UNEASY PEACE FOLLOWS WEEK OF RIOTINGS

Reinforced Troops Take Precautions Against New Outbreaks In Bombay

Bombay, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Reinforced British Tommies took unusual precautions today to make certain that a scheduled demonstration by students would not cause a new outbreak of violence in riot-torn Bombay, where an uneasy peace was effected yesterday after nearly a week of street fighting.

Despite advice from the Congress Party and the Bombay Student Congress to cancel the demonstrations, student leaders insisted they would protest the use of British military forces against mutineers of the Royal Indian Navy.

Meanwhile, police said that Bombay had experienced its first quiet night since last Monday, when the first group of Indian sailors went on strike because of alleged discrimination against them by the British.

Law officers spent most of the night in a quiet, systematic roundup of persons suspected of being involved in the rioting. The number arrested was not disclosed.

Military and naval inquiries were launched under orders from Vice Adm. J. H. Godfrey, commander of the Royal Indian Navy, into grievances of the mutineers.

Godfrey, returning to his flagship—the Narbada—told the mutineers that he expected them to return to work. The striking sailors, who had held 20 small ships in Bombay harbor, hoisted unconditional surrender flags Saturday.

Naval and military spokesmen privately paid tribute to Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, British commander in chief in India, for averting additional violence and possibly revolution.

These sources said that arrival of the light cruiser Glasgow, which anchored here yesterday, and other British ships was purposely delayed until the mutineers surrendered.

TWO STORES ARE ROBBED

Police yesterday recovered from Walter Vines, Negro storekeeper on Clark street, a quantity of oranges and onions, allegedly stolen from the Carolina Produce Company's warehouse on Clark street Saturday night. The officers arrested Vines and charged him with receiving stolen goods. Following a clue, Police Chief Jim Tanner said he knows who broke into the place and expects to have him in custody very shortly. The front door of the place was broken open. Patrolman Dan Early found the door open about 1:30 Sunday morning.

The Greenville Candy Company's place, next door, was broken into some time last night and a considerable quantity of merchandise was stolen, Chief Tanner said. Patrolmen also discovered this robbery. People are working on a strong clue (Continued on page two)

Eight On Foundered Boat Rescued At Sea

These men, sitting and standing on a foundered 33-foot Marine Corps boat far at sea off Parris Island, S. C., are about to be rescued by the U. S. Engineer survey boat, Mico, commanded by Capt. John Dofinisk of Savannah, Ga. Dofinisk sighted the ill-fated boat adrift and at first mistook it for a distant buoy. But he soon discovered his mistake and hurried to the rescue. Davenport Steward, staff writer for the Atlanta Journal aboard the Mico, took this picture as the vessel maneuvered near the men in choppy water. Steward then laid aside his career and helped haul the men aboard. Among the rescued was Chief Warrant Officer D. E. Larsen of the Marine Corps, who lives at Eastman, Ga. New York's Mayor Asks Aid In Advertising Strike

Mayor O'Dwyer Says City Can't Give CIO Transit Union Sole Bargaining Right Under Law; Appeals To Philip Murray To Avert City's Second Paralyzing Strike

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—A plea by Mayor William O'Dwyer for help in averting a New York transit strike, which would disrupt transportation facilities used by millions daily, rested today in the hands of CIO President Philip Murray.

The mayor in a telegram last night asked Murray to use his "position and influence" to avert a walkout by the CIO Transport Workers Union and said a transportation tieup would result in "grave injury to the people of the city of New York and the cause of organized labor." TWU leaders threatened to stage the walkout any time after midnight tomorrow unless sole collective bargaining rights and wage increases are granted.

O'Dwyer added, however, that "we cannot and will not recognize any organization as sole and exclusive bargaining agent for all civil service employees." He said he had been advised by the city's corporation counsel that such recognition would be a violation of state laws.

The demanded wage increase was viewed by O'Dwyer as a "just cause." Earlier Murray said he had "no comment whatsoever to make" concerning the situation, but in a conversation with O'Dwyer early last week he professed willingness to explore the possibilities of preventing a strike.

Republican Chairman Is Planning To Resign

GOP Leader Believes John W. Bricker Of Ohio In No. 1 Position For 1948 Presidential Nomination

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—How he might feel about it if DeWey is reelected to a second term as Governor remains for the future. However, it is an old GOP tradition that the party has yet to renounce a losing presidential candidate.

Westeners and midwesterners mentioned in early speculation of party leaders for the chairmanship include Barak Mattering, national committeeman from Missouri; Senator Kenneth S. Wherry of Nebraska, GOP whip of the Senate; Ralph Cike, Oregon committee member who was identified with the Wilkie forces; Committee Vice Chairman Ezra Whitla, of Idaho and Werner W. Schroeder, of Illinois.

Easteners talked of so far include former Senators John Danaher of Connecticut, now a paid official of the national committee, and Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

Brownell, 42, will continue active in politics, but only as an individual. He has said he will not manage DeWey's or anyone else's campaign this fall.

Brownell is known to feel that among the national party organization right now John W. Bricker of Ohio stands in the No. 1 position for the 1948 presidential nomination.

FEDERATION PLAN STUDIED

Representatives Of 12 Communities Will Meet In Greenville

Representatives from twelve eastern North Carolina counties will meet in Greenville tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 p. m. in the Board of Aldermen's Room in the Municipal Building, to consider the organization of a federation of eastern North Carolina communities.

Willard T. Kyzer, executive secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce will serve as chairman for the meeting having been appointed at a meeting held in Kinston on January 24.

At the Kinston meeting a resolution was adopted authorizing the appointment of two representatives from each county in the area to study and evaluate the advantages of such an organization and to facilitate the adoption of a plan to facilitate its operation.

The consideration of the formation of a federation of eastern North Carolina communities is the outgrowth of a similar organization formed by USO during the war. If this organization is formed, it will be for the purpose of promoting cooperative activities in the area on projects that are of interest and benefit to the entire area, among which are health, education, recreation and other related activities.

Solicitor Clark Resumes Cross-Examination Interrupted By Recess

Returning to the witness stand today after a week's recess, Roderick Davenport failed to identify positively any of the records purportedly kept in the six offices of his "Big Apple" loans business, although the court had allowed him five days in which to look over the books which were impounded by the defense.

The former New Bern produce dealer and loans broker said he could not "positively" identify any of the records except such as were in his own handwriting, but that he "assumed" the books impounded by the defense actually were those kept in his offices. Only a few of the books thus far introduced bore Davenport's handwriting.

Davenport is the principal defendant in a trial charging conspiracy to defraud and fraud by false pretense against three of five original co-defendants, Mrs. Sadie H. Powers of New Bern and Wilson Boyles of Winston-Salem, previously have pleaded guilty and nolo contendere, respectively, and are awaiting the action of presiding Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill.

Continuing his cross examination of Davenport, which was begun last Monday only to be interrupted twice by two-day recesses, Solicitor Dave M. Clark succeeded in getting Davenport's identification of his own handwriting on a number of memoranda purported to be records of deposits he himself accepted and transferred to a mailing list from which interest checks were mailed to out of town depositors.

Davenport also identified a number of brown manila envelopes that he said were used to hold memorandum slips detailing the amount of interest which was to be mailed weekly to depositors who lived in out-of-town areas. Each envelope bore the name of the depositor and (Continued on Page Four)

ELECTIONS IN ARGENTINA ARE ORDERLY

Future Relations With U. S. Dependant Upon Results Of Ballot

Buenos Aires, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Opposite political leaders expressed satisfaction today with the orderly conduct of yesterday's presidential elections and indicated they would regard the outcome as a true expression of the will of the Argentine people.

Both sides voiced confidence of victory, but it appeared that it might be 30 or 40 days before Argentina learns whether her next president will be Col. Juan D. Peron, "Iron Man" candidate of the labor party, or Jose P. Tamborini, representing the democratic union.

Under Argentine law all ballot boxes must be transported to provincial capitals for tabulation of the vote. Because of the distances involved, poor transportation and the time required to count the paper ballots an early indication of the outcome is unlikely—barring a veritable landslide.

The tabulation will be watched eagerly not only in Argentina but in the outside world because of the bearing the outcome may have on this country's future relations with the United States.

Peron was roundly denounced by the U. S. State Department recently in a "Blue Book" accusing him of collaborating with the Nazis. Followers of Tamborini, on the other hand, feel that his election would do much to repair Argentina's strained relations with Washington and to cement Western Hemisphere friendship.

The Argentine army, which had promised to see that the presidential voting was conducted in a fair and orderly manner, emerged from the elections with its reputation much enhanced. Political observers described the elections as the most orderly in 40 years and leaders of both major actions congratulated the army for its supervision.

Approximately 250,000 members of the armed forces assisted in guarding the polling places, and no serious disorder of any kind was reported during the 10 hours consumed by the voting.

Pickets Defy Court Injunction

Philadelphia, Feb. 25.—(AP)—A solid line of more than 1,400 pickets marched in a two block long oval before a strikebound General Electric Co. plant here today in defiance of a common pleas court injunction barring mass picketing.

By 9 a. m. (EST) only six of the 1,000 non-striking office employees had gone through the line. The six were women and all had passes to enter the plant.

A loudspeaker placed in the offices of local 119 of the CIO electrical workers across the street from the plant blared: "We want no more injunctions. Register your protest at the next election. This picketing will continue daily."

PRO-GERMANS REPORTED IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia Record Reports Nazi Sailors Treated as Conquering Heroes

Philadelphia, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Approximately 200 German sailors, members of the crew of the Nazi heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen, were to leave for New York today to board ships for the fatherland after a throng of "friends, relatives and pro-Germans held a gala farewell party," the Philadelphia Record said today.

In a page one story, the newspaper reported "as far as liquor, food, other delicacies and comradeship went, the spectacle aboard the German warship was as fitting a farewell party as any prewar bon voyage party in the United States."

"Despite Navy War regulations," the Record said, "liquor flowed on the Nazi vessel. Flush-faced groups of Germans and Americans raised their voices in German beer hall songs. And in corners x x x girls held hands with the German sailors and conversed in warm whispers."

The Philadelphia Navy Yard, the Record story asserted, was "thrown wide open" for the German sailors. "Far from their actual status of 'detained enemy personnel,' the Prinz Eugen crew members appeared as conquering heroes or prodigal sons."

OPA'S BATTLE FOR SURVIVAL

Henry Kaiser Will Appear Before The Board In Defense Of OPA

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The second week of OPA's battle for survival opened today before the House Banking Committee.

Prime interest, however, shifted a later in the week and the scheduled appearance of Henry J. Kaiser, industrialist who recently entered the automobile field.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) told reporters Kaiser will appear Thursday, adding "I understand he is for the continuation of OPA."

Last week's hearings led to a long-distance clash between Chester Bowles, new Economic Stabilizer, and Henry Ford II, head of one of the country's oldest auto firms.

Ford, in telegrams to the committee, challenged some of Bowles' testimony about a Ford request last summer for a 55 per cent increase in car prices. He also said OPA pricing had caused some of Ford's parts (Continued on Page Four)

A. M. SCHULTZ DIED SUNDAY

Prominent Dentist Had Heart Attack; Funeral Tuesday

Dr. Alfred M. Schultz, 52, prominent dentist and a member of one of the city's oldest families, died of a heart attack about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Earlier in the day he complained of not feeling well and a physician was called. He advised Dr. Schultz to remain in bed a day or two. He ate his dinner in bed. Shortly afterwards when a member of his family went to the room he was dead. His health had not been very good the past two years.

Surviving are his mother and a sister, Mrs. L. H. Bowling of Greenville.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home, Fourth and Summit streets, Tuesday morning at 8:30 by the Rev. Robert W. Bradshaw, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Burial will be in the Jewish Cemetery in Richmond, Va., Tuesday afternoon. Members of the Greenville Masonic Lodge will have charge of the services at the grave.

Dr. Schultz was born and reared in Greenville, the son of Mrs. Bluma Abram Schultz and the late Sam M. Schultz. He attended the Greenville city schools, the University of North Carolina and the University of Pennsylvania, where he graduated in 1915.

The WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP World Traveler

Berlin, Feb. 25.—You have to see the ruins of Berlin to get even a smattering of the truth about what the war has done to the world's fourth largest city.

This column the other day described the destruction of the great Ruhrland industrial city of Essen, which literally was torn to pieces by bombs but which still clings to life and, amazing to relate, has a population of some 365,000 existing among the ruins. Berlin is a vastly magnified Essen—mile upon mile of heaps of rubble and shattered walls which once were homes, business houses, churches and public institutions. In this desolation are hundreds of thousands of cave dwellers.

Of course, here and there you see a building in which the damage is relatively slight. Mrs. Mack and I have been living in one of these. Children are going to school in one of the worst schoolrooms that youngsters ever saw, and they are studying their new denazified reading and writing and arithmetic. Courts are being held under similar conditions.

But despite these tiny refuges, Berlin is for the most part a ghastly ruin in the midst of which the Germans exist only because they are given a ration of food and fuel by civilized conquerors. To be sure, some Berliners are engaged in gainful employment for the occupation authorities, but these folk are comparatively few, and their earnings there isn't much to buy excepting from the blackmarkets leeches who charge staggering prices.

Well now you'd think that these followers of Hitlerism were as thoroughly beaten as a people could be, and in one sense they are. They are beaten physically, and those who have undergone the horrors of bombing and actual battle are in a very chastened mood. But as I have remarked in previous reports from Germany, I don't believe the Germans as a whole are beaten mentally. When they recover from their shell shock and economic chaos they will be heading for further conquests—unless something gives them a spiritual change meantime.

The first time I was in Germany was at the end of World War One. The difference between the situation then and now was that in the first conflict the Germans didn't suffer actual contact with war on their home soil. They were in the main starved into submission by the Allied blockade. They weren't beaten either physically or mentally in actual combat and certainly weren't in any chastened frame of minds when they surrendered.

From then on you saw the war spirit in Germany grow. The last (Continued on Page Two)

TODAY IN CONGRESS

A Review Of Your Government In Action

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach today opposed the Case strike control bill.

His testimony before the Senate Labor Committee that the House-approved measure is "hodge-podge legislation" and "ill-advised" constituted the first expression of the administration's attitude which Congress has received.

The committee approved a bill providing four $10,000 a year assistants for the Labor Secretary, which Schwelienbach urged, and called further witnesses on the Case bill.

Other administration officials went to the capitol to urge continuation of the OPA and broadening of Social Security.

The House Banking Committee, studying a one-year extension of the OPA, heard from Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Eccles said that wage increases can be justified "only by paying them out of increased production and profits—not by increased prices." He added that the new wage-price policy might boost the cost of living another ten percent over prewar levels but that "if we can hold there, we will have done a pretty good job."

Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the Social Security Board asked Congress to include some 21,000 agricultural, domestic and government workers, plus small businessmen and farmers, in Social Security

Editor's Note: This is the seventh of 12 stories explaining who does what about his income taxes.

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Don't forget your deductions in filing your 1945 income tax return. You may save money.

Many expenses are deductible. So are some kinds of income which not only are exempt from tax but don't have to be reported.

All the kinds of deductions can't be listed here. If you have doubts or questions, ask your internal revenue collector.

The amount of deductions will determine for many people the kind of income tax return they file. People who made $5,000, or over, have to file on the 1040 longform anyway. They can do one of two things in filing that return:

1. Take, without itemizing, the standard $500 deduction allowed everyone who files on the 1040 longform. Just write down $500 in deductions whether they amounted to that much or not.

2. Or, if your deductions were more than $500, then claim them for whatever they are. But when you do that, you'll have to itemize all your deductions.

But what of the people who made under $5,000?

They, depending on their individual case, can file their return on form W-2, the withholding receipt, or the 1040 short-form. There are two steps they can take:

1. Everyone filing Form W-2 or the 1040 shortform automatically is allowed a deduction of about 10 per cent of income for non-taxable expenses even though they do not amount to 10 per cent.

So you don't have to itemize any deductions Form W-2 or the 1040 short-form. Your 10 per cent deduction already has been taken out of your tax which you find in the table used to tell the tax on people using those forms.

2. If your income was under $5,000 and your deductions were more than 10 per cent, then use the 1040 longform where you'll have to itemize your deductions but can claim them for whatever they are.

(Since servicemen, veterans and their families get special consideration, their problems will be handled in a later story.)

First of all, here are kinds of income which don't have to be reported on your return at all, no matter what form you use:

Social Security benefits, unemployment compensation, gifts except those given for personal service life insurance paid because of the death of the insured, sickness and injury benefits received from health or accident insurance under workmen's (Continued on Page Four)

That filled out the pattern. All the little pieces fell into place. It made a complete picture, but Rush didn't like it. The picture was just barely out of drawing, the colors ran a little. Rush couldn't put his finger on what was wrong, but deep down where his hunches lived, Rush had a feeling. He was sure that the look he had surprised in Jago's eyes had been fear, yet there was no reason for him to be afraid of the inventor, if inventor he was. In the few seconds Rush sat digesting the story Jago had told him, a knock came on the door. Surprisingly light on his feet for so fat a man, Jago was at the door almost before the knocking ceased. He put the gun in his pocket and kept his hand there. With his other hand he opened the door a crack, then swung it wide.

"Come in, come in, children... I have a visitor I want you to meet." Rush swiveled in his chair to look toward the door. Framed in it as they entered the room were a striking brunette with a slight oriental cast to her features, and Wilmer Leslie Germaine's companion of the previous evening. Rush almost laughed aloud. The strings were all tied together in one knot. What he had thought of as three jobs were turning out to be all the same job. He rose to be introduced.

"My dear, this is Mr. Rush Henry. Mr. Henry, my daughter—my real daughter, that is—Myrna Jago. Mr. Henry is a detective, my dear. Wilmer, meet Mr.—"

"We've met," Rush said. "You mustn't mind Wilmer, Mr. Henry. He's a very moody boy. But what's this about you two meeting before? You didn't tell me, Wilmer." Wilmer didn't turn his head to answer. "I met him last night when I was with that Germaine wench."

"Now, Wilmer, you mustn't—"
"Mustn't hell. Next time get somebody else to do that kind of dirty work." Wilmer's voice rose an octave above its usual flatness. "I can't stand that woman. She wanted to do the most awful things. I won't go out with her again." His voice ended on a note of uncompromising decision.

"All right, Wilmer. You needn't go out with her again."

Jago shut the door and locked it, putting the key in his pocket. He turned to Rush.

"Now, Mr. Henry, I will trouble you for that thousand-dollar bill. The numbers are against you this time. I'm quite sure we can take it from you by force if you insist."

"As a matter of fact, Mr. Jago, I haven't the bill with me. I'm not used to carrying that large a sum of money with me. I left it behind."

"I'm afraid I can't take your word for that. We'll have to search you, Wilmer!"

Wilmer left the window and stood beside Jago. "Shall I take him?"

Wilmer's hand slipped to the V of his coat, and in that instant Rush stood up taking his chair with him in a sweeping arc, loosing it at the feet of the swing. It caught Wilmer flush, pinning his arm to his chest and knocking him off his feet. On the floor Wilmer clawed at his shoulder holster but Rush had followed the chair and sat astride him. Rush took the gun from the holster and stood up, looking down at Wilmer who was dabbing blood which seeped from a cut over his right eye.

"I don't allow punks to ask if they should take me," Rush said. He looked around at Jago, remembering the gun he carried. Jago chuckled gently.

"You do know your business, Mr. Henry. But I still have the key to the door and I don't think you can take it away from me. We seem to reach an impasse. Have you any suggestions?"

"Yes. The girl can search me. I wouldn't let that gusset of yours touch me with his little finger and if I had the bill on me none of you would. But since I'm clean and you have to be shown, let the girl go over me."

The dark girl moved over to Rush and with a curious smile began to search him. She was thorough. Her slim fingers didn't miss a trick.

"I didn't think you had it but for that sum I couldn't afford to take chances. It seems, Mr. Henry, that you have received a retainer of one thousand dollars. What are you going to do to earn it?"

"Protect Hope from you," Rush grinned.

"Very good, Mr. Henry. Very good," He chuckled.

Before you unlock the door let me give you an even thousand dollars' worth of advice." Rush looked at them—Jago standing balancing the automatic in his right hand and looking inscrutable; Wilmer still on the floor, a deadly cold hatred burning in his eyes; and Myrna, not standing with her back to him, looking out the window. "This is my town and I don't stand getting pushed around in it. Not with my connections. You, Jago, don't consider any other means of persuasion to get back your grand; it won't work. If I should run across the plans you are looking for I'll sell them to you. And Wilmer, those ideas of yours about forging me in a dark alley won't work. I'm too smart. Miss Jago, for you I have only thanks for a very nice going-over. It was a pleasure."

Myrna Jago had the grace to blush.

"Now, Mr. Jago, the door please." Slowly, thoughtfully, Jago hoisted his bulk from the edge of the desk and moved to the door, unlocking it with the key he took from his pocket. Rush moved to the door and stood in the open archway.

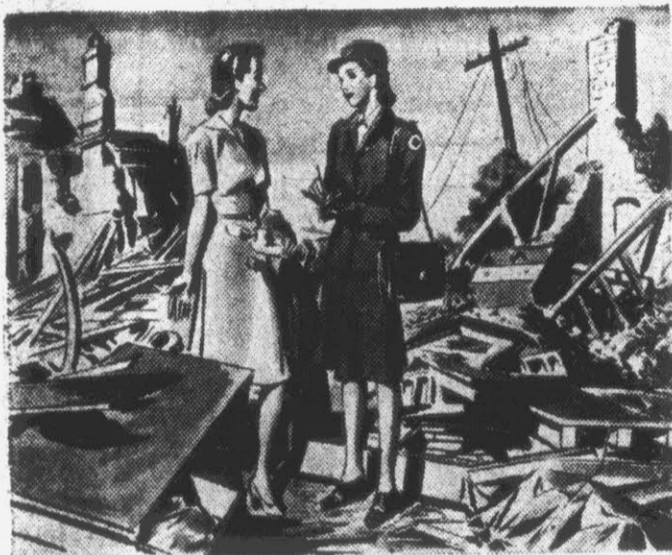

"Oh, yes. I've been retained by the family in the murder of Paul Germaine. I most certainly intend to find someone who looks guilty enough to hang. If I were you, Jago, I'd decide now whom I could best get along without."

What your RED CROSS Chapter does in Pitt County

YOU KNOW what the Red Cross has done overseas in World War II. The World knows it. Another glorious page in the history of your Red Cross is being written.

Each of the 3,754 chapters in the nationwide Red Cross network... just as our local chapter... did its full share to make possible all the help and comfort given our fighting men. But that is only half the story. Here is what your Red Cross chapter is doing now and will be doing for years to come.

Disaster Relief. In the United States each year, the Red Cross gave relief in 260 disasters. Experience has shown that no community is immune. Our local chapter has a disaster committee set up and ready to act at the initial warning of catastrophe... to provide emergency shelter, food, clothing, and medical care for the helpless victims... to save lives and relieve suffering. And after the first shock has worn away, comes the long job of rehabilitation.

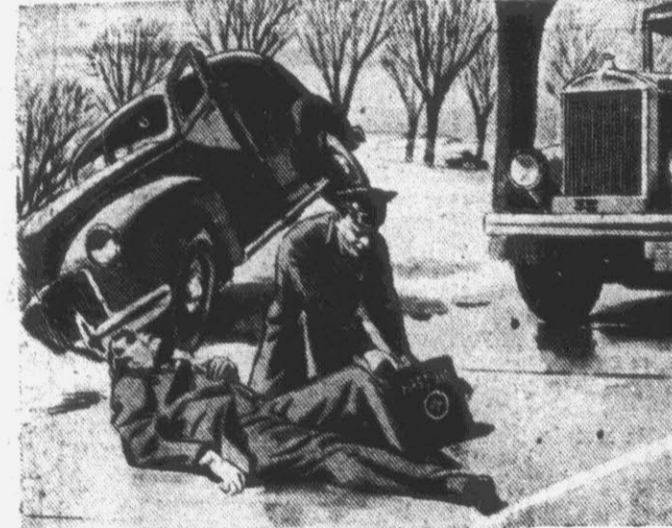

Home Service. The Red Cross Home Service worker is a home town trouble-shooter for the serviceman and his family. Our Red Cross chapter has Home Service workers available for duty day or night... trained, practical people, equipped to act in emergencies. The Red Cross two-way communication system reaches around the world, so that in a sense the serviceman is no further from his loved ones than our Red Cross chapter.

Home Nursing. The Red Cross teaches the fundamentals of home nursing to many citizens. Mothers and high school girls learn how to care for simple illnesses, and how to follow the doctor's instructions in preventing serious ones.

Junior Red Cross. From eager first-graders to high school students young volunteers stitch, hammer, and plan for the Red Cross. Many also learn first aid, accident prevention, water safety, nutrition, and home nursing.

First Aid. A crash on the highway... a slashed wrist... a burn from scalding water... severe shock without proper attention, all can produce serious results. Our chapter in cooperation with individuals and organizations maintains mobile first aid units and highway first aid stations manned by trained first aiders, who help care for the victims of traffic accidents until the doctor arrives. First aid, water safety, and accident prevention classes are conducted to teach Americans the principles of self-preservation.

Volunteer Special Services. Your neighbor next door or just around the corner is probably a member of one of the many Red Cross Volunteer Corps. She may sew or knit for our hospitalized men; she may drive for the Motor Corps; she may be a Nurse's Aide or a Gray Lady. Perhaps she's a Staff Assistant, or a Home Service worker... but whatever corps she serves... whatever she does... her time and effort help stretch the Red Cross dollar.

THINK of the many thousands who look to our Red Cross for aid and comfort in lonely hours of desperate need. Think what its many services and safeguards can mean to our town... to you, and your loved ones. Then remember that your voluntary services, backed up by your contributions, make it possible for Red Cross to carry on in our community. Your individual gifts are its only source of income. Without you and your neighbors, there would be no Red Cross. Give to the Red Cross today.

YOUR Red Cross MUST CARRY ON...

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

RELIGION IS HUMAN NATURE.
We often hear people say when they hear of a case of ingratitude, faithlessness or disloyalty, "Well, that's human nature." But they never call it human nature when a Christian does a noble deed of sacrifice, or when some act of true altruism indicates our faith in mankind.

Yet the goodness in man is just as much human nature as the badness. No graver mistake can be made about humanity as a whole than to imagine that it is motivated exclusively by selfish interests. History abounds with instances of selfless actions which exhibit the real spiritual nobility of which mankind is capable.

Various philosophies have been built up through the ages which either attempt to label mankind as an intelligent animal pursuing his own interest, or as a child and comrade of Almighty God filled with potential good. Both are wrong.

If you are cynical about your fellow man, ask yourselves whether the affection of your mother and father for you is based on self-interest, or whether your feeling for your best friend has a dollar and cents value. Or further, whether your business associates honestly want to ruin you.

You will soon see that in spite of notorious and frequent aberrations, human relations are based on love, trust, and good faith. These qualities are the dominant forces of human nature.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

By ROBERT GEIGER
(For Jack Stinnett)

Washington—Attorneys are untangling thousands of American soldier romances to decide whether sweethearts may collect widows' pensions and their children may be paid children's benefits.

Under special scrutiny today are hundreds of proxy marriages to which GI Joe resorted when he was about to be shipped overseas and wanted to marry the hometown sweetheart he was leaving behind.

Not a single claim arising from an American proxy marriage has yet been held valid by U. S. courts, attorneys for the Veterans Administration say.

Widow and child claims also hinge on such things as common law, polygamous and tribal marriages as well as "affairs of the moment." At stake are widows' pensions for such girls as the ones in Great Britain that American doughboys met and loved but couldn't marry legally because of war and the rules of their commanding officers before they were off to Normandy.

"The United States is trying to lean over backwards—nay, we sometimes fall over backwards—in interpreting some of these claims in favor of widows and children," said one attorney on the staff of Edward E. Odum, Veterans Administration solicitor.

The claim experts, in some cases, call a child legal but don't recognize the marriage.

"In other words, there are no illegitimate children; there are only illegitimate parents," they explain. "We don't believe in visiting the sins of the father upon the children."

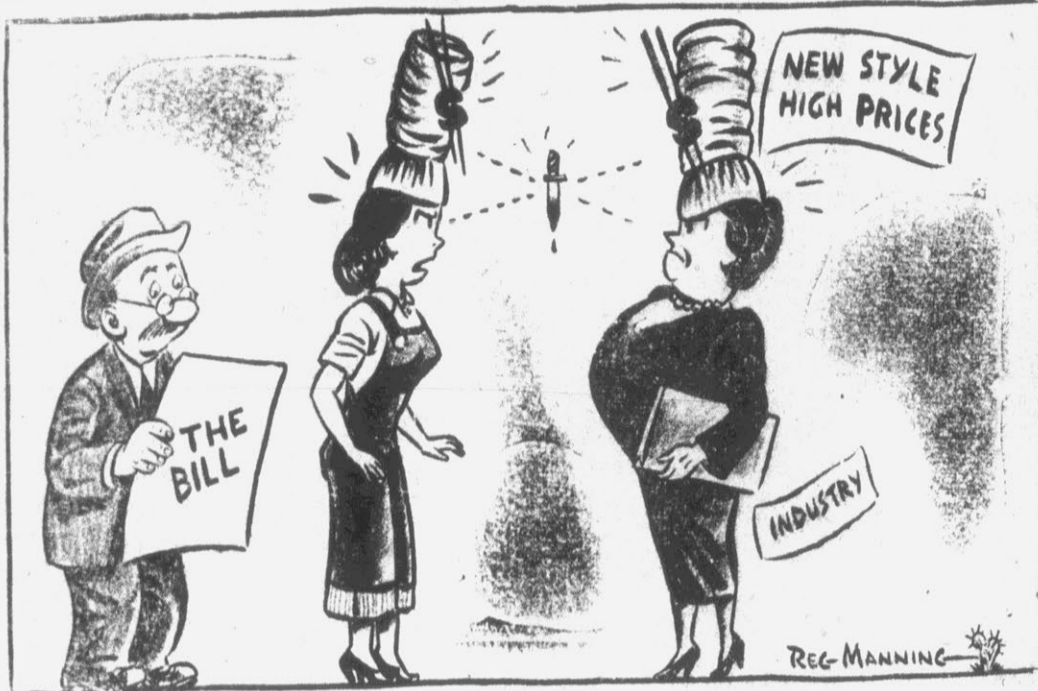

Many British girls cannot collect widows' pensions because of this ruling, but their children are receiving children's benefits from the U. S. government.

Children's benefits are paid:
1. If the marriage of a Yank to a foreign girl was legitimate. In such a case, the girl receives a widow's pension, too.
2. If the marriage was not legitimate, but the soldier acknowledged in a casual letter or in other writing that he was the father of the child or if he was ordered by court to support the child.

3. If, making indisputable proof, the Veterans Administration believes the child to be the offspring of an American soldier.

If Great Britain and other foreign nations recognized common law marriages, many more women could collect widows' pensions.

The VA (Veterans Administration) recognizes common-law marriages if they are legal in the state where they occur. But as far as VA attorneys know, this is the case only in 28 states.

Polygamous and tribal marriages occasionally are the basis of claims involving western Indians and most are decided according to individual circumstances. Only one wife may receive a widow's pension and her children alone are entitled to benefits.

manufacturers to close down.

Meanwhile, there were these developments bearing on OPA:

1. A drive took shape in Congress for removal of price control on all farm commodities. Senator Thomas (D-Okla.), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said he would lead a fight to that end.

2. Rep. Hartley (R-N.J.), frequent critic of the agency, issued a statement saying it is "engaged in unlawful conspiracy to wreck the profit system" and is trying to "change established methods of doing business."

3. Paul Porter, successor to Bowles as OPA administrator, told a meeting of bankers "I have not assumed the job of a liquidator" of OPA, and pledged his efforts toward speeding production.

He identified his handwriting on one of the envelopes and in answer to a direct question from Solicitor Clark said the name on the envelope was that of J. Faison Thompson of Goldsboro, Davenport's attorney from mid-July, 1944, when the "Big Apple" loans business was in full swing, and who is now defending the New Bern man at this trial.

Davenport denied, however, that Thompson had any money invested in the loan business, and denied again that he ever paid Thompson more than the $50 attorney fee he previously testified he paid the Goldsboro lawyer as a retainer to act as his general counsel.

Through the envelope, Clark was attempting to show that Thompson was in the mailing list for weekly checks, and that Davenport himself entered the notation on the records.

The defendant repeatedly denied under Clark's interrogation that he had a "secret" list of big depositors, whose names he kept off the records, but who received their interest checks weekly. He admitted, however, that several prominent New Bern doctors and businessmen had deposits with him, but he said these would be found on the deposit records.

Clark then asked Davenport to "show me one record in this court room which carried the name of Dr. Milbee or Dr. Duffy (of New Bern)." Davenport thus far has failed to show the names of the two mentioned on his available records.

Clark inferred through his questioning that the names of Dr. Duffy and Dr. Milbee were on Davenport's "secret" deposit list.

More than an hour was taken up at the opening of the fourth week of the trial in arranging the voluminous records on a table in the courtroom.

Although Davenport failed to identify positively the records shown him by Clark, he admitted he used the same records in claiming he was solvent. Several advertisements compensation laws, inheritance or bequests of money or property (although the income therefrom is taxable.)

Here are some deductible expenses: Charitable contributions (they can't exceed 15 per cent of income) to religious and charitable organizations; interest paid on personal debts, such as bank loans and mortgages; state income and personal property and real estate except those taxes or assessments which tend to increase the value of your property.

Also—property losses from war, accident, fire, storm or other casualty or theft; a special $500 deduction for the blind; uncompensated traveling expenses of persons whose work requires such traveling; use of your car for business, and this includes the cost of gasoline, oil, grease, repairs and cleaning; union dues; entertaining when done in connection with your business; cost of work clothes and uniforms when not taking the place of ordinary clothing; equipment, tools and instruments used on your job.

Federal excise taxes—like those on liquor, tobacco, cosmetics, jewelry—are not deductible. Medical, hospital and dental expenses are deductible if they exceed five per cent of your income but are limited to $1,250 if you file a return for yourself alone or $2,500 if you claim more than one exemption. Example: Your income was $4,000 and your medical expenses were $275. You can claim only what is over 5 per cent of your income. Five per cent of your $4,000 income is $200. Subtract that $200 from $275 medical expenses. That leaves you $75 in deductible medical expenses.

A Message from President Truman

It is of the utmost importance that the American people understand the status and significance of our new Regular Army. It will be the duty of this volunteer Army to help protect the freedoms and maintain the peace we have won at so great a cost.

Atomic power has increased rather than decreased the necessity for our preparation, both in manpower and material. In the coming atomic age, the United States must maintain its military strength—to insure our national security and to promote world order.

Such grave responsibilities obviously cannot be met by anything less than the highest caliber of men. For this reason, I asked Congress for legislation to increase the opportunities of the soldier in the Regular Army. This legislation has been passed and signed by me, and is now in effect.

In serving his country, a man can now get good pay, education, travel and security—with family allowances for his dependents and a new 20-year retirement plan that compares with or exceeds anything in American industry. These, and the many other advantages of the new Regular Army, should be made known to all our service men and their families.

The Army has embarked upon a world-wide campaign to enlist enough men so that, in demobilizing, we shall not strip our services below the peacetime need. It is imperative that public support be given to this program. We must replace as soon as possible men who have served long and arduously, and who wish to return to civil life. We must also build an Army of volunteers adequate to all our requirements—at home and abroad—until the long-range peace terms and military policies are worked out.

I hope that every individual and group will give earnest and enthusiastic co-operation to this great effort to rebuild our Regular Army. The success of this campaign is vital to the performance of our tremendous task of securing the peace.

Harry S. Truman
PRESIDENT

Congress authorizes most attractive Enlistment Opportunities in our History

1. Enlistments for 1 1/2, 2 or 3 years. (One-year enlistments permitted for men who have been in the Army six months.)
2. Enlistment age from 17 to 34 years inclusive, except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.
3. The best pay scale, medical care, food, quarters and clothing in Army history.
4. An increase in the reenlistment bonus to $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service.
5. Up to 90 days' paid furlough, depending on length of service, with furlough paid to home and return, for men now in the Army who reenlist.
6. A 30-day furlough every year at full pay.
7. Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged or reenlist.
8. Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. (Retirement income in grade of Master or First Sergeant up to $155.25 per month for life.) All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.
9. Benefits under the GI Bill of Rights.
10. Family allowances for the term of enlistment for dependents of men who enlist or reenlist before July 1, 1946.
11. Opportunity to learn one or more of 200 skills and trades taught in Army schools in U. S. or occupied countries.
12. Choice of branch of service and overseas theater in the Air, Ground or Service Forces on 3-year enlistments.
13. Reserve and A. U. S. commissioned officers released from active duty may be enlisted in Grade 1 (Master Sergeant) and still retain their reserve commissions.

POLICE DOING GREAT WORK

January Report Shows Decline In Law Violations Here

By CHESTER WALSH

Chief Jim Tanner's report of the police department during January, made to the Board of Aldermen, showed that considerable improvements are being made in establishing safety zones at school crossings and enforcement of the traffic ordinances. The police during the month made 116 investigations, 243 calls, and investigated 81 complaints. The activity of the radio cars has been an effective force in preventing law violations. Two-way communication between patrolmen in the cars and police headquarters has improved the department's efficiency fully 50 per cent.

During January 168 arrests were made—drunks leading the procession with 58 arrests, speeders were next, with 14 arrests.

Chief Tanner today expressed appreciation for the cooperation and support being given by the public. Speaking of the dog problem, he reminded the city ordinance require all dogs to wear license tags and make it unlawful for dogs to run at large on the streets. Incidentally, Greenville needs a dog catching department to take up stray canines all through the year instead of in the spring when roving packs of dogs damage flower gardens, a member of the Garden Club said today.

Since the police department went on the eight-hour work basis the men's efficiency has improved considerably, a city official pointed out.

"We don't want to make it hard on anybody," Chief Tanner said, "but the city of Greenville has some laws on the books and the Board of Aldermen expect the police department to enforce them. All of our police duties are not arresting people. If we listed the helpful activities of the police during a single month, the average person would be surprised. We are having less trouble here with juvenile delinquents, and we are indebted to the school officials and teachers—white and Negro—for this improvement," he said.

Army Reports Avden Man Officially Dead

Leon Maurice (Skeeter) Cannon, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon E. Cannon of Avden, who has been missing in action since February 5, 1945, has been officially declared dead, according to a message sent by the secretary of the navy to his parents.

Cannon was an aviation radioman on a B-24 Liberator in England and North Africa for 10 months; he was then transferred to the Philippines in September, 1944. He was stationed on Leyte Island and was on a routine reconnaissance patrol flight at the time of his disappearance.

He was a graduate of Avden High School and attended ECTC before enlisting in the Naval Reserve on January 20, 1942. He is survived by his parents, a brother, Conrad Cannon, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Little and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cannon, all of Avden.

With attention of Southern Conference basketball fans drawn to the annual tournament in Raleigh this week, devotees of the North State Conference will be watching another race: the struggle of High Point to pull into the minor circuit lead.

The Panthers, who defeated Atlantic Christian and Guilford last week to pull into undisputed possession of the North State second place, have three games scheduled this week. By winning all of them, they could pull ahead of Catawba's Indians, leaders of the league for several weeks.

In an otherwise uneventful North State schedule, the Panthers' chance of heading the race is the only feature of interest this week. They play at Appalachian Tuesday night and at Guilford Wednesday night; Thursday, they will be hosts to Atlantic Christian.

The regular season, which ended last week for most teams, was led all the way by North Carolina's powerful Tar Heels, who finished with a 26-won and three-lost record. Duke ranked No. 2 in the standings, with Atlantic Christian, Elon and Western Carolina Teachers recording the best overall averages among the state's smaller schools.

State standings, including all games played:

Team	W	L	PCT
North Carolina	26	3	.897
Duke	18	6	.750
Atlantic Christian	12	4	.750
Elon	16	6	.727

Appalachian	13	7	.650
Davidson	13	11	.542
East Carolina Teachers	10	9	.526
High Point	11	11	.500
Wake Forest	11	13	.458

Asheville, Feb. 25 (AP)—The new Tri-State Baseball League, with members in the Carolinas and Tennessee, will open its 140-game schedule April 24 and continue playing through September 11.

The schedule, subject to minor changes in playing dates, was adopted here yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Directors.

President G. Manley Lewellyn presided and representatives from each member city—Spartanburg and Anderson, S. C., Knoxville, Tenn., and Charlotte, Asheville and Shelby—were present.

Lexington, Mass., Feb. 25 (AP)—The first test-case of national prominence concerning a veteran's right to his former job may involve first baseman Ulysses (Tony) Lupien, 1938 Harvard baseball captain and Navy veteran, and the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League.

GHS Trackman Places In Meet

By DAVE CLARK

A Greenville High School athlete, Jimmy Ward, took part in the Southern Invitational Track Meet at Chapel Hill Saturday and succeeded in scoring 21-2 points for the Green Phantoms trackmen by taking second place in the high jump. Xenophon Sideris also participated in the meet.

Ward's jump was measured at five feet, seven inches, one inch higher than the winning jump in the state meet last year, and was only one inch behind the winning jump Saturday. A boy from a Virginia high school won the meet Saturday with a five-foot, eight-inch leap. Ward was tied for second place by another Virginia boy.

Some 21 high schools from several southern states sent representatives to the meet. Greenville High, incidentally, was the only North Carolina high school to even place in the meet.

Judging from the jumping Saturday, Ward should be able to win the state meet handily this spring since no other Carolina boy was able to match his jump.

The GHS tracksters are coached by R. B. Starling.

Peep At The Future

For as far back as we can remember, a portion of the solar energy has been coming to and fro between this tight little planet and its solitary satellite. We are told that, on each bounce, the attenuation is terrific.

Moonshine has affected us variously. For the moment, we are unprepared to describe the effect of earthshine on our cosmic good neighbor. If it comes in before we finish we'll let you have it.

Heretofore, Luna has maintained, and with becoming filial respect, a discreet silence ament the strange sights and sounds evident on the parental body. But recently, under the stimulus of a sizeable kilowattic jolt beamed moonward, she was heard to protest in a barely audible peep, or rather pip, as the radar people prefer.

As far as we can determine, this exchange of less than a microvolt will have little immediate effect on the living standards of either sphere.

To us, the most significant aspect of this whole business is the rather startling realization that the Army is now an established competitor in the field of inter-planetary energy transmission, a hitherto monopolistic enterprise. In passing, we might add that radar is only one of the many absorbing activities in which soldiers of the United States Army are engaged.
