one thing and practice another, but the pressure of worldly custom is such that at the day's end they find that there is an appalling chasm between what they hold intellectually to be right and what they have actually done. God's demand is that we constantly square our daily living with what we profess to believe about life.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — "Off-the-record" stories are those that aren't to be written, but I'm going to write this one.

It comes from a retired admiral who still is serving his country in the most important capacity. We had just had the subject of unification of the armed forces.

The admiral snorted. "Why don't you fellows quit writing all that guff and get down to facts?" he asked.

What were the facts? "In the first place, Congress isn't going in for unification of the services," he said, and then grinned. "At least I don't think they will."

But what if they do? We still would have an Army, a Navy and an Air Corps. We would have one secretary in the cabinet. A general or an admiral would be chief of staff. A unified department of national defense sounds fine. But could it possibly eliminate the fact that we still would have an Army, Navy and Air Corps?

"Probably out of all this will come an 'autonomous' Air Corps. We already have that. Giving the Air Corps a secretary in the cabinet wouldn't change the picture much, if at all. The fleet and the Army still have to have their air arms. An independent air force would still have to work in the team just as it does now.

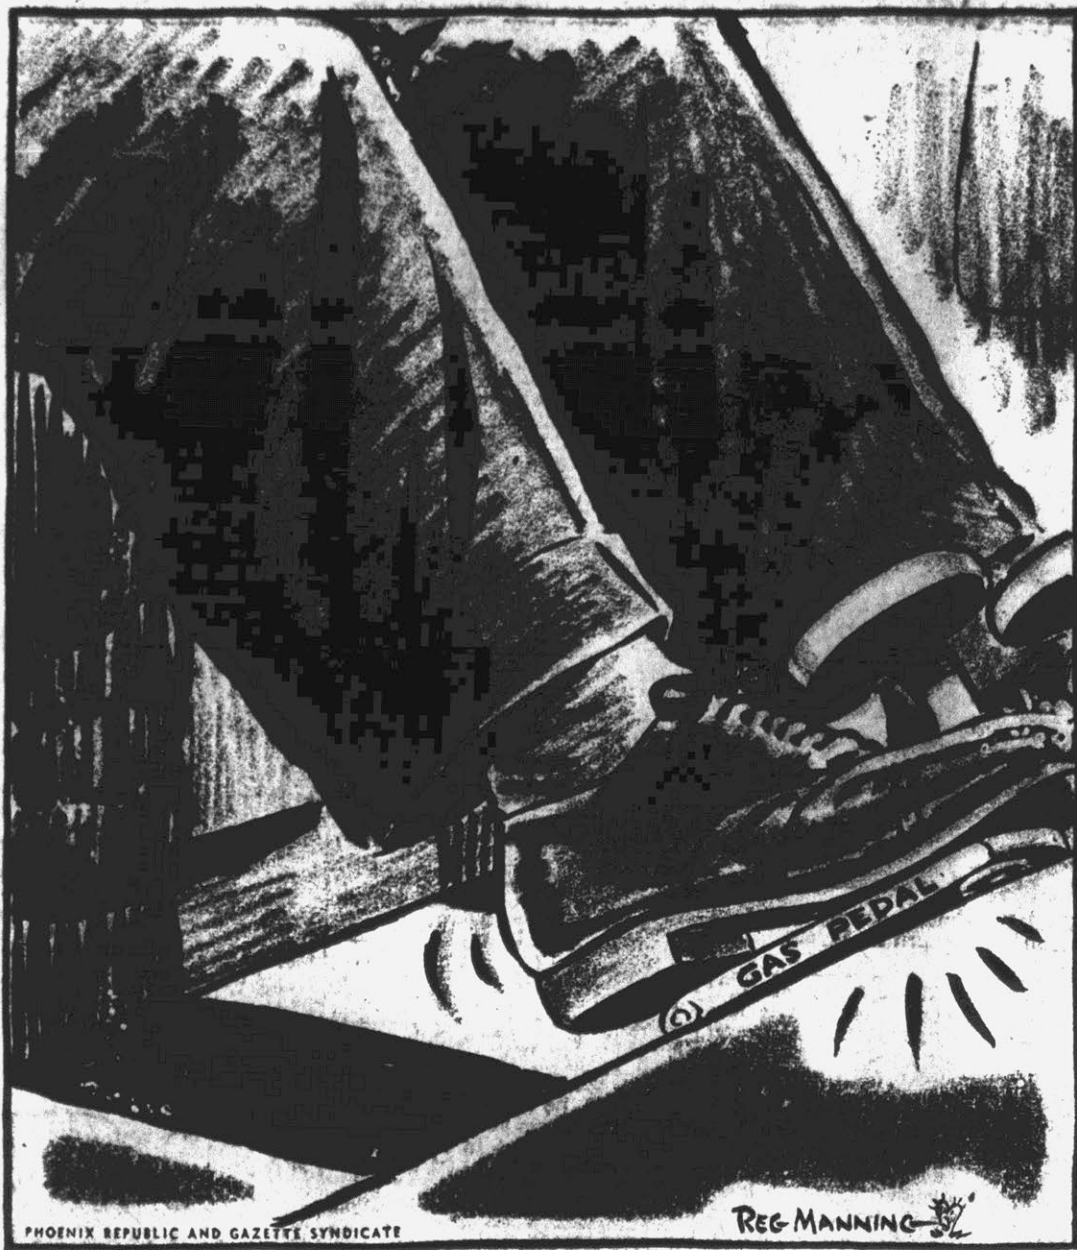

"Since I'm a Navy man, I'm supposed to be against unification. But I'm retired. I don't have any personal interest in the question at all. But for the good of the country I can't see for the life of me what difference it would make. Under one head, or two or three, we still will have the Navy, the Army and the Air Corps. The next time you are writing something about it, just remember that."

In all arguments over "unification" there is a lot of political hair-pulling. Just what it adds up to is a little hard to see, but the pattern is becoming clearer.

The Army advocates of a single department, backed by the Air Corps, seem to have all the best of it at the moment. They can point to divided authority, waste, and needless duplications as powerful arguments for unification.

But, the admiral argues, just how unification would remedy the situation is difficult to understand. The chief of staff would have to be an Army, Navy or air man, with sym-

Remember This Fact
Atomic energy for industrial and utility uses means vastly more than the substitution of atomic energy for coal and oil. Atomic energy produces an entirely new heat which is actually a new power. Atomic energy may be as much of an advance over steam power as steam power was an advance over hand power. Atomic energy will result in entirely new industries and vastly different machines than now exist, all of which will provide millions of new jobs if we get it harnessed in time.

In short, to me the question is either of harnessing atomic energy before 1950 or perhaps facing national bankruptcy soon thereafter.

I'm going to do my best to move you across the seas and into the inner circles. We shall see not only the hurly-burly of life but shall sit by the firesides of the homes and talk about the little things which really are so important.

months. Also in Congress this week: A bill curbing some activities of labor union was cleared for House action and will probably be debated soon.

One version of a so-called "full-employment bill" was approved by a House subcommittee, and indications are that the House may debate the hot subject before very long.

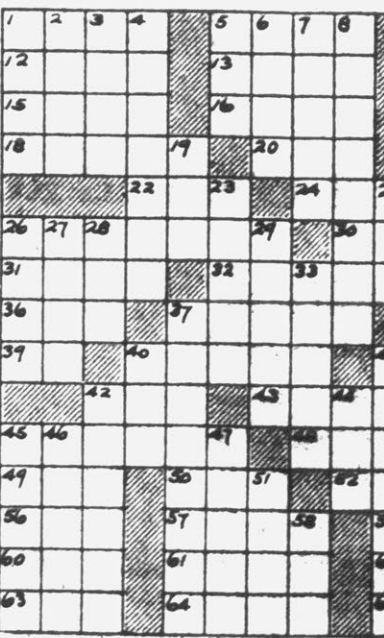

President Truman sent to Congress his proposals for a health program including compulsory medical insurance.

More U. S. money for UNRRA moved along in committee, and General Eisenhower testified in favor of supporting the International relief agency.

etc. may be inclosed in the parcel itself. The Post Office department allows this to encourage early mailing. Be sure your parcels are securely wrapped and tied with strong twine or rope. Have the address on one side only and when breakable articles are included be sure they are properly packed with paper, excelsior, etc. Do not seal parcels as they are then subjected to first class postage rates unless the parcel bears a sticker printed "This parcel may be opened for Postal Inspection." As for addressing parcels and cards give the complete address as to street and number. Even if it is a question of local mailing always put the street and number on the Christmas card or parcel. Don't send Christmas cards addressed with a person's nickname or in the case of children be sure to address their mail in care of their parents. Every year we have a quantity of Christmas cards which are undeliverable because of incomplete address. These are consequently destroyed as such are the regulations on this type of mail.

It would be of great help to our carriers if you would bring your mail to the Post Office instead of depositing it in corner mail boxes. You would also receive a more prompt dispatch on your cards. Our carriers are heavily burdened and if patrons would refrain from asking them to carry parcels to be mailed back to the Post Office it would also help a great deal.

Any additional information desired by anyone will be furnished by a telephone call or personal interview. However, I would like to re- quest that you refrain as much as possible from calling about your parcels. It is almost impossible to find any particular parcel among the undelivered parcels here. Much time is wasted in that way and I assure you they will be delivered as soon as possible. In conclusion I want to again stress the extreme importance of MAIL- ING EARLY.

Army Picked To Defeat Navy 4 or 5 Touchdowns

DOUBLE BARRELED TROUBLE

By CHIEF ROYAL
AP Newscasters sports Editor

New York—Army's All-America football team should defeat Navy by four or five touchdowns. You take the first figure if you agree with the feminine side of the Royal, and the second number if you side with this agent. It's like this. Just before every Army game the past two years we have had a little guessing contest in our house on the Cadets' score. Last year, when the Military Academy eleven copped nine straight, this Royal was closer. Since the opening game for 1945—and eight more wins for the West Pointers—the missus has been nearer right.

As for the colorful contest in Philadelphia December 1, with the national championship hanging in the balance, she says Army 41, Navy 13. He says Army 49, Navy 13. At least we're agreed on Navy's score. And she probably reached the 41 figure because that's the number Glenn Davis wears. Junior is her number one football rave—and everyone else's, if you include Doc Blanchard in the same breath. Boy, oh, boy, when you stop to think of the tacklers those two ball carriers have left strewn on the ground since they started scoring record touchdowns for Army, you feel sorry for any who may have to face them in the future, including Navy.

That's not all. The Davis and Blanchard mates on the first West Point team are so good, there are football coaches who say they could beat any picked squad of All-Americans selected from the rest of the college players in the country. Of course, there are Navy rooters who hall the present Annapolis team as one of the best the Midshipmen have ever cheered. They will have a tough time proving that Wilson missed a 33-yard field goal for Army in the darkness. Not one fan saw the ball but they were satisfied to leave the score 21-21 after that quelling battle.

Speaking of scores, if either of the Royals are right, 41 or 49 points for Army will be the worst beating either service team ever took from its rival. The highest previous score was made by the Cadets when they won 40 to 5.

one with some of the old timers who have seen some beautiful evenings on the Severn.
Speaking of arguments, this is the time of year when Army and Navy fans really open up. If the words aren't hot about great teams, they are burning about rough games, particularly if the two debators are in opposite services.
Some of the older officers like to talk about the battle in the early 90s which was so different that the Baltimore American told of the Middle triumph and gallantly added: "No scrapping or slugging indulged in!"

Most every fan who has followed the Military-Naval series knows it started in 1890 and that the secretaries of War and Navy banned the clashes from 1894 to 1899. They said the games were developing into a war between the two services.
During the interim, the spectators actually became more unruly than the contestants. One retired rear admiral and an aging brigadier general almost fought a duel as each took the conduct of the adversaries as a personal affront.
Probably the most spectacular struggle the epic classic ever produced was the 21-21 tie played in 1826 before 110,000 (the largest crowd ever to see the teams play) in Soldiers Field, Chicago.

Each team had great football players, fellows like Cagle, Wilson, Murrell, Saunders, Harbord, Daly, Sprague, Schmidt, Hammock, Born and Harding for Army, and Hamilton, Eddy, Caldwell, Lloyd, Wickhorst, Shapley, Cross, Hoerner, Hanagan, Pierce and Hardwick.
Navy scored in the first half of that memorable game. Twice Army talked. In the third period it was Army and in the fourth it was Navy. Time ran out when

FINE SPEECH FOR KIWANIS

Rev. Bernard Trexler Guest Speaker At Supper Meeting

By CHESTER WALSH

"The church is the only hope for unity in the world, and the church offers the only security there is," said the Rev. Bernard Trexler, pastor of the Lutheran Church of Rocky Mount, at last night's weekly supper meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis Club. The eloquent minister was introduced by Odell C. Calhoun, program chairman. In his singularly interesting message Mr. Trexler convinced the Kiwanians that he lives in intimate contact with his fellow-man. He made it clear that the church he was speaking for is that of all the Christian people. He drew profound interest when he reminded the Kiwanians that more than 25 years ago a widely known missionary in the Orient sent back the message: "Unless you send 1,000 missionaries to the Orient, you will be sending hundreds of thousands of men with guns and bayonets later on." Continuing his interesting talk, he recalled an incident in a Baptist Church in the Nation's Capital many years ago when the minister, toward the close of the Sunday morning service, extended an invitation to join the church. "It was a singularly interesting procession of three persons toward the pulpit," Mr. Trexler said, with intense feeling. "Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, a Chinese laundryman and a small boy had proceeded toward the pulpit seeking the hand of fellowship." Mr. Trexler recalled that the Big Five and the Big Three had not been able to agree on a single point among the questions they were to decide. With philosophic instinct, he meditated on what a great world this would be with all Christian groups going forward in concerted movement for more complete unity in establishing by precept and example the spirit of Christianity.

OPA LAUNCHES CONTROL PLAN

Intensified Drive Is Launched By OPA To Control Food Price

Washington, Nov. 24.—(AP)—OPA launched an intensified drive today to keep food prices in check as meat, butter and all other red-point products came off the ration list. George Monahan, chief of OPA's enforcement department, predicted it would be a "somewhat more difficult" job to hold prices now that rationing has ended.

He said in an interview, however, that OPA is "all set" to crack down on any violators of price ceilings. Investigators already have been transferred from other OPA price programs to augment the regular staff assigned to see that ceilings on meats and fats are observed.

Monahan said OPA expects the job to be toughest in areas remote from meat, butter and other food production centers.

"Under rationing," he explained, "points were set to assure even distribution. This helped to ease the pressure on prices."

"Now that rationing is out, we have to guard against any bidding up of prices to obtain supplies in potential shortage areas."

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, in announcing the termination of the red-point rationing program yesterday, said this would require establishment of a new rationing program and that OPA was not prepared to undertake such a job.

The secretary estimated that the overall supply of meats is adequate to assure consumption next month at the annual rate of 165 pounds per capita. Last spring and summer the rate was down to around 100 pounds, while the 1935-39 pre-war average was about 127 pounds.

As for butter and other fats and oils, they'll be available in December at the yearly rate of 80 pounds per capita, only two pounds more than before the war.

Sugar, the only food still rationed, may stay on the list some time, Anderson said yesterday there is an immediate prospect of terminating the program. Earlier he had stated sugar might have to be rationed through 1946.

CHINESE ARMY ON THE MOVE

Reported That Nationalists Are Making Progress

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Chungking World Daily News today reported that Nationalists have surrounded vital Chinghsien, 100 miles inside Manchuria, while the Communist New China Daily News flatly demanded autonomy for Manchuria and said it inhabitants would fight until they got it.

Communists earlier forecast a full-scale battle if Nationalists attempted to take Chinghsien, but the World Daily News reported only "unorganized" resistance.

The Communist New Szechwan Daily alleged that Chinese Reds, meanwhile, have poured into Mukden in strength, and asserted that Gen. Chu Teh, commander-in-chief of the Chinese Communist forces, already has 200,000 men massed in Manchuria, including the Red's "people's militia." The report made no reference to the Russian forces which—so far as is known here—still are occupying Mukden.

The World Daily News attributed its report that Chinghsien has been surrounded to "reliable sources."

It said that Nationalists already have occupied the railroad station at Chinghsien against "unorganized resistance."

The same source also reported Nationalists have captured Lienhsan on the Peiping-Mukden line 75 miles north of the Great Wall, and now are approaching the Communist-held Manchurian seaport of Hulutao seven miles to the east.

If the Nationalists actually have surrounded Chinghsien, it is possible they have bypassed Lienhsien and cut across-country, observers here pointed out.

From Peitow, western terminus of the Peiping-Suiyuan (Inorfu) Mongolian railroad, came reports that Mongol cavalry units had broken through the encircled Communist to relieve the Nationalist defenders of the city. There was no confirmation of the Chinese press dispatch reporting this first slaying of the Red siege ring.

A majority of the committee members approve. They send along with the bill an explanation of why they think it should be passed. The committee members opposed send along an explanation of why they think it should not be passed.

When a bill passes the House, it goes to the Senate. There the Senate committees go to work. Sometimes the Senate changes a bill the House passed. Then a joint committee of House and Senate has to work out a compromise acceptable to both.

In the past few sessions of Congress—a session lasts two years—6,000 to 10,000 bills were introduced each session. But only a fraction became law.

The full membership of House and Senate rely greatly on the committees to decide whether a bill should become law. The greatest number of bills ever introduced in one session—44,000—was in the 61st Congress (1909-11). Only 884 of them became law.

The bills and the laws are crammed with legal jargon, often full of such oblique meaning that federal courts have to decide what Congress meant to say. And the courts don't always agree among themselves on that.

General Eisenhower

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, suffering from a severe cold and under treatment at the Army's Ashford General Hospital here, "spent an excellent night," it was announced today.

The newly-designated chief of staff entered the hospital yesterday.

Indian workmen were injured. The dump, said to have been the largest American ammunition dump in the world during the war, was being used for the disposal of ammunition left in the India-Burma theater.

United States Army officials in New Delhi said there was no connection between the explosion and the Indian demonstrations in Calcutta.

Indonesian Troops Fighting British

Batavia, Java, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Heavy fighting between British and Indonesian troops erupted today in Semarang and Ambarawa. The British said Indonesian extremists in Ambarawa had stormed the civilian internment camp and "butchered women and children."

A statement by Lt. Col. H. C. G. Harding, British provost marshal also said that Dutch and Jmbonese troops "of the 10th Dutch Battalion" shot down 60 Indonesian police "in cold blood" in the Indonesian central police station in Batavia a few days ago.

The British used naval and artillery fire in repulsing 1,000 armed Indonesians in Semarang yesterday. The official communique said the town had suffered "considerably" from the fighting in the past three days.

flung a black topcoat around his shoulders before he sat down.

Rep. Keefe (R-Wis) complained to reporters afterward he had difficulty in following Hull's testimony, asserting "his answers were often unrelated to the questions he was asked."

But Senator Lucas (D-Ill) told reporters it was "shiningly clear" to him after the former secretary's testimony that Hull had "met a frightful crisis with but one aim, to see to it that our nation in its intercourse with foreign nations followed courageously the traditional American course."

Hull and Welles testified they had heard no possibility of an attack on Pearl Harbor mentioned in the late, critical months of 1941.

Hull said everything pointed to the possibility that the Japanese would jump off from the lower tip of Indo-China towards the Indies, Singapore and possibly the Philippines.

Viola Vines, well known teacher in a Negro school, driver of the car that last Saturday night unavoidably struck and killed Dorman Manning, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Manning of Stokes, essayed the role of Good Samaritan today. City Traffic Patrolman Herbert E. Wooten reported she paid $75 to the child's family. Authorities had exonerated her of blame. Eyewitnesses said the child ran across the highway near the radio station and into the path of the oncoming car.

Japanese Cyclotrons

Tokyo, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Japan was stricken from the field of atomic research today as American soldiers armed with sledge hammers and blow torches suddenly started the destruction of five cyclotrons—one of them a 200-ton giant made in the United States.

The cyclotrons, ordered destroyed by General MacArthur in another blow at Japan's war-making potential, will be broken up and the pieces dumped into the sea.

Powder Explosion Kills Six Soldiers

Calcutta, Nov. 24.—(AP)—An explosion of smokeless powder at the U. S. Army ammunition dump in Kancharapara 30 miles north of here, yesterday killed 58 persons, including six American soldiers, and 40 Indian workmen.

Low Temperature

Mt Mitchell, near Asheville, highest peak east of the Rockies, scraped bottom with a recording of two degrees above zero.

With a forecast of fair and continued cold today, the U. S. Weather Bureau predicted temperatures between 26 and 30 degrees for the southeast portion of North Carolina tonight. In the west and north portions the mercury was expected to drop to 24-28 degrees.

The American Federation of Labor has suspended the International Association of Machinists, its largest affiliate, after a disagreement over payment of per capita tax. An AFL spokesman said notices had been sent to member organizations that the IAM had been automatically suspended under a constitutional provision relating to payments delinquent for more than three months.

AIM President Harvey W. Brown said the suspension "came as no surprise" to his groups' 750,000 members.

In New York, Samuel Wolchok, CIO Union president who has called a one-week work stoppage by 75,000 Montgomery Ward & Co. employees, says the walkout would be called off if the union and management agree to an arbitrator of their dispute before Monday.

Wolchok said he had invited Sewell L. Avery, company board chairman, to designate one of five men, including President Truman, Secretary Schweikert and Secretary of Commerce Wallace, to name an arbitrator in a dispute between the company and the CIO United Retail, Wholesale and Department Stores Employees of America.

Earlier the union had told Avery the strike could be averted if he agreed to arbitrate differences relating to closed shop and dues checkoff. Avery however had rejected an arbitrator. He was not immediately available for comment on Wolchok's latest proposal, and the stoppage is scheduled to begin Monday.

Mr. Perkins spent his entire life in the Stokes community. He was a prominent merchant and farmer of Stokes for 45 years. He returned from the mercantile business in 1939, but continued the operation of his farming interests. He was well known in Eastern North Carolina. He was a member of Greenville Chapter, No. 50, Royal Arch Masons, and past high priest of the Chapter and a member of Bethlehem Commandery No. 9, and eminent commander, and was a Shriner, a member of Sudan Temple.

whether he was in contact with his client.

"I'm no spiritualist," he responded. "I can't conduct a seance."

Thus far the defendants, who sat glumly today in the grim Nuernberg jail, have seen the American prosecutors produce nothing but official German documents in an effort to convict them of plotting and conducting a war of aggression.

More than 100,000 words of evidence were presented yesterday—many of them the words of Hitler telling of his plans to attack the Netherlands, Belgium, France, Britain, Poland and Russia months and in some cases years before the attacks actually took place. The court took a two-day recess to give the defense time to study the portion of the prosecution's case which has been submitted since the trial opened last Tuesday.

The American prosecutors disclosed that Hitler told his generals 10 days before the invasion of Poland that he had given orders "to kill without mercy all the men, women and children of the Polish race or language."

Hitler made this statement in a speech at Obersalzberg on Aug. 22, 1939.

A stenographic record of the address showed that the Fuehrer's words caused the delighted Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering to leap on a table and dance "like a savage."

Evidence also was introduced telling of a promise by Hitler to the Japanese eight months before Pearl Harbor that Germany would accept the consequences "if Japan would get involved with the United States."

Ten captured documents were submitted by the staff of justice Robert H. Jackson, chief U. S. prosecutor, shortly before the close of yesterday's session.

One of them disclosed that Hitler in May, 1939, had told his general staff that Britain was the "driving force against Germany" and that he planned to slice Britain off from the remainder of Europe by cutting her food supplies. He demanded the immediate destruction of the British fleet after the outbreak of war.
