Commander Of Chinese Communist Armies Declares Communists Will Definitely Oppose Any Country Obtaining Sphere Of Influence In China

Yenan, Dec. 8.—(AP)—(Delayed)—Gen. Peng Teh-Huei, vice commander in chief of the Chinese armies, declared today the Communists "definitely oppose" any country obtaining a sphere of influence in any part of China. Peng said he recognized there were elements and individuals in America—such as Patrick Hurley (recently resigned ambassador to China), former President Herbert Hoover and Sen. Arthur Vandenberg—who feared the Chinese Communists would affiliate with Stalinist Russia, but asserted that their grounds for such an assumption "never have been made clear."

TWENTY DEAD IN ACCIDENTS

Highway Collision Near Mebane Kills Five

By The Associated Press Twenty Carolinians met violent death during the week-end, 18 in traffic accidents. Greatest loss of life occurred late Friday night when an automobile collided with a parked truck near Mebane, in Orange County. The dead Nell Dixon, 18, Jack Finley, 25, Polly Sue Warren, 23, and two sisters, Jean George, 10, and Claudette George, 12. Miss Dixon's brother, Dan Dixon, was critically injured in the same accident. Gen. Patton Is In Bad Auto Wreck

By JAMES F. KING Mannheim, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Gen. George S. Patton lay partially paralyzed today in Heidelberg hospital as prominent nerve specialists were summoned from England and the United States to treat spinal injuries which he received in an automobile accident yesterday. An Army medical bulletin said that Patton's general condition was satisfactory, that he was completely paralyzed and had spent a comfortable night but declared to forecast the probable course of a paralysis of the lower limbs resulting from a simple fracture of the third cervical vertebrae. Hurrying to his side by trans-Atlantic plane were his wife and a neuro-surgery specialist, Col. R. G. Spurling of Louisville, Ky. Already at the hospital are Maj. Gen. A. W. Kenner, theater surgeon, and Prof. Hushes Barnes, a British specialist who had been flown from Oxford at the request of Mrs. Patton. Mrs. Patton was expected to arrive in Paris tomorrow morning and to go from there to Heidelberg either by rail or air. An official Army bulletin issued at the hospital said the fiery general had passed a restful night, sleeping five hours. (Continued on page four)

Jap Rice Riots Seen In Prospect

Tokyo, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A warning from influential farmers that rice riots are inevitable without stronger government agrarian policies coincided today with General MacArthur's second blunt demand that Japan's feudal land system be altered immediately. Fifteen farmer representatives from Akita province in northeastern Japan declared muddled government policies have produced such lack of confidence that the rich Tohoku district may sell only 60 percent of its rice crop to the government. PEARL HARBOR QUESTIONINGS

General's Personal Opinion Was That We Would Be Forced To Fight

By J. W. DAVIS Washington, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall testified today it was his personal opinion a month before Pearl Harbor that whenever the Japanese moved into Thailand, the United States and Britain would be forced into war. The five-starred former chief of staff, appearing before the Senate House Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee for the fourth day, answered questions put by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich). Ferguson noted that Marshall and Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, had sent a memorandum to the late President Roosevelt on November 5, 1941, saying that further Japanese aggressive moves should bring retaliation if the Japs moved west of 100 degrees East, or South of 10 degrees North in Thailand. The Michigan senator brought out that on December 6 Ambassador John G. Winant had messaged Washington from London that the Japanese were on the move. "That message that they were on the move meant war, didn't it?" Ferguson asked. "I was of the opinion at that time that the governments would be forced to accept a condition of hostilities," the witness replied. He said he thought that Admiral Stark concurred with him in the belief that to permit the Japanese to enter the Gulf of Soam would put them on the "back door of Singapore." War chronologies show that the Jap move into Thailand came on December 7, 1941, synchronized with their other aggressive thrusts. Marshall made the point, however, that it was his personal opinion that the move into Thailand would mean the involvement of this nation and Great Britain in the war. He said the governments of the two countries held the final decision not the military men such as he and Stark. Ferguson replied that he was now seeking the views of the chief of staff, particularly so that he might (Continued on Page Four)

Lewis Says Plan Will Not Help Labor Union

John Lewis Declares President Truman's Plan For Legislation Would Help Rich And Powerful, Not Unions.

Washington, Dec. 10.—(AP)—John L. Lewis delivered a triple blast today against the government, the General Motors Company and the CIO-United Automobile Workers in connection with the current automobile strike. The United Mine Workers chief told the House Labor Committee that the government could settle the strike in 10 days if it would allow the manufacturers a price that would permit a fair profit. He termed the postransaction position "dishonest" and characterized the UAW's explanation of its strike as "stupid." Lewis voiced his criticism while testifying against legislation proposed by President Truman to set up fact-finding boards to recommend solution of major industrial disputes. He referred to the President's proposal as an "evil, vile-smelling mess" full of rogues of loopy-mess that would make it unworkable and said it was designed only to "appease and protect a few millionaires who find themselves frightened by the growing strength of labor." Then turning to the General Motors strike he declared: "The world knows and Congress ought to know it would be settled in 10 days if the government would give to General Motors a price for cars where they can make and sell them for a fair profit. "They are making more money now not making cars than if they were producing them full blast, because of the present tax laws. "And the poor blundering leaders of the UAW picked this time of all times to shut down General Motors when it would make more money not operating than producing. "The dishonesty on one side by the company is equal only to the stupidity on the other side for the labor organization. "I hope Congress won't equal that stupidity by enacting this proposed legislation for fact-finding boards. "I don't think Congress wants to bring about the turmoil that this bill would produce. Special Investigation Made For Secretary Of State

German Militarists Urge Japan To War

German Military Leaders Urging Japan Into War In 1941 Spring But Did Not Expect Pearl Harbor

By WES GALLAGHER Nuernberg, Dec. 10.—(AP)—German military leaders were urging Japan to get into the war in the spring of 1941, but had no idea the Japanese might strike an opening blow at Pearl Harbor, according to a hitherto secret German command order disclosed today at the Nuernberg war crimes trial. American prosecutors laid before the four-power tribunal a directive signed March 5, 1941, by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, proposing a Japanese attack on Singapore as a means of "forcing England to the ground quickly and thereby keeping the United States out of the war." That Keitel was reluctant at that time to fight America was seen in his warning that Japanese attacks be extended to bases of American naval power only if entry of the United States into the war cannot be prevented. In a court session marked by the plea of innocence by Ernst Kaltenbrunner, once-dreaded No. 2 man in the Gestapo, American prosecutors turned to evidence of collaboration between Japan and Germany in spreading aggression throughout the world. Records of a conference between German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka in Berlin on March 29, 1941, and April 5, 1941, showed that Ribbentrop disparaged the Japanese fear that American submarines based in the Philippines would endanger any Japanese move against Singapore. In his directive in which he urged a Japanese attack on Singapore, Field Marshal Keitel wrote: "The common aim of the conduct of the war is to be stressed as forcing England to the ground quickly and thereby keeping the United States out of the war. Beyond this Germany has no political, military or economic interests in the Far East which would give occasion for any reservations with regard to Japanese intentions. "Kaltenbrunner, recovering from a cranial hemorrhage which sent him to the hospital just before the historic trial opened three weeks ago, was brought before the 100-judge tribunal and declared: "I do not believe that I have made myself guilty. "The tall, scar-faced Gestapo man joined his co-defendants as the Hitlerite leaders heard themselves accused in their own words of launching the invasion of Soviet Russia in 1941 with the coldly calculated determination to starve the Russian people so that the Germans themselves might eat. "Herman Goerring and Alfred Rosenberg, official Nazi philosopher and head of the party's Foreign Affairs Bureau, bore the brunt of the American prosecution's attack at the opening of the fourth week of the trial. Political Conditions In Romania And Bulgaria May Hold A Key To Successful Outcome Of The Approaching Moscow Meeting Of Big Three

INDONESIANS MOBILIZING

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER Washington, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A special investigation made for Secretary of State Byrnes of political conditions in Romania and Bulgaria may hold one of the keys to success of the approaching Big Three foreign ministers meeting in Moscow. Results of the survey, made by Mark Ethridge, Louisville, Ky., publisher, are due to be released before Byrnes leaves for the Russian capital on Wednesday. He will make the trip by plane in order to arrive for the Saturday opening session. According to reports of diplomatic officials, Ethridge's findings make two main points: (1) That democracy and political freedom do not at the moment exist in Romania-dominated Romania and Bulgaria. (2) That there are no insurmountable blocks in the way of a settlement with Russia of the Balkans issue. This latter point particularly is tied in directly with the plans for the Big Three Moscow gathering. It was a Russian disagreement with the United States and Britain over Romania and Bulgaria and how to write peace treaties for them which blasted the London Foreign Ministers' Council into failure last September. It now proves possible to come to some agreement on how Russia can have "friendly" governments in the Balkans without making them into puppet regimes, a solution will be at hand for one of the most critical issues involving the Big Three powers. It is to attack such issues on a broad front that Byrnes proposed the Moscow conference at this particular time, immediately before the formal organization of the United Nations at London. There is apparently well founded speculation here that the three foreign ministers may move on from Moscow to London to participate in the United Nations launching. There, if results are good at Moscow, they may seek to revive the five power Foreign Ministers Council to consider such difficult questions as the organization of peace in Asia and the improvement of Allied controls in Germany. Byrnes' first consideration in proposing the Moscow gathering is understood to be a desire to end the dangerous drift in Big Three affairs which high officials here consider threatening the whole United Nations project. Colder Weather For All Southern Area

By The Associated Press A cold wave stemming from a winter storm on the northern plains moved upon the eastern part of the United States today and the weather man forecast sub-freezing weather as far south as the Florida line. The Weather Bureau at Atlanta said that the "cold front" was fanning eastward and southward at about 15 miles an hour, and moved into northern Georgia and the western Carolinas this morning. The forecast said the cold wave "not for the southern part of Florida. Clearing skies will accompany the dip in the mercury, the bureau said. (Continued on page four)

Corner Parked Cars Obstructing Traffic

By CHESTER WALSH Parked cars too near the intersections on Evans Street and streets crossing Evans from Third street to Five Points constantly obstruct traffic and slow it up considerably, business men declare. Cars parked too near the corners hold up traffic regularly and are a hazard to safe driving. It is interesting to stand near a corner and watch the narrow escapes from collisions by cars making or about to make turns. This parking hazard particularly exists at the postoffice corner and at Five Points on Evans street. Some motorists said it requires skillful driving to avoid a crash when two cars happen to be making a turn at the same time. It has been suggested that the Police Commission rub out one marked-off parking space near the corners and then observe traffic improve. (Continued on page four)

The NATION TODAY

By James Marlow (Substituting for James Marlow) Washington, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Administration leaders expect the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain to move through Congress in the same manner as the Bretton Woods agreements. That is: Bitter opposition, strong speeches, but finally a big vote of approval. No official would make such a prediction publicly, but several of the leaders who helped draw up the long agreement with Britain said privately they think they can get the matter through in due time. If they do, it will be over the firm opposition of those who contend that the British didn't finish repaying their World War I debt—so why lend them any more? In addition to the $3,750,000,000 loan tentatively agreed upon last week by American and British officials, the two governments made a final settlement of lend-lease and surplus property that leaves the British owing $650,000,000. Thus the total credit would be $4,400,000,000. But the $650,000,000 American cash, hence will not be submitted to Congress for approval. Chairman Spencer D-Ky) of the House Banking Committee yesterday drew a parallel between the loan and the Bretton Woods institutions—saying they "both have one purpose, to do away with practices that made for economic warfare." Under the Bretton Woods bill Congress approved U. S. membership in a multi-billion dollar international monetary fund and an international bank. Here are the steps that probably will be taken next in the matter of the proposed loan: 1. The President Truman will send a message to Congress, emphasizing that the United States will benefit as well as Britain. This message may be sent up before the Christmas recess, or it may be early in January. 2. The administration will propose legislation authorizing the loan. 3. The bill be sent to committees. 4. Hearings will be held, at which treasury and state department chiefs will argue that the loan is necessary to save Britain financially and enable her to work with the United States for an orderly economic world. They also will ask approval of the bill without major change on the ground that any important alteration would force Britain to reject the loan and pursue her own economic course. After the hearings will come the debate in each chamber and final vote.

Jap To Be Witness At McVay Hearing

Washington, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Cmdr. Ike Hashimoto, captain of the Japanese submarine I-58, reported to have sunk the USS Indianapolis last July 30, arrived today to testify at the court martial of Captain Charles B. McVay, 3rd. McVay, who commanded the Indianapolis, is charged with negligence and inefficiency in the loss of the heavy cruiser. Hashimoto is expected to testify before the court martial when it resumes at 10 a. m. tomorrow. The Navy explained he was brought here to testify in an effort to establish definitely whether the Indianapolis was sunk by torpedoes.

Today In Congress

By Max Hall Washington, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Congress today tackled President Truman's suggested formula for settling major labor disputes. Hearings opened before the House Labor Committee on the White House proposal to ban strikes while fact-finding boards work out recommended solutions. The committee called salty-spoken John L. Lewis, mine union boss, as its first witness. Gen. George C. Marshall had a fourth day's questioning ahead on the Pearl Harbor attack. When he finishes, he plans to leave for China as President Truman's special envoy. Meanwhile, a Republican member of the investigating committee, Senator Homer C. Ferguson of Michigan, said he wants a look at secret British documents to see whether there was a commitment of any kind for the United States to go to war. Also, Ferguson told reporters, he wants to determine whether the British used intercepted Japanese messages to better advantage than this country did. Senators had a tough decision to make. Their Democratic California colleague, Sheridan Downey, brought up his bill to raise federal workers' pay by a flat 20 percent. But Downey arranged for a prior vote on an amendment to raise congressmen's own salaries from $10,000 to $15,000 a year. Downey said he figured members will find it hard to vote down the 20 percent hike if they boost their own pay 50 percent. The hullabaloo caused by Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley's resignation as ambassador to China seems to be dying down in Congress. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee appears inclined to go along with the State Department, which denied Hurley's charges that some department officials are undermining this country's policies abroad. Congress soon will get a request to approve the $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain. In view of administration leaders, it will come in for bitter debate but ultimately win a clear-cut okay. Elsewhere in the Capitol the navy renewed its drive against the army-supported plan to combine the war and navy departments into a single department of defense. And a $695,890,000 hospital and health center program was ready for Senate consideration. Both House and Senate face a busy week with labor legislation. On Tuesday the way is clear for the House to consider a bill to hold unions to no-strike pledges and restrict their political activity and on Wednesday the Senate Labor Committee takes up the presidential fact-finding plan.

The WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP World Traveler London, Dec. 10.—Ever since my tour of Germany at the time of the fateful Munich conference in 1938 this column has repeatedly insisted that Hitler deliberately set about to destroy Christianity in the Fatherland, substituting the pagan creed under which he himself was a Heilan, because he realized that no Christian would support his plot of murder and enslavement in Europe. Concrete evidence that this was indeed the Nazi anti-Christ's program has now been placed in my hands here in London. This is in the form of an amazing secret report recently discovered in the files of the Reich security department in Berlin, and because I regard it as of the highest importance, I am reporting it here. It represents one of the great Allied problems in the rehabilitation of Hitlerized Germany. This document, which was for official guidance, analyzed the operations of the Oxford Group (moral rearmament) under leadership of Dr. Frank Buchman, and warned that it was dangerous of nazidom as an instrument of Berlin also. The official files in Christiniano, the official files in Berlin also, disclosed that directives for the suppression of the Oxford Group in both Germany and in occupied countries were issued on the strength of this document. "The Oxford Group," says the document, "is a whole constitutes an attack upon the nationalism of the state, and demands the utmost watchfulness on the part of the state. It preaches revolution against the national state and has quite evidently become its Christian opponent." Finally, one brutally blunt line, she discloses the Führer's purpose to smash Christianity in Germany. "They (the Oxford Group) encourage their members to place themselves fully beneath the Christian Cross, and to oppose the cross of the Swastika with the Cross of Christ." The report reveals that the secret police wanted the Oxford Group as a force working "to bring about new political and ideological conditions in the Reich. x x x at the very moment we (Nazi officials) are making efforts to suppress Christian conviction of sin, which is regarded as the first step towards the enslavement of the Germans, a movement is emanating from the Anglo-Saxons, who are racially related to us, which regards just this consciousness of sin as a basis for a change in personal and national relationships." The document stresses the bond between democracy and Christianity and says that "The Oxford Group supplies the Christian religion (Continued on Page Four)

Christian Science Service
"God the Only Cause and Creator" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies on Sunday, December 9.

The Golden Text was from Isaiah 45:18. Thus saith the Lord that created the heavens: God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord; and there is none else.

Among the citations comprising the lesson sermon were the following from the Bible: "I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, the Lord, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded." Now unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only God, be honour and glory for ever and ever. Amen. (Isaiah 45:12 I Timothy 1:17).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is spirit; he is incorporeal. He is divine principle; love is the universal cause the only creator; and there is no other self-existence. He is all-inclusive and is reflected by all things in real and eternal and by nothing else. He wills all space, and it is impossible to conceive of such omnipotence and individuality except as infinite Spirit or Mind. Hence all is spirit and spiritual." (Page 331).

Russian Government Honors Navy Heroes

Washington, Dec. 10—(AP)—The Russian government has bestowed honors on 190 U. S. naval heroes for "outstanding military activities" in transporting war goods to Russia's northern ports on the famed "Murmansk Run."

The honors, totalling 120 medals and 70 orders of the Soviet Union, were displayed by Charge d'Affaires Nikolai Novikov in a brief, colorful ceremony at the Russian embassy.

The gold and silver decorations were entrusted to Rear Admiral Thomas B. Inglis, representing the U. S. Navy Department, for the heroic Navy and Coast Guard officers and men, many of whom are still on assignment in different parts of the world.

Santa and the White Bunny BY LUCRECE HUDGINS

"DAVID? NEVER HEARD OF HIM!"

Chapter 5
A Magic Land
By morning David had put many miles between himself and the terrible town where his sister had been very heavy because he knew that Christmas was not far off and if the gypsy spell was not broken by Christmas day then his little sister would become a white hippopotamus forevermore.

"And suppose I do find Santa," he thought. "How would he find the time to help me when he's so busy getting ready for Christmas?" And a tiny little voice deep inside him whispered, "Especially when you said such horrid things about him!"

Well, there was nothing for it but to keep walking in a northerly direction. This he did for what seemed like months but was really only several days.

Finally, on the fifth day he realized that for a long time he had house, seen no traveller on the road. He did not know it but he had passed beyond the boundaries of the kind of world he had always known. He had now come into a land where everything was Good.

A river travelled beside the road and there were boats on the river and boats along the bank. David thought it might be all right if he got in one and sailed part of the way for he was very tired.

As soon as he had stepped aboard one of the empty boats it started off and gaily skimmed the water. David was very excited and tried to hail the people in the other ships out he was suddenly so very tired that he dropped off to sleep.

When he woke the little boat had come to shore again and the bank was crowded with people. They ran down and helped the boy come ashore. But what strange people they were! David could not imagine who they might be.

They shouted, "Who are you? And when he didn't answer they began talking excitedly among themselves. "He has a bunny but that doesn't explain anything," cried a boy who was dressed in blue from top to toes.

"He must have something to do with Easter," guessed another boy and this lad was walking around carrying a whole pie in his hand! "Now, let him catch his breath," admonished a lady who was sitting on a goose. "One can see he is too astonished to speak."

Which was really true but still David managed to say, "I am David."

There was silence. Then voices. "David? Never heard of him. Can't think of a David in all the tales I know."

And, of course, David did. There was Cinderella and Red Riding Hood and Simple Simon and the Gingerbread Boy and Goldenlocks and Miss Muffet and Tommy Thacker and just about everyone you could think of out of your Fairy Tale books.

Then there was loud laughter at the top of the bank and looking up David saw the Seven Dwarfs standing in their midst was Santa Claus himself!

Women IN THE CHURCH

by Mary Fowler

Women of the North Central Jurisdiction of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which has as its object the training in any form as being contrary to Christian convictions and ideals of American democracy, also express the hope that our government officials will support every effort to see that there is international control of the atomic bomb. Telegrams with this message were sent recently by representative Methodist women assembled in Chicago, to President Truman and members of the House Military Affairs committee. The women, meeting under the presidency of Mrs. Florence D. Laylin, of Columbus, Mo., represented 380,000 women members of 7,000 societies in nine western states.

In a statement entitled "The Cost of Peace," issued to the women of the Protestant Episcopal Church by the Woman's Auxillary, it is pointed out that the releasing of atomic energy "has opened a new age which bids the seeds of unimaginable horror or of the transcendent beauty of a new day. The statement continues that among the costs of peace will be repentance and "purpose of amendment" from the sins of cruelty, intolerance, selfishness and difference; and intelligent and courageous action on the part of every citizen. The statement calls for a promotion of church unity, more effective church schools and youth programs, raising the standards of secular education, movies, and radio, improvement of housing conditions, prevention of inflation, achievement of full employment, extending full democratic rights to minority groups, support of world relief, and strengthening the United Nations Organization.

A fleet of trucks and trailers, to carry a religious and social ministry to migrant groups of workers in the rural areas of America, is being purchased at a cost of $25,000 by the Home Missions Council of North America. The fund is being contributed by friends to mark the council's 25 years of service to rural migrants on an interdenominational basis. Secretary Edith E. Lowry, in charge of this service, says the new program of ministry will help "enrich their lives by making available to them opportunities similar to those enjoyed by people in a settled community."—worship materials, recreational facilities, lending library, motion pictures, etc.

CONCERNING BOOKS

The Sheppard Memorial Library announces the addition of the following books to its collection:

"Planning Your Home for Better Living," by Clarence Whiting Dunham. Practical handbook for the prospective average home builder.

"The Legal Aspects of Financing," by the same author. Specific plans for each type of home and fixture. Photographs and diagrams excellent.

"Days and Nights," by Konstantine Simonov. A novel by a young Soviet playwright, poet and war correspondent. Its setting is the battle of Stalingrad and its theme the growth of a Soviet army officer and Red Army nurse—their ideas about the war, their country, their future and their love for each other.

"The Small General," by Robert Standish. A story of contemporary China centering around the adventures of a successful small-town business man, owner of a fabulously productive mulberry orchard.

"A Good Picture of China's slowly developing sense of national unity."

"A Star Danced," by Gertrude Lawrence. Recollections of the distinguished actress of the British and American stage. Many anecdotes of people and places in the theatrical world.

"The Cherokee Strip," by Marquis James. A noted biographer, twice winner of the Pulitzer award, now writes of his own Oklahoma boyhood. Vivid impressions and experiences that recall childhood in any small community of that period will give the book wide general appeal while the regional flavor will find a sure response among partisans of the western scene.

"Last Leaves," by Stephen Leacock. The latest and perhaps final collection of the essays, both humorous and serious, of the late Canadian writer. The preface by his niece and secretary gives an excellent short biography of him.

"Ever After," by Elswyth Thane. The third in a series of historical romances about the Day-Sprague-Murray families of Williamsburg. As in her earlier novels the story centers two war correspondents. They move across the varied settings of London, New York, Williamsburg and Cuba, covering the Jubilee of 1877 and the Spanish-American war, yet still find time to fall in love.

"Yellow Room," by Mary Roberts Rhinehart. A popular mystery writer gives us another story which mounts in suspense to the very last page.

"The Gauntlet," by James Street. A young Protestant minister and his struggle to integrate his faith with reality are portrayed amid the alternating pettiness and bigness of a characteristic small community.

"Dream of the Day," by Caleb Carr. A group of letters by a young American to his mother, during 1942 and 1943, while he was with the American ambulance drivers in the British Eighth Army during the African campaign. Well written and thought provoking.

"Three O'Clock Dinner," by Josephine Pinckney. Social comedy with setting in Charleston, S. C. The story centers around the conflict between the old and distinguished Redcliff family and the new, upstart, and somewhat vulgar Penwinkle family, who make up for what they lack in taste and social position.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

ON PROBLEM SOLVING
Not all problems in life admit of solution. There is a Pollyanna type of optimism which leads us to believe that we could know all the answers if we were only wise enough. But this undoubtedly is not the case. There are some things we are never intended to know.

There are other things involving knowledge which the human mind is not fashioned to grasp. Everybody has to live with certain problems in his life which can never be solved. They are not intended to be solved; they are intended to be endured. Most of our problems can be solved. But no one can ever explain to us why some great and unaccountable tragedy overtook us. No one can ever work out human relationships in such a way that we will live pleasantly with all people. There are some overwhelming problems in our life that are not solved, that never will be solved, and that are not intended to be solved.

This should not discourage us. We shall have plenty to do solving the problems of life that can be solved. When we cannot solve a certain problem in life, we have to make the best of it, problem or no problem. Many a person would be much happier than he now is if he would give up frantically trying to solve certain of his problems and be content to live with them.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STUNNETT

(Last of Three Articles)

Washington—Reams of fact and fiction have been written about making prisoners of war talk but none was stranger or more effective than that employed by Lt. Cmdr. Meredith J. Rhule and Lt. Meredee Nee behind-the-lines operations in China.

Both men were products of the Office of Strategic Services espionage, sabotage and guerrilla warfare schools. Both knew all the brutal methods used by the Nazis and the Japanese.

With two Japanese prisoners in their hands, Rhule and Nee were faced with the problem of getting valuable information out of them. They didn't like the idea of using force. "We knew that if we tried to force them to talk, they would only give us a few words and then stop."

"When every effort to try them up by questioning had failed, we had an idea. We had asked pictures of them soon after they were captured. I called for prints of pictures showing them with their American and Chinese guards.

"See these pictures, I said. We are going to give thousands of thousands of money to make another time the bombs will fall on Kobe and Yokohama, we will drop these pictures for your families and friends.

hundred of guerrillas went in immediately after V-J Day. The Jap commander there, with 12,000 troops surrendered. Yet before official word was delivered from the Emperor, not one of our men was molested. The answer, orders, the war criminals in Japan are the officers—the soldiers just did what they were told.

ious garment for world democratic aims." It adds:
"The group and democracies supplement each other and render each other's work fruitful. They face the common enemy, that is, all nationalistic conceptions of life which democracy opposes and fights because of its political ideology, the Oxford Group opposes because of its primitive Christian arguments. Their common opposition to the modern conception of race and nation has brought them still closer together."

The work of the Oxford Group in other countries, including America and Britain, where it originated at Oxford, is dealt with and the document sums up group activities in this fashion:
"Seldom has any religious revival movement succeeded as the group has in establishing itself in such a relatively short time in almost all the countries of the world. x x x under the slogan of moral rearmament the group has become the pacemaker of Anglo-American diplomacy. The anti-German character of the brotherhood of the western democracies comes out clearly in the whole propaganda for the slogan, which has the delighted support of all the Jewish propagandists of world democracy."

The document is an excellent example of Teutonic thoroughness in research. A tremendous amount of work has gone into it, and it is in the main accurate in describing Oxford Group activities.

On Wednesday the Senate Labor Committee begins hearings on the presidential plan, and the House opens debate on a bill to establish a government policy of maintaining a "high level of employment, production and purchasing power." Of Manchuria, Peng said that the Communist Eighth Route Army never had opposed and was not now opposing the Central Government's advance.

Only in liberated areas where Kuomintang forces attacked and killed civilians have the Reds fought back," he said, adding the Eighth Route Army withdrew from lines of communications and had not followed the generalissimo's forces into Manchuria.
Any resistance to the latter forces, Peng said, would come from the Manchurian volunteers, underground workers, anti-Japanese factions and troops of the former warlord Chang Hsueh-Liang, none of whom took orders from or were controlled by Yenian.

Disclosing the detailed German plans to start industries and raw materials, prosecutors introduced evidence a speech made by Rosenberg on June 2, 1941—two days before the invasion—in which the Nazi leader declared "we see absolutely no reason for any obligation on our part to feed also the Russian people with products of that surplus territory."

The American idea is to put this commission under the United Nations Assembly in order to give all states, small and large alike, some voice in the development of atomic

Specifically, he said, he wants to know:

1. Whether there was a joint plan in 1941, committing the United States and Britain to war against Japan if certain things came to pass—and if so, what were those things.
2. Whether the British intelligence service made better use of intercepted Japanese secrets than did the United States in guessing when, where and whether the Japanese might strike.

Gen. Marshall, wartime chief of staff who is eager to get away to his new job as special envoy to China, was called back to the witness stand for his fourth day of testimony.

Marshall has had a plane kept in readiness for the long trip over to Chungking and would have left Saturday night but Ferguson said he had a lot more questions to ask the general. Also Rep. Keefe (R-Wis) was ready with some more himself. The 10 committee members take turns in questioning witnesses.

For the first part of his double-lan search, Ferguson looked to British admiralty messages which Committee Counsel William D. Mitchell arranged to have ready.

As Marshall's first 12 hours of testimony ended Saturday, Ferguson was just going into the question of a Dec. 7, 1941, message (Manila Time) from the commander in chief of the U. S. Pacific fleet to the chief of naval operations here. It read:

Training
Washington, Dec. 10—(AP)—Organized labor lashed out against universal military training legislation today, demanding to know whom the United States is preparing to fight.
Heading a group of union spokesmen called to testify during what may be the final week of hearings on the proposal, Lewis G. Hines, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, asked the House Military Committee: "May we in all fairness ask, preparedness for what? If we are on the brink of another war, should we not have the right to demand with whom, when and where?"

Fertilizer Delivery
Raleigh, Dec. 10—(AP)—Because of an acute scarcity of labor and materials for use in manufacturing farm fertilizers, the North Carolina Plant Good Institute appealed today for early purchase and delivery of fertilizers to Tar Heel farms.
E. Y. Floyd, director of the institute, said that an acute labor shortage had developed in fertilizer plants supplying farmers in this state, and that the supply of potash—a principal ingredient in fertilizers—"is worse than last year."

He urged farmers to place their orders now for their fertilizer needs and to accept delivery when the fertilizer can be placed. The delivery of fertilizer during November was only 60 per cent of a year ago, he added.

"Me... I'm staying in the Army!"

THERE ARE PLENTY OF REASONS... AND HERE THEY ARE!

- "First, I keep my present grade. That means a lot.
- "By reenlisting for 3 years I can pick my own branch of service in the Air, Ground or Service Forces, and if I desire I can select any of the overseas theaters.
- "I get $50 a year reenlistment bonus for each year I've been in the Army. I get my mustering-out pay, too. My dependents receive family allowances for the full term of my enlistment. And I'll be eligible for GI Bill of Rights benefits when I get out of the Army.
- "My food, clothes, quarters, medical and dental care are all supplied to me. And I can learn any of 200 skills or trades in the Army schools.
- "All of us who are reenlisting are going to have from 30 to 90 days' furlough at home with full pay and our travel paid both ways. And we'll have 30 days' furlough every year with pay.
- "Any time after 20 years I can retire at half pay increasing year by year to three-quarters retirement pay after 30 years of service. And the time I've already served in active military or naval service counts toward my retirement time. Added up—reenlistment looks good to me!"

Red Oak News

Nearly a hundred men, women and children of Red Oak Community enjoyed a turkey dinner with all the trimmings at the club house Friday evening. This is an annual affair, the one occasion during the year when Home Demonstration Club members and their families get together and have a rollicking good time. Committees were appointed for every phase of the preparation and with very few exceptions mostly due to the cold epidemic which has been prevalent lately, each person did the job she was assigned to the best of her ability. It was the best planned meeting we have ever had and everything went off like clock-work. The club building never looked more attractive. Christmas decorations of holly, red and silver berries, silver maple balls, pine burs and tall red candles were used on the long banquet tables. Poinsettias, cedar holly and red berries were used on the stage and Christmas balls and red ribbons decorated the windows. This and the warm fire which greeted us on our arrival set the place for a most enjoyable evening. After enjoying this bountiful meal the audience was led in several amusing rounds and songs by Mrs. B. L. Tyson, Mrs. L. W. Edwards and Mrs. Amos Evans with Miss Patie Jenkin, as the accompanist. Songs and rounds used were "Silent Night," "Jingle Bells," "Rheumatism," "Three Fishermen," "Row, Your Boat," "Three Blind Mice," "Wh! You Meet a Donkey," and "John Brown's Flivver." The smaller children brought gales of laughter when they sang and acted their little songs.

Mr. Brown Mayo, scout master of eastern North Carolina, in a most versatile manner conducted a "Quiz" program. He got his contestants so frustrated that when he asked the question, "When was the war of 1812 fought?" the answer was "1904!" Frank Manning was not daunted at all at his question. Name five of the county commissioners. Mrs. J. J. Jenkins captured the grand prize and R. R. Tyson Fenner Allen and Amos Evans did well too.

Miss Verona Lee Joyner, our beloved county agent, was a little stumped when she was asked to pronounce "So, met, I, mes" correctly! Can you do it? And to cap the climax, to the question asked Peregine Tyson, "Have you stopped beating your wife?" he answered "Yes."

The highlight of the evening's entertainment was two plays, "Thursday Evening," and "Sanitarium" presented by Miss Louise Greer dramatics teacher at E. C. T. C. and ten of her students. This was by far one of the most enjoyable performances ever seen at Red Oak. The players seemed to enjoy themselves from the moment they sat down to the table until the close of the evening when "Good Night Ladies" was sung by all.

To those of our members who could not be there we would like to say "We're sorry," for you really missed a treat. We are now looking forward to our meeting one year hence.

PHANTOMS TO PLAY WILSON

Local Cagers Will Open Season There Tomorrow Night

By DAVE CLARK
The Charles L. Coon Gymnasium in Wilson will be the scene of the Green Phantoms opening basketball tilt of the 1945-46 season when the Phantoms meet Wilson Cyclones tomorrow night. Games time is 8:00 o'clock.

The Phantoms have far from enough practice for the game with the Class A club, but reports are that the Cys are in the same predicament as the Greenies so a really close game may be in the offing.

Three of the regular on last year's Wilson team are known to be back this season to pace the Cys. They are Tunney, Brooks, Leo Long, and Jay Clark, cousin of the famed George Clark.

In years gone by, Greenville and Wilson have played several very close games. Last season both contests were decided by two point margins, one going to Greenville and the other to Wilson.

Coach Bo Farley held a short scrimmage Saturday night for his Phantoms and another is on schedule for today. The starting line-up Coach Farley will probably send against the Cyclones tomorrow night is Mac Batchelor and Billy Harrington at guards, Jimmy Futrell and Ed Williams at forwards, and J. T. Williams at center.

Southern Conference members in North Carolina who did not see action last week as the 1945-46 basketball season opened will swing into action this week and two conference games—first of the young year—are scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights.

North Carolina, early season leader of the state, will face three teams during the week, opening with Greensboro's tough ord outfit Tuesday night and continuing with Catawba Friday night and Davidson, another conference team, on Saturday. The White Phantoms won two games last week, trimming Camp Lee 550-40 and Camp Pickett, 64-46.
