

Indonesian Controversy May Be Shelved By UNO

Pressure for Adjournment May Hold Up Outcome of Debate; Bevin Opposes Sending Commission To Indonesia For Investigation; Russia Says "Full Scale" War Is Being Waged

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER London, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Possibility that the Indonesian dispute might be shelved pending the outcome of current negotiations in Batavia between Dutch and Indonesian representatives was expressed in some quarters today as the United Nations Security Council prepared to resume debate on Russian charges that "war is being waged" in Java.

Officials were cautious about commenting on the final outcome of the controversy, which was marked by a new round of acrimonious debate between Soviet Vice Foreign Commissar Andrei Vishinsky and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin yesterday.

Some suggested privately, however, that the council might decide to await the Indonesian reply to a new Dutch proposal for an Indonesian commonwealth, made public in Batavia, before taking action on Vishinsky's demand that a five-power investigation commission be sent to the Netherlands East Indies.

Meanwhile, UNO committees plunged away at a mass of questions which necessitated a three-hour session of the General Assembly.

Pressure for adjournment was heavier than ever, but some members of the United States delegation expressed doubt that the final session could be held before Wednesday night or Thursday, despite efforts of leaders to wind things up by Tuesday night.

Vishinsky's proposal to send a commission to Indonesia was opposed by Bevin, who said it would "cast a slur upon the conduct of British troops."

Dutch Foreign Minister Eelco Van Kleffens declared Vishinsky's claim was unfounded and said that while the Dutch were willing to have a commission investigate British military action they could not approve its delving into Indonesian internal affairs.

Vishinsky asserted that only Britain and the Netherlands had first-hand knowledge of the Indonesian situation and "if this inequality is what you want then you can say it is the end of the United Nations."

He argued that war was being fought against the Indonesians and added that this "may light a spark" (Continued on page six)

Small Tornado Does Damage to Buildings

A small tornado, apparently coming from nowhere, struck near the intersection of the Stokes-Bethel highway late yesterday afternoon. The storm cut a narrow swath of destruction among the trees and farms of the area. Large branches were torn from trees near the road and a number of farm buildings were damaged.

The heaviest property loss was suffered by the G. O. Britt residence, where the force of the winds blew down a heavy chimney, causing extensive damage to the roof. Nearby farm buildings were also affected; the capricious winds tearing off the roofs of some and overturning others. No casualties were reported.

Housing Program Nears Price Ceiling Accord

House Banking Committee Heads Plan To Seek Agreement On Controversial Price Ceiling For Existing Houses

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A backstage powwow on President Truman's mammoth homes-for-veterans program held promise today of a compromise that might win speedy approval.

Members of the House Banking Committee indicated they might tear up the emergency bill they approved last week and write another closer to lines of the White House proposal which fixed a two-year goal of 2,000,000 new homes—most of them to cost $6,000 or less.

Banking Chairman Spence (D-Ky) and Rep. Wolcott (Mich) ranking Republican, planned to meet during the day to see whether an agreement could be reached on a non-controversial bill.

Speaking for committee Republicans, Wolcott told reporters: "We are not very far apart. There is no reason why we (Democrats and Republicans) should not get together."

He objected only to one proposal in the President's request for legislation. This calls for price ceilings on 40,000,000 existing houses.

"That issue can wait until we take up the OPA continuation bill," Wolcott said. The bill approved by the committee last week was introduced by Rep. Patman (D-Tex.), but before the committee got through with it, Patman commented that "its teeth are pulled."

The committee deleted all reference to price ceilings for existing

YALTA PLEDGE GAVE KURILES TO RUSSIANS

Secretary Byrnes States It Is Last Of War-Time Hidden Agreements Of Its Kind

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Russia clamped three conditions, including outright Soviet possession of the Kurile Islands, on its agreement at Yalta one year ago today to enter the Pacific war.

The conditional aspect of Generalissimo Stalin's pledge to fight Japan was disclosed when the text of the long secret Big Three pact on the Far East was made public today in Washington, London and Moscow.

Secretary of State Byrnes reportedly has insisted it is the last of the wartime arrangements of its kind withheld from publication. Yalta secrets previously bared promised Russia Anglo-American support for the big power veto in the United Nations Security Council and for separate memberships for Byelo-Russia and the Soviet Ukraine.

Under the agreement made public today, Russia was to join the Far Eastern fight "in two or three months after Germany has surrendered." This appeared to spike finally earlier speculation that the dropping of the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima August 6 prompted Russia to advance the date of its war declaration.

Germany quit May 7 and Russia declared war on Japan August 8. The reference to the Kuriles in the Yalta pact was blunt: "The Kurile Islands shall be handed over to the Soviet Union."

The other two conditions for Russia's war against Japan, agreed to by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, were:

- 1. The status of the Mongolian people's republic in Outer Mongolia should remain unchanged.
2. Rights held by Russia prior to the treacherous attack of Japan in 1904 should be restored. These, the pact said, were:

Army Recruits Poles To Replace Our Men

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A responsible government official said today Gen. Joseph T. McNarney plans to recruit several thousand more Polish civilians to help solve the U. S. Army's manpower problem in Germany.

Although the War Department directed the commander of American occupation forces to dismiss more than 700 Army-employed Yugoslav refugees because of complaints of political activity, McNarney has been authorized to hire additional Poles, this official said.

Approximately 23,000 Poles wearing the principal items of the U. S. Army uniform, now are employed in the American zone as armed guards and in other capacities. The exact number more to be hired was not disclosed.

TODAY IN CONGRESS A Review Of Your Government In Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Senate Labor Committee completed hearings today on fact-finding legislation asked by President Truman, but postponed action until witnesses are heard on the case bill passed by the House.

The committee has held lengthy hearings on the administration bill to set up fact-finding boards cloaked with subpoena power when strikes threaten in major ways. A 30-day period during which strikes would be prohibited would be provided.

The same type of legislation was introduced in the House but was sidetracked in favor of the more stringent Case bill.

The special Pearl Harbor investigating committee heard from Navy Capt. A. D. Kramer testimony that a civilian woman in the Navy Department translated on Dec. 6, 1941 a Japanese spy's message setting up code signals to report U. S. fleet movements at Pearl Harbor. Kramer said he did not recall seeing the message until Dec. 8, but that if he had seen it on Dec. 6 he would have considered it important.

The Senate was rid for the first time since January 17 of its strangling FEPC filibuster, but wary members were given until Wednesday to pick up the legislative threads that became tangled during their long talkfest.

The House went through the formality of scheduling a session, but there was no pressing business on its calendar.

A for major committees, only two were on tap. The Pearl Harbor investigation drowned into its 13th and perhaps final week. And the Senate Labor Committee called more witnesses on various strike control proposals.

No Elaboration Given As To Whether Or Not Personnel Changes Are In Line With Soon-To-Be-Announced Wage-Price Formula; Bowles' Position Said To Be Strong

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The White House said officially for the first time today that changes are in prospect in top administration personnel and indicated announcement of a formula for settling the steel strike was imminent.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told a news conference, in reply to questions, that personnel changes "are in prospect," but he declined to elaborate.

Asked whether they had to do with the stabilization high command, he left it for reporters to use their own phraseology.

At the same time, Ross said: "When and if a steel settlement is announced, there will be a full explanation of all the mathematical entering into it."

At one point, Ross indicated that a series of developments might be wrapped up into one package.

Reporters got the impression he meant that there was a possibility of one statement covering personnel changes, a steel settlement and a price-wage formula. However, Ross did not clear up this point.

Ross said the announcement may come from the White House. As to whether there would be a formal announcement today, Ross said he did not know but he repeated that changes in personnel are in prospect.

Asked about a possibility that John G. Collett will retire as economic stabilizer and be succeeded by OPA Administrator Chester W. Bowles with broadened authority over pricing, Ross said simply that there was nothing official yet on any personnel changes.

"Any possibility of action on that today?" a reporter asked. He replied in the affirmative. "On personnel changes?" a reporter asked. Ross said yes. Persons familiar with White House strategy said today a strike-ending steel price boost is another announcement.

With it, they said, will come a new wage-price policy placing Chester Bowles firmly in the driver's seat.

One of these persons—none could be identified by name—said that barring unexpected delays, U. S. Steel Corporation was to have received notice of the new price last night. He added his belief that it would be high enough to permit early settlement of the CIO's nationwide steel strike on the basis of (Continued on Page Six)

Wilson Boyles Tells Court He Was Asked Not To Testify In Case; Offer Was Made By Telephone, Caller Unknown

Wilson Boyles, one of four remaining co-defendants being tried with Roderick Davenport, former New Bern produce dealer, on charges of fraud and false pretense at a special session of Superior Court here, testified today he received an offer of $5,000 not to testify in the case.

He said the offer was made to him by telephone from New Bern while he was at his home in Winston-Salem and after he had been released from jail here following his indictment by the Pitt County jury. He said the caller was not Davenport.

Boyles pleaded, nolo contendere last Friday and immediately turned State's evidence to tell of his connections with the "Big Apple" loans business which had branches throughout Eastern North Carolina. All of the indictments grew out of the loans business.

Remaining as defendants are Davenport, J. R. Hunning of Greenville, and Johnny Heath and Mrs. Sadie H. Powers of New Bern. Hal Whorton, another of the original defendants, was given a nolo pro with leave last Friday and turned State's evidence against Davenport.

Another highlight of this morning's session, which opened the second full week of the trial, was the testimony of Jesse A. Jones, prominent Kinston attorney who said he refused to represent the organization after hearing details of its operation.

Jones, who helped Solicitor D. M. Clark prosecute the recent Meadows case, said he talked in his Kinston office with two women representatives of the "Big Apple" while Davenport was in jail here. He said the women told him Davenport could survive the "run" on his business if he could get out of jail and open offices at Smithfield and Wilson. Deposits taken in there could be used to pay off obligations in New Bern and Kinston, Jones said the women told him. (Continued on Page Six)

Russians Anticipate 100 Million Ballots

Schedule Of Federal Tax Deputies Given

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A rift between congressional and National Committee Democrats appeared to be developing today over President Truman's controversial nomination of Edwin W. Pauley as Undersecretary of the Navy.

Administration supporters on Capitol Hill complained in private conversations with reporters that they had not been consulted about Mr. Truman's final decision to submit Pauley's name. (Continued on Page Six)

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—(AP)—More than 100,000,000 ballots were estimated to have been cast yesterday in Russia's first general election since 1937 as Russian citizens voted for deputies to the Supreme Soviet (parliament).

There was but one political party participating—the Communists, sole legal party in Russia. There was but one issue—continuation of leadership by the Communist party and Generalissimo Stalin. And there was only one candidate for each position.

The only choice open to the individual voter was whether to drop his folded ballot in the ballot box or to mark it, which meant that he voted for the candidate whose name was printed on it, or mark off the name of the candidate, indicating a negative vote.

The NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Do not expect a sudden flood of homes as a result of the government's new housing program.

It's a bold plan, but still only a plan. Much has to be done to reach the goal proposed by Wilson W. Wyatt, the President's housing expediter.

It's a program depending upon a number of things, all tied in together. Most of them still need doing. For example: The government will have to put up at least $850,000,000 to get the program rolling.

But the money can't be spent until Congress approves. A delay in Congress—say three months—will put a big dent in the program. The main aim is to get houses built which cost not more than $6,000 or rent for no more than $50 a month.

Schedule Of Federal Tax Deputies Given

Deputies of the Federal Department of Internal Revenue will be available for assistance in the preparation of income tax reports in localities on the dates scheduled below:

February 18—J. M. Whitford at Fountain City, N.C.; February 19 and 20—H. H. Duncan at Bethel City, N.C.; Feb. 19, 20 and 21—J. M. Whitford at Farmville City, N.C.; Feb. 20 and 21—H. H. Duncan at Ayden Post Office; and Feb. 25 through March 15—J. M. Whitford and H. H. Duncan in Greenville.

The WORLD TODAY An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP World Traveler

BRUSSELS, Feb. 11.—(AP)—This column has reported that Belgium is one of the earliest among the liberated countries to show marked signs of economic recovery and now we can give you the secret of this success.

It is that the morale of the Belgian people—the will to conquer their difficulties—is high, and they are hard workers.

Of course, morale and hard work cannot pull rabbits out of hats or create raw materials for industry. But the more you study this problem at close range the more apparent it becomes that high morale and the willingness to sweat must be the basic factors of Europe's recovery.

So we find the Belgians getting ahead with the job because they are working instead of spending their time talking about the good old times or the Utopian future. They are dealing with the bread and butter present, recognizing that there is no political substitute for sweat.

This is not to say that there are not other countries which are in good spirit and are eager to work for there are. But there are folk who have lost the will to help themselves. You see signs of the Belgian determination everywhere. Mrs. Mack and I encountered one especially interesting exemplification of this spirit in the little city of Bastogne. You will recall that this was the place where Uncle Sam's Maj. Gen. Anthony McAuliff (then Brig. Gen.) flung his historic defiance of "nuts" to the German commander who called on him to surrender the American 101st Airborne Division, that had been surrounded by Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's forces in the battle of the bulge.

Well, the people of Bastogne have in effect adopted "Nuts" as their slogan in battling with the disaster which left large sections of their city looking as though a tornado had hit it.

Still Bastogne says "Nuts" and continues to carry on with vigor. Its spirit has not been broken. What is going on there is being duplicated in other war damaged areas. The whole country is turning to with a will to repair the physical and economic ravages of the Hitlerites.

Actually you do not hear a great deal of talk about the war. Belgium is interested in getting ahead with the peace. However, there is one war item which remains hot, and that is the fate of Leon Degrelle, the Belgian Rexist leader who is now a refugee in Spain. The (Continued on Page Six)

Pickets Arrested In Transit Strike

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 11.—(AP)—At least 10 men, including six policemen, were injured when 50 policemen broke through a 125-man picket line at the car barn of the Conestoga Transportation Company today.

Sixteen of the company's 110 buses and trolleys were placed in service. The 220 AFL workers of the company struck last Wednesday in support of demands for a 20 per cent wage boost.

Police Commissioner Albert Carlson said disorderly conduct charges were filed against three pickets, all of whom were hurt in the tussle. Six policemen were slightly injured. None required hospitalization.

Carlson said he was doing everything possible to preserve law and order. "We're not taking sides in this dispute, but it is our sworn duty to maintain law and order," Carlson declared.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
February 11, 1906
It continues to rain.
This kind of weather is a breeder for pneumonia.
Mrs. N. S. Fullord, of Washington who has been visiting relatives here, returned home Sunday morning.

The formal opening of the Jamestown Exposition has been set for April 26, 1907. It was on April 26, 1897 that the English settlers in the London Company first debarked at Cape Henry, Va.

Vojac, stationed at the Cherry Point Marine Base, guilty of being drunk and disorderly and using vulgar and profane language in Eli Bloom's dress shop Saturday. His Honor fined the Marine $50 and costs and gave him a solemn lecture, expressing regret that Vojac should spend part of his leave of absence from duty to attend his mother's funeral in Chicago by using insulting language in a public place in the presence of women here in Greenville.

It was testified that Vojac went into Bloom's store under the influence of liquor and insisted that one of the women clerks try on a dress for him. Bloom testified that when he explained that that was against store rules, Vojac "cussed" him and the women in the store.

Winslow Praised By Farm Bureau

J. E. WINSLOW

Members of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation in meeting at Winston-Salem last week praised the leadership of J. E. Winslow, of this city, during his 10 years as president of the organization and urged that he be named President-Emeritus of the organization for life.

The delegates present unanimously adopted the following resolution:

1. That we have learned with regret and sorrow that President J. E. Winslow has requested that his name be not considered for reelection as President.

2. That he was the leader of the small group of farmers who organized in the City of Greenville this Farm Bureau Federation in 1936 and was elected its first president.

3. That during the past 10 years, as an evidence of his successful leadership and of the confidence and esteem in which he was held, he has been annually re-elected unanimously.

4. That during his administration the membership of this organization has increased from a mere handful of despondent, well nigh bankrupt, voiceless farmers to a membership of forty-thousand hopeful, prosperous farmers with a voice that can be heard and heeded in the legislative halls of state and nation for the protection of the rights and the advancement of the interests of agriculture and the improvement of rural living conditions.

5. That we express to retiring President J. E. Winslow our love and our grateful appreciation for his courageous, wise, successful leadership; for his sacrificial service in time and money and strength during these trying years.

6. That as a further expression and continuing memorial of our love and appreciation, we recommend that he be elected Emeritus President for life.

Boy Scouts Meet For Celebration
Boy Scouts from Greenville and Bethel joined in a Scout Fun-O-Rec celebration of Scout Week and the 36th Anniversary of Scouting on Saturday night at the high school auditorium. The night's activities were opened with all scouts repeating the Scout Oath led by Billy Goodson of Troop 30. The scouts sang "God Bless America" and "We're On the Upward Trail" led by Chairman John Fleming who directed the program, assisted by Sherman Parks and Scout Executive H. B. Mayo.

The fun really got under way when patrols competed in a Paul Revere relay. In rapid succession a Bowline Knot, Tying contest and a Scout Law Relay kept things moving. A short songfest gave the scouts a chance to get back their wind before going into the remainder of the program. A Cracker Eating contest, O Grady drill, and the Paw Paw song rounded out the action games for the night.

Chairman Fleming reminded scouts of the Scout Sunday service for Feb. 10 at the Immanuel Baptist Church and the Board of Review at the Methodist Church for Feb. 11. He announced Patrol winners for the contests as follows: first, Panther Patrol Troop 36; second, Fox Patrol Troop 36, and third, Tiger Patrol Troop 33.

Chairman Fleming highly praised the window displays placed in local store windows for Scout Week by the troops and awarded prizes for the best window as follows: first prize, Troop 30; second prize, Troop 33; third prize, Troop 36.

Sherman Parks, district chairman of Camping and Activities, had charge of the collection of clothing and equipment for scouts in war devastated areas in the Shirts Off Our Back campaign and reported a splendid response on the part of scouts who attended the Fun-O-Rec. He urged scouts who were absent to bring their contributions to their troop meetings during the coming week.

Assisting as judges in the games and contests were the following: scouts: Rev. Robert Bradshaw, Rev. L. D. Holt of Bethel, E. R. Conway, B. B. Drum, H. B. Tripp, Wyatt Brown, T. Cartwright, and Dick Forrest. The program was concluded with the singing of taps and the serving of refreshments of Pepsi Colas and cakes.

"When hotel clerks said, 'No room,' the travelers casually mentioned the 50 pounds of butter they had brought with them, adding 'We might spare a bit'."

The Minneapolis reported butter was the "open sesame" in every hotel visited.

—that prior to the activities of the North Carolina Association for Wine Control, the North Carolina market was flooded with deleterious, synthetic, and substandard wines?

—that today nothing you can buy is more carefully protected by law as to its purity and quality, than wine—sold in North Carolina?

—that all Wine sold in North Carolina must meet the highest of standards set by the State ABC Board?

—that the Wine Industry through the North Carolina Association for Wine Control is continuing its activities voluntarily, to aid in the strict enforcement of all State regulations and laws regarding the sale of wine?

Public cooperation is requested in the observance of State and local laws and regulations designed to control the use of wine as a wholesome, healthful beverage of temperance and moderation.

Chapter 24
(Tuesday 5:58 a. m. to 6:45 a. m.)
She didn't know whether she had slept or not before she was disturbed again. Shadowy dreams and elusive thoughts were blended together imperceptibly. She was at the door in a moment.

"It's Detective Horowitz, ma'am. You're to dress right away and come with me. Inspector's orders."
"All right," she assented and glanced at the clock on the night table. It was six o'clock. Events had taken on a nightmarish quality.

Shoes and stockings. Where were they. Her mind didn't seem to work. What had happened now? Oh, God, did this mean the end? Did it mean arrest? Then it all seemed quite clear to her. Alma—poor dazed Alma—had said something that made the Inspector believe he had sufficient evidence to arrest her.

She stood in her slip and surveyed the rack of dresses. Will they send more clothes in jail? Some queer practical turn made her choose a cheer black woolen dress, simply made, in case she had to wear it a long time. The very fact of choosing it for that reason calmed her somewhat. Her fingers moved efficiently to dust powder over her face and smooth red paste on her lips. She didn't comb her hair—it took so long since she had worn her hair up on her head—but she checked her purse for a comb. I'll have plenty of time in the Bastille. It was astounding how one could accept incredible situations and go on doing perfectly ordinary things. She chose a black hat with a sash that fell to her shoulders in the back and covered her hair. Then a loose black, suede coat—gloves—purse—

She looked into the mirrored door to the dressing room.
"Don't be a coward," she commanded her reflection.

Horowitz was waiting at the door. Two uniformed officers were in the room and said to them, "You'll find food in the ice box and Cook will be here soon to make coffee."

"Thank you, ma'am," said one and they both looked at her solemnly as if they knew she wouldn't be back.

Horowitz took her arm outside the apartment house and guided her to a police car. Whatever hope she had had evaporated when she got in and the detective followed her. She did not even ask where they were going. She already knew the answer.

The young officer who was driving turned the car into the park. This couldn't be the way to headquarters! She stole a glance at Horowitz. He was peering intently ahead.

It was a gray, murky dawn. The air was cool and damp and a fog hung over the park. She thought fleetingly that it would be nice to walk through the park in the early morning. She had never done it before.

Abruptly the car halted and there were some people standing around watching over by blue uniformed figures. Horowitz got out and helped her alight.

Dread so deep and black that it held her nerves paralyzed grew and spread within her. Unconsciously she lifted her chin and put her arm through the detective's before he had grasped hers. Together they went across to pavement and ascended a narrow stone path. The man went first and she tread after him.

"It's on p there," he directed Horowitz.

It was like walking slowly into doom.

The detective was puffing a bit when they reached a rocky ledge.

Several men were standing there and she recognized Inspector Venet's among them. He came forward when he saw them.

"I wanted you for identification before the body was moved," he said.

A man with a camera pushed by them and went on down the path.

"Who is it?" breathed Julia. She could taste horror in her mouth and she smelled it in the thick damp air of the fog.

"Moore, I think." His eyes found Horowitz. "You should have prepared her," he told him and Julia was somehow strengthened by the anger in his voice.

"You can't give orders, Inspector."

The men on the ledge stood aside and waited for her to come on. But her feet were glued to the rocky path. Only when the Inspector took her arm in an urgent grasp could she move.

The thing that lay huddled before her was only a dark mass against a large rock higher than the men who stood by it. Then her eyes focused on a bald head. It was perfectly hairless and there was an ugly darkish dent in the back although the skin was not broken. She thought she screamed but only a gurgle sounded in her throat. The Inspector's hand tightened on her arm.

The corpse wasn't Moore, of course. Moore had lots of hair—lots of hair—lots of—

She pulled herself back from that brink of hysteria. She filled her lungs with the damp air and tensed her muscles.

"It isn't Moore."

The sound of her own voice was strange and her eyes swept those men before her to see if they thought it queer also. They looked like ominous priests at a ceremony where a human sacrifice had been offered.

"If you look more closely I believe you'll agree with me that it is. The men found him when they were looking for Miss Pratt and I noted the resemblance instantly," the Inspector said steadily. "Turn the head around father, Riley, so she can see the features better."

A man stooped and moved the head so the face was toward Julia. He snapped a flashlight and revealed small features in a large flabby face.

An exclamation escaped her.
"It looks like—no, I can't—I don't know. How could it be Moore?"

Chapter 25
(Tuesday 6:45 a. m. to 7:48 a. m.)
But it was Moore, a more slender

SCOUTING FOR ALL BOYS

Specialized phases of the Boy Scout Program have been developed for boys on three age levels. Cub Scouting is designed for boys 9, 10 and 11. Scouting in the Troop is for boys 12 to 15 and older. The Senior Scout Program, which includes Sea Scouts, Explorers and Air Scouts, is designed for boys and young men 15 and older. Since 1919 more than 12,500,000 boys and men have been members of the Boy Scouts of America.

In a message to the Boy Scouts of America on their 36th anniversary, being observed nationally during Boy Scout Week, February 8th to 14th, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations, commends "the program established by the Boy Scouts" which he said, "tends to promote better relations and enlightenment between the youth, and therefore the peoples, of all nations."

The theme of Boy Scout Week this year is "Scouts of the World—Building Together," and throughout the year the nearly two million members of the Boy Scouts of America will help Scout Associations overseas rebuild their organizations. Financial aid and the shipment of Scout literature and other equipment is made possible by the Scouts' own World Friendship Fund of voluntary contributions from its members. In addition, during Boy Scout Week and throughout February, Boy Scouts through their "Shirts of Our Backs" campaign are collecting serviceable Scout uniforms and camping gear from active members and former Scouts for shipment overseas.

Admiral Nimitz's message follows: "It is a pleasure to greet you, the Boy Scout of America, on the occasion of your 36th anniversary. Since 1910, your organization has contributed significantly to the welfare and well-being of the young men of this country. The preservation of America and its way of life through four difficult years of World War II was due in part to men who received benefit in youth from the Boy Scouts."

"Today throughout the world we are faced with the problems of peace. Cooperation and understanding between the peoples of all nations are necessary to insure an enduring peace and the program established by the Boy Scouts tends to promote better relations and enlightenment between the youth, and therefore the peoples, of all nations."

"You of today will be the leaders of the world tomorrow. The outdoor activities, the opportunities for community service, and the participation in world-friendship movements offered by the Boy Scouts provide a sound basis for training and developing the youth of America to be individually of sound body and mind, and to be collectively the leaders of this country and the world in the future."

"For the future we must build together, and I am sure that every Boy Scout will be a builder for his country and for the peace and happiness of the world."

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

"Tied to the outdoors" is the architect's description of this modified modern style of dwelling designed by Thomas, Greiner and Thomas of Seattle, Wash., for a sloping lot commanding a view. Selected by The American Builder for its exploitation of setting, the dwelling features large picture windows.

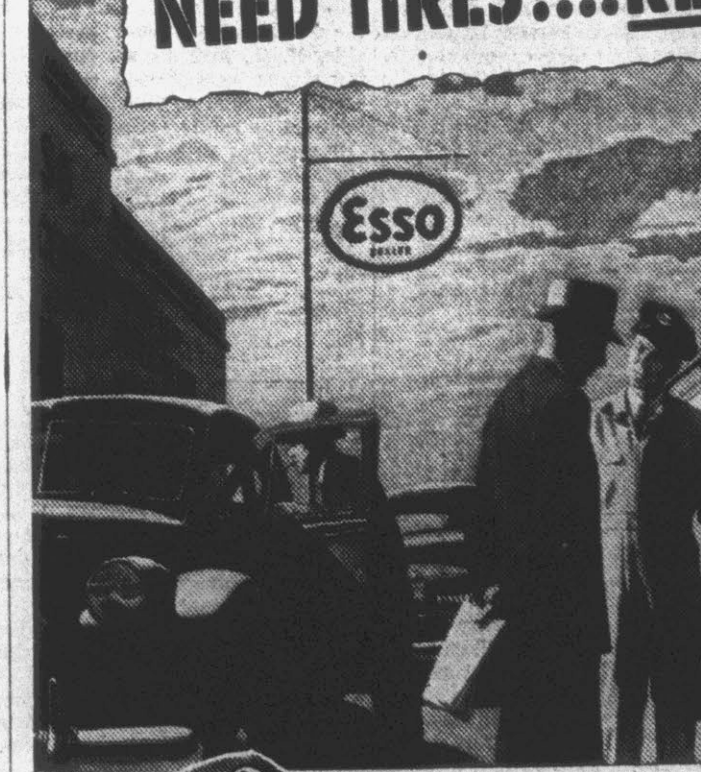

A basement playroom is virtually enclosed in picture windows and sliding doors. Also on the basement level is a guest room and adjoining bath. Two other bedrooms and bath are on the main floor.

Although only 57x56.6 feet, the house requires a large plot because of its design for a slope.

The cost is estimated between $10,000 and $15,000 depending on the number of built-in features and the location.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

RIGHT OF WAY

The streets were busy yesterday and driving considerable of a trial. As I drove down the main street I got into a traffic jam. I could see a burly traffic policeman, his arms extended, holding back a long line of east- and west-bound automobiles.

And rightly so, for something important was happening. First, a little girl about seven years old who was all bundled up for cold weather skipped across the street. Then three boys in their early teens, showing each other and wisecracking, walked by the policeman. The young line of automobile traffic was being held up before a public school while boys and girls of all ages got safely from one side of the street to the other. The children were having the right of way, and certainly, reasoned everyone, they deserved to have it.

The children always deserve to have the right of way. This does not mean that they have the right to misbehave and grow up selfish pigs, but it does mean they have the right to be accorded all the fundamental securities and opportunities from which the satisfactory life stems.

State and Church need to learn that children have the right of way. But parents need to learn it even more. The children and the deepest issues of their lives come first. If unrelenting parents would realize this, there would be fewer divorces.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STENNETT

Washington — Strikes cost the companies money. In most instances they cost the public, the consumers, considerable deprivation, if not money. But the man who really pays for the strikes while they're in progress is the striker.

There is a rather general misconception that the unions pay the strikers while they are making their no-work demonstration. Except in the cases of a few comparatively small old-line unions that have built up tremendous strike funds, out of which they can pay the strikers a meager $10 to $15 a week, this isn't so.

All unions have strike funds. In some instances these run into millions of dollars. But unless the local union welfare committee determines that the striker is desperately in need of help, neither he nor his family gets any financial aid.

What happens then to a striker? He draws on his savings. He gets credit. If the strike drags out, he goes on the soup line, provided either by his union or by the local chapters of welfare organizations.

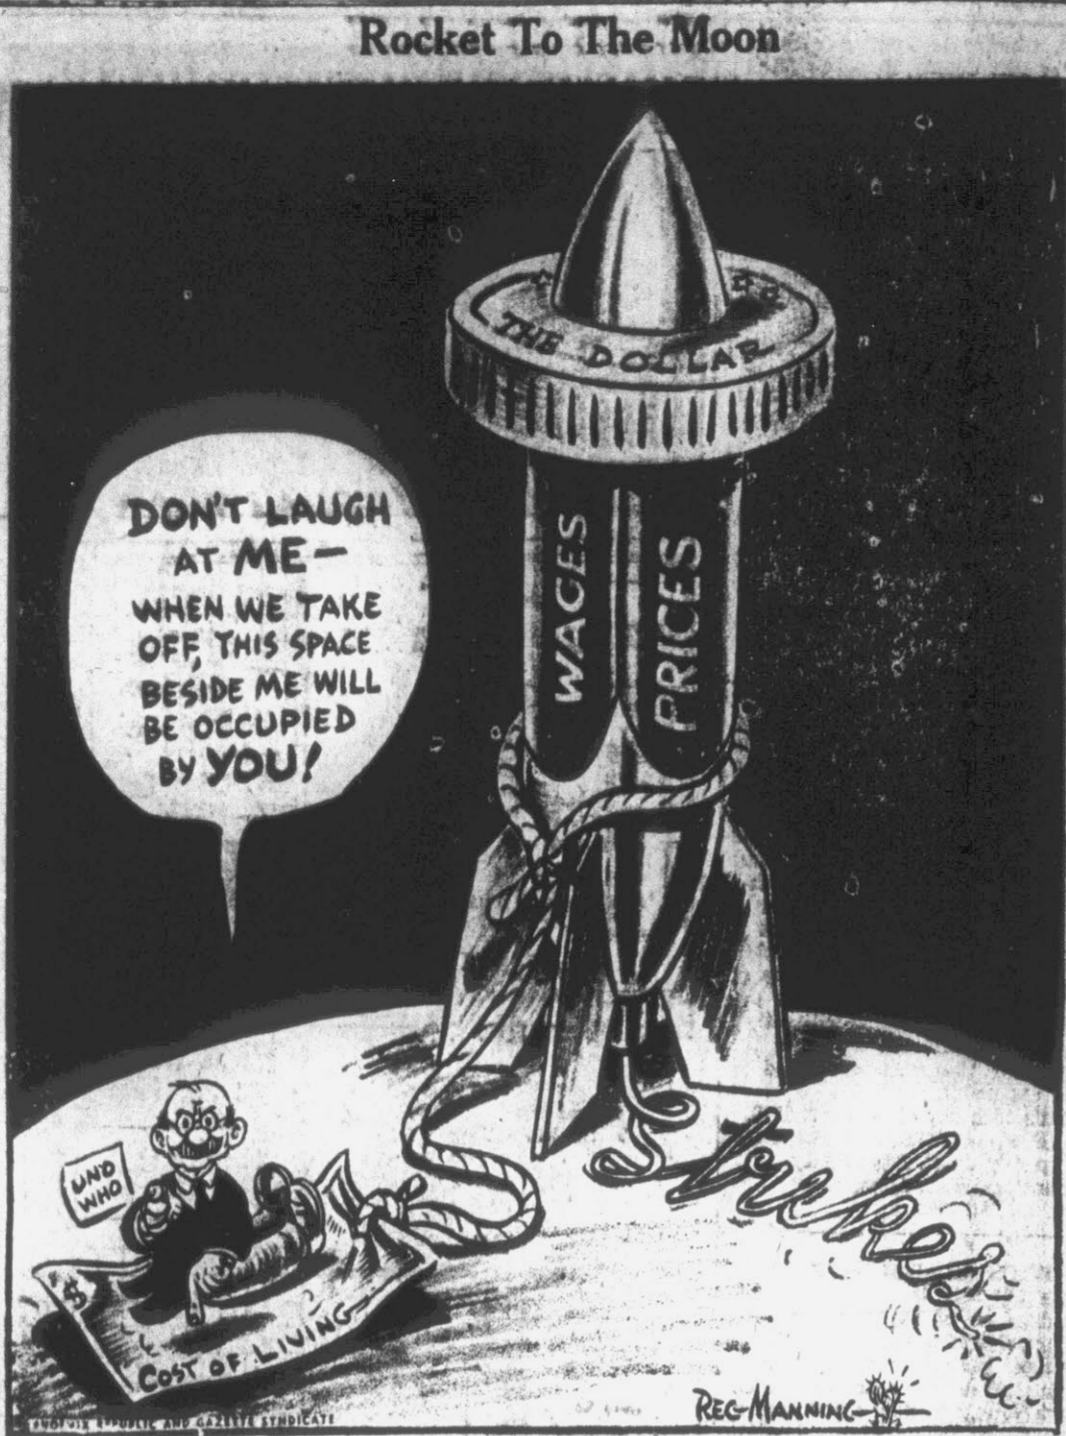

In the General Motors strike in Detroit and other cities observers tell me that there have been very few cases of eviction. The landlord waits for his rent. The grocer extends credit, not only carrying the striker on his books but often contributing to strike kitchens and emergency relief.

It is only in rare cases that a striker takes a temporary job during a strike. Within a union this is frowned upon. He doesn't loaf. He works on the picket lines or otherwise does strike chores but he doesn't get paid for it.

Life, health, hospital and other insurance benefits must be met by the striking workers. In a few instances, the companies maintain the worker's share of these payments, taking it out of the pay of the striker after he returns to the job.

It's apparent that any worker who has been on strike for any length of time is going to have to work months and maybe longer than that to make up for his accrued debts. This is something union officials don't care to talk about. When they discuss it at all they admit off the record that some injustices result, but that in the long run it's a question of the greatest good for the greatest number.

The workers, I'm told, aren't particularly disturbed by this monetary penalty. They figure that it may take them a year to make up for losses incurred by a strike, but that the increase in pay eventually will mean enough to compensate for whatever they have had to put out.

New Bern Cagers Here Tues. Night

By DAVE CLARK - The New Bern Bears come to Greenville tomorrow night to try their hand at beating the Green Phantoms, something no other conference team has done this year; and thereby provide the opposition for the first of four straight games the Phantoms have on tap for this week.

Although not too much is expected from the Bears, Coach Parley will most likely start his first string in order not to take any chances on spoiling a perfect conference record.

The last time the two teams met here was year before last when the Phantoms won easily 51-5, limiting the Bears to one field goal and three free throws.

After tomorrow night's game, the Greensies embark on a three day road trip that takes them to Newport News Wednesday night, Elizabeth City Thursday night, and New Bern again on Friday.

The New Bern team is supposedly one of the strongest of Phanton opponents this year. They lost by only a 38-36 score to the Duke freshmen in a game a week or two ago.

Starters for Tuesday night's game will probably be as usual with Billy Harrington and Mac Batchelor at guards, Jimmy Putrel and Ed Williams at forwards, and J. T. Williams at center.

Sports

By The Associated Press - North Carolina basketball will reach the peak of its 1946 season Saturday night in the big Duke University fieldhouse at Durham, when the Blue Devils will attempt to stop the high-flying White Phantoms of North Carolina.

The Carolinians will be out for a twofold purpose: 1. Avenge an early season defeat—one of the only two they've suffered—at the hands of the Dukes; and, 2. Wrest the Southern Conference lead from Blue Devils. If the two teams go into the contest tied for the conference lead, as may be the case.

As for the Blue Devils, they will be fighting not only to retain their conference lead but also to retain their undefeated record within the state. All of their five losses this season have been inflicted by out-of-state teams—two of them service quints.

Prior to the Saturday night struggle, both teams will play two games. North Carolina, with a season record to date of 22 wins and two defeats, will play at N. C. State tonight and entertain V.P.I. Wednesday night. Both are Southern Conference opponents.

Duke, with a 15-5 record for the season, will play host Tuesday to an old rival, Georgia Tech, and entertain Clemson Thursday night in a conference struggle.

By winning its two conference games before Saturday, North Carolina could climb even with Duke—if the Devils win their single conference tilt. Duke is now a half-game ahead of North Carolina in the conference.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 11—(AP)—A 30-game schedule for the six-cup Dixie Professional Football League was announced today by Judge William H. Nickels, Jr., of Richmond, league president. The season will open Sept. 22 and end Nov. 24, with each club playing five games at home and five games away.

The schedule was worked out at a meeting yesterday of league directors, at which Greensboro, N. C., was admitted into the circuit and the Roanoke club placed in inactive status.

New York, Feb. 11—(AP)—The earliest spring training campaign in baseball's history was under way with the three New York representatives of the major leagues set for workouts in the South today.

The Yankees, already have had their initial workout under the Panama sun, while the Giants begin conditioning in Miami, Fla., as do the Brooklyn Dodgers at Sanford, Fla.

Before the week is over, they will be joined by three more clubs—Pittsburgh, Washington and the Boston Braves. Pittsburgh and Boston begin training Thursday, the Pirates at El Centro, Calif., and the Braves at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. The Senators start getting into condition Sunday at Orlando, Fla.

Carver Library News

Carver Library will begin celebrating its 21st annual Negro History Week Monday, February 11-16 with different types of programs each day. Read this column daily.

Negro history or rather history as it has been influenced by the Negro should be studied and taught for the same reason that we deal thus with the history of any other people.

The Negro, in spite of his persecution, however, has always struggled to climb upward. He has shown more eagerness for education than others thus circumstanced. He has been a devotee to religion, a home builder, and a stimulating force to esthetic development. To the Negro this country is indebted for a great folklore, for an outstanding art, for the only real contribution to music in the Western Hemisphere without slavishly imitating that of Europe.

Each day in this column will be found a list of ten questions. The answers will follow the following day in this column, but see how many you can answer before they appear. The answers will be found easily on the shelves of Carver Library. Avail yourselves of the many new and varied books in the library, thereby especially enriching your knowledge of the study of the Negro.

Questions:
1. When and where was the first Negro History Week observed?
2. Who was the first Negro Woman bank president?

3. Who was Frederick Douglas?
4. Name the world's greatest tap dancer.
5. Who was Hugh N. Mulcaze?
6. Why is Dorie Miller a national hero?
7. About what Negro singer did the famous director, Tinseltown, make the following remark, "A voice like hers occurs only once in a hundred years."

8. What Negro scientist discovered a cure for Infantile Paralysis?
9. What Negro composer wrote, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," "In the Evening by the Moonlight," and "Oh, Dem Golden Slippers."
10. What outstanding Negro educator was honored by having a postage stamp named for him?

Answers will appear tomorrow.
Mrs. B. C. Maye, chairman publicity committee.

Nazi Campaign In Russian War Told

Nuernberg, Feb. 11—(AP)—Field Marshal General Friedrich Von Paulus, who was vanquished at Stalingrad and became the Moscow radio's chief German propagandist, testified before his former commanders today he was given the task in September, 1940, of preparing the campaign against Russia.

The date for the attack was set back for five weeks, until June 22, 1941, when Hitler decided to overrun Yugoslavia first. Von Paulus told the international military tribunal.

Von Paulus, a rail-thin figure in neat suit, told how it was estimated—erroneously—that between 130 to 140 divisions would be enough to crush Russia.

The three strategic purposes, he said, were to destroy the Red Army in the west and prevent its retreat into the vast expanse in the east, establish a front from which the Red Air Force would be unable to bomb Germany and reach a line extending from the Volga to Archangel in the Arctic.

Hitler's overall aim in the Soviet campaign, Von Paulus said, was "conquering for purposes of colonization" and "ruthless spoliation with the means gained therefrom to be used to conclude the war in the west and set up the German domination of Europe."

RECONVERSION

Medford, Ore., Feb. 11—(AP)—A Black Island parrot, whose cussing in GI campaign-style landed the bird in jail, has reformed and is on parole to the city fire department.

Neighbors of Army Lt. Hugh Collins, who owned "Snafu" the parrot, protested against Snafu's swearing and the Pacific veteran gave him up to the city jail.

His jailers reported Snafu was a regular attendant at Sabbath services and now is singing bits of hymns.

Historians say that when golf first was played many years ago, players used a ball with a feather core covered with horsehide.

Speculators Fake News For Cleanup

Hong Kong, Feb. 11—(AP)—Chinese currency here took its sharp temporary drop since the end of the war today as the result of what apparently was a clever coup by speculators who faked a story, labeled it as an Associated Press report and had it delivered to leading Chinese papers.

The national currency dropped approximately 25 per cent after six newspapers published the fake story, under a Chungking dateline, saying the Ministry of Finance had announced the fixing of Chinese currency at the rate of 2,000 Chinese dollars to one American dollar.

Equilibrium was regained several hours later after the Associated Press learned of the forgery, issued a denial story from its office and announced it would be investigating by authorities of this British crown colony.

In the meantime, however, the manipulators had a chance to make a cleanup in this sensitive center of international exchange.

Tugboat Workers To Accept Arbitration

New York, Feb. 11—(AP)—Striking tugboat workers in New York harbor voted at a mass meeting today to accept arbitration of grievances which led to their week-old walkout.

Capt. William Bradley, president of local 333 of the United Marine Division of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, told 1,500 rank and file members they would be advised later by radio "when you go back to work."

The strikers voted on an agreement reached yesterday by committees representing the union and the tugboat companies affected. The owners met simultaneously to act on the agreement but had reached no decision when they adjourned for lunch.

Hendrix Resigns As Farm Agent

By CHESTER WALSH

Floyd F. Hendrix, who has been Pitt County farm agent since R. C. (Railroad) Bennett entered the armed forces nearly five years ago, has tendered his resignation, effective March 1, to the Board of County Commissioners.

The commissioners appointed S. C. Winchester to succeed Hendrix as county farm agent here. Winchester is now farm agent for Jones County with headquarters in Trenton. Incidentally, when Hendrix was appointed, he, too, was farm agent in Jones.

Hendrix, wartime farm agent for Pitt County, is credited with outstanding work in his department, especially for his harmonious cooperation with farmers and others.

Hendrix has announced that he has formed a partnership with John A. Barnhill of Greenville to conduct a farm supply and machinery business here. They will be temporarily located in Keel's warehouse until their building on Dickinson avenue is completed.

Winchester for some time, was assistant farm agent in Pitt County, and did good work, county officials said. He is a young man, well trained for his new post, and is especially interested in improvements in growing tobacco, officials said.

Pauley Issue ...

They said further they had not been asked for their views before the President made it plain he did not plan to withdraw Pauley's appointment despite indications that it faces almost certain defeat in the Senate.

On the other hand, National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan and his associates on the Democratic National Committee were quoted by some persons as saying the administration leadership in the Senate had done little to advance Pauley's chances for confirmation.

Significantly, administration lieutenants said they had made no pool of Senate sentiment on the appointment but were certain after a cross check that there is little hope of obtaining a favorable vote.

There was no indication that any major effort was being exerted to line up supporters for Pauley, former Democratic National Committee treasurer whose chances for confirmation were damaged greatly by testimony of Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

The Simoon was bound from Durbin to Baltimore with a cargo of manganese.

FOR BUSINESS REASONS

Chicago, Feb. 11—(AP)—"How's that again?" the deputy circuit court clerk asked.

"Yep, that's right," an attorney replied. "Thomas V. Adams wants his name changed to Athanasios V. Stamatopoulos."

The attorney said his client had his name changed the other way round eight years ago. Now he wants his original name back.

The reason: Adams and an older brother are partners in a coffee shop. They want the sign to read: Stamatopoulos Brothers.

valued at approximately $250,000. The University's distinctive new acquisition, Governor Cherry said in accepting the gift for the trustees, will be known as "The Morehead Building," and one wing will be called "The Genevieve B. Morehead B. Morehead Memorial Hall" in honor of Mrs. Morehead.

Morehead said plans for the building are now being prepared by Eggers and Higgins of New York, and construction will begin as soon as practicable.

The rare Zeiss planetarium instrument, which alone costs $75,000, is built only in Germany, and it is difficult, if not impossible, Morehead said, to have one built at the present time. However, negotiations have been initiated through both government and private channels, and the trustees of the foundation are making every effort to secure the instrument and open the planetarium at the earliest possible time.

Vishinsky said that the proposed commission should be composed of representatives of the United States, Russia, Britain, China and the Netherlands. The Soviet Ukraine, which originally brought the Indonesian question before the council, also had requested a commission, without suggesting its membership.

Vishinsky called attention to a previous statement by Van Kieffens that the British and Dutch in Indonesia were facing "a body amounting to 80,000 men, with modern equipment, including anti-aircraft equipment."

"I submit this does not suggest to me bands of terrorists or extremists," the Soviet delegate said.

His trial before the U. S. Military tribunal which condemned him lasted five weeks. He wept in its closing sessions as he listened intently to defense counsel picturing him as a "man devoted to peace."

Jones said he then told the women that to operate that way would be a felony, since soliciting loans to pay off debts in another section of the State, when the deposits themselves were not backed up with security, would be a felony-taking money under false pretense.

The Kinston attorney said he believed Boyles was present when the conversation took place. He said he did not remember the names of the women.

Earlier, Boyles had testified that Jones had refused to represent the firm in legal matters. However, Jones later was employed by C. R. Jones of Kinston, a defendant who died before he could be brought to trial, after Jones had been indicted.

Testimony presented by the State last week tended to show that J. Falson Thompson, Goldsboro attorney, accepted a $750 retainer to represent Davenport, and that he later dictated to Davenport the text of advertisements carried in several Eastern Carolina newspapers soliciting loans at five per cent per week. Davenport allegedly loaned the money he received to borrowers at 10 per cent a week, with the loans ranging from $5 to $10. Thompson is defending Davenport at the trial.

Another $250,000,000—the balance of the $850,000,000 to be approved by Congress—would be used in moving temporary wartime housing to localities which need them.

In addition: The government would have to recruit a staff of experts to spur production, to visit factories, to control allocations and priorities, and to check on new housing plans submitted by builders who want government help.

This flood of manpower, if it could be obtained, would be sought in the hope that building would be a booming industry for 10 or 15 years to come.

On top of all this, Congress would have to provide funds to help experiments in new construction methods, such as substitutes for wood.
