UNIONS SEEK NEW SPHERES OF INFLUENCE

Reuther Announces Plans for Strengthening and Expansion of Unions

Atlantic City, N. J., March 28—(AP)—Walter Reuther, newly-elected president of the CIO United Auto Workers, launched his big union toward new spheres of influence today.

Reuther defeated R. J. Thomas, president for seven years, for the leadership yesterday by the slim margin of 123 votes in a turbulent four-hour roll-call at the union convention, marked by fist-fighting and confusion. The official count was 4,445 to 4,320.

The delegates turned today to filling two vacancies in the vice-presidential posts. But they were equally interested in where the 38-year-old strategist of the General Motors strike might be planning to lead the UAW-CIO next.

Reuther told a news conference after his election that he would work toward:

- 1—Organizing farm equipment workers in a big way.
2—Industry-wide collective bargaining in the automotive industry based on equal pay for equal work.
3—A bigger, stronger and more unified union, developing responsibility in all plants so that workers would not strike unless authorized by the international union.
4—A guaranteed annual wage for the workers.
5—Organizing the white-collar workers, engineers and technicians of the auto industry.

He told the convention in a speech after his victory that he wanted to take his place by the side of Philip Murray and help him carry part of the burden he has to carry as president of the CIO. Reuther said that under his leadership the UAW would be a source of strength for Murray and the CIO.

And he put industry on notice with these words: Let the capitalists and the anti-labor forces realize that we disagree in the convention but when we leave here we are united, organized to fight the common fight.

Thomas has been urged by friends to seek one of the vice-presidential posts, but there were reports he might become a CIO delegate to the World Federation of Trade Unions in Paris.

Road Program Is On Cash Basis

Burlington, N. C., March 28—(AP)—North Carolina will spend approximately $100,000,000 on its highways and roads within the next three years, Governor Cherry said before a Chamber of Commerce dinner last night.

"And," he added, "I am happy to say that none of this money will have to be borrowed."

The governor predicted that within a few years' time "all school bus routes, all roads leading to rural churches, and most of the farm-to-market roads will be classified all-weather roads." He said that the state's highway construction program for 1946-48 would cost not less than $75,000,000 and that during the next two years a betterment program would cost a total of $20,000,000.

Governor Cherry said that the next General Assembly should consider the feasibility of establishing one or more rural life schools in which "the teen-age boys of good character will be taught by theory and practice the most practical ways of doing things on the farm."

U. S. Is Expected To Refuse Action

French Proposal For Economic Blockade Of Spain Said To Hurt Spanish People More Than Franco; France To Delay Bringing Issue To UNO

Washington, March 28—(AP)—The United States probably will reject French proposals for an economic blockade of Spain as a means of hastening the downfall of Generalissimo Franco, diplomatic officials predicted today.

Proposals for some sort of economic quarantine, particularly for a halt to American and British oil shipments, were included in a French note which arrived at the State Department yesterday. The note also was sent to Britain and Russia.

Diplomats, who asked anonymity, said they understood France agreed in the note not to bring the Spanish situation before the United Nations Security Council immediately. This country and Britain have opposed council consideration of the Franco matter.

France implied, however, that it might take such action later if its own suggestions were rejected.

In addition to economic sanctions, France was said to have proposed: 1. Discussions on the Spanish situation by the Allied council of foreign ministers (U. S., Britain, Russia, France, China) rather than through diplomatic channels. 2. Consideration of "practical means" for restoring democratic government in Spain in light of (Continued on Page Four)

Traffic Deaths Rise All Over The Nation

Chicago, March 28—(AP)—The nation's traffic deaths in February totaled 2,450 a 45 per cent increase over the same month a year ago and only 7 per cent below traffic's deadliest February in 1941, the National Safety Council said today.

The council said that on the basis of last month's record, it stood pat on its prediction of a near-record toll of 38,000 traffic deaths in 1946—unless the drivers and pedestrians decide to do something about it. Traffic fatalities in the first two months of 1946 were 5,450 compared to 3,700 for the corresponding period in 1945.

The WORLD TODAY AP World Traveler

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP World Traveler

Aboard a trans-Atlantic airliner, March 28—The edition of a Paris newspaper I bought just before boarding this plane for New York is splashing headlines which, if placed before some hermit not familiar with recent events, likely would impel him to the belief that relations among the major powers had gone to the dogs.

There is Russia's initial setback in the UNO Security Council over the Iranian question after a battle royal, France, backed by Moscow, insisting that America and Britain take decisive action to unseat Generalissimo Franco's Spanish regime. Lt. Gen. Bedell Smith, en route to Moscow to take up his duties as American ambassador, said in Germany he is going to tell Prime Minister Stalin that the people of the United States want reassurance of the Soviet Union's motives. Just to show that this cuts both ways, the Moscow radio the other day said Russia wanted reassurance about the motives of the western Allies. Finally, my front page reports

Gov't Moves

Washington, March 28—(AP)—The government moved into the soft coal dispute today in an effort to head off a nationwide shutdown in the mines Sunday night.

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson arranged to talk things over with mine operators after they had spent another day in fruitless negotiations with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. Charles O'Neil, spokesman for the operators, said the producers negotiating committee would confer with Gibson at 4 p. m. (EST).

Lewis was not scheduled to attend. The contract negotiations, however, will resume tomorrow. Gibson told reporters the government is not "mapping out any tentative contract to be submitted to the operators and the union." However, a Labor Department official said that it could be anticipated that "government activities in the coal dispute would be intensified."

SUBSIDIES IN HOUSING BILL UNDER ATTACK

"Pork Barrel" Scare Stressed By Big Republican Group

Washington, March 28—(AP)—The administration applied fresh pressure today for its homes-for-veterans program but ran into a Republican contention that part of it is a "pork barrel" scheme.

Civilian Production Chief John D. Small was the day's chief witness before Senate Banking Committee hearings on legislation designed to make possible 2,700,000 new homes by the end of next year.

Even before Small appeared to renew pleas for a $600,000,000 subsidy fund to boost production of scarce materials, however, Senator Capehart (R-Ind) voiced his "pork barrel" charge. He referred, he told reporters, to Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt's plans for the government to guarantee markets for prefabricated dwellings and construction materials.

"I'll fight these prefabricated houses and subsidy of new materials until hell freezes over," Capehart said. "They would benefit only a few concerns at government expense."

Under the Wyatt program, the government would undertake to purchase a certain number of prefabricated houses from each builder who demanded assurance that there would be a market for his full production. The government, in turn, would act as sales agent.

Opposition to building materials subsidies also was voiced by Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

He said in a radio address last night that the nation "is fumbling with the simple job of building homes x x x because it is held back by power-hungry men in Washington."

Producers of building supplies are against subsidies, Nelson asserted, because they recognize that if the government hands out money to them they will lose their freedom. And in Congress, Senator Wiley (R-Wis) blasted at the Civilian Production Administration's new order which sharply restricts virtually all new construction except veterans' housing.

The CPA regulation, Wiley told his colleagues, "is one more monkey wrench thrown by the administration at free enterprise."

CPA Boss Small acknowledged at a news conference yesterday that the order is designed to outlaw more than $2,000,000,000 worth of other building to make possible a goal of $3,800,000,000 worth of new homes this year.

Ewing Arrested In Wife's Death

Fayetteville, N. C., March 28—(AP)—Wall C. Ewing, operator of radio station WFNC and a prominent North Carolina political figure, was arrested and held in jail here last night in connection with his wife's death on March 13.

A coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of Mrs. Douglas Sutherland Ewing recommended Ewing be held for investigation by the grand jury and be charged with first degree murder. Coroner W. C. Davis conducted the inquest and issued the capias upon which Ewing was taken.

Dr. Richard H. Follis, Duke University pathologist who made an autopsy upon the body of Mrs. Ewing under orders of the coroner, said that Mrs. Ewing's body was covered with bruises.

W. A. Gardner told the jury that he lives near the Ewing home and that on the night of March 10 he heard Ewing attempting to enter a locked door and shouting, "I'm going to kill you if I ever get in." He said that shortly afterward he heard a commotion in the Ewing house and a noise "like chairs flying to the ceiling."

Shortage Of Trained Teachers In South

Memphis, Tenn., March 28—(AP)—A shortage of trained teachers has resulted in 331 of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools' 1,307 member high schools being given only "conditional approval," R. R. Vance, chairman of the commission on secondary schools has reported.

Vance said this is merely a warning and "will not result in penalizing of the schools so warned."

Action will be taken today at the closing session of the association's annual meeting to determine the future status of three probationary members. A report will be submitted to the group on the University of Texas, Memphis State College and Winthrop College of Rock Hill, S. C.

Security Council Goes Into Executive Session To Discuss Further Proceedings; Iranian Ambassador Tells Of Russian Demands On His Government

New York, March 28—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council was called into executive session today to discuss grave problems of procedure raised when Soviet delegate Gromyko walked out on the Council late yesterday after it refused to postpone consideration of the Iranian issue.

A Soviet spokesman indicated Gromyko would attend the session—scheduled for 4 p. m. (EST)—with the understanding that the Council would not go into the merits of the Iranian dispute.

The spokesman's statement reinforced the general understanding that the Soviet delegate had not divorced himself from the Council's determination not to participate in any discussion of the Iranian case prior to April 10—a deadline he apparently fixed on instructions from Moscow.

The decision to go into executive session, announced by Chairman Quo Tai-Chi of China just before the Council adjourned at 6:45 p. m. yesterday, apparently precluded until Friday any further open discussion of Iran's protests against prolonged occupation by Soviet troops, alleged Russian interference in her internal affairs and designs on her rich oil reserves near the Caspian.

The Iranian case was presented late yesterday by ambassador Hussein Ala—who called the situation in Iran "explosive" and a threat to world peace—after Gromyko had dramatically absented himself and hastened with his staff to the Soviet Consulate General in East 61st street for consultation and possibly to seek new instructions from Moscow.

A Polish delegate Oscar Lange who voted with Russia throughout Gromyko's effort to keep the Iranian question from the Council, said he did not consider the Soviet delegate had withdrawn from the Council.

"It was just a matter of the Soviet delegate absenting himself," Lange said. (Continued on Page Four)

RUSSO-NAZI PACT HIDDEN

Subject Matter Of Secret Treaty Said Pertinent To Trial

Nuernberg, March 28—(AP)—Joseph Von Ribbentrop's former personal secretary attempted to testify before the international military tribunal today that she had seen the original of a secret treaty allegedly signed by Russia and Germany in 1939 for the partition of Poland and the Baltic states, but quick Soviet objections interrupted her.

The former German foreign minister's secretary, Margaret Blank, rarely had time to assert that such a treaty had been signed by Von Ribbentrop and Foreign Minister W. M. Molotov of Russia, when Soviet Prosecutor Gen. R. A. Rudenko was on his feet objecting.

He declared the matter was irrelevant and that the witness was not competent to testify concerning the alleged treaty, thus posing one of the most delicate questions to be presented to the tribunal since the war crimes trial opened more than four months ago.

The tribunal immediately recessed to discuss the matter in private.

Gen. Rudenko charged that attempts of attorneys for both Von Ribbentrop and Rudolf Hess to bring the reported secret pact into the trial were purely provocative.

Alfred Seidl, counsel for Hess, jumped up with a declaration that only two copies of the treaty were made when it was signed in Moscow in August, 1939, and that Von Ribbentrop took one to Berlin.

He said the Russians had seized most of the German foreign office archives in Berlin and added:

I ask that the Soviet delegation be ordered to submit to the tribunal the original of that agreement.

Seidl said he was unable to understand whether the Soviet prosecution was denying the existence of (Continued on Page Four)

Public Hearings On Draft Begins Today

Army Ready To Accept Many Limitations In Order To Maintain Minimum Strength For Commitments

Washington, March 28—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul told Congress today that unless the draft law is extended the army will be forced to retain indefinitely jobs of the men who already have been inducted.

Paul said the army wanted to limit to 18 months the service of men already inducted but the only way it could be done is through a continuation of the draft. Both Hershey and Paul contended that voluntary recruiting would not fill the army's needs.

The army is willing, Paul said to accept restrictions on its size, length of service of men, and the release and non-induction of fathers.

"The army asks you to insure having every man it needs and not one man more," Paul said. "Keep it (selective service) on the books and you may be assured that we (Continued on page four)

Political Party Lines Ignored In Approval Of Presidents Action

Washington, March 28—(AP)—Congressmen today hailed President Truman's decision to build a horseshoe court on the south grounds of the White House.

Party lines were ignored. Republicans joined Democrats in calling the plan "a move in the right direction."

With one exception, which will be explained in due time, there was agreement that the art of tossing horseshoes is worthy of a presidential boast.

The whole thing came up after Mr. Truman told Rep. George E. Bender (R-Ohio) he hankered for a little exercise and so planned a horseshoe court.

A sample congressional opinion collected by a reporter: Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio), who measures 6 feet, 2 inches tall and not a great deal less around, declared: "It's a move in the right direction. I might even play myself. Of course, the President will have to agree to pick up the shoes for me. With my middle, I'll need a caddy."

Rep. Gene Cox (D-Ga) allowed as how it was a smart move "because everyone likes to play horseshoes."

All this caused Rep. Marion Bennett (R-Mo) to wonder what had happened to the horseshoe business under OPA.

"Remember the time some fellow in the OPA figured out a way to save wear and tear on horseshoes? He decided the thing to do was to take 'em off each night."

Sen. Karl Mundt (R-SD) said he believed Mr. Truman may have been influenced by the idea that horseshoes bring luck.

"The probably why he wants horseshoes around," he observed. "Anyone in the President's job certainly can use a little luck." Oh, yes, the fellow who came right out and said he didn't give a hoot about horseshoes was Rep. Carter Manasco (D-Ala.). Said Manasco: "I'm a marbles man myself."

New York, March 28—(AP)—Aurora Borealis, which has been troubling communications facilities periodically for three weeks, struck with renewed force early today, causing one of the most severe interruptions since it began acting up.

Both radio communications and news circuits which operate over land were affected by the new outbreak which started at 5 a. m. today.

The Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc., said its radio signals between the United States and Europe were on an "up and down" basis which prevented normal service. Some service was maintained, however.

The Radio Corporation of America said the interruptions were severe and spotty.

Chicago, March 28—(AP)—The Aurora Borealis had the weather bureau forecasters tearing their hair instead of drawing their customarily accurate weather maps today.

They admitted there was warm, pleasant weather over much of the nation, except for Gulf region thunder showers, but beyond that they said they couldn't be very specific.

It seems Aurora Borealis knocked out teletype and telegraph facilities to such an extent that fewer than 125 station reports, from which weather maps are prepared, were received, compared with a normal of about 400.

Investigation Of Lobbyists Widens

Washington, March 28—(AP)—The lobbying investigation Congress is contemplating took a turn today in the direction of government bureaus and Democratic party officials.

House Rules Committee members, who tentatively approved the inquiry yesterday, told reporters privately that was their purpose in widening the course of the proposed search for facts.

Eventually, they said, the investigation may encompass such officials as Robert E. Hannegan, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic National Committee, as well as other administration leaders.

"We have decided," one member told a reporter, "to make this a full fledged investigation while we are at it and to inquire not only into the activities of so-called professional lobbyists but also the pressure tactics of federal bureaus interested in legislation."

The inquiry, proposed originally by Rules Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) would have been made by a special five-man committee, but the Rules group, in approving its subject to House action, directed Sabath to amend his resolution before sending it to the floor.

The NATION TODAY By James Marlow

By STERLING F. GREEN (Substituting for James Marlow)

Washington, March 28—(AP)—The new government housing regulation is no bombshell threatening to wreck reconstruction or the expansion of business.

Its aim is to make sure that materials needed for veterans' homes are not used up in factories, stores, amusement places and other buildings which are not vital at the moment.

But that order, issued by the Civilian Production Administration two days ago, is only part of the bigger government program, already launched, to boost construction by starting right down at the raw material stage.

The whole program actually will increase—not reduce—the volume of non-residential building in 1946 and 1947, in the opinion of Wilson W. Wyatt, Jr., the National Housing Administrator.

The result will be about four per cent more industrial and commercial building that would be possible if the broad program had not been launched, Wyatt estimates.

This, he believes, will be the result of measures intended to increase the supply of materials, equipment, and trained construction workers; to broaden the use of new materials and new techniques.

But CPA's order requires every prospective builder to prove before he can go ahead the immediate essentiality of his project, unless it is a house costing under $10,000.

So while the increase in factories, stores, hotels and similar structures will be only four per cent, the increase in houses will be about 65 per cent.

Proposed new theatres, race tracks, night clubs and luxury dwellings will be held back. So will new factories, unless they will make needed products or supply needed jobs.

This not only will free materials for houses, but for those factories, stores and public works which can qualify as essential.

The whole program depends on the success of the drives to increase the output of lumber, bricks, tile. (Continued on Page Four)

Patients Suffer By Long Visits

By CHESTER WALSH
Pitt General Hospital yesterday announced a new rule regulating visiting hours at the hospital. Those who are ill at the hospital will benefit considerably and recover more satisfactorily, a public-spirited citizen said today.

Persons who are sick, need more rest—mental and physical—and fewer visitors if they want to get well.

It has been observed that a constant procession of visitors in the sick room sets a patient back and frequently retards recovery. A dozen or more persons have from time to time been observed visiting in a patient's room at the hospital at the same time. This is unnecessary punishment, friends of the hospital point out.

Committee members suggest that an ill person should have quiet. Relatives and friends would show fine consideration for patients by not wearing them while at the hospital. Physicians and nurses giving attention to patients, frequently have to wend their way through a "long hall meeting" in the sick room to get to a patient to take a temperature, or perform some other service. When too much visiting is stopped, patients will get well quicker. At least, medical records show this to be a fact.

Less visiting at the hospital will do patients more good than flowers and prolonged conversation. Cooperate with the hospital officials and physicians by reducing visits to a minimum—that's the "good neighbor spirit."

Visiting hours at the hospital hereafter will be as follows: Private rooms, 11 a. m. to noon; 2:20 to 4 p. m. and 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. Wards, 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. Children under 12 years of age will not be admitted, as visitors, the new regulation provides.

Troubadours Heard By Large Audience

The American Troubadours sang last night before a large audience in the Wright auditorium of the college a collection of American numbers which presented a history of the music of this country from Colonial times to the present. John De Merchant, baritone, and director of the group gave interesting comments on the selections and traced briefly the development of musical forms in America. Historically considered, the program was of considerable worth.

Among the selections which were

REV. FRANK E. MORRIS

A series of revival services begins at the Immanuel Baptist Church on April 1, at 8 p. m. with the Reverend Frank E. Morris, Baptist minister, bringing the messages.

The Reverend Mr. Morris is well known throughout Greenville, Winterville and Ayden as an outstanding preacher of the Gospel. He served the Ayden and Winterville churches as pastor for several years. Upon leaving this field, Mr. Morris became pastor of the Ivy Memorial Baptist Church, Newport News, Va. From this pastorate he went to the Leigh Street Baptist Church, Richmond, Va., one of the outstanding churches of that city.

The pastor of the church, Mr. Campbell, announces that it is desirable to have the Sunday School meet each night during the week to check attendance of classes and departments. The Sunday School pupils will meet at 7:30 p. m. for this pre-service session.

During his days in Greenville, Mr. Morris has been invited to speak from radio station WGTC at the 8:30 a. m. devotional hour. All persons who are confined to their homes are requested to participate in the revival by radio.

particularly well done and which won approval from the audience was "David's Lament," with words from the Scriptures, a composition by William Billings, early composer, who conducted singing schools in old times. Jimmie Dean Haward's blues song "Chilly Winds," a folk song dating from the Dust Bowl tragedy, was a moving and unusual number. "Go Way From My Window," sung by Mary Edwards, a work song arranged by the famous John Jacob Niles, and Alan Werner's "An American Hero," by the early composer Andrew Law, were other solos which were well received.

College Musical Bulletin Issued

"Music at East Carolina Teachers College," fourth official bulletin of East Carolina Teachers College for 1945, has just been issued from the press and is being distributed from the office of the registrar. Because of delays in printing, the bulletin, dated December, 1945, has just been completed.

The subject matter of the bulletin deals with activities of student musical organizations and with the work of the department of music at the college. A short history of the Entertainment Series at the college from early days to the present time records the outstanding singers, violinists, pianists, orchestras and choral groups that have appeared on the campus before the student body and patrons in this section of the state. The work of student teachers in music at the Training School and the Greenville High School is discussed. Among other articles, the histories of college songs are also given. The articles are illustrated with attractive pictures of campus musical activities.

Preparation of the material was under the direction of the college publications board, made up of Mary H. Greene, chairman, Dean R. J. Gray, Lois Grisby, and Dr. W. A. Browne. Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, chairman of the department of music, and his staff collected data and prepared several of the articles.

Pleasant Memories Of School Banquet

Favorable comments continue to be heard about the outstanding junior-senior banquet at Belvoir-Falkland High School. The program was cleverly directed by Toastmaster Margaret Windham. The musical feature was in charge of Mrs. Barbara Rahban. The decorations and scenery was in charge of Mrs. Mamie Harris, Miss Elizabeth Spain and Mrs. Blanche Jackson. Miss Olivia Zahniser assisted with the decorations. Mrs. Powell Speight and her home economics class directed preparation of the food. Home economics students served the banquet.

Margaret Stokes, Bobby Bullock, Marlene Clark, Dee Hux and home economics girls provided the entertainment in the auditorium—a variety of scenery and a sparkling playlet. Principal L. L. Murray was everywhere, welcoming the guests and contributing much to the success of the delightful affair. A splendid spirit of cooperation prevails at the Belvoir-Falkland High School.

Reserve Corps Is Still Available

Men who have served in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard for a period of at least six months, and who were honorably discharged, are now eligible to enlist in the U. S. Army Enlisted Reserve Corps, provided they meet requirements set forth for enlistment.

In making public this new regulation, 1st Lt. James B. Pagett, Commanding Officer of the Greenville Recruiting Station, stated that enlisted men of the Army may at the time of discharge or within six months thereafter, enlist in the same branch in which they were serving at the time of discharge.

Former enlisted men of the Army who served since 16 September 1940 and who were separated after 12 May 1945 may enlist in the grade held at the time of discharge provided they enlist in the same branch in which they served. Such enlistment, the Lt. added, must be effected within six months after 13 February 1946.

Lt. Pagett, in pointing out the advantages of this program, cited the fact that rates such as parachutist, combat infantryman, and similar technical designations may be retained. All enlistments or reenlistments in the Enlisted Reserve Corps will be for a period of three years.

Lt. Pagett called attention to the fact that all men enlisted in the Enlisted Reserve Corps must be qualified physically and otherwise for military service, in accordance with current standards. Former members of the National Guard who can produce evidence of separation from that unit may be enlisted.

Qualified personnel are available at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, City Hall Building every day from 8:00 until 5:00 to assist those men who are interested in further details concerning the advantages of this program.

City To Feature "Clean Up" Drive

Greenville is to have a Clean Up campaign to be followed by a Rat Control program.

This was agreed upon yesterday following a conference between the Health Officer, Dr. N. Thomas Ennett and the County-City Sanitation, H. A. Hendrix, with Mayor J. H. Boyd.

The Clean Up campaign is to be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce headed by Tom Wilson, president, who expressed great interest in it.

An effective organization is now under way and the public will be kept fully informed as the program progresses.

Chapter 23

As Rush digested this new trend, a knock sounded on his door. Only one person got as far as his door unannounced and then bothered to knock.

"It's okay, Merwin," he called. "Come on in."

The door opened and Merwin eased inside.

"What've you got, Merwin?" asked Rush.

"Just a peep," said Merwin. "I case all the fences and they all jump when I mention green stuff."

"Carnahan sent the word out," thought Rush.

"Then I hit the regular jewelers. They all is dumb except one place where the guy plays dumb and goes to talk to the boss. I wait five or ten minutes, then he comes back and says nothing doing. They ain't buying or selling no emeralds."

"Where was this?"

"A place called Losine's. It's high class, just one watch in one window and one diamond in the other."

"Okay," he said. "Sit tight, Merwin. Stay where I can find you."

Losine's, as Merwin had intimated, was high class. A rather splendid thing in afternoon clothes approached him.

"Good afternoon," said a cultured voice that Rush assumed came from the man approaching him.

"How do you do?" said Rush. "I wish to speak to Mr. Losine, if you please."

The immaculate one placed a fingertip at the corner of his mouth as if he would pick his teeth if he could only get the mouth open.

"Oh, I'm so sorry," he said, "but Mr. Losine is in conference. He's extremely busy today."

"That's dandy," said Rush. "Tell him I want to see him about some emeralds. I heard he could pick up a couple cheap."

The clerk gulped a most uncultured gulp at the word emeralds.

"Ah, just possibly—that is, it is possible—er, would you wait a moment?"

A few moments later, the clerk, visibly agitated, returned.

"Mr. Losine will see you now," he said. Rush felt that the strain was too great for such a hothouse flower.

Seated at an elegant desk was a shrewd counterpart of the clerk. This model also comes equipped with brains," thought Rush. To his right as he entered, filling a chair to overflowing was Bernard Jago. Along the wall to his right was Wilmer, leaning against the wall, his hands in his pockets, staring at a spot inches below Rush's eyes.

you have to leave right away."

Her drink came and she downed it in a gulp, handing it back to the waitress before she could leave the table. "More," she said imperiously. The waitress looked at Rush and he nodded.

"This is the load as far as I'm concerned," he said to Leslie.

The second drink she sipped, and looked up to find Rush looking at her contemplatively.

"What kind of a deal have you got with Big Mick?" he asked abruptly.

"Big Mick?" Her eyes were round with surprise. "Who's that?"

"That's good," he said. How about Markio? You don't know him either I take it."

"No, I never heard of him."

Rush shook his head sadly. "I've talked to both of them. They both remember you. It isn't any use lying."

Leslie smiled a secret little smile. "Yes, it is," she said.

"What do you mean by that?"

"I get practice. If you hadn't talked to them personally, you'd have believed me. I'm getting very good at it."

Rush decided to lay a few cards on the table.

"I know quite a little about you. It's been my business these last several days to find out things. Your father found out what you've been up to and it almost broke his heart. He put me on your trail, cleaning up after you. That I can do. I put the fear of God in Markio and Big Mick. You are a different problem. I've got no lever to use on you. I can't threaten you."

"No," said Leslie. "you can't threaten me, because I'm not afraid of anything."

"How about your better nature? Do you realize what you're doing to your father?"

"That old goat," snorted Leslie contemptuously. "He doesn't give a damn about me. All he's worried about is the family name. That and his precious son, Paul."

Rush looked at her strangely.

Leslie interpreted the look. "Oh, I know he's dead now. That's his own fault. If he'd had the brains of an ant, he'd be in clover now."

Rush raised his eyebrows at her and she realized she was saying more than she intended.

"Why do you suppose he got killed?" asked Rush.

Leslie's eyes widened again. "Why, I don't know. I thought you did. That's your job, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Rush. "that's my job, and I know. I also know that you know."

"Do you?" asked Leslie.

She looked at him with a calculating look in her eyes.

"I'm going to leave this town. I'm going to New York to live. I'm going to be a big shot, bigger than any woman ever was before."

"That's good," said Rush. "What are you going to use for money? Your father isn't going to finance anything like that."

"Him! I don't need his money. I'll make my own. I've got enough to start on, or I can find it."

Rush stood up, removed himself from the booth and looked down at her.

"That's what you think," he said. "Those emeralds are the hottest things in town. You won't find a buyer who'll touch them. If you're smart, you'll give them to me and forget the whole thing. The only thing you'll get out of a deal with Big Mick is grief. You may be smarter than he is, but he's stronger, and you have no way to hold him in line."

He was still seething when he reached his office door. There was no light in the office and he realized it was almost six o'clock. Gertrude had been gone for over an hour. He pulled out his key ring and reached for the door knob. The door swung open at his touch. He swore briefly under his breath and stepped back into the hall flattening against the wall. Then turning to face the door he reached an arm around the door feeling for the light switch just inside. He found it and switched on a flood of light from the ceiling fixture. Then, from a foot away, he looked into the room from all angles. He could see nothing. The door to the inner office was shut. Cautiously he stepped into the office. It was empty. It had had a recent and rather vicious visitor, however. Rush stood in the middle of the room and cursed steadily. This was too much. First his apartment, now his office. Someone still thought he had the stones. That could only mean one person. Brin was the only one left who thought he had them. He stepped to the inner door and held his ear to it for a moment. Complete silence greeted him from the other side. Cautiously he eased it open and stepped into his own office. There the room had been completely ransacked. Rush bit his lower lip and took two steps to the desk. He stood there a moment surveying the damage then he dialed a number and waited.

"Sam Carnahan, please," he said. Moments later Sam's voice answered in his ear.

"Carnahan speaking," he said.

"Rush, Sam. You remember the tall, dark number I described for you? The guy who followed me away from the alley where you picked up young Germaine?"

"Yeah."

"You can pick him up now."

"Fine, where is he?"

"In my office. And Sam, you'd better bring the meat wagon. Somebody stuck a knife in him."

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

THE LAW OF ATROPHY

Few things are more annoying than to find at the beginning of a closely scheduled day that one of the tires on your automobile has gone flat during the night. But another circumstance even more annoying is to discover that the spare tire is not sufficiently inflated to permit its being substituted for the flat.

Strange, isn't it, that no matter how careful we are to check the air pressure of the spare every time we check the other tires, nevertheless the spare is always considerably below required pressure when needed. Furthermore, a tire carried as a spare deteriorates much more rapidly than a tire in constant use.

Nature ordains throughout her whole realm that power be used, otherwise, she causes it to decay. In use a tire every day, and it will last a long time; put it in the back of the car as a spare, and it will soon grow soft and defective. The most unhealthy lot of people in the world are those who all their life have been carried by society as a "spare." Although he is in the early fifties, he looks like a feeble old man in the mid-seventies. The relentless law of atrophy has operated upon the powers he failed to use.

The best way to keep happy and healthy is to keep busy.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

(Second of Two Articles)

Washington—The "heavy-weight" that hangs over the head of the aviation industry today is the same that was there 28 years ago—surpluses of war-produced planes and motors.

In the field of military aviation, this is probably a far more serious problem than it was then. Military aviation at the end of the war was undergoing a change as drastic as from the hand grenade to the atomic bomb.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), of the Senate Military Affairs committee, in a recent signed article in The American Magazine, said "The Germans' air weapons were ahead of ours at the start of the war and far ahead at its end. We won the air war with muscle, not mind. We smothered them with the sheer weight of our planes."

Senator Thomas is pleading for civilian control of airplane development, or rather air defense, including all weapons that are flown through the skies. There is no need to get into that argument to cite chapter and verse on what is happening to our military plane production and development.

It's practically nil. Unless present schedules are changed Great Britain will produce twice as many military planes as we in 1946; Australia, with about one-tenth our population, will produce half as many; and Russia's goodness knows what, but Stalin has promised that it won't be just a few.

E. E. Wilson, chairman of the Aircraft Industries Association of America, declared the other day: "The planes produced during the war all are now obsolete and national security now rests on the new types developed in recent months."

Contrast that statement with this fact: Of the 23 airplane engines turned out in January, two were experimental—and one was of the jet or gas turbine propulsion type.

There isn't very much on the record yet to indicate a way out of this situation. Laboratory experimentation in the United States is not at a standstill. The production of experimental planes and motors is. But even more importantly for the progress of aviation, the wartime surplus bugaboo is here again. Only two companies that produced war planes in World War I survived the 'twenties and 'thirties to produce planes for World War II.

Thanks to the Contract Termination Act of 1944 and the subsequent planning and administration of military and civilians involved, the aviation industry is far better off comparatively than it was after World War I.

The air coordinating committee, with representatives from the Army,

Go Ahead And Kick Him—

Navy, and Commerce departments, and the Civil Aeronautics Administration, has laid out a production program of 3,000 military planes a year under conditions of absolute world peace (about twice that many under existing troubled conditions).

pipe, roofing and other materials and to recruit construction workers. Wyatt told this way to a congressional committee:

"The necessary expansion in home building can be accomplished only through a great expansion in total construction activity. It cannot be accomplished through the x x x reduction of competing phases of construction."

But the new CPA regulation was issued to insure that the expansion is not top-heavy with stores, factories and beauty parlors—that a big share of it is housing.

It works out roughly this way: The country's resources will stand about $7,500,000,000 worth of new construction this year. And that is the total program goal.

Without the new regulation only about $1 billion would have gone for housing for every $2 spent on other building. Now, the ration is intended to be about dollar for dollar.

In other words, out of the estimated $7,500,000,000 total (excluding repair work) about $3,800,000,000 will go into homes—just a shade over half. The government thinks this a fair ratio, in view of the housing crisis. Businessmen may disagree. But CPA, whose major job is to protect reconversion, is in charge of the business of screening out the essential from the unessential, with the help of local citizens' committees in each city.

"They might approve construction of a factory so that the finished factory will furnish employment," Wyatt testified on Capitol Hill recently. "That need is taken into consideration, and that type of construction will be looked on with favor."

"If the American people are going to build 2,700,000 houses this year and next year, they will require community facilities, because many new communities will be built.

"Streets are necessary, sewers are necessary and utility lines are necessary. Other facilities, including grocery stores, drug stores, hospital facilities and schools, will be approved where they are necessary and they can go forward. But there must be that screening."

Congress Today...

Senate would confirm today the nomination of Commodore James K. Vardaman, Jr., the President's naval aide, as a member of the Federal Reserve Board.

Some members of the House Rules Committee, which has decided tentatively to investigate lobbying in the capital, said they not only would look into activities of professional appliers of pressure on Congress, but also would go over the tactics of federal bureaus interested in legislation.

That would include the doings of Robert E. Hannegan, postmaster-general and Democratic national chairman, as well as other administration leaders, one committee member remarked.

Opponents of the House Committee on Un-American Activities planned an attempt to have the controversial group repudiated by its creator on the ground it has abused its powers.

The test will come when the committee asks the House to uphold contempt proceedings against 16 executives of the joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee who declined to furnish records subpoenaed by the committee.

Public Hearings . . .

will never call one man whom we do not need or can obtain as a volunteer. That is our position before you and the country."

Major General Hershey estimated that the army requires about 50,000 men monthly but can obtain only one-fifth of that number by enlistments if the selective service law is permitted to lapse on May 15.

He was the first witness as the Segate Military Affairs Committee began two weeks of public hearings, decided upon after the committee deauthorized 8-3 on the administration's request for a year's extension of the draft.

As Hershey began reading a prepared statement calling attention to mobilization of 14,000,000 men during the war and peacetime commitments at home and abroad Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) interrupted.

"Let's forget the commitments abroad and get right down to the question involved," Thomas said curtly.

Thomas, who has opposed extension of the draft, said he believed voluntary enlistments would provide all the men the armed forces need under present plans.

"We've broken all records for voluntary enlistments," Thomas declared.

Hershey conceded this was true but asserted the reason was that thousands of young men volunteer only because they thus avoided being drafted. That will stop, Hershey said, if the selective service act is allowed to die.

In addition to the 50,000 needed monthly by the army, General Hershey said the navy must recruit 27,000 men each month until September 1 if it is to reach the proposed minimum peacetime strength of 600,000.

Hershey said that up to March 1 the army obtained 320,521 enlistments for three years and that more than one-third of these, 122,072, were sergeants. He said additional 268,709 volunteers had joined for one year or 18 months and would be released before July 1, 1947.

Soviet Walkout . . .

Hussein Ala said Soviet officials proposed that:

(1) Soviet troops remain in some parts of Iran indefinitely.

(2) The Iranian government should recognize internal autonomy for Azerbaijan, with the provincial premier becoming governor general, with the provincial ministries of foreign affairs and war abolished with 30 per cent of the provincial revenue paid to the Iranian central government and all correspondence with the central government conducted in the Persian language.

(3) The Soviet government should abandon demands for an oil concession and an Iranian-Russian joint stock company should be set up with 51 per cent of the shares held by the Soviet Union and 49 per cent by Iran.

Hussein Ala said Premier Qavam rejected these demands and the Soviet officials withdrew them. Further efforts, the Iranian said, had not clarified the situation.

Gromyko told the Council: "For reasons which I explained clearly enough in our meeting yesterday and in today's meeting Mr. Chairman, I, as representative of the Soviet Union, am not able to participate further in the discussions of the Security Council because my proposal has not been accepted by the Council, and I therefore leave the meeting."

There was only a slight interruption while the Soviet delegation strode solemnly out.

London, March 28—(AP)—The Daily Mail said in an editorial today that Andrei A. Gromyko's action in walking out of the UNO Security Council meeting yesterday indicated that "Russia has rejected and disowned in advance any verdict on the Persian dispute."

The Daily Sketch, on the other hand, said it would be "premature and unhelpful" to give the Soviet delegate's action "any exaggerated significance."

THRILLED BY PLANE TRIPS

Officials Rode In Sky For First Time And Enjoyed It

By CHESTER WALSH

Members of the N. C. Aeronautical Commission (all of them pilots) made some converts to aviation while in Greenville Monday and Tuesday for a regular meeting and conference with local officials. They flew here in their own planes.

They took up as passengers Mayor Jack Boyd and some members of the Pitt County-City of Greenville Airport Commission and others.

Alderman N. C. Brooks, who is a member of the local Airport Commission, flew for the first time and got a thrill out of it. "Greenville looks better from the air than on the ground," he said, "and I understand better now that the nearer you go toward Heaven the better it feels."

J. Noah Williams, another member of the Airport Commission, flew for the first time and became an ardent aviation enthusiast.

Willard T. Kyzer, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and the local airport commission, looked the city over from the sky and liked it. Kyzer is a veteran airplane passenger.

Ed E. Rawl, president of the Kiwanis Club, and Charles E. Blair, president of the Merchants' Association, frequent travelers on planes came down the other day with vivid descriptions of the city from the air.

Incidentally, the visit of the State Commission to Greenville will be fruitful of good results. The local commissioners learned much from the state commissioners, and they are better prepared now to pass on how to proceed in leasing the well-equipped airfield to a fixed base operator.

Truman Miller, operator of the Raleigh airport, and William J. Bray, assistant to the President of the Penn-Central Airlines, were much impressed by the size of the airfield and its facilities. Local officials hope Penn-Central will make Greenville a stopping place for passenger, express, mail and freight service.

When the Navy surrenders its lease on the airfield Pitt County and Greenville will have an airport worth a million and a half dollars. County and city officials and members of the local Airport Commission said the airport will be managed in a way that will best serve the interests of the county and section.

Civilian pilots may land at the airfield on permission from Secretary Willard T. Kyzer of the Pitt County-City of Greenville Airport Commission. No trespassing will be allowed on the property. A Marine detachment will be on guard at the airfield until the government removes its property and surrenders the lease.

The first shortwave broadcast was heard in 1924.

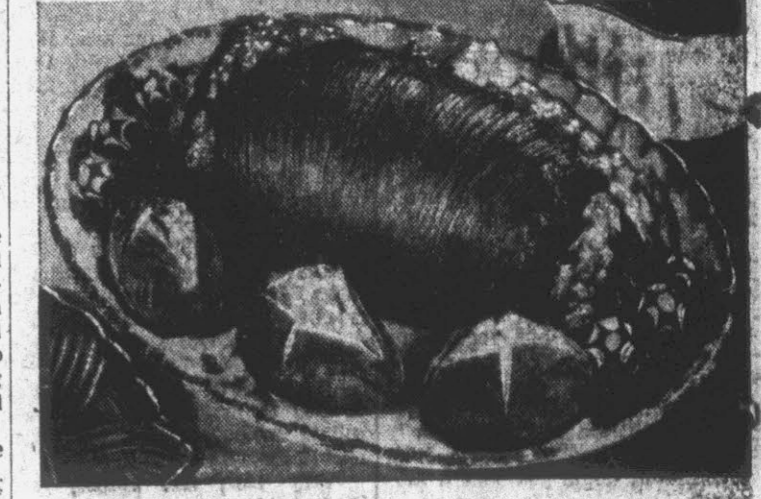

When Mary Queen of Scots married her cousin Lord Darnley she married the man who next to herself was in line for succession to the British throne.

Slow Cooking Is Secret of Success with Flank Steak

Stuffed Flank Steak . . . so tender and savory

If you prize juiciness in flank steak, ask your dealer to remove the thin membrane but not to score it (cutting the meat fibers as is done in scoring, allows the meat juices to escape, thereby causing the meat to be less juicy).

Season a 1 1/2 to 2 lb. flank steak with 1/4 tsp. salt. 1/4 tsp. pepper. Make a bread stuffing, by mixing 1 qt. soft bread crumbs (8 slices) 1/2 tsp. sage. 1 tbsp. minced onion, browned in 4 tbsp. CERTIFIED BACON drippings. 1 tsp. WILSON'S B-V dissolved in 1 tbsp. hot water. 1 CLEAR BROOK EGG, beaten

Spread dressing over steak, roll tightly like a jelly roll, fasten with skewers or tie with string. Heat 2 tbsp. Advance Shortening in Dutch oven or heavy pan with tight-fitting cover, add meat and brown on all sides. Place meat on a rack, add 1/2 to 1 1/2 cups hot water, cover, and cook over very low heat or in moderately slow oven, 3 1/2 to 2 hours or until tender. Serve 6.

A Tasty Combination

Stuffed flank steak with B-V gravy, baked Irish potatoes, buttered peas, and cabbage salad. . . Now top it off with slices of Graham cracker roll and whipped cream—umm! Dull appetites are sharpened with food like this.

Serve It Often

Looking for an inexpensive salad that can never tire of? Then shred crisp, tender cabbage, add finely minced onion and diced green pepper and mix with just enough Wilson's Mayonnaise to moisten.

Why not fill that extra salt shaker with a mixture of salt and pepper? "seasoning to taste"? It's a time and motion saver! While trying that deliciously sweet Certified Bacon for breakfast, save the excess fat and use it when making space cakes and for frying potatoes, eggs, French toast and similar dishes improved by a touch of bacon flavor.

Yours for cooperation,

Goldboro, March 26—Roy Dis-singer, head scout for the New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern Association, will conduct a free baseball player school at the Goldboro Municipal Stadium April 3 through April 7.

The school is open for try-outs for any player between the ages of 16 and 23 and who if not a student in high school. Any player interested should report to the Goldboro Municipal Stadium April 3 with his own shoes, glove and other equipment and if possible his own uniform. The players must furnish their transportation to and from Goldboro and must bear their board and room expense while in Goldboro.

Any player who shows promise and is signed to a contract with the Goldboro Coastal Plain club with which New Orleans has a working agreement will be refunded his expense money.

The player school will be conducted several hours a day and will include calisthenics to condition the players, and also running, throwing and batting practice.
Dissinger has recently concluded a similar school at New Orleans which resulted in several promising players being signed to contracts with the Pelicans, New Iberia in the Evangeline league and with Goldboro in the Coastal Plain league.

Charlotte, N. C., March 28—(AP) The $7,500 Charlotte open, which developed into golf's longest overtime tournament last year, gets underway today with Samuel Jackson Snead, loser in the 1945 double play-off, as a firm favorite.

The Hot Springs, Va., slammer fresh from consecutive triumphs at Jacksonville, Fla., and Greensboro is rated a heavy choice to win top money. He lost to Byron Nelson here last year.

They were deadlocked after the regulation 72 holes of stroke play and again after an 18-hole playoff. Nelson outpointed Snead in the extra playoff.

Back in peak form after several so-so performances, Snead has a 34-under par record for his last 144 holes of tourney play.

However, should he falter, several others stand by ready to ease into the top spot. This group includes Jimmy Demaret, Houston, Tex. Lloyd Mangrum, Los Angeles, Dutch Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., 1944 inaugural winner here, and Clayton Heafner, chunky Charlotte pro who holds the course record of 60 and who yesterday fashioned a blazing 64 practice round.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 28—(AP) All four seeded clubs will be hand tonight for semifinals in the 18th annual women's national AAU basketball tournament.

Coming into the stretch are the top-seeded Nashville, Tenn., Gold-blumes seeking their third consecutive national title; the Chatham Little Rock, Ark.; and the Swetts of Des Moines, Ia.

The Chathams, only team to be the champions over a span of regular season games, had to two extra periods to stop the Okmulgee, Okla., Twin Hills, 38-37. They play the Goldblums tonight.

A LOT OF GOOD COMES FROM THE EARTH

Sonny was sayin' that of bossy cow is jes' a natchel factory for making milk out o' fodder. But I tell him that making good milk begins when mother nature gave us the fertilizer to help the fodder grow. I was referrin' to the natchel soda us farmers uses on all our crops. Natchel soda comes right from the earth. Nobody knows for sure quite how it got there. But they does know the wonderful things natchel Chilean soda does for crops. Seems like jes' being natchel makes Chilean soda different from any other kind. Maybe folks won't be able to get all they want this season, but if we're careful with what we get, it may do.

President Of Legion's Auxiliary Speaks Here

Mrs. O. S. Slaunwhite, department president of the American Legion Auxiliary, addressed the dinner meeting of the local unit at the Proctor Hotel Monday evening. She was introduced by Mrs. John Collins, Jr. Lovely arrangements of irises, lilies and white carnations flanked by burning white tapers in silver holders formed the center pieces of the tables in the private dining room.

Mrs. Slaunwhite reviewed the program of the Auxiliary, emphasizing child welfare, rehabilitation and membership. She said that fifty per cent of the veterans at Oteen and Fayetteville hospitals were those of World War II. A gift shop will be started at these hospitals by the auxiliaries of the state so that men who are too ill to purchase birthday or Christmas gifts for friends and loved ones, may get them without cost.

Some of the money obtained from the sale of poppies will be used to buy materials with which the ladies will make the gifts.

Mrs. Slaunwhite said that child welfare is national welfare. She urged mothers to stay at home more with their children, thus helping to prevent juvenile delinquency.

Mrs. Slaunwhite is a delightful speaker and her listeners received much information about the general working of the Auxiliary program.

The local unit will make a canvass of the city for rooms for veterans who will attend college here next fall, through its child welfare, rehabilitation and community service committees.

The Auxiliary will make a contribution of $25 toward helping defray the hospital expenses of the wife of a veteran who was critically injured several weeks ago.

Mrs. W. J. Bundy, membership chairman, presented several new members and announced that 23 new applicants for membership had been received.

A report on the past and unit officers conference which was held in Raleigh early in March was made by Mrs. Arthur Corey. She also announced that eleven cases were ready to be sent to Oteen.

This meeting was one of the highlights of the Auxiliary year. Hostesses for the occasion were Messdames Hicks Corey, Sude D. Corey, Walter Cherry, W. C. Eagles and R. D. Whichard.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 18 million filters which help purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, they make you feel tired at night. Frequent urination, puffiness under the eyes, headache, sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect kidney trouble and lose valuable, rested sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headaches, rheumatic pains, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully for millions for over 40 years. Doan's give speedy relief and will help the 18 million of kidney filters flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Everybody raves about your salads, Peg. What's the secret?

ACCUSED SPY STILL HELD

The control order OPA is restoring is aimed at curbing so-called custom slaughtering—slaughtering on a fee basis by packing houses for those who own livestock.

Under the regulation, no beef or veal from custom slaughtered cattle or calves may be sold by anyone unless:

1. The owner of livestock had animals slaughtered at the same plant prior to last December 29, when a similar wartime order was revoked, or
2. The Agriculture Department has granted an exemption covering both the slaughterer and the owner of livestock.

Other provisions of the new order are designed to tighten these restrictions.

ACCUSED SPY STILL HELD

Portland, Or., March 28—(AP)—A Soviet naval officer accused of espionage turned today to legal advice as he prepared for a decision on whether to accept or fight removal to Seattle for trial.

Lt. Nicolai G. Redin, 29, arrested by the FBI Tuesday night on a warrant charging he induced an unnamed person to give him data on the destroyer tender U.S.S. Yellowstone, had the aid of Russia's top west coast representative to help him make the decision.

Redin spent his second night in jail under $25,000 bail but Soviet Consul-General Michael S. Vivilov, who flew here from San Francisco, said he would post the bail today unless Redin, member of the Soviet Purchasing Commission at Seattle, were released on his own recognizance.

A person close to the office of U. S. District Attorney Henry Hess said he believed Redin would be released to Vivilov's custody. The spokesman, who asked that he not be named, said cash bail would be meaningless but if the consul-general were charged with delivering Lt. Redin to Seattle, appearance there would be a virtual certainty.

While official Washington withheld comment on the case, the House Committee on Un-American Activities was told by Elmer W. Sherwood, American Legion Americanism director, that foreign nations are trying to place their agents in to veterans' organizations.

The committee, following a closed session yesterday reported that it would send an investigator to Canada to confer with officials on the alleged Soviet spy ring in that country and would start hearings within the next two weeks on reported attempts to steal U. S. atomic bomb secrets.

There was no immediate claim, however, of a link between Redin and other reported activity.

Iran Orders Army Stay Out Of Areas

Tehran, March 28—(AP)—An Iranian general staff officer said today the government had ordered the army not to reenter territory evacuated by the Russians.

He said the order had called a halt to general staff plans to re-occupy northern garrison posts.

The officer said the Russians had not yet completed their withdrawal from Karaj, 25 miles north of Tehran, and Garmsar, the nearest post east of the capital, although only about 15 Russians remained at Karaj. A railway station detail remained at Garmsar, he said.

SEIZURE OF PLANTS AHEAD

Strike - Bound Farm Equipment Plants And Canneries Are Needed

Washington, March 28—(AP)—Labor Department officials said today government seizure of strike-bound farm equipment plants and idle California canneries is increasingly probable.

Both have an important bearing on the nation's food supply.

The California canneries process about a third of the country's canned fruits and vegetables. And farmers badly need new machinery to meet record crop production goals set by the government in an effort to avert starvation abroad.

The Labor Department officials, who prefer to remain anonymous, said both situations will be placed before Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach when he returns from a west coast trip, either today or tomorrow.

Schwelienbach is known to frown upon seizure action, but his confidants told reporters they have abandoned hope of settling the cannery dispute, a jurisdictional squabble between rival AFL and CIO unions.

Schwelienbach and Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson jointly invited the presidents of three leading farm equipment concerns, to a meeting here Friday. The companies are involved in a contract dispute with the CIO Farm Equipment workers union which has left 42,500 persons idle.

The cabinet officers' telegrams to Fowler McCormick of International Harvester Company at Chicago, L. R. Clausen of J. I. Case Company at Racine, Wis., and Walter Geist of Allis-Chalmers Company at West Allis, Wis., said strikes at 17 plants of the three companies had brought on a "grave emergency."

An injunction is sought to require the company to determine properly the maximum prices for used sewing machines and to refrain from selling at prices in excess of the maximum allowable and to refrain from requiring the purchase of other commodities.

Bennett said the case originated from the complaint of a Kansas City housewife several months ago that a singer outlet store here would not sell her a sewing machine unless she also bought a sewing cabinet.

"An investigator not only verified the complaint of the housewife with respect to the tie-in agreement," Bennett said, "but also found that the Kansas City store was selling as new merchandise sewing machines which had been out on rental."

COMPANY SUED BY THE OPA

Singer Sewing Machine Co. Charged With Price Vioation Flaming Crosses Are Seen In Birmingham

Kansas City, March 28—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration filed suit in Federal Court today asking damages of $1,125,000 from the Singer Sewing Machine Company for alleged violations of maximum price regulations.

The complaint, filed by Dick Bennett, OPA district enforcement attorney, charged the company had violated price ceiling regulations and had forced purchasers of sewing machines to buy other commodities, contrary to restrictions against tie-in sales. The petition said violations complained of had occurred throughout the United States.

Specifically, the complaint charged the company sold used sewing machines at new machine ceiling prices.

The OPA said a survey of regional outlets showed actual overcharges of $375,000 in sale of used sewing machines between July 1, 1945, and Feb. 25, 1946.

Eleanor Roosevelt May Have New Post

Atlantic City, N. J., March 28—(AP)—A move to place Eleanor Roosevelt at the head of an international organization for handling the problems of political exiles and war-scattered refugees gathered force today among delegates from 48 nations attending UNRRA's council meeting.

There appeared little likelihood, however, that action on the proposition would come at this meeting. Rather, it seemed probable it would await the time when the problems
