Naval Officer Was Attempting to Clear Admiral Kimmel Of P. Harbor Blame; Coded Letter Indicated No One Was Trusted; Future Surprises Are Indicated

By J. W. DAVIS Washington, Feb. 5 (AP) — Naval Captain L. F. Safford said today he acted without the knowledge of Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel in undertaking a campaign to clear Kimmel of responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Admiral Kimmel did not know I was doing this, Safford told the Senate-House committee investigating the Japanese attack which caught Pearl Harbor by surprise Dec. 7, 1941. Kimmel was commander of the Pacific fleet at the time. Safford said he went to New York and saw Kimmel in mid-February, 1944. This was one month after he wrote a code letter to Capt. Alwin D. Kramer, saying that no one in Washington naval high command could be trusted and that Kimmel and the 1941 Army commander in Hawaii, Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, had been framed.

The 53-year-old intelligence officer described the meeting with Kimmel under questioning by Rep. Murphy (D-Pa). "I was in New York and went to his office and saw him personally," Safford said, adding that he had talked to no one else.

Safford said he did not talk to Kimmel's counsel, Charles Russ, until August or September of 1944. "You made a special trip to New York," Murphy asked.

"I was up here on a little leave," Safford replied. "I took the initiative, not Admiral Kimmel."

"Did you tell him about letters you were writing?" "No."

"Did you tell him about your letter to Kramer to arrange things for the cause?" "No."

Promises of new sensations at the Pearl Harbor hearing came from Rep. Murphy (D-Pa) today as he dug deeper into Capt. L. F. Safford's acknowledged campaign to clear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel.

Murphy, who decoded at yesterday's session a secret letter in which Safford wrote two years ago that no one in naval operations at Washington could be trusted, told reporters: "We have hardly got into this letter."

French Sovereignty Is Re-Established

Saigon, Indochina, Feb. 5 (AP) — Maj. Gen. Jacques Leclerc, French commander here, issued a special order of the day today heralding the complete restoration of peace and order in all of Cochinchina Province, and in Southern Annam Province.

Simultaneously a French spokesman announced that French sovereignty had been re-established fully in the remainder of Indochina south of the 15th Parallel—just approximately bisects Indochina—but that considerable opposition still was expected between the 15th and 16th Parallels, where Annamites have infiltrated from the Chinese occupation zone.

Generalissimo Hints He Will Quit After National Elections

Chungking, Feb. 5 (AP) — Chiang Kai-shek told a press conference today that informal discussions looking toward economic concessions to Russia by China are taking place.

The generalissimo also hinted that he might retire from active political life after a constitutional democracy is established.

Asked if he would be a candidate for president when elections are held under the projected new constitution, Chiang said "I have not thought of that. As far as I am concerned, as soon as the power of

Russians Prepare To Give New Evidence

Nuernberg, Germany, Feb. 5 (AP) — Russian prosecutors are preparing evidence for the international military tribunal which they say will substantiate Soviet's assertions that Gen. Draja Mihailovic, leader of the Chetniks and King Peter's Yugoslav war minister, actually was working with the Germans as early as 1941.

Mihailovic is a fugitive from the forces of Marshal Tito, premier of the newly established Yugoslav republic.

Informants close to the Russians said they would attempt to show the tribunal that Mihailovic used Allied arms and money to help the Germans and to crush authentic partisan movements.

These sources said the evidence included documents indicating that Peter's exiled government in London sanctioned the alleged duplicity

PRICE BOOST PREDICTED AS LAST RESORT

Statement Due Today Or Tomorrow On Price Policy; Strike Control Bill Still Under Debate

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP) — An administration decision that the nation can afford to pay some higher prices in return for industrial peace and all-out production appeared in the making today.

A high government official, who can not be identified further, predicted the White House will issue an announcement today or tomorrow, detailing changes in the present "hold-the-line" price policy.

Although the modification will be aimed primarily at settlement of the 15 day old steel strike, this official said, its terms also will apply to other major industries involved in wage disputes.

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP) — Last-ditch opponents renewed efforts in the House today to head off sweeping anti-strike legislation by offering less drastic substitute proposals, but their chances looked slim.

The far-reaching strike control bill sponsored by Rep. Case (R-SD) still commanded powerful bipartisan backing that was unshaken by all initial attempts to modify it.

Tests of strength in voting on minor amendments yesterday indicated that substitute proposals in the office would not get far.

First alternative plan to be disposed of was one by Rep. Adams (R-NH). It would authorize the President to name fact finding boards in labor disputes, but would not give them the subpoena power, asked by Mr. Truman.

It would also set up a federal arbitration board charged with responsibility for improving and speeding conciliation, mediation and arbitration processes.

House leaders continued to say privately that when action is completed, probably Wednesday, a measure closely similar to the Case plan will be approved.

Fourth Division Is Ordered Inactivated

Durham, Feb. 5 (AP) — Inactivation of the Fourth "Ivy" Infantry Division, now stationed at nearby Camp Butler, has been ordered in Washington.

Personnel remaining in the division after June 30 will be used to fill the Third and 16th Mechanized Cavalry Reconnaissance squadrons.

The Fourth, which saw nine or more months of fighting in France, Belgium and Germany, included three of the oldest infantry regiments in the army—the 12th, 8th and 22nd.

Coroner Says No Bond For Ewing

Elizabethtown, Feb. 5 (AP) — Ordered held without privilege of bond, Woodrow Ewing, 18, remained in the Bladen County jail today on charges of murder in connection with the death last Thursday of his wife and infant stepdaughter.

Coroner T. W. Young directed that Ewing be held for grand jury action after an inquest yesterday in which a coroner's jury found him responsible for the deaths of the mother and child.

The next meeting of the grand jury will be in conjunction with the March term of Superior Court for Bladen County.

Members of the double slaying were identified by Sheriff H. Manly Clark as Camille Louise Miller Ewing, 18, and her 14-months old daughter, Julia Ann.

The sheriff said Ewing was taken into custody Saturday for questioning in regard to the disappearance of Mrs. Ewing and the little girl. Clark said the youth confessed to the slayings after the bodies were exhumed from a crude and shallow grave in a wooded spot near his home, five miles from Elizabethtown.

Businessmen!

Tonight at 7:45 p. m. in the City Hall, there will be an important meeting of the community's businessmen for the purpose of discussing problems that are relevant to all.

Among the matters that will be brought up are: Calendar of holidays for the year, week-day closing hours for retailers, advertising resolutions and trade promotions.

All merchants will be given an opportunity to propose anything for the good of the community.

In a meeting for the purpose of determining the policies of Greenville's merchants for the coming year, it is necessary that all businesses be represented—and more than that, they should be represented by one who is empowered with the authority to vote on any questions that may arise.

Prosecution Probing Davenport's Accounts

New Bern Bank Cashier Gives Testimony On Davenport's Checking Account During Critical Period

A New Bern bank official today identified checks totaling more than $200,000 which the state contends as security against loans made to his "Big Apple" loan brokerage business within a few weeks late in 1944.

Davenport and five associates are being tried on conspiracy to defraud and fraud by false pretenses charges, at a special term of Pitt County superior court which opened here yesterday.

Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill, who is presiding over the special term, admitted the checks in evidence after Davenport's attorneys had objected on the grounds that the witness had not qualified himself to identify Davenport's signature.

T. C. Fitzgerald, cashier of the Branch Bank and Trust Company's New Bern branch, testified that the checks either bore Davenport's signature or one authorized by him. Many of the checks were signed "Roderick Davenport, by S. H. Powers."

All of the more than 100 checks introduced by Solicitor D. M. Clark were payable at the New Bern bank. Checks are expected to be introduced later which were payable at Greenville bank and others in eastern North Carolina.

Through the checks and itemized statements of Davenport's bank balance at the New Bern bank during the period in which the checks allegedly were issued, the state hopes to show that Davenport's business was not solvent.

Fitzgerald identified statements which he said showed the condition of Davenport's checking account during a period beginning late in July, 1944, through August 17. The Fitzgerald identified a letter written by Davenport which instructed the bank to refuse payment on all checks presented for payment after August 17, except those of his own checks.

In the same letter, Fitzgerald testified, Davenport instructed the bank to refer persons presenting checks for payment to his (Davenport's) office.

Solicitor Clark then presented checks in evidence bearing either Davenport's signature or one authorized by him which were written during the month of August, 1944, when, according to the bank statements, Davenport's account got down as low as 15 cents. Many of the checks were for sums ranging from $50 to $10,000, and some of them were issued after Davenport's account had been closed at the bank by his own request.

Solicitor Clark introduced as evidence a number of checks which had been protested after payment was refused at the bank. He also introduced several bank memoranda which represented charges of $50 cents for returning checks for which there was no payable account.

J. Faison Thompson, who heads Davenport's defense counsel, objected and took exception to each of the checks, arguing that since there were 16 employees of the bank during the period in question, the witness had not qualified himself to identify the signatures.

A Review Of Your Government In Action

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP) — Congressmen split their attention today among housing, warships for China, Pearl Harbor and presidential nominations. These were the results:

The House Banking Committee turned down an administration proposal to put price ceilings on old houses but retained in a bill a provision for price controls on new ones.

The House Naval Committee approved a bill to allow President Truman to transfer small naval vessels to China. If Congress approves in advance, the bill also would let him turn over battleships, cruisers and other larger craft. House and Senate still must pass the bill.

Navy Captain L. F. Safford, who campaigned to clear Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel of blame for the Pearl Harbor debacle, told Senate-House investigators today: "Admiral Kimmel did not know I was doing this."

Kimmel commanded the Pacific fleet when Japan struck Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

Senator Tobey (R-NH) declared that Edwin W. Pauley had "put his own pocketbook above the public interest" in opposing the filling of a government suit to obtain title to submerged oil lands. Pauley said he did not in any way try to hamper the bringing of the suit.

The Senate Naval Committee is considering the nomination of the California oil man and former Democratic National treasurer to be Undersecretary of the Navy.

The Senate Banking Committee agreed that a subcommittee should hold in secret session into the President's nomination of his naval aide, Commodore James K. Vardaman, to a 14-year term as a member of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

SHIP WRECKED IN FAR NORTH

Grounded Liner Breaks In Two Under Buffeting Winds And Waves

Ketchikan, Alaska, Feb. 5 (AP) — The grounded liner Yukon broke in two under the buffeting of gale and wave last night after 47 of the 496 persons aboard had been taken off by power boats operating from the Coast Guard cutter Onondaga.

The 47 were women and children. The Onondaga's brief message about the breaking of the vessel, which ran aground in Johnstone Bay while outward bound from Seaward to Seattle, carried no mention of loss of life.

But the little 165-foot craft, fighting a combination of 45-mile wind, 15-foot waves and icy Alaskan darkness, said the weather seemed to be moderating slightly and the wind was shifting to a more favorable quarter.

In toward the bleak Kenai Peninsula from Amnaw points of the compass surged other ships to aid the Onondaga, and the Army's great aircraft was to win in from the extended Aleutian chain to lend a hand. Gen. Delos Emmons at Anchorage ordered all B-1 Flying Fortress equipped with power rescue boats to join the life saving attempt.

The Onondaga's report said the after part of the Yukon floundered free into the smashing waves and was "rolling to starboard."

The forward part remained solidly aground. The message made a point of saying the salon deck was on the upright forward part.

The 390-foot steamer Yukon, built in Philadelphia in 1899, had been in the Alaska service for some 20 years. She went aground on Rocky Shore, 40 miles south of Seaward, Alaska, early yesterday. As soon as her distress calls were heard—about 6 a. m. (PST) (9 a. m. EST) yesterday—all craft in the vicinity were ordered to her aid. The Onondaga reached her shortly before 3 p. m. (PST) (6 p. m. EST).

Grim messages came from her captain, Christ P. Trondsen, who said at 1:45 p. m. the liner was breaking up and that her engine room and No. 3 hold were flooded.

Continuation Of Controls Urged

Atlantic City, Feb. 5 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Anderson added his support today to President Truman's plea that Congress continue war time food subsidies and price controls beyond their June 30 expiration date.

Anderson last fall advocated letting the subsidies expire. They had been costing the government more than $1,700,000,000 a year.

The cabinet officer outlined his new stand in a speech prepared for a meeting of the National Canners Association.

"We have in the department," Anderson said, "looked for ... ending of all price ceilings and subsidies this coming June because it appeared—from prospects last fall—that there might be small declines in the level of food prices and the whole cost of living."

Now, however, the secretary said, it appears that the department underestimated the tremendous demands for food, and the great buying power in the hands of workers and returning veterans, among others.

He added that the danger of inflation has become so great that he feels that it is necessary to maintain both price controls and subsidies.

Yamashita's Fate Up To MacArthur

Tokyo, Feb. 5 (AP) — The U. S. Supreme Court's rejection of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's death sentence appeal leaves final decision up to General MacArthur and confirms that the trial of war criminals definitely is a responsibility of the military.

Allied headquarters officers, reporting these conclusions today, declared that MacArthur has had the records of Yamashita's Manila trial for some days. There was no indication when he might act, and he has made no comment.

The Supreme Court held that the U. S. military trial commission proceeded legally in trying, convicting and sentencing Yamashita to the gallows for condoning wholesale war atrocities in the Philippines.

Dissenting from the six-man majority decision, Justices Rutledge and Murphy termed the trial unfair and contrary to American principles of justice.

ICKES FIGHTS STATES CLAIM

Urges Ownership Of Submerged Oil Lands By Federal Government

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP) — Secretary of Interior Ickes today advocated holding submerged coastal oil lands as a federal oil reserve.

He asked the Senate Judiciary Committee to reject House-passed legislation surrendering to the various states any federal claim to ownership of submerged lands within state boundaries.

"The submerged coastal lands are the greatest potential reserve oil which we have," Ickes said in a statement prepared for the committee. "It would be far better for the nation if the oil were under federal rather than state control."

The bill before the committee, he asserted, is one "which gives away to a few states extremely valuable oil which the United States claims, which makes it impossible to save this oil as a reserve for the vital needs of our national defense, and which ousts the Supreme Court of its jurisdiction."

War Dept. Grants New Inducements

A new opportunity for army veterans to reenlist and retain their former grades is offered by important changes in regulations announced by the War Department.

Lt. James B. Pagett, recruiting and induction officer, said today.

Previously, veterans had only 20 days from date of discharge to reenlist in the grade held at time of discharge. However, new regulations allow 90 days after the discharge date to reenlist in grade, provided enlistment is effected prior to July 1, 1946.

Men reenlisting in the army in 90 days after their discharge will receive the same reenlistment allowances as heretofore, but in order to be eligible for a reenlistment furlough, the veteran must reenlist in 20 days, as under the old regulations.

Family and dependency allotments are continued for the duration of their enlistments for all the veterans reenlisting before June 30, whether they reenlist for 18 months, two years, or three years. In order to have their choice of the branch of service and overseas theater, men must enlist for the three year period.

Elaborating on the general success of the recruiting program, Lt. Pagett stated that the majority of veterans are reenlisting for a three-year period in order to have their choice of assignment.

Tug Strike Faces Federal Action

New York, Feb. 5 (AP) — The Federal Government appeared today to take over operations of the tugboat system in New York's big harbor as a paralyzing strike tied up commercial shipping and deprived the city's millions of new shipments of food and fuel supplies.

Mayor William O'Dwyer's settlement program was rejected by the 3,500 striking AFL Tugboat Workers last night and they greeted all warnings of imminent federal seizure with cries of "Let Truman steer the tugs."

Capt. William Bradley, president of the United Marine Division of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, asserted the tugboat workers, who quit their jobs Monday morning in a dispute with operators over wages and hours, would refuse to work under federal control.

The NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP) — What effect will the Supreme Court decision on General Yamashita have on German and other Japanese war criminals?

Only an answer full of questions can be given. Nothing like this has ever happened before. And even the court's opinions raise questions.

A U. S. military tribunal found Yamashita guilty of war crimes and sentenced him to hang. Since the Philippines where he was tried is a U. S. possession, Yamashita appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

He said his trial violated the U. S. Constitution, that he should not have been tried on the charges against him. The majority of the court turned him down.

But Justices Murphy and Rutledge disagreed and in a minority opinion said Yamashita was not justly tried. They said:

He did not get the fair trial "our Constitution" and our laws command. "The Constitution follows the flag." They said further that that part of our Constitution guaranteeing a person a fair trial applies to:

"Any person who is accused of a crime by the federal government or any of its agencies. No exception is made as to those who are accused of war crimes or as to those who possess the status of an enemy belligerent."

Right now top Nazis are being tried at Nuernberg in Germany as war criminals and in Japan former Premier Tojo and other Japanese soon will be tried on the same kind of charges.

There's a difference between their trial and that of Yamashita, who went before a U. S. military tribunal. The Germans are being tried by an international tribunal of four judges, one each from the four powers occupying Germany—the U. S., Britain, France and Russia. If they're convicted, the Nazis can appeal to the Allied Control Council in Berlin, which is made up of the military chiefs from the same four occupying powers. Suppose that council upholds the verdict of the four-judge international tribunal. Could the German men appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court? Remember, they're being tried on German soil, not American, although Americans are occupying some of it. And they're being tried by an international court, not by a U. S. military tribunal like the one that convicted Yamashita. Harold Judson, assistant Solicitor General of the U. S., and the man who successfully presented the government's side in the Yamashita case, expresses no opinion on this point but he notes: Justice Murphy and Rutledge declared the U. S. Constitution follows the U. S. flag. Our flag and our forces are at Nuernberg. One (Continued on page four)

Paris, Feb. 5—You get an unhappy comparison between the hard times in war ravaged France and the relative well being of Spain if you make the journey from Madrid to Paris by train.

Mrs. Mack and I crossed the frontier from a Spain in which we had found—at a price—the finest food we had seen in Europe since America entered the war, to sit down in France to a potter's meal which was shockingly meager. I'm sure you won't take this as disparagement of La Belle France's hospitality, for she does the best she can from her Mother Hubbard's cupboard.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Strike
Representatives of the General Motors Corporation presented the issues involved in the UAW-CIO strike now in progress, at the Rotary Club meeting last night. The speaker declared that the strike went further than an issue over wages, which labor has played up. Quoting from UAW-CIO and related publications the speaker established the fact that socialism was the aim of the strike.

He cleared up at the outset that the settlement of the Ford and Chrysler strikes was not significant in so far as the real issue is concerned in the UAW-CIO strike against GM for according to quoted labor statements GM has been chosen for the real test, the other settled strikes having been arrived at for the purpose of cutting into the GM market.

The reasons GM objected to the fact-finding board idea were indicated—it would amount to political control of business. He stated that GM wanted to operate under the laws of the land but that labor wanted to go beyond the law. Collective bargaining has been eliminated by the stand of labor.

The GM representative exhorted the Rotarians that a real danger to the economic life of the U. S. existed and the time for action is now. He urged everyone to contact their senators and congressmen and let them know what the public is thinking.

The GM representatives were W. A. Fox, J. E. Berry and Jimmy Smith. They were presented by Walter L. Harrington, local Chevrolet dealer. The program was a presentation of the program committee of which Ben Bullard is chairman.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
Solving several modern architectural problems, this six-room house of wood presents its service and utilitarian side to the street while its garden facade opens up to exploit a tranquil view. Even the porch is closed on the street side for privacy.

Designed by L. Morgan Post, A. I. A., of 363 Ridge Road, Kenilworth, Ill., the dwelling was built at a cost of $7,200. Architect Post estimates that under current costs the project probably would approach $10,000. He recommends a minimum lot frontage of 60 feet for this plan. The room layout is especially versatile, planned to accommodate either a small or medium sized family. Two bedrooms are large enough for twin beds and the third is planned for a single bed. Closets are generous. Hall space has been kept to a minimum.

A distinctive feature of the plan is the articulation of the stairway, in a separate wing, eliminating the necessity of cutting a stairwell through the framing. The location of the stairs makes the upper floor accessible from kitchen, living room or front entrance without going through any other room. This arrangement also places the kitchen adjacent to the front entrance hall out of which opens a powder room lavatory.

Men's Clothing Slowly Returning To Markets
New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The men's clothing industry is gradually working itself out of one of the greatest shortages in history.

"More men will get more clothing from here on, but it will take at least 12 months to catch up with demand and rebuild inventories," the international statistical bureau predicted today.

Suits deliveries have picked up steadily since the beginning of 1946, industry sources agreed. They estimate present output at from 1,500,000 to more than 2,000,000 suits a month and expect to turn out about 28,000,000 this year; more than in any year before in history.

Normally it takes 21,000,000 suits annually to clothe the men of the nation. Currently the demand is estimated at twice that figure because of the needs of returning veterans, depleted inventories and increased purchasing power.

While demand has mounted progressively, production dropped off during the war from a record output of 24,000,000 suits in 1941 to about 14,000,000 in 1945.

Because of that, the statistical bureau's survey of the industry declared inventories were reduced by more than 7,500,000 suits before the start of 1945 and have been falling rapidly ever since.

"There are no more inventories in stores," one industry spokesman said. "Retailers are dependent on day to day deliveries, and in many cases are spoken for in advance and never get on to store racks."

Biggest factor in the current shortage, which has been felt since the middle of last year, was the freeze on civilian worsted production for the first seven months of 1945. The sudden ending of the war brought millions of veterans into the market for clothing when production was at its lowest.

Then, as worsteds began to come through again in quantity late in the year, manufacturers were held up by a scarcity of rayon lining material. Currently that situation has been improved through an incentive pricing program.

Two factors described by the industry as "aggravations" remain. Some suit makers are holding up shipment of all or part of their production in the hope of more favorable pricing in the next 30 days. At the same time distribution of materials is being slowed down while mills await clarification of current priority ratings.

Branch, director of the mouth health program of the State Health Department, is being shown at schools in Pitt County this week, through Friday. Dr. N. Troops Reduced On Schedule

Tokyo, Feb. 5.—(AP)—In less than the six months he had set, General MacArthur has made good his plan to cut United States occupation forces in Japan to 200,000 men.

There are only 203,817 American officers and enlisted men in Nippon today, and that includes the air force, headquarters figures indicate.

Since the surrender five months ago MacArthur has sent home under the discharge point system, 324,829 Pacific veterans from forces in Japan.

Sen. Hoey Leads Way In Filibuster

Washington, Feb. 5.—(AP)—"We will just keep on speaking," says Senator Clyde R. Hoey (D-NC) of the filibuster in the Senate against the fair employment practices committee, and he should know—he's the senator who started the Marathon talking contest.

His move to amend the Senate Journal of January 17 launched the filibuster. Of the Southern senators' present talkathon, he merely says "Pending before the Senate is my motion to amend the journal — tsbeneep"

It's been pending 14 days now. It's shown as pending business."

The Fourth Mrs. Baker

By Irvin Adams

Chapter 20
(Monday 10:15 p. m. to 11:07 p. m.)
When the Inspector and Julia arrived at her apartment shortly after ten o'clock, they found the place over-run. Jerry greeted her with open arms and spilled some liquor on her coat from the glass he carried. Frank's eyes were anxious and he gave her a sympathetic pat on the back before he introduced a new man, Howard Irving.
"He's Robey's lawyer, just come in from California," he explained hurriedly before other voices called out. Grace was still there, her vivid hair disheveled and her husky voice blurred.
"We thought you were interested by now," he said.
"No, just a captive." Virginia chimed in with an arch glance at the Inspector.
The Inspector's face was dark with anger.
"I'm sorry you were anxious about me," she began in a clear voice. "You've all been very kind." She finished with an intake of breath that was almost a sob.
"Poor child," said Jerry. "We'll all go and I'll come tomorrow and take you to the services."
She almost asked what services, when she realized he meant Robey's funeral. It seemed so long ago that Robey had died.
"Irving and I will be here early, my dear," Frank said. "We have to go over some things."
"You are such a help, Frank," she told him gratefully.
"If you're going to read the will I think I should be here," Grace spoke up.
Frank looked at Irving and the lawyer cleared his voice before he spoke. "There is no will."
The second Mrs. Baker turned on him, furiously unmindful of the watching group around her.
"What does that mean?"
"It means that nearly everything goes to the third Mrs. Baker, I believe. The insurance, which is the only really valuable part of the estate, was changed since Mr. Baker's last marriage," he said in a tone that indicated giving unpleasant news to Grace was not without its satisfaction.
Her eyes, black and glittering with fury, found Julia and she started toward her. "You—you murderer!"
She struggled blindly to free herself, mad with rage.
"You destroyed the will!" she shouted at Julia. Her face was grayish and the muscles in her jaws worked convulsively as she spat the words out. She swore at the two who held her and her oaths were expressive and forceful.
Jerry pulled Julia out of the room and pushed her into the blue leather chair in the library.
"She's doped. Forget it and have a drink." He poured her some brandy from a decanter on the glass cocktail table before the low white fireplace. The scene had sobered him.
"No, thank you," she said in a far away voice.
"We'll all be out of here soon and you can go to bed and get some sleep," Jerry consoled her. "Grace is a savage. If she did Robey in, God help her lawyer!"
There were sounds in the foyer and the outside door was opened and closed several times.
Virginia came into the library, her face drawn.
"I don't like Robey. Do you want me to stay tonight, Julia?"
"Of course you mustn't, Ginnie. You look tired."
Virginia stooped and pecked at her cheek.
"If Frank calls tell him I'm here in bed so he won't call me. I don't want to be disturbed. He went with Ike to take Grace home. Ugh, what a gal!"
"It was ghastly!" Julia shuddered. But her accusation had enough logic to make another count against the last Mrs. Baker.
"Partly acting, though, I'd say." Virginia's usual sang-froid began to assert itself. "Night! See you tomorrow if I'm still alive."
"Why did she want Frank to think she was here?" asked Jerry thoughtfully after she was gone.
"So she wouldn't be disturbed."
"Listen, honey, there are a dozen servants and a chaperone to keep her from being disturbed and when Uncle Dick is here, it's worse."
"Perhaps Frank expected her to stay with me," Julia offered. Then she remembered how Frank had insisted on taking her home the night before but she did not tell Jerry.
"Maybe. Shall I see if the coast is clear?"
"Please."
He left the door open and she heard Venable and the doctor in the foyer.
"I must see Mrs. Baker," the doctor was saying.
"Not unless she wants to see you," the Inspector answered. There was antagonism in their tones.
"Come in, Doctor," she called, instantly aroused by the Inspector's expressed authority, and he followed her voice, crossing the room and taking her hand from the arm of the chair.
"Can I do anything for you?" he asked kindly, almost possessively. Was he playing the same game of winning her confidence as the Inspector? Or was the tone to annoy the detective who could hear them from the foyer?
"I'm quite all right now, thank you."
"Will you have some one search the apartment before you go to bed? Some one could hide inside."
"It isn't necessary, I think. The police are supposed to keep track of every one's arrival and departure." She allowed an overtone of doubt to invade the statement.
The doctor bade her goodnight and Jerry called to her through the door before the two left the apartment together.
Inspector Venable, his face a mask, made his adieu after assuring her she was amply protected. She reflected that he probably thought there was no need for protection for her.
As soon as the house was emptied of guests she hurried through Robey's suite and straight to her dressing table. Her fingers shook as she stoppered from the perfume bottle and felt inside.
A bomb seemed to explode inside her head. The scrap of paper was gone!

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

The Declaration of Independence states that life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are among the inalienable rights of mankind. Although this concept of right arose out of the spiritually sterile philosophy of the eighteenth century, none would quarrel with its validity. But we might well ask whether given the right to happiness, is it worth while to pursue happiness? Is happiness a quality which can be gained by a conscious effort to acquire it?

Unfortunately not. With the lessons of human experience in our minds, we should have to tell Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the immortal preamble to the Declaration, that the prospect of pursuing happiness is enticing but futile. Happiness is a derived, not an absolute, quality. It can neither be bought, sold, bequeathed, granted, withheld, or gained. It appears and disappears in the lives of individuals independently of such things as wealth, poverty, sickness, health, power, weakness, liberty, or oppression. It is a will-o-the-wisp which touches us before we are aware of it and may be gone before we grasp it.

But this one thing we do know about it, Mr. Jefferson,—it comes to Christians and it stays with them. And furthermore, neither people nor adverse circumstances can take it away from those who really have it, no matter how strenuous the effort exerted.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

(Last of Four Articles)

Washington—As in the case of the fight on the Fair Employment Practice Commission bill, most recent filibusters have been conducted by Southern Senators, but it hasn't always been so.

The recognized "champion" filibuster of the present Senate is Sen. Theodore G. "The Man" Bilbo, a caustic, often comical speaker, whose lung-power, vocal cords and stubbornness in relinquishing the floor are in the best filibustering tradition.

Last summer, filibustering against the appropriation for the executive FEPC, Sen. Bilbo talked 12 1/2 hours at one stretch. Although this put him in the top brackets as a filibuster, it wasn't the record.

His record was topped by the late Sen. Huey Long, admittedly the greatest filibuster of the last 20 years. Three times Long conducted one-man filibusters and in June, 1935, talked 15 1/2 hours. But even Huey's "iron man" performance wasn't tops.

Sen. Robert M. "Old Bob" La Follette, father of Wisconsin's present senior senator, spoke 18 hours in 1908 for the all-time record.

Jim Preston, long time Senate librarian and superintendent of the Senate press gallery, considers the most remarkable performance of modern times that of the late Sen. Reed Smoot, Utah, who spoke for 12 hours and 10 minutes in 1915.

In spite of the shorter time, says Preston, Sen. Smoot stuck to his subject, never once leaned on his seat or took a cat-nap on his feet as Huey Long used to, and didn't have the benefit of one interruption or roll call.

It is when a small group of "wily" men, as Washington Wilson called them when a filibuster was being waged against his armed neutrality bill in 1917, band together to wage a talkathon against a measure that it really becomes a deadly instrument.

There seems to be no record of the longest filibusters conducted by a group, but certainly close to the top, if not there, is the one against the anti-lynching bill of January and February, 1938, which I have mentioned in a previous article. That one lasted 29 days.

The subjects covered in proposed legislation which have resulted in filibusters demonstrate that the practice is far from sectional. In addition to armed neutrality and the anti-lynching bills, filibusters have been waged against such diversified measures as the Versailles Treaty, in 1919; entrance into the World Court in 1927; against rivers and harbor bills; appropriations; establishment of a bureau of customs; prohibition; and ship purchases.

If The Moon Could Answer Those Signals

of our judges is trying the Nazis. Further, Murphy and Rutledge said our Constitution guarantees a fair trial to "any person accused of a crime by the federal government or any of its agencies."

So—would German lawyers appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court, perhaps basing their move on the Rutledge-Murphy reasoning? Remember, however, that those two men are a minority in the court's decision.

For that reason it might seem the majority of the court would refuse to hear an appeal from the Nazis. But that remains to be seen—when and if such an appeal is made.

If the Japanese are convicted—they'll be tried by an international court of eight judges, including one from the U. S.—they can appeal to General MacArthur. If he turned them down, would they appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court?

The appeal of the Germans or Japanese, of course, would have to be argued this way: That under our Constitution, which is not their constitution at all, they did not get a fair trial and our government took part in that trial.

This is all uncertain ground here. No one can say what will happen. All of this is new. There is no precedent in legal history for what is happening in these trials. The Yamashita verdict itself was a landmark in law.

to identify Davenport's signature. Thompson drew from Fitzgerald the statement that he did not know Davenport's signature except as it was on file in the bank records.

A jury was selected late yesterday to try the case. Just before the noon recess, Clark began placing a number of eastern North Carolina newspaper officials on the stand to identify advertisements carried in their publications over the signature of Davenport.

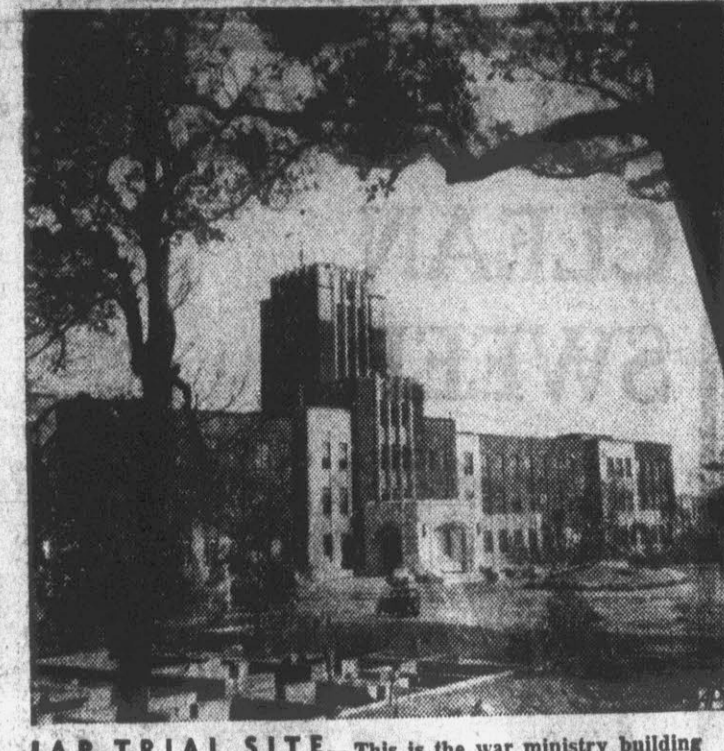

Taking the stand before the noon recess were John A. Park, publisher and editor of the Raleigh Times; and C. A. Eury, business manager of the New Bern Sun-Journal.

Through the text of the advertisements, the state will attempt to show that Davenport publicly claimed that his business was solvent and that he was operating legally. In the advertisements, Davenport urged that loans be deposited with his "Big Apple," promising to pay five per cent interest per week. Davenport then charged 10 per cent interest a week on loans made to persons requesting them.

Other newspaper officials here to testify include Mrs. Elizabeth Gold Swindell, of the Wilson Daily Times; Henry Bekk, managing editor of the Goldsboro News-Argus;

GERMAN FOOD HUNT—Germans rummage through a garbage dump in search of salvageable food at Nuernberg.

More Bodies Of Nazi Victims Are Found

Moscow, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A Polish press agency report said today that 190,000 bodies, including those of some American prisoners of war, had been found near the Silesian city of Landnowice (Landsdorf). The dispatch said the bodies were believed to be those of British, American, French Moroccan and Russian prisoners of war and a large number of Polish civilians.

U. S. military authorities expressed keen interest in the report because numerous Americans still are unaccounted for from German prison camps. The Americans are seeking further information on the report.

GREENIES TO PLAY TONIGHT

Farley's Five Favored Over Visiting Yellow Jackets

By DAVE CLARK
The Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets provide the competition for Coach Bo Farley's Phantoms tonight in the Greenville High gym for the Phantoms' seventh conference battle of the season. The game will get under way at 8 o'clock, with no preliminary bout being played.

The Greenies should be ready for the reputedly weak Jackets after a long scrimmage session yesterday, and shouldn't have too much trouble making up their ninth win in 11 starts this season. However, Coach Farley will present his best ball players in order to take no chances in spoiling a perfect record.

The Phantoms go to Washington on Friday of this week to meet probably their oldest sports rival, the Washington Pam Pack. The Pack is the only class B team to defeat the Phantoms in the last four years. They did the trick back in the dark days of '42 when Hubert Musselwhite, Syd Dunn and Co. represented the Greenville basketball fortunes.

Starters for the Phantoms will probably be as usual, Billy Harrington and Mac Batchelor at guards, Jimmy Futrell and Ed Williams at forwards, and J. T. Williams at center.

Bethel's "Jayvees" lost to Winterville's "Psyvees," to the tune of 29-35.

Four of the state's Southern Conference teams will see action—although only one conference game is involved—and three North State circuit games will be played tonight in a full evening of basketball for North Carolina fans.

North Carolina's high-riding White Phantoms will entertain a strong Greensboro Ord team at Chapel Hill. The Greensboro quintet topped the Carolinians, 64-63 early in the season for one of the Phantoms' two losses of the year.

Duke, only other team to throw North Carolina this year, will be host at Durham to Wake Forest, in a conference game which could cost the Dukes the circuit leadership—IF the Deacons should win.

Davidson, another member of the state's big five, will play Wofford at Spartanburg, S. C.

The three North State games on tonight's menu will toss Appalachian against Lenoir-Rhyne at Hickory, Guilford against the league-leading Catawba Indians at Salisbury and Western Carolina against High Point on the Panthers' home floor.

Other games include Camp Lejeune at Eastern Carolina.

Last night's only college game in the state witnessed the North State Conference victory of Western Carolina over Guilford, 30-20. In a service game, the Cherry Point Marines trimmed the Elizabeth City patrol plane base, 62-39.

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Holman Williams, the highly rated Detroit middleweight, made good on his advance notices here with an impressive knockout victory over Aaron (Tiger) Wade of Los Angeles. Williams was outweighted, 161 3-4 to 169 3-4.

Fights last night:
New York—Holman Williams, 161 3-4, Detroit, knocked out Aaron (Tiger) Wade, 169 3-4, Los Angeles, (4).

Macon, Ga., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Four South Carolina colleges are among 11 Southern schools expected to send delegates here Feb. 13 to discuss an intercollegiate athletic program which observers believe may be the forerunner of a collegiate athletic conference.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon, vice president of Mercer University said that Wofford, Newberry, Erskine and Presbyterian, all of South Carolina, Setson, Birmingham-Southern, Howard, Ochslepe, Mercer, Rollins and University of the South (Sewanee) had been invited.

Army Will Not Build Additional Housing

Tokyo, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The standing room only sign is out in this bulging, unrepaid capital.

Army authorities recently took over the last available foreign style hotel to accommodate the continuing waves of occupation officials.

Tokyo, with thousands of places bombed out, is still short of housing despite the fact that the population is out a third of the pre-war total.

RECOGNITION?

Bucharest, Feb. 5.—(AP)—An announcement read over the Bucharest radio from Premier Petru Groza's office at 11 a. m. today said written communications had been received from Britain and the U. S. that they were ready to recognize the Romanian Government.

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Polish press agency today quoted Michael Kaczowski, Polish reconstruction minister, as saying that his government had accepted a Russian offer to pay half the cost of Warsaw's reconstruction.

Truman And Cabinet Meet On Relief Plan

Washington, Feb. 5.—(AP)—President Truman met for an hour today with his cabinet at a session which an aide said was largely devoted to the critical need for wheat and other grains in liberated nations of Europe.

Agriculture Secretary Anderson arrived 10 minutes late, after a hurried trip from Atlantic City. The entire cabinet had lunch with the President.

Assistant Press Secretary Eben Ayers told reporters the cabinet discussed food for Europe among other things but said he didn't know what else was discussed.

Asked specifically about the steel strike and administration efforts to formulate a price for steel, Ayers said he could not say whether that subject was discussed.

The all-time high in births, the board pointed out, was 95,251 in 1943.

Six Thousand Planes In Europe Scrapped

Wiesbaden, Germany, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Six thousand planes which cost nearly a billion dollars are being scrapped by the U. S. army in Europe because they are considered militarily obsolete and have no peacetime use, officials at U. S. Airforce headquarters said today.

Among those being broken up are 427 B-17 Flying Fortresses and 36 B-24 Liberators—giant bombers that pulverized Hitler's defenses from long range.

There are also 1,150 P-47 Thunderbolt Fighters, 982 P-51 Mustang fighters, 180 P-38 Lightning fighters, 308 A-20 Havoc light bombers, 2,003 gliders and scores of miscellaneous craft.

Homma Called "Desk General" By Witness

Manila, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The propaganda section of the Japanese army considered Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma more of a desk general than a field commander, a top Nipponese censor testified at the general's war crimes trial today.

The witness was Teiji Ikeda. He said he supervised censorship and assignment of Japanese correspondents in the field.

Ikeda said Homma never inspected battlefields or personnel or the Bataan area even after the Japanese victory, "so far as I know."

The former commander of the Philippines probably will be called Tuesday in his own behalf, Lt. Robert Pelz of New York City, assistant defense attorney, said.

It will be the bland, well dressed general's first opportunity to answer to charges he was responsible for the Death March from Bataan, and for atrocities and neglect which the prosecution claims caused the death of approximately 67,000 Americans and Filipinos in 1942.

Births totalled 88,352, or a decrease of 4,054 from 1944; deaths were reported at 28,917, or 643 fewer than in the previous year.

Re-Trial Is Ordered In Case Of Objector

Washington, Feb. 5.—(AP)—By a 6-2 decision, the Supreme Court has ordered a new trial for Louis Dabney Smith of Columbia, S. C., who was convicted by a Federal Court in South Carolina on charges of refusing to report for induction into the armed services.

A Jehovah Witness, he had claimed exemption from military service on grounds that he was a minister of religion. However, his local draft board classified him 1-A and ordered him to report for induction and he refused.

After his conviction, he was sentenced to 1-2 years' imprisonment. The Supreme Court, majority held that he had been denied an opportunity to show that his local draft board had exceeded its jurisdiction.

Safford Letters...

ter yet. The genuine meat is yet to come.

The Pennsylvanian declined to be more specific, saying he wasn't going to tip off Safford in advance. But he did label as significant Safford's statement to the committee that in January of 1944 he was seeking "evidence" to support Kimmel instead, as Murphy put it, trying to find out "What actually happened?"

By reading the code letter and by questioning the 53 year old witness, Murphy brought out that on Jan. 21, 1944, Safford wrote Capt. (then commander) Alvin D. Kramer in the Pacific to do his best to convert Adm. William F. Ralsey to "the cause." The latter, Safford said, referred to his efforts to exonerate Kimmel who was removed from his command over the Pacific fleet shortly after Pearl Harbor.

New Surprise...

Britain were unfounded.

This was the first time that any of the five permanent members of the Council had sought to use the veto power given them at San Francisco after a long debate over whether the big nations should have such power.

The question in the present case was a technical one involving a clause in United Nations charter which says that nations must refrain from voting if they are a party to a dispute. A decision must be reached as to whether the Greek controversy technically constitutes a dispute between Britain and Russia.

Should the Security Council rule that the Greek affair is a dispute both Britain and Russia would be barred from voting and, therefore, neither could exercise the veto. If the issue is declared a situation both parties would be entitled to vote.

The charter provides that council decisions must have a majority of seven votes, including the five permanent members. Thus a negative vote or an abstention by either Britain or Russia would have the effect of a veto.
