TERRITORY AMBITIONS LAID TO IRAN

Mighty Russia Asserts Tiny Iran Has Hopes Of Seizing Soviet Areas

London, March 14—(AP)—The Moscow radio declared today that forces of "Iranian reaction" hoped to seize Russian territory by pitting the Soviet Union against "other great powers."

Quoting from the first of four articles by Russian writer Alexeev, the radio said the situation on the Soviet Union's southern border was such that it "demands great vigilance on the part of the Soviet government toward the activity of Iranian governing circles and of their foreign policy."

The article, as broadcast asserted that the Iranian ambitions were first revealed in March, 1919, when the Iranian government at the Paris peace conference laid claims to Russian territory, including the whole of Azerbaijan with Baku, Soviet Armenia with the town of Yerevan, part of Dagestan, the sub-Caspian district in the north and east with the towns of Ashkhabad, Krasnogorsk, Merv and others.

"Thus the governing group was dreaming of the acquisition of Soviet territory, not without encouragement from abroad," the broadcast continued. "x x x in fact the government wanted to make the Caspian Sea a Persian one."

"Some of the originators of these aggressive plans even now have great influence on the direction of Iranian foreign policy x x x"

"Of course these Iranian officials are not so brazen as to understand that by their own power they are in no position to fulfill such territorial claims against the Soviet Union. In view of this, their policy, they are trying to bring the Soviet Union up against other great powers and hope to reach their ends by these means."

Turkey and Iraq, both British allies. Tehran dispatches said one column which moved northward out of the Azerbaijan capital of Tabriz toward the Soviet border had swung westward toward Kohi, near the Turkish frontier and not far below the Turkish landmark of Mt. Ararat.

This column was swinging north of Lake Urmia, while below the lake other columns, moving mostly at night, were reported at Miya, and at Mahneh, the terminal of a railroad to Tehran.

UNRRA Meets For International Help

Delegates From Forty-Seven Nations Gather In Effort To Stave Off Promise Of Famine For Untold Millions

Washington, March 14—(AP)—A desperate search for food and funds to replenish the world's lean larders will bring delegates from 47 nations together tomorrow in Atlantic City for UNRRA's fourth council meeting.

In the midst of an international situation gravely complicated by diplomatic differences, the delegates' chief attention will be focused upon a problem which has bridged ideological disputes—the task of helping millions impoverished by war.

It is not a simple job.

Expert opinion is that even with the most expert planning, worldwide conservation, and skillful administration, starvation and suffering cannot be completely averted.

Three years ago, UNRRA—the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration—was born in the same setting as this meeting which may be the last in the organization's history.

Then, it was a fledgling test of international cooperation in peacetime.

Now, while retaining some of that significance, it is concerned more immediately with eradicating existing causes of unrest—hunger, untold millions, homeless thousands of political refugees, inadequate shipping facilities and wrecked industries.

Among the major problems which will confront the delegates are:

1. What agency will take over UNRRA's work in the future. Under present plans, its operations in Europe are scheduled to end by Dec. 31; in Asia by the middle of next year. But its officials acknowledge that much will remain to be done in both areas after those deadlines.
2. Russia's probably renewed request to deny political refugees UNRRA aid unless they return to their homelands. This proposal was rejected by the council at its meeting last Fall in London. American diplomatic sources here say that there are approximately 67,000 Poles in Germany alone, aside from Polish troops in England, Germany and Italy.
3. A congressional mandate to the American delegation to press for free movement of press representatives in countries receiving UNRRA aid.
4. An effort to obtain aid from Argentina, Syria, Lebanon and Turkey—four countries in the United Nations, but not members of UNRRA.

The delegates have to select a new director general to succeed Herbert H. Lehman, who is resigning due to his health. Possibilities mentioned include former President Herbert Hoover; John Winant, Ambassador to Great Britain; and Averell Harriman, former ambassador to Russia.

Writing Of World's Peace Is Imperiled

Greenville Man To Run For Seat In Congress

ROBERT LEE HUMBER

The welfare and problems of the farmer have been a subject of special concern to Mr. Humber. He has frequently made speeches emphasizing the necessity of stabilizing the income of farmers and of keeping their revenue on a par with industrial changes, indicating that he is not only a student but a champion of the farmers' interest.

Farm income, he says, must be sustained on a high level, if the prosperity of this nation is to continue, or else half of the population of this country will cease to be customers and the industrial fabric of the nation will crumble. He has repeatedly stressed the enormous potentialities embedded in the soil and climate of Eastern North Carolina which have scarcely been touched or developed. Through the maintenance of a just equilibrium between farm and industrial income, the diversification of agriculture and the establishment of more small businesses, the growth of Eastern North Carolina can, he said be made more secure.

In 1940, believing that if the peace, following World War II, was to be won, the people of America, themselves, would have to win it, he organized among the people of Eastern North Carolina a movement for World Federation, which seeks to establish law as the means of maintaining world order by punishing individuals who commit international crime, instead of the present method of fighting nations and destroying through war the innocent as well as the guilty. The movement has spread throughout the state.

Robert Lee Humber, Greenville native, today announced his candidacy for Congress from the First District of North Carolina. For several weeks, Mr. Humber's friends in this community have urged him to make a race and reports from other sections of the district indicated that his candidacy would be welcomed. The Pitt County Star Association, in its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, officially approved Mr. Humber's candidacy for the office, now held by Herbert C. Bonner of Washington.

The last Pitt Countyman to represent the First District in Congress was the late Harry Skinner who served a single term ending in 1908.

Anglo-American Disputes With Russia Are Reflected In Treaty-Writing Issues Over Territorial Claims In Balkans; Work Is Slowed By Mutual Distrust

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, March 14—(AP)—Russia's 20-it-alone policy has diplomatic authorities here concerned today lest the whole job of writing the peace for World War II be imperiled.

Such situations as the one which has arisen in Iran have reactions in many other fields of foreign relations. Hence they may affect not only the forthcoming meeting of the United Nations Security Council at New York but also the plans for writing a European peace at Paris beginning May 1.

There has been some talk of delaying the Paris conference until later in the year to allow more time for the big power foreign ministers to draft tentative treaties.

But some American officials consider so urgent the need to get some sort of peaceful order agreed to internationally that they may insist on going ahead with the May 1 date. It is called for in the Anglo-American-Soviet understanding reached at Moscow last December.

Treaties to be written are those for Italy, the Balkan states and Finland.

In the American view until they are disposed of there will be no final withdrawal of foreign troops from the countries involved, particularly the Balkan trouble spots. Also in the American view, until the troops are removed there can be no lasting hope of restoring the full independence of those countries and minimizing troubles in them.

Specifically, the Anglo-American disputes with Russia are reflected in such treaty-writing issues as Italian and Yugoslav claims over Trieste and Italian and Austrian claims to the South Tyrol. Both of these involve regions lying between the Russian and western zones of influence in Europe.

Diplomats familiar with the situation describe the work on these issues as slowed by the mutual distrust and suspicions of the two great power factions—factions which have been pushed further apart by the failure of Russia to pull her troops out of Iran by the March 2 deadline and by the latest reports reflecting instead of the movement of reinforced Red army units deeper into the country.

From the American government's viewpoint, the critical question now is Russia's ultimate foreign policy objectives. About this two theories are most frequently voiced here.

No Successor To Pauley Chosen

Washington, March 14—(AP)—President Truman has not made his mind up who he will name for navy undersecretary now that Edwin W. Pauley has withdrawn, the White House said today.

While there was plenty of guessing on Capitol Hill about prospective nominees, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters that "no name has been decided upon."

He added it was "unlikely" that Mr. Truman would be ready to announce the nomination at a news conference late today.

Four names figured immediately in the speculation: H. Struve Hansen, recently resigned assistant secretary, and John L. Sullivan, a present assistant secretary; Joseph Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain; and Colgate W. Dargatzis, former governor of Virginia.

The President was expected to lose no time in filling the position. The senate hesitated six full weeks on Pauley.

NEW E. C. T. C. HEAD ELECTED

Dr. L. E. Spikes Is Unanimously Elected By Board of Trustees.

Trustees of East Carolina Teachers College today unanimously elected Dr. L. E. Spikes, superintendent of Burlington schools, as president of the institution to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Dr. L. R. Meadows nearly two years ago. Dr. Howard J. McGinnis has been acting president since May 1, 1944.

Whether Spikes would accept was not immediately known, but it was understood he would not take the position unless the $6,000 salary were increased. Efforts to increase the salary have been underway for several days, according to Hush Horton, chairman of a sub-committee handling selection of a new president.

Secret Service May Drop "Reds"

Washington, March 14—(AP)—Chairman May (D-Ky.) disclosed today that a House Military subcommittee has requested the State Department to rid its intelligence service of personnel with "strong Soviet leanings."

May, who heads the subcommittee as well as the full committee, declined to give details except to say that his group has been studying the intelligence set-up for some time and intends to pursue the investigation until conditions it ascertained are cleared up.

But other subcommittee members privately said "strong representations" have been made to Secretary of State Byrnes. And they promised "definite committee action unless Mr. Byrnes takes action quickly."

To date, they declared, none of the personnel complained of has been removed.

ECTC Tops Quota Set In Fund Drive

Final reports from the drive for Red Cross funds on the campus at East Carolina Teachers College show a total contribution of $660 from the faculty and the student body. J. B. Cummings, faculty member who headed the drive, says that the amount is larger than the quota assigned to the college and is more than two thirds of what was contributed last year.

Jarvis Hall, one of the four dormitories for women students, made the best showing among college units, all living there having contributed. Of the total amount contributed, students gave about a third, and faculty members about two thirds.

Goering Steals Spotlight In Testimony Before Tribunal

Nuernberg, March 14—(AP)—Hermann Goering testified before the international military tribunal today that he asked Adolf Hitler to send help to Generalissimo Francisco Franco during the Spanish civil war "to prevent the spread of Communism and to try our young air force experimentally."

"At that time," said Goering of Nazi intervention in Spain, "I had no opportunity to see if we had the proper equipment, and I saw to it that the personnel got some experience."

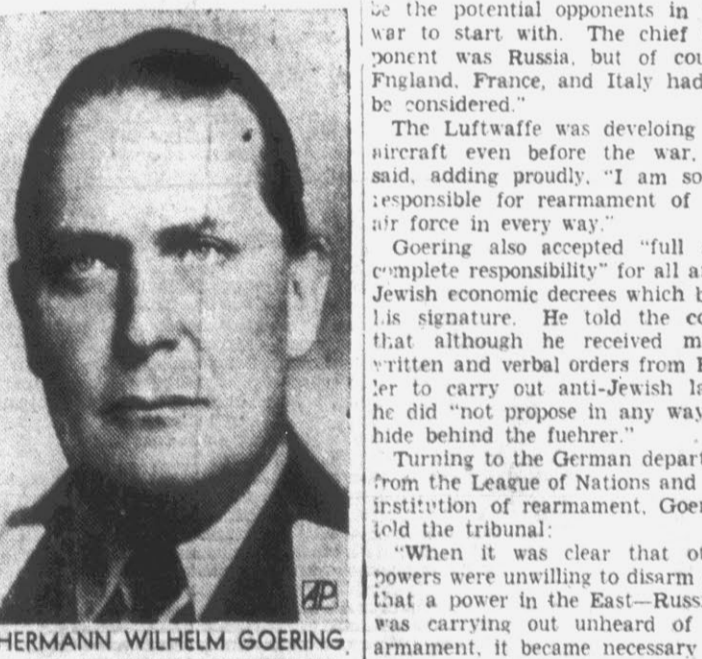

"Young men continually went and returned."

He said Franco asked for aid, "particularly air aid."

Goering resumed direct testimony in his own behalf, boasted that his Luftwaffe was responsible for the swift conquest of Poland, "just as the American airforce assured the Allied victory."

He confirmed that he ordered the Nazi aircraft industry to develop a bomber capable of flying to the United States and back, insisting that they do this work "expeditiously in case America entered the war."

The lack of aluminum and tech-

Governor Cherry To Speak Sunday In Dedication Of School For Blind

Governor Cherry will deliver the presentation address here Sunday afternoon in ceremonies dedicating the new North Carolina Preconditioning Center for the Adult Blind.

Cherry, who will climax the dedication program by formally presenting the center on behalf of the State, will be introduced by Judge Sam R. Cathey of Asheville, chairman of the North Carolina Commission for the Blind.

Preston Cherry, blind student veteran, will deliver the speech of acceptance on behalf of the student body of the center.

The public is invited.

Dr. Howard E. Jensen of Durham, chairman of the executive committee of the N. C. Commission for the Blind and dean of the sociology department at Duke University, will preside over the program, which is scheduled to get under way at 3 o'clock.

Also speaking will be W. H. Imbody of Charlotte, president of the N. C. State Association for the Blind, and Dr. Merle E. Frampton of New York, superintendent of the New York Institute for the Blind and a lieutenant commander in charge of the Naval and Marine program for the blind.

Frank Brown of Greenville, president of the Pitt County Association for the Blind and past president of the Greenville Lions Club, will deliver the invocation. Greenville Mayor J. H. Boyd, Jr., will welcome the guests on behalf of the city, and Lions District Governor Okey J. Allison of Winston-Salem, chairman of the N. C. Council of State Governors, Lions International, will respond.

The center here is being operated by the North Carolina State Commission for the Blind in cooperation with Lions clubs and county welfare departments. It now has a student body of 62, including several veterans of World War II. Mrs. Mary Wheeler Douville is in charge of the school.

Frank M. Brown of Greenville did the pioneer work for providing assistance to the blind in Pitt County. While president of the Greenville Lions Club the Pitt County Association for the Blind was organized. It now has more than 1,000 members. Brown and the local Lions were largely responsible for having the Pre-conditioning Center for the Blind established in Greenville. They made arrangements with City Supt. of Schools Juit H. Rose to use old N.Y.A. buildings and site on the suburbs of the city after securing the approval of the N. C. State Commission for the Blind. The training school for the blind

Lewis Quiet Following Announcement Of Aims

Observers Guess Union Leader To Stress Better Working Conditions For His Soft Coal Miners

Washington, March 14—(AP)—John L. Lewis played Sphinx today, but there was much conjecture that he planned to soft-pedal wage increase demands and concentrate on winning better working conditions for his soft coal miners.

At the same time, the trend of the two-day old national bituminous wage conference gave rise to hope among industry representatives that Lewis might cancel a strike April 1, despite the fact that he already has cleared the way for a general walk-out.

The speculation over Lewis' wage position, left uncertain Tuesday when he proposed merely that wages be raised and hours be shortened, "was touched off yesterday when United Mine Workers spokesmen devoted an entire day to explaining the UMW's demand for a miners' health and welfare fund.

The fund was one of nine general demands which Lewis placed before the conference.

Wages were not discussed at yesterday's public meeting and they are not on today's program. Union officials indicated that no specific wage figures are to be discussed until actual bargaining begins behind closed doors.

Meanwhile, however, the UMW turned full pressure on the health and welfare fund program, stressing what it termed poor hospitalization and medical benefits now available. Inadequate compensation laws, lack of mine safety, and other working conditions which the union wants improved under the new contract.

Veteran industry negotiators said they could not recall when the union had devoted a full day to presenting such a demand in previous negotiations.

Eisenhower Plans To Cut Overseas Army

Washington, March 14—(AP)—The army plans to cut occupation forces overseas by 25 per cent in the next 18 months—provided international conditions do not deteriorate.

Estimates given the House Military Affairs Committee by General Dwight D. Eisenhower and Carl Spaatz call for gradual reduction of the overall size of land and air forces abroad to some 525,000 by mid-1947.

This contrasts with 682,000 previously calculated as the minimum needed this summer to police occupied European and Pacific areas.

In the 15-month period the army as a whole would be reduced from 1,500,000 to 1,070,000. Secretary of War Patterson forecast in urging a one-year extension of the draft beyond May 15.

The WORLD TODAY

AP World Traveler

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

Vienna, March 14—Our correspondent has come away from a highly interesting but informal conversation with General Mark Clark, American commander in chief in Austria, with the distinct impression that he would like to see all the Allied forces of occupation—Russian, British, French and American—withdrawn from this country by next fall and the administration turned over to the Austrian government.

As a matter of fact, I understand that there is before the Allied council a proposal for a withdrawal. However, one suspects that if I've interpreted the general's feeling correctly, he is indulging in a wish rather than any strong expectation that such a withdrawal may take place.

While the British, French and Americans might be prepared to pull out under a four-power agreement, I've found no indication that the Russians would subscribe to any such procedure at an early date.

I found General Clark viewing

Churchill To Answer Stalin Accusations

New York, March 14—(AP)—Winston Churchill remained silent today on accusations leveled against him by Generalissimo Stalin as he whipped into shape a 30 minute speech he will deliver tomorrow night at an official New York City dinner.

The Mutual Broadcasting System said the former British Prime Minister would discuss "latest developments" in connection with the recent Fulton, Mo., address. He is scheduled to start speaking at 10:30 p. m.

The Austrian position from a horse-sense standpoint based on a wide knowledge of the whole European problem. We covered a lot of territory in our conversation—and his vision reaches far beyond the borders of his personal command.

We had our chat in his private office at the American headquarters and he promptly robbed it of any formality by coming out from behind his big desk to shake hands in a friendly fashion and then leading me across the room to some easy chairs. I've met a lot of the Allied military chiefs but never had the pleasure of seeing General Clark before, and so may say in passing that he is what the GI would call a "good looking guy" and has the striking personality which one would expect to find in a four-star commander.

The picture wouldn't be complete if I didn't report that the general's constant companion, his "cockspaniel" "Pal," made himself a member of the party by jumping to his master's knees to be petted. Clark grinned and introduced "Pal" with (Continued on Page Four)

Contraband Opium Is Taken From Japanese

Tokyo, March 14—(AP)—Seven million dollars in contraband opium was in the hands of Allied headquarters criminal investigator division today, seized after what CID men called "a three-day Charlie Chan movie trip" of surreptitious night contacts and whispered tips.

Seven Japanese were held in connection with the seizure of the seven and a half tons of opium.

Headquarters said the opium was brought from Manchuria on two ships.

Moscow Perturbed By U. S. Army Policies

Moscow, March 14—(AP)—The Soviet newspaper Red Star asserted today that "the United States during the post-war period intends to maintain quite a few armed forces such as have never been maintained during the wartime history of the United States."

Moscow newspapers also displayed conspicuously a New York dispatch regarding American bases in Cuba. The item cited the Havana newspaper El Cronista as stating the "treaty between Cuba and the United States called for returning the bases to Cuba within six months after the war, but that the treaty was not being fulfilled."

The newspapers pointed a Cairo dispatch yesterday about the continued presence of American troops in Egypt.

The NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

Washington, March 14—(AP)—

1. What about suits, shorts and shirts for men? Will the stores have them soon? If so, will they keep getting them?
2. There's just one honest answer: let's hope so. No one, inside or outside Government, can speak positively.
3. We've heard rosy stories about those things before and were disappointed. We may be again.
4. Who's to blame for the shortages? The manufacturers? OPA? CPA? (The Civilian Production Administration)? Or all three?
5. It would take a congressional investigation to find out.
6. Last April OPA Boss Chester Bowles happily predicted men's clothing, generally, would drop five to six per cent in price.
7. Instead, since then it's gone up at least five per cent. This figure is from the Government's bureau of labor statistics.
8. Take suits first. What caused the shortage in them? Here are some reasons:
 1. By war's end, little weaving of men's suits was being done.
 2. When the war ended, time was needed for retooling machines.
 3. Army and navy men, rapidly discharged, needed suits. They bought what they could, put a dent in the stores' scanty supplies.
 4. Manufacturers complained of OPA price controls, said they couldn't turn out suits at OPA prices.
 5. Manufacturers gave wage increases. Then they cried louder for better OPA prices.
 6. It seems apparent, Government, and clothing industry men say, that manufacturers hoarded some suits, keeping them for better OPA prices.
 7. What's the remedy?
 8. OPA eased up on prices last week-end, says this generally won't mean higher prices, just higher prices in some lines, lower in others.
 9. Meanwhile the Government (CPA) turned over to the suitmakers enough cloth for 3,000,000 medium-priced suits in the first three months of 1946.
 10. What's the result going to be?
 11. OPA hopes the better prices will break the production bottleneck. (Continued on page three)

Girl Scouts Enjoy Birthday Party
We had such a good time. Who do you guess? The Girl Scouts and Brownies of Greenville. Where? At our annual Juliette Low party which was held in the Rotary building on Tuesday afternoon, March 12.

Each troop decorated a corner because a prize was offered for the prettiest decoration. Troop Eight decorated the birthday table and Mary Ann Waldrop made the cake. It wasn't real but it was pretty and looked good enough to eat.

After the Brownies and Scouts turned in their money which is used for Girl Scouting around the world, each troop gave a stunt. They all did fine and the Brownies were so cute.

Judges were appointed to select the best decorated corner. While they judged we had Nehi drinks, cookies and peanuts. Boy was that fun! Then the judges said that they were ready. We held our breath. A fine troop from West Greenville, Troop Ten, received the prize, a box of candy. After joining hands and singing, "Fare Thee Well," we said goodbye and thank you to Mrs. Moore and the Juliette Low committee for a very happy afternoon.—Reported.

Kiwanis Minstrel Begin Rehearsals

Eli Bloom and "Tige" Gardner and the cast will shortly begin rehearsals for the annual Kiwanis Club minstrel, which will be given two nights at the college on Thursday and Friday, May 9 and 10. New talent will appear this year. A supply of new jokes for the end men have been selected; the music and singing will be tuneful, and the dance numbers will be entrancing. Pretty "girls" will feature the show. Proceeds of the minstrel will go to the Kiwanis Club's underprivileged child fund. Ed Rawl is president of the club.

Salvation Army Has Meeting In Kinston

The Women's Home Leagues of the Salvation Army in Eastern Carolina held meetings in Kinston this afternoon and tonight, with Col. Hoffman of Atlanta, Secretary of the Southern Territory Home Leagues, as the speaker.

Major W. H. Stanley, head of the local post of the Salvation Army, and numerous others from here attended. The meetings are part of a series to be held at various places.

Wherever there is a Salvation Army post there is a Women's Service League. They do religious and community work and encourage the development of various home-making crafts and visit the sick and distressed.

ECTC Dean Attends School Health Meet

Dean Ronald J. Slay of East Carolina Teachers College attended a meeting in Raleigh on Tuesday, March 12, of the Advisory Committee of the School-Health Coordinating Service, of which he is a member. The committee takes part in a project, started about seven years ago by the State Department of Education and the State Board of Health. The work of the School-Health Coordinating Service is to join health forces working in the state with those working in public schools. The program includes making county surveys and launching health programs in schools.

Questions involving war and peace are now becoming the supreme issues of our generation. Either we win the peace and preserve civilization or lose the peace and become the victims of atomic bombs.

Mr. Humber, who has now been back in Greenville for six years established his permanent residence in his home, where he was born on May 30, 1898. It was the same spot where his father was born 82 years ago and where his grandfather

out the nation. Fourteen legislatures have endorsed the resolution of which he is the author: North Carolina, New Jersey, Maryland, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Alabama, Virginia, Louisiana, Tennessee, Utah, Oklahoma, New Hampshire, Florida and Georgia, representing all geographical areas of the United States; eight other states have taken modified action, making 22 states that have reacted favorably to his leadership.

Fifteen additional states are now considering the resolution that is destined to be introduced in Congress, which must ultimately decide in the name of the American people whether the United States shall stand hereafter for world order based on law or world chaos based on war.

With the well developed talent of the teacher, Dr. Brennecke reviewed the history of atomic force, recalled that the Greeks a thousand years ago recognized the atom; casually commented that a sufficient quantity of uranium could devastate the earth and change this old world into just another star, and likened the atomic bomb to Frankenstein's "The Monster."

The distinguished college professor did research work in atomic force 20 years ago. In his wonderful talk last night he appreciated his understanding audience and they appreciated him. He is a New Yorker. He formerly taught at Lehigh University. He has been on State College faculty about six months. Traveling around Eastern Carolina with Alumni Secretary H. W. (Pop) Taylor, Dr. Brennecke said he had met some wonderful people, like North Carolina and is glad to be here. He answered numerous questions put by the audience. President Arthur Tripp presided. The meeting was held at the Episcopal parish house.

Alumni Secretary Taylor always cheerful, always optimistic, spoke briefly. He reported a large increase of students at State College, mentioned the housing problem and gave the good news that arrangements have been made to secure funds for building a commodious dormitory.

Eli Bloom, of Kiwanis minstrel fame, entertained with some sparkling wit and humor and made a big hit when he recited "Levin's Wedding" and said it was difficult for him to "handle the dialect." Miss Mary Blaine Justice, accomplished soloist, sang two numbers with Miss Dorothy Mardner as accompanist. This was one of the features of the evening.

W. H. Woodard, president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company and chairman of the recent membership drive for State College Foundation, Inc., was elected an honorary member of the alumni chapter.

The Nominating Committee's recommendations of new officers was adopted. The officers are Walter Jones of Farmville, president; Brantley Speight, vice president; Sam Wincelster, secretary-treasurer, and Chester Walsh reporter.

President Tripp announced that membership in Pitt County Chapter of State College Alumni Association had considerably increased, and that the Membership Committee continues actively at work.

GENERAL TO GRADUATE
Kokomo, Ind., March 14—(AP)—Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner will deliver the commencement address at his own graduation from high school.

Gen. Kepner, a member of the joint army-navy-marine board which will conduct atomic bomb tests in the Pacific in May, left Kokomo high school 30 years ago to join the marines.

Principal C. E. Hinshaw has announced that a special commencement will be held March 28 at which 27 veterans—including the General—will receive diplomas, and Kepner will be the speaker.

out the nation. Fourteen legislatures have endorsed the resolution of which he is the author: North Carolina, New Jersey, Maryland, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Alabama, Virginia, Louisiana, Tennessee, Utah, Oklahoma, New Hampshire, Florida and Georgia, representing all geographical areas of the United States; eight other states have taken modified action, making 22 states that have reacted favorably to his leadership.

Fifteen additional states are now considering the resolution that is destined to be introduced in Congress, which must ultimately decide in the name of the American people whether the United States shall stand hereafter for world order based on law or world chaos based on war.

Immediately after his graduation from Wake Forest, he volunteered in World War I and served as second lieutenant in the Field Artillery.

At the conclusion of the war he continued his studies at Harvard University, receiving the degree of M.A. and serving on its faculty as tutor in the Department of Government, History and Economics. He was licensed to practice law and was sworn in as a member of the Pitt County Bar in September, 1920.

In the autumn of that same year he was appointed Rhodes Scholar from North Carolina to Oxford University, England, and represented his native State in that capacity for three years. During his tenure of the scholarship he traveled extensively on the Continent and made a trip around the world.

After studying at the University of Paris, where he was American Field Service Fellow for two years, he located in Paris as an attorney and later became a business executive. His interest has always been in the welfare of the common man and in small enterprises. He was the European head of the Gilcrease Oil Company, a small independent oil producing company of Oklahoma, and privately owned by three stockholders, whose President recently donated his fortune to a Foundation which he created for the purpose of establishing an orphanage home for children, a public library and museum at Tulsa, Okla.

During the latter years of his residence in Paris, Mr. Humber was chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American Church in Paris, which is the oldest American church on foreign soil and which served as the religious center for as many as 5,000 American students annually in France. Upon his return to his home in Greenville in 1940, he was elected chairman of the Board of Deacons of Memorial Baptist Church, and is now a trustee of that church. In Paris, where the American Legion was born in 1919, he was a member and officer of Paris Post No. 1, having previously been a charter member of the American Legion Post at Harvard University. He is now a member of Pitt County Post No. 39.

After attending the public schools of Greenville, Mr. Humber graduated from the Winterville High School, completing his high school course in two years, and entered Wake Forest College. During his four years at Wake Forest, he fulfilled the requirements for the B. A. and LL.B. degrees and participated prominently in college activities. He was president of the Senior Class, commencement speaker, incolegiate debater, vice-president of the YMCA, editor of the college monthly magazine, "The Student," and editor of the college weekly paper, "Old Gold and Black." He took an active interest in athletics, playing left-end on the Varsity football team and managing the Varsity baseball team.

In recent years, his Alma Mater honored him signally by naming him the first alumnus of Wake Forest College to be elected a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, which is the highest collegiate scholarship society in the United States.

INDUSTRIAL STRIFE SEEMS TO BE ENDING

Schwollenbach Believes Nation Nearing Long Period Of Labor Peace

By MAX HALL
Washington, March 14—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwollenbach, happy over settlement of the General Motors and General Electric strikes, believes the country is nearing a long period of comparative labor peace.

In a news conference late yesterday and a statement last night, he left no doubt of his feeling in this regard.

However, Schwollenbach carefully avoided saying there will be no more big strikes. In this connection, some government officials have their fingers crossed concerning the possibility of a bituminous coal walk-out in April.

The Labor Department said the GM and GE settlements, putting about 275,000 workers back at their jobs, will have fewer than 200,000 workers on strike. Throughout most of February the number ran well over 1,000,000.

The largest strike still unsettled involves Westinghouse Electric, with about 65,000 idle.

Schwollenbach told reporters he is hopeful it will be ended in the next few days.

In his statement last night, issued after the GE agreement was announced in New York, Schwollenbach said, "I hope that the same results may be obtained soon in other fields."

He called the General Motors agreement "the most significant settlement we've had pointing toward an end of our industrial strife."

Looking to the future, he said that a year from now, when the subject of wages comes up again in the big industries, "production will be so great that they will not have much labor problem."

A reporter asked if he meant that because of volume production and the resulting reduced unit costs, industry will meet new wage increases at that time.

Schwollenbach said he didn't know about that, but what he meant was that "both industry and labor will be in a better position to know what their future is. This period of great uncertainty will have passed over. There won't be these sharp disputes about take-home pay and other matters that grew out of the sudden end of the war and the change in the national wage policy."

Baptist Association Repudiates Council

Texas, Ark., March 14—(AP)—The American Baptist Association in convention here has adopted a resolution repudiating the Federal Council of Churches of Christ a "message to true Christianity."
"We believe that said organization is unscriptural," the association declared. "In that it denies many of the fundamental doctrines of the Christian faith and that its purpose is to unionize all Christian churches is unscriptural, unholy and undesirable, because it seeks to do so on the basis of modernism and the so-called social gospel. X X X We see in the preachments of a number of its leaders the tendency to communism."

The association represents 442 Baptist churches in 17 states, Hawaii and Canada.

OPA Controls Come Under Fire

Washington, March 14—(AP)—The OPA came under fire today at both ends of the Capitol.
Chairman Thomas (D-Okla.) of the senate agriculture committee introduced a bill which would specify that no government official shall "interfere" with margin requirements on commodity exchanges. This followed an OPA move for higher margin requirements on cotton trading.
Arthur Besse, president of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, told the house banking committee that OPA policies are to blame for the shortage of men's suits. The committee is considering a year's extension for the agency.

Make It a Gay St. Patrick's Day

What is St. Patrick's day without the shamrock, the blarney stone and Irish stew? Use any one of these ideas in your St. Patrick's day dinner menu or decorations and hear the "blarney" start, even though Ireland never saw your ancestors. Takes little extra time but it does make home just that much more interesting.

Irish Stew... with St. Patrick's day trimmings

- Brown 1 1/2 lbs. lamb stew meat (cubed)
- (add) 1/2 cup string beans
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- dash of garlic salt
- Cover and simmer 1 1/2 to 2 hours. When vegetables and meat are tender, transfer them to a hot serving dish.
- Mix 5 tbsp. flour and 1/4 cup water until smooth
- Stir gradually into cooking liquid and cook until thickened.
- Add 1 tsp. WILSON'S B-Y which has been dissolved in 1 tbsp. of the hot mixture. Pour over meat and vegetables and serve. Serves 6.

Remember the Shamrock on March 17

The green shamrock place card and the slice of green pepper on the cottage cheese salad help carry out the St. Patrick's idea. Add hot shamrock rolls (cloverleaf, to you) with Certified Margarine or Clear Brook Butter for added deliciousness. Finish off with chocolate cake with green mint filling and "Begorra it's a rale party, it is, it is."

And why not enjoy a few Irish songs after dinner, such as My Wild Irish Rose, Mother Macree, and other old-time favorites.

Cordially,
George Rector

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

GOD AT OUR SIDE
We often hear the Biblical proverb quoted that a soft answer turneth away wrath.

A soldier who entered the army a blatant atheist and came out of it a chastened and humbled Christian testified that he was largely led to see the significance of the Christian life by the attitude of one of his fellow soldiers.

One night when he knelt down, his atheist companion who was lying on the floor on the side of the bed, the next morning the atheist found his boots beautifully polished and placed at the foot of his bed.

When we pray with good God stands at our side, making up for what seems to be our weakness.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

Washington—The drive for a voluntary belt-tightening under the direction of former President Hoover, in order that famines in Europe and Asia might be averted, probably will still find the United States with the fullest market basket in history.

Except for sugar, eggs and wheat, there will be more of virtually everything than there was in 1945 and—except for sugar alone—far more than in the 1935-39 pre-war years.

The sugar shortage, along with the shortages in fats and oils, is a world shortage that the United States can't do much about relieving.

The President has promised 370,000,000 pounds of fats and vegetable oils to the stricken nations. This may cut a bit into civilian diets here but that is only a little more than 5 percent of the 6.7 billion pounds forecast for this year.

While it is estimated that there will be four pounds of flour less per person this year than last, it still will amount to 157 pounds, four more than was consumed in the five-year base period.

It is estimated that there will be ten pounds more per person of fresh fruits than the 138 pounds of prewar days; nine pounds more of dairy products than the 871 pounds; 17 pounds more of processed fruits and vegetables than the 67 pounds of 1935-39.

The meat situation will be much better than last year. The department estimated that there would be 150 pounds of red meats and 29 pounds of poultry meats available for every man, woman and child in the country this year. That compares with 132 pounds of the former and 29 of the latter last year and 126 and 21 pounds respectively in the base period.

Starting from this level, Hoover and his associates shouldn't have such a hard time convincing the nation that "our national self-respect and duties as human beings"

President Truman put it demanding that we voluntarily sacrifice a little for our growing tables, to relieve what appears to be the worst food crisis in the history of Europe and Asia.

The Fall Guy

BY JOE BARRY

Chapter 14

"When did Brin get here?"

"I don't know when, but he was here two days ago."

Hope bit her underlip nervously. "Does Jago know that?"

"I told him. Didn't he tell you?"

"I haven't been to the hotel since yesterday. After I woke up and saw you knocked out on the floor I got frightened. I got another hotel room and hid in it all day. I called your office this morning and the girl told me you'd probably have breakfast in here about this time."

"Now you've found me, what do you want?"

"I really want protection now, if Brin's in town."

"Is he so dangerous?"

"Dangerous?" Hope shivered. "He is the most deadly man I ever met. Hope looked thoughtful. "Did Jago tell you about the emeralds?" she asked.

"No," Rush said.

"Where did you hear about them?"

"I got it from Brin. I think he thought I already had them or knew where they were at least."

"Jago will be furious."

"That will be too bad."

"Don't underestimate that man, either. He won't kill you himself. He'll have Wilmer do it, or hire somebody else, but you'll be just as dead."

"I haven't underestimated anybody yet, unless it was you." Hope looked surprised. "What about the emeralds? Where did they come from? Who did they belong to? Where does Paul Germaine come in to it? Who killed him?" Rush shot the questions at her fast, watching her closely. There was nothing to see, she closed a curtain behind her and looked through him. When he had finished, she smiled.

"You don't know as much as I thought you did. You were bluffing. All you know is that there are some emeralds."

"Isn't that enough?"

"Not quite."

"Tell me the rest of it."

"No, not now at least. There's something else I have to find out before I can tell you anything more."

"When will you know?"

"Maybe tonight. Where will you be?"

Rush grinned. "If you want protection you'd better know that I'll be home early. I'm getting behind in my sleep."

"I'll be there around midnight. Will you leave your door unlocked?"

"They have given me a new room while they're cleaning up the old place. I'll leave word at the desk to let you come up. It's 13-A."

Hope had finished her breakfast and arose to stand beside the table.

"I'll leave my check for you. You can put it down as expenses." She turned on a spike heel and left the coffee shop.

Rush took the elevator to his office and found that Gertrude had beaten him to work. She was at her desk busily reading a detective magazine. She looked up as he entered.

"Ah, the poor man's Philo Vance." Rush gave her a modified Bronx cheer. "What has come over this office of late?" asked Gertrude.

"You can't walk into the place any more but what you stumble over a client. You're going to have to take a partner to handle all the business."

"What gives now?" Rush asked.

In answer Gertrude stuck a thumb over her shoulder.

"In there," she said. "A gent craves your indulgence. He looks like a tough."

"We don't need any," Rush said. Gertrude said an unprintable word.

"Remind me to buy you some soap to wash out your mouth with," Rush said, and walked into his office.

Sitting in Rush's chair calmly going through the desk, was the client. He looked up as Rush entered and smiled cordially.

"Good morning, Mr. Henry," he said.

"Good morning, Mr. Jago," Rush said. "What can I do for you?"

"It isn't," Jago said, "so much what you can do for me, as what I can do for you."

Rush admitted the possibility of that being the case with a gesture. Jago continued.

"I am in a position to make you a large sum of money." He paused. "Money to which no taint is attached, and with no risk involved."

"That is the kind of money that interests me the most," Rush said. Jago nodded, "of course."

"But," Rush said, "you are not going to just give me the money. There must be something I'm to do to earn it?"

"Maybe yes, maybe no. It's just possible, Mr. Henry, that you can earn that money by doing nothing."

Rush raised his eyebrows in polite surprise.

"Yes," Jago continued. "It was in regard to that unfortunate death of the Germaine boy. You intimated that you thought you would find that person in the group which surrounds me."

"In the long run, Mr. Henry, you will learn that it was impossible for Wilmer or me to have committed the murder. But in the meantime, your investigations will prove both embarrassing and costly to me."

"You propose in words of one syllable, to pay me blackmail?"

word emerald out of him. I didn't need much more."

"No," Jago said to himself. "Of course, that's all you'd need."

"So?" Rush said.

"I suppose you want the whole story?"

"Yes," said Rush, "and I'll get it, or—"

"Or you'll go to the police. All right, Mr. Henry. I'll tell you the whole story of the emeralds of Kol Napur."

"I presume," Jago began, "that you are aware of the presence of American troops in India." Rush nodded.

"The particular group of which I speak was sent to the province of Kol Napur. They were under orders to establish an air base there. All went well, till the field was almost completed. Then, the Japs completely demolished the field, the buildings, and dropped what bombs were left on the native city adjacent, which was also the first city of the province."

"Among the soldiers sent to Kol Napur was a native of Chicago, a boy of good and wealthy family. When the first attack came, he was in the native city walking by a temple. He ran inside for shelter and stood beneath the outstretched arms of an immense golden statue for better protection. It was his fortune and unfortunate that he did so. A chance bomb scored a direct hit on the temple, blasting the idol over and pinning the soldier across the chest and one monstrous outstretched hand dug into his abdomen. When he regained consciousness much later he was in agony. He turned his head and found himself staring into the face of the idol. His hands and arms were free, and to take his mind from his pain he took a penknife from his shirt pocket and dug at the eyes of the idol. Those eyes, Mr. Henry, are the emeralds for which we search today."

Rush released his breath in a sigh.

"Somehow the soldier managed to keep his emeralds, and when he reached San Francisco wrote to Germaine, his closest friend."

"In the mean time he asked an intern to find him a jeweler to appraise some stones he had brought back from India. The intern selected a man at random and he was fortunate enough to select one who was a great friend of mine."

"My friend visited the hospital and was amazed at the gems he was asked to appraise. They were worth a fortune. He, of course, inquired as to the history of the emeralds and at once realized that they were not stolen property, that they could, in fact, belong to anyone. Again his voice accented the last phrase.

"And you felt that could include you?" Rush said. "And where does Brin come in?"

"He was to be cut in. He was to go to the hospital as an emissary of the jeweler. He was to ask to see the emeralds for a further appraisal. We arranged for there to be an explosion in the hall of the hospital to coincide with his examination of the stones. A screen, as it were, for the departure of Brin, with the emeralds."

"Nice," said Rush. "A very neat plan."

"Yes, except that it went astray."

"Yes?" Rush asked.

"Germaine had come to the coast, arriving on the very morning that Brin was to visit the hospital. He volunteered to take the stones back to Chicago and dispose of them there, and his friend gave them to him. He was actually on his way to the train when Brin arrived at the hospital. The smoke bomb exploded prematurely and he was forced to leave in a hurry."

"Brin scented a double-cross."

"I see," Rush said. "How did you get on the track of the emeralds?"

"There was nothing for me to do but come to Chicago and begin all over again."

"And Brin?"

WANTED: WHEAT

"I imagine he reached the same conclusion."

"How did you get on to Germaine?"

"A stroke of luck, my boy. I have connections, as I said, on the coast. Through them I got letters of introduction to several jewelers in Chicago. The second call that I made, brought results. At the time I called, Germaine was in the man's office feeling him out about buying the jewels. I sent Wilmer and Hope to follow him. They picked him up outside the jeweler's and followed him to a bar but couldn't learn his name."

"What else?" asked Rush, although he was pretty sure he knew.

"He went to your office. Once Wilmer traced him there, he came immediately to the hotel and reported to me. It was a development that I didn't like."

"I can understand that. Then you stuck Hope on me in the chance that I might have the emeralds."

Jago nodded. "Now you have the whole story, Mr. Henry. What do you think of it?"

"Pretty far-fetched. But it rings true," Rush said. "How do you propose finding the emeralds now that Germaine is dead?"

"That is my second proposition, Henry."

Rush looked expectant.

"I have the facilities for disposing of the emeralds. You have the facilities for finding them. I propose a partnership. If you find them, I will give you twenty-five per cent of the sum I realize on them. In addition," he paused, "in addition, I will help you find the murderer of young Germaine."

Crop Insurance Offered Growers

Every year in North Carolina, unavoidable hazards wipe out a year's work, a year's investment for cotton farmers. W. Kerr Scott, State Commissioner of Agriculture declared, in appealing to Tar Heel cotton farmers to take every precaution to assure themselves of an income from their cash crop.

"Crop losses not only wipe out individual farmers, but affect whole communities as well," he added. "They slow down business and raise the cost of living for the folks throughout the State."

Crop insurance, now being offered to cotton growers in the cotton producing sections of the state, protects the farmer's investment and virtually eliminates the natural risks involved in growing cotton. The Federal Insurance program offers protection up to 75 percent of the average farm yield, and protects against unavoidable hazards such as boll weevils, excessive rain, drought, hail, wind, and all other hazards that are mostly prevalent in the state during the cotton growing season.

All cotton producers, sharecroppers, tenants, and owners, are eligible to insure their crop under the program.

OPA Orders New Cotton Controls

Washington, March 14—(AP)—An unprecedented OPA order designed to nip rising cotton clothing prices-shaped up today as Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) predicted the action may cost the agency its life.

Meanwhile, the Government ordered garment producers to hustle to market their supplies of scarce shirts, suits, trousers, underwear and women's stockings, both nylon and rayon.

And a Civilian Production Administration official reported an agreement which he said will "substantially increase" output of rayon hosiery, now almost as hard to find as nylons.

The OPA order, being prepared at the direction of Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles and to be issued probably today or tomorrow, will require a bigger down payment on cotton purchased for future delivery. The purpose is to curb speculative bidding for cotton, which Bowles said is encouraged when traders can make purchases with a very small cash deposit.

Valentine Plans Aiding Jap Cops

Tokyo, March 13—(AP)—Lewis J. Valentine, the former Gotham police commissioner who came to Japan to give this country "cop" just like we have in New York, took one look at a Tokyo policeman today and recoiled in horror.

"My God," he muttered at sight of the little five-foot man, his soldier black uniform, deflated looking cap and unpollished sword. "Not even a cop at the end of the Toonerville line would wear a uniform like that."

Valentine told a press conference the Japanese policemen should have uniforms they can be proud of—not those boys they're wearing. And I am taking into consideration the fact they've had to wear the old ones a long time. But they're still terrible.

Invited by General MacArthur to advise on the reorganization of the Japanese police system, and take the fear out of the minds of the people, he said "we must make the Japanese policeman public friend number one—not public enemy number one."

Jap's Torpedoes Better Than Ours

Tokyo, March 13—(AP)—Japanese torpedoes were better than American or British. They carried a larger explosive charge, had more range and greater speed, and left no air bubble trail.

Capt. Allan L. Dunning, who directed a U. S. Navy technical mission to study closely guarded war secrets of the Japanese navy, announced those findings today upon completion of his project.

Navy officials and correspondents had known of the Japanese torpedo's superiority since very early in the war but newsmen were not permitted even to hint at the fact.

Dunning of Granby, Conn., and Nashville, Tenn., said the allies actually had gained little new information from their study. His records have been sent to Pearl Harbor for evaluation.

An eye opener, Dunning said, was Japan's huge aircraft-carrying submarines. Japanese told him they had made reconnaissance flights over the Hawaiian Islands in planes catapulted from submarines which could carry three planes each.

Regular Army Still Under July Quotas

Washington, March 13—(AP)—The Army reported today it has raised in five months a volunteer force of 600,017—largest of its kind in the nation's history.

This force is the nucleus of a projected peacetime regular army of 1,500,000—a goal set for July 1.

November was the peak month for enlistments with 183,000 men volunteering. Since, monthly totals have declined gradually, to 93,874 in February.

A breakdown shows that 87.07 per cent of those enlisting served in the Army of the United States during the war; 14.23 per cent are men who served in the regular army before the war and 18.7 per cent are young men from civilian life serving for the first time.

The highest peak in the San Juan mountains is Uncompahgre, 14,306 feet above sea level.

Curfew To Curtail Fraulein Visitors

Frankfurt, March 13—(AP)—In a move to restrict visits by German girls to the U. S. Army headquarters compound, army authorities today imposed a 10 p. m. curfew, effective tonight, at which time all Germans must be out of the area.

Officials said the curfew order came from "higher headquarters." It was not clear whether the measure had been proposed by the War Department, which recently demanded an explanation of reports that frauleins were permitted to live in the compound with American officers and civilians.

In another order, the army instructed guards to see that displaced persons, who are authorized to be in the compound unescorted, are out of the area by midnight.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hardy, four brothers, Leon, John, Lee, Alton Ray and Melvin Hardy of the home, five sisters, Mrs. Ella Telfair, Misses Virginia Bell, Bulah Lee, Pearl and May Dean Hardy, all of the home. Burial was in the church cemetery.

GOERING GOES BEFORE COURT

Describes Beginning Of Association With Hitler

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Nuernberg, Germany, March 13—(AP)—Hermann Goering, dressed in an undecorated gray uniform with a red scarf wrapped around his neck, began his fight today against war crimes charges by testifying soberly of a career started in the Richthofen air squadron three decades ago.

While his white-haired attorney slowly questioned him, Goering mentioned the medals he had won and a wound sustained in fighting for the Kaiser's Reich.

The court was packed for the dramatic moment of the three and a half months trial as the once flamboyant Reichsmarshal took his place before the microphone.

In a low, somber voice, Goering identified his father as a friend of the British empire builders, Cecil Rhodes and Joseph Chamberlain. He said the first world war left him "opposed in every way" to the Weimar Republic.

After travel abroad, Goering said he returned to Germany and at an obscure political rally in November, 1922, he saw Hitler.

Hitler declined to speak at the rally, Goering recalled, but one day later he heard the future Fuehrer declaim on the Treaty of Versailles and the need for Germany to regain her strength.

"This appealed to me from the depths of my soul," said the leading defendant among the 22 Nazis on trial before the international military tribunal. He joined the National Socialist party and at the same time volunteered his services to Hitler.

BRONCHIAL COUGHS

Resulting from Colds

When nothing seems to do that irritating bothersome cough any good just go to any good drug store and get a bottle of good old Bronchial-line Emulsion.

Take it as directed and notice how easily it takes hold—gives you relief and helps you get a restful night's sleep.

Often one-half bottle is enough and you are better before you know it. The very first dose takes right hold, loosening phlegm, soothing and quieting irritated bronchi. So get a bottle of Bronchial-line Emulsion today and get relief as quick as you can. Money back if dissatisfied in any way.

Now her Backache is better

Now sufferer relieve nagging backache, quickly, once they discover that the reason for their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of filtering the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about a pint a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic twinges, loss of pep and energy, getting up, headaches and dizziness. Frequent urinations with smarting and burning sensations shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant will be most successful by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 million kidney tubes flush out poisons.

DATE NOT YET SET FOR GAME

Final Play-Off For State Class B Championship Delayed

The State Class B Championship basketball game between the G.H.S. Phantoms and the Sedge Garden quint scheduled for Friday night in the ECTC gym has been postponed because of a conflicting tournament which Sedge Garden has entered at Guilford College.

The tourney has no bearing on the state title. Should Sedge Garden happen to be eliminated by Saturday, the game will be played here on Saturday night. If they are not eliminated, it will be played on Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Mr. Dowd and Mr. Farley, working with the play-off officials, had wanted to play the game tonight in the ECTC gym, despite the mistaken report published by the News and Observer this morning which said the game would be on Friday but complications have made it so that it cannot be played on either night. Greenville won the Eastern crown by defeating Sanford at Chapel Hill Tuesday night.

Sports

Lakeland, Fla., March 14—(AP)—Three husky young Detroit Tigers' outfielders who went through the war without an ache or pain had to come to Florida to fall apart.

Barney McCoskey, the team's star pre-war centerfielder, has a pulled hip muscle that might keep him out of uniform for several more weeks. Dick Wakefield, the boy with the big bat, pulled something loose in his groin when he fell making a play in left field the other day. Pat Mullin, the rightfielder who hit around 340 before he was injured in 1941 is out of action with a pulled leg muscle.

The consequence is that Manager Steve O'Neill is being forced to do most of his outfield looking at one Walter Evers, and what he sees he likes.

Evers, a tall young man of 25, became almost legendary in the war years at Beaumont in the Texas League in 1942, he hit .322 and had 28 doubles and 10 homers. He was runner-up to Wakefield for the league batting title and was called a ball hawk, a distinction Wakefield has never gained.

Hal Newhouse, the Tigers' No. 1 pitcher so far has felt no recurrence of the pain in his left shoulder blade which plagued him the latter part of last season. Dirty Trout, too, feels that his throwing arm has fully recovered from its sorrows of last year, and big Al Benton's broken leg has fully healed. The Tigers will not lack for pitching.

Hank Greenberg is back at his old post at first base and appears to be happy about it. At $60,000 a year there are tougher ways of making a living.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 14—(AP)—With two of their biggest rivals absent Ben Hogan and Slammin' Sam Snead are all-out favorites to take in the $10,000 Jacksonville Open golf tournament starting today.

Byron Nelson of Toledo, who led the cash winners last year, admits his game has grown stale around the edges from too much golf. He will rest up and skip tournament play until the Masters' at Augusta, Ga., in April.

Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Sanford, Me., always a threat in money competitions, also passed up the local meet.

Eighteen holes will be played daily through Sunday over the 6,272-yard, par 72 Brentwood Course.

Chapel Hill, March 14—(AP)—Coach Ben Carnevale yesterday named the 10-man White Phantom squad which leaves March 19 for the Eastern N.C.A.A. basketball tourney playoffs in New York.

Included are North Carolina's five starters—John Dillon, Bob Paxton, Bones McKinney, Jim White and Jim Jordan. Also making the trip are Ira Norfolk, Hall Miles, Faylor Thorne, Don Anderson and Roger Schole.

Norfolk and Miles take the places of Lester (Red) Hughes and Jim Hayworth, who are out for baseball. North Carolina meets New York University in the opening round of the tourney, on March 21. Harvard and Ohio State are the other competing teams.

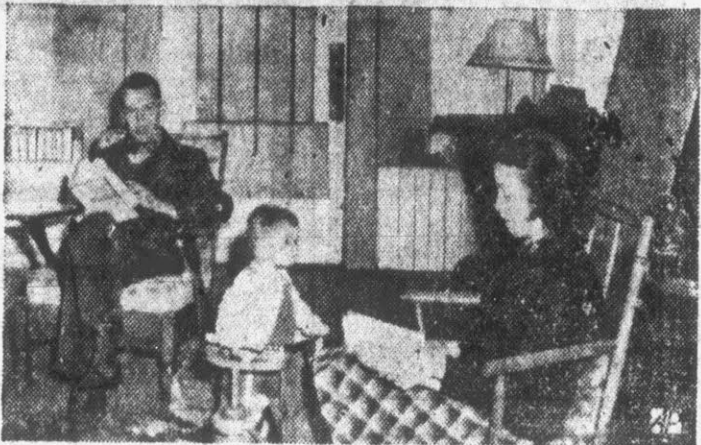

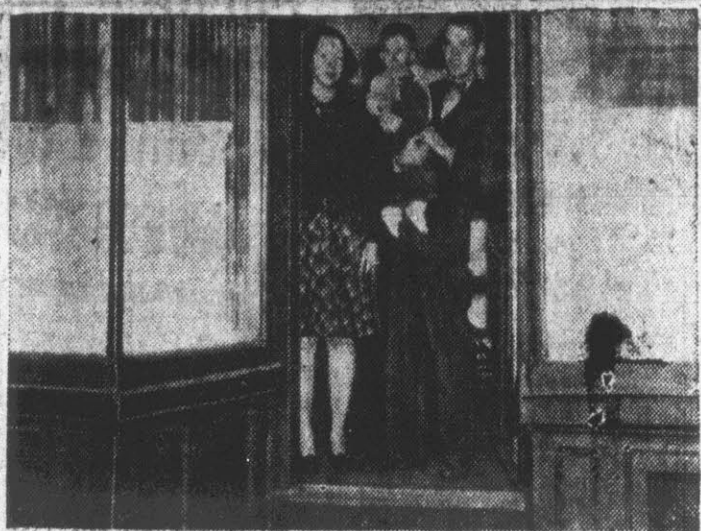

Durham March 14—(AP)—H. M. (Red) Lewis Robert J. Montfort and Dayton Dean have returned from the armed forces to the Duke athletic department.

Lewis is cross country and assistant track coach, Montfort is assistant trainer and track coach, and Dean is business manager of athletics.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 13—(AP)—Though the St. Louis Cardinals dropped their first three exhibition games to the Yankees over the past weekend, Menezer Eddie Dyer's young men still made a vivid impression on the overflow crowds of fans, scouts and writers who attended the series.

It might be stretching a point to bill the games as a preview of the 1946 world series, but nothing the Cards did lessened the impression that they would represent the National League in the October play-off.

What they ran into was a Yankee team that, with one or two individual exceptions, could open the American League campaign tomorrow. The terrific task of selectivity confronting the Card pilot was emphasized at the outset of the series when a long, tall right-hander named Fred Martin held the Yankees to a line single for three innings. Yet Martin, who played for Dyer at Houston before the war and set a Texas League record of 13 consecutive wins, is an "unknown" compared to a dozen other members of the Card's staff.

New York, March 13—(AP)—Any ideas that the United States will have to depend entirely on the stars of prewar years to win back the Davis cup already have been shattered at the national indoor tennis championships, first major event in the series leading up to international competition.

As singles play in the indoor meet moved into the quarter-finals on the boards of the seventh regiment armory today, two of the nation's six top-ranking veterans had fallen by the wayside—victims of unseeded youngsters making their first splash in the big time.

Latest to bow to the exuberance of youth is Elwood Cooke, No. 4 man in the current national rankings, who was bounced rudely out of the third round yesterday by John Ager, former Duke University net star from Birmingham, Ala., in a straight set match, 6-1, 7-5.

On the sidelines, Cooke joined Gardner Mulloy of Miami, Fla., sixth ranking player in the country and co-holder of the outdoor doubles crown, who was eliminated in the second round by Sidney Schwartz.

SHE'S AFTER Potash

She's looking for potash because it takes potash to make succulent legume pastures high in minerals—the kind that livestock prefer. Clovers and all other legumes are heavy feeders on potash. When seeding or top-dressing legumes for hay, pasture, or cover crops, make sure that there is enough potash in your soil and fertilizer to balance the other plant foods and insure heavy growth of high feeding value. If you are in doubt as to the fertility of your soil, consult your official agricultural adviser regarding soil tests and proper fertilization.

Lewis Quiet...

A spokesman for the coal operators said the industry now feels that Lewis may not resort to a coal tieup because of several factors. They include:

1. He has emphasized that all of his nine demands are "negotiable," indicating that he is in a mood for across-the-table settlement.

2. Operators definitely are in a negotiating mood.

3. As a recently affiliated member of the AFL, Lewis would prefer to avoid a strike, in accord with the AFL's no-strike policy.

On the other hand, a UMW spokesman made it equally clear that, notwithstanding his comparatively mild approach to this year's wage conference, Lewis definitely will terminate the present UMW contract as of midnight, March 31.

With this action taken, Lewis then will be in a position to strike or to reach a mutual agreement with the operators to continue work pending settlement of the new contract terms.

Likewise, termination of the present contract would protect retroactive features of whatever wage settlement finally is made, the union spokesman said.

Writing Of...

The first, and one widely held by many diplomats familiar with Russian policy over a long period, is that Russia because of her uncertainty about friendship in the rest of the world is trying to surround herself with Moscow-dominated "friendly governments."

These diplomats say that if their view is correct there should be no insurmountable obstacles to the eventual understanding since the common need for security offers a meeting ground for all powers. It is, in fact, the common denominator of their interest in the United Nations.

The arguments is also advanced that the Russians are trying to take advantage of the present disordered state of international affairs to gain control of the buffer states before hard and fast peace arrangements are confirmed by treaties. In other words, they are trying to gain what they want between the end of the actual fighting and the real beginning of the peace.

The second theory, one advanced by other diplomatic authorities, is that Russia may be intent upon political and territorial expansion far beyond the limits of her security interests. Authorities generally agree that should this prove to be the case, the task of coming to any kind of satisfactory arrangement with Moscow would be almost impossible unless and until Moscow modified its policy.

E. C. T. C. President

Dr. Spikes' name was the only one brought before the board today. He is a native of Durham County, a graduate of East Durham High, Duke University, and received masters degrees from Duke, Columbia, and his Ph. D. from Peabody. Since 1936, he has been superintendent of schools in Burlington.

Dr. Spikes was not in Burlington this afternoon and could not be reached for a statement regarding the possibility of his accepting the post but R. R. Isenhour, chairman of the Burlington school board said Spikes has previously stated that should he be offered the post he would not give his answer until another meeting of the Burlington school board which will not be before early next week.

Other matters receiving action by the college trustees this morning included a decision to convert Wilson Hall into temporary men's dormitory, approval of increased college fees for the coming year, and commendation of Dr. Howard McGinnis for the valuable services he has rendered the college as its president. In view of the fact that Mr. McGinnis had continued to occupy his own home during the time he has been acting president the trustees voted to pay over to him the sum of $491.67 which has been collected as rents on the president's home since it was vacated by Dr. Meadows. It was pointed out that had Dr. McGinnis used the president's home which goes with the position, he would have been able to rent out his own home and therefore he was entitled to the rents from the president's home. The matter of student loan funds was discussed and a special committee recommended that an effort be made to increase the total of such funds to approximate five percent of the total college receipts for a year. The report revealed that the funds now total approximately $24,000. The trustees commended F. D. Duncan for his success in collecting past due loans since he became treasurer of the college in 1936.

Union Approves GE Settlement

New York, March 14—(AP)—The conference board of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (CIO) today ratified a wage agreement reached last night between its negotiating committee and the General Electric Company. The agreement provides for wage increases of 18 1-2 cents an hour for 100,000 General Electric employees who have been on strike 59 days in the company's plants in 16 states.

The conference board of 60 members said the settlement also would have to be approved by the membership of 60 locals and that it would recommend such action.

A statement issued by the board said the locals would hold meetings within the next few days to act on the agreement, which the board asserted also provided for "no discrimination against strikers, and continuation of our contract pending further negotiations."

Nazi Geopolitician And Wife In Suicide

Bed Tolez, Germany, March 14—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's "geopolitical" theorist, Prof. Karl von Haushofer, 76, and his 69 year old wife took their own lives Sunday near their home at Hartschimmel, it was learned here today.

Both took poison, authorities said, but Mrs. Haushofer was found hanging from a tree, while the professor lay face down on the ground.

Haushofer generally was credited with developing the science known as geopolitics, although some critics maintained he borrowed many of his ideas from Sir Halford John London.
