

Showdown With Soviet Foreseen

Secretary Of State Byrnes Announces United States Will Act To Prevent Future Acts Of Aggression, By Force If Necessary; Calls For Halt To War Of Nerves

Washington, March 1—(AP)—An American showdown with Moscow over the Red Army's deployment in strategic areas of Europe and Asia was fore shadowed today by the stern new foreign policy enunciated by Secretary of State Byrnes.

Direct and vigorous measures likewise were indicated against the Soviet policy of stripping property from liberated countries of former enemy satellites.

The Byrnes pronouncement in New York last night was generally interpreted here as heralding a tougher administration policy toward Russia all along the line, particularly with regard to Soviet expansionist tendencies and the Kremlin's lone-hand maneuverings in neighboring nations.

Three countries seemed likely to figure in the Soviet troop removal issue, according to information here. They are Iran, Austria and China, but there are other areas less urgently involved.

Efforts have been underway for some time, it was learned, to get the Russians to agree to withdrawal of allied troops from "Austria" but without success.

As for Iran, tomorrow is the generally accepted deadline for evacuation of Soviet forces there, but official reports reaching Washington say there is virtually no evidence that they intend to pull out by that time.

Meanwhile there is growing concern among many officials as to Soviet intentions in Manchuria in view of recent reports that Red Army forces there show signs of staying on indefinitely.

Army Plans Test Of Radar Defense

Washington, March 1—(AP)—The army marshaled its top rocket and radar wizards today for a dress rehearsal defense against pill-box atomic missiles hurtling down from 90 miles above the earth.

The rocket men will send 3,000-mile an hour German V-2s into the stratosphere from the white sands proving ground in the New Mexico desert.

The radar men will try to track them by every known means of electronic detection, including devices used recently to bounce beams off the moon.

If the radar technicians succeed, a War Department announcement said, "danger of atom bombardment of our great cities and industrial centers by long range stratospheric rockets may be considerably lessened—because radar guided intercept rockets can be designed to pick off the atomic missiles high in the heavens."

FRENCH CLOSE FRONTIERS TO FRANCO-SPAIN

Three-Hundred Mile Long Border Closed In Protest Of Spanish Regime

By Joseph E. Dynan
Hendaye, France, March 1—(AP)—France broke off all commercial relations with Spain today by closing the 300-mile long border between the two countries in protest against the continuance in power of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime.

The official closure effective at midnight, was devoid of drama. As the hour passed, frontier guards patrolled both sides of the border as usual. The weather was blustery and rainy.

Actually, the frontier was closed two hours before midnight when the customs offices finished their day's work. The Paris Express arrived an hour late, but was permitted to cross, carrying the last regular travelers, mostly Belgian Portuguese and Spanish nationals.

The French action effectively severs all commercial intercourse between the two countries, including telegraph, postal, rail and road communications. Foreign diplomats, Red Cross and UNRRA workers are excepted from the ban on travel, as are Portuguese, French and Spanish nationals returning home.

Spanish officials refused one diplomat, the French Vice Consul at Barcelona, permission to return to his post. No reason was given.

The last person to try to cross—and fail—was a young German attempting to return to his family. (Continued on Page Four)

Jury Hears Facts And Figures On Big Apple

State Presents Its Interpretation Of Incomplete Records To Show That Loan Business Could Not Have Been Solvent

The State presented its own facts and figures today tending to show that Roderick Davenport's "Big Apple" loans business could not have been solvent and that Davenport was operating under false pretense in accepting deposits and promising to pay the principal and high interest rates.

Davenport is on trial at a special term of Superior Court on charges of conspiracy to defraud and fraud by false pretense growing out of the operation of his loans business.

The State presented figures compiled by H. S. Rasdale, local taxonomist and mathematician, showing that Davenport's "Big Apple" accepted deposits totaling $733,292.26, based on incomplete records now in possession of the court.

Solicitor Dave M. Clark, in presenting Rasdale's figures, made it plain that the figures were incomplete, and that were the full records of Davenport's business available, the $1,904,000 previously testified to by Mrs. Sadie H. Powers, of New Bern, Davenport's former secretary and principal aide.

On the stand for the State during rebuttal testimony today, Rasdale said he compiled his figures from records kept by the Davenport firm in Greenville, Rocky Mount, Kinston and Goldsboro, and hundreds of memorandum slips found among the available New Bern records.

TRUMAN'S NEW HOUSING PLAN IS OPPOSED

Strong Forces Of GOP And Southern Democrats Face Emergency Bill

Washington, March 1—(AP)—Administration lieutenants rallied their forces today for a tough battle to save President Truman's emergency housing program in the House.

It was a touch-and-go proposition. House Republicans, reinforced by a contingent of Southern Democrats, threatened to produce enough votes to scrap the administration measure and enable opponents to write their own ticket on what should be done to provide more homes.

Democratic leaders acknowledged the tight spot they were in by maneuvering an early adjournment yesterday, thereby postponing the showdown on the legislation until today. The interval gave them a chance to line up votes for the final test, but opponents claimed the administration camp was none too optimistic.

Mr. Truman meanwhile emphasized the increasingly acute nature of the housing situation by an appeal to the nation's people to share any available living facilities with home-coming veterans.

The President urged all churches and synagogues to form housing committees to find homes for the men who are getting out of uniform.

Opponents of the administration's housing legislation took yesterday's early adjournment as a sign the program's supporters feared they lacked sufficient strength to put it over.

Just before the adjournment, Rep. Monroney (D-Okla.) informed the House that Housing Administrator Wilson W. Wyatt had told him in a (Continued on Page Four)

U. S. INVITES SOVIET TALKS

Discussion Of Billion Dollar Loan Is Proposed

Washington, March 1—(AP)—The United States has invited the Soviets to come here and talk over a one billion dollar loan.

This was disclosed today by a high ranking government official as President Truman told Congress he soon will recommend adding $1,250,000,000 to the lending powers of the Export-Import Bank to take care of loans to countries other than Britain.

Mr. Truman's message said treasury funds will be loaned only to Britain—providing Congress approves a projected $3,750,000,000 credit. Other borrowers will have to go to the Export-Import Bank.

The proposed British credit was described as a unique case which would not set a precedent for loans of treasury funds to other countries.

Expansion of the Export-Import Bank's lending authority by $1,250,000,000 would give the government backed institution a total of $3,250,000,000, to handle applications through June 30, 1948.

The declaration of administration policy on foreign lending came on the eve of arrival of representatives from France—which has voiced a need of $2,500,000,000—and re- (Continued on Page Four)

FBI Agents Begin Questioning Nurse

Kidnaped Taylor Child Homeward Bound With Relieved Parents; Detectives Confront Nurse With Warrant For Arrest

Annapolis, Md., March 1—(AP)—Two Charlotte, N. C., detectives arrived here today with a warrant charging a young nurse with kidnapping four-year-old Terry Taylor from her Charlotte home three days ago.

Chief of Detectives Frank N. Littlejohn and Detective W. J. Miller arrived here about an hour after Terry and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Taylor, had been reunited and departed for Washington to "catch a plane to Charlotte."

Littlejohn and Miller immediately began questioning the nurse at the home of Police Commissioner Thomas G. Basil, where she said Terry had spent the night after being identified and picked up by police and naval intelligence officers last night.

The warrant charging the nurse with abduction was made out against Rosemary Johnson, one of several names the girl has used and the name by which she was known in (Continued on Page Four)

Russians Attack U. S. Navy Plane

Washington, March 1—(AP)—Government officials said today two Russian fighter planes recently fired on a United States patrol plane after it flew over the Soviet airspace area at Port Arthur.

These officials, who declined direct attribution, said some damage was done the navy plane, but none of the eight officers and men aboard was injured.

The incident was said to have occurred off the China coast. The navy is reported to have taken the matter up with Russian authorities in the China area. The Russians are said here to contend that the American plane had no right to fly over the Port Arthur area, since it is a fortified zone. Consequently, they argue, the Soviet pilots were fully within their rights to open fire.

Best information here is that the American craft did not return the fire. An official report may be issued on the affair. There have been a series of exchanges between Washington and American naval commanders in the area about the incident.

The view generally expressed at the State Department is that the Russians may have been within their rights to take the action they did, and that even though he may have lost his bearings the American pilot had no legal right to fly over the area.

Misfortune Follows Georgian At Night

The fire spread, consuming his garage, a chicken house and the adjacent home of his daughter.

General CIO Strike Threatens Philadelphia Area; General Motors And Union Negotiators Fail To Reach Agreement; Balloting Presages Railroad Walkouts

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
The spotlight on the nation's industrial strife was focused on Philadelphia and Detroit today.

New violence appeared imminent in the Quaker City's General Electric strike in the wake of a threat by CIO union leaders to call a general work stoppage by some 150,000 workers to support mass picketing at the GE plant. Pennsylvania's governor said state police and the national guard would be used if necessary or he might ask for federal troops.

The CIO, meantime, threatened to call a general strike of 150,000 workers in Philadelphia in support of the GE workers.

In Detroit negotiations in the General Motors strike failed to achieve a settlement on the 121st day of the costly walkout today.

As corporation and union negotiators left a session with Federal Mediator James F. Dewey, Walter P. Reuther, of the striking CIO United Auto Workers, was asked if they reached an agreement.

"We did not," Reuther replied firmly.

Today's brief negotiating session was adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

President R. J. Thomas of the UAW-CIO, whose 175,000 GM production employees have been idle since November 21, affirmed Reuther's statement with a flat "No," to the query as to whether an understanding had been reached.

The threat of a general strike call to all CIO workers in the Philadelphia area came from the CIO Industrial Union Council which claims 150,000 members. The council also voted at a meeting of 75 CIO locals to fight the injunction banning mass picketing at the GE plant in state and federal courts "until we win."

The aid of CIO President Philip Murray was sought by the council to discuss ways and means to meet this attack, even to the extent of a general strike in Philadelphia, if necessary.

Ten leaders of the CIO Electrical Union, whose members are participating in a nationwide strike in support of demands for a $2 daily wage increase, faced contempt charges for ordering workers to defy the injunction.

Although a threat of a nationwide strike by some 250,000 telephone workers on March 7 remained, federal conciliators were successful in arranging for resumption of negotiations in New York Sunday between the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers. Earlier, a union spokesman said negotiations on the wage-hour dispute had collapsed and he said the union was "finished."

The country's continuing labor disputes kept idle approximately 985,000 workers.

Cleveland, March 1—(AP)—The heads of two railroad brotherhoods said today that with about 90 per cent of the balloting completed, sentiment is running 98.8 per cent in favor of a strike on the coast. (Continued on Page Two)

(Editor's Note: This is the 11th of 12 stories explaining who has to do what about his income taxes.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 1—(AP)—Will the full tax be withheld from your 1946 income?

If not, you must estimate what the full tax will be and start paying the difference between the tax withheld (if any) and the full tax due.

You must file the estimate and make the first of four tax payments by March 15. The other payments are due June 15, Sept. 15 and next Jan. 15.

Several million people will have to do this. (Full tax is being withheld from wages and salaries up to $5,000. So people in this group—most people are in this group—won't have to make any estimate or quarterly payment of their 1946 tax.)

But three main groups of people will have to do so. You will:

1. If you, income from salary or wages in 1946 will be more than $5,000; plus $500 for each exemption besides your own.

and start paying the difference between the tax withheld on the $6,000 and the full tax on $6,500.

2. If you had income of more than $100 from which tax was not withheld—and if it was in addition to income from which tax was withheld—and if the two incomes totalled $500 or more—you'd have to file an estimate and make the first payment on the difference between the tax withheld and the full tax due.

Example: You, single, made $4,500 in wages from which full tax was withheld. But you expected to receive an additional income of $101 from rent on a farm or room, or for some service for which no tax was withheld.

3. If you expect to make $500 or more from which no tax is withheld—like a doctor or lawyer paid in fees or a landlord living off rents—you'd have to file an estimate and start paying the tax.

If husband and wife both have income, one cannot use the other's exemption in deciding whether or not filing an estimate is necessary.

Example: If the husband's wages for the year are estimated at $5,100 and the wife's at $200, the husband must file an estimate since his income will be over $5,000. The wife, in this case, since her income is under $500, doesn't have to file an estimate unless she wants to.

If husband and wife both have incomes large enough to require an (Continued on Page Four)

Edict Bans Mass Demonstrations Which Have Ended In Bloodshed

Philadelphia, March 1—(AP)—Striking CIO General Electric Company workers today abandoned, at east temporarily, mass demonstrations which twice ended in violent street battles with police riot squads.

The action followed a city edict banning parading by the strikers and a threat of a general sympathy walkout of 150,000 CIO members in the Philadelphia metropolitan district.

About 230 strikers and sympathizers had gathered in the early morning hours just across the city line in Delaware county, a few blocks from the strikebound GE plant. More than 100 police massed near the entrance to the city to enforce the order against marching.

The strikers requested permission to enter Philadelphia and assistant police superintendent Guy E. Parsons said his forces would not interfere if they returned in small groups and dispersed. The strikers scattered and filtered slowly back to the city as police, on horseback and motorcycles, stood guard.

James H. Malone, director of public safety, announced over a loudspeaker set up in police patrol cars at the county line that the city would allow no parading by the strikers without a permit and that they had not applied for a city permit.

Almost 600 policemen had been detailed to the area with about 403 of them standing guard at the GE (Continued on Page Four)

TODAY IN CONGRESS

A Review Of Your Government In Action

Washington, March 1—(AP)—OPA, veterans, butter and a pair of presidential appointments became top topics in Congress today.

This happened: OPA: Industrial Henry J. Kaiser came out strong for a year's extension. Kaiser spoke to the House Banking Committee.

Veterans: A house subcommittee reporting on an investigation it made, said it had found some cases of beatings and mistreatment of patients in certain Veterans' Administration hospitals.

Butter Shortage: Don't blame the army for it, said Undersecretary of War Kenneth Royall. He told a house committee the army had turned loose about 100,000,000 pounds of butter for civilians this winter.

Edwin W. Pauley, Chief Crank, Los Angeles advertising man, said he employed two California state legislators for five months in 1939 and 1940 and that their salaries were paid by Pauley's petrol corporation.

Pauley, now in the navy undersecretary, previously had testified to the Senate Naval Committee he had no knowledge that any legislators had been employed by his company.

Crank said the legislators to whom he referred were John W. Evans and Cecil R. King.

Commodore James K. Vardaman, Jr., Senator Radcliffe (D-Md.), chairman of a subcommittee looking into arduous nomination to the Federal Reserve Board of Governors, announced results of a poll of 23 former business associates of the nominee. He said: "Some are for Vardaman, some say he is not qualified and two or three say they have no information of his qualifications."

Back to OPA: Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) called Gardner Ackley, the price executive of OPA's textile branch, "just the type that Congress wanted to eliminate" in a stand against "theorists and economists" controlling prices.

Ackley was testifying about clothing shortages to a Senate subcommittee. Deputy OPA Administrator Geoffrey Baker offered to supply a list of industry men who he said thought Ackley was a good man for the job.

The House was getting close to final action on housing legislation. The administration forces in the House acknowledged that they were in a tight spot when they late yesterday maneuvered for an early adjournment and put off final voting on the administration's housing program until today.

Action first was hoped for on Wednesday, but was delayed due to a wrangle among members over the Un-American Investigating Committee. Debate was resumed yesterday (Continued on Page Two)

The WORLD TODAY

AP World Traveler

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

Frankfurt, Germany, March 1—There is abroad in the American zone a spirit of uncertainty that strikes me as being a grave embarrassment to our military government which, it should be noted, has one of the world's toughest jobs.

I refer to a rather widespread feeling in this zone, and one finds it registered among some of our Allies, that the American public is weakening in its earlier determination to occupy Germany militarily to keep the peace and high water until all the Nazi and Prussian aggression had been knocked out of it.

This feeling has been engendered by a widespread and insistent demand by the home folk for immediate demobilization of soldier relatives, coupled with the lack of adequate replacements for those demobilized.

It's bad for the occupation forces and it's bad for the Germans, who are prone to look on it as a sign of weakness.

There is no call to deliver a homily in this column on the rehabilitation of Germany and Europe as a whole.

The Allied leadership has made the needs quite clear. Reformation of Germany and the politico-economic construction of Europe depend upon a long term occupation of the Reich by the Allies—by all the major Allies. The alternative is continued disorganization and ultimately more war.

The British appear to be set for at least a 30-year occupation. One assumes that the Russians and French have similar intentions.

Your columnist also assumes that the people of the United States have the same aim, but it would be most useful if this could be demonstrated for the benefit of the doubtful over here.

I was chatting with an American officer of high rank yesterday and asked him what he would think of America abandoning occupation of Germany.

He cast a caustic eye on me and replied: "Well, maybe it would be a good thing from one standpoint. It all depends on what the people back home want to achieve. So long as we maintain an army abroad and thus separate families we are lowering the birth rate in the United States. Perhaps on the whole the United States would prefer not to trouble with long military occupations but to fight a new war every 20 years."

He was drawing the long bow, of course, but his remark provides food for reflection.

Then there's another aspect of the situation which shouldn't be overlooked. Because of her geographical position Germany is likely to be the political balance wheel of Europe for a long time to come. This is a fall, her neutrality is vital. Should she fall under the influence of a great power it would create a situation that would invite another war.

Presidential Message On Monetary Problems

Washington, March 1—(AP)—The text of President Truman's message to Congress transmitting to it a report by the National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

On July 31, 1945, the Bretton Woods Agreements Act became law. In that legislation the Congress established the National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems "in order to coordinate the policies and operations of the representatives of the United States on the fund and the bank, and of all agencies of the government which make or participate in making foreign loans or which engage in foreign financial, exchange or monetary transactions." The Congress provided that the membership of the council should consist of the Secretary of the Treasury, as chairman, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Commerce, the Chairman of the board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and the Chairman of the board of Directors of the Export-Import Bank of Washington.

On August 9, 1945 the Secretary of the Treasury submitted for my approval a proposal as to the manner in which the National Advisory Council should proceed in performing the task assigned it. The essence of this proposal is contained in the following excerpt from the communication which the Secretary of the Treasury sent to me:

"As you can see from the attached memorandum, the United States government is now extending financial assistance to foreign governments through a large number of programs, administered by different departments and agencies, and with different procedures for inter-agency consultation. In order for the council to carry out the functions assigned to it, it seems to me necessary that the council should have a picture of the over-all program of financial transactions which it is proposed to carry out in the next period. On such a basis we can make decisions in a rational way, strike the best bargains with foreign countries, and save money for the taxpayer."

On August 10, 1945 I expressed my complete approval of the proposal and requested the council to proceed along the lines indicated. Promptly thereafter the council completed its organization and commenced to function without delay. Since that time the council has labored unflinchingly in the performance of its duties.

I have now received from the National Advisory Council a document containing significant conclusions concerning the entire problem of foreign lending. The council in submitting the document to me stated:

"At an early date the council undertook to consider proposals and applications for foreign loans, and to study the problems and broad implications of foreign lending. The statement which is now submitted to you is an outgrowth of these activities of the council and represents our present view. The council will continue to study these matters and will report further to you as the rapidly changing conditions at home and abroad may require."

This document which is based upon the careful study and direct experience of the body established by the Congress to coordinate the foreign financial activities of this government I now transmit to the Congress for its information and consideration.

I fully endorse the recommendations of the National Advisory Council. Furthermore, I wish to emphasize that in my judgment the successful execution of this policy, including the implementation of the financial agreement with the United Kingdom, which I transmitted to the Congress on January 30, 1946, is of basic importance in the attainment of the objectives of the economic foreign policy of the United States. The international economic cooperation which is the keynote of our economic foreign policy must accompany international political cooperation, and we must achieve both if world peace is to be enduring.

The statement of the National Advisory Council concerning foreign loans reaches the conclusion that the export-import bank will require during the next fiscal year additional lending authority of $1.4 billion. I endorse this conclusion and at a later date I will discuss further with the Congress the need of appropriate legislation.

State Guard Units Move Into Columbia

Columbia, Tenn., March 1—(AP)—State guard reinforcements, called out after two Negroes were killed in a fresh outbreak of gunplay, moved into Columbia today to join units hurried here earlier in the week when racial disorders flared. They were among 100 persons arrested after the violence had been touched off by an altercation in which a Negro woman and her son were accused of assaulting a white man and the subsequent wounding of four policemen who went into the Negro section known as "Mink Slide."

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

THE STREAM OF TRAFFIC TURNED

The ancient Romans built their roads with great care. Even to this day these roads call forth the admiration of all who travel over them. They linked the whole of the Roman Empire with the great city at the center.

But what the Romans did not realize as they made their roads was that these very roads would some day constitute smooth highways over which the barbarians would pour down upon the empire to destroy it. The roads were a great asset as long as Rome was sending her soldiers and merchants into the distant portions of the world to further Rome's glory. These very roads, however, became the worst enemy of Rome when the barbarians started on their campaign of destruction.

The trouble with Rome was that she was the purely materialistic. She prided herself on being practical. As the nation became rich and sophisticated, her citizens lost whatever religious faith their forefathers had had. Rome went plunging on, believing that there would be no sunset to her day of glory. But there was. Because Rome was weak at the center of her life, the traffic on the Roman roads turned. Instead of Rome going out to conquer, the barbarians rushed in to take possession of the Empire. This they were able to do because the citizens of Rome had become weak and effete—too feeble to use their highways to their own benefit.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By ALA STINNETT

Washington.—The retirement of Harold L. Ickes from the cabinet has political observers here turning speculative lips over the future of Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace.

Wallace in his recent speech to the press conference at Cleveland, made it clear that he was convinced that President Truman would run in 1948 and equally clear that he, Wallace, would not be a candidate for the vice-presidency.

The speculators, however, were not at all satisfied. They pointed out:

(1) That Wallace, already the acknowledged leader of the liberal left section of the Democratic party, made a powerful appeal at Cleveland to the white collar workers, in spite of their lack of organization, can be the nation's most potent voting force.

(2) That Wallace ducked any direct answer whether he might run for the presidency in 1948 or the vice-presidency again in case Truman didn't run by insisting, "But Truman is going to run."

(3) That he hasn't really given any clue as to whether he will stay on in the cabinet. Among the more level heads here, there isn't any questions but that Wallace was string along and enjoy being the cabinet's only political question mark. Wallace co-jo, they say, from the Truman camp and take more votes with him than a score of Ickeses could ever swing. But where would he take them?

Wallace is an ideologist first, a party member second. If the Republicans nominated another Wallace in 1948 he might be tempted to leave the Democratic party, but only if.

On the other hand, Wallace's friends point out that he is No. 2 man in the party today. If, they say, the heat on President Truman turns into a political prairie fire, Wallace would be the only one to whom the Democratic party could turn for leadership in 1948.

Ickes left (some say was kicked out of) the cabinet with two achievement prizes just ahead.

He publicly expressed reluctance over departing before consummation of the Anglo-American oil treaty. Practically unknown to the public are plans for an international conference of the world's oil, coal, lumber and other natural resources.

The United States would be sponsor of this conference and our secretary of the interior would be host.

Interior Pains

Showdown . . .

charted a course of conduct today for relations among the world's great and small powers.

Calling for a "stop to this maneuvering for strategic advantages all over the world and to the use of one adjustment as an entering wedge for further and undisclosed generations of power." Byrnes in addressing the overseas press club last night, laid down this seven point list of "musts" for the world's nations:

1. "We will not and we cannot stand aloof if force or the threat of force is used contrary to the purposes of the (United Nations) charter."

2. "We have no right to hold out troops in the territories of other sovereign states without their approval and consent freely given."

3. "We must not uncritically prolong the making of peace and continue to impose our troops upon small and impoverished nations."

4. "No power has a right to help itself to alleged enemy property, in liberated or ex-satellite countries, as a reparations settlement has been agreed upon by the allies. We have not and will not agree to any power deciding for itself what it will take from these countries."

5. "We must not conduct a war of nerves to achieve strategic ends."

6. "We do not want to stumble and stagger into situations where no power intends war, but no power will be able to avert war."

7. "We must not regard the drawing of attention to situations which might endanger the peace as a affront to the nation or nation responsible for those situations."

Byrnes outlined this course in a speech after saying that the United States "openly, gladly and wholeheartedly welcomed Russia as a great power second to none."

There probably isn't anything in this career that the "most important conservationist-licks would have considered more important than the loss of a man in such a world conference."

estimate both must make an estimate.

They can do it separately or jointly. At the end of the year they can decide whether they want to make their final return jointly or separately.

Suppose now you are not one of those required to file an estimate but later in the year find that you are because of changes in your income or for some other reason.

In that case, file your estimate by next payment date, June 15, or Sept. 15, or Jan. 15, 1947.

As to farmers: They don't have to file an estimate on their 1946 income or make any payment until January 15, 1947. On that date, however, they must pay in full.

Congress late in 1945 made changes in the tax law to reduce the tax on all incomes.

So in making your 1946 estimate you can't use the method you used in figuring out your 1945 tax. The new procedure will be explained tomorrow.

FBI Agent . . .

Taylor arrived here about 6:25 A. M. after a plane and automobile trip from Charlotte. The child and the nurse posing as her mother, were identified and picked up by police here last night.

Mrs. Taylor, first to enter Commissioner Basil's living room, found her little daughter munching cookies.

Terry looked up and said "hello." "Hello, darling," the mother replied. "Did you have a good time?" "Yes," Terry said still nibbling.

Dr. Taylor then entered the room and both the mother and father kissed the little girl, whose mouth was smeared with cookie crumbs.

Also in the room were reporters, photographers, radiomen and news reel cameramen.

"You never saw so many people before did you?" Dr. Taylor asked Terry.

No," she said.

Terry was dressed in the brown corduroy slacks and blue corduroy coat she was wearing when she and her nurse disappeared from Charlotte. These clothes helped lead to her identification last night.

Mrs. Taylor said she was notified at 8 o'clock last night that Terry and the nurse had been found here. "I never had doubted that the child would be found," she said. "I have no feeling of malice toward the nurse. Rather, I have pity for her."

French Close . . .

In Spain, he had entered France illegally and had been apprehended.

French officials were trying to send him back before the border closed, but Spanish officials didn't want him either.

The only commercial traffic which will be permitted between the two countries is food enroute to Portugal or Switzerland, and UNRRA supplies in transit through Spain. Some concern was expressed here that this might further cut the already scarce food supply, since France has been importing quantities of fruit and nuts.

In Paris, the political bureau of the French Communist Party adopted as a motto: "Not one boat, not one train, not one automobile, not one bit of merchandise for Franco's Spain. Down with Franco. Long live Republican Spain."

telephone conversation from Chicago that the National Association of Home Builders, meeting there, had endorsed important provisions of President Truman's housing program, including:

1. Payment of $600,000,000 in subsidies to bring out larger production of building materials. Wyatt previously had said these "premium payments" were the key to the program to construct 2,700,000 houses for veterans in two years.

2. An increase of $1,000,000,000 in the government's authority to insure mortgages on new homes.

3. Giving to Wyatt the broad powers by legislation already vested in him by presidential order.

Opposition to the administration bill has pivoted on an argument that it would hamstring the building industry and deter rather than encourage the building of houses. Whether the action of the Home Builders Association changed any votes overnight was not immediately apparent.

Raleigh, March 1.—(AP)—The lineups of the semi-finals of the 25th annual Southern Conference basketball tournament here tonight are just as if they had been planned that way.

It's top-seeded North Carolina against Wake Forest, fourth place winner during the regular season, in the first game at 7:30; followed at 9:30 by second-seeded Duke and Virginia Tech, which had the third best won-lost record during the winter.

The fast-breaking North Carolina White Phantoms had a merry time last night at the expense of a Maryland team that had left two of its stars home with the flu. Doubling the score in the 54-27 triumph, heavily-favored Carolina turned the game into a rout during the last half.

Duke got the biggest scare of any of the favorites before copping an overtime game from North Carolina State, 44-38. The two teams battled on even terms during the first half, with Steele retiring with a two-point lead, 20-18. The Raleigh club pulled away from the Dukes after intermission, and led by eight points midway the second period.

But the loss of Captain L. S. Hartzog, who fouled out of the game at this point, weakened the scrapping State club. Slowly the Blue Devils crept up, and Bubber Seward, a returned prisoner of war, tapped in a rebound with two minutes to go to send the game into an extra period. State didn't threaten during the extra five minutes.

The third North Carolina five to enter the semi-finals, Wake Forest, had little trouble with William and Mary, winning 42-31.

Virginia Tech moved into the semi-finals as a result of a 39-33 decision over the Colonials of George Washington. A couple of sharpshooting forwards, Charley Harris and J. P. Ruddell, carry the hopes of the Gobblers against Duke.

Tall Ed Koffenberg, Duke center, paced the scoring for the first round games, tallying 16. He was followed by Joe Hinerman of Wake Forest with 14. Carolina's John Dillin, the conference's leading scorer during the season, ripped through 13 points, followed by Harris and Ruddell of Virginia Tech, and Stan Magdziak of William and Mary with 11 each.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Don't tell Joe McCarthy, but Connie Mack has changed his mind about the New York Yankees. The sage of baseball now doubts very much that the Bronx Busters will win the American League pennant.

That's quite a comedown for the men of McCarthy. They have been Mr. Mack's favorite first place team selection in the American League for many seasons. They were this year—up to today.

It was only a short time ago that Connie was quoted:

"The Yankees are the team to beat. Once again, they should be too strong for the rest of the league!"

But, since the 83-year-old manager of the Athletics has seen his own squad in action, and studied rosters of other junior circuit nines, he has lost some of the respect he had for the New Yorkers.

"We're going to have one of the greatest hitting seasons baseball has ever known," assures Mr. Mack, "and I don't think the Yankees have enough pitching strength to stop the sluggers and win the pennant."

"We're going to see a great race between five teams," says Mr. Mack, with all his enthusiasm, "and pitching will decide the winner."

He wouldn't say which five he meant, but the royal guess is that he has his eyes on the Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers, Washington Senators, Cleveland Indians, and the Yankees.

"The manager who finds a way to stop the sluggers who are coming back on every team will be in the World Series next fall. I hope I can find a way to do it!"

And so do millions of baseball fans, Mr. Mack.

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., the New York - Pennsylvania featherweight champion, goes after his 93rd victory in 95 bouts tonight in a non-title 10-rounder against Baltimore's Jimmy McAllister at Madison Square Garden. McAllister held Pep to a draw last December in Baltimore.

Have you ever seen a Brave Man Cry?

IT HAPPENED somewhere in the Pacific. The boys of the 5th Air Force were "occupying" a God-forsaken jungle island which had been taken from the Japs.

The heat, and the bugs, and the dirt were unbearable. The loneliness was beyond belief—beyond anything we who haven't been there can imagine.

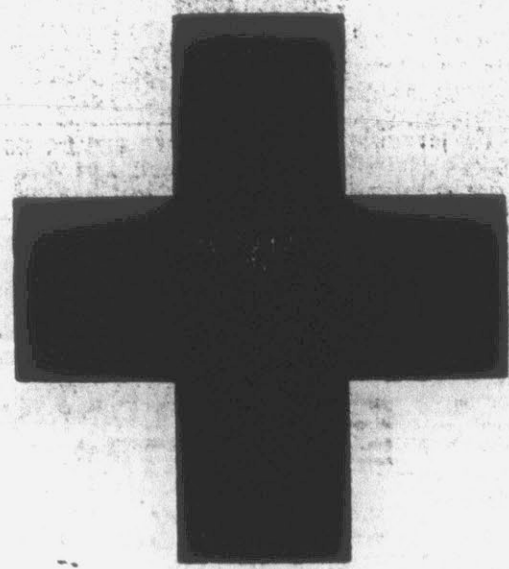

Then—on a sweltering airstrip one morning a plane came down out of the sky. And out of it stepped two Red Cross girls, American girls.

"Hi there, Soldiers!" Their voices were like magic.

American girls, like the sisters and sweethearts they hadn't seen for so many long months—greeting them as they'd been greeted so often in the old, happy days at home. Yes, tears filled the eyes of more than one of those fighting men. Brave men they were, crying unashamed!

Many thousands of our men are still overseas. They're lonely. They're homesick. They need your Red Cross now. And Red Cross men and women are at their side. But only you can keep them there. Through your contributions you make it possible for the Red Cross to see them through. Give today!

YOUR Red Cross MUST CARRY ON . . . GIVE!

BIBLE MAN LOST 20 LBS. REGAINS 15 ON RETONGA

Famous Medicine Gave Him More Relief Than Everything Else Combined, Declares Mr. Green. Can Eat Plenty Now.

"Retonga gave me more relief than everything put together. It is a pleasure to recommend such a grand medicine to others," declares Mr. John B. Green, well-known resident of 307 Walker Avenue, Greensboro, N. C. Mr. Green is a Bible salesman and travels extensively in Virginia, North and South Carolina and Florida.

"I was 20 lbs. underweight and my strength was below par," continued Mr. Green. "For the past five years it seemed to me that every meal I ate disagreed with me. I did not seem to get enough strength from what I did manage to eat, and I had spells of heart-burn that felt like I had swallowed hot coals. It usually took me two or three hours to get to sleep. My elimination was so sluggish that I had to take powerful laxatives all the time."

The relief Retonga gave me sur-

Robert Humber Praised By Well Known Editor

Editor's Note — Roy Parker, well known eastern North Carolina newspaperman and member of the faculty of the Department of Journalism at the University of North Carolina, carried the following article on Robert Lee Humber in the Hertford County Herald (Ahoskie) last week.

I AM BOOSTED. . . My morale was restored, my faith in mankind was renewed, and my spark of idealism was rekindled as the result of a talkfest of some 2 1/2 hours I had last Friday with an old schoolmate. I had not seen the fellow since 1915 but in recent years I had read and heard much about him. From what I had read and heard I had woefully misjudged the man. In my little book he had been wrongfully classified. His name (until Friday) could be found on the page where I had listed members of The Order of Intellectual High-Hatters.

I WAS WRONG. . . Some years ago I quit trying to be consistent in my thinking and in my writing. Likewise, I ceased believing my ideas, my plans, and my appraisals of things that are and that are to be were the sine qua non of what has been, what is now, and what is to come. In simple language and in a much shorter sentence: I can be wrong, and quite often I am wrong.

THE MAN WHO PROVED IT. . . It was Robert Lee Humber who proved me wrong again. I was not mistaken about his intellectual capacity but I was away off base in assuming that Robert Lee Humber was a stratospheric intellectual. On the other hand, he and his mind are firmly planted in the grass roots.

WHO IS HE. . . In the more formal columns of this newspaper and to you who read he is Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, N. C., the USA and the Western Hemisphere. If you have heard or read of him at all it was in connection with his activities as an apostle of a world federation of law and order. I am not sure that is the correct wording of his plan, despite the fact I read numbers of documents and personal letters that came out of his bulging brief case during the hours spent in his presence. The easy flow of his talk, spoken in flawless English with all punctuations perfectly placed, intrigued me so I forgot to take down in my notebook the official wording of his world plan. For the purpose of these observations it doesn't particularly matter.

PRACTICAL IDEALIST. . . If there is any such thing as practical idealism, Robert Lee Humber has it. He not only has it but he practices it, and, better than that, he practices it not only in speech-making and writing out he also does it in give-and-take, person-to-person, down-to-earth private talks and debates with folks. He is no ivory tower operator.

HUMBER HAS SOMETHING. . . It's my idea the USA is filled with folks whose first impulse was to shove Humber and his talk of world law and order aside with the thought, "Here is another impractical idealist with another crackpot scheme to the headlines." That is a conjecture but it is a fairly reasonable conclusion when you remember he has taken his ideas and plans to more than 30 state law-making bodies in the USA, that at least 14 states have passed resolutions approving them, and that several other legislatures have them under consideration. I am convinced Humber does have something.

FACTUAL DATA. . . Humber was born and got his raising in Pitt County, where a lot of Humber forebears, dating back to the 1600's, were born, lived, and died. I knew him as a Wake Forest College student and as instructor in English. Later he won a Rhodes Scholarship and spent some years at Oxford University, England. Later, he got to France. I don't know the in-betweens and he was in Paris when the war clouds obscured Europe. He had picked up a law degree and a license to practice during the educational process, and in Paris his work was in the law.

HE CAME BACK. . . War brought him back to the USA and he brought with him to his home country is plan for world law and order. For almost six years he has preached it, written about it, talked it, and lived it, with results noted in the above paragraph.

WILSONIAN ZEAL. . . All I know about Woodrow Wilson is what I have read and heard others tell, but unless all I have heard and read is wrong he must have had for his League of Nations plan the same brand of zeal this man Humber is displaying in his campaign to put over an idea. All I know is, Humber has a basically sound plan, he has the intellectual capacity for sound leadership and he is being practical enough to implement it through the channels this country has provided for getting things done. And, to get personal, Huber has the appearance of possessing the physical hardihood and capacity to spend many more years carrying the gospel to the places where it is needed most.

I FORGIVE HIM. . . I made apologies to him last Friday for the error in classification. I told him the fact he didn't acknowledge a personal note I had mailed to him when he first returned to this country. The man has been very busy carrying the gospel around the USA on his own initiative and at his own expense.

"CRAZY CHRIS"

...they called him!

Christopher Columbus, like many another pioneer before and after him, had a hard time convincing people that he knew what he was talking about. He was more progressive than his fellows. His ideas were way ahead of his time. He suffered the consequences... until he proved that he was right. Smith-Douglass has a fellow feeling for pioneers who have dared to be different.

FIRST TO MAKE TOBACCO PLANT BED FERTILIZER

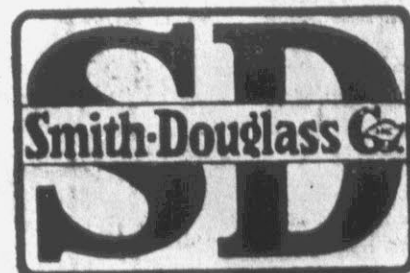

You may recall that Smith-Douglass was the first to make a fertilizer especially for Tobacco Plant Beds. Prior to that time, any tobacco fertilizer was "good enough" for plant beds. Smith-Douglass didn't think so. They made one that was better. Farmers and competitors were skeptical. But you know the story. Fertilizer manufacturers have been trying ever since to make a fertilizer like S-D "Blue Ribbon Guano" for tobacco plant beds.

FAMOUS S-D "ORANGE" WAS DIFFERENT, TOO

Remember when Smith-Douglass first introduced "Orange" Tobacco Fertilizer? It was different, too. Today competitors are frankly jealous of the reputation that this and other Smith-Douglass Fertilizers have attained.

Smith-Douglass firmly believes that you can never manufacture a better fertilizer if you are content to make your goods "just like" or merely "just as good as" the other fellow's. "Just as good" isn't good enough for Smith-Douglass. We have always pioneered in our fertilizer formulas. Results have justified our judgment. S-D Tobacco Fertilizers have consistently given the tobacco farmer more pounds of tobacco and more dollars for his crop. We are convinced that tobacco farmers want that kind of fertilizer. We feel that we would be lacking in our duty to our customers unless we continue to pioneer in making that kind of fertilizer for them. Yes, Smith-Douglass Fertilizers are "Different." They could never have attained their reputation otherwise.

Winchester Is
New Farm Agent

By CHESTER WALSH

Sam A. Winchester, young, progressive and thoroughly experienced, was officially installed as Pitt County farm agent today. He succeeded Floyd F. Hendrix, who resigned recently to enter the farm machinery business in Greenville. Hendrix is credited with doing outstanding work as farm agent. He is popular with farmers and others.

Winchester is a native of Guilford County. He graduated from State College in 1935. Shortly afterwards he went to Johnston County as assistant farm agent and remained there five years. He then went with the Farm Security Administration and was stationed in Guilford County. After that he became assistant farm agent in Pitt County and served four years. About a year ago he resigned to become farm agent in Jones County. When Hendrix resigned Winchester was the unanimous choice of the county commissioners for Pitt County farm agent.

Hendrix is a member of the firm of Hendrix-Barnhill Equipment Company, recently organized here to handle farm machinery.

Michigan Mayor On Visit In Greenville

Mayor Fred Reader II of Scottville, Mich., spending several days at the Proctor Hotel here to visit with his son, Pfc. Fred Reader III, stationed at the Cherry Point Marine Base, believes Greenville has a great future.

"Your climate in this section is ideal, the people here are live and wide awake and they are so friendly," he said.

The Michigan mayor has visited Greenville several times to be near his son at Cherry Point before he went to the Pacific war theater. He is in the farm machinery business in Scottville and active in fraternal affairs. His daughter, Miss Patricia Reader, and his son's fiancée, Miss Julia Buckhorn of Scottville, accompanied him on this trip.

Japs Man U. S. Ships
To Speed Evacuation

Washington, March 1—(AP)—Two hundred American ships manned by Japanese crews will speed the evacuation of some 3,000,000 Japanese remaining in China, Manchuria and Formosa, the War and Navy Departments announced jointly today.

The army is making available 100 Liberty ships and the navy already has turned over 100 surplus LST's (Landing Ship Tanks). They hope to complete the evacuation by the end of 1946.

STATE—"TEXAS PANHANDLE" with Charles Starrett, Serial.

$824. Only $50 was paid in commissions to solicitors.

Here are the figures Ragsdale compiled on the operations at other branch offices:

Goldsboro: From June 19 to August 29: Deposits, $69,444.70; interest paid on deposits, $16,257.72; loans made $22,214.25; received back on loans and including principal, $21,712; sent to New Bern, $47,285; sent to Kinston $1,700; sent to Davenport, $850; expenses, $785; withdrawals, $21,946; and withdrawn for deposit in banks, $7,000.

(The State contends that the Kinston and Goldsboro offices were opened in February, 1944, and that the figures on them therefore would be very incomplete.)

Rocky Mount:—July 1 to September 2: Deposits, $24,295; interest paid on deposits, $4,835.55; loans, $7,261; received on loans and including principal, $3,544.35; withdrawals, $6,020; expenses, $234.59; sent to Davenport, $2,500; sent to Kinston office, $753.14; sent to Wilson Boyles personally, $1,002.39.

Kinston: From March 13 to August 30 (minus a two weeks period in June for which no records are available): Deposits, $157,884; interest paid, $78,600.30; loans, $22,692; received back on loans and including principal paid back, $18,212.54; sent to New Bern, $1,879.90; expense, $1,256; sent to Davenport personally, $12,557.12; paid to A. N. Arnold, a mail carrier who paid off interest to depositors on his mail route, $10,106; and sent to Goldsboro, $1,500.

Prior to presenting its figures, the State placed Deputy Sheriffs L. E. Manning and C. A. Jackson on the stand to show that Davenport searched through the box containing the memorandum slips impounded from the New Bern office, and that apparently Davenport was not interested in the memoranda in his own compilation of what actually went on in his business.

Davenport previously had testified that his total deposits amounted to only about $260,000, and said he reduced this by $100,000 in the last month of his operations, leaving a new total of only $160,000 in deposits. He then said his cash assets were set at approximately $200,000 by the bankruptcy court, and his liabilities at approximately $150,000, leaving him $50,000 more than solvent.

Famed Speaker Talks
Before Bethel Club

Robert L. Humber spoke at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club in Bethel Tuesday evening. C. W. Everett, president, presided.

State Sen. Arthur B. Corey introduced Mr. Humber as a man with a more intimate knowledge of state statistics than any man he knows. Mr. Humber used his world famous plan for World Federation as the topic of his speech. He spoke with a clarity and firmness of purpose that marks him as a man with a profound belief in his dream of a world freed from fear, and united for the betterment of mankind.

Abbott McWhorter, who was in charge of the program, later said: "I have twice heard William Jennings Bryan, and I have listened to some of Mr. Roosevelt's finest addresses, but neither of them held me as spellbound as did Mr. Humber Tuesday evening."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

OLD JUDGE: "Hank, you're a big grain producer... let me ask you a question or two?"

HANK: "Glad to have you, Judge."

OLD JUDGE: "Do you think the grain used by distillers is wasted as some folks are saying?"

HANK: "I certainly do Not! As a matter of fact, it is just the opposite."

OLD JUDGE: "How do you figure that, Hank?"

HANK: "From my own experience and from reports I've read: For the year endin' last June, the distillers produced over 1,200,000,000 pounds of distillers' dried grains... the best feed supplements we can lay our hands on. They are rich in nutrients. Why... I've never had such fat dairy cows, livestock and poultry as I have since I've been usin' these dried grains."

OLD JUDGE: "How do you use them, Hank?"

HANK: "I blend them in with original grain. This balanced ration has far greater feed value than the original grain itself. I can cut down on my whole grain feeding about 20% and still get better results."
