

COTTON GROUP WIN VICTORY OVER CEILING

Southern Senators Get Bowles Statement On Cotton Base Ceiling

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Chalking up one victory in their fight against proposed 1946 cotton ceilings, Southern House members were to take their case today to Agriculture Secretary Clinton Anderson.

A 19-man special committee, representing cotton states, went into action after appointment yesterday at a mass meeting of 110 representatives from the cotton belt, California and Michigan.

Calling Price Administrator Chester Bowles to Capitol Hill, they won from him a statement that the 24.09-cent base ceiling, proposed by OPA, is the lowest base ceiling price which will be considered and that ceilings, if imposed, "may be very much higher."

Previously OPA had announced that the ceiling scale based on 24.09 cents a pound for 15-16-inch middling American upland grade was the maximum price growers could expect.

Chairman Whittington (D-Miss) told reporters after the closed session that Southerners were assured by Bowles there has been no final determination that a ceiling is necessary.

Cotton legislators are expected to express to the agriculture secretary what they have already made clear to Bowles: That continuation of the present cotton ceiling proposal may mean abolition of all price control machinery June 30.

Officers Raid Still And Arrest Negro

Pitt County ABC officers J. M. Ward, J. L. Taylor, Deputies L. E. Manning, C. C. Jackson and Winterville officers Chief J. E. Buck and Preston Hardy arrested Marvin Taylor, Negro, of Winterville township Friday night for manufacturing illegal liquor. They said they found a 20-gallon drum type illicit distillery in a smokehouse on Taylor's place, together with a quantity of whiskey and 50 gallons of molasses and corn meal mash. The mash was being cooked on a small oil stove, the officers said.

Taylor is in the county jail in default of 300 bond, pending trial in County Court on January 29.

N. C. Violations Of Rent Control Voiced

Raleigh, Jan. 19.—(AP)—North Carolina is regarded by OPA authorities as one of the "worst trouble areas" in the entire country insofar as the rent control program is concerned, according to Ed G. David of Atlanta, assistant regional rent executive.

David made the statement yesterday at a meeting of OPA area rent control officials from all sections of the state.

T. S. Johnson, state OPA director, told the group that trouble-making suits for all overcharges will be filed in the future in all cases referred from area offices. Criminal indictments will be lodged in cases where the violation merits such procedure, he added.

SLAVE LABOR PLANS SHOWN

Quick Victory Spoiled Nazi Slavery Draft

By JOSEPH DYNAN
Nuernberg, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The lightning-like advances during the closing stages of the European war disrupted Nazi plans to draft an additional 1,000,000 slave laborers from France and the Low Countries, Assistant French Prosecutor Jacques Bernard Herzog asserted at the war crimes trial today.

Herzog said Fritz Sauckel, boss of the forced labor program, planned to bring in 1,000,000 additional men and women from France and 500,000 from the Low Countries to work in Reich industries.

"The rapidity of the Allied victory prevented Sauckel from realizing his plan of mass deportation," Herzog said. "However, he undertook its execution. Deportations of workers were carried out up to the day of liberation of each territory."

Herzog submitted a letter from Sauckel to Hitler reporting that the Vichy Regime largely accepted the Nazi labor demands, but that Pet-

UNO PLAN FOR ATOM CONTROL PASSES TEST

Atomic Energy Commission May Be Under Security Council

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
London, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The big power plan to place the proposed atomic energy commission directly under the United Nations Security Council passed its first test today without opposition.

The test came when Paul-Henri Spaak, president of the General Assembly, called up a committee report providing that the atomic control proposal should go to the assembly's security committee without discussion on the floor.

Spaak asked if anyone wanted to say anything, but not a word was spoken. He promptly declared the report accepted.

The Security Committee of the assembly is headed by Dmitri Manuilsky, chief Ukrainian delegate. Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.) is the United States member.

A committee meeting is expected to be held Monday.

Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand yesterday contended that the atomic commission should be under the direction of the 51-nation general assembly instead of the 11-nation security council, but he did not oppose today's move.

Spaak also sent to a committee on social, humanitarian and cultural problems a British proposal calling on the United Nations to give their full support to UNRRA.

Meanwhile, the chief UNO interests centered on the next move to be made by Iran in line with her announced intention to bring before the new security organization an appeal for action in the Iranian-Russian dispute.

Women Open Drive In Winterville

Miss Verona Lee Joyner, chairman of the women's division of the 1946 March of Dimes, today announced that Mrs. Laurie Ellis and Mrs. S. T. Rouse will head the community drive at Winterville sponsored by the Home Demonstration Club.

More striking than any monument that may be erected to the memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt is the organized fight against infantile paralysis which he inaugurated, personally symbolized in his lifetime and unified by founding the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The battle which he relinquished at his death was bequeathed to the American public which so generously, during the past 13 years, supported the war against the Great Crippler.

When the battle against infantile paralysis is finally won and the disease wiped out, history will record the name of Franklin Roosevelt at the top of the list of those responsible for the achievement.

We can help bring that victory nearer. Every American has the opportunity to join the March of Dimes. Dime by dime, we are now building a living monument to one of the greatest humanitarians of all time, and speeding the conquest of that disease—infantile paralysis.

Campaign officials pointed out today that those persons wishing to contribute by mail may do so by addressing a check to J. W. Overton, at the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company. Checks may be made to the Infantile Paralysis Fund, or to J. W. Overton, treasurer.

LATE SHOPPER

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—It was on Christmas Eve, 1923, Mrs. Celia Griffin told Superior Judge Edwin A. Robson, that her husband Gerald left home, telling her he had to do a little late minute shopping.

Mrs. Griffin, now 65, said she hasn't come back yet and she wanted a divorce on grounds of desertion. Judge Robson granted her a decree.

Solution Sought To Break Filibusters

Senators Propose Round-The Clock Sessions In Effort To Wear Out Too-Talkative Fellow Members

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Round the clock Senate sessions with cuts for sleepy members, were proposed today to break a Southern filibuster against FEPC.

Senator Morse (R-Ore) came up with the idea of provisions for quickie naps after Senator Chavez (D-NM) disclosed that supporters of the fair employment practice bill will seek to hold the chamber in continuous meetings.

Their proposals came in the face of a claim by Dixie Democrats that they have lined up more than enough votes to block any attempt to shut off the prolonged debate that began Thursday and which shows no signs of coming to an end.

Senator Eastland (D-Miss) told a reporter that "40-odd senators" are firmly aligned against cloture, a parliamentary device rarely used to limit talk in the Senate.

Morse would not concede that his side lacks the necessary two-thirds vote (64 of the 96 members if all were present) to invoke cloture. But he did say this in an interview: "The issue that has been raised is more important than the fair employment practice bill—important as that is."

"The issue is whether the legislative program is to be determined by majority vote rule or by a filibuster conducted by men—many of whom were elected by a small minority of the adult voters of their states because the right to vote was denied a majority of the adults because of the poll tax.

"Imagine what would happen if the country saw 49 men—a majority of the Senate—with guts enough to hold continuous sessions 24 hours a day. That fight would produce all the votes needed for cloture, with the spotlight of American public opinion focused on the Senate 24 hours a day."

"We could put cuts in the clock rooms so members could be on hand at any time to respond to a roll call."

The hotly disputed measure, called up unexpectedly Thursday would establish a permanent fair employment practice commission to guard against discrimination on account of race, creed or color—in private or government business or in labor unions. A wartime committee still is supposed to do the same thing, but its funds and authority are limited.

The anti-FEPC group is undeniably in the driver's seat at this stage. By a legislative stratagem, they began yesterday to correct the official journal of Thursday's Senate proceedings. The bill itself was hardly mentioned.

Reading of the journal took an hour and a half by itself. Then Senator Overton (D-La.) offered his first correction—insertion of the chaplain's prayer.

That was still the unfinished business when the Senate adjourned yesterday afternoon until Monday.

Babson Discusses Airlines

New York City, January 18.—Have had an unfortunate experience at La Guardia Airport in New York City where I waited from 6 a. m. for a plane due to leave for the south at 7:30 a. m. Then at the very last minute it was announced that "due to weather conditions" the flight had been cancelled. I immediately went to the Pennsylvania station to get a Pullman berth. There I was told that all space had been sold for two weeks ahead. Let me further add that, although I had my plane reservations two weeks in advance, I would now have to wait another two weeks before getting another plane seat.

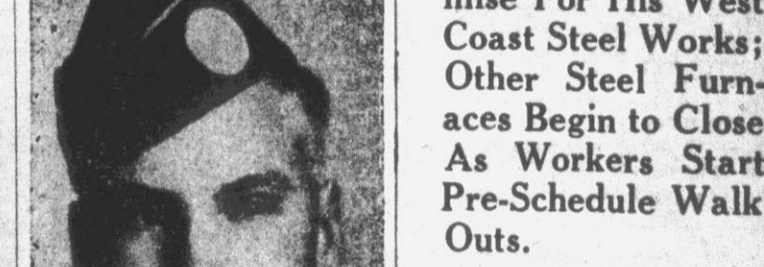

Air travel is marvelous when the weather is good and there are plenty of planes; but this winter on long routes it is terrible. For runs over 400 miles I advise readers to engage Pullman accommodations and not depend upon airlines. The same general principle may also apply to airline stocks as an investment. For a few years they should have good earnings and much glamour; but then look out! They may be as uncertain, in the long run, as the weather.

Government Competition
Now that our country is honey-combed with a network of railroads, it would practically be impossible for the government to build new competing railroad lines. Furthermore, their securities are probably now selling for less than their original cost, not to mention reproduction costs. Remember that the railroads own their roadbeds and terminals, as well as their equipment.

With the airlines the situation is very different. They own no roadbeds nor terminals. The air is free to all; while the terminals are publicly owned. At anytime the government could start competing air routes with little expense. This means that—however large the profits may be during these honey-

Kaiser Signs CIO Steel Agreement

To Be Honored Kaiser Accepts Presidential Compromise For His West Coast Steel Works; Other Steel Furnaces Begin to Close As Workers Start Pre-Schedule Walk Outs.

KENNETH LANE HENDERSON

By HAROLD W. WARD
Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Henry J. Kaiser, west coast steel operator, today accepted President Truman's proposed compromise in the steel wage dispute and signed a contract with the CIO steelworkers.

Kaiser made the announcement of the contract, giving employees of his west coast plants an 18 1-2 cents hourly increase, after a White House conference with Mr. Truman and CIO President Philip Murray.

This development came as CIO steelworkers began walking out of the nation's mills in advance of the scheduled general strike re-set for Sunday midnight after U. S. Steel Corporation rejected President Truman's compromise plan.

Kaiser, in the presence of Murray, said he had accepted the President's proposal because "it is not only time to sing America—but its time to live and love it."

"Shall we support the President of the United States?" The people's answer will be yes—it can be no other way. Too much is at stake not to support him.

Murray and Kaiser saw the President at 10 A. M. and left about 20 minutes later. Asked who suggested the conference Murray said "it was a joint request in the interest of the Government and the President."

Kaiser had already signed with the CIO Automobile Workers covering employees of the new Kaiser-Frazer automobile plant at Windsor Run. This agreement calls for wage increases and bonuses for workers.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The general steel strike, set to begin Monday at 12:01 A. M., got off to a head start today at a few scattered plants and kept approximately 45,000 men from their jobs in the mills.

In Detroit, the strike hit three mills of the Great Lakes Steel Corp., where 7,118 workers walked out, and at Pittsburgh the big plant of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, was closed.

Pickets patrolled the J. & L. plant which employed 9,000 workers. A corporation spokesman said (Continued on page two)

Ten Russians Commit Suicide In Protest

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Ten Russians committed suicide and 21 others injured themselves in a protest against attempts to repatriate them to Russia, U. S. headquarters announced.

Headquarters said that "some, at least" of the 271 Russian nationals being repatriated from Dachau had served in the German armed forces.

Most of the Russian nationals were loaded aboard a train for Russia yesterday afternoon, headquarters said, but one group "objected strenuously."

Plane Crash Under An Investigation

Cheshire, Conn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The bodies of 17 victims of a flaming death in the crash of an Eastern Air Lines plane were held today in mortuaries here and at Waterbury as a three-way investigation sought the probable cause of the disaster, first in commercial air traffic on the New York-to-Boston flight.

The bodies, burned beyond recognition in the crash yesterday, were identified by means of charred bill-folds, engraved bits of jewelry and other personal effects which escaped total destruction. The dead included a returned serviceman's wife and child, Mrs. Charlotte Sturman and Jean, 2, of Newton Center, Mass., who were enroute from Miami to Boston for a reunion with him.

The Federal Bureau of Aeronautics, the state officers and officials of the airlines joined in probing the crash.

German Cruiser Due In Boston Tuesday

Boston, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The German heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen, which furnished the Allied fleets with plenty of headaches, is due to reach Boston about January 22, the navy announced today.

She will be the first large German or Japanese warship to come to this country since the war. Taken over by the Allies on the surrender of Germany, she was allocated to the United States under the Potsdam treaty.

The 13,490 ton vessel is manned by a skeleton crew of eight American naval officers and 85 enlisted men, with German crewmen assisting.

POOL PUZZLE

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The shocking mystery at the YMCA swimming pool has been solved. Swimmers touching a brass guard rail received mild electric shocks. Power company experts discovered overloading of chlorine gas and soda ash to reduce pool bacteria count caused an acid condition that made the tank a virtual wet battery.

Clothing Drive

Arthur B. Corey, chairman of the United National Clothing Victory Drive, announces that trucks will pick up all contributed clothing, etc., in Greenville Sunday, January 20. The collection will begin at 2 p. m. and it is requested that all articles of clothing, bedding, and shoes be bundled and placed before the homes or on the sidewalk. It is requested that all shoes be properly matched and then tied together.

The peoples of the war devastated countries are in need of everything pertaining to clothing, bedding and shoes, and it is urged and requested that the people of Greenville contribute all of these that they possibly can.

The NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—You'll begin to notice the effects of the steel strike gradually. Then if it lasts long enough, the effects will pile up.

President Truman said: "A strike in the steel industry will be felt in practically every major industry in the United States. The repercussions will be felt all over the country and for a long time to come."

It was estimated at the U. S. Steel Corporation office here that 45 per cent of all people employed in this country derive, in one way or another, their living or part of their living from steel.

Here are just some of the industries which depend on steel: Automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, railroads, plumbing, building, shipbuilding.

For example: Commercial, residential and industrial building needs steel.

But the stocks of steel are not large for a couple of reasons. When the war ended, the demand for steel was tremendous. The industry has been turning out about 6,250,000 tons of steel a month.

So many different businesses wanted steel that the industry had to parcel out its production to try to satisfy as many people as possible.

This meant no one buying steel was able to get so much of it that he could lay away a stockpile.

And the government, with controls over the size of steel supplies that anyone can build up, has kept the stocks fairly low.

If the steel workers go out Monday, as they seem certain to do, you won't notice the effect right away.

Firms using steel will have enough on hand to keep going for a while. But gradually their supplies will begin to run out.

When that happens—as it probably will to the automobile industry—it will mean a slowdown or shutdown.

Building will have to slow down or stop. So will the other businesses listed above. That's what the President meant when he said the effect of the strike would be felt all over the country.

All that, of course, depends upon the length of the strike. Judging by the apparent mood of the steelworkers and the steel industry, neither side will give in easily.

Steel men figure the industry, because of the strike, will lose about $10,000,000 every day in revenues which it would have been getting if it had kept on making steel.

But in addition to the steel mills themselves, the strike will close up at once iron ore mines and even aluminum plants connected with the industry.

The WORLD TODAY

An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler
Madrid, Jan. 19.—There is an old Spanish proverb that says a woman should be kept in the house with the door locked and one leg broken.

That's the way the boys here thought about it only so far back as when I first came to Europe during World War I. But you ought to see the so-called weaker sex now. The girls have been cut loose from their duenna's apron strings and are competing with the men fairly well all along the line.

Before going further I should explain that really is Mrs. Mack's story. I had noted that the dark eyed señoritas are easy to look at, for that's one of the things a professional observer would note. I hadn't thought much more about it—well, not very much more—but my distaff partner got interested in feminine activities and has rendered this report.

This is indeed a different world from what the mothers of the present generation knew. Stern custom kept the women and girls very much in their own homes. If an unmarried girl went out doors, she was accompanied by her mother or her duenna (chaperone), an elderly but spry creature who was acquainted with the wild ways of the wolves.

Marrriages often were arranged by the parents of the couple as a matter of convenience. If it was a love match, the courtship was conducted by remote control. The young man, having fallen in love with a beauty he saw walking in the park with her duenna, would follow at a respectful distance until she noticed him. This might happen a number of times until finally the suitor ventured to write a note declaring his passion and might be rewarded by having his beloved speak to him from his balcony of her home.

This long distance love making might run along for two or three years after which the young man would ask the girl's parents for her hand in marriage. If his social and financial standing was all right, he might get his girl.

But having won his woman, the young man proceeded to lock her up in her new home, safe from the outside world. So the circle of courtship and marriage went on from generation to generation, with considerably more formality among the aristocracy.

No so today. The young hopeful girls get out to dinner and the theater or a dance, even as you and I. And they don't need a chaperone any more. To be sure, the more conservative families still stick to some of the old forms. For instance the current newspapers carry notices announcing that the parents of such and such young men have asked

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

PRACTICE AS WELL AS THEORY
Jesus was asked on one occasion to name the greatest commandment. His reply was a question in which he asked his inquirer what he thought about it. The reply was quickly given: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."
Jesus' comment was, "Thou hast answered right; this do and thou shalt live."

The Master was ever conscious of the pathetic and tragic breakdown which constantly takes place between what a man believes and what he does; between his theories about life and life itself. People do not make havoc of life just because they attempt to base life on wrong theories; more often than not it is because they fail to apply the good theories they already have. The man who was discussing life's deep issues with Jesus had the right ideas, but Jesus doubted whether or not he had the will to translate his theories into action. He had answered right, and that was quite important. Right living must have the basis of right theories. But what was even more important was that to a right answer he add the achievement of right and honest action.

The divine answer to all life's questioning is love. The divine commandment is, put it into practice. The promise is, "Thou shalt love."

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By J. A. STINNETT

(Last of Four Articles)
Washington—Sen. ROBERT M. La Follette, Jr., chairman of the Joint Committee on Organization of Congress, anticipated President Truman's blast at the Congressional committees when nearly two years ago he said:
"The primary legislative responsibility for each of the broad phases of governmental policy and the definite assignment of such responsibility to a given committee would provide more clearly defined channels of contact and cooperation between the legislative and executive branches of the federal government."
Standing committees of Congress should be so organized that each will have a definite sphere of governmental policy for which it must assume continuing responsibility. If that could be accomplished Congress would have gone a long way in reasserting its policy-making function under the constitution."

Sen. La Follette and Rep. A. S. "Mike" Monroney have introduced bills which would cut the 81 committees of Congress down to 26-13 in each chamber. On each side of the bill, there would be agriculture; appropriations; rules; finance and monetary affairs; labor and public welfare; claims; interior, natural resources and public work; District of Columbia; executive department expenditures; armed forces; foreign relations; interstate commerce; and judiciary.
There is one reason these measures are going to get a same committee run around that President Truman complained about. If the legislation should be passed, 45 committee chairmen and all the committee members who have seniority will be kicked downstairs immediately.
Since every member of the House and Senate is entitled to serve on at least one committee and 96 members (including the special committees) are chairmen, there is very little likelihood that they will vote themselves out of these important committee jobs—actual or potential.

An example of how committee members and chairmen feel about legislation which might take them out of circulation is the present conflict over unified national defense. The House and Senate Naval Affairs Committees are definitely opposed to it, mostly, some critics have said, because they fear they no longer will have their committee jobs or seniority.
President Truman's contention that "a handful of men" can block legislation is nothing new. Gen. George Washington had his troubles with Congress. So did Lincoln, Wilson and F. D. R. But few Chief Executives had a better opportunity to toss the ball to the voters than that of Harry Truman.

SCHOLARSHIP OFFERED HERE

Mr. J. C. Lanier Gives Funds For Local High School Students
At the Greenville High School yesterday, Superintendent J. H. Rose, speaking for Chairman J. B. James of the School Board, announced that Mr. J. C. Lanier of Greenville has established a $200.00 cash scholarship for the Greenville High School in memory of his nephew, James Stanley Woolfolk, a graduate of the Greenville High School and West Point who lost his life in the service of our country.
The announcement of this scholarship brought words of appreciation from the high school student body, the faculty, and members of the Board of Trustees of the Greenville City Schools.
Mr. Lanier designated a committee composed of the Chairman of the School Board, the Superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, and the principal of the Greenville High School, who shall make the $200.00 cash award every year to a male member of the graduating class with the provisions that the recipient of the scholarship shall attend one of the following Universities in North Carolina:
The University of North Carolina
Duke University
Wake Forest College
State College
Davidson College.
Mr. Lanier stated also that the committee, in making the award, shall give consideration in the order named to the following factors:
(a) The need of the student for financial assistance, in order to matriculate at one of the colleges herein named;
(b) Scholastic standing;
(c) General all-around standing among his class mates.
Superintendent Rose expressed his appreciation because it will mean much in the future in the life of some fine Greenville High School graduates and because it brings to remembrance the life of one of the finest Greenville High School graduates, Stanley Woolfolk.

There appeared no White House plans to stop the walkout and government seizure of the plants was not contemplated.

Chief of Staff Asks For Understanding

Washington, Jan. 19—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, pleading anew for an understanding of demobilization problems, promised last night that the new discharge directive will be strictly observed.
The chief of staff said the revised schedule will be "carried out to the letter."
With this promise he coupled the sober advice that "we have a new urgency—the necessity of building a secure peace."
Eisenhower, speaking over the radio to both the nation and overseas posts, said the army will have to abandon some of its present occupation and liquidation tasks if it fails to retain 1,500,000 men July 1.
"There is no alternative," he asserted.
The army, he added, is playing "a great role in a troubled world."
"As each of us comes to understand this truth, then he will take pride in the part he is playing."
While serving on patrol duty he was killed on April 5, 1945. His parents were notified on April 25 that he was reported as missing, and were again notified on May 24 that he was lost.
Since December, 1933, Mr. Henderson had been an active member of Emmanuel Baptist church. Surviving are his parents, Dr. and Mrs.

Henderson and one sister, Miss Dorothy Nell Henderson.

To All My Friends of the "Then" and "Now" (By Meta Chestnut Sager, 82 years old)

Could you look into my heart, Friends o' mine, You would see a portrait superfine Painted on a priceless canvas By a master hand divine.

No gilded paste surrounds it, But a frame of purest gold Set with priceless gleaming diamonds Any king might crave to hold.

Do you recognize the faces? Every line and shade so true, Even smiles and age-old memories Seem to greet and welcome you.

The names, do you ask me? Read just above the lower frame, On the canvas set in pearls and rubies Are all your beloved names.

Fun Featured The Kiwanis Meeting

By CHESTER WALSH The Kiwanis Club had nearly 100 per cent attendance at the weekly supper meeting last night and the members enjoyed an entertaining program directed by Vice-President Eli Bloom. Judge Jimmy Roberts was the speaker of the evening, using as his subject "The Atomic Boom." The municipal jurist essayed the role of a typical after-dinner speaker and he delivered a speech "brimful of nothing and embellished with a lot of valuable time." He made a hit with the Kiwanians by the brevity of his talk. It elicited laughter and much applause. Eli Bloom gave some samples of minstrel jokes and drew an encore.

President Ed Rawl presided and announced that he will complete his minstrel show committee appointments within a few days. Don Conley will have charge of the special program next Friday night when the club will celebrate its 26th birthday. Carlos Murray, chairman of the House Committee, announced that the club will meet at

The Fourth Mrs. Baker
By Eugene Adams
Chapter 13
(Sunday 5:37 p. m. to 7 p. m.)
Eight years before Robey had made his first success on the stage and he had been in the public eye ever since, Julia knew that from his scrap book. But that was in the fall season following the date on the marriage certificate. The first marriage Julia knew of was to Alma who had been the sensation of the year at her first appearance in the Metropolitan. The wedding had made splashing headlines. From Frank's remarks she gathered that Alma had cared more for her actor husband than for her own career. Robey had divorced her in Paris two years later and had married Grace. Their battles in public made interesting reading, too, including the fight in the divorce courts of Reno. Grace had, in the end, won a large alimony after Robey's attorneys had suddenly withdrawn.
All these things stood in her mind and she tried to fit them to the scrap of paper she held. If the certificate was genuine—and why else would Robey, with his closeness with money, pay for it?—it might mean that the actor's other three marriages were bigamous. Or this one might have been annulled. Or the woman could have obtained a divorce with no publicity from Robert C. Baker because Robey never used his legal name.
But this was the fourth Mrs. Baker! This was what Jerry had told her about. Did that mean that Adelaide Campbell was the woman in the red hat? But she had not come to the party.
She heard the chimes of the doorbell. She jumped up and looked about in sudden panic. She must hide the piece of paper. There was no time to decide where a good place would be. She picked up a tall cylindrical shaped perfume bottle of glazed blue china and carried it to the bathroom and dumped the contents into the basin. It was a heavy oriental scent which Robey had bought for her and she had never used it. The odor was sickening and she turned the water on to wash it away. There was no time to dry the bottle thoroughly. She rolled the paper and put it inside and hurried back into the bedroom to place the bottle where it had stood before. She was back on the chaise when a tap sounded on the door from the salon.
"Come in," she called and breathed deeply to quiet her jumping nerves.
Virginia opened the door and stood against it looking like an exotic model in a full skirted black dress that showed most of her long slender legs. The square neck had a fold of white held with turquoise clasps. She wrinkled her long thin nose.
"That scent doesn't match your personality."
"I spilled the stuff. Sit down, Ginnie. I'm glad you're here." Her voice sounded effusive.
The girl sat in a slipper chair near the bed and looked at Julia critically.
"Instead of a famous beauty you might be a subject for Coney Island waxworks. It's a wonder to me they haven't arrested you for lack of makeup."
"Why didn't they arrest me? I thought they were going to."
"Because, darling, you're so gorgeous they'd have to have moving pictures of the crime to convict you. Silly, isn't it? But if you don't get into another dress and wash that dead look off your face, they'll get you yet. If I were on trial I'd rather have a first rate dress designer than a good lawyer. Frank is out there talking to Moore. We are going to lay down tactics, Frank says. Whatever that is. The police are being bargained with fan mail. Every one wants to help hang the one who put the finger on his favorite actor."
"Robey—?" Julia shuddered. "Then they know it's murder?"
"Well, what do you think? The police haven't informed the newspapers but the newspapers are telling the police. Haven't you read them?" At Julia's negative nod she went on. "Some one got hold of the story about the cop's head being bashed in last night. Frank has been up to headquarters and he has also been talking to Simon Lillie."
"Who is he?"
"My God, Julie, where have you lived all your life? He's the best criminal lawyer in New York. Now look, you. Get going. Get in the tub and I'll pick out your clothes."
When she appeared in the salon later no one could see how she fought to preserve her calm.
Frank rose from the sofa on the far side of the fireplace where he sat with Virginia and came toward her. He took both her hands and she

Beaufort County To Build New Schools
Washington, Jan. 19—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administrator, has approved four federal advances to the Beaufort County, N. C., Board of Education for preparation of plans and specifications for two new schools and two school additions, it was disclosed today.

Shanghai, Jan. 19—(AP)—American forces in Shanghai will pay less for horse (soup) under the new Army-Navy ceiling price list—but the sky is the limit on baked Alaska. That dessert luxury was removed from the list because so few places serve it.
Borsch came down from 675 Chinese dollars to 550, which is about 49 cents American money. The coffee ceiling was lowered from 450 to 350, which is around 25 cents.
